"My three youngest boys had the whooping cough last winter, and we could get nothing to help them until I sent for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept right on improving until they were cured at the cost of one dollar. That was not a large bill for so distressing and dangerous an ilment." —Mrs. William Ball, Bracebridge, ont.

Toronto.—Pocket-picking on the exhibition grounds was not so prevalent this year as last, according to reports made to the detective department. The number of cases this year was thirty-six and the amount stolen was $1,341; last year there were forty-seven cases and $2,116 was stolen.

WITH THE SMALL FRY

Bring the news to the office. We are always glad to have our subscribers send or bring us items of news. If each one of our large list of readers would give us one item each week what a grand local paper we could have. Send in anything but politics, we shall be thankful.—Warkworth Journal.

Such are said to be the merits of the electric cow milker that within the next ten years Niagara Falls will probably be set to milking all the cows within a radius of 250 miles of the falls. One farmer who has tried the electric patent says it milks his thirty-two cows in less than five minutes, the kickers included. To such uses have Jove's dread lightnings come at last.—Warkworth Journal.

There is some talk of building another church in Garden Hill, as it is such a central place. We think if they would build a drill shed it would be more in keeping with the state of affairs which have existed in that place for some time.—Perryton correspondent to Port Hope Times.

A great surprize was sprung on our unsuspecting populous Saturday last, when the white-faced trotter drove into town with its rightful owner driving, a happier and wiser lad. Wm. John Fowler had returned home again and now the driving commences.—Kendal correspondent to Port Hope Times.

Work on two new residences has been started. Mr. Geo. Barry is building a house at the corner of Bridge and Bay streets, and Mr. L. F. Clarry a house about half a block south of this. During the past summer Mr. A. Knight erected a very comfortable home on the Norwood road, and Mr. H. Green overhauled and put in shape the house at the corner of New and Front streets.—Hastings Star.

Well, the Star man's holidays are ended for another year and so are ours. So we will try to jot down all that has happened meanwhile, but if we are unlucky enough to neglect mentioning you do not think it is intentional. A correspondent is only human and it sometimes happens that he is not acquainted with the movements of some of the citizens until he casually hears somebody say "So and so has returned, etc."—Roseneath correspondent to the Hastings Star.

MR. ALFRED PLEAU.

PE-RU-NA STRENGTHENS THE ENTIRE SYSTEM.

Mr. Alfred Pleau, an expert machinist, 178 St. John Street, Quebec City, Can., writes:

"Two years ago, an accident necessitated my confinement for several weeks. The good health I had enjoyed was slipping away and there developed a complication of diseases. My physician said my case was one of general debility.

"Among the many ailments which developed was a serious attack of catarrh, which annoyed me considerably and kept me awake whole nights.

"I decided to give Peruna a trial and soon found it acting as a wonderful tonic to my system. The catarrh grew less severe and shortly afterward disappeared, as did also the various other maladies.

"I attribute my prompt relief and ultimate cure entirely to the use of Peruna and gladly recommend it."

Heavy Traffic On C. P. R. Line

Impossible to Procure Berths For Montreal Last Night.

A gentleman who arrived in the city from Montreal this morning states that the traffic over the C. P.R. between Montreal and Toronto is very heavy. Last night, although he ordered a berth early in the day he was unable to procure one, and had to sit up all the way to this city. The "Empress" steamer arrived at Quebec yesterday morning and a number of the passengers from that steamer were on the train for the West last night. The Imperial Limited left Montreal an hour late last night.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 15.—More fireworks in Reading was the feature today. The general market was very active, and several issues enjoyed substantial advances. Amal. Locomotive advanced 3 on its good report of earnings, while Distillers advanced 4 1-2 at new high figures. Amal. Copper showed signs of further accumulation, and we are told it will positively sell ten points higher in the next two weeks. Car Foundry showed signs of activity, and will go higher. The bank statement was as favourable as expected. The close was very active and strong.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

The Black Dike band which fulfils an engagement at the Grand next Thursday, is probably the finest brass band in the world. It has been an enthusiastic competitor at contests and has won prizes valued at $40,000.

The band was conducted by Mr. A. Owen from 1880 to 1888. Since that year Mr. John Gladney has been conductor. To these gentlemen much credit is due, but the wonderful abilities of Mr. Phineas Bower, the end of 1895—during which period the end of 1095—during which period many notable successes were recorded—should also be mentioned. As a solo euphonium player Mr. Bower has no superior, and he has received many offers from notable English and foreign bands. His brother, Mr. H. Bower, succeeded him as bandmaster, and he is an accomplished cornet player.

Will Serve Meals At The Industrial Fair

A Convenience Which the Visitors Will Appreciate Fully—Only Ten Days More till the Fair.

The office of the secretary of the Peterborough Industrial Fair was a busy spot to-day, and that official had to answer a good many questions put by prospective exhibitors, who called at his office in search of information. With the fair only ten days off, everyone is getting busy, and, since the time is so short, all who are associated with the fair appreciate the fact that it means some quick work will have to be done, and quickly, too.

The King's Daughters have decided to serve meals on the grounds on the second day of the fair, and for this purpose a large refreshment tent has been secured. This will no doubt be appreciated by visitors to the fair, who will now be able to spend the whole day there without coming to the city at noon for their meal.

The directors are greatly encouraged with the present outlook, and the secretary states that he is confident that the fair will be a great success.

Mother's Grief Causes Suicide

Deserted by Daughters She Kills Herself.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 15.—The secret of Mrs. Lillian Hollan, who committed suicide by throwing herself in front of a suburban car, has been revealed through the friendship existing between the woman and Mrs. Martha Morgan, a negress who claimed the body at the morgue.

According to Mrs. Morgan, the cause of the woman's suicide was the refusal of her two daughters to recognize or write to her. According to the negress Mrs. Hollan is the daughter of wealthy English parents. In England she married Alexander Vorgene, and shortly afterwards came to this country. Vorgene soon squandered the $20,000 given them by the bride's parents. The pair went to Detroit, where they separated, Mrs. Vorgen securing a divorce. Mrs. Vorgene then returned to St. Louis. Some years ago she married Frederick Hollan, a furniture dealer. Hollan disappeared some time ago.

A TORONTO MAN TRIES

SOMETHING NEW AND IS DELIGHTED. FEELS LIKE A BOY.

MR. M. N. DAFOE

Mr. M. N. Dafoe, Manager The Dustless Brush Co., 20 Colborne St., Toronto, is telling his friends how he found health after years of illness and pain. He says:

"I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for many years. I have been treated by local doctors and have taken nearly all the advertised remedies, with only temporary relief, if any at all; but since using Anti-Pill I can eat any thing, the same as when a boy. I have been taking one Anti-Pill at bedtime for the past three months, and find they regulate both stomach and bowels. My old-time vigor has returned, so that my spirits are buoyant and temper normal. As a result of this unhoped for experience I am on duty bound to give all credit to this wonderful remedy, Anti-Pill."

Every druggist sells Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill, or a sample will be sent free by The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

The remedy that cured Mr. Dafoe so completely is surely worth a trial. 502

Wish for His Own.

TWO darkies lay sprawled on the Luneta on a hot day. Moses drew a long sigh and said: "Heey-a-h-h-l Ah wish Ah had a hund'ed watermellons. Tom's eyes lighted dimly. "Hum ya-h-l Dat would suttenly be fine. An' ef yo' had a hund'ed watermellons would yo' gib me fifty?" "No, ah wouldn't gib yo' no fifty watermellons." "Would yo' gib me twenty-five?" "No, ah wouldn't gib yo' no twenty-five." "Seems ter me yous powahful stingy, Mose. Wouldn't yo' —wouldn't yo' gib me one?" "No, Ah wouldn't gib yo' one. Look a hyah niggah, are yo' so good-for-nuffin lazy dat yo caihn't wish fo' yo' own watermellions?"—Manila Sun.

The Children's Shelter Is Well Managed

Grounds and Premises Well Kept--Children Carefully Cared For.

A fortnight ago The Examiner dealt at length with the work of the Children's Aid Society. Incidentally reference was made to the Shelter which, however, is worthy of more than passing notice. As all know, it is centrally and finely situated, and the trim, undulating lawn, shaded with venerable trees, is kept in the finest of condition by the careful and painstaking custodian, Mr. Wm. Henry. When he took charge, the grounds were uneven, rough, and uncared for, and parts of them growing to weeds. Now the lawns are levelled, nicely mown, and in the valley a fine vegetable and flower garden usurps the place of weeds. Mr. Henry has also laid down with his own hands a concrete walk from Stewart street. The house is well cared for and kept in repair, and in every sense Mr. Henry has shown himself a careful, painstaking custodian of the Shelter, not only in regard to material matters, but with his work in regard to the care of the children, which at present number six, including the deserted Millbrook baby. The society could not have been more fortunate in securing a caretaker and manager of the Shelter, which occupies so important a place in its scheme of work.

Excursion Next Week To Toronto

Tickets Good Going Tuesday and Wednesday, Returning Friday.

The excursion to Toronto on Tuesday and Wednesday under the auspices of the Peterborough and Otonabee Lodges of Oddfellows, where the Sovereign Grand Lodge Convention is being held, promises to be a large one. Tickets are good going Tuesday and Wednesday, returning Friday evening. The excursion, contrary to some statements that have got abroad, is open to all, tickets for round trip being $2.55. On Wednesday the big parade of Oddfellows will be held.

Tickets may be obtained from any of the following Committee: Messrs. F. A. Clarke, Geo. Hutchison, John Nugent, T. H. Hooper and W. R. G. Higgins.

NO ACCIDENTS IN NATURE

Every Calamity, No Matter How Great, Has a Definite Beginning.

There are no accidents in nature. The avalanche that without a moment's warning crashes headlong down the mountain side, is not an accident.

For years previous tiny atoms have been crystalizing and adding their minute weight to the mass which left its base when the accumulation reached a certain point.

Neither is baldness an accident. The infinitesimally small germ which is the cause of dandruff and baldness, feeds silently and long before the result is seen.

The small germs which thrive on the scalp and which are the cause of baldness and dandruff, cannot exist, however, when Newbro's Herpicide is applied.

Pleasant Outing To Chemong Park

St. Luke's Sunday School Teachers Held Picnic Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon the teachers, officers and senior scholars of St. Luke's Sunday School enjoyed an auto ride to, and picnic at, Chemong Park, through the kindness of Mr. D. Spence, the superintendent of the school, who made all the arrangements for the outing, which was a most enjoyable one. About fifty attended, the auto 'bus making two trips. The afternoon was very pleasantly spent at the park, a number enjoying paddles or sails on the lake. Tea was served in the park pavilion, where the dainties provided by the ladies were appreciated.

A number spent the evening at the park, the last 'bus load reaching the city at 10 o'clock. The chauffeur, Mr. Ernest Hannah, came in for much well-merited commendation for the careful manner in which he handled the big car.

The rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, accompanied the party, and helped to make the outing the enjoyable event it proved to be.

What The Turnbull Store Offers Peterborough Ladies

Preliminary Opening of New and Advanced Styles in Coats, Skirts, Waists, Raincoats, Underskirts, Millinery, etc, Autumn's Gorgeous Goods on Parade.

The momentous inrush of new Fall goods into the large double store of Messrs. J. C. Turnbull Company has been the occasion of attracting throngs of ladies to see the displays. This week the formal advance "Ready-to-Wear," opening display was held. All the new goods have been under critical eyes, and the attendance of ladies as well as the sales, have proved to be of the most gratifying character. This store is each day thronged with busy buyers, and a brighter, cheerfuller place would be hard to find. The promenade on George street is past this store, and all this week there has been crowds of people watching the big show windows and viewing the elaborate displays every day. In glancing round the attractive departments inside the visitor followed the crowd to the—

Ready-to-wear Departments.

No lady will come away from an inspection of Turnbull's coats without being impressed with the fact that thought, money and time has been put into the buying of them. The new, the artistic, the beautiful, are represented at modest figures. You can buy a good coat here for $7.50 and on up to $25, and at all prices between—and in each instance be assured of the very best of value. All the new tourists coats, and long loose effects are shown in smart designs, 42, 45 and 48 inches long.

The full flowing Tourist tweed coats made of handsome shadow plaids, over checks, novelty plaids, Scotch mixtures and biaswale in lightish grey colours. Their jaunty models are enhanced by velvet trimmed collars and cuffs and pretty pockets. The beautiful cloth in the shadow plaid coats, Mr. Maud assured the writer, is confined solely to the Turnbull Company.

In black coats the display was particularly strong—in fact, stronger than ever before. The firm appreciate the obligation which ladies have imposed on them of making their coat exhibit the best index possible of the season's styles. And so, they show larger stocks of garments, more diversiful in variety and more exclusive in style These rich, loose fitting black coats are to be much worn. In the development of the models, the self-strapped, velvet and braid-trimmed effects and turned cuffs enhance their refined stylishness.

Misses' and children's coats for fall and winter wear made an interesting variety. Child's coats in heavy white bearskins, for cold weather wear, as well as caps hoods and muffs, of the same material, were much admired, and especially inviting to the eye of mothers. The child's coats range in price from $2.25 to $7.50.

Clever Showing of Smart Skirts.

The types of styles represented in this showing are distinctly smart and dressy tailored skirts. The selections add to the firm's prestege in correct fashions. Blacks and greys in pleated models; also wood greens, dark wine, red, shadow plaid and light tweed shades. A dark wine skirt, smartly tailored at $5.00 was a feature of the exhibit. The firm is also in a position to fit over-size ladies with any style of skirt desired in two days.

Misses' skirts are also shown in a nice range of pretty tweed and check patterns.

The new walking skirts seem to possess that perfection of fastening at the back that makes the best skirts so admirable.

Servicable Raincoats.

The showing of Raincoats is replete with serviceable weaves in navies, greys, fawns, etc., made in three-quarter and full lengths. They are mostly loose-fitting and belted styles. There is also shown a very serviceable full raincoat, three-quarter length, made of rainproofed tweed, which will make a very dependable and comfortable between-season garment, to wear before the heavy fur coat is required.

New Silk and All-over Lace Waists.

Special attention is devoted to silk waists, the materials and designs being a tribute to good taste. Handsome waists are shown in cashmeres, embroidered lustres, santoy, abatross, and crepe de chene.

Some of the shades are cream, London smoke, cardinal and black. These will be more elaborately displayed at the millinery opening next week, as new shipments are yet to be opened out.

Appropiate Styles in Underskirts.

Among the numerous new fall garments, pertaining to the ladies' toilet, the underskirt helps to give the graceful figure and proper form. They are shown at Turnbull's in silk, sateen and moreen, and the firm seems to have kept thoroughly conversant with every whim of the styles. One of the newest features is a $5 underskirt, which carries the firm's own guarantee. It is made of rich, black taffeta silk, and is extra value. A black underskirt, with a ribbed woollen top, and in silk, moreen or sateen frills, is a novelty that fits closely at hips, without puckerings, and gives that desirable set preferred by dressmakers.

Manufactured Furs.

The Turnbull Company are introducing furs as a new line to their growing departments this season. They are now ready to provide any fur garment for fall or winter service, in the newest models, and at prices which conclusively demonstrate the material benefits to their customers, which this specialization makes possible. In mink, sable, blue lynx, squirrel, Arctic fox, thibet and marmot fur, are shown many different styles, including stoles, muffs, sets, etc.. The display of fur-lined coats, wraps, etc., is full of interest to ladies. A nice line of buckle and ostrich ruffs are shown, in black and white, gray and natural. These are samples, sent by Cook, of London, England, no two alike, and in a range of prices from $2.50 to $15.00.

Correct Fall Millinery.

Fall millinery is to be dashing and piquant, if one is to judge from the advance samples shown. Miss Noble, who will again be in charge of this department, states that this will also be a great felt hat season. It is sometime since felts were the predominating style, and the combinations which mingle in the decorations of felt hats will be a pleasing change. Some of the leading shapes are Scotch sailors, toques, turbans, and mushroom hats. A medium size will prevail—not so large as last year.

The ready-to-wear styles are just such as you would expect to find in the swell city stores. There is an excellence that appeals. The full fall and winter styles, will, however, be displayed on the regular millinery opening days, commencing Thursday, September 20.

New Dressmaking Room.

Recently there have been extensive alterations on the second and third floors. The cloak and suit room has been enlarged by removing the dress-making department to new and more commodious quarters on the third floor. The space gained on the second floor has been so much additional room for displaying the ready-to-wear goods.

In the new dress-making parlours, Miss Welch has started off with a busy season. Orders seem to have come rushing in, as if in unison with the enlargement of the new section. There's new life in this section, and with an enlarged staff and better service than ever, ladies will find it a pleasure to make their wants known and have them comfortably and promptly attended to.

Those who were present during the opening days were glad they went, and those who were not should take a half holiday, and see The Turnbull Company's advanced ready-to-wear garments and other fall displays.

Ladies' Aid To Give At Home

St. Andrew's Society Plans Work For The Year.

Yesterday afternoon the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church held their regular monthly meeting in the church parlours, where the work for the coming year was discussed. The prospects for a successful season are very bright. It was decided to hold an at-home for the ladies of the church on October 2 in the church, when the ladies of the congregation, who are not identified with the society will be the guests of the members.

TEETHING TIME.

Every mother dreads that period in her baby's life known as teething time. The little gums are swollen, inflamed and tender; the child suffers greatly and is so cross and irritable that the whole household is on edge. All this is changed in homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used. This medicine allays the inflammation, softens the swollen, tender gums, brings the teeth through painlessly. In proof Mrs. W. C. McCay, Denbigh, Ont., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets a splendid medicine at teething time. My baby was very sick at that time, was cross, restless and had no appetite. After giving her the Tablets there was a marked improvement and in the course of a few days she was not like the same child. The Tablets are just the medicine to help the little ones over the trying teething times." You can get Baby's Own Tablets from any druggist, or by mail at 25 cents a box, by writing The Dr. William's Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PETERBOROUGH LAUNDRY'S JAUNTY NEW RIG

This is Peterborough's growing time, no less in the laundry business than in other lines. In an interview with Mr. Hetherington, of the Peterborough Laundry, it was learned that the weekly increase of business, the past twelve months, has been fully one-third greater than ever before since its establishment.

When it is remembered that there are to-day a large number of laundries in town, all apparently kept busily employed, the growth of this old-established business is quite marked. It is evident that the work turned out continues to give satisfaction to its patrons, and that the methods used by the present management are right and up-todate.

This increase of business has necessitated a new delivery wagon, which has just been placed on the routes, to cover all parts of the city. The new rig is quite an attractive outfit and is well equipped for the work. It was built by Mr. Ben Yelland, who carried out his instructions to the entire satisfacion of Mr. Hetherington. The painting is quite artistic and is very creditable to Mr. Shadgett. The effective colours, clean-cut scrolling, and neatly formed gilt lettering, is specially deserving of praise.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face from choking. It gave him instant relief and cure."—Mr. William McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

57th Band Closes A Successful Season

Last of Weekly Concerts Was Given Last Night—Many Evidences that the Public Appreciates the Band's Work—13 Concerts Were Given.

Last night saw the close of the season of open air concerts, so far as the 57th Regiment Band is concerned, and in spite of the fact that the night was somewhat cool, there was a good attendance of lovers of music and consequently admirers of the band to hear the last concert. They were not disappointed, for a most excellent programme was rendered. It was a happy combination of standard classical music and the popular light compositions, which appeared to have caught on with the public.

During the season the attendance at the weekly concerts has been large, the public giving evidence of its appreciation of the work of the band. Unfortunately in the early part of the season the weather interfered seriously with the concerts, almost every Friday night seeing a heavy rain storm. In view of this fact the band gave three concerts during September. The citizens now look forward to the weekly concerts with considerable pleasure, and, particularly this past season, they have thoroughly enjoyed the programmes which the band, under the able leadership of Mr. Gliddon has rendered.

The repertorie of the band has been considerably added to this season, and in addition to the standard overtures and the more popular and lighter, tuneful music the band has prepared and rendered to the entire satisfaction of the audiences, which heard them, a number of the latest novelties in band music, including such numbers as, "Baby Sweetheart," "Wee Macgregor," "Jolly Coppersmith" and "Happy Hiene," the latter proving an especially popular number, and every time it was given the audience demanded its repetition.

The average attendance of members of the band at the concerts was thirty-five, the bandsmen themselves taking a deep interest in the work, which they entered into with enthusiasm.

In addition to the Friday night concerts the band gave one Sacred Sunday afternoon concert, which the public undoubtedly appreciated, the very large number gathering at Victoria Park to hear it, giving evidence of this. The bandmaster states, however, that unless there is a popular demand for these Sunday afternoon sacred concerts they will not be continued.

The triumphs of the band have not been confined to the bounds of their home city. They were engaged for two concerts at the Toronto Industrial Fair and their work there was warmly praised by musicians who heard them. A number of other smaller outside engagements have been filled during the season. Next Wednesday the band will play at the Sunderland Fair, and will give a concert at night.

New C. G. E. Transformer Building Going Ahead

135 Men Are Now Employed on the Construction Work—Excavation Almost Completed—Building Will be of Large Dimensions.

Peterborough's largest industry the Canadian General Electric Works, is at the present time being considerably increased by the erection of another large building to the already enormous plant. Work on the big new transformer building at the west of the other structures is going on space, and the prospects are that it will be finished in record time. The contractors in charge are rushing the work, and at present 135 men are employed on the construction of the new building, which is to take the place of the transformer department now in use.

A large number of teamsters have been employed in connection with the excavation for the building, which is now almost completed. A big force of carpenters is on the ground and the carpenter work has commenced and will be pushed as quickly as possible, as the building is needed owing to the ever-increasing business of the company.

The new building will be of monster dimensions, and will be no inconsiderable addition to the plant. It is stated that the new structure when completed will have cost many thousands of dollars. It will have its share of employment for the workingmen of Peterborough, and even now is offering opportunities for work as men are in great demand to go ahead with the construction of the building. Now that the excavation is finished the walls will quickly arise, and one will then be able to obtain a more accurate conception of the enormous structure that is being erected.

The people of Peterborough may well congratulate themselves upon having such an excellent industry, with its great possibilities of expansion, situated in their midst, and the completion of the new transformer department will be hailed with delight.

Diamond Dyes

—VERSUS—

COMMON IMITATION DYES

The DIAMOND DYES are the only package dyes admitted to the homes of wise and economical women. Why? Because they have every quality which true home dyes should possess. DIAMOND DYES are, to-day the only dyes guaranteed to give decided and happy successes. All druggists and general merchants who desire to please their customers sell only the DIAMOND DYES, for the simple reason that they always give complete satisfaction.

Common and adulterated package dyes put up to imitate the DIAMOND DYES are sold by some merchants because of the extra cash profits they yield. These deceptive dyes are, in every case, worthless as colouring agents. They produce weak and blotchy colours, and invariably ruin good garments and materials. Their use has caused grief and loss of money in many homes.

Always use the reliable and popular DIAMOND DYES and you will make the old and faded things as good as new. Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain street, Montreal, P.Q., for New Direction Book, Diamond Dye Cook Book and Illustrated Booklet, entitled "Diamond Dye Longjoun's Winter and Summer Sports;" all sent free to any address.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches are require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

CORSET Demonstration

WE are pleased to announce to the Ladies of Peterborough, that we have again secured the services of MISS McCLELLAND, the Expert Corsetiere, of Toronto, who so satisfactorily demonstrated the superiority of the famous BIAS-FILLED CORSET at our store last season.

MISS McCLELLAND will visit Peterborough and make her headquarters at our Store, commencing TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18th, and remaining until SATURDAY, THE 22nd. She will be pleased to meet any of the ladies of Peterborough who have experienced any difficulty in procuring a perfect-fitting Corset.

We will show a very complete range of the newest styles of the famous Bias-Filled Corset, adapted for all figures.

Many ladies who interviewed MISS McCLELLAND on her last visit to Peterborough, and were fitted with this Corset are unreserved in their praise of its many points of superiority.

Best Hockey Team In Belleville's History

This is What the Intelligencer Says Will be Organized There This Winter—Will Play in Federal League.

The Belleville Intelligencer of yesterday, handed out the following hockey dope:—

Now that the north wind has blown the hot weather away it is in order to talk a little about hockey. Hockey! The game which Bellevillians, one and all, love as a coon loves a chicken or a watermelon.

As most people know, the new big rink is now completed, and it is all the most ardent lover of winter sports could wish for. Seating accommodation for about a thousand, and standing room for as many more. That looks good for Belleville, eh?

But it was hockey we started to talk about, and it will surely gladden the hearts of most people in this city when they hear that prospects are bright for the best team Belleville has ever seen, to perform on local ice this winter. Negotiations are in progress for the admission of this city to the Federal League. The idea, as some people see it, is to have an eastern and a western group of the Federal. The western group to consist of Smith's Falls, Brockville, Kingston, Belleville and possibly, Port Hope. Playing a double schedule, this would give each town plenty of hockey, even if they did not reach the finals—and, of course, Belleville would. Then the eastern and western groups could play off for the championship. It is confidently believed that the other towns mentioned would welcome a chance to get into a league with Belleville, for everybody must admit that the hockey players of this good city always took their medicine like men and never tried to win championships by crawling through the windows of the Executive's office. A fair field and an even break was all they asked for.

Another Team For The Hall Trophy

Dominion Engineering and Construction Co. Will be Represented.

The contest for the R. R. Hall trophy will certainly be an interesting one. Secretary F. J. A. Hall received a letter to-day from Mr. C. L. Harding, representing the Dominion Engineering and Construction Company engaged on the construction work of the new Canadian General Electric building, stating that a team would represent them at th eExhibition.

Up to the present this makes at least three teams in the contest, a circumstance which is not customary and no doubt the lovers of the old game will witness a good exhibition of foo ball. The men who will be on the line-up for the above are mostly Montreal men who understand the Association game and who will give the Bridgenorth or Quaker aggregation a close run.

Story Of Tim Alert's Race At Belleville

How the Peterborough Horse Took the Free-for-all—Miss Paisley Also in the Running.

The Belleville Ontario gives the history of the free-for-all race at the fair in that city, which was won by Tim Alert, of this city. The Ontario says:—

In this race there was one of the best fields of horses ever started over a Belleville track—all pacers, with fast records, and all in the hands of capable drivers. There were Tim Alert, a brown gelding by the great Allerton, with a record of 2.13 1-4, made in a five heat race at Pontiac, Michigan, which he won. He was tooled by George Thomas, of Belleville, and is owned by G. C. Martin, of Peterborough. Miss Paisley, owned by Lr. Johnston, V. S., of Peterborough, with 2.10 speed, but with an inclination for dancing, which she found it too hard to resist, was driven by that slick mechanic, H. A. Cook, of Peterborough, who was expelled for ringing a grey gelding, which he called Petroleum, here some years since. The famous stallion, Sidney Pointer, which has a rare record of 2.07 1-4, and was sired by Star Pointer, 1.59 1-4—the first two-minute horse—was driven by his owner, Mr. W. H. Moffatt, of Picton, but was palpably short of work. Maud Wilkes, 2.16 1-4, the heroine of many a hard-fought race, was driven by her owner, Dennis Lake, of Napanee. Everybody knows Dennis, and how he hates to scare ahead of the pole horse. Finally, there was the steady going black or brown stallion, Bourbon Brook, 2.34 1-4 driven by the capable reinsman, "Jim" Timlin, but which also was short of work.

City League Will Be Organized

Meeting For This Purpose Called For Monday Night.

All those interested in the formation of a City Rugby League as well as the executive of the Peterborough rugby Club are reminded of the meeting to be held in Mac's Cigar Store on Monday night, at 8.30 o'clock. It is important that there should be a big attendance at this meeting as it is the intention to organize a City League. All teams intending to enter should have representatives present.

RUGBY.

A number of rugby enthusiasts turned out at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon. Among them was H. C. Hill, formerly of Montreal, who showed up well. He has a great drop kick and punts well.

* * * *

The City League meeting on Monday night should be well attended as nothing promotes the success of any sport as well as a City League. There are two objects served by such an organization; the creation of added interest in the game and secondly the development of young players into senior calibre.

* * * *

The O.R.F.U. will meet on Tuesday next after which the locals will know whom they first meet. The senior series opens on October 6th, in three weeks from to-day.

TURF.

Word was received this morning that Mr. George Curtis' fast race horse, Minnie Keswick, had captured a purse of $400 at Montreal yesterday.—Lindsay Post.

COURT CHEMONG

The members of Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F., are requested to meet in their Court Room, George Street, to-morrow (Sunday) at 6 p.m., for the purpose of attending divine worship at St. Andrew's Church. Please bring Badges. All Foresters are invited to attend.

Honoured By His Fellow Club Members

Mr. R. Eastland Banquetted by the High Lifes Last Night.

The High Life Club last night said farewell to Mr. Richard Eastland, one of their most popular members, who left this morning for Preston, where he has secured a position. The affair took the form of a delightful banquet at the National at which some thirty members of the club were present. The evening was a most enjoyable one, although the gathering signified parting with one who had been a favourite with all. The repast was served in sumptuous style.

During the evening Mr. Ed. Dillon, on behalf of the club, presented Mr. Eastland with a handsome dress suit case as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the High Lifes. Mr. Eastland replied in a suitable speech.

Several of the members referred with regret to Mr. Eastland's departure and wished him luck in his new vocation. An impromptu toast list was run, including toasts to "The King", "The Ladies" and the "Departing Member."

Butter Worth 27c. Per Pound

Market Was Unusually Large This Morning.

This morning's market had the distinction of being the largest in many months. Farmers with their wives and daughters were there as well as market gardeners with products of the farm and garden. Buyers were also numerous and brisk sales were the result.

Tomatoes were there galore. Scarcely a waggon but was well laden with the ruddy fruit which is very much in demand. Tomatoes were offered at from 75c to 80c per bushel. Chickens were also a plentiful article and sold cheaply from 50 to 65 cents per pair.

For butter, however, the buyers had to dig down deeply into their pockets. It was very scarce this morning and was rapidly brought up at 27c per lb. The price of eggs remains firm, 18c being the price to-day.

Ducks brought 50 cents each. Potatoes by the bag were worth from 75c to 80c and were more plentiful than formerly. Apples ranged from 60c to 75c per bag.

Cabbage was conspicuous also, varying from 50c to 60c per dozen; corn at 2 dozen for 35c. Crabapples brought in the neighbourhood of 15c per peck and pumpkins 10c and 15c according to size.

Dance Rudely Interrupted

P. C. Newhall Spoiled a Delightful Social Event.

The platform erected on the market square by the proprietors of the travelling patent medicine company was the scene of a delightful little dance at an early hour this morning. There was a scene of revelry by night. When P. C. Newhall hove in sight and put an untimely end to the performance.

It appears that a number of young men seized upon the opportunity offered by the platform to trip the light fantastic. They had a gramophone with them which was installed in the tent and the gathering proceeded to cut loose. Now a dance may be all right in its place, but its place is certainly not the market square and so P. C. Newhall, although not honoured with an invitation was present just the same and the merry makers made a hurried retreat.

The aftermath of the affair will be a police court case as the proprietor of the patent medicine stand has sworn out a warrant against the young men who are all well known about the city.

Kingston, Ont.—A test was made of the Ross Rifle by Capt. Hughes and Sergt. Swain, and they report that the mechanism of the weapon is not up-to-date, and it does not compare favourably with the arms the English firms have been supplying the Canadian Government with in the past.

Autumn Suitings
Costuming and Dressmaking

THE individuality and exclusiveness of our Dress Fabrics for Autumn wear is noticeably apparent no less in the SMART WEAVES for DRESSES and SUITS than in the Correct Shades, as well as in the accessories that go to complete the outfit—elaborate or modest.

We have been fortunate in securing the very Latest Novelties in Imported Serges, Plain Cloths, Elegant Tweeds, etc. Being always in closest touch with the newest European and New York Styles, there will be nothing missing in the predominating fashions that good taste can demand.

About Our Dressmaking

WE have made preparations for a very large season's trade in this department. A great many orders have already been booked for September. Miss Hassard's artistic qualifications have already been recognized by some of the most fashionable dressers, who have been delighted with her gown-making and costuming. Styles are interpreted in that brilliant manner peculiar to metropolitan cities.

Appointments can be made at any time and customers are never disappointed in delivery.

Our Expert Modistes are prepared to execute elaborate orders for Autumn Suits, Coats, Reception and Evening Gowns, etc. You'll be surprised at the reasonable charges.

Peterborough Lady Victim Of Big Ottawa Hotel Fire

Miss Jane Loveday, Secretary of the Barnardo Home, Reported to Have Perished in the Flames—Has Been Missing Since Fire and Was Known to Have Registered at Burned Hotel—Was Connected With Work Here for Many Years.

It seems almost certain that Miss Jane Loveday, secretary of "Hazel Brae," the Barnardo Home for Girls, here, was one of the victims of the Gilmour Hotel fire, in Ottawa on Friday night, although her friends are hoping against hope that their fears on her behalf are groundless.

Miss Loveday left here on Friday morning to meet a friend in Ottawa, and as it was known that she was to stay at the Gilmour Hotel, her friends were naturally much alarmed when the intelligence of the fire reached them.

Their uneasiness was increased when nothing was heard from Miss Loveday, and last night Miss Pierce, the superintendent of the Home, went to Ottawa to investigate the matter.

This morning word was received from her that Miss Loveday had been given a room near the elevator shaft of the Gilmour Hotel, and that nothing had been seen of her since the fire. It will be remembered that the flames rushed up the elevator shaft and that the rooms next to it were the first to suffer.

Ottawa Report.

Ottawa, September 17. — Miss J. Loveday was secretary of the Barnardo Home at Peterborough, where she had been for several years. Her relatives live in England. Miss Loveday arrived in Ottawa on Friday on business, and registered at the Gilmour House. She has not been heard from since. The superintendent of the Barnardo Home has arrived in Ottawa, and in the meantime her friends are hoping against hope, that there present apprehensions will prove groundless. She was given a room and proceeded to it. Shortly afterwards she came down stairs and asked one of the clerks the way to McLaren street. From McLaren street she went to Hintonburg, a suburb of Ottawa. It is supposed that she returned to the hotel shortly before 11 o'clock, and retired. The fire broke out at 11.15 p.m.

Lived Here Many Years.

Miss Loveday was a familiar figure to many Peterborough citizens, and was often seen on the streets, especially on Sunday, with a band of little charges. For many years she has been connected with the work at Hazel Brae, and during the past seven years has held the position of secretary of that institution. She came to Peterborough from Wigston, Eng., and entered the Barnardo Home work at once. She has not relatives in this country, her relations living in England.

A Spectacular Fire.

The fire in which Miss Loveday is supposed to have lost her life, was a most spectacular one. An Ottawa despatch says:

"There were many thrilling escapes and rescues, which involved deeds of heroism and bravery. With the house filled with guests, many of them permanent residents of what was an essentially family hotel, and aslo a number of visitors to the fair, the fire broke out at an hour when the greater number had retired, and hardly in a single instance were people able to save any of their effects or even their clothing. In the chilly air they escaped in their night robes and made for hospitable homes in the vicinity, where shelter and clothing were given. Ambulances and hacks conveyed injured people to the hospitals.

"Only on one previous occasion—the burning of the Hotel Cecil—has there been a fire attended by such thrilling experiences and so many hair-breadth escapes.

"It was just a few minutes after eleven when the fire started. It began at the foot of the elevator shaft, it is thought, from an electric spark. Extending from the bottom to the top of the building was the elevator well and adjoining it a roomy rotunda, and spacious winding stair cases. Fanned by the draft the fire roared up the shaft, bursting out at the landings and sweeping down through the halls and corridors, filling them first with dense volumes of smoke, and then—almost in an instant—with tongues of flame.

"A scene of panic followed. An alarm of fire being shouted through the corridors, men and women were hurriedly awakened to find their rooms filled with stifling smoke, exit through the corridors was cut off. Many who attempted to escape that way got only as far as the stairway when they were driven back by the flames. By means of fire escapes and ladders, and with the assistance of spectators and firemen, they were one by one brought down, but in the meantime many had been seriously but not fatally burned, while several as a last resort to escape from the flames leaped and sustained painful injuries.

"Mounting high in the sky and illuminating the whole western part of the city, the flames burned fiercely—in fact in ten minutes after the alarm was turned in they were bursting from almost every window in the upper stories. At a quarter to twelve the cupola of the hotel at the corner of Gilmour street, came down with an awful crash, bringing with it scores of wires. Half an hour later the most of the southern wall collapsed, while the floors and ceilings crashing down made a report like a thunderous explosion. Crowds of people jammed in the adjoining streets were roped off and kept back though little effort in that direction was needed because of the heat and terror lest the remaining walls should come down."

The Gilmour Hotel was a well-known house to the travelling public of Peterborough. Mr. R. H. Bradburn was a guest there for six months while living in Ottawa.

Worst Is Feared For Miss Loveday

Despatch From Ottawa States That She Has Not Been Located and Belief is General There That She Has Perished in the Fire—Work of Clearing Wreck Attended by Many Difficulties.

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 17.—It is feared Miss J. Loveday, of Peterborough, is among the Gilmour Hotel fire victims. This morning Miss M. E. Pierce, Superintendent of the Barnardo Home at Peterborough, walked into the police station and visited hospitals, enquiring about her friend. Miss Loveday is one of the Home Superintendents and was known to be in Ottawa. Whether she stayed with city friends or was at the Gilmour is not known, but the worst is feared. Up to noon to-day nothing was known of her whereabouts, and there is no report of her here. Up to one o'clock this afternoon six are missing and are probably victims. They are Miss O'Neill, head waitress; Miss Agnes Beckett, milliner, Ottawa; Miss J. Loveday, Peterborough; W. Wilson, Montreal; Miss Renaud, Mr. Quinn, addresses unknown. Mrs. Pentecast, the Toronto woman who leaped from a third storey window is very seriously ill, and her husband three daughters and son have been ordered no tto leave the city. The tearing down of the dangerous walls and search for the victims has just started. To-day there was a hitch between City Auditor Pratt, interested in the estate, and the building inspector as to just what should come down, but everything dangerous will be removed. The Mayor has issued explicit orders to this effect. One man's trousers containing $900 were burned, and the police have scores of reports of jewellery and money being missing in the ruins. A bag or valise containing jewellery worth $800 was among the things missing. Walker, of McHika Hill, New Jersey, who broke both legs leaping from the third storey, will recover.

Mr. Pentecast strongly scores city officials and the hotel management and says that his wife was in a regular death trap and had to jump. He charges that there was no fire escape under her window, or rope in her room. Dozens of enquiries from outside points have reached the city, but so far as is known there are no American victims.

SUDDEN DEATH OF LADY VISITING NORWOOD FRIENDS

Examiner Special.

Norwood, Sept. 17.—A very sudden death occurred in this village last night, when Miss Dracup, of Wellman's Corners, who had been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Vandervort, for the past few days, died about 8 o'clock from heart failure, after having spent the day feeling in her usual good health. She attended the Methodist church in the morning, and during the afternoon took a walk around the town, calling on a number of friends, to whom she chatted cheerily, and had never appeared in better health.

Without a moment's warning, she fell from her chair about 8 o'clock, and expired before medical assistance could reach her. The deceased lady was 62 years of age, and leaves to mourn her loss two sons and two daughters. The sons arrived in town this morning and took the body to her former home, where the funeral will take place.

FAMILY QUARREL LED TO ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

Havelock, Sept. 17.—As a result of an alleged family quarrel, Maude Parcels, who had some trouble with her mother a few days ago, took a dose of poison, and but for the prompt measures taken, would have died. After the difference referred to, the girl went to a drug store, purchased poison, and took a liberal dose. Fortunately her act was noticed in time to summons a doctor, who succeeded in saving her life.

Woman's Buttons.

"WHY does a woman button her garments on the left side?"

For ladies to have the buttonholes in the right side of their garments has its origin in the times when it was necessary for a lady when going out at night, to have a gentleman escort, who supported her upon his left arm, leaving his right or sword arm, at liberty. Thus the lady's left hand would be free to fasten or unfasten her cloak or other garment at her own pleasure, and without inconvenience.

Unsolicited testimony cannot be discounted. While the patent medicine vendors have rather brought their publication into disrepute, one cannot refrain from the conclusion that real merit and worth would never be more than merely local reputation were it not for the press.

To Mitchell & Robins, of Fort William, who control the Semi-Ready Wardrobe in the Twin Cities of the North, a neighbour, a fellow merchant, said:—"This Semi-ready suit is the first garment I have been able to get which really fitted me in fifteen years. I have tried every custom tailor I knew."

Writing to the Semi-ready Company in Montreal, Mr. C. H. Halladay, a prominent insurance agent, said:—"In reference to a suit purchased from your Wardrobe at Brockville, a Montreal tailor at this place who has been in business for nearly 20 years, said to me, "Halladay, you have the most perfect fitting coat I have ever seen."

Give Fair Play to

A really reliable remedy for headache —Zutoo.

If you have got it into your head that Zutoo Tablets will hurt you, you are mistaken.

It isn't fair to us for you to judge Zutoo by the drug cures.

It isn't fair to yourself to suffer from headache, when this really harmless vegetable headache cure is within your reach.

The fair thing for both of us is—to judge Zutoo on its merits—to test it.

If you find it does not cure your headache, sick, nervous or otherwise, in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling good every time—no bad after effects, then discard it.

But do not condemn it unfairly without a trial, and keep on suffering from headaches. You really do not have to, and one trial of Zutoo will prove it.

All we ask for Zutoo is fair play—that you give it a trial before concluding as to its merits or demerits.

Wont you do this? You'll be glad ever after if you do.

We'll send trial tablets for nothing, or you can buy them at dealers in 10c. and 25c. packages.

UNION LABEL

MONDAY, SEPT. 17, 1906.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Cochrane declares that the Hydro-Electric Commission was not ignored by the disposal of the Healey lease. Mr. Cochrane is right, the London Advertiser thinks. Far from being ignored, the Commission was bit on the head with an axe.

Sir William Howland is a proof of the healthy character of Canadian climate. A few months ago, at the age of 96, he underwent an operation for appendicitis successfully. It is no wondor that a man who can thus defy the doctors should be able to lay the corner stone of a club building, as Mr. Howland did a few days ago, making a long railway journey to visit Toronto for the purpose.

The growing time is not confined to the Wheat West. Western Ontario is also getting a generous slice. London the Less has a gratifying record of growth. The assessment returns show an increase of population during the year of 1,550, and a million and a quarter increase of assessed value of real estate. London has been lucky in escaping a boom—her progress has been steady and substantial.

Many persons are inclined to complain of the slow progress of Trent Canal completion. Canals cost money. Church union, which costs no money — only sacrifice of dogma and sentiment, or a form of ritual, church government or polity — has been on the tapis for centuries, and we are no nearer, nor as near, to organic church union than we are to the completion of the Trent Canal—by the Port Hope route anyway.

Milkmen, who may think they can evade Peterborough's milk bylaw by putting the water into the milk, in the country, by putting the milk into the water, or some other law-evading substitute, will learn better from a decision of Police Magistrate Denison, of Toronto, who made short work of a lawyer's quibble. He said he would not "strain any technicality to encourage the sale of fraudulent milk." Honest milk is wholesome, not only for the users but also the purveyors.

Hon. Dr. Willoughby will use his political instincts, if he kicks against the action of the Whitney Government in going outside of Ontario and, especially, of East Northumberland, to get a purchasing agent for the Ontario Government railway. Mr. Bartram of Montreal, in the Province of Quebec, has been chosen. No matter what Dr. Willoughby, and others, in search of spoil, may say, if the appointment represents as good a man for the place as his experience in a similar capacity with the C. P. R., would lead one to expect, it is a good one. Match the man with the office, not the office with the man, is sound policy.

AS OTHERS SEE IT.

The Montreal Herald discusses the problem of the suggested division of Ontario as follows:—

There is a movement in the western part of the nisetr province, originating apparently at Sault Ste. Marie, for the erection of the extensive but apparently not very clearly defined district known as New Ontario into a separate province.

Canada is making history fast — history of the best and most satisfactory kind—but it may well be doubted whether it would be wise to make it quite so rapidly as would be implied and entailed by this turning of New Ontario into a separate province. The idea is scouted and in a measure ridiculed at Toronto. Naturally Toronto does not wish to see the creation of a young and ambitious rival on the shores of the western lakes. But apart from that it is not by any means clear that Fort William and Port Arthur would be prepared to concede such supremacy to the "Soo" as would undoubtedly result from the creation of a capital there.

The older part of the province of Ontario does not wish to lose the portion of her territory that she has recently discovered to be rich in minerals as well as in the timber and agricultural resources that she was known previously to possess. Moreover it does seem a trifle absurd that a handful of people such as constitute the population of what was but a wilderness yesterday should talk of withdrawing from the province of which they now form a part. Were their effort successful it would probably, instead of advancing, impede the progress that we all desire New Ontario in common with the rest of Canada to make.

The policy of the Ontario Government has been wise in so far as it has availed itself to the fullest extent of the enterprise of its predecessor, and to continue its policy for the development of the northern region by the construction of railways and other public works, by the promotion of settlement and the encouragement of capital in its search for new fields of investment seems to be the part of wisdom.

It is not likely that the people themselves will fail to perceive that by the creation of a new province they would probably lose the financial support that seems indispensable to their immediate progress. It is not improbable that those who are responsible for the movement are influenced by considerations that are personal rather than patriotic, and that if successful the effect would be to divert into private channels wealth that should properly belong to the public. In our own province the Government recognizes the wisdom of developing the public estate for the benefit of the people. There appears to be the same recognition on the part of the governing authorities in Ontario. No public advantage is likely to be gained by the dismemberment of the Province.

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

The axe still swings and Liberal heads still fall into the Conservative patronage basket. One of the last to suffer is Mr. David Robertson, Clerk of the Division Court at Warkworth, whose "resignation" has just been accepted. It seems that Mr. Robertson was not aware that he had resigned, and is hardly grateful for the low voice, the tenderness and the gentleness with which he has been robbed of his position.

If we do not mistake, Warkworth is situated in Dr. Willoughby's constituency. No other Conservative has been quite so ruthless and merciless in his dealings with Liberal officials. It is no secret that the Doctor was sorely grieved over his exclusion from the Cabinet. For weeks there were tears on his cheeks and a sob in his voice because his long years of service as party whip were rewarded only by a party portfolio without emolument. By way of comfort and compensation he revenges himself upon the Liberal officials in his riding. He holds a toy pistol at Mr. Whitney's head whenever his demands are refused or resisted.

It does seem singular, however, that Mr. Whitney, with his fine instincts and manly qualities, should consent to this needless sacrifice of public servants. He may be sure that the patronage hunters will not desist from the pursuit of their prey so long as he can be persuaded or coerced into compliance with their demands. He may be just as sure that neither his own reputation nor the strength of his Government has been enhanced by the very general introduction of the spoils system throughout the Province.—Toronto News.

Jury Suggests The Licensing Of Scientists

The following is the verdict rendered by the jury called in connection with an inquest held at Lambton into the death of Mrs. George Pepper, a Christian Scientist, which occurred last Saturday night, and the circumstances of which led County Coroner Bull to order an investigation:

"The opinion of the jury is that Ethel Rose Pepper came to her death from a natural cause, as shown by the post-mortem examination. The jury is also of the opinion that had proper medical attention been provided the said Ethel Rose Pepper might have been cured, or her life prolonged, and the jury wish to convey to the proper authorities their opinion that some law should be enacted whereby the sect known as Christian Scientists should be brought under subjection."

Lindsay Police Are Not Guilty

Of Finding the Stolen Horse for Dr. McKercher.

The Lindsay guardians of the peace are even worse than The Examiner said they were. This paper stated Saturday that they located a horse belonging to Dr. McKercher, after it had stood in a hotel stable for five days. But it appears now that the recovery of the horse was not due to the work of the Lindsay police at all. Dr. McKercher learned that the horse was in a hotel stable in the Scuggo town, and advised Chief Rozel, who telephoned to the Lindsay chief to ask him to locate the horse; but he could not be reached by 'phone, when the local chief got the hotelman and learned that the horse was there. It is unfortunate that the Lindsay police were blamed for something of which they were not guilty.

Institute Boys In Cadet Corps

Three Companies Formed With Thirty-five Members Each.

The Cadet Corps of the Collegiate Institute is in a flourishing condition this fall, and under the able leadership of Lieut. Hodgson, who is very enthusiastic in the work, a most efficient body of junior military men is bound to result.

All the boys attending the Institute have been enrolled in the corps, and three companies, each 35 strong, have been formed.

The officers and non-commissioned officers of the three companies are as follows:

No. 1 Company — Captain Brown; lieuts., B. Ingham, E. Wood; sergts., A. Ingham, F. Austin, A. Munro, H. Maguire.

No. 2 Company — Captain H. Conroy, Lieuts., R. Picard, S. Andrew; sergts., S. Pringle, C. Lees, A. Rosboss, A. McKnight.

No. 3 Company — Captain H. Blackwell; lieuts., C. Loch, H. Hall; sergts., D. Denham, Letellier, A. Nicholls, H. Wallis.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from female trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for just such operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Mrs. Robert Glenn of 434 Marie St., Ottawa, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so well and widely known that it does not need my recommendation, but I am pleased to add it to the many which you have in its favor. I have suffered untold agonies from a serious female trouble for nearly three years, and the doctors told me that I must undergo an operation, but as I was unwilling to do this, I tried your Vegetable Compound, and I am only too pleased that I did so, for it restored me to perfect health, saving me the pain of an operation and the immense bills attending the same. Pray accept my hearty thanks and best wishes."

Miss Margaret Merkley of 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps, bearing-down pains, and an irritable disposition compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had a serious female trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and I decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared, and I am once more strong, vigorous and well; and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for me."

Serious feminine troubles are steadily on the increase among women—and before submitting to an operation every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for advice.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all functional troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement, weakness, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

New goods are being opened up of the very highest qualities in groceries, provisions, fruit, vegetables, etc. Remember the place—corner of McDonel and Aylmer streets. Telephone 483. Andrew Graham.

Music Was Enjoyed.

—Two solos of more than usual merit formed the special musical features of the services at Charlotte street church yesterday. At the morning service Miss Bellegham was heard in an artistic rendering of M. Piccolomini's "Pray For Us," while at the evening service Mr. Freund sang with much sweetness and depth of expression, "Heaven is my Home," by Savage. The solos were in addition to the usual choral numbers.

Must Pay Teachers.

—A contemporary says:— "Several Ontario schools didn't open at the first of the month. The reason is they didn't offer salaries large enough to induce teachers to accept positions with them. These schools deserve to be closed until the ratepayers are prepared to whack up a decent income for the teachers. If any class deserves to be paid well it is the men and women who have the education of the boys and girls of the country in their charge.

Clearing Sale of Books.

One of the results of the early planning for Christmas at the Peterborough Bookstore is the discovery that our stock of books is too large. To economize room, it has been decided to reduce our book stock at once, and with this end in view a clearing sale has began that should leave no doubt about a speedy thinning-out. We invite all book-lovers to avail themselves of this book sale, as there will be many rare snaps not often offered.

OBITUARY

W. K. ROUTLEY.

Referring to the death of Mr. W. K. Routley, father of Mr. C. B. Routley of this city ,the Kingston Whig of Monday says:—

William Kent Routley, a resident of Kingston since 1841, and one of its most prosperous and respected citizens, passed peacefully away on Saturday. He was born in Tiverton, Devonshire, England, in 1831, and came ten years later to Canada, settling in this city and living on Sydenham street though in different houses, through all the intervening years.

For a time he was associated in business with the late S. P. White and then striking out on his own account and with continued success. Some years after he had embarked in trade the big fire occurred on Princess street, and his store and stock disappeared in the great conflagration. He at once rebuilt ,and resumed his calling, and continued it for another 30 years.

Mr. Routley was a man of quiet demeanor. He was interested in any good cause, and work, and encouraged it as he found occasion, and with the confidence, genuine and cheerfulness which was characteristic of him. He was very honourable in all his dealings, and went into retirement, through failing health, with the regard of all who knew him.

In 1851, he married , and became the head of a large family. His wife, six sons and four daughters survive him .The sons are: John, Arthur and Alfred ,at home, Charles, of Peterborough; Henry, of Toronto, and Edward, of New York. Of the daughters, Mrs. Ross and Miss Martha ,are at home; Mrs. Bell resides in Nebraska, and Mrs. Wright, at Auburn, N.Y. All of the sons and daughters were with him when he died, except three, and these had seen him recently during extended visits. Mr .Routley left two sisters in the city, Mrs. George Wilson and Mrs. W. J. Muhood.

In 1901 Mr. and Mrs .Routley celebrated their golden wedding and on the 22nd of September they would have been married fifty-five years. Mr. Routley was a life-long Baptist, a memmber of the A.O.U.W. and of the I.O.O.F., and from Cataraqui lodge, No. 10, received some years ago his vetrans' jewel, which he highly prized. He became an Oddfellow when the Order was weak in Kingston, but he was devoted to the lodge and kept in touch with it until the last. The funeral took place this afternoon.

The late Mr. Routley was quite well known in Peterborough, where he frequently visited his son, and where his death will be regretted. He had fourteen grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Miss Edna Hutchinson, a member of the office staff of The T. Eaton Co., Limited, Toronto, who has been visiting with her mother on Water street, leaves to-morrow for Toronto, to resume her duties.

Mr. Ralph Hendry, Liverpool, N.S., was in the city to-day en route from Young's Point to Toronto. He spent a few days in the former place with Mr. and Mrs. A. Allan, and will resume his studies in law, on his return to Toronto.

Mr. W. A. Burnham ,of Peterborough, transacted business in town today.....Mr. J. W. Latimer, of Peterborough, was in town yesterday on business .....Messrs. D. W. Carlon and F. Sheehan, of Peterborough, were guests at the Sampson house yesterday.—Lindsay Post .

Miss Edna Rogers, daughter of Mr. R. B. Rogers, East City, left for Toronto Normal School, where she will complete her kindergarten course. Miss Rogers who was a pupil of Miss Williamson, East City, now of Moose Jaw, Sask., passed successfully her assistant's examination last June.

Yesterday In City's Churches

GEORGE STREET.

The services in George Street Methodist Church yesterday were particularly bright and interesting. Rev Mr. Bowerman, who is taking Rev. W J. Crothers' work while he is at Conference, was the speaker. Mr. Bowerman, at the evening service, took the following for his text, "Weighed in the balance, and found wanting," and preached a masterly sermon therefrom. The speaker is a very gifted young man, and, judging by the favourable impression he has created since coming to Peterborough, will make his mark in the calling he has chosen.

ST. JOHN'S.

The Harvest Festival services in St. John's were continued yesterday—at Matins and Evensong. The beautiful decorations still remained in place. At both services there were large congregations. The special addresses were given by the rector. In the evening his subject was the duty of thanksgiving, and the sermon was one of the best that has been preached in St. John's for many a day. the closing analysis of the Lord's Prayers as a demonstration of the exaltation of thanks-giving being especially illuminating, affecting and effective. It was pointed out that the one great way of rising to the Christian life was by the rungs of the ladder of praise. The true object of church-going was not to profit intellectually by brilliant sermons, nor even to gain personal spiritual profit, but to praise and glorify God was the supreme object. The first two were selfish, but in the latter self was set aside and the worshipper recognized and glorified God as the Great Giver of all good. This was the supreme duty of man towards his Maker, and the employment of the redeemed in Heaven.

WATER LILY CARRIED 10,000 EXCURSIONISTS

The season of passenger travel upon the Otonabee is practically closed for 1906, although the steamers will make their Saturday trips for some time yet. Captain White, of the Water Lily, stated to-day that the season, so far as he was concerned, had been a satisfactory one. He had carried forty-three excursions, and on one of these, that of the T.A. S. picnic, he had carried 1800 people. He estimated that for the entire season his remodelled steamer had carried not less than 10,000 passengers on excursions alone.

In addition to these, there were the regular trips, and this season he states has shown an increase in the volume of regular business.

He will spend some time yet in towing logs and in other freight work.

An Eloquent Address To Members of Court Chemong

Court, With a Number of Visitors Attend Worship at St. Andrew's—Sermon Preached by Rev. Mr. Potter—Music Was Special and of a Rare Variety.

St. Andrew's Church last night honoured by the attendance of over sixty members of Court Chemong No. 530, Independent Order of Foresters, on the annual occasion of their public worship together. The church was well filled by an audience who could not but listen with profit to the excellent service, including special singing appropriate to the occasion, and an edifying sermon delivered by the Rev. J. G. Potter, pastor of St. Andrew's congregation.

Mr. Potter expressed the pleasure on behalf of himself and the congregation to be able to have the Order present. It was not necessary, he remarked, to give an explanation of the principles for which the Order stood, or to tell of the work it is doing, as it was a society universally known and universally honoured. He referred, however, to its marvellous growth and to the great work along benevolent lines which the Order had been doing for orphans in the Foresters' charity institution on Foresters' Island.

The musical part of the service last evening was of a particularly interesting character. Besides special hymns, the choir rendered, in excellent manner, the anthem, "Sum of My Soul." A solo, "Thou Shalt Not," was sung by Mrs. (Dr.) Prust in her usual artistic and graceful style. Mr. Geo. Collen, late of London, England, and now of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, also sang a solo, "Light in Darkness." Mr. Collen is gifted with a baritone voice which, though not exceptionally strong as yet, is distinctly true and pleasing, and his singing last night was much appreciated by all. It was Mr. Collen's first appearance in public in Peterborough, and he has every reason to believe he will be warmly welcomed here whenever he sings.

Mr. Potter took as his text, the 14th verse of the 22nd chapter of Revelation, "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates to the city."

St. John was a Forester. Because of his adherence to the faith of Christ, amid the mountains and dales of that rugged isle, upon which he was, he was shown by Him who bore our sins, how life of exile might be used in sending the message of hope to the destitute ones. From that lonely isle he thought he saw the new Jerusalem, not made by hands, and with a heart and mind free to reflect he recounted all God had done until his soul was fired with the promise of the living God.

St. Paul in prison sang songs of joy; John Bunyan in jail saw the glory and richness of the liberated soul, and so John recognizes the purity of God, and man's disobedience to the will of heaven, or, as the immortal Milton puts it:

"Of man's first disobedience, and the fruit
Of that forbidden tree, whose mortal taste
Brought death into the world, and all our woe,
With loss of Eden, till some greater Man
Restore us, and regain the blissful seat."

How horribly man fell, and lost the opportunity of a blameless life! Man to-day, said the speaker, falls just the same, and excludes himself from the privileges and power which he might so easily enjoy. God assures us by His holy word, that what was first lost by man may be procured again where there will be no darkness and no sin.

In reference to the name by which the Order was known, and the great work in which it was engaged, Rev. Rev. Mr.. Potter pointed out that nothing could represent it better, that nothing could better illustrate to the minds of men the continuity of God's great plans than the universal tree. Its shade, its spreading branches, its fruit and its symmetry, all tend to demonstrate its majestic nature, emblematic of the tree of life, which is the fountain of all good things.

The world needs a Christianity, he said, that will give force and power to mankind. From the very first of time God revealed to man that Christianity is not a mere gratification of self. The selfishness that shuts out the thoughts of a requirement of a better life, was the great danger to humanity. God never intended life to be a mere matter of glitter and display, but He did intend that every man should be a "tree of life" for the healing and blessing of his fellow men.

If a person compares his morality with wretched and sinful men, he may then consider himself nearly perfect. But if, said the speaker, he compares it with such individuals as Moody, Dr. Barnardo, or Henry Drummond, who have aided in the uplifting of humanity, and whose memories shall never die, he will then discover that he has heights to climb that would inspire any traveler.

In conclusion Mr. Potter said that it was his wish that with God's blessing that all may be so guided in their work, that they may take Jesus Christ as their director and Supreme Chief Ranger, that He may lead all over the forests and hills of time, because He, and He alone, is the immortal "Tree of Life."

Together with the members of Court Chemong, there were present visitors from Sherbrooke, Deseronto, Port Hope, Westwood and Lakefield, all of whom marched to and from the church in a body. The marshalls for the evening were Messrs. W.. H. G. Armstrong and N. A. Howard Moore.

At the after meeting in the lodge room it was unanimously decided to tender the thanks of the Order to the officers of the church, the choir and the pastor.

Youthful Robbers Raise Windows And Steal Fruit

Theft Was Committed During Last Night—Over $3 Worth of Fruit Taken—Some Was Destroyed Against the Billboards and Pavements.

A number of thefts have been made in the city this year, but probably noen more daring has occurred than that of a large quantity of fruit from Minicola Bros. last night.

This store is situated on Hunter street, just a few doors west of George, and is one of the most public spots in the city. Yet the robbers, who are supposed to be all youths, had nerve enough to raise the big window of the store, and satisfy their hungry appetites with fruit.

Mr. Minicola stated to the Examiner this morning that some $3 or $4 worth of his fruit was eaten, destroyed or carried away. The window, which was fastened with a hook at the top, was forced upwards, and a stone about three inches in thickness placed under it to hold it in position.

With a small stick the young robbers scooped out pears, peaches and grapes. A musk melon, which was too large for the small opening, was crushed and spoiled. Some of the fruit which could not be eaten, was destroyed on the pavement and thrown against the billboards on the side of the store.

Minnicola Bros. informed the police of the affair this morning, and as there is a clue to the identity of some of the party there will probably be some interesting proceedings in the police court in the near future.

Fenelon Falls Man Has Serious Loss

J. H. Brandon, Well Known in Peterborough, Loses Stables by Fire—A Quantity of Stock Lost.

The Lindsay Post had the following despatch on Saturday:—

Fenelon Falls Sept., 15th.—The village was again visited by fire last night. The alarm was sounded at about 11,15 p.m., when the darkness became suddenly lit up with a bright flame, and flames were bursting out of the large stables belonging to Mr. J. H. Brandon, owner of the flour mill, and a well known dealer in live stock. Fortunately the wind was not very strong, yet the fire was not extinguished before several old stables were destroyed, five of Mr. Brandon's most valuable horses and an aged bull perishing in the flames. No houses were damaged beyond a scorching. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is generally supposed that it was caused by some one smoking inside the stables, as the fire started on the inside.

Mr. Brandon, the owner of the property destroyed is well known in the city, where there will be much sympathy expressed for him in his misfortune.

MINISTER WHO KNOWS FACTS ABOUT THE CANAL

The Bobcaygeon Independent, referring to the recent trip of Hon. Mr. Emmerson, over the route of the Trent Canal, says:

Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, accompanied by his Deputy Minister, Mr. M. J. Butler, and two secretaries, Messrs. C. R. Robinson, and F. McCourt, arrived here by the steamer Sovereign on Monday evening. Mr. Emmerson was making a purely business tour of the waterway. Other Ministers of Canals have gone over our Trent Waterway, but they have always done so upon local invitation, and with holiday flags, fixings and apollinaris. Mr.. Emmerson takes a most business like view of the work of his department, and keeps in personal touch with all the various undertakings. He and his Deputy have a remarkable grasp upon the great public works of this country, and frequently deputations waiting upon him have been surprised to find out that the Ministers were far better acquainted with the local works than they were themselves.

Conditions In Japan Described

Interesting Address By Miss McDonald at the Y. W. C. A.

An interesting and enjoyable address was that given at the Y.W. C.A., on Saturday afternoon, by Miss McDonald, the Foreign Secretary, who is engaged in the Japan field, and who at present home on furlough.

There was a large attendance, and all listened with deep interest to Miss McDonald's narrative of the work of the Y.W..C.A. in Japan, and the conditions which are met with in that distant country.

Miss McDonald is well known in Peterborough and formerly assisted in the work here.

Lindsay Is After The New Industries

Board of Trade is Alive to the Situation

A meeting of the Council of the Lindsay Board of Trade was held Thursday evening, with a fair attendance of members. Secretary Donald read correspondence from several outside manufacturing concerns in quest of better facilities, and action was taken thereon. The members were enthusiastic and no doubt the Board will accomplish much good work this year.

HIGHER ELECTRIC LIGHT POLES ARE REQUIRED

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I have just returned from a visit to some American cities, and noticed that in many of them, and in Detroit particularly, the electric light poles are very much higher than they are in Peterborough. In that city, they are, I should say, from thirty to forty feet higher, and the result is that the streets are much better lighted. With the lamps hung close to the ground the light is necessarily spread over a more limited area than would be the case if they were higher.

I am inclined to think that if they were higher, fewer lights would be required to illuminate the streets as brilliantly as they are at present.

If the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee would take the matter up and insist upon higher poles being used, I am sure that a better service would be given. The expense of the change would not be large, and for the price now paid for street lighting the company could well afford to make the change suggested.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

Harvest Festival At S. A. Barracks

Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave Will be Present.

Great preparations are being made by the Salvation Army for the Harvest Festival, which begins on Saturday night next, and continues until Monday when the harvest sale will take place. The band will be out to-night, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

On Saturday night, which marks the opening of the Festival, there will be a welcome meeting to Brigadier and Mrs. Hargraves of Montreal, who are to have charge of the festival services.

The meetings yesterday were well attended, and six converts were made—three in the morning and a similar number at the evening service.

Toronto Fair After Dollars

And Will Hoist Any Old Flag to Attract Them.

The Bobcaygeon Independent, referring to the "flag incident," at the Toronto Fair, says:—

More fuss about hoisting the Stars and Stripes. The American flag was hoisted at the Toronto Exhibition on American Day, and some excited individuals are ready to kick the roofs off all the buildings. Toronto would hoist any old flag, if it thought it would tickle the vanity of its visitors, and make them buy souvenirs, and pay two prices for board and lodging. Toronto is out for business. Toronto shouts patriotism, when there is money in it. The Stars and Stripes are good enough, when they are blowing off greenbacks. Dollars talk..

New Firm Reports Good Prospects Right For Start.

After being in business for two weeks the new real estate firm of Blewitt & O'Brien, reports that business is very satisfactory.

Last week a $7000 farm was sold for cash, in addition to a number of city properties, for which good prices were obtained. The members of the firm report that they are well pleased with the business so far.

Seven Dollars Gathered In

A Saturday and Sunday Drunk Were Fined This Morning.

The prisoners' box at the police court this morning held two representatives of the followers of Bacchus, one of whom chose the Sabbath day for his revelry. City Clerk Armstrong presided in the absence of Magistrate Dumble, who will be away until Thursday morning.

Geo. Trotter, an old farmer who resides near Fraserville, was the first called upon. He had enjoyed the hospitality of the city over Sunday, receiving board and lodging and for this and his drunk was charged the small sum of $2 to be paid in 10 days. George has occupied the same seat before. He didn't have the money with him but he promised to bring it in next week. He was advised by the chief to always have a little on hand with which to pay his fines.

Joseph Glass was next called upon for being drunk yesterday. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was assessed $5 to be paid in 10 days or 15 days in gaol.

How L. H. Graham Was Banquetted

By Senator Cox and Other Gentlemen in Toronto

The many friends in Peterborough of Hon. Mr. Graham, the popular owner of "Kiluna" cottage at Stony Lake, will be interested in the following from the Toronto Sunday World:—

Hon. L. H. Graham, U. S commissioner of the interior for Porto Rico, was in the city during the past week. He is a native of Canada, and left here eleven years ago. He is a nephew by marriage of Judge Morson, and his uncle Tom Graham, represented one of the Simcoes in the legislature years ago.

He was banquetted at the Toronto Club by Senator Cox and other well-known financiers who are interested in the development of Porto Rico. He was introduced to Premier Whitney by C. C. Robinson and found the leader of the Government much interested in the resources of the United States province.

Mr. Graham is a young man who has forged ahead in the councils of his adopted country. He is a close personal friend of President Roosevelt and represented the president at St. Louis fair. He is considered one of the most promising young men in the service of the United States Government.

Is Niagara Falls, Ont., After Steel Rolling Mills?

Report That the Mayor of That Town Has Made a Tempting Offer to the Peterborough Company.

The location of the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Company seems to be considered something worth making a strong effort to secure. Peterborough has a bylaw ready for submission to the people early in October, providing what is considered liberal terms, to secure the location of the works of the company in this city. It is also understood that the Mayor of Niagara Falls, Ont., has written to the authorities of the Rolling Mills Company, offering strong inducements to influence the location of the company in that town. The offer is said to include power at $10 per horse-power, a free site for factory buildings, and liberal taxation inducements. No authoritative confirmation or otherwise of this report could be obtained, as those who would naturally be in possion of the information declined to say anything, although the information desired is such as the ratepayers who will be asked to approve of a bylaw in the interests of the enterprise, are expected to treat the company liberally, naturally take an interest in. If the report, especially as to the price of power is correct, that will be something that Peterborough will have to meet, to some extent, at least, if it hopes to be successful in obtaining the location here of the industry in question.

However, there will be, it is understood, a meeting of the provisional directors this afternoon, and then, perhaps, definite information will be available on a matter of great interest to the public. If the report should prove true, it behooves our civic representatives to be on the alert in the endeavour to meet the situation.

Splendid Work Of Clever Local Artist

Miss Mamie McCarthy Paints Portrait of Rev. Dr. O'Brien —Remarkable Achievement of Eighteen-Year-Old Lady.

It will probably be somewhat of a surprise to the majority of Peterborough citizens to learn that the city possesses a portrait painter, whose work compares very favourably with that of the best artists in the large cities of the Dominion. Visitors to the T.A.S. rooms during the last few days have been admiring the new oil painting of Rev. Dr. O'Brien which hangs on the wall of the reading room, and many inquiries have been made as to the identity of the artist, whose work it is.

The portrait is a really excellent one, and Miss Mamie McCarthy, the clever young artist is being showered with congratulations upon her work ,which gives evidence of the possession of remarkable artistic genius, and this is all the more pronounced, when it is learned that the young lady who performed the work is but 18 years of age.

Dr .O'Brien gave her very few sittings, the greater part of the work being done from a photo.

The picture is one which should bring the clever young artist considerable fame. It will be left in the T.A.S. rooms for a short time, after which it will be hung on the walls of Rev. Dr. O'Brien's study.

Miss McCarthy has already won distinction with her painting, her work including China painting and fancy work. Her studio is on Donegal street.

Sermons Were Much Enjoyed

Rev. A. H. Brace Preached at Park Street Yesterday.

Rev. A. H. Brace preached to good congregations at the Park Street Baptist Church yesterday, in the morning on "The Development of Christian Benevolence," from the text "Distributing to the necessity of saints." He stated that, though Christians were in debt (which, of course, should not be), they should not refrain from giving, but should treat the Lord honestly with their other creditors, as He is the greatest.

A gold mine opens up to those who are liberal with God. "Scattereth, and yet increaseth;" Prov. 11, 24.

Children's Aid Society's Position Is Explained

Officers Make a Statement in Reference to Decision to Admit No Children Under 12 Months Old—They Are Providing Temperary Quarters Outside and Their Maintenance Paid For.

It appears that the publication of the interview in The Examiner on Saturday, in which the statement was made that the Children's Shelter received applications for the admission of from forty to fifty infants every year, has given rise to some little misapprehension on the part of some persons. The Examiner, in publishing the article did so, not with the intention of casting a reflection on the willingness of the Children's Aid Society to care for all the children that they could be expected to look after, but rather to call attention to a condition of affairs which it was believed very few persons in this city realized, viz., that there was such a large number of women who wished to rid themselves of the responsibility of rearing their own children, whether legitimate or otherwise. In connection with this matter, the officers of the society issued the following statement to the press this morning:

"The officers of the Children's Aid Society desire to explain more fully the position of the society, in regard to infant children, as the interview published in The Examiner on Saturday, with Mr. Henry, has created the impression among some persons that the society was neglecting infants. This is not the case, for whenever an infant has been found which could only be dealt with in the Shelter, the child has been taken there and maintained until placed in a foster home.

"It will be well understood by the public that there is not so much chance of danger to infant children with their parents as with older children. In the first place, the morals of the child, until it reaches the age of intelligence, need not be considered, and, in the second place, the care of infant children is a most difficult matter, and to take an infant of a few days or weeks old, which has not been weaned, and place it in an institution which has not made any special provision for the reception of such cases, will frequently endanger the life of the little one, without conferring upon it any material benefit.

"At an early date it is hoped that an infants' home will be established in Peterborough, where a special staff of nurses, and all the proper appliances for the care and nourishment of infant children will be provided. Until this is done it will be necessary for the Children's Aid Society to place any infants which come under its charge in temporary quarters, where they will have to be paid for, until able to be placed with foster parents.

"It can easily be understood that Mrs. Henry, the matron of the Shelter, who has in her charge a number of children ranging from 12 months to 12 years of age, is not able to undertake the additional care of infants a few days old.

"For this reason, with the others given, they are not admitted to the Shelter until they have reached the age of 12 months."

Deaf and Dumb Couple Married in Verulam Recently

A very interesting event took place at the residence of Mr. Wm. Elliott on Wednesday of last week being no less than the marriage of two persons each of whom are deaf and dumb. They were both educated at Belleville Institute and are each clever and in many ways gifted. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Coon, of Bobcaygeon ,Mrs. Foster Heron acting as interpreter and repeating the ceremony by signs. There were about forty guests present and the young couple left for their future home near Bracebridge with the good wishes of a host of friends.—North Verulam correspondent to the Bobcaygeon Independent.

For Heating, Lighting and Wiring the County House of Refuge.

In Saturday's issue a list of the tenders for heating, plumbing and wiring of the House of Refuge was given, but at the time of going to press neither had been decided upon. Later, however, the committee accepted F. J. R. MacPherson's tenders, they being the lowest in each case. The total cost of the three will be $3,901. MacGregor and Reid's tenders amounted altogether to $4,335.

Texas Priest Preached At Mass

Rev. Father Murphy Was Heard at St. Peter's Yesterday.

At the 8 and 10.30 o'clock masses in St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, sermons were preached by Rev. Father Murphy, of Wylie, Texas, who has been in the city visiting his mother, Mrs. Murphy, of Lake street.

The sermons were much enjoyed by the very large number of persons who attended both masses.

Service For The Young People

A New Departure at the Murray Street Church.

Commencing next Saturday afternoon, a new departure will be made at the Murray Street Baptist Church. A religious service, conducted by the pastor, will be held at 3 o'clock, and the meeting will be for children from seven to seventeen years of age. Hopes are entertained that a large number of young persons will attend.

Whooping Cough.

"My three youngest boys had the whooping cough last winter, and we could get nothing to help them until I sent for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept right on improving until they were cured at the cost of one dollar. That was not a large bill for so distressing and dangerous an illness."—Mrs. William Ball, Bracebridge, Ont.

WEDDING BELLS

MADDEN—FLYNN.

A pretty Cathedral wedding was celebrated this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Peter's ,when Miss Elizabeth Flynn, daughter of David Flynn, Concession street, East City, was united in marriage to Mr. Alphonse Madden, of Perth. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only the immediate friends of the bride and groom by the Rev. Father McColl. The bride was becomingly gowned in a pretty costume of white embroidered silk and carried a white prayer book with pearl beads. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Theresa Flynn, who was dressed prettily in white silk. Mr. Edward Flynn brother of the bride attended the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was silver tea set to the bridesmaid a necklace and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride where a dainty wedding breakfast awaited their arrival spread on tables prettily decorated with carnations. A large number of presents were received by the bride and groom testifying to their popularity. Mr. and Mrs. Madden left on the 11.45 G.T.R. train for Niagara and Buffalo and on returning will reside on Sherbrooke street.

Death Saved Him From The Assassin's Bomb

Revolutionists Saved From Assassinating Trepoff.

RUSSIA'S DICTATOR DIES

Constant Strain Due to Perpetual Fear of Death Caused His Mortal Illness, and Russia's Man of Blood and Iron Was Partial Victim of the Revolutionists—Escaped From Many Attempts on His Life.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 17.—Gen. Dmitri Feodorovich Trepoff, commandant of the imperial palace, died Saturday evening.

For several months he had been suffering from a heart affection, and asthmatic troubles, and sometime ago was forced to abandon a large amount of the routine work, included in his duties as commandant of the palace, but remained in office and was still in touch with the Emperor.

In Perpetual Fear of Death.

Gen. Trepoff's death was due to natural causes; but the revolutionists can at least claim partial responsibility for his end, as his illness was superinduced by the contant strain due to perpetual fear of death, which, with lack of exercise and recreation during the last two years, wore down his originally superb constitution. He had become so nervous of late that recently, when a military attache of a continental power was unexpectedly ushered into his room, Gen. Trepoff sprang to his feet and stood in an attitude of defence, but when he recognized the visitor he sank into his chair all unnerved.

His Death a Surprise.

The gravity of his malady was recognized, but his death came as a great surprise. He was able to be up and around to the very last.

Gen. Trepoff's death will not have any immediate influence on the policy of the Government, which, for the time being at least, is firmly in Premier Stolypin's hands.

Gen. Dedioulin, former prefect of St. Petersburg, will succeed the late Gen. Trepoff as commandant of the imperial palace.

A Despot by Inclination.

Gen. Trepoff was in many respects a remarkable man. He was a natural despot, a tyrant by inclination, education and conviction. He was one of those men who have constantly appeared, like evil geniuses, in Russian history just at the time when conditions were most promising for putting an end to despotism, turning the Russian rules from Liberalism back into paths of reaction. Trepoff was a police master.

Dimitri received his education in the swell page corps and followed his father's footsteps in the police department. He rose quickly, and, after acting as police master at various provincial towns, he attracted the attention of Sergius, then Governor-General of Moscow. Trepoff soon became Sergius' right-arm in fighting the revolutionary student agitation. He broke up the meetings of the liberal-minded students in the university with police, and in the streets with Cossacks, and had hundreds flogged and many of them sent into exile.

Trepoff's life was many times attempted, but he always escaped.

Dictator of Russia.

When the Grand Duke Sergius was assassinated he was named Governor-General of Moscow. The situation at the capital, calling for the strongest man in Russia, Trepoff was summoned to St. Petersburg and given the command of the Imperial Guard and made Governor-General of the city. He took up his residence in the winter palace, and became, in fact, if not in name, dictator of Russia. During the recent trying weeks his name was anathematized and plot after plot to kill him was discovered and frustrated.

I. C. R. ROBBED.

Accountant and Cashier Arrested For Embezzlement.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 17.—Stanley W. Fiddler, accountant, and Harry W. Roome, assistant cashier, employes of the I. C. R. freight department, were arrested Saturday night at the instance of District Superintendent Jarvis, on the charge of embezzling $1,200 from the I. C. R. freight department.

It is alleged that by collusion between the two men the thefts have extended over a period of 18 months without being discovered.

The preliminary examination will take place to-day.

Teamsters Get Increase.

London, Sept. 17—The striking teamsters returned to work on Saturday on the promise of the same rate of wages as the Toronto teamsters receive, namely, $44 a month. The Pere Marquette teamsters were informed that they would receive $45 a month, ten hours a day, and extra pay for overtime, and they also returned to work.

On Charge of Murder.

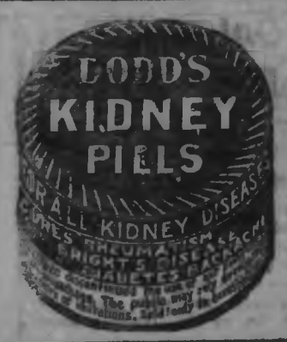
St. Thomas, Sept. 17.—At the Police Court Saturday morning, Mrs. Louisa Smith was arraigned on the charge of having murdered the new-born babe of her daughter, Lizzie Smith, in the Victoria Block. The aged prisoner, who was dressed in black, appeared very nervous in the box. The adjournment was made till Monday at 9.30 a.m.

Three Victims Buried.

New Hamburg, Sept. 17.—The funeral of three of the victims of the Canadian Pacific Railway disaster, near Sudbury, took place here on Saturday. The bodies left the homes of the victims at the same hour. They were Henry Herman, Wm. B. Puddicombe and Thomas B. Puddicombe.

Cloudburst Damages $100,000.

Jackson, Neb., Sept. 17.—Water from a cloudburst yesterday rushed down the Valley of Elk Creek, sweeping away hundreds of tons of hay, drowning hogs, flooding cellars, washing away railroad tracks and doing other damage aggregating $100,000. The wave of water in the creek, when it struck Jackson, was seven feet high.



DEATH OF MR. CARSCALLEN.

Representative of East Hamilton in Ontario Legislature Passes Away Peacefully on Sunday.

Hamilton, Sept. 17.—Henry Carscallen, K. C., the gifted representative of East Hamilton, and chairman of the private bills committee in the Ontario Legislature, died about 5.30 last evening.

His end was very peaceful. He had been unconscious since Thursday, and just slept away. Bright's Disease was the cause of his death.

The funeral will be held from his late residence, 99 Duke street, Wednesday afternoon at 3.30.

Sketch of His Life.

Mr. Carscallen was a native of Barton Township, where he was born, Aug. 14, 1845, his parents, of U. E. Loyalist descent, having come from Napanee to Wentworth County. Educated in Barton Township and Hamilton, he as a youth decided that he would take to the profession of law. At 23 he had passed his examination for solicitor, but was not called to the bar until 1875, when he became a member of the firm of Martin & Ferguson. On the retirement, shortly after, of Mr. Ferguson, he became a partner, associated, among others, with the present Judge Monck. The firm dissolved in 1881, and in 1882 Mr. Carscallen entered into association with E. D. Cahill. In 1890 he was made Q. C., and during his career, he was connected with many of the leading trials in city and county.

In public life Mr. Carscallen was also prominent. His terms in the city council were from 1879-80, 1884-5, 1890-1-2, 1897-8.

In 1898 he was elected as Conservative member of East Hamilton in the Legislature, when his majority over J. T. Middelton was 880. In 1892 he was re-elected over Dr. Griffin by 150, and in the last election in 1896, again defeated Dr. Griffin by 550.

In the Legislature he was regarded as one of the ablest debaters, and was chairman of the private bills committee.

Mr. Carscallen is survived by a widow and six sons. He was twice married—in 1886 to Emily Gurney, a daughter of the late Charles Gurney, of which marriage three sons survive, Oswald, Henry and George; and his second wife, a daughter of John Rodgers, with three sons, Hubert, Stanley and Arthur, are also left to mourn his demise.

Premier Say Public Loss.

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Premier Whitney was greatly shocked when apprised of the death of Mr. Carscallen, to whom he referred in high terms.

"I have noticed for a number of years, since he was in the Legislature, that Mr. Carscallen was a very capable member of the House, a man of great ability in his profession, who took an active part in the business of the House. Since the present Government came into power Mr. Carscallen was chairman of the private bills committee, and as such rendered great public service.

"I am sure that all members of the Legislature, without respect of party affiliation, will regret very much to hear of his death, which, I think, is a public loss, and that the members of the Legislature will so consider it. The sympathy of all will go to his widow and family."

John S. Dewar Is Dead.

London, Sept. 17.—John S. Dewar, for 45 years connected with the editorial staff of The London Free Press, died yesterday morning at his residence, aged 62 years. Mr. Dewar was one of the most prominent members of the Masonic order in Ontario, and was for 25 years on its grand lodge benevolent board.

Takes Dose of Poison.

Detroit, Sept. 17.—Despondency over the illness of his wife and financial matters led William J. Southall, aged 26 years, a capsule maker in Stearns laboratory, to commit suicide by taking a large dose of creosote. His body was found in a pit in the laboratory yard. Southall's family live near London, Ont.

Intervention By United States Is Not Relished

Apparently Feared By Cubans More Than Peace.

END TO ALL HOSTILITIES

Ordered by Latest Decree of President Palma—Emissaries of the Government Have Been Dispatched to Confer With Leading Insurgents to the End That Peace May Be Had Before Taft Arrives.

Havana, Sept. 17.—The Government last evening was making strenuous efforts to restore peace in Cuba, and thus avert any kind of American intervention.

The object of these endeavors, it is stated, is that it may be able to say by the time Secretary of War Taft and Acting Secretary of State Bacon arrive that peace already has been secured, and therefore there is no need for the American Government's intervention either to restore peace or insure permanent tranquility.

Palma's Latest Decree.

Yesterday afternoon, when an extraordinary Gazette was issued containing a decree signed by President Palma, on the recommendation of the Secretary of Public Works Montalvo. The decree follows:

"All campaign operations are suspended, and in consequence the Government forces will only act on the defensive throughout the republic. The Secretary of the Interior will issue all the necessary orders for the execution of this decree."

The decree caused great surprise, as it was believed to signify a change of heart by the Government officials who for the past two days have been strongly against taking up peace overtures with the emissaries of the revolutionists.

Confer With Rebels.

After the decree was issued Government emissaries were despatched in automobiles to confer with the revolutionists. Gen. Menocal, accompanied by Congressman Gobin and Garcia Vieta, the youngest son of Calixto Garcia, drove in the direction where Alfredo Zayas was encamped, with Sastillo's forces, not far from Santiago de las Vegas, and others went to Guanajay, which place yesterday afternoon was occupied by a big band of revolutionists under Congressman Campos Marquetti. The latter had Mayor Galles and the 200 volunteers defending the town cooped up in a carcel and surrounded by a swarm of insurgents when the peace emissaries arrived. Meanwhile Campos Marquetti was threatening to blow up the carcel with dynamite.

Elections Stand.

Gen. Freyre Andrade, when asked about the terms discussed at the conference with the revolutionists, said that the conferees only touched peace terms informally, but that one thing was certain, the Government would never agree to annul the constitutional elections, and that contention must be eliminated from the claims of the revolutionists.

Simultaneously with the issuance of the decree declaring a cessation of hostilities, the special judge in charge of the cases against the alleged conspirators in prison and prisoners recently captured, liberated 30 of the latter, against whom indictments had been issued.

Rebels Defeated.

Havana, Sept. 17—Government forces have won a victory over the rebels at a point close to Havana.

Gen. Rodrigues, with 400 rural guards, attacked the rebels under Gen. Del Castillo and Cols. Asbert and Acosta, 1,000 strong, at Wajay, 12 miles south of Havana. After a stubborn fight the rebels were dispersed. Eight of their number were killed and 23 wounded. Of the rural guards one was killed and 13 were wounded. Gen. Rodriguez returned to Havana Saturday morning. There is considerable speculation as to why the enemy was not pursued.

The revolutionists attacked the Town of San Domingo, in Santa Clara Province, at 5 o'clock Saturday morning, but were repulsed by the garrison of militiamen and rural guards. One guard, two militiamen and three of the revolutionists were killed. Five guards and one militiaman were wounded. One of the insurgents who was killed was Col. Notejo. The Government troops captured two prisoners and 60 horses and are now in pursuit of the retreating insurgents.

OBEYED THIS CAPTAIN.

Threatened to Shoot Men Attempting to Escape Wrecked Steamer Oregon.

Valdez, Alaska, Sept. 17.—Passengers and seamen of the steamer Oregon, which ran on the rocks at Hinchinbrook Island Thursday night took the life boats the morning after the steamship struck and were picked up several hours later by the lighthouse tender Columbine. The Columbine arrived at Valdez with the passengers and mail yesterday morning. The revenue cutters sent to the wreck have not returned.

The Oregon was three miles off her course east of Hinchinbrook and struck the rocks 50 yards from shore, where the bank is perpendicular. There was no chance to land. She slid off until she listed in a few feet of water, with several fathoms under the stern. She is hard and fast aground, filled with water to the second deck and will probably go to pieces in the first swell of the ocean.

The captain maintaind good discipline, and threatened to shoot men who wanted to get off in a life boat, after which his orders were obeyed without question, and all got off without accident.

The Oregon is an iron vessel of 1,650 tons net register. She was built at Chester, Pa., in 1878, and has had a checkered career.

Aground in the Pacific.

Midway Island, North Pacific Ocean, Sept. 17.—The Pacific mail steamship Mongolia, a sister ship of the Manchuria, is aground on Midway Reef. The ship is being lightered and her passengers are being landed safely. The weather is fine and the sea smooth.

The steamship Manchuria, which went ashore on Rabbit Island, Aug. 20, has been floated.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Peterborough Team Had Great Practice Saturday

Nearly Thirty Men Were Out in Uniform — Prospects for the Season are Very Bright—Some New Men.

The many enthusiasts who watched the first big practice of the Peterborough Seniors at Riverside Park on Saturday were delighted with the form displayed by the rugby boys. Nearly thirty men were out in uniform and considering it was the first time out, the ginger shown was amazing. Sides were chosen and the boys got right into the game at the start. Over an hour was spent in an impromptu game, after which the team practiced punting and catching the ball. Arthur Poe, the ex-Princeton quarter back was an interested spectator and will coach the team this fall. H. C. Hill, the former Montreal player injured his knee slightly in practice on Friday and was unable to be on hand Saturday. He will turn out this week, however.

Among those out in uniform were Capt. Hurtubise, Crowley, Meagher Regan, Dillon, Mulhern, Gillespie, Fitzgerald, Dickson, Hook, Collins, Latimer, Lundy, Downing, Dorris, Quinlan, Easton, Gilbert McGrath, Sisson, Todd, Sullivan, Hall.

The practice demonstrated the fact that with a good kicking centre half, Peterborough will have a team that will make the best of them glide some. It is hoped that Hill may be able to fill the position. Otherwise the team will be strong both on the wing line and on the back division.

NOTES.

Gillespie will be faster than ever this year. He made some beautiful long runs Saturday and kicked some, too.

Crowley's long runs were in evidence all through the practice.

Easton the diminutive Brockville player, should be an addition to the back division. He is very slippery and tackles well.

Hurtubise, Meagher, Dillon and Regan and the other wing men worked hard throughout the practice.

Fred. McGrath was on the wing line Saturday. His speed should make him invaluable at outside.

Percy Fitzgerald, of the Quakers, was tried out at centre half for one team and punted very well.

The practice was marked by the number of young players out, which again brings up the question "Why not a Junior Peterborough team?"

A Professional Hockey Team

Is Now Projected for the Telephone City.

The Brantford Expositor of Saturday said: The statement was made last night by a man prominent in local sporting circles, that if there was a hockey team in the city this winter it would be a professional one. An effort will be made to get the professional league, advocated last year, formed on a satisfactory basis. Brantford could put a fast team on the ice.

Executive Will Meet To-night

Several Important Matters to Come Up.

It is important that there should be a large attendance at to-night's meeting of the Executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club, as several important matters come up for discussion.

Among other things the election of a reprresentative to the O.R.F.U. meeting at Toronto, will have to be settled. Peterborough being a senior club, is entitled to a representative on the executive of the union.

All those interested in the formation of a city league, especially representatives of the various teams, are asked to be present as this question will also be dealt with to-night. The meeting is called for 8.30 o'clock at Mac's cigar store.

FOOTBALL

Interest in the R. R. Hall trophy, which is up for competition at the fair next week is increasing rapidly. It was first expected that only Bridgenorth and the Quakers would compete, but a third team, representing the construction party at the C. G. E. have signified their intention of entering and lovers of the game will see a couple of interesting matches.

The players from the C. G. E. works were out on Saturday and proved to be adepts at the game. They are mostly Englishmen and men who have played on prominent English teams.

• • • •

The Quakers will hold a practice on Wednesday night at Riverside at 6.30 o'clock.

Melrose Abbey Cheese Factory Destroyed By Fire

Loss Will Be Very Heavy—Situated Near Havelock—Slaughter House Burned at the Same Village—Supposed to be Work of a Fire Bug.

Within the past few days two fires, one of which has been most disastrous occurred near the village of Havelock. On Saturday noon fire mysteriously broke out in Melrose Abbey cheese factory about two miles from the village on the Norwood Road completely destroying it. The owner, Mr. Andrew Mathison was at the time having his dinner above the factory where he lives and before the conflagration was discovered the flames below had cut off all escape from descending the stairway. He was forced to make an exodus from the upstairs window by dropping to the ground.

With some assistance Mr. Mathison succeeded in getting a number of the cheese saved from the curing room but the greater number were burned together with everything else in connection with the factory. The loss although not yet estimated will be very great and it is understood, there is scarcely any insurance on the building.

The only supposition as to the origin of the fire is gained from the fact that a few minutes before a traction engine passed by. It is thought that a spark from it caught upon some inflammable substance on or near the factory. Mr. Mathison purchased the property from Mr. Jas. Craighead only a short time ago.

Slaughter House Burned.

On Friday night a slaughter house containing some animals belonging to Mr. James Watson, butcher, in Havelock, was burned. The building was situated a short distance to the east of the village on the property of Mr. Abraham Waller. The cause of this fire even appears to be more mysterious than that of the other and before long some interesting facts are promised to be disclosed as it was supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Leflay Has Found His Erring Wife in Welland

Discovered Pair in Buffalo and Had Children Taken Away From His Wife Who Refused to Come Back—Story That Proves "Truth is Stranger Than Fiction."

The flight of Jos. Dare with Ernest Leflay's wife and two children, will be remembered by Examiner readers. Leflay lived on Water street, opposite the market, and kept several boarders, among whom was Dare. Leflay had to go to the hospital suffering from rheumatism, and Dare took advantage of his absence to elope with Leflay's wife and children.

Leflay went to Buffalo soon after to look for them and it appears that his long search has been successful. Mr.. F. W. Miller, Water street, has received a letter from Leflay, narrating the story of his find. The discovery was made in a somewhat dramatic manner. Leflay found work in Buffalo, and wanted to join the Painters' Union. On entering the saloon where the meeting was to be held, he found Dare drinking. Slipping out of the side door he secured a patrol man and had Dare taken to the police station, where the authorities forced him to tell where Leflay's wife and children were. They proved to be living in Welland, as the following despatch from that place shows:

"Welland, Sept. 13th.. — A case of revolting sin and vice came up in the police court this morning before Magistrate Burgar. Emily Leflay, wife of William Leflay, pleaded guilty to the charge of living in open adultery with Joseph Dare, and said that she was to become a mother by cohabitation with Dare. All the parties come from Peterborough. A few months ago Mr. and Mrs. Leflay lived in that town, keeping four boarders. Leflay had to go to the hospital, being afflicted with rheumatism. A few days after that Mrs. Leflay eloped with Dare, coming to Welland with the two children. Here the two boarded as man and wife. When Leflay got out of the hospital, he was unable to find his family, and went to Buffalo. He has just succeeded in locating them, and the case to-day was the result.

"Magistrate Burgar knew nothing of Leflay's character, which is apparently good, he offering to take his erring wife back. The woman absolutely refused to leave the man she was living with. The Magistrate was therefore compelled to take the children from their parents, and place them in Mrs. Merriam's hands until they can be sent to a home in Toronto. The children are two pretty, blue-eyed, flaxen-haired little girls, Hilda, aged six years, and Ida, aged five, and when they were told that they had to part from their mother they sobbed and cried. The scene was a distressing one. The woman is absolutely shameless in her sin, and the man she is living with is dissipated."

Leflay's letter to Mr. Miller states that he will live in Welland until he has satisfied the Magistrate of his good character, when he will be given back his children. The letter says that he found his wife in a bad condition, owing a week's board, and looking very bad.

The queer part of the story is that Leflay was working at the Munro Hotel in Buffalo, next door to where Dare was boarding, and did not meet him until he accidentally ran across him as described above.

Dare is said to have a wife living in England. He is about 40 years of age and Leflay is 35, while Mrs. Leflay is about 27.

Timber Future In Western Canada

Mr. Wm. Irwin, Who Has Returned, Says Prospects Are Bright.

After a visit of some two months in British Columbia among the Rocky Mountains, Mr. Wm. Irwin and his daughter Miss Elizabeth, arrived home on Saturday evening delighted with their trip. They visited Victoria and Vancouver at the coast, but Mr. Irwin spent the greater part of his time on the timber limits of the Pacific Coast Lumber Company, a number of miles farther north and in which Company he is a shareholder.

Everything, he says, is in a most prosperous condition and that the lumbering business never looked brighter. He went over the Company's limits while there and found everything in a prosperous condition.

Mr. Irwin spent a good deal of his time in Kamloops and Yale on other business and reports everything lively through his whole itinerary.

No time was spent in stopping off this side the Rocky Mountains, but Mr. Irwin says that from reports everyone seems to be satisfied with their crops this season. Threshing is the order of the day among the farmers and this work is being diligently carried on throughout the three great wheat provinces.

Mr. Irwin enjoyed a most pleasant journey of business and pleasure in Canada's most western province, and from its present prospects he predicts a great future for it.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Toboggan Slide Will Be Enlarged

Jackson Park Attraction Will be More Popular Than Ever.

The winter pastime, tobogganning, introduced by the Radial Railway Co last season was so popular that it is likely that this winter will see the accommodation provided for the sport greatly increased. It is said that the slide will be enlarged by the addition of three more chutes, and that the sides will be built up all along the slide, so that there will be no danger of collisions towards the end of the slide, as was the case last season. More toboggans will necessarily have to be supplied.

These changes will be commenced early, so that the slide will be in good shape for the opening of the season. The sport promises to be more popular than ever this year.

Dr. Johnston Not This Horse's Owner

Miss Paisley is Not His Property and Never Was.

In Saturday's issue of the Examiner, a clipping was published from the Belleville Ontario, referring to the races at the fall fair in that city. The trotting horse, Miss Paisley, was mentioned, and it was stated that she was the property of Dr. Johnston, which is not the case, as this popular veterinary never owned the animal referred to. The Belleville paper had become mixed in its bearings somewhat.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 17.—The stock market advanced further to-day along specialty lines and vigorous pool manipulation, with an increase in outside interests and a good tone to the active list. The market is checked on too aggressive advances by the banking element because of the money conditions according to our information.

The rather monotonous advice of buying on reactions therefore seems to us the best to be reiterated.

Amal. Copper was very active, advancing three points while Anaconda shot up ten. Car Foundry became active and gained over two. This issue is just starting and should be picked up S. P. made a new high record. In the last hour the market reacted a point or so on profit-taking. The close was irregular.

Runaway On Saturday Night

A runaway on Saturday night on Crescent street made it rather interesting for a number of persons who happened to be on the road at the time. The horse was driven by Mr. Bertram Bennet to his home in Otonabee and was accompanied by Mr. Sydney Reid, also of Otonabee. Both were thrown out of the buggy but unfortunately escaped unhurt. The vehicle and harness sustained a number of injuries. The horse was captured on the other side of the Locks Bridge and a good samitan who happened along assisted in taking the young men, buggy and horse home.

Former Peterborough People Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Neithercut, of Dundalk, Enjoy 50 Years of Wedded Life—Lived in Otonabee Some Years Ago —Have Relatives in this City.

The Dundalk Herald gives an interesting account of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Neithercut, who are persons well known in Peterborough and in the county, having lived for many years in the Township of Otonabee, only a few miles from the city. Mr. Jos. Neithercut is a brother of Mrs. R. M. Matchett, Mark street, East City. The Herald says:

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos Neithercut, of Melancthon, near Dundalk, was the scene of a unique gathering on Wednesday, August 29, when their children, grand children and other relatives, to the number of about eighty, gathered to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day.

Mr. Neithercut was born in the County of Cavan, Ireland, and came to this country with his parents when seven years of age. His father, John Neithercut, settled in the Township of Otonabee, County of Peterborough, living there for many years. Here Mr. Neithercut met the maiden who was designed to become his wife, and fifty years ago was united in marriage to Jane Dunlap, daughter of John Dunlap, by Rev. Mr. Rogers, Presbyterian minister. They came to Melancthon in 1880 and undertook the pioneer work that was so necessary and urgent in those days. Eight children were born to them, all of whom are yet living and were present, leaving the circle still unbroken by death. They are John, of Chicago; Wm. Thomas, of Dundalk; Jos. A., at home; Richard Percy, on the old homestead; Mrs. Jos. Snader, of Melancthon; Mrs. John Oliver, of Chicago; Mrs. Henry A. Howitt, Alton; and Minnie, at home.

The proceedings were opened by Mr. T. Hanbury, who stated why the company were gathered together, and on behalf of those present congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Neithercut on living to enjoy health and strength on the occasion of their golden wedding.

Miss Edna, daughter of Richard H. Neithercut then read an address of congratulation from the friends of the aged couple, stating the high esteem in which they are held in the community.

This was followed by presentation of the gold offerings, the gold pieces ranging from five dollars up to twenty.

Mrs. Oliver here read the following letter from her friend, Mrs Edwad Roby, Chicago, who, on hearing the purpose which took them back to th eold home, wrote the letter and sent a five dollar gold piece:—

To Mr. and Mrs. Neithercut,—

We here in the United States so appreciate the goodness of your children that as a representative of our dear country write to greet you on your golden wedding. You have sent us golden children. I know Mrs. Oliver, the best, but my love goes out to her and her good husband for their unselfish devotion to all that helps humanity.

Very sincerely,
Mrs. Edward Roby.

Mrs. Roby is prominent in church work in South Chicago, and is founder and president of an association known as the Ladies' Grand Army Republic which has for its object State Sovereignty and National Union.

Mr. Neithercut was brief in his reply, merely thanking those gathered for the honour done him and his aged partner in life. He was aware that some very near and dear were present who would in all human probability never see them again, and this was the only thing that marred their happiness. The letter from Mrs. Roby was very much appreciated, and convinced him that his children whether at home or abroad were a credit to their parents, none yet having done anything to cause the blush of shame.

Harry Palmer arrived with his camera and took photos of the parents and children alone, and then of the parents and children, wives and husbands and grandchildren, and also of the whole group.

The company then sat down to supper, after which the evening was spent in social enjoyment. The Dundalk Citizens' Silver Band drove out and rendered a choice programme of music. The gathering broke up with music by the young people, Miss Mitchell presiding at the organ.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Neithercut are enjoying good health, and the Herald joins with many in best wishes and many years yet of happiness and blessing.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE ARRIVAL OF KITTY.

"Kitty" arrived on schedule time Saturday and delighted two big audiences. For the benefit of those who did not see the young lady with the feline name, it might be stated that "Kitty" is the leading figure in the hilarious comedy that appeared at the Grand on Saturday.

As a fun-maker, the "Arrival of Kitty" left nothing to be desired. Even before "Kitty" did arrive there was fun. In fact, fun was the keynote of the whole performance. It was clever fun, too, not merely three acts of horseplay, as is usually the case with farce comedies. From the first curtain ring-up the audience was kept in laughter, which was almost hysterical as the situations got more and more complex.

The play centres around the love affair of Jane, a winsome young girl, cleverly portrayed by Miss Gladys Arnold. A gay, young college student is in love with Jane, but her uncle, Col. Bell, wants her to marry Benjamin Moore, a retired attorney-at-law. Col. Bell is himself in love with Kitty Bondero, a vaudeville artist, and is very much afraid of this fact reaching his sister, Aunt Jane, an old maid with a view to matrimony, and an entire willingness to accept anything in the shape of a man.

"Billy" Brown impersonates "Kitty," and from the minute of his arrival in that character there are humourous situations galore. To make matters worse, the real Kitty arrives on the scene, and, as the melodrama villain says, "the plot thickens." Col. Bell is almost frantic, and Benjamin Moore falls in love with the pseudo Kitty. Everything is happily cleared up eventually. Jane gets her college student, Col. Bell has Kitty, and Aunt Jane is relieved from her fears of "drifting into spinsterhood unwooed, unloved, and unwed," by the attorney's promise to marry her.

All the characters were cleverly portrayed. The work of Hal. Johnston in the dual role of the college student, and the imitation Kitty, is worthy of special mention. Eveleen Dunsmore, as the real Kitty, is a pretty, sprightly damsel, whose acting was deliciously clever.

There was plenty of music to add variety, although there was no variety needed. Miss Dunsmore showed herself to be the possessor of a powerful soprano voice, which was displayed to good advantage in the song, "Cressema." The duet, "I Like Your Way," by Mr. Johnston and Miss Arnold, was a dainty little number that made a hit. The dancing by Mark Lane as Col. Bell, and Miss Brandscombe as Suzette, was very clever.

Altogether, the "Arrival of Kitty" is the kind of show you would want to see after you have heard that your mother-in-law is coming for a visit. Fun pure and simple follow in the wake of Kitty, and no better comedy of the lighter class has been seen here in years.

THE SHADOW BEHIND THE THRONE

Sparkling in humour, thrilling in situations, picturesque in atmosphere, magnificent in rich Oriental scenic settings, and pervaded with a delicate romance of heart interest, the great melodrama masterpiece, "The Shadow Behind the Throne," which will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Friday, September 21st, will be without doubt one of the strongest theatrical attractions of the local season, and one that will leave an impression that will make it welcome should it return this season or next. It is Oriental in atmosphere, as the scenes are laid in Pekin, China, at the time of the famous Boxer troubles, and the love story is that of a beautiful young daughter of the American Minister, and a young attache of her father's legation. The thrilling situations developed by the rapid action of the play, and the wholesome comedy, help to make this piece doubly popular.

It has been pronounced by the public and the press alike to be the best melodrama in many many years. It has the rare thing in melodrama, literary merit. The authors, Alicia Ramsay and Rudolph De Cordova, are two young Americans, who have already more than won their play writing spurs, by their many successes and enjoy international reputations for their newspaper, magazine and other literary work. They have written in "The Shadow Behind the Throne," a play that will live in the pleasant memory of theatre-goers long after the average melodrama has been forgotten.

Probability of About 50 Pair Being Shown.

It is probable that some of the local poultry fanciers will go to Lindsay fair this week with their birds. One of the leading poultry breeders in the city told the Examiner to-day that it was quite probable that about 50 pairs of chickens would be sent from this city by the breeders here, and he expressed himself as confident that some prize money would find its way back to Peterborough.

Banks Here Report Plenty Of Coppers

But in Toronto, Brantford and Other Cities the Banking Institutions Have Trouble to Get Enough—Hard to Tell Where They All Go To—Government Coffers Refuse to Yield Up Pennies Demanded.

There is in a number of banking institutions in the province, a marked scarcity of that commodity known as coppers.

In Peterborough banks, however, there does not seem to be the same difficulty experienced. A canvass of the local banks reveals the fact that there is an abundance of the coins in this city. In this respect they are more fortunate than the banks in Brantford and Toronto, as the following from the Brantford Expositor will show:

"That most common of all, and yet perhaps the most sought after of all money pieces, the copper, is getting to be a scarce article.

"The banks are suffering a regular copper famine. They cannot keep enough of them in stock to make the change for their customers and patrons.

"Pretty soon, if things go on as at present, it will be impossible to get coppers for love or money. People will have to be satisfied with nickels, dimes, quarters and dollar bills.

"The shortage in the supply has been very noticeable recently in Brantford. The banks have been unable to keep the "dough discs" in stock. At first each bank thought that they had just happened to run short, but when they tried to borrow from each other they found that the shortage was general.

"Application was made to Toronto for a replenishment of the coffers, but the reply was in the negative. The Toronto banks were short, too.

"As a court of last appeal, the Assistant Receiver General at Ottawa was appealed to this week by local banking institutions. But even the coffers of the Government were unable to offer any relief, and no response has been received.

"It is hard to say what has caused the shortage. A large number are lost of course every year, but people are too saving and canny on the whole to get rid of enough in that way to diminish the supply. Thousands are lost and an equal number are damaged and destroyed. As copper swallowing is not a common failing either, it is hard to see where the sous are vanishing to."

Methodists Adhere To The Itinerant System

Committee at General Conference Reports in Favour of Retaining It—Many Other Important Matters Taken up by the Conference.

A despatch from Montreal to-day referring to the work of the General Conference of the Methodist church, says:

The proceedings at the various committees of the Methodist General Conference this morning were of a very important character, calculated to have a far-reaching effect on the legislation of the church. The Committee on Itinerancy decided by a two-fifths majority not to interfere with the present pastoral term, and it is expected that this will be ratified by the General Conference, so many prominent leaders being opposed to any interference with the arrangements which have come to be recognized as an integral part of the Methodist church. The committee on Sabbath schools and Epworth Leagues took a drastic step forward and recommended the appointment of two associate secretaries, one of whom will operate west of the Great Lakes and the other in Eastern Canada, the general secretary to have a roving commission. The Committee on Social and Moral Reform, reaffirmed the position taken up at previous conferences that it was the duty of the civic governments to take steps to prohibit the sale of intoxicants.

Term not Changed.

The Committee on Itinerancy and Transfer of which Rev. J. W. Sparling is chairman, and Rev. J. E. Hockey is secretary, has reported against any change in the present system. The original resolution that there be non-concurrence in the matter of extending the pastoral period was agreed to by a two thirds majority, but it is likely that the whole question will come up for discussion by the General Conference during the next few days.

A COLLEGE PROFESSOR WITH A LEVEL HEAD

Stanford University, Calif., Sept. 16.—Commencement exercises of Leland Stanford, Junior, University were held last night. The commencement address, delivered by Benj. Ide Wheeler, President of the University of California, was on philology. He said:—

"The establishment for the United States of a standard of written English different from that recognized elsewhere in the English-speaking territory is an isolating and decisive movement promising loss and waste to intercourse and culture, introducing consciousness of contrariety where the opposition is desired.

"The English language is not the property of the people of the United States still less of its Government; it is a precious possession of the English-speaking world, and the moral authority to interfere in its regulation must arise out of the entire body, and not from a segment thereof.

"Any radical change, such as, for instance, would be involved in phonetic writing, would have the effect of cutting us off from the language of Shakespeare and the English Bible, making this a semi-foreign idiom to be acquired by special study.

"The proposal gradually to introduce, through the co-operation of volunteers, a certain number of new spellings, and then when these are well under way, presumably certain others, seems to promise an era of ghastly confusion in printing offices and in private orthography and heterography, as well as much irritation to readers' eyes and spirits.

"The list of 300 words proposed by the simplified spelling board is also a somewhat haphazard collection, following no very clear principle of selection, and 157 of them, such as 'color' for colour, already, in their docked form, are familiar to American usage. There is no excuse, however, for 'thru' for 'through' from any point of view."

A CATHOLIC AUTHORESS HONOURED IN DEATH

Old country papers to hand give the following reference to the late Mrs. Craigie:—

Mrs. Pearl Mary Teresa Craigie, (John Oliver Hobbes,) the authoress and dramatist, died in her sleep this morning of heart failure. Her death was totally unexpected, she having been apparently perfectly well when she retired last night. Mrs. Craigie had been spending a fortnight at her home, Steephill Castle, Ventnor, Isle of Wight, which she left Sunday afternoon to keep an engagement in London. She was 39 years of age.

Mrs. Craigie's body was conveyed, three days after death, from the late author's home to the Jesuit church in Farm street, where it was received by Father Galton, superior of the church. At the entrance to the church a procession was formed of the officiating priests, acolytes, and all the members of Mrs. Craigie's families and during the recital of the Psalm De Profundis, the coffin was borne to the catafalque near the high altar which was covered with a purple pall trimmed with gold. Later a large wreath was placed upon the casket. It bears the inscription—"Ave Atque Vale," from the Sphinx Club, of London, with deep regrets."

The members of the family remained for some time in silent prayer. A choral requiem will be sung to-day before the interment.

Messages of condolence were received by the parents of Mrs. Craigie from the Princess of Wales, Lord Curzon of Keddlestone, American Ambassador Reid, and former Ambassador Choate.

Mrs. Craigie was a native of Boston, Mass., her father being John Morgan Richards. She was married when nineteen years of age to Reginald Wulpole Craigie, by whom she had one son, now sixteen years of age. Though of Protestant parentage, Mrs. Craigie joined the Catholic Church in 1892. Her interest in the land of her birth continued throughout her life, and she made several visits to the United States after her marriage, the last one being in November of last year, when she lectured on literary subjects. After her return to England she lectured there on "American Worship of Wealth."

THE ANT

Facts About One of Natures Most Industrious Creatures.

When spring comes with all its wealth of opening buds and new flowers, the ant is preparing for a season of profitable industry.

It comes out of its winter quarters and locates a new home where it can store away, during the summer months, the sustenance for the long winter days.

Just as industrious as the ant — but in a different way — are the countless, infinitesimal germs, which burrow into the scalp and eat away at the roots of the hair.

As they burrow away, dandruff forms, and if the germs are not all killed, baldness results.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known remedy which kills the germs.

The Joys of Travel On The Slowest Railroad on Earth

The vicissitudes of a trip over the Inter-Oceanic Railway are numerous and harrowing, says a writer in the New Orleans Times-Democrat, dating his letter from San Pedro, Sulu, Honduras, which he reached after a journey of 37 miles in 18 hours.

Our leaving time was six o'clock, out of Puerto Cortes, until ten in the morning. The nondescript affair which they call a train down here, consisted of a wood-burning engine, four flat cars and a passenger coach. Our crew was composed of an engineer, a half dozen firemen, one brakeman, and the conductor.

There was an extra man, but in the whole vocabulary of railroads, I find no name for him. His position, however, was a commanding one, as subsequent events proved, the most important one. He perched himself on the front of the engine above where the cowcatcher should be, and upon occasion judiciously ladled sand from a box beside him to the rails in front.

Our numerous firemen passed the wood from the cars to the engine, and at various points along the road, turned into a bucket brigade, and supplied water from near-by creeks to the engine. The engineer was a Jamaican, imbued with an extraordinary pride for the land of his nativity, and given upon occasion to declaring that he was not a native of Hondurus—he was a British "object. He invariably announced our approach to a village by putting the hard pedal on the whistle, and the entire population turned out to greet us.

Jerry's strenuous musical efforts came near causing a catastrophe at one point where we encountered a very heavy grade. Just before we reached the top of the hill Jerry thoughtlessly pulled the whistle cord, and in the screaming blast which followed the steam gave out, and the train began to slip back. Although the cars were without brakes of any kind, the company had prepared for such emergency, by providing a mahogany log on the rear platform, to be dropped under the rear wheels. Unfortunately the rear brakeman was asleep on a flat car in front, and before he awakened the momentum of the train was so great as to render our remedy unavailing. We ran so fast and so far in the next fifteen minutes that it took us four hours to get back.

At Laguna a stop of 40 minutes to replenish sand and water afforded opportunity to take note of our surroundings and our fellow passengers. The latter were mostly natives and not over-clean. They were nice and sociable and fraternized with me without being coaxed. My neighbour on the right was a senora of unguessable age, with a complexion of antique oak. She took pity on my tender years and inexperience, and languished a bunch of lingo on me and drove out of my head in the first round all of my carefully prepared vocabulary.

Spanish failing me, in a pinch, I resorted to the sign manual, and we got along fairly well. Somewhere midstream in the torrent of language which she directed at me I detected a familiar phrase, and gallantly offered her a cigar. The expansive smile which greeted my donation proved my interpretation to have been correct.

Wandering around the village I was struck by a neat and attractive little cottage which invited closer inspection. It was enclosed by a board fence, an unusual feature here. As I drew near I noticed that the fence was made of mahogany boards. With the extreme good taste which is so characteristic of the natives, the owner had carefully whitewashed it.

Leaving Laguna the train plunged into a tropical swamp and forest. The foliage was indescribably beautiful and luxuriant. Mile after mile we passed through archways of bending palms, gigantic in size, and through groves of cocoso trees. To my mind the latter is the most perfect representative of the picturesque in tropical vegetation. Its trunk is clad in the richest attire of parasitic life; its wonderful feathery leaves, over 30 to 40 feet in length, bend in elegant and graceful curves unundor the weight of their own luxuriance, or the burden of ornamental vines while beneath all this mass of tropical richness may be seen clusters of those delicious cahorn nuts hanging like immense cornucopias and containing two or more bushels.

For a distance we passed beside a deep, swift stream, which flowed for miles through a wild jungle, in the eternal shadow of the gigantic ceiba, cedar and rubber tree, between whose moss and vine clad trunks grow palm trees of every description. Nature, all-giving and bountiful, is here revealed. Precious woods are so common that rosewood is often used for telegraph poles, and the tires are of mahogany.

Emerging from the jungle we came to the banana plantation, and here I learned that this remarkable railway transports to the steamers 60 per cent of the bananas which enter New Orleans. Practically all of the bananas consumed west of the Ohio river, are carried on this railway to the seacoast.

Parnell Was A Sort Of Sherlock Holmes

Had Love for Detective Work, Even if He Lacked Talent of Doyle's Hero; a Chemical Fad, Too, Like Dr. Watson's Friend.

London, Sept. 15.—Henry Labouchere, in Truth, referring to the fact that he has recently been reading Sir Robert Anderson's "Sidelights on the Home Rule Movement," mentions an interesting incident in connection with the Parnell commission, which throws a new light on the famous Irish leader.

Mr. Labouchere relates how, when he brought Parnell and Pigott together and the latter told his tale. Parnell said to the forger, "Was O'Shea in it?" Mr. Labouchere proceeds:

"After Pigott had left, he said to me: 'I am sure that Pigott is lying, and we shall get into a mess if we defend the case on the ground that he wrote the letter.'

"In vain I pointed to the evidence, irrespective of the confession, that Pigott had forged the facsimile letters, and that they and his own two letters had been obtained from Pigott by Houston. To such an extent did this fixed idea carry him that he once day explained that O'Shea had been seen in some pothouse near the Seven Dials some months before, and that spies should be put on to watch the house after midnight.

"As no one could see the necessity of this, he disguised himself, and for a week hung around the door of the house for an hour or two after midnight. He had not a vestige of evidence that O'Shea had anything to do with the forgeries, and I am convinced that he had not. But when asked for some reasonable ground for his suspicion, he only replied, 'I am certain of it.'"

Mention is made by the writer of the fact that both before and during the commission, Parnell kept his address a secret from all. Mr. Labouchere found it out in a curious way. One of the counsel engaged in the case, supposing that he knew it, asked how he (Mr. Labouchere) thought that they had discovered it.

"He went on to tell me," says the ex-M.P., "that a great deal of smoke was often seen to proceed from the chimney of a certain small house in the neighborhood, and some one was occasionally seen mysteriously entering and leaving the house. In vain the rate-collector rang. No one answered, and consequently application had been made to the owner to learn the name of the tenant, who turned out to be Parnell.

"He was fond of chemistry in connection with metallurgy, and there he lived, and worked as a laboratory. Once it was necessary that certain of his leading followers should see him. They sent a letter to a person likely to know, and requested that it should be forwarded to him. In a few days a reply was sent from him from a house, and suggesting that they should call on him the next day. When they did they found him apparently living there. But on returning two days later, the landlady said that the gentleman (I forgot under what name he was passing) had taken apartments for a week, and had come there early on the day upon which they had called, and had not been seen there since.

"Frequently he would call on me very late, for I generally go very late to bed. Guessing who it was, I would open the door, and he would remain there some time, then put on a sort of ulster, a slouch hat on his head, and walk off with a black bag in his hand. I remember on one occasion suggesting to him that he would do well to keep clear of the scene of Jack the Ripper's exploits, as otherwise he would certainly be arrested on suspicion."

Ghost Told Him His Fiancee Had Gone Mad

A Parrot's Monologue Gave Camper at Dead of Night a Bad Scare—Turned Out to be a Bluff Though.

Jackson, N. H., Sept. 15.—A "supernatural" warning that his sweetheart had died and was about to be buried so unnerved a youth from Brookline, Mass., the other day that although he found he had been the victim of an odd and unwitting hoax he gave up a trip to Mount Washington and went home.

T. Archibald Swanson was the young man who got the scare. In company with Jersey Patterson he set out from home two weeks ago on a pedestrian tour, the objective point of which was Mount Washington. Shortly before leaving Brookline he became engaged to Miss Patty Arnell, a pretty miss of nineteen, whom he had known since childhood, and upon whom his parents looked with favour. At Glen, a few miles south of here, young Swanson applied at the post-office for his usual daily letter, and failing to receive it, began to worry.

That night camp was made in the woods between Glen and Jackson and Swanson declared that if he didn't receive some word from his sweetheart in the morning she should stay over a day and wire. His worry greatly increased because Miss Patty was down with a mild attack of the measles, which had developed shortly after he left Brookline.

So worried, in fact, was Swanson that he couldn't sleep, and after tossing about on his blankets until nearly midnight he aroused Patterson, and together they sat without the little conical tent the one brooding and the other trying to act cheerful enough for two. It was a dark, still night, with the stars shining dimly, and when, during a pause in the faltering conversation, a voice from the sky crooned the word "Hello!" both young men nearly jumped out of their skins.

Searching the heavens with frightened eyes they made out nothing, and were thinking that the voice emanated in their overwrought imaginations, when something over them distinctly said:—

"She's dead; they're going to have a funeral!"

That was enough for Swanson. There was but one "she" in his world of thought and that was Miss Patty. for an instant he turned pale and shivered; then he gathered his nerve and dived into the tent.

"I'm going home, and I'm going now," he told Patterson. "You pack up and come to-morrow."

The young man got into his travelling clothes as rapidly as he could and the two were soon hurrying down the road, Patterson agreeing to go as far as Glen. The first train didn't leave for hours and the distance was short. But still they hurried, stumbling along in the darkness. They hadn't gone far before it was seen that faster progress could be made by the aid of a lantern, and they stopped at the first farm house to borrow one. The aroused inmate saw that something was wrong and he questioned the pedestrians closely. When he got at the facts his face broke into a wide, good-natured grin.

"Say, young feller, you don't wan' to get so scared," he laughed. "That 'ere ghost was the old woman's parrot, Polly. What she hollered was all she knows, and I guess your young lady hain't kicked the bucket yet. The ol' fool cuss learned that when grandma died, and she hain't never learned nuthin' sence. Guess I'll hafter keep her in nights if she's goin' round scarin' strangers most to death."

Swanson was pretty well convinced when the farmer whistled and brought in Polly, who repeated her sally, but the scare hadn't left him and he insisted on going home. At North Conway he received an answer to a telegram sent from Glen, but still he kept on, arriving at Brookline that night in time to call on Miss Patty and find her convalescing.

Snake Lives In Boy's Stomach

Drank From a Spring and Swallowed Reptile.

Examiner Special.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 17. — The mother of Harry Schwaegerle believes that he has a snake in his stomach and physicians who have examined the boy say that such a thing is possible. So firm is the mother in the belief that her son has a snake in his stomach that she has asked the physicians to perform an operation on the young man.

Harry is now 19 years old and up to the time he was 12 years old he was a perfectly normal child in mind and body. Since that time he has become dwarfed and has shown constantly decreasing mental strength. His mother says that when he was 12 years old the boy went blackberry hunting with several companions. They drank from a spring. None of the other children showed any bad effects from the water, but Harry became violently ill returning home, he had several spasms. Doctors have been unable since then to give him relief and for the past seven years he has had several spasms a week.

Rats as Incendaries Are The Cause of Mysterious Fires

Many fires, the origin of which are ascribed to "unknown causes," are caused by rats. Especially is this the case where they can have access to the common friction match; for, strange to say, they are exceedingly fond of nibbling at the phosphorous on the ends. This fact is amply proved by a number of cases; a recent one, vouched for by an eye-witness is as follows: Some workmen, who had been repairing a gas pipe, left some broken but unexploded matches upon the floor; soon after they left, a rat came out of his hole, and finding one of the matches, commenced to nibble at the sulphur end; in a moment there was a flash, and a lighted match was burning on the floor, which had it not been immediately extinguished, might have created another fire from "cause unknown."

They will also carry matches to their nests, where they have been found in numerous well authenticated instances. One instance was where, on the removal of the floor of a stable, several nests were found, made up of straw and other easily inflammable material, in quantities sufficient to set fire to surrounding woodwork, in which were several matches. Another similar case was where a dwelling-house floor had been taken up to repair steam-heating pipes, a rat's nest was there found with several matches in it, evidently obtained from an open match "safe" in the room below. In both of the cases, of course, the matches had not been exploded, for had they been, they would never have been found, and the verdict of the burning would have been "cause unknown," in the first case, and "steam pipes" in the other.

In view of this predilection of rats for matches, it is but the exercise of ordinary prudence on the part of match users to put them in closed boxes, or have them otherwise beyond the reach of these hungry rodents.

TABLE DECORATIONS.

Rose Favorite Flower Scheme For July Dinners.

e rose provides at this time of the favorite table decoration, and by year some new variety or some rovement on one of the already ex- g varieties makes its appearance for a time is sure of a welcome.

e design seen in the illustration of decoration shows the queen of ers to admirable perfection. Sur- ding the candelabrum in the cen- of the table, four graceful arches ed of green wire frames are deft- ranged, intwined with fine smilax nds, two of the foliage arches be- ing somewhat smaller than their fel- lows. liage than their own fine leaves, among which are introduced some of those sweet rosy tinted young shoots of fo- liage. Arches of exactly similar na- ture, but of slightly smaller dimen- sions in proportion, are placed around the single candlesticks on each side of the central decoration, while very full trails of smilax appear through the arches and surrounding the base of the lights, being arranged in conventional artistic scrolls upon the tablecloth. The dainty finger bowls, each shaped like a full blown rose of the most del- icate pink shade, contain floating in the water a tiny rosebud and a few petals of roses similar to those on the table. One of the charms of this par- ticular decoration lies in the fact of its being entirely innocent of wiring. Not a wire is used to keep the roses in position, and all who have experienced the tedious but hitherto necessary pre- liminaries of wiring roses will appre- ciate this point. Another charm in connection with this scheme is that every flower is in water. The secret, a very simple one, is that a new and ingenious little receptacle is used at the base of the foliage arches, which, only about an inch in depth, is so con- trived that it not only keeps the stalks of the flowers firmly in their place, holding the blossoms well up, but at the same time allows the flowers the untold advantage of being in water the whole time.

The character of this rose scheme is maintained throughout in the dainty accessories, candle shades, menu and guest cards and dessert doilies, all rep- resenting in one form and another the same flower.

FASHIONS IN BRIEF.

Elbow Sleeves to "Go" In the Fall. For the Girl Who A-fishing Goes.

During the hot weather there is no evidence of the elbow sleeve abating in popularity, but there are rumors of radical changes coming early in the autumn. The moderately full elbow sleeve which narrows toward the el- bow to meet the glove and fitting the arm closely gives the same silhouette of the long sleeve and finds favor with women of all classes.

A girl went fishing the other day in what is called a trout suit, though it is doubtful if she caught a fish of that persuasion. The material was a silver gray novelty lightly spotted to imitate trout. Her hat was trimmed with a spotted veil with long ends that flew windward toward the back. Her gloves were of long, dark gray silk, and her girdle was of dark gray silk.

Tucks are favorite skirt decora- tions. In groups of three or more they trim a great many gowns in soft mate- rials, and also many tub gowns.

The tailored shirt waist grows more and more liked as a relief from the cheap lingerie affairs one sees worn on every hand.

The simple grace of the princess dress renders it very appropriate for young girls. It is more satisfactory when carried out in some of the heav- ier materials, such as voile, linen and serge.

In Paris women are wearing tiny toques for restaurant, roof garden and like places of amusement on summer evenings. Nothing could be prettier than one of these big jet bows at- tached to a fluffy bit of black tulle or a white aigret which stands up partly against a bow of dainty ribbon. Then there are the coronet effects, which are extremely chic and pretty and to a blond woman particularly be- coming.

The charming bodice illustrated is of mauve dotted mull. It is laid in pin tucks and inset in three lines with motifs of crochet lace, through which wide mauve ribbons are run. The sleeves are carried out in the same manner.

FASHION FANCIES.

Ballroom Slippers of Irish Lace. White Enameled Watches.

Slippers of Irish lace are the latest ballroom fad. They are mounted over gold or silver tissue, which is plainly visible through the interstices of the pattern and glistens and gleams with every movement of the wearer. Tiny bows of flat gold or silver ribbon are used to ornament these dainty shoes, the binding as well as the heels being of tissue to correspond.

For the summer girl gowned in white is an exquisite little watch of finest white enamel, with a chatelaine pin to match. Both are beautifully overlaid with gold filigree.

Some of the midsummer stockings are stunning. They are embroidered and built upon openwork designs and match the costume. This makes them very interesting from a woman's point of view, for they give her certain op- portunities in dress which she did not have before. And the same with her shoes, which come in all colors. She can get them in kid, in patent leather, in suede, in linen and in cloth.

Girdles of soft "pully" ribbon are often made on a rather high founda- tion, two or three widths sewed to- gether and draped on, the folds pulled close. By way of trimming other bits of ribbon are pulled and twisted into the semblance of some flower and set on rosette fashion.

There is a stunning shirt, as plain as a pipestem, which has a rounded, shal- low yoke stretching clear across the shoulders almost on to the sleeves. Yoke and body of the shirt are joined by a narrow beading of embroidery, and there you are.

Gray voile makes the pretty costume pictured. The skirt is arranged in graduated tucks between an entre deux of Irish lace. The bolero jacket is plaited and snugly fitted to the fig- ure. A touch of color is added by way of cerise satin loops held in place with silver buttons. The girdle is also of this vivid tone.

Dishwashing a Pleasure.

Do not get discouraged about having to wash dishes 365 days in the year. Dishes must be washed, and of all the many duties that fall to woman's lot this seems to be the most disliked. But there is an ideal way.

The chief things required to make it a pleasure are care, order, plenty of good hot water and a stack of dry tea towels, two dishcloths and a large enameled bowl. The dishes, when re- moved from the table, must have each of its kind put together. Put all the cooking utensils on the range and fill them with water until the time comes to clean them.

Have a receptacle in which to place all the scraps that come from the dishes, plates, etc. The most impor- tant thing is to have plenty of hot water—not merely warm, but hot—and use some good soap in the water to make your suds. It cleans the greasy meat dishes and plates twice as quick- ly. Have your mops with handles for deep mouthed jugs and have nice dish- cloths made of cheesecloth.

Begin with the glassware and next china and fellow with spoons, forks, knives, etc. Never use a wet towel.

A Year Long Present.

Three girls have hit on a novel re- membrance for a mutual friend who was miles away from her "ain coun- tree."

They made twelve envelopes varying in size and labeled each with the name of the month. They then each took four envelopes and proceeded to put some appropriate little gifts into them, choosing small flat articles and also writing an affectionate little message to the loved one. The January envel- ope contained a calendar, and in oth- ers were ribbons, needlework, book- marks, handkerchiefs, etc. One envel- ope, the June one, contained a sachet redolent of roses to make the whole array sweet. And when all the en- velopes were ready they were labeled, "Not to be opened until the first day of —" (whatever the month was), and then they were all put inside the lar- gest envelope, which represented the month on which the gift was received first.

These girls had no end of fun plan- ning and arranging the big parcel, and they enjoyed the monthly letter which told them the surprise and pleasure each new gift occasioned.

mange, or snow pudding, served with black or red raspberries and sweet cream.

Paper Handkerchiefs.

"The paper handkerchief, unlike the paper collar, is here to stay," said a physician. "It has a good reason for remaining, and that is what the paper collar never had.

"The paper handkerchief comes to us from Japan, where for centuries it has been in use. It is soft and thick and strong, and it looks like silk. It costs a cent—less than the cost of laundering a linen handkerchief.

"The linen handkerchief, physicians agree, is the most dangerous article in the human wardrobe. It swarms with billions of germs of consumption and grip and pneumonia, and hence, instead of being laundered, it should be de- stroyed. But it can't be destroyed; it is too expensive.

"The paper handkerchief is destroy- ed. It is thrown into the fire.

"The rarity of consumption in Japan is attributed, with some show of jus- tice, to the exclusive use of paper handkerchiefs by the Japanese."

Parental Solicitude.

LE DESSOUS.

Dainty Bits of Lingerie For the Smart Girl's Wardrobe.

One of the new empire designs in nightdresses is shown in the illustra- tion. It is made with a small square yoke, both front and back, which is arranged to fasten over on the left side of the front. Into this the material is set in gathers or tucks, while a touch of novelty is given in the pretty empire bolero which surmounts it.

The corset cover is an extremely pret- ty model, fullness over the bust being allowed for by clusters of tucks taken in, in the shape of darts. These also shape the cover at the waist line. Tiny tucks at the top are separated by short pieces of insertion. Lace beading fin- ishes the neck and sleeves.

An exquisite set of underwear made for a summer bride was of the sheerest, finest cream colored silk trimmed with duchess lace—a royal set of lingerie, to be sure, but nothing too good for an American princess.

Being Square With The World

If You Would Give and Get Full Value Here's A Suggestion.

Are you getting full value out of life? And is the world getting full value out of you? In matters of busi- ness and in our relations, man to man, we owe it to ourselves and to the world to do our best,—to make our- selves of full value. Do this and, in turn, you will get full value out of life.

You can't do full justice to anything unless you feel right. And you can't feel right unless you live right. Eat- ing right is essential to living right.

Eat the right kind of food and you will not suffer. The right kind of food for you and your family, the weak and the strong, the sick and the well, the grown folks and the little folks, is Malta-Vita, that delicious, crisp, whole- wheat food.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita, and it's just as good three times a day. Being a pure grain product, without any foreign sweetening agent or other adultera- tive, Malta-Vita is rich in food ele- ments—every nutritious element of the best white wheat and pure barley malt extract—intensely vitalizing.

Try Malta-Vita with cream or fruit. There is no other food "just as good." None that can take its place. And it's always ready to eat. No cooking. No inconvenience. All grocers, now 10 cents.

Peterboro' Examiner, Sept. 18

These two ailments often accompany each other. When bile gets into the stomach it causes nausea. When in this state, if you get heated, you may turn sick. If you hurry—say to catch a street railway car—sick again. When you walk quickly, dizzi- ness may overcome you. You may imagine you could relish food, and when it is placed before you, be obliged to turn away in disgust! Store girls, stenographers and women who spend a good deal of time indoors are particularly prone to biliousness and indigestion, and find Bileans a veritable boon.

EXTREME CASE YIELDS TO BILEANS.

Even extreme cases of biliousness and indigestion yield readily to Bileans. Don't think therefore that because up to now you have not found a cure that your case is beyond the power of Bileans! Mrs. A. Laverack, of Wakefield says:— "I had biliousness and indigestion very bad. Every day I was tormented with attacks of nausea and retching. All my friends thought I was almost beyond cure and I was as yellow as beeswax. Headache continued unceasingly, and then I began to have attacks of ague and trembling fits. My tongue was thickly coated, my eyesight dim, and I always woke in the morning with a bitter taste in my mouth. This was my state when a neighbor advised me to try Bileans, saying they had cured both herself and husband of liver complaint and constipation. I got a supply and to my delight they soon began to do me good. I persevered with them and within a few months I was quite restored to health. I owe my wonderful recovery entirely to Bileans, and I shall never again be without a supply as long as I live."

WHAT BILEANS CURE.

Bileans are also a certain cure for debility constipation, piles, anemia, headache, liver complaint, wind spasms, belching, blood impurities, female ailments and irregularities, and all ailments arising out of stomachic dyspepsia and liver disorder. Of all druggists at 50c. box or post free from the Bilean Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. 6 boxes for $2.50.

STRAIGHT TIPS.

Care of Men's Clothes Saves Tailor's Services.

Caring for men's clothes is some- thing almost every woman has to do some time in her life, for not always is the expense of a tailor's services possible, and to many it is a difficult task simply because they do not un- derstand just how to press trousers that bag at the knees or how to remove the sheen from coats that have perhaps outlived their usefulness or eradicate spots that destroy the appearance of an otherwise neat looking suit.

"Pressing trousers is really exceed- ingly simple," declares a woman whose husband's clothes always look as if they were cared for by an expert tailor. "If they are pressed after every second or third wearing the knees will not only never bag, but the creases at the front and back will always look fresh. The actual pressing is very easy. The seams at the sides of the trousers should be carefully matched before the trousers are laid on the ironing board. This done, a damp cloth should be placed over the mater- ial and a hot iron used to press out the lines. The steaming caused by the wet cloth and the heat from the iron shrinks the stretched portions into shape, removing the bagginess. After this is done hang them to dry thor- oughly before being worn.

"Grease spots should, of course, be removed with gasoline, naphtha or some cleansing fluid and the material well brushed and aired before being pressed or the dirt will be ironed into the cloth and the entire labor lost.

Press Garments Often.

"Coats and vests need pressing about once a week if worn frequently, but I should never suggest doing this at home, for to properly iron shoulders, backs and fronts of these garments boards regularly shaped, such as tailors have, are necessary, and without them the work is bound to look botched. So it is much better to send them to a tailor, for all torn places in either coats or trousers can often be mended so that they will not show, while if at- tempted at home by one who is not familiar with such work the suit will be practically ruined.

"When not in use coats and vests should always be placed on hangers to keep the shoulders in shape and the neck of the former from sagging, as it is bound to do if hung from a tape at the top. Trousers, too, should be placed on hangers with the bottoms up to keep the legs carefully in shape and to pre- serve the creases in them.

"Taking the shine from clothes is not difficult to accomplish if a damp cloth is placed over a very hot iron and the latter held close to the material, though not placed directly upon it. Or a spong- ing with diluted ammonia and water and a careful rubbing afterward will often have the desired effect on clothes that have become worn and shiny from use.

"At least once a week all suits should be hung in the sun inside out if they are of a color that is likely to fade, and the dust pounded out of them with a light rattan stick. The pockets at such times should also be turned out and brushed, for they collect dust that will gather in great rolls and annoy the wearer if not removed. Suits of linen or crash are treated just like any other wash garment."

CARPET CAUSES WORRY

OVER IT, 100 YEARS OLD, HAVE WALKED BRIDES AND GROOMS.

Covering in the Aisle of St. George's Church, Hanover Square, London, Is Worn Out, But a New One Is Not Wanted—Scene of Many Famous Unions—Many Princes Wedded in the Great Temple—World-Wide Names.

St. George's, Hanover square, London, the most fashionable temple of Hymen in the British empire, is in the throes of the Shakespearean puzzle: "To be or not to be?" The trouble is over a carpet. It is not a simple carpet, but the long and magnificent crimson cloth which is ordered out at all ceremonious weddings and is laid from the street curb up to the rails of the chancel. The carpet has been trodden for near a hundred years by princes and Prime Ministers by brides and bridegrooms whose names are household words throughout the civilized world.

It is getting old, and the church authorities do not want brides and bridemaids to catch their dainty toes in its many well darned holes. And yet they dislike the idea of a brand new carpet and the putting of the present one in some musty hole with all its grand and ancient associations. So they are troubled, and are putting off the evil day.

St. George's is an early eighteenth century building which lacks little of being 200 years old. The three beautiful stained glass windows which adorn it are of Flemish design, having been made at Malines 400 years ago, but only transported to England in the beginning of the last century. With taste characteristic of the period St. George's, one of the fifty new churches ordered to be built for the good of the people of London, was dedicated to St. George, in compliment to the dull Hanoverian occupant of the throne.

AISLE OF ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.
Hanover Square, London.

Some remarkable unions have been solemnized in this famous building. The registers, with their signatures, would mean a fortune to a collector.

The first wedding in the church was on April 30, 1725, between David Williams and Sarah Thomas, both humble parishioners. The record in the register has almost faded. Since then peers and princes, numbering many thousands, have led their brides to the altar.

There have been troublesome times at or over weddings here. The demure Mrs. Harvey, whose husband afterwards became the Earl of Bristol, went through the marriage ceremony with the Duke of Kingston, though her lawful spouse was still living. Her subsequent trial for bigamy created a great sensation. Here also the Duke of Essex was joined on a winter's day in 1793, to Lady Augusta Murray. The marriage was ultimately declared by the Court of Prerogatives to be void under the terms of the royal marriage act. The rector and curates of the church were summoned before the Privy Council to explain how it was that they married a prince of the blood royal to a subject.

On one occasion a peer had made arrangements to marry a hospital nurse who had saved his life in a dangerous illness. His family objected and actually kidnapped the bridegroom at the door of the church as he was about to enter.

Another day a girl was made a peeress in this church the day before she was to be married to another man at another church. The bride and bridegroom in this runaway match were old lovers parted by hard hearted parents.

Emma, Lady Hamilton, was married here in 1791 to Sir William. This was Nelson's Lady Hamilton who had such an eventful and vivid life and then died in poverty on the continent. Here, too, the Earl of Beaconsfield of Mr. Disraeli, as the great Prime Minister was then, was united to the woman who helped him so much in after years. The son of the "Iron Duke," the first Duke of Wellington, was married here in 1839. The bridegroom was then Marquis of Doure. His father was one of those who signed the register.

The grandest wedding was that of Mr. Asquith, now chancellor of the exchequer, and Miss Tennant, famous as the original of "Dodo" and one of the wealthiest and most charming London hostesses of to-day. The bridegroom at that time was thought to be the coming Premier. The decorations of the church were superb, and everybody in the political and social world was present. The register was signed by Mr. Gladstone, Lord Rosebery, and Mr. Balfour. The nearest of this wedding in point of display was that some time later of the favorite English actress, Evelyn Millard.

Gladstone was a witness at many a great marriage, as his numerous signatures prove. The present Queen of Spain signed the register as Princess Ena of Battenberg in December of last year at the wedding of Lady Ruperta Carrington. There were also noted signatures of the wedding of Marconi and his pretty Irish bride.

The most popular wedding was that of Lady Mary [illegible] and the Marquis of Graham when the public massed around the church and mobbed the bride and bridegroom in their desire to see them.

The plainest bride, according to the vestry clerk, out of over 7,000 was George Eliot, the novelist, who was married in May, 1880, to John Walter Cross.

Of course, some humorous incidents have occurred in the church, but probably the queerest was in connection with a man and a peeress who must remain unnamed. The man arranged for the ceremony at the church and produced the license. All was ready at the hour named, the choir and the playing organ and the bridegroom at the altar. But the bride came not. This was repeated on another day. When the man wanted to make a third attempt the vicar got suspicious and refused. Bridegrooms have several times forgotten the ring, but only once has a man had the ring but been unable to get at it. The man was a guardsman and his uniform was so tight he could not get at the ring in his pocket without partially undressing. A pew opener came forward and lent him her wedding ring.

There are many confidential weddings at St. George's, that is to say, secret ones, and one of the most remarkable of these occurred only two years ago, when a lady of title married her coachman. The vestry clerk on going to the house some time later with the marriage certificate asked for the bridegroom, as is usual. He was told he was at the stables, and, going round there, found his man had donned his livery again and was washing a carriage!

In 1886 the register bears the bold signature of Theodore Roosevelt, then plain ranchman, with perhaps little thought of the presidency of the United States. Underneath is the signature of his wife, Edith Kermit Carow. Brown's hotel, London, is the address President Roosevelt registered from and "widower" his state.

The vestry clerk, who has been in charge of these registers for nearly thirty years, recalls the Roosevelt wedding well. The president secured a license and walked into the church in a dark suit and a bowler hat with his bride and was quietly married without the famous red carpet. Out of the thousands of entries his is the only one of "ranchman."

There have been so many of the most noted naval, military, political, and social marriages celebrated here that it is little wonder the society novelist always writes—the wedding was at St. George's, Hanover square.

RENE FRAUDET.

Young Poet Discovered By "The Divine Sara" Has a Future.

In the poets' firmament of France a new star has appeared. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt had scarce set foot again on the beloved soil of her belle France, after her meteoric progress, with its memorable triumphs and hairbreadth escapes, through Canada and the United States; she had hardly had time to unpack her trunks and receive a score or two of her intimate friends, when a tall young man, with auburn hair, pale complexion, and dark, luminous eyes, rang the bell of the luxurious apartment in the Boulevard Pereire and asked to see the great tragedienne. Madame was engaged, but an appointment was made for the evening, when the young man duly read his manuscript.

When the reading was done a murmur of applause passed from lip to lip, and then Sarah's golden voice was heard:

"You have written a beautiful play, monsieur. It shall be played at my theatre next season, and by me."

RENE FRAUDET.

And that is how a young poet leaped into fame. Rostand, the author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," read his now famous play to Sarah Bernhardt in similar circumstances. It is a good omen.

M. Rene Fraudet is a Parisian. He has written something like 5,000 verses: though as yet he may be said to be practically unknown, as only one or two of his poems have been published. In addition he has written a two act piece in verse which Mme. Rosa Bruck will produce at the Escholiers. Its title is "Rose Flamberge."

Several men distinguished in literature and the drama have predicted a great future for Rene Fraudet. One well known academician called him a young Victor Hugo.

WEIRD CANADIAN STORY.

A Murderer Appears to a Man Who Smote Him After Death.

Writing in the illustrated weekly "Canada," "A Habitant" says: The incident that I am now going to relate happened in the same parish wherein is situated the Sault au Recollet. Soon after the arrival of the English in Canada, the custom of gibbeting criminals by the roadside came in. There was a very famous one at Pointe Levis, and a habitant named Valiquet was driving past on the day appointed for the christening of a child of his; there was to be a great supper and rejoicing at his house that night to celebrate the occasion, and Valiquet, feeling recklessly happy, drove close to the gibbet where hung the body of a man who had been guilty of a very brutal murder, and caught it a smart crack with his whip, saying, "I invite you to supper at my house to-night." A friend of Valiquet's who was driving with him, shuddered, saying: "The man has been a criminal, but he has paid his penalty before men, and if he repented at the last he may be a saint in heaven to-day." But the happy father was light at heart, and thought only of the joy-making of the christening feast. Evening came, and with it the guests and they sat down to table, excepting the new mother, who was unable to rise from her bed. Hardly had supper commenced, when there were three knocks at the door, and, without waiting for it to be opened, in walked the gibbeted murderer, carrying his iron cage under his arm; he put the latter behind the door and stood facing the host.

Kept His Appointment.

It is needless to describe the terror of the assembly, or how Valiquet's knees trembled as he gathered his wits and courage together. "What do you want?" asked he. "If you want suffrages, I will say a Libra for your soul and some other prayers." The figure replied, "You invited me to supper, and I have come." Valiquet feared greatly for his wife's health, so he begged the apparition to depart, promising his prayers. The ghost, who at first insisted on waiting for the dance and taking part therein, finally promised to go on condition that Valiquet would come the following night to his gibbet at the stroke of midnight and dance. This being agreed, the ghost picked up his cage and walked out. Everyone, of course, tried to persuade their host to break his promise, but he would not hear of such a thing. Woman's wit provided the best expedient. A baptised baby was supposed, and is still supposed by some people, to be an angel from heaven, and the anxious mother suggested that her husband should take the child in his arms when he went to redeem his word. Accordingly Valiquet went the following night at the stroke of twelve to the gibbet, carrying his child in his arms. "What!" said the murderer, "you come this provided? I came last night alone, but you only come with an angel to guard you. Put down the child, for I have a splendid dance to propose, and the time is measured by the strokes of a whip." "No," said Valiquet. "I have kept my promise to meet you here, and I will say the prayers I offered to say, but I will not put my child out of my arms." "You are at any rate brave, even though you are thoughtless," answered the murderer. "Henceforth you will respect the dead, and remember the dead, like the living, can keep appointments."

Beautiful and Brilliant Colours Guaranteed When Ladies Use—

Diamond Dyes

Each year thousands of letters come in from all parts of this vast Dominion telling of victories and successes with Diamond Dyes in the home.

The marvellous and immense sale of Diamond Dyes in Canada have induced adventurers and speculators (who know nothing about the chemistry of colours) to go into the putting up of package dyes. Such dyes are adulterated and crude; the colours are muddy and blotchy, bringing ruin to the materials you try to dye.

Diamond Dyes, the choice of wise women, are the kind used when bright, full, fast and brilliant colours are wanted. No disappointments possible when you use Diamond Dyes.

Diamond Dyes are sold by all leading druggists and dealers. Refuse to accept substitutes when you ask for Diamond Dyes. Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. His Choice.

A company of married people were discussing the day on which they would be married if they were making a second venture. "And what day would you prefer, hubby, dear?" asked one of the prepossessing looking matrons, turning to her devoted little mate. Salt is good for children, and you should make your little people eat a certain amount of it with their food. Salt helps to keep the blood pure and to prevent constipation. It is also good for the digestion.

Those suffering from tired eyes should bathe them in lukewarm water to which a few drops of a solution of boracic acid have been added. The best plan is to buy an ounce of the acid, dissolve it in a pint of hot water and bottle it for use.

To remove a wart pour on it a drop of vinegar and then cover it with as much carbonate of soda as the vinegar will absorb. Keep it on ten minutes, and repeat the application twice or thrice daily. In a few days the wart generally drops off, leaving only a tiny white mark.

Never enter a sickroom in a state of perspiration (to remain for any time), for when the body becomes cold it is in a state likely to absorb the infection; nor visit a sick person—if the complaint be of a contagious nature—with an empty stomach. In attending a sick person do not stand between the sick person and any fire that may be in the room, as the heat of the fire will draw the infectious vapor in that direction.

THE FRASER RIVER, B.C.

CENTENARY OF THE DISCOVERY OF THE FAMOUS WATERWAY.

Pioneer's Voyage Down the Long and Turbulent Stream—Simon Fraser First White Man to Make the Attempt—Came Out Alive, and River Has Ever Since Been Called By His Name.

This year marks the centenary of the discovery of the Fraser River, or rather of the fact that it was not the Columbia, as had been supposed, writes Frank Yeigh, in The Globe.

One hundred years ago Simon Fraser started on his perilous voyage down the long and turbulent stream, and because he was the first white man to attempt the dangerous feat and come out alive the river has ever since borne his name. Fraser was one of the band of early fur traders who were the real pioneers of the far west and northwest. No obstacles seemed great enough to thwart their purposes; no difficulties existed that were not made to be overcome. He was born in 1776 at Bennington-on-the-Hudson. His father was a United Empire Loyalist of Scottish stock, who died in prison after his capture by the revolutionary army at Burgoyne's surrender. The lad spent his early years near Cornwall, in Upper Canada. At the age of sixteen he became a clerk in the Northwest Fur Trading Co., becoming a partner ten years later. Then it was that he entered upon his life in the far west at Grand Portage and Lake Athabaska. When the company in its strenuous fight with the Hudson's Bay Co. resolved to occupy the country west of the Rockies young Fraser was chosen as the leader, a position for which he had been preparing himself. In 1805 he set up on the Pack River the first permanent post built within the boundaries of what is now British Columbia, and from that point started on his journey towards the Fraser, or the Columbia, as it was thought to be, catching his first glimpse of the great six-hundred-mile artery in 1806.

Now a century after Fraser's voyage the traveler is carried in a luxurious railway train through the gloomiest and grandest part of the canyon. And as he gazes down upon the swirling waters from the narrow parapet of rock which forms a precarious bed for the track the wonder grows at the temerity of the man in daring their angry strength. The course of the Fraser is through one of the deepest of the mountain canyons of the west. Suddenly contracted in its narrow bed, as it forces its way through the coast range, it is a seething, rock-torn torrent. High above tower the mighty peaks; far below the river rushes on its down-grade journey to the coastal plain and the sea. Long before Simon Fraser navigated the river many a life had been lost in the attempt to conquer the turbulent stream. It would seem as if the gods of the mountains resented human intrusion; indeed the intrepid fur trader has probably had few, if any, successors in what must have been a thrilling journey.

The narrowest channel is at Hell Gate, where an enormous rock has fallen from the upper cliffs and all but blocked the way of the waters. At such a point as this the intrepidity of the explorer must have been put to its severest test, but this and all other tests were successfully met and fame has rewarded him with an undying name. The railway trip through the Fraser canyon comes as a climax to the scenic wonders of the C. P. R. route, and one can easily understand that large sums were spent in surveys before the line was finally located, just as one is impressed with the engineering triumphs represented in its construction. Tunnels succeed each other in quick succession, trestles and bridges many are crossed, and all the while the twisting train closely borders the river bank. Every mile of the coastward journey is crowded with interest; apart from the scenic spell, human interest notes the lone Chinaman or Indian fishing for salmon from some protruding platform or rock, or spreading the catch on the drying frames. Here and there, too, are the deserted shacks of the navvies of twenty years ago or more when the C. P. R. was being built. Lonesome little graveyards are also seen, with an occasional mound where sleeps the nameless and forgotten dead. One such grave bears, however, an epitaph, that of the Headless Indian. It reads as follows:—"Here lies the remains of the headless Indian, discovered by Lou Milton and Dr. Cheadle, A. D. 1863. One hundred and fifty yards up the bank of the river was also found the skull which was sought for in vain by the above gentlemen. (Signed) T. Party, Canadian Pacific Survey. "June 5, 1872."

The imagination has fine scope in thinking out the possible details of the tragedy amid the solitary hills when the unfortunate redman lost his head.

Glimpses are had as well of the Cariboo tote or mining road built by the British Columbia Government nearly half a century ago. Gold was first found on the Upper Fraser in 1857, and in the succeeding years ensued one of the greatest and wildest of modern gold rushes to this remote and almost inaccessible region four hundred miles from the sea. It is said that thirty thousand men left the United States alone for the goldfields; few of whom succeeded in their search. It was to accommodate these gold-hunters of the 'fifties and 'sixties that the Cariboo trail was constructed at enormous cost. Its remains give a slight idea of the dangers of travel over such a route. Crossing the turbulent river on rickety bridges, clinging precariously to rocky ledges, now high above the water, then nearer the brink, involving dangerous grades, rounding sharp bends on rude cribbings—such was the highway over which hundreds of waggons and thousands of travelers journeyed. Many died on the way or in an attempt to escape from the perils of the interior, and thus the old Cariboo trail, now falling into decay and deserted for the railway, was in the olden days verily a trail of disappointment and death.

Diarrhoea

MAY attack you at any time of the year, but it is more prevalent during the summer months. When this trouble attacks you, it does not pay you to experiment with untried remedies, but always procure one that has stood the test of time. Such a one is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It has been on the market for 60 years and is considered by thousands of people as the best cure for all bowel complaints.

MRS. WILFRID TOMLINSON, Victoria Harbor, Ont., writes: "I always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house, knowing from past experience that it is a sure and efficient remedy in diarrhoea and kindred bowel complaints."

A Parson's Swearing.

"Parson" Blodgett, a former local preacher residing in Linden, had in front of his house a watering trough freely patronized by people riding by. One evening a man hurriedly drove up to water his horse, and the wheel of his wagon struck the trough violently. The 'parson' came out hurriedly and cried: "Hog rabbited to hemp seed tobacco! Can't you drive straight?"

"Go in and shut the door," replied the driver, "and next time you want to swear, parson, do it like other men."

Books Publicly Burnt.

There was a curious punishment in England by which any one who wrote books condemned by the law as objectionable was compelled to publicly burn them. The last time this was done was in 1793, when Alexander Wilson, a noted ornithologist and poet, was fined and condemned to publicly burn poems accounted libelous at the Market cross, Paisley.

Mica.

Mica is often used in thin transparent plates for spectacles to protect the eyes instead of glass in places exposed to heat and in Russia even for windows. Combined with varnish, it is used to make a glittering coating for wall paper. It is also used in preparing a covering for roofs and as a packing and lubricator for machinery.

LORD CROMER IN EGYPT

ONE OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE'S GREATEST PROCONSULS.

Virtually Ruler of the Country and the Maker of Modern Egypt—Khedive's Domains Have Made Splendid Progress Under His Wise, Far-Seeing and Humane Policy—Why He Prohibited Pigeon Shooting.

Lord Cromer, Britain's representative in Egypt and virtually the ruler of the country, is one of the empire's greatest proconsuls, and he will go down to history as the maker of modern Egypt. The British people have absolute confidence in him, and they are amply justified in this by the splendid record of progress made in the Khedive's domains under the wise, far-seeing and humane policy of this great administrator. Lord Cromer was born on February 26, 1841, at Cromer Hall, Norfolk, England. He entered the public service in 1861 and filled a number of important positions with great ability, being appointed to the position of Agent and Consul-General in Egypt in 1883, and there he has served his country ever since. He has been married twice, first in 1876 to Miss Stanley Errington, who died in 1898, and, secondly, to Lady Catherine Thyne, daughter of the Marquis of Bath. Lady Cromer is just recovering from an attack of measles which developed during a short visit paid to Britain. She was accompanied by Lord Cromer, but conditions in Egypt necessitated his Lordship's return to Cairo a few days after he landed at Falmouth.

The recent murder of a British officer by some Egyptians, the trial and execution of the ringleaders, with minor punishments for the abettors of the crime, have been all widely discussed in Britain, and it was in answer to some criticisms in the House of Commons that Sir Edward Grey, replying for the Government, declared that firmness and the display of Britain's power were absolutely necessary if further serious outbreaks of Moslem fanaticism were to be avoided. He was able to assure the House that absolute impartiality had been shown by the tribunal which heard the charges against the accused Egyptians. He further assured the House that a rigid investigation would be made to satisfy the British public that the officers and soldiers of the Imperial garrison were everywhere doing their duty, and were not in any way to blame for the outrage. In the meantime pigeon shooting has been absolutely prohibited by Lord Cromer, and the reason for this will be understood on perusing the following interesting article by Mr. Harold Spender, one of the ablest of newspaper correspondents, which appeared in The Daily Chronicle of London, England:—

Pigeons! Why should a few pigeons have given rise to a tragedy that has shaken Egypt to its depths?

Only those can understand who have taken the long river journey up the Nile.

Then you find that the modern Egyptians revere their pigeons almost as piously as the ancients revered their cats.

As you journey you will pass by innumerable little villages built of sundried mud-bricks—so like to the soil in their color that they almost seem to be moulded out of the Nile mud and fated to crumble, like children's sand castles, back into the ground that gave them birth. You weary of their sordid, careless shape—these dwelling places of the fatalists. But there are two things that will always hold your eye. One is the little grove of shading palms that waves above each group of Arab dwellings. The other is the pigeon-tower that always rises in the centre.

It is a square, castellated structure, strongly built, and covered with blue earthenware tiles. It is fretted with little holes.

At first you think it is a fortress to protect the village, or perhaps the house of the headman of the village—the "Omdeh," who still prospers under English rule. But then, perhaps, the steamer's whistle sounds, and suddenly from the summit of the tower there rises a cloud of birds, white and blue-winged, flashing in the sun like beaten silver, or some fairy vision of floating, iridescent opals. They circle and wheel round, but never fly far. Then they settle again, and all is still, except for the far-off cry of some excited Arab boy. The village is left behind, and for miles you see no life except some lonely jogging camel-rider, or a turbaned greybeard with legs dangling low from his little white donkey.

It is computed that there are some ten millions of these pigeons in Egypt, about one for every inhabitant. They are not kept for food, for they are rarely shot. They eat the seed and destroy the crops with a chartered freedom. But the Egyptian peasant calmly endures it. His feeling towards the pigeon seems to have some curious, untraced connection with the oldest religion of the country—just as he still reveres his ancestors, and visits their tombs with a piety which is not merely Mohammedan.

Like most pious people, he has to compromise with life. There are men—rich Egyptians as well as infidel dogs—who want to shoot pigeons. Such desires must be recognised; you must meet them half-way. So the Egyptian distinguishes between "wild" pigeons and "domestic" pigeons. The "domestic" pigeons are those that live in the square towers. He will not have them shot at any cost—any more than we like our London pigeons to be shot. The wild pigeons are those which have strayed away and live at large. They can be shot, like common quails, which he will shoot with you for sufficient piastres on any day of the week. But leave must be asked from the Omdeh of the village district within which you are going to shoot. For the greater part of the land of Egypt is not held by landlords, like happy England, but by small peasant proprietors, who do not regard their land as only existing for purposes of sport.

Here, then, is one of those small causes of friction continually recurring between the European resident and the native—a friction of custom and habit, a conflict of idea. The English officer, thirsting for sport, and earning it by hard work, with little else to fill his leisure, casts envious eyes on those great flocks of pigeons. He see that they will be "better for thinning," is horrified at the waste and destruction they cause, impatient of what seems to him an idle prejudice. He may not be always too particular about asking leave from a "damned nigger." He is in Egypt as a conqueror, and he does not like the business of asking leave. On the other hand the peasants are every day emerging more rapidly from their old habits of servility, and putting on, thanks to our very own emancipating spirit, new manners of independence and self-assertion.

Then, when a tragedy occurs, there comes the cry for "strong measures." Sitting in London, we all very rightly keep our heads; but in almost all white men the conditions prevailing now in Egypt produce the same condition of nerves. There is the feeling that you are always outnumbered if it comes to a question of sheer physical force—there is always lurking behind the desperate fear that comes on the strongest men in face of a savage crowd—the fear of being submerged, overwhelmed. Lord Cromer has had constantly to fight against this fear in Egypt, and there is always some danger of its getting the upper hand. It is not the Englishman, as a rule, who shouts loudest. It is the Frenchman, the Italian, and the Greek, who call for strong measures. They recall the Alexandrian massacres. They complain that the Egyptian is getting "uppish." They dwell fondly on the "old days" when every European could wallop his own native. And then when the native hits them back they fly to their own Consulates and complain of the British Government.

Lord Cromer has a difficult task, and must not be judged too hastily. He has at his side the offended pride of the British military people, who see in this episode a disgrace and a slur to their uniform. He has to face an outburst of accumulated wrath against his policy of leniency and equality, hitherto pursued without flinching. He has behind him a Ministry suffering from the long strain of the Turkish crisis. He has himself treated the Fellah so well—so often punished Englishmen for striking them and defended their village rights—that he may feel a little just wrath at this murder. The tribunal which tried these men was made up of the best lawyers in Egypt, and it would have been a serious thing for Lord Cromer to have overruled them. It would have left him alone. And the strongest man cannot rule an alien race of ten millions alone.

It is a common thing on the Upper Nile to meet a greybeard who will boast of the number of floggings he had at the hands of the old Khedivial Government. He took it in place of taxes. It was his form of "passive resistance." He will go on to complain that now he has to pay his taxes without the possible alternative of being flogged. It is good that he cannot be flogged; but his talk brings home to you that he does not take the same view of the matter as you do.

But one thing is good—the pigeon-shooting is to be stopped. It is high time. On trifles—let us remember that trite and ancient saying—great issues turn. Grease produced the Indian mutiny. It is not worth our while to risk the peace of Egypt for the sake of pigeon-pie.

Love Unlocked The Gates Of Death

Man Buried for Over Three Months Has Returned To Life.

Examiner Special.

Denver, Sept. 17.—The following death notice appeared in the Kansas City papers, dated January 13, 1906:—

"Died at the home of his parents; No. 2823 Euclid avenue, Frederick J. Harvey, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon. His death was due to consumption, which caused a lingering illness for the past three years. He returnd from an extensive trip in New Mexico, where he had gone to regain his health, and had been home a week, being conscious to the last minute. He was twenty years and five months old, leaving a prostrated mother, father, sister and affianced wife, Miss Lily Godfrey, to mourn his loss."

After being buried alive in the family vault at Kansas City from January 9 to the middle of May, Frederick J. Harvey, one of the wealthiest men in Kansas, came back to life Tuesday, September 4, married his Denver sweetheart, Miss Lily Godfrey, who was instrumental in restoring him to life, September 5, departed on his honeymoon this same day and will arrive here next week to visit relatives.

Mr. Harvey is the son of Bernard Harvey and grandson of the deceased Frederick Harvey, the millionaire owners of all the eating houses on the Santa Fe line and most of them on the 'Frisco. The family is well known throughout the United States. At the time of Mr. Harvey's death, as the family still term his entombment, he had contracted a severe cold, which developed into pneumonia. His already tubercular infected system was not strong enough to throw off the additional trouble and physicians pronounced him dead. Death from poisoned gas arising from the lungs was given as the cause.

Although all animation and respiration had ceased his affianced wife, Miss Godfrey, would have it that he was not dead. She took the death watch upon herself, and would not leave the casket until it was placed on a marble slab next the caskets of his father and aunt in the family's tightly closed vault.

For four months Mr. Harvey lay in the camp of his dead ancestors, until Miss Godfrey, crazed by the feeling which grew upon her that her beloved was not dead, returned to Kansas City and begged, especially with the family, to accompany her to the vault. The mother, who was devoted to her son, eagerly agreed and the two went together to the family plot. Entering the vault for the first time since the burial they stood astounded at the door. The casket was open. Sinister fears crept over them.

That a tragedy had occurred neither doubted. But the puzzling question was who had opened the casket. Trembling, Miss Godfrey approached it to learn the worst. Astonished beyond expression, she found Mr. Harvey just as he was on the day of the burial. The lips and finger nails were still pink, the body was still limber, and there was not a sign of decay in the entire body. Later the fact developed that the undertaker understood the pallbearers were to have put the lid on, and that the pallbearers thought the undertaker would attend to it.

Mrs. Harvey and Miss Godfrey had the body taken to the family home, where they visited it daily from May to September 4, when Harvey came to life, and the wedding followed.

Boys Dynamited The School For Holiday

They Wanted Another Month's Vacation—Were Refused and They Blew Up the School.

Examiner Special.

Trenton, Sept. 17.—Vacation has not been long enough for the boys of the Prospect Hill school, two miles from Newton, Pa., so they blew up the school-house late last night with dynamite. The building was badly damaged, but temporary quarters were obtained and the school was opened despite the crime.

The boys had asked the school board for a longer vacation. This request, of course, was refused. Then they decided to burn th school house. Later they conceived the idea of blowing it up, as they did, on the night before the opening of the school term. They got dynamite in a quarry close by and waited until there was no one about to explode it.

The explosion shook the little settlement of Prospect Hill. Volunteer firemen formed a bucket brigade to extinguish the flames which followed the explosion.

The boys made no denial of their guilt. They say that if the month of September had been added to their vacation they would have been satisfied.

The Board of Education is in a quandry as to what to do with the youths. All of them are attending school in the temporary quarters, much to their chagrin.

Never Had A Bath And Never Washes Himself

Calls Hygiene a Myth---Goes to Bed With Boots on—Wears Same Clothes All the Year Round---Microbes Killed by Other Microbes.

Rome, Sept. 17.—Frederic Corboni, a chemist of Gelsomino, near Florence, is the most cheerful and remarkable philosopher in Italy. He has never had a bath and never washes. Soap and water, he thinks, are so much poison and washing destroys health and shortens life. He is an old man and yet in splendid health. De Nazone, of Florence, sent a reporter to interview him. The old man wrote out the following statement and signed it for publication:—

"I am 75 years old and in the best of health and spirits. Yet I never wash, not even my face in the morning. Five years ago a towel was placed in my room, but it has not yet been changed, and there is no need of changing it. I have never taken a bath, and yet I have never been ill.

"I hold that baths, washing basins, looking glasses, brushes, soaps sponges and all those sort of things are so much useless lumber. I have never lost a day's appetite not a night's sleep, for being without them. Can anybody say the same who wasted their time and money at watering places and hydropatic establishments? I go to bed in my boots and wear the same clothes all the year round.

"Being a chemist by profession, I know something about hygiene. Hygiene is a myth, a superstition. Microbes are killed by other microbes. That's the long and short of it. Yours truly, Frederico Corboni."

SPELLING, GOOD AND BAD

(Toronto News)

Most critics of President Roosevelt's accession to the cause of spelling reform lose sight of one very simple but remarkably important fact—that a word is a sound, not a mark on paper. The history of a word is the story, firstly, of the changes in its sound; secondly, of the changes in its spelling. Part of the history of the word "bone" is that in Anglo-Saxon it was spelt "ban," that in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries it was spelt "boon," and that this form has passed into "bone." But it is more important to know that in the first stage it was pronounced with the "a," as in "father," and in the second stage it was pronounced "bawn." Until two or three centuries ago spelling was meant to express the sound of a word, and as the sound changed the spelling changed. Now the spelling represents anything rather than the sound. When Chaucer wrote of his pilgrims:—

"That toward Cauntebury wolden ryde"

he wrote "wolden," because he pronounced the "l" in it. Now we pronounce it "wood," and we still write the "l" in the word. We do so, theorists tell us, to remind ourselves that once there was an "l" in it. But very few of us do remember it that; and as we do not remind ourselves of the fact when we speak the word, why should we when we write it? When Jones talks of his debts, he neither thinks nor cares that the word is derived from "debita;" does he stop to remember it when he writes about them and puts in a useless "b"? If he does, ten to one he makes a mistake about the history of the word after all, and supposes that it came into English straight from the Latin; whereas it did not, but reached us by way of France, and was spelt "dette" till pedants changed it.

The first impression of an uneducated man on reading Chaucer's

But riche he was of holy thoght and werk.
He was also a lerned man, a clerk,
That Cristes gospel trewely wolde preche;
His parisshens devoutly wolde he techе,

is that Chaucer spelled badly. But Chaucer spelled in such a way that anyone who takes the trouble to learn a few facts about the sounds meant by certain letters and combinations of letters can form a very close idea as to his pronounciation of the English language; whereas a foreigner who learns English from books will think that "ever" and "fever," "leave and "leaven" are pronounced alike, to say nothing of famous difficulties like "ough." The Swiss Family Robinson, it will be remembered, learned English from books, and when they met an English person could not make themselves understood.

The fact is that the best authorities, the men who really study English etymology, on the whole, are in favour of spelling reform. "Modern English spelling," says so high an authority as Professor, Skeat, in the seventeenth chapter of his "Principles of English Etymology," "is, from a purely phonetic point of view, extremely unsatisfactory." "Those who cannot deny that our spelling is phonetically 'bad'" he says a moment later, "usually take up the position that it is etymological.' A sufficient investigation of the facts will enable an unbiassed mind to see that it is, even from this point of view, almost equally unsatisfactory. Many spellings, such as 'scythe,' 'tongue,' 'sleeve,' 'rhyme,' 'scent,' are simply indefensible; the more nearly phonetic spelling 'sithe,' 'tung,' 'sleve,' 'rime,' 'sent,' are at the same time truer to the original form, which is what is meant by 'etymological,' as the epithet is commonly used." "It is really a gross misnomer," he says elsewhere, "to call that spelling 'etymological,' which merely intimates the spelling of a dead language. Every student is (or should be) aware that the only true 'etymological' spelling is one which is phonetic. It is the sound of the spoken word which has to be accounted for; and all symbols which disguise this sound are faulty and worthless."

Prof. Skeat waxes bitter over present-day spelling. The object of the pedants of the sixteenth century, he says, was, "irrespective of the sound, to render the etymology obvious, not to the ear, but to the eye, and hence the modern system of judging of the spelling of words by the eye only. There is now only one rule, a rule which is often carefully, but foolishly, concealed from learners, viz., to go entirely by the look of a word, and to spell it as we have seen it spelt in books. If we do this, we hug ourselves in the belief that we are spelling 'correctly.'"

Earle, in his "Philology of the English Tongue," makes two or three suggestions: 1. The practice of phonetic writing ought to find a recognized place in educational studies, as having in it rich germs of elementary culture, and of practical usefulness, quite apart from the question of spelling reform, which however it would prepare the public mind to approach in a sensible manner. 2. The present rigorous examinations in orthography ought to be greatly relaxed, if not altogether discontinued, as involving a great waste of unprofitable effort. 3 Single instances of reform should be discussed in all their circumstances and bearings, and where a case is made out the change should be adopted. As an example I venture to propose that the preterite and participle of 'read' should be 'redd.'"

That is, a standard authority on etymology deliberately advises schoolmasters not to try to make children spell "correctly." That goes beyond President Roosevelt. But if the movement is to accomplish good results it must have the strong support of the masters of English in Great Britain, and it must proceed with grave deliberation and distinct purpose. Any attempt of President Roosevelt or the United States to revolutionize the methods of spelling which now prevail, if not countenanced in Great Britain, will lead only to confusion and to the destruction of English as a world-language. Many things the United States can do, but it cannot impose upon the English people a language which they may be unready to accept.

Found Bruised By A Strawstack

Mysterious Death of Man Discovered Bleeding From Injuries.

Examiner Special.

Clarkson, Mich., Sept. 15.—Oakland County officers are investigating the death of Charles Bates, aged 53, who died Friday at the home of Lee Adams, five miles northwest of this place where he was employde as a farm hand. Death was due to traumatic peritonitis, brought on, it is claimed, by external injuries.

Bates was found Wednesday evening lying unconscious by a strawstack on the farm of James Lawrence, three-quarters of a mile south of Ortonville. His left side was a mass of bruises; his knees were cut, and he suffered terrible pain from internal injuries.

Friday he was taken worse, and though told that he must soon die, and urged to state how he came by his injuries, he steadfastly refused to give one word of explanation.

Bates left Adams' farm, it is stated, last Sunday for the state fair. He had $10 on his person. It is thought that he may have met with foul play in the city. He was seen Tuesday evening at the hotel in Ortonville. He was a man of good habits and did not drink.

Dr. John T. Bird performed a post-mortem, and Justice of the Peace Starring has ordered an inquest for Tuesday afternoon.

Bates told that he owned a $4,000 farm near Watertown, Tuscola County, which he said he had left in charge of his stepson, William Chapel. He claimed to have a sister in Toledo, and a 14-year-old son staying with her.

Whooping Cough.

"My three youngest boys had the whooping cough last winter, and we could get nothing to help them until I sent for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept right on improving until they were cured at the cost of one dollar. That was not a large bill for so distressing and dangerous an ilment."—Mrs. William Ball, Bracebridge, Ont.

Smelter At Peterborough Necessary To Treat The County's Rich Ores

Prospector Who Discovered Silver in Haliburton Tells of Further Investigation in Peterborough County—Iron and Copper in Plenty.

Rich Haliburton Mining Deposits

Formation of Nepeline Synite Carrying Twenty-two Different Kinds of Minerals Found in Haliburton County—A Smelter Proposed.

A couple of weeks ago the Examiner published the report of a rich find of graphite in Haliburton County, just across the border from our own, by an American prospector.

This "American" prospector has now turned out to be a resident of Peterborough and a mining man, well known throughout the county, as well as in a number of others. He returned last night from Gooderham, within two miles of which is situated the MacDuff farm, where the hidden treasures have been discovered, and to the Examiner stated that the situation was underestimated in the previous reference to the mine.

"It is just as rich as Cobalt," remarked the prospector, "and I believe you will see a greater rush there, too."

Before taking the trip to Haliburton he had worked the location out scientifically from Dr. Barlow's geological maps and found it to be a true geological contact; that is to say, the upheaval of the surface of the earth took place at the time of its construction.

Oldest Known Mineral.

On the south side of the contact are formations of Napaline Syenite, one of the oldest known minerals, and which according to Sir Archibald Geikie, contains 22 different kinds. On the north side the contact runs north of west, and south of east, cutting the property into triangles. The lead is from ten feet to forty feet wide, all across the farm.

Greek to the Yankees.

A number of American prospectors and geologists have been over these grounds before in search of the mineral, but have never succeeded in locating it. Mr. MacDuff states that they generally had high hopes but always left after enjoying his free hospitality. The local prospector who, everyone knows, has learned his business by experience, located the graphite the morning after he arrived, on the scene, although he was given a somewhat cool reception by the owner the preceding night. He was confident of success from his knowledge gained from Barlow's maps, and he claims he has seen further into the earth in ten days than his predecessors have during their many and frequent visits there.

Rich at the Surface.

The morning after his arrival he in company with Mr. MacDuff in a short time located the mineral after digging but a few inches into the surface soil. Since then more than a hundred rods of earth have been stripped, and the miner believes the rock containing the graphite on the surface is easily worth $60 per ton, and undoubtedly is more valuable beneath.

Near Gooderham.

The property of Mr. MacDuff is situated within 65 miles of Peterborough, and near Gooderham, which place is likely to rise to the level of Cobalt or Haileybury before it was burned.

The prospector left this morning for Toronto, in the interests of the Gooderham claims, as well as of others. In a few days he expects to have samples of the ore brought down to the city. These will be left on view at the office of Mr. Patterson, Simcoe street.

Copper and Iron.

The same gentleman remarked to the Examiner, that he believed that in a short time he would startle the mining population of Ontario with the discovery of copper and iron in Peterborough county. He claims there is enough in the northern part of the county to warrant the erection of a smelter on the Otonabee River.

"If Peterborough men will assist," he added, "I will find the stuff in this county to supply a smelter."

With such a prospect as this in view, it would appear that Peterborough will become the centre of an important mining district and all that is necessary for the carrying otu of the great project is "capital."

A JOINT INSPECTOR
—FOR MILK AND WATER— IS NOW PROPOSED

Ald. McIntyre is Assured that Public is Support-Him in His Efforts to Insure Pure Milk.

Meeting of Board of Health and Special Committee to Deal With The Matter.

ALD. McINTYRE
the "Father" of the Milk By-law.

"The public is with us in the new milk inspection bylaw," said Ald. McIntyre to the Examiner last night. He added that since the draft of the proposed bylaw had been published, he had been assured by a large number of citizens that the new precautionary measure was something which they felt should have been adopted before, and they were pleased that Ald. McIntyre had taken the matter up, and had worked it out to a successful issue.

He stated that he had received assurances from a large number of citizens that they were behind him and his committee in this matter, and then added that in the interests of the public health and in view of the now generally accepted theory on the part of the medical profession that one of the chief sources of the spread of fever was that afforded by impure milk, this measure should have been taken before.

The bylaw will be presented to the council at its next meeting, and the probabilities are that it will be passed, without a dissenting voice.

The next step after the bylaw providing for inspection has been passed, will be the preparation of another bylaw appointing the inspector, and Ald. McIntyre states that he has several men in view at the present time, any one of whom would make a good inspector.

It is probable that a joint meeting of the special Milk Bylaw Committee and the Board of Health, will be held to consider the question of an inspector.

The suggestion has been made that the man who is appointed to inspect and patrol the Otonabee River to insure the water supply being pure, could also have added to his duties that of milk inspection.

Neither of these offices would require a man's whole time and it is thought that a combination could be effected to work out to mutual advantage.

The milk bylaw goes into effect on December 1st so that there is still some time left before it will be necessary to make the appointment, but of course not too early to begin to make the preliminary investigations leading up to such an appointment. Ald. McIntyre has already several good men in his mind, but has, as yet not formed a definite opinion himself as to the best course to pursue.

BODY FOUND; MAY BE THAT OF MISS JANE LOVEDAY

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—After an all-night search, workmen this morning found the remains of a body in the Gilmour Hotel ruins. It was only a stump about two feet long, terribly charred and whether that of man or woman is not known yet.

It was picked up near the spot over which Miss Loveday's room, next to Miss O'Neil's, was situated, and it is thought to be the remains of either of these two ladies.

Miss Renaud, Ottawa; W. Wilson, of Montreal and the missing Charles Quinn, of Lansdowne, have all been located and are safe. The search is being prosecuted by a large staff and it is expected more bodies will be found before night.

Mr. Harry Blade Takes A Bride

Former Peterborough Boy, Who Lives in Smith's Falls

The Smith's Falls Rideau Record has the following reference to Mr. Harry Blade, son of Mr. Arthur Blade, of this city: "Mr. Harry Blade, the representative for this district of the C. B. C. Corset Company, Toronto, and his bride, have taken up their residence at the Arlington. Mrs. Blade was formerly Mrs. Tucker, wife of the late J. A. Tucker, B.A., one of the best known of the young Canadian journalists, whose clever writings under the pseudonym of "Lance," will be well remembered by all readers of Saturday Night. She is a daughter of Mr. W. J. Graham, collector of Inland Revenue at Owen Sound. The young couple were united in unarriage at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. W. A. Graham, of Bloomfield, on Monday, September 3, by the Rev. Mr. Houck, Mr. and Mrs. Blade took a brief wedding trip, and on Saturday they arrived here and will make their home in town this winter.

LIFT LOCK KNOWN FAR AND WIDE

The fame of Peterborough's lift lock seems to have travelled far and wide, and every visitor to the city desires to see the structure.

For example a gentleman from Greenfield, Mass., arrived yesterday to spend a few hours, awaiting train connections, and he had hardly registered at an hotel before he had enquired the way to the lift lock.

KNOX CHURCH TO BE SEPARATED FROM ST. PAUL'S NEXT MONTH

This is One of the Principal Propositions to Come Before the Presbytery at Their Next Meeting.

Rev. A. Bright Will Probably Be the First Pastor If the Proposed Change Is Effected.

"Will the Knox Presbyterian church stand upon its own footing in the near future?"

This is a question which is occupying the minds of some of the Peterborough Presbytery, and a question which will be answered one way or the other at the Presbytery meeting in Hastings on October 2nd.

The separation of Knox church from St. Paul's if it is effected, will of course be due to the belief that bettr work can be accomplished, as the ministers in charge would then centralize their attentions upon their respective congregations.

The Examiner in conversation with a prominent official of one of the churches this morning learned that the question had been referred to last spring but that no definite action had been taken. It was then proposed that the Rev. A. Bright, assistant pastor to Rev. Dr. Torrance, be ordained so that he might take charge of Knox church alone. However he preferred to wait until fall for the ordination.

The Probable Pastor.

If the Presbytery agree to the change it is quite probable that Rev. Mr. Bright will be pastor of the south church, and that an assistant will be employed for St. Paul's.

The officials of Knox church, however, propose to have a meeting next week and the question of pastors will likely arise, as it is necessary that the Presbytery have the opinion of the elders before their next meeting.

Majority in Favour.

The Examiner's informant was of the opinion that the majority of the members of the Presbytery were in favour of the proposed change, and he himself believed that it would be effective. Knox church, he thought, had been dependent too much upon St. Paul's, and that if it were left to take charge of itself there would be a great deal more interest taken in the church work.

Does not Meet the Children.

As it is now, the children of Knox church have scarcely an opportunity of becoming acquainted with their pastor. He conducts a service every Sunday, but on account of Bible class work at St. Paul's he does not come in contact with the children at the Sunday school at Knox church. If the responsibility of the church work rested solely with himself his interest in the progress would be greater.

While there are some who will probably oppose the separation, the majority it is understood, will support it, so that after the meeting next month Knox church will likely stand alone except for the ties of faith which bind it to its sister churches in the city.

Young Ladies Made Complaint

Of Being Insulted and Annoyed on Hunter Street

Complaints have been heard from young ladies as to the conduct of a gang of young men who frequent Hunter street, from Water street to the river. It is stated that young ladies at certain times are afraid to pass there for fear of being insulted by these young people. If this be really the case it should be looked into at once.

HEAD OF BARNARDO HOMES IN CANADA TO HELP MISS PIERCE

Mr. Owen in the City Last Night on His Way to Ottawa to Help in Search for Miss Loveday.

Pays a High Tribute to Her Work—Homes Sustain An Irreparable Loss He Says.

"The Barnardo Homes have sustained an irreparable loss by the death of Miss Loveday," was the statement made to the Examiner by Mr. Owens, of Toronto, the head of the Homes in Canada, who was in the city last night on his way to Ottawa to assist Miss Pearce in her search for trace of the secretary of the Home, whose death by the Gilmour Hotel fire is now, practically admitted. Mr. Owens arrived on the C.P.R. local, remaining over until the midnight train.

Death Deeply Regretted.

He was very deeply touched by the very sad news which was given him at "Hazel Brae," concerning Miss Loveday, and he reluctantly admitted that there now seemed little or no doubt that the unfortunate lady has perished in the flames.

Miss Loveday's Movements.

Three telegrams were received from Miss Pearce yesterday, but they threw no new light on the situation.

It appears that the movements of Miss Loveday have been traced up to about 8.30 Friday night, the night of the fire. She left here at noon, arriving at Ottawa between 5 and 6 o'clock, and went direct to the Gilmour, where the day clerk, who is a son of the proprietor, remembers seeing her register. She was well known by sight to the clerks at the hotel, for she always made it her stopping place when in the capital. Her baggage was sent up to her room which was number 50, but she left the hotel to make one or two calls in the city. First she called upon a Mrs. Pereira, and afterwards visited a Mrs. Watson, at the latter places stating that she thought she would take a car out to Hintonburg, where she wanted to see one of the Home girls. Mrs. Watson, however, advised her not to go that night, telling her that it would be late when she returned.

Returned to Hotel.

It has been ascertained since, that she did not go to Hintonburg, but the clerk at the Gilmour does not remember seeing her return to the hotel. This is not strange, however, since the hotel was crowded with Fair visitors, and she would have no occasion to visit the office, since she had already registered. The chances seem to be that she returned to the hotel and retired early.

Object of Her Visit.

Miss Loveday went to Ottawa in her capacity as secretary of the Home, which gives her the supervision of the girls sent out to places. Two girls in Ottawa were giving the society some little anxiety, and Miss Loveday went to look after them.

A Capable Officer.

Mr. Owen informed the Examiner that Miss Loveday had been associated with the work for the last fourteen years, for the first seven as lady visitor, and during the last period as as secretary, a position of great responsibility, and one which gave her practical control of the movements of the girls, as they were sent out from the Home. She also exercised supervision over them after they were placed. She was a very capable lady and was very much attached to her work, at which she laboured indefatigably.

Favourite With Dr. Barnado.

The late Dr. Barnardo held her in very high esteem, and a short time before his death wrote her a letter in which he referred in complimentary terms to her work. She possessed a great fund of shrewd common sense and had a faculty for handling girls successfully.

Her only surviving near relative is a sister who lives at Wigston, Engd. She has one relative in America, a niece, who lives at Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Loveday's Successor.

For the present, Miss Harris, who has been Miss Loveday's assistant for the last four years, will take up the latter's work.

REV. A. BRIGHT
Who will Probably be the Pastor of Knox Church After Next Presbytery Meeting.

More Men For The Lumber Company

Twenty Left to Work for Cavendish Co.

This morning about twenty men arrived from Tweed, and left on the G.T.R. train for the north, where they will work for the Cavandish Lumber Company in the woods operations. This Company has placed a very large number of men in the woods for this season's work, and is making preparations to work on an extensive scale. Mr. Turcotte, of Tweed, engaged these men for the Lumber Company.

Traveller Makes His Last Call

Mr. John Munro, a Popular Millinery Traveller in the City.

Mr. John Munro, Toronto, millinery traveller for John McColl & Co., wholesale milliners, who has been calling on the local millinery stores for the last 18 years, is in the city to-day making his last calls on the trade before retiring from the road to enter private business, having bought a retail business on College street, Toronto. Mr. Munro has made a great many friends in the city during the many years that he has visited here, and they will join in wishing him success.

Church Parade For Nov. 4th

Diamond L. O. L. Decides to Attend

Diamond L.O.L., No. 80, held their semi-monthly meeting last night, with Worshipful Master Bartley in charge.

The visiting brethren were Bro. Hamilton, Nassau Lodge; Bro. Ritchie, Downer's Corners; Bro. Johnston, Toronto.

A church parade on November 4th was decided on, the committee and place to be chosen at the next meeting.

Notice of important business was given for next meeting, and the members are to be notified by mail.

The usual routine business was run off. Rev. A. H. Brace addressed the meeting, and delivered the closing lecture. The lodge closed in due form at 9.30.

Has Secured New Salesman

Mr. Wilmot Millner, of Brampton, is New Salesman in Local Fur Store.

Mr. Wilmot Millner, of Brampton, ton has been secured as salesman by Mr. F. A. Clarke, the George street hatter and furrier. Mr. Millner comes highly recommended, having been engaged in several of the largest retail fur stores in Canada as well as in one of the most important wholesale establishments. He has spent 12 years in the business and Mr. Clarke is certainly fortunate in securing him. He began his duties on Saturday.

EXTRA

ALMOST POSITIVE IDENTITY OF MISS LOVEDAY'S BODY

Body Which is Believed to be Hers Found in Gilmour Hotel Ruins—Despatch Says it is Undoubtedly That of Peterborough Lady—A Terrible Sight—Gruesome Work of Search Goes On

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, September 18, 2 p.m. — A body that is undoubtedly that of Miss J. Loveday of Peterborough, Ont., has just been taken from the Gilmour Hotel fire ruins. This was a few minutes before two, and it is a terrible sight. Only the trunk remains and it is so charged and unrecognizable as to forbid by mere sight, even determining the sex.

Almost Positive.

While it is not positive yet, it is almost certain that it is Miss Loveday. It was found right under the room at the corner of Gilmour and Bank streets, that she occupied. One hand was clenched. Both thigh bones, the legs, one arm and the head are missing. The gruesome task of searching for the dead goes on. The last body has just been placed in a box, and hurried to Rogar's morgue on Bank street, where two more are since mine this morning.

A TRIBUTE TO MISS LOVEDAY

The numerous friends of—it is sadly compulsory to write—the late Miss Loveday who knew her in Peterborough only to respect and love her for her many beautiful qualities of character and disposition, and also the Hazel Brae children placed throughout the district under her jurisdiction, will learn with deep regret of the certainty of her death in so terrible a manner by the burning of the Gilmour Hotel, Ottawa. Miss Loveday was a resident of Peterborough for fourteen years. She came here in 1892 and for seven years was identified with the Hazel Brae work in the capacity of visitor to adopted girls in their several homes, and for seven years she has performed the duties of secretary, a position she occupied at the time of her death. She had no relatives in this country. Her home was in Leicester, England with a married sister, Mrs. Matthews. She will leave behind her many affectionate memories. She was of noble character and fulfilled faithfully the obligations of her responsible position as well as those of friendship and the other claims of social relations.

Director Of Steel Rolling Mills Confirms Report Of Other Offers

A director of the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Company, to-day confirmed the statement made in yesterday's Examiner to the effect that the solicitor of the Company had received an offer from Niagara Falls, Ont., which constituted a strong inducement to the Company to locate their mills in that city. He further stated that Niagara Falls was not the only place which will put up a fight with Peterborough for this industry, which promises to develop into a very valuable one to the city if it can be secured. The inducements offered include free sites, cheap power, etc., and the director referred to was frank in his statement that the offers submitted were of a tempting nature.

However, the stockholders are all Peterborough men, and would much prefer to make it a Peterborough concern if the odds against locating here were not too heavy.

The gentleman, who is one of the large stockholders of the new Company, stated that the prospects for the future of the Company were very bright, indeed. In the first place there was a large market available. At least ten times the annual output of the proposed mills is imported into Canada each year, and there is no doubt that the Peterborough mills could get all of this business that they could handle, and the probabilities are that right from the start it would be a growing concern. The dairectors assert that the question of the supply of raw material is one easily solved, and all the natural conditions seem to favour a successful operation of the mills in Peterborough that is, of course, provided the by-law, the passing of which is a condition of the mills locating in this city, is supported by the ratepayers on Oct., 2nd, the date upon which the vote will be taken.

The free site which the Company asks from the city as an inducement to establish its mills here is considerably less than the offers which have already been made voluntarily by councils of other places to secure the industry, recognizing as they do that a steel works is one of the very best industries to secure; the men are well paid, and as a rule spend their money freely, and, with the present prospects in Canada, there should be no question about the prosperity of any steel works making goods for which there is a demand.

No doubt the ratepayers will take these facts into consideration when they vote on the Steel Rolling Mills and Rapid Tool Company bylaws on Oct. 2nd.

Belleville, Ont.—A bad fire occurred at the Carrying Place, a small village in Prince Edward county, not far from this city, and situated near the entrance of the Murray canal. The Methodist church, a store house, two dwellings and some sheds were burned. The loss will be in the neighbourhood of $10,000. Messrs. Henry Hayes and Sydney Bowen were the owners of the property burnt.

NOT SO CLEVER.

Mail and Empire.—When last Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke in Toronto he pretended to have discovered the Japanese market. The Japanese, he told us, were just beginning to eat flour, and he had conceived the glorious idea of supplying them from our Northwest. This is the reason why he favoured the construction of the G. T. P. on the terms he had pushed through Parliament. "Sunny ways" did not know they grew wheat in Japan. This year the crop is 98,000,000 bushels.

The organ thinks it has made a clever point. Great Britain, with a population of forty-two millions and an annual wheat production of fifty million bushels, imports for the use of its people, wheat to the extent of 150 million bushels per year, about three times as much as she produces. Japan, with a population of forty-seven millions, could use a greater quantity of wheat than Great Britain. Supposing that the figures of Japan's wheat production, as given by the Mail and Empire, are correct—a very hazardous assumption when the organ is dealing with political matters—that country would, in addition to her own production, need to import more than the total wheat production of Canada. So that after all, Sir Wilfrid was justified in his ambition to supply Japan with wheat, and the sneer of the organ is quite gratuitous and misplaced. The Mail and Empire is deserving of sympathy. There is such a famine of faults that can be justly laid at the door of the Laurier Government, that it is forced to the employment of its inventive faculties to maintain its role of common political scold.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is being steadily borne in upon the consciousness of the public that Mr. Whitney's "free-as-air" talk about water power is only "hot-air."

Czar Nicholas is taking a holiday and the despatches say that he is enjoying hunting. He has, himself, been hunted enough to know how it feels.

The Healey Falls power will begin to turn wheels about as soon as the Burleigh Falls power. In respect of both these powers the chief wheels turned are in the heads of the manipulators.

The United States is a wonderful country. It even makes its political mistakes a medium of making money. Cuba was so managed as to throw it into rebellion and the enterprising citizens of the United States are making profit out of supplying the insurgents with arms.

The Russian Terrorists will not be baulked of their end. If they can't land on a tyrant with a bomb, they frighten him to death. The death of Trepoff, the iron-fisted, is an example. True, he died in his bed, but his death was brought on by the nervous strain arising from a constant dread of death to which the Terrorists had doomed him.

The farmer, says the Bracebridge Gazette, keeps on improving his stock, and through competition at the Fair, where competent judges are in charge, he finds out in what respect he has gained, and maybe lost. He is thereby better able to go ahead improving and rectifying any errors he has made. It is an education in the truest sense, and one that can be gained in no other way.

The death of Mr. H. Carscallen, of Hamilton, will appeal to many in Peterborough who had come in contact with him in the course of city business before the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature, of which Mr. Carscallen was chairman for two sessions. He had a facility for expediting business, and in his death the Conservative party loses one of the most capable men on the Government benches.

It is said that the late Mr. Carscallen, who began life well—as a Liberal—was led, by lack of recognition, to change his political faith. He did not seem to gain much. His merits still remained unrecognized, after he had become a Conservative, though he stood head and shoulders above some of the political nonentities who have received political preferment, which they make about as effective use of as a blind man would of a telescope.

SOME FACTS REGARDING CANADA'S PROSPERITY

In view of the approaching convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Winnipeg, the Globe has the following:

The manufacturers are on the way to Winnipeg — hundreds of them. When they meet in convention there they will, no doubt, once more demand "adequate protection," and urge that when Parliament meets in November to revise the tariff, the duties of the minimum schedule shall be "scaled up." That is the euphonism that means higher all-round duties. The case for the increase is thus put in Industrial Canada, the organ of the association:

"The great expansion of trade is a subject of satisfaction. It is regrettable, however, that our imports of manufactured articles should bulk as large in the returns as they do. It is scarcely creditable to Canada that, with her lavish natural resources and immense facilities for production, the imports should go on increasing as they do. The wealth of a nation cannot be measured by the gross amount of imports. It is poorer by every dollar's worth of goods imported which might be manufactured here. In the midst of prosperity it is well to cast the account and see if too much of it is not the result of a sacrifice of natural resources, which we shall suffer for later."

There you have the protectionist creed in a nutshell—exports increasing, imports decreasing spell happiness and prosperity. Well, let us see. Canada is more prosperous today than ever before. Ten years ago it was not exactly a land flowing with milk and honey. Even the manufacturers were gloomy after years of depression, and the farmers' thermometers showed zero weather.

The imports of Canada for home consumption in the year ending June, 1906, were $110,587,000, or over twenty millions less than the exports. We should have been happy and prosperous if the theory of Industrial Canada is right. The incomplete returns of this year show that our imports from out two chief sources of supply—Great Britain and the States—were over a quarter of a billion dollars, while our exports to these two countries were $211,002,877. Our imports are much greater than our exports; therefore we should be in worse condition than in 1896.

Are we? On Friday, September 11, 1896, the Globe had advertisements calling for just twelve mechanics. On Friday last, September 14, there were requests for 170. In the ten years that have passed since the adquate protection apostles were swept out of office the country has grown so fast that there is scarcely a city in the Dominion that does not suffer from a house famine.

The manufacturers' organ publishes a table of the value of Canada's foreign trade at ten-year intervals. Here it is:

1876—$174,176,781.
1886—$189,675,875.
1896—$239,025,360.
1906—$552,000,000.

Industrial Canada might well publish Sir Charles Tupper's jeremiad in the Commons when the tariff was introduced under which all this expansion has taken place. He said on April 26, 1897:

"This tariff goes into force, and the hon. gentleman (Sir Richard Cartwright) knows that the industries of this country are already paralyzed in consequence. While hon. members gloat, vindictively gloat, over the destruction of Canadian industries, I was reading the wail, the sorrowful wail, of those industries in the Montreal Gazette, where one manufacturer after another declared that their industries were ruined, that their mills must close, and that they saw staring them in the face a return to the deplorable state of things that existed when the hon. gentleman was in charge of the fiscal policy of the country."

Ten years of abounding prosperity followed this woeful prophecy. Surely the sorrowful wail is not again to be raised at Winnipeg. If it is the country will split its sides with laughter. Even Sir Charles himself sees the joke by this time.

Well Known Hastings Citizen Passed Away

Joseph H. Carter, Who Has Relatives Here, is Dead.

Special to the Examiner

Hastings, September 18. — A very old resident of this district passed away at Havelock on Friday morning in the person of Mr. Joseph H. Carter of this village.

The deceased went to visit his son, Julian, at Havelock, on Monday last, apparently in his usual health. On Wednesday he became ill and grew gradually worse until the end came on Friday. He met his fate with Christian resignation, buoyed with the Christian's hope. During his illness he sang his favourite hymn, "On Jordan's stormy bank I stand."

The late Joseph Carter was born in Otonabee township, Peterborough county, in 1839. He moved to Percy in 1860, and a year later married Mrs. King, who survives him. Four years ago he retired from farming, and came here to live.

Besides his wife, four sons and six daughters survive. They are John, of Westwood, Joseph, of Hastings, Julian of Havelock, Robert of Peterborough; Mrs. John McConnell, of Montana, Mrs. George Buchanan of Havelock, Mrs. William English of Hastings, Mrs. Ross Payne of Peterborough, Miss Jennie and Miss Nellie Carter, of Hastings.

The funeral took place on Sunday to the Trent Valley Cemetery. At the service at the church Rev. Mr. Elliott spoke very feelingly of the deceased, basing his remarks on the text, "I would not live alway." The funeral was one of the largest ever seen in Hastings.

A New Christian Endeavour Society

Was Formed at Knox Church Last Night.

Last night a meeting was held in Knox church for the purpose of organizing a Christian Endeavour Society among the young people of the church. The meeting was well attended, and the prospects for a successful society in connection with this church are very bright. It commences with a good list of members, and under the presidency of Rev. Mr. Bright, assisted by a good staff of officers should be a factor in the work of this progressive church.

The list of officers elected at the meeting last night is as follows:—

President—Rev. A. Bright.
Vice-President—H. G. McCammon.
Secretary—Miss Carr.
Treasurer—Miss W. Anderson.
Organist—Miss Childs.

The Convenors of the different committees were appointed as follows:—

Lookout—Miss J. Hamilton.
Prayer Meeting—Mr. W. Shea.
Missionary—Miss Helen Hall.
Music—Miss Childs.
Social—Mrs. W. Shea.

The new society will meet each Monday night in future, and hopes entertained for its success, which, judging by the auspicious circumstances under which it has been organized, seem likely to be realized.

About 20,000 Oddfellows Report In Queen City

Are to Parade Through Streets On Wednesday.

WELCOME TO THREE LINKERS

Premier of Ontario and Mayor Coatsworth of the Queen City Extend a Most Cordial Welcome on Behalf of Province and City — Drill Companies Begin Their Work—Telling Statistics of Order.

Toronto, Sept. 18.—The public welcome tendered the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., yesterday morning in the Legislative Chamber of the Ontario Parliament Buildings was an evidence that the 52nd Communication of that organization was now in full swing.

No more royal welcome was ever tendered the delegates of any convention than that given yesterday morning. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity with representatives from the Grand Lodges and members of Rebekah Assembly.

A Triple Welcome.

Those who delivered the addresses of welcome were: Hon. J. P. Whitney, Prime Minister of Ontario, in behalf of the province; His Worship, Emerson Coatsworth, Mayor of Toronto, in behalf of the city; J. J. Graham, chairman of the Civic Reception Committee; W. S. Johnston, Grand Master for Ontario; Joseph Powley, Grand Patriarch for Ontario; and Miss Ida J. Robins, president of the Rebekah Assembly, in behalf of the order in this jurisdiction.

Owing to the temporary indisposition of the Grand Sire, Hon. Robt. E. Wright, Deputy Grand Sire E. S. Conway responded to the addresses of welcome.

Cantons Complete.

Three cantons of 27 men each, including captain and two lieutenants, completed in the drilling competitions. These were from Detroit, Toledo and Washington. The evolutions were little short of marvellous and the experts were cheered to the echo by the large crowd of spectators at the Exhibition grounds. To those unacquainted with the possibilities of fancy drill yesterday's exhibition was a revelation. The judges will give their decision to-day. The first prize is $750, and the second prize $350.

To-day at 9.30 four cantons will enter into competition in class B, resuming at 3.30. The Patriarchs Militant Band of the 3rd Regiment, Department of Pennsylvania, will provide music.

Camp Opened.

The formal ceremony of opening the camp took place about 1 p. m. when a handsome large tri-color of purple, red and white, was flaunted to the breeze from the official flagstaff in the presence of Gen. M. A. Raney and Col. W. S. Johnston, who is camp commandant of Camp Wright. There was thus allowed no opportunity for any "flag incident." the tri-color, which is the emblem of the Patriarchs Militant, being innocent of any unpleasant possibilities.

The ceremony, which was concluded by a few words from Major-General Harris, expressive of feelings of international amity, was conducted in the presence of about 1,000 Oddfellows.

Official Reports.

The report of the grand sire and commander-in-chief, R. E. Wright, stated that, except for the San Francisco earthquake the year had been one of unexampled prosperity for the order.

Grand Secretary J. B. Goodwin compared the growth since the last convention in Toronto in 1880, when the total active membership of subordinate lodges was 440,158, as against 1,278,065 now,

The total membership of encampments was 185,370 at the end of 1905 and the net gain over the previous year 7,531; the total Rebekah membership, 501,283, the net gain over the previous year being 37,224; the sisters of Rebekah lodges 322,647, the net gain of sisters being 19,171; and the net gain of brothers of Rebekah lodges 3,053, the net gain in all of the above branches being 86,675.

The total contribution for the relief of Oddfellows in San Francisco was $208,781.16.

The report of the grand treasurer W. R. Muckle, showed receipts amounting to $181,123.48, which included a cash balance from last year of $70,274.43, and expenditure of $71,860.55, leaving a balance in banks to credit of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of $109,262.93.

Every train yesterday brought delegates, but the big crowd is expected to-morrow, when at least 20,000 will come in for the parade. Meanwhile the downtown streets are becoming gayer with bunting.

46 Bushels to the Acre.

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—The biggest yield of wheat per acre for the province for this year, was threshed on William Wilson's farm, north of Boissevain, off 16 acres of back setting. Wilson got 691 bushels of wheat, a fraction over 46 bushels per acre. The wheat was grown from red fife seed, costing $1 per bushel.

Good-Bye to Zion.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—John Alexander Dowie Sunday announced a farewell service at Shiloh for next Sunday. Immediately after this service he will leave for Mexico. It is not expected that he will ever see Zion City again.

Strike on the Wabash.

St. Louis, Sept. 18.—General Manager Henry Miller of the Wabash road stated yesterday:

"Boilermakers, blacksmith and machinists, to the total number of about 300, went on strike at Moberly, Mo., Fort Wayne, Ind., and Springfield, Ill, yesterday, without notice, after having refused an offer of arbitration.

"These men leaving will not affect the handling of business."

Would Betray If It Dared.

London, Sept. 18.—(C. A. P.)—The Churchill letter to Hamar Greenwood appears in the London and provincial newspapers. The Globe says that not all the piteous appeals of newly-converted under secretaries to Hamar Greenwood will alter the "colonial" conviction that radicalism would betray them if it dared."

Peace Proposal Rejected And The Fight Goes On

Cuban Rebels Decide Against Proposals of Palma.

INSURGENTS ELECT OFFICERS

First Division Under Major-General Pino Guerra and Second Will Answer to Castillo—Reports of Fighting in Cuba Are Coming In—Washington Is Hopeful—New York Junta Impeaches Palma.

Havana, Sept. 18.—At a meeting of rebel leaders, held in the town hall of Bejucal yesterday, it was decided, after a number of violent speeches had been delivered, not to accept the peace propositions of the Government.

The leaders of the rebel forces in the western part of Cuba held a general meeting Sunday near Elcano and elected Pino Guerra to be major-general of the first division, and Toynaz Del Castillo to be major-general of the second division of the insurgent army. Asbert, Mira, Aronciba and Guas were chosen brigadier generals.

Wounds 175 Rebels.

Gen. Rodriguez, the commander of the Government forces, reports that as a result of his fight with the rebels at Waday, Sept. 14, 115 rebels were wounded and sent to hospitals. The Government in this engagement had seven men killed and 14 wounded.

A small force of insurgents attacked 30 Government soldiers in Sanfelica, near Batabano, Sunday, but were repulsed.

Word has reached here of the first fighting in Santo Province. Four hundred rebels, under Col. Dubois met the rural guardsmen at Lamaya. The result of the engagement is not known.

Explosion in Havana.

A violent explosion occurred here yesterday morning and wrecked two brick buildings. Six persons were killed and many wounded. No details of the cause are yet at hand. The explosion is thought to be the work of incendiaries. The buildings at once caught fire. Dead and wounded are still being taken from the wreckage. The buildings were insured.

All is Quiet.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Commander Colwell of the cruiser Denver, at Havana, telegraphed the Navy Department yesterday that all was quiet there Hostilities formally ceased Sunday and a definite settlement of the trouble seemed possible yesterday.

British Moved Roosevelt.

New York, Sept. 18.—The Times prints a story to the effect that the real cause of the action of President Roosevelt in regard to Cuba was not the appeals of American sugar planters near Cienfuegos, but a complaint made through the British embassy at Washington regarding the damage done to the property of the Western Railroad, which is owned by British capitalists, and the heads of which are in London.

PALMA ARRAIGNED.

Revolutionary Junta In New York Issues Proclamation Telling Why Liberals No Longer Recognize Him.

New York, Sept. 18.—The revolutionary Junta of New York has issued a proclamation which says:

"We have been careful not to overdraw the seriousness of the political situation in Cuba, and have made no charges that cannot be fully substantiated.

"We charge that President Palma obtained his election to office through fraud and intimidation, and by the denial to the Liberals to their right of suffrage.

"We charge that the Government of President Palma was directly responsible for the killing of Col. Enrique Villucudas, a member of the House of Representatives at Cienfuegos on Sept. 22, 1905.

"We charge that President Palma has usurped the powers and functions of the governing bodies of the municipalities, and has annulled, arbitrarily and without warrant of law, the elections of Liberal officials, displacing them with members of his own political party, the Moderates.

"We charge that he has in like manner removed from the bench, judges who refused to act in their judicial capacity according to his dictation. President Palma also has imprisoned, without judicial proceedings, members of the Liberal party because they protested against his dictatorial conduct.

"The Liberals have made continued peaceful appeals that this injustice be righted, but to all these, the Government turned a deaf ear, denied the constitutional rights for which the Cubans fought, bled and died for nearly half a century, we decided that our one recourse was again to take up arms.

"We now ask only one thing, and that is that the illegal and fraudulent election of last December be annulled and a new election held, at which every Cuban citizen will be given a fair chance to vote."

In concluding the proclamation says: "That Palma is to-day the dictator of Cuba instead of Weyler," and declares that the men who surround him are the same who supported the Spanish regime while patriotic Cubans were in the field fighting.

Big Guns Open Campaign.

Port Burwell, Sept. 18.—The bye-election campaign in East Elgin, in the interests of W. F. Hepburn, the Liberal candidate, was opened with a meeting here last night. The "feature" orators were Hon. Charles Hyman and Hon. A. B. Aylesworth. W. H. Williams presided and the hall was well filled.

Persia's New Council.

Teheran, Persia, Sept. 18.—According to an ordinance just published, the new Persian National Council will consist of 156 members. Teheran will be represented by 60 members, while the provinces will send 96.

After Forty Years.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—President Hay of the Bible Society has retired after forty years' service.

The Canadian Manufacturers And The Tariff

No Uncertain Sound Is Heard At Winnipeg.

THEY WANT HIGHER DUTIES

President of the Manufacturers' Association, C. C. Ballantyne, Makes This Perfectly Clear In His Address at the Annual Meeting—Unfolds In Alluring Picture Plan For the Capture of the West.

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—Over 200 delegates to the convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association were registered here yesterday morning when several sections met for business. Most interesting was a meeting of subscribers to and members interested in the formation of a mutual fire insurance company. This was endorsed.

In the afternoon the reports of the treasurer and parliamentary and technical education committees were received.

Last night a civic reception was tendered at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, when addresses of welcome were given by Premier Roblin, Mayor Sharpe and others, which were replied to by Vice-President Cockshutt of Brantford.

The reading of the annual address of President Ballantyne was, of course, the feature. He drew an alluring picture of the prospects of the west as a field for the establishment of manufacturers. His remarks were constantly applauded. On the question of the tariff he said:

Build Up Canada.

"It is for us to say whether we will continue to purchase our manufactured goods in the United States, or put just a little more tariff on certain lines, and make the factories in the States build plants in Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Medicine Hat, Regina, Edmonton of any other of the many centres in our great western prairies which have advantages to offer, and by this means keep the population we are getting.

"It must be a matter of gratification to all patriotic Canadians that the fiscal policy has ceased to be a matter of partisan controversy. The leading politicians of both political parties now recognize the necessity of protecting Canadian industries of all kinds, and we may hope that when the members of our Dominion Parliament are called together in November to consider the revision of the tariff, they will set aside all old prejudices and look at the question from the broad standpoint of Canadian interests, that they will consider what policy will best develop the varied resources of our country, give profitable employment of all classes of our people and maintain and advance the prosperity that now exists.

"It is a deplorable fact that many of our provincial legislators have so forgotten the great confederation idea of unity that they have been only too ready to devise means to add to the local revenue by taxation directed at the business people of other provinces, thereby imposing unnatural restrictions upon inter-provincial trade."

WORKING FOR ARBITRATION.

Strike In Winnipeg Ties Up a Million Dollars In Buildings.

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—Building operations in Winnipeg are entirely suspended.

The building inspector states that $1,000,000 in city buildings is tied up.

A union committee was formed to wait on the city council and the Legislature later on if necessary to try and induce master plumbers to arbitrate.

Almost Killed by Dog.

Hamilton, Sept. 18.—Mrs. P. W. Burrows, 501 East Cannon street, was almost worried to death Sunday by a big St. Bernard dog. The brute thought Mrs. Burrows was going to attack his mistress, Mrs. Williams, and sprang on Mrs. Burrows, knocking her down and tearing her arm, breast and hand. The owner, Peter Williams, labored the dog over the head with a big shovel, but it paid no attention to him. Mrs. Burrows is in a serious condition, but Dr. Wickett has some hope of saving her life. It was thought at first that her arm would have to be amputated, but the doctor says he will be able to save the limb. The dog was shot.

Deckhand's Foot Cut Off.

Hamilton, Sept. 18.—Yesterday morning Thomas Frawley, a deck hand on the Macassa was the victim of a peculiar accident. As the boat was tying up at the beach pier, he got his foot caught in the rope and his foot was cut off at the ankle, dropping on to the deck. He was taken to the city hospital where the leg was amputated.

Running In Two Months.

Winnipeg, Sept. 18.—A contract for building a line from the land selected for the G. T. P. shops, four miles east of St. Boniface, was awarded yesterday, and within eight weeks G. T. P. engines will be running into Winnipeg.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, September 18. — The stock market to-day again took on new vigour with the opening, and advanced by specialties, and groups, during which time a natural profit taking took place in issues that had been raised. Reading was the feature with an advance of six points. Am. Locomotive and Car Foundry advanced further on good buying influenced by the brilliant showing the equipment companies are now making; while Republic Steel was again in demand advancing two points easily. These last two named issues are still cheap and good for higher prices.

Money was a trifle firmer to-day and the Imperial Bank of Germany advanced its discount rate to 5 per cent. The market reacted a little in the late trading but the close was firm.

GLAD TREPOFF IS DEAD.

Over 100 People Rejoicing at His Demise, Placed Under Arrest.

Odessa, Sept. 18.—Upwards of one hundred persons were arrested here yesterday for rejoicing over the death of Gen. Trepoff in too public a manner.

The funeral of the late Gen. Dmitri Trepoff will take place Wednesday morning. In accordance with the desires of the deceased, the ceremony will be conducted in the most simple manner, consistent with official usage. The body will be interred in the chapel attached to the palace at Peterhof.

The appointment of Gen. Dedioulin to succeed Gen. Trepoff has been made permanent as "acting commandant." He is too low in the official hierarchy to receive the full title.

Bullets For the Judge.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Sept. 18.—Gen. Doroshevsky, president of the court-martial which, on Sept. 15, condemned two revolutionists to death by hanging, was shot at and wounded in the thigh while driving here yesterday.

Operation on Witte.

Berlin, Sept. 18.—A despatch to The Lokel Anzeiger from Hamburg, says that Count Witte, ex-Premier of Russia, was operated upon Sunday for the fifth time by Prof. Spiesa for polypi of the nose.

BRITISH ADMIRAL DIES.

Sir Edward Chichester Who Saved World's Peace at Manila.

Gibraltar, Sept. 18.—Rear Admiral Sir Edward Chichester, who commanded the British squadron at Manila during the Spanish-American war, died here yesterday of pneumonia, after an illness of a few days.

Rear Admiral Chichester was chief of the sea transport service during the South African war. His work in transporting a quarter of a million men 5,000 miles to South Africa won him great praise.

It was Sir Edward Chichester who, according to report, "stood by" the Americans in Manila Bay at a time when friction between Admiral Dewey and the German commander seemed likely to lead to serious consequences.

One account of the affair, printed in a London paper, said that "when the American and German fleets were grinning defiance at each other in parallel lines, their decks cleared for action, Capt. Chichester stolidly steered the British squadron between them, giving, indeed, an exhibition of calmness, tact and nautical good humor that probably saved a battle which would have resulted in disaster to the peace of the world."

WILL KEEP PUBLIC OUT.

Keepers Object to Prosecution by the Provincial Inspector.

Tara, Sept. 18.—Last week Provincial Inspector Ayearst for local option municipalities, arrived in Tara and searched two hotels, securing liquor to the value of about $70.

In the Police Court Friday, both hotelkeepers pleaded guilty and were fined $50 and costs and the liquor was destroyed.

On Saturday the hotelmen fenced in their property and will not accommodate the traveling public in anyway. The temperance people intend to take care of travelers until such times as the hotelkeepers are ready to open their houses.

MISS PIERCE ABANDONS ALL HOPE OF FINDING MISS LOVEDAY ALIVE, SHE WRITES HERE

This morning the officials at the Barnardo Home here received a letter from Miss Pierce, at Ottawa, confirming her telegram of yesterday in reference to Miss Loveday. In part the letter reads:

"You will realize from my telegram that all hope of finding her alive has been abandoned. She had a room on the third floor at the rear of the building. On one side was Mrs. Beckett's room, and on the other Miss O'Neil's, both of whom are also missing. The universal opinion is that the smoke rolled over them so quickly that they were suffocated even before they awoke at all. My long search ended when I telegraphed to to you. In as much certainty as we can obtain until the walls of the building have been pulled down. It is quite unsafe at present to go into the building. Strong hopes are entertained here of recovering the bodies. However, I feel very doubtful about it."

Some Interesting Cases Slated For Fall Assizes

Harry George Walters Claims Damages From Jas. Allen For Alienation of His Wife's Affections—Several Claims for Damages for Compensation for Injuries.

There are some interesting civil cases to come up at the Fall Assizes of the High Court, which opens in Peterborough on October 8, before His Honour Mr. Justice Britton. The following are some of the cases that will have to be unravelled:

Walters versus Allan.

The plaintiff in this case, Harry George Waters, a hotel cashier, residing in Toronto, but formerly residing in Peterborough; the defendant, James Allan, formerly proprietor of the C. P. R. Hotel. The plaintiff claims that defendant wrongfully enticed away from the plaintiff, Gertrude Flora Waters, the plaintiff's wife, and counselled her to absent herself from the home of the plaintiff, wherefore the said Gertrude Flora Waters, during July and August, 1906, absented herself from the home of her husband, and the affections of the said Gertrude Flora Waters were alienated from the plaintiff.

Hillier versus Hillier.

The plaintiff, Sarah Hillier, is the widow of Samuel Joseph Hillier, and the defendant, Henry H. Hillier, is a brother of said Samuel Jos. Hillier. The plaintiff claims that a cheque for $1,000, being the benefit of a policy of insurance on the life of the said Samuel Jos. Hillier, in the Canadian Order of Foresters, was delivered by the plaintiff to the defendant to be deposited by him to her credit in the Ontario Bank, and that beyond the sum of $150, she has not received any of the balance, nor is there any amount deposited in the said bank to her credit.

The plaintiff claims the payment to her of the balance of the said sum.

The defendant claims that he from time to time paid out the said monies to the plaintiff and to other persons, as requested by her, until the said sum of $150 had been expended, and that he did not retain any part of the said money for his own benefit.

Jewett versus Canadian Cordage Co.

In this case, the plaintiff, Ed. Davidson Jewett, claims $1,500 from the defendants as compensation for injuries received while in the employ of defendants. It will be remembered that Jewett was injured in March last by being struck on the head by a bobbin.

Byers versus Kidd.

In this case the plaintiff, John Byers, is asdealer in timber, residing at Fraserville, and defendant, Walter Allen Kidd, is a storekeeper, residing at the same place. The plaintiff claims that the defendant at the town hall in Millbrook, in the presence of Robt. Doan, J.P., James Hanley and a number of others, falsely and maliciously spoke concerning the plaintiff, the words "You are the man that cut the bags and destroyed my coal," meaning thereby that the plaintiff wilfully destroyed certain bags containing coal, the property of defendant, with intent to steal or injure the contents, or part, thereof, or did steal the same. The plaintiff claims the sum of $1,000 for the said slanders.

Duncan versus Wm. Hamilton Co.

The plaintiff, Wm. Duncan, residing in Peterborough, claims $1,500 damages from defendants as compensations for injuries claimed to have been received while in the employ of defendants. The plaintiff further claims that his injuries were caused by negligence on the part of the defendants.

1,400 Barnardo Wards To Canada During 1906

Mr. Owen States That the Work Has Prospered Well This Year—No Interruption Resulting From Dr. Barnardo's Death—Another Party to Leave for Canada on Oct. 11th.

Between 1,300 and 1,400 boys and girls will be brought to Canada this year to the Barnardo Homes, according to the statement of Mr. Owen, who has chargee of the work in Canada. Mr. Owen told the Examiner last night before leaving for Ottawa, that the work of the Homes this year had been very successful. The demand for boys and girls and more particularly the latter, exceeded the supply. Already this year four parties have been sent out to Canada, and next week, Mr. Owen leaves again for England to conduct another party, which leaves on October 11th. This party will number about 300.

Since the lamentable death of Dr. Barnardo, the work has not suffered in the least, those whom he had trained taking up the reins of office and continued his work without any interruption. The people of England, Mr. Owen states, seems to be very anxious for the work to be continued, evidence of this feeling being furnished by the fact that the contributions to the cause are very generous.

George McIlmoyle, The Blind Lace Merchant

Was Doing Business For Some Time in Peterborough Before Going to Brantford, His Present Home.

Many persons in Peterborough remember George McIlmoyle, the blind shoe lace pedlar, who made his home in Peterborough for some months, and will be interested in the following from the Brantford Expositor:

"Yes, sir, I like this place. Why? Well, it's a good spot to live in—can't see it, you know, but it's all right, just the same. And the people—I like them splendidly. They are much more liberal than those in other places, and are a better class of citizens in every way.

Blind, but Happy.

The above, in brief, is the opinion of George McIlmoyl, as regards Brantford and its people.

But you ask, Who is George McIlmoyl? George is probably best known as a blind man who stands at the postoffice corner disposing of shoe laces and pencils.

The loss of his sight has neither discouraged nor disheartened him, and though necessarily labouring under a great disadvantage, he carries his burden lightly and with a cheerful mien.

Bit of History.

George has been blind since he was three years of age. Now, he is probably between 25 and 30. He lost his sight, not through any accident or mishap, but as a result of inflammation of the eyes.

For six years he attended the Institution for the Blind in this city, and was educated there. He talks well, is always cheerful, willing to work, and anxious to serve his patrons.

His Business Line.

About a year ago George went into the shoe lace business and since then has been in Peterborough and a few other places.

Less than six months ago he struck Brantford, and has gotten along so well and has been so favourably impressed by the people that he has decided to remain here indefinitely.

MACHINE TELEPHONE TO GET LINDSAY FRANCHISE

Mr. F. D. Mackay, general manager of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, was in the city to-day returning from Lindsay, where he was last night attending the meeting of the Council, at which the question of telephone franchises was discussed. It will be remembered that at a previous meeting of the Council a resolution favouring competition in 'phones in Lindsay, was passed, and last night, after a full discussion of the question, another resolution recommending that an agreement with the Machine Telephone Company be prepared, and that it be considered at a meeting of the Council to be called at a later date, was passed.

It is quite probable that the Machine Company will be given a franchise in that town in the near future, a number of the citizens of that town having seen the working of the system in Peterborough, and expressed themselves as being pleased with it.

The Summer Park Has Big Profits

Montreal Amusement Park Will Show 10 Per Cent. Profit

Summer amusement parks apparently pay well, judging by the following in reference to Dominion Park, Montreal, a resort which many Peterborough visitors to Montreal have visited:

Local interests stand to make a lot of money out of Dominion Park. The company's first season, according to an official statement, will show earnings close to $250,000. A conservative estimate is that over one million people went to the park during the summer, spending an average of 25 cents a head.

After paying the 6 per cent. interest on the $300,000 of bonds issued, the company will pay 10 or 12 per cent. on the $400,000 of common stock, which was secured by the bondholders at the outset in the form of a bonus. It is said that the conservative interests are in favour of a 10 per cent. rate for the first season. This will require $40,000. After this the company would still be able to carry forward a very good surplus.

At the outset there was little demand for the securities, but as the summer progressed and the crowds kept going down to the park, local brokers strongly advised their purchase. The common stock was quoted to-day at 65 bid and 75 asked.

President States Council's Position

C. P. Murty Says Solicitor Does Not Represent T. and L. Council.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There is in the city a gentleman soliciting advertisements from our merchants to be inserted in a "Union Directory and Memorandum Book." I wish to state that he is not connected in any way with the Trades and Labour Council, nor has he any authority from them to canvass in their name.

CHAS. P. MURTY,
President, T. & L. C.

Guilds' Meet To Plan Work

Two Young Men's Guilds Hold Opening Meetings.

To-night two Young Men's Guilds commence their meetings for the fall and winter seasons. At St. Paul's the annual election of officers will take place, and the plans for the work will be discussed. This guild conducted a somewhat elaborate programme, and the meetings at which the mock parliament was held were well attended and much interest was aroused. St. Andrew's Guild will also meet to-night, and while the election of officers will not be held at this meeting, the members will take up the work for the season and discuss it.

Lumber Brought From Stony Lake

175,000 Feet Basswood for the Canoe Company

A number of men are engaged at the Wolfe street wharf to-day in unloading the 175,000 feet of lumber which arrived by the steamer Beaver on Saturday night. The lumber was manufactured at Mr. Buck's mills, Gilchrist's Bay, Stony Lake, and was brought down by two scows. It is chiefly basswood of the finest quality, and will be used by the Peterborough Canoe Co.

Many Lands To Be Sold For Taxes

County Treasurer's List Includes a Large Number of Lots

There are many plots of land to be sold for taxes at the county treasurer's sale, which will take place tomorrow at 10 o'clock in the Court House. The list includes land in all sections of the country. Among the properties offered for sale are a half lot in Belmont, six portions of lots in Methuen, seven in Burleigh, which includes Islands No. 25 and 93, in Stony Lake. There are fourteen sections of land offered in Chandos and three in Douro. In Dummer there are two half lits and Islands 23, 47, and 49, in Stony Lake. Galway contributes eight sections of land and Cavendish——, while Harvey is represented by the biggest number of sales on the list, there being no less than 36 lots or parts of lots there upon which taxes have have not been paid. In Hall's Bridge, lot 11, George street, and a mill site are included in the list. In Smith the east half of lot 42, Con. 15, is the only one offered for sale.

Their Wedding Was Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. John Lundry, Married 20 Years

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Londry, 431 Bethune street, a very pleasant evening was spent on Friday, the 14th inst., the event being the twenty-first anniversary of their wedding. Music was the first feature of the evening, after which the guests were taken to the drawing-room, where a sumptuous repat was served. Their many friends wish them many long years of happiness.

County Council Special Meeting

To Appoint Officials for the House of Refuge

The County Council will hold a special meeting on Friday morning for the purpose of appointing a matron and superintendent for the House of Refuge at Lakefield. The building is being rapidly completed and these officials will have to be appointed at once. The council will likely take up the question of how the House of Refuge is to be maintained. On Saturday the Council will open the tenders for the sale of debentures, covering the cost of the new bridges.

A. BLADE & SONS NEW TOMATOES

Messrs A. Blade & Son, of the West End Greenhouses, have introduced this season two new varieties of tomatoes, of their own growing, which give promise of popularity. The two samples shown are good yielders and the plant has not the broad leaf of the "Plentiful." One variety is a rich pink colour, the other a clear red. Both varieties are smooth, plum, solid and fleshy, and entirely free from wrinkles or blemish. They have been appropriately named "Perfection" and "Prosperity," and plants for next year's crop are promised. See advt..

Prices At The Stock Yards

The Prices Paid at This Week's Market.

The receipts of live stock at the United Stock Yards, Toronto, yesterday, were 100 cars, consisting of 2,091 cattle, 765 sheep, 13 hogs, 7 calves.

The quality of fat cattle was medium; trade was fair. Export prices ranged from $4.60 to $4.75, the bulk selling at $4.80 to $4.90. Export bulls sold at $3.50 to $4.00. Butchers prices for picked lots of choice ranged from $4.75 to $4.90; good from $4.00 to $4.50; medium $3.60 to $3.90; common $3.25 to $3.40; butcher cows $3.50 to $3.75; canners $1.00 to $4.00; feeders from $3.80 to $4.00; stockers from $2.25 to $3.25. Veal calves sold at $5.00 to $6.50 per 100 lbs; milch cows and springers at $45.00 to $55.00. Sheep and lambs.—Export ewes from $4.00 to $4.50; bucks $3.00 to $3.75; yearling lambs $4.75 to $5.00; spring lambs at $5.75 to $6.00. Hogs.—Selects sold at $6.40, light $6.15.

Cheese Prices Have Advanced In Montreal

Prospects for a good sale of cheese to-morrow at the cheese Board are pretty good, judging by the condition of the trade at Montreal, as given in the Star, which says:—

The market for cheese experienced an advance this morning, when it was found that 13c had been paid in the country on Saturday. Down at the wharf the offerings of Quebec were cleared at around 12 3-4c, this being an advance of 3-8c as compared with prices a week ago. Local exporters are very firm in their ideas, there being a feeling that, now that September goods are arriving, there will be no reduction in prices, at least till the choice quality is all in. The make is reported to be usually light, for this time of year, and this is one of the strong influences. Demand is believed to be fair, and some of the firms who left the market for a time seem to be coming back in again.

Stocks in store in Montreal have been estimated by an export firm at 245,904 boxes.

The Liverpool public cheese cable was 4d down to-day at 59s to 60s.

Receipts of cheese reported on the Board of Trade to-day were 19,047 boxes.

Gallant Peterborough Parson Makes Plea For Women In Canada

Rev. Dr. Crothers supports Motion to Admit Women to Courts of Church—Question Discussed at General Conference.

The question of the admission of the women to the courts of the Methodist Church was discussed at the General Conference at Montreal yesterday, but it was decided on a vote that their place was not in the higher courts of the church. Rev. Dr. Crothers, Peterborough, supported the motion to admit women, and said it would be only a fair measure of justice to the women of their Church. If it were not for the women, they never would have a corporal's guard at the prayer meetings. If they were allowed to go to the Quarterly Board, why should they not go to the higher courts? If women had the franchise there would be less bribery and trickery in public affairs.

Referring to the disposition of this question, a despatch says:—

With a shower of compliments, under which even the most experienced platform woman would blush, the Methodist General Conference to-day re-affirmed its position that women were not to be admitted to the Church courts and Conferences of the denomination beyond their present right to sit on Quarterly Boards. The debate was short and sharp, and brought out good men and concise arguments on both sides. It is claimed by some that the reason of defeat was the fear that the step would embarrass the negotiations for union. At the same time there were champions of the principle that women have a sphere in the home, in which they can be of much greater value in uplifting the world and helping the Church. In a house of 252 the supporters of the admission of women mustered only 105, and it being a constitutional question, 189 votes were necessary to carry it.

Many Entries For The Exhibition

Secretary Hall Says the List is Growing Rapidly.

Secretary F. J. A. Hall stated to The Examiner to-day that he has not been busier in a long time. Entries are coming in thick and fast for the exhibition next week, and he believes they will almost double those of last year.

He now has at least twice as many small entries on the list as at the same time last year. All the big entries, such as stock, are generally delayed until the last few days before the fair. These the secretary expects, will be greater than those of last year.

The chief attractions on the last the horse races. There will be at the horse races. There will be at least three teams enter for the Hall trophy, and probably four. Mr. Hall has received a letter from the Lakehurst secretary asking for particulars, and he expects an answer to-morrow. With four teams in the contest the interest will be the more enlivened.

BLACK DIKE BAND AT OPERA HOUSE

The Black Dike band which comes to the Grand on Sept. 20th, is the world's greatest brass band. It captured Toronto music lovers by storm. Toronto papers have the following to say:—Toronto Mail and Empire—"The band is well balanced and its tone excellent." Toronto Globe:—"They were greeted by a multitude of several thousand who became enthusiastic admirers on completion of their second number." Toronto News: "Thousands were delighted with the playing of the Black Dike Band." Toronto Star:—"The Black Dike Band will stand comparison with any band that has ever appeared here."

Fall Rally Of Epworth League

Delightful Social Function in Connection With It.

The fall rally of the Epworth League of the George Street Church was held last night in the Sunday School room. It was the first meeting after the summer, and from the large attendance the work of the league promises to be very successful this season.

A novel feature was introduced in the form of a singing contest, which constituted a very enjoyable part of the programme. Rev. Mr. Bowerman, who is in charge of the church services in the absence of Rev. Dr. Crothers, presided, and he was ably assisted in the reorganization by Mr. McCann, organist of the church. A vocal quartette by the Misses Chaty, Miss Maguire and Miss Butcher was enjoyed.

A pleasant social was afterwards held, which also proved a very interesting portion of the evening's programme.

Albert St. May Be Extended

Board of Works Will Discuss Matter To-night

The Board of Works will meet to-night when routine business will be taken up. The meeting will discuss several reports from the City Engineer on matters that have been referred to him at recent meetings.

The proposed extension of Albert street as far as the western boundary may also be taken up. Ald. Hicks, chairman of the Board, is looking over the ground this afternoon.

Taking Over The Works On Canal

Mr. Blanchett in Lindsay in Connection With Work.

The Lindsay Post yesterday said:—Mr. W. Blanchett, Civil Engineer, Peterborough, was in town to-day taking the measurements of Lindsay Wellington street, and Ops swing bridges, acting upon instructions from Ottawa. The transfer of the Trent tributaries from Provincial to Federal Government control is the reason given by Engineer Blanchett for his visit. Much of his work in future will be in connection with the Trent Canal.

Hydrants For The Carpet Factory

Water Commissioners Decide to Place Them

The Board of Water Commissioners held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of the secretary when routine business was taken up. It was decided to proceed at once with the work of extending the mains to the Carpet Works, and to place the hydrants on the main.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches are require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Varsity May Play Here A Week From Next Saturday

Peterborough Rugby Club Executive Met Last Night—T. W. McDonough the Club's Representative to the O. R. F. U.

At the meeting of the Executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club held last night in Mac's cigar store, Mr. T. W. McDonough, the secretary-treasurer of the club, was elected Peterborough's representative on the Executive of the O.R.F.U. and he will attend the meeting of the O.R.F.U. at the King Edward in Toronto to-night.

It was decided to endeavour to arrange an exhibition game with the Varsity team here, a week from Saturday. Varsity always has a strong team and should prove a great drawing card. The match will give the locals a good practice for their first league game on the following Saturday. It is hoped that Peterborough will this year have the services of A. W. McPherson, for the last two years with the Varsity Seniors. Mac has been one of the Intercollegiate stars and would benefit his old teammates immensely.

The meeting gratefully accepted the offer of Mr. Arthur Poe to act as coach during the season. Mr. Poe's experience with Princeton will enable him to give the boys many suggestions which will help them in their championship race.

There were present President Hollingshead, Messrs. R. F. McWilliams, Eugene Hurtubise, W. F. Crowley, A. M. Regan, A. Gillespie and secretary-treasurer McDonough.

Another Shift In The National Lacrosse Fight

The Tecumsehs and Nationals Play in Toronto on Saturday Now—Looks Like Effort to Shut Out Western Teams.

Montreal, Sept. 17.—At the special meeting to-night of the N. L. U. the lacrosse championship tangle was disposed of by the adoption of the following resolution:—

"That the Tecumsehs and the Capitals be charged with the loss of one game each, on account of their having violated the rules in calling a match a draw before darkness intervened; that Montreal and Cornwall play in Montreal on September 22; that Nationals and Tecumsehs play in Toronto on September 22, Montreal or Cornwall to play Capitals and Tecumsehs, should they be the winner, to play off with Toronto; the winners to play home and home matches."

The motion was adopted by 5 to 2, Cornwall and Tecumseh dissenting. The finals will not be reached before October 13 and 20. In each case of home and home matches the majority of goals in two matches to receive the winner. If Tecumseh win from Nationals Saturday the semi-final competition will be between Tecumseh, Capitals, Toronto and either Montreal or Cornwall. Then on September 29 and October 6, home and home matches will be played between Toronto and Tecumseh and between the Capitals and either Montreal or Cornwall, as the case may be.

This makes the present standing:—

	W.	L.	T.	P.
Capitals	7	5	0
Torontos	7	5	0
Tecumsehs	6	5	1
Montreal	6	5	1
Cornwall	6	5	1

Handsome Cup For Competition

City League Meeting Called for To-morrow Night.

There will be a meeting of the representatives of the teams interested in a City League at Mac's cigar store on Wednesday night at 8.30 o'clock. The following teams are requested to send two representatives each: Shamrocks, C. G. E., Charlotte Street, Quakers, Bankers and Crescents.

Prospects are bright for a strong City League with five or six clubs, and it is important that there should be a large attendance at to-morrow night's meeting.

A well-known local gentleman will offer a valuable cup for competition if a City League is organized. So that the teams will have something to play for.

The Last And Final Notice

Competitors in the Scotch Doubles Must Wake Up.

There are several members who have the right and privilege of competing for the prizes in the Scotch Doubles who have not yet played in the preliminary and first rounds and are thereby unintentionally delaying the game. The present favourable weather cannot be expected to last much longer and as it is necessary to get on with this competition, all those who have not played off the games above mentioned by next Thursday night, will have to be treated as having defaulted. This is the third and final notice.

FOOTBALL

To-morrow night the Quakers will hold a practise on Riverside Park. The team is requested to be on the grounds as soon after six as possible so that a little workout may be had before dark.

• • • •

It is said some of the players who will represent the Engineering and Construction Company, now engaged at the Canadian General at the Exhibition, are old players with records. They will, no doubt, make the Quakers or Bridgenorth teams do some guessing if they intend to win out.

• • • •

It is understood that Bridgenorth is practising hard in preparation for their game next week at the Exhibition. They intend to carry off the honours if there is any possibility whatever of doing so.

• • • •

Another team for the Hall trophy is all that is wanted. What about Lakehurst, Warsaw or Norwood, lining up? With four teams in the series, the winners of the first games would go into the finals more equal. "Who's going to get the bye?" is now the uppermost question in the minds of the three teams.

• • • •

The teams intending entering the contest must notify the secretary, Mr. Fred. Hall, on or before Saturday night next.

RUGBY.

The Quakers will probably be among the teams represented on the City League. A meeting was held last night of the officers of the club and they practically decided to enter a team under certain conditions, which will be discussed at the organization meeting on Wednesday night. Such men as Fitzgerald, Sullivan, Moore, F. Craig, Doris, Clarke, Giroux, Evans, Boycott, Best and others will figure on the line-up.

• • • •

Percy Fitzgerald and J. E. Sullivan were appointed representatives to attend the meeting on Wednesday night.

GOLF

The following is the draw for the second round, in the club championship of the Golf and Country Club, to be finished by Wednesday, 26th September, 1906.

W. J. O'Brien, 21.	D. Belleghem, 8.

A Simple Explanation.

MIKE and Pat worked for a wealthy farmer. They planned to turn burglars and steal the money which the farmer had hid in one of the rooms of his house. They waited until midnight, then started to do the job. In order to get the money they had to pass the farmer's bedroom. Mike says, "I'll go first and if it's all right you can follow and do just the same as I." Mike started to pass the room. Just as he got opposite the door the floor creaked. This awoke the farmer, who called out, "Who's there?" Mike answered with a "meaow!" (imitating a cat.) The farmer's wife, being awake, said, "Oh John, it's the cat," and all was quiet. So Pat started to pass the door, and as he got opposite it the floor creaked again. The farmer called out again, louder than before, "Who's there?" Pat answered, "Another cat," —Buffalo Times.

WEDDING BELLS

KELLY—COUGHLIN.

A very pretty September wedding was celebrated this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, Lakefield, when Miss Mary Coughlin, daughter of Mr. Martin Coughlin, of that village, became the bride of Mr. Anthony Kelly, of Toronto Junction. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Phelan of Young's Point, mass being celebrated at the same time. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Kennedy of Lakefield, and the groom by Mr. James Coughlin, brother of the bride. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's father, where a dainty wedding dejeuner awaited them, on beautifully decorated tables. The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome presents, testifying to her popularity among her friends in the northern village. They leave Peterborough to-night on the 5.15 C.P.R. train for western points, and returning will reside at Toronto Junction. They carry with them the best wishes of their Lakefield friends for a long and prosperous married life.

Library Closes At 9 O'clock

Board Decides to Close Each Night at That Hour.

Until further notice the Public Library will close every evening at 9 o'clock, Saturday, included. This was decided upon at a meeting of the directors held last night at the library. In the past the library has been open until 9.30 Saturday nights, but it has been decided to close at the same hour each night.

Gained 25 Pounds.

"I was very much run down in health, could not sleep, was very nervous, and so weak that I could hardly get around. Some months ago I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and to-day I am pleased to say that I am completely restore to health. I have gained over 25 pounds in weight, sleep well, and feel strong and quite healthy." — Miss Annie Evans, 39 Gottingen street, Halifax, N. S.

The Empress of India Has Reached Vancouver

Overseas Mail Ship Docked at the City Yesterday and Mail Train Started for the East—Steamer Made Good Trip Across the Pacific

Vancouver, B. C., September 17. — Out from Hong Kong, through the China Sea, and the Straits of Formosa, to the Chinese port of Woo Sung, and across the Yellow Sea and the inland waters of Japan to Japanese ports, the C. P. R. steamship, Empress of India, steamed across the Pacific to Victoria and Vancouver, where at six o'clock this evening she docked after an hour's delay in transferring the mails and passengers, and the C. P. R. Overseas Mail left on its run across the continent. So finished the first gap in the eastbound run under the new mail contract which brings London and Hong Kong within thirty days of each other. The Empress of India left Hong Kong at 4 p.m., on the 30th of August, and after wafts of seven hours at Woo Sung, 24 hours at Nagasaki, two hours at Kobe, and about ten hours at Yokohama, she left for the west which is being so rapidly becoming merged into the east. The time the Empress made across the Pacific, including stoppages was 18 days and 10 hours, which also includes the day gained on the westbound passage. The Empress of India made a splendid trip, notwithstanding the fact that she encountered a couple of days of nasty weather which detained her so that she practically lost a night in making Victoria, and consequently was deprived of the advantages of an early quarantine; otherwise she would have reached Vancouver promptly on time. The call at Victoria was brief, 35 minutes only, and an hour after reaching Vancouver the Overseas Mail train of the C. P. R. started out through the Canadian Rockies.

Peterborough People All Live On Chickens

Burton E. Lewis Tells the Buffalo Express That He Saw 500 Women Carrying Chickens on the Streets—He Must Have Been Here on Market Day—What Impressed New York Visitors in this City.

Peterborough people will be much interested in the following story from the Buffalo Express:—

"It's odd how you'll always remember certain cities by some little, trivial things," said Burton E. Lewis, of New York, who was on his way home last night from a fishing trip in the wilds of Eastern Ontario. "I have gone through Peterborough, a city in the eastern section of Ontario, every year for the last four years to get to my fishing grounds. I never see or hear the name Peterborough but what I think of chickens. It's the greatest place for chickens I ever struck. I think everybody there must live on chickens. There is always a layover of a couple of hours between trains at Peterborough and the passengers usually walk about the thriving little place.

"Well, the first time I stopped over there, I think I must have seen 500 women carrying dressed chickens through the main streets in about two hours. Some of the women were dressed in satins and others were dressed in calicoes, but they were all firmly grasping a couple of naked chickens by the feet and trailing them through the streets I thought that there probably was a bargain on in chickens that particular day. But on my way back I saw just as many women hustling chickens and every time since that I have gone through, the chicken brigade has always been on deck.

"I passed through the town yesterday, and both the women and the chickens were there all right. I think many people had chicken for their dinner in Peterborough, to-day."

Latest Ticks From The Wires

Seaforth, Ont.—Mr. George Whitely, died very suddenly. He was preparing to sit down for breakfast when he fell from his chair, expiring instantly. He was apparently in good health, death being due to a spasm of the heart. Deceased was a well known horseman, and was about sixty years of age. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

Toronto—At the meeting of the City Council Controller Jones raised his voice against the hoisting of the Stars and Stripes on the Exhibition flagstaff on American Day. "I am a member of the Exhibition Board," said Controller Jones, "and I was not consulted about it. It was put up without the approval of the Board and for my part I did not approve of it."

Hamilton, Ont.—Horse thieving is becoming epidemic in the country, and Saltfleet Township Council has offered a reward equal to the value of the animals stolen up to $150 for the capture of the thieves, and an additional $150 for information that will lead to their arrest.

Two Young Women's Christian association, recently organized in Berlin, has outgrown its present quarters and is negotiating for the purchase of a larger building. The Y.M.C.A. faces a deficit of $1,100 in the past year's work, and the association building has been closed pending a general meeting of the directors and members next week to discuss the situation.

At Portage la Prairie, Man., arrangements have been practically completed for the establishment of an important manufacturing concern, when Messrs. Elliot, Crossier and Robinson of Minneapolis, representing a new patent, the Detachable Boiler Flue company, made an agreement with Mayor Brown, the gist of which is to the effect that a factory 100 x 75 feet and employing seventy-five to one hundred hands, is to locate there.

At Prince Albert, Sask., the man who wants a ten cent drink will have to buy a dollar's worth. The hotel keepers in the city have conspired and combined to raise the price of drinks in small quantities and have posted in their bars the following notice:—"Regulation prices for drinks from September 15, 1906: Single drinks, 15 cents; two drinks, 25; three drinks, 40; four or five drinks, 50; six or seven drinks, 75; eight, nine or ten, $1.

Peterborough Town And County As Seen In 1846

Some Interesting Bits of Ancient History Gleaned from Smith's Gazette--This Town at that time had 2,000 Population--A Comparison of its Growth with that of Other Places--The District As It Was In Those Days.

Smith's Canadian Gazeteer, published in 1846, a copy of which has been loaned the Examiner by Mr. E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor, contains some interesting historical facts in reference to the early days of Peterborough, which at the time the book was written was the capital town of the Colborne district. Some comparisons are afforded by this excellent work, which will be of considerable local interest, among them being the fact that while the population of Peterborough was given as 2000, that of Cobourg was 3347. A reference to the present respectiv populations of the two places affords an interesting, and—to Peterborough—a pleasing comparison.

It will be seen from a description of the town and townships in the county given below, that there has been great progress made in the sixty years since this work was published.

The following are the references to the places of local interest.

Peterborough.

The district town of the Colborne district, beautifully situated in the north-west of the township of North Monaghan, on the Otonabee River, 30 miles north from Port Hope, and about 34 from Cobourg. The town was laid out by the Government in the year 1826; and property has greatly increased in value within the last few years, so much so that the few town lots now remaining in the hands of the crown are valued at from 12 pounds, 10 shillings to 300 pounds; and 3550 pounds was lately paid for a portion of a lot containing not more than about a tenth of an acre. The town is well laid out and has a handsome appearance, and is at present very flourishing. A portion of the town on the East side of the river, is called Peterborough East. There is some fine scenery in the neighbourhood of the town, the land being a succession of hill and dale. During the season, the steamer Forester, leaves the town every day for Rice Lake, where it is met by the stage for Port Hope and Cobourg, and during the winter a stage runs every day from Peterborough to the same places. A gravelled road is in course of construction from Rice Lake to Port Hope.

The jail and court house is a handsome stone building erected on rising ground in the rear of the town. Churches and chapels, seven, viz., Episcopal, stone; Presbyterian, Catholic, stone; Baptist, brick; British Wesleyan, Canadian Wesleyan and Christian.

There is in Peterborough a fire company, with one engine.

Two newspapers are published here weekly, the Peterborough Gazette, Peterborough Chronicle.

Population, about 2000.

Post office, post every day.

The following Government and district officers are kept in Peterborough: Judge of District Court, Sheriff, Clerk of Peace, Inspector of Licenses, Crown Lands Agent, District Court, Clerk of District Court, Deputy Clerk of Crown, Treasurer, Registrar.

Professions and Trades. — Four physicians and surgeons, five lawyers, two grist mills, two saw mills, one brewery, one ashery, two distilleries, three foundries, three tanneries, thirty stores, two druggists, five taverns, one woollen factory, one carding machine and fulling mill, two surveyors, four chair factories, one fanning mill maker, five saddlers, two tinsmiths, one pearlashery, two watchmakers, six waggon makers, five bakers, four cabinet makers, three coopers, thirteen blacksmiths, four butchers, two millwrights, eighteen shoemakers, twelve tailors, one weaver, one gunsmith, one school, one veterinary surgeon, one bank agency—Montreal.

Principal taverns—"Albert House" and "Union Hotel."

Colborne District.

Consists of the County of Peterborough, which returns a member to the House of Assembly, and comprises the following townships: Asphodel, Belmont, Burleigh, Bexley, Dummer, Douro, Ennismore, Emily, Edon, Fenelon, Harvey, Methuen, Mariposa, Otonabee, Ops, Smith, Somerville, Verulam and North Monaghan. This district is situated to the north of the Newcastle district; and has a chain of lakes running through the north and east of it called Balsam Lake, Sturgeon Lake, Pigeon Lake, Chemong Lake, and Trout Lake; and the Townships of Otonabee and Asphodel are bounded on the south by Rice Lake and River Trent. It is besides, watered by the Otonabee River, the Sougog River and numerous small streams scattered over it, most of which discharge themselves into the lakes. Much of the timber on the lakes and rivers is pine, and a great trade is carried in lumber, immense quantities of which are carried down the River Trent. The district is getting well settled, and land in the neighbourhood of Peterborough, the district town, is becoming valuable. Two hundred and sixty-four thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight acres of Crown lands are open for sale in the Colborne District, at 8s. currency per acre, to purchase any of which application must be made to the Crown land's agent at Peterborough. Population in 1842, 13,706, since when it has probably increased one-fifth.

Government and District Officers.

Judge of the District Court and Surrogate Court, B. T. McKyes.
Sheriff, W. S. Conger.
Registrar, Charles Rubidge.
Treasurer and Crown Land's Agent, Frederick Ferguson.
Clerk of the Peace and Deputy Clerk of the Crown, W. H. Wrighton.
Clerk of the District Court and Registrar of the Surrogate Court, Thos. Fortye.
Inspector of Licenses, Thos. Milburn.
District Superintendent of Schools, Elias Burnham.
District Clerk, Walter Sheridan.

Coroners of the Colborne District.

John Hutchison, Peterborough.
John R. Benson, Smith.
Samuel Strickland, Douro.
Christopher Knowlson, Emily.
Francis Henderson, Emily.
John McNabb, Peterborough.

Number of common schools in operation in the Colborne District: Asphodel, 9; Douro, 4; Dummer, 3; Emily 12; Ennismore, 1; Fenelon, 1; Mariposa, 7; North Monaghan, 4; Ops, 8; Smith, 13; Verulam, 1; Otonabee, 9; total, 72.

Harvey.

A township in the Colborne District, is bounded on the east by the Township of Burleigh, on the north by unsurveyed lands, on the west by Verulam, and on the south by Smith and Ennismore. Harvey was originally well settled by immigrants from the Old Country, but finding the greater part of the township unfit for cultivation, they left it, and it is now almost deserted. Two hundred acres only, are taken up, forty of which are under cultivation. It is separated from Smith and Ennismore by a chain of lakes, a large portion of which stretch across the centre of the township. There is a grist and sawmill in the township. In Harvey, 37,272 acres of Crown lands are open for sale at 8s. currency per acre. Ratesble property in the township, £380.

Burleigh.

A township in the Colborne District, is bounded on the east by the Township of Methuen, on the north by unsurveyed lands, on the west by Harvey, and on the south by Dummer. Salmon Lake and Stony Lake, portions of the chain of lakes that runs through the district, separate the township from Dummer, and numerous small lakes are scattered over the township. Burleigh is at present but little settled, and no return has yet been made from it. Forty-eight thousand and twenty-one acres of Crown lands are open for sale at 8s. currency per acre.

Metheun.

A township in the Colborne District, is bounded on the east by the Township of Lake, on the north by unsurveyed lands, on the west by Burleigh and Dummer, and on the south by Belmont. There is a large irregularly shaped lake situated in the northwest corner, and several smaller ones are scattered over the centre and south of the township. The township is but little settled and no return has yet been made from it. In Methuen, 45,878 acres of Crown lands are open for sale at 8s. currency per acre.

Belmont.

A township in the Colborne District, is bounded on the east by the Township of Marmora, on the north by Methuen, on the west by Dummer, and on the south by Seymour. In Belmont, 2,670 acres are taken up, 365 of which are under cultivation. That is a poor township, and much of it unfit for cultivation, being rocky. A large lake, with its branches, occupies a considerable portion of the centre and east of the township. In Belmont, 4,837 acres of Crown lands are open for sale at 8s. currency per acre. Ratesble property in the township, £1,130.

Dummer.

A township in the Colborne District, is bounded on the east by the Township of Belmont, on the north by Burleigh, on the west by Douro, and on the south by Asphodel. In Dummer, 21,317 acres are taken up, 5,040 of which are under cultivation. Dummer is separated from Burleigh by a chain of lakes, and several small lakes are scattered over the township. Dummer is well settled, and contains some good farms. The settlers are principally Scotch. There are two mills, grist and saw, in the township, and the village of Warsaw is situated in the southwest of the township. In Dummer, 16,000 acres of Crown lands are open for sale at 8s. currency per acre. Ratesble property in the township, £12,390.

Warsaw.

A village in the west of the township of Dummer, situated on the Indian River, 15 miles northeast from Peterborough. It contains about 70 inhabitants, grist and saw mill, carding machine, two stores and two taverns.

Douro.

A township in the Colborne District, is bounded on the east by the township of Dummer, on the north west by Smith, and on the south by Otonabee. In Douro, 23,871 acres are taken up, 4,241 of which are under cultivation. This is a triangular-shaped township, and is separated from Smith by the Otonabee River. There is some good land in Douro. Timber, hardwood, intermixed with pine. There are two sawmills in the township. Douro is settled principally by Irish Catholics. Two thousand two hundred and fifteen acres of Crown lands are open for sale at 8s. currency per acre. Ratesble property in the township, £11,782.

Ennismore.

A township in Colborne District; is bounded on the north-east and south by part of the great chain of lakes situated in the district and on the west by the township of Emily. This is a small township of nearly a triangular shape. In Ennismore 8,321 acres are taken up, 935 of which are under cultivation. Inhabitants principally Irish Catholics. One thousand four hundred acres of Crown lands are open for sale in the township at 8s. c'y per acre.

Ratable property in the township, £3,494.

Monaghan, North.

A township in the Colborne District; is bounded on the east by the Otonabee River; on the north by the township of Smith; on the west by Cavan; and on the south by Hamilton and Rice Lake. In Monaghan 10,138 acres are taken up, 3,205 of which are under cultivation. This township is well settled by a mixed population. The town of Peterborough is situated at its north-east corner, on the Otonabee River. There are three grist-mills, two saw-mills, and three distilleries in the township. In Monaghan only 180 acres of Crown lands are open for sale at 8s. c'y per acre.

Ratable property in the township, £20,416.

Asphodel.

A township in the Colborne District; is bounded on the east by the townships of Seymour and Belmont; on the north by Dummer; on the west by Otonabee; and on the south by the River Trent. In Asphodel 18,441 acres are taken up, 3,315 of which are under cultivation. Much of the land in this township is covered with pine. The village of Norwood is situated in the east of the township, and there are also one grist and two saw-mills, and one distillery. Asphodel is principally settled by Irish Catholics. Seven hundred and fifty acres of Crown lands are open for sale in the township, at 8s. c'y per acre.

Ratable property in the township, £10,314.

Norwood or Keeler's Mills.

A village in the east of the township of Asphodel, ten miles southeast from Warsaw, and six miles north from the Trent River. It contains about 120 inhabitants. There are some fine lime-stone quarries in the neighbourhood. In Norwood is a Congregational chapel; also a grist and saw-mill, tannery, three stores, one tavern, two blacksmiths, post office, post three times a week.

Monaghan, South.

A township in the Newcastle District; is bounded on the east and north by the Otonabee River and North Monaghan; on the west by Cavan; and on the south by Hamilton and Rice Lake. In South Monaghan 14,896 acres are taken up, 6,233 of which are under cultivation. A considerable swamp extends through the north of this township. The land is of mixed qualities—good, bad, and indifferent. Timber, hardwood, intermixed with pine. In South Monaghan 100 acres of Crown lands are open for sale, at 8s. c'y per acre.

Population in 1842, 719.

Ratable property in the township, £13,085.

Otonabee.

A township in the Colborne District; is bounded on the east by the township of Asphodel; on the north by Douro; on the west by the Otonabee River; and on the south by Rice Lake. In Otonabee 42,667 acres are taken up, 10,963 of which are under cultivation. This township is well settled, principally by Scotch emigrants, and contains good farms. Timber—hardwood, intermixed with pine. The village of Keene is situated in the south-east of the township, near Rice Lake; and there is a settlement of Indians in the township, called "Rice Lake Settlement," situated on Rice Lake, about twelve miles from Peterborough. It is composed of Mississagas, or Chippewas, who in the year 1818, surrendered the greater part of the tract now forming Newcastle District, for an annuity of £740. They have all been reclaimed from their primitive wandering life, and settled in their present location within the last ten or twelve years. The Indians in the settlement, number 114. They possess about 1,350 acres of land which is subdivided into 50-acre lots; of this, 1,120 acres were granted in April, 1834, to trustees, "in trust, to hold the same for the benefit of the Indian tribes in the Province, and with a view to their conversion and civilization," and the remaining 430 have been since purchased with their own funds. They have about 400 acres cleared and under cultivation. The village contains thirty houses, three barns, a school-house, and a chapel with a bell. The head chief of the tribe resides here. For some time, these Indians were under the charge of an officer appointed by the Indian Department, who assisted in their settlement; but at present they have no special superintendent. These Indians are Methodists. They have a school, and a schoolmaster is supported by the Methodist Missionary Society.

Six hundred and sixty acres of Crown lands are open for sale in Otonabee, at 8s. c'y per acre.

There are in the township, one grist and two saw-mills.

Ratable property in the township, £29,154.

Keene.

A village in the township of Otonabee, situated on the Indian River, near Rice Lake, thirteen miles southeast from Peterborough. It contains about 140 inhabitants, who have two churches, Presbyterian and Wesleyan Methodist.

Professions and Trades—One grist mill, one saw-mill, distillery, tannery, carding machine, four stores, three taverns, one wagon maker, one blacksmith.

Post office, post three times a week.

Smith.

A township in the Colborne District; is bounded on the east by the Otonabee River, on the north and east by a chain of lakes, and a small portion of Emily; and on the south by Monaghan. In Smith 32,473 acres are taken up, 9,653 of which are under cultivation. This is a fine township, and well settled, containing a mixed population. Timber—a mixture of hard wood and pine. There are two grist and three saw mills in the township. Two thousand and eight hundred and nineteen acres of Crown lands are open for sale in Smith at 8s. c'y per acre.

Ratable property in the township, £23,324.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People Were Content to Take Things Easier Than Now.

If our forefathers could behold the modern locomotives, automobiles and electric cars, they would hold up their hands in astonishment.

The stage-coach was fast enough then—people were more content to take things easy.

They used to be satisfied with any sort of a hair lotion that came along—if it did not prevent baldness they thought it was because baldness could not be prevented.

It's different now. People know that germs cause baldness, and that Newbro's Herpicide kills the germ, thus curing dandruff, and preventing baldness.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

Western excursions to Detroit, Bay City, Grand Rapids, Chicago, etc., via. Canadian Pacific Railway, take place on Sept. 20th, 21st and 22nd, good to return until Oct. 8th. A TRULY IDEAL WIFE

HER HUSBAND'S BEST HELPER

Vigorous Health Is the Great Source of Power to Inspire and Encourage —All Women Should Seek It.

One of the most noted, successful and richest men of this century, in a recent article, has said, "Whatever I am and whatever success I have attained in this world I owe all to my wife. From the day I first knew her she has been an inspiration, and the greatest helpmate of my life."

Mrs. Bessie Ainsley

To be such a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, to inspire him to make the most of himself, should be a woman's constant study.

If a woman finds that her energies are flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness, irregularities or the blues, she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Following we publish by request a letter from a young wife:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Ever since my child was born I have suffered, as I hope few women ever have, with inflammation, female weakness, bearing-down pains, backache and wretched headaches. It affected my stomach so I could not enjoy my meals, and half my time was spent in bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman, and I feel so grateful that I am glad to write and tell you of my marvelous recovery. It brought me health, new life and vitality."—Mrs. Bessie Ainsley, 611 South 10th Street, Tacoma, Wash.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Ainsley it will do for every sick and ailing woman.

If you have symptoms you don't understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

COPYRIGHT by the S. S. M'CLURE CO.

SHE was leaning against the railing of the deck, gazing wistfully down upon the sea of faces on the landing below. She wore a skirt and coat of brown cloth, and her veil was raised in a white film above her small hat.

In the crowd clustering about her eager for the last glimpse of friends she looked shy and nervous, and her brown eyes were dilated in alarm. Despite her thirty years there was something girlish in her shrinking figure—a suggestion of the incipient emotions of youth. The fine lines that time had set upon brow and lips were results of the plight of undifferentiated days and lacked the intensity of experimental records. One might have classified her in superficial survey as a woman in whom temperamental fires had been smothered rather than extinguished by the ashes of unfulfillment. To existence, which is a series of rhythmic waves of the commonplace, she offered facial serenity; to life, which is a clash of opposing passions, she turned the wistful eyes of ignorance.

A tall girl, carrying an armful of crimson roses, pressed against her and waved a heavily scented handkerchief to some one upon the landing. On the other side a man was shouting directions in regard to a missing piece of baggage. "I marked it myself," he declared frantically. "It was to have been shipped from New Orleans to the Cunard dock. I marked it 'Not wanted' with my own hands, and, by Jove, those dirty creoles have taken me at my word."

She rested her hand upon the railing and leaned far over. Down below a pretty girl in a pink shirt waist was kissing her gloved finger tips to a stout gentleman on deck. An excited group were waving congratulations to a bride and groom, who looked fatigued and slightly bored.

For the first time she recognized in this furtive shrinking a faint homesickness, and her thoughts recoiled to the dull southern home, to the sisters-in-law who made her life burdensome and to the little graveyard where the husband she had never loved lay buried. The girl with the crimson roses jostled her rudely and from behind some one was treading upon her gown. The insipid heat of the July sun flashed across her face, and in a vision she recalled the sweeping pastures of the old plantation, with the creek where the willows grew and the thrushes sang.

Suddenly the steamer gave a tremor of warning, and a volley of farewells ascended from below.

"Pleasant voyage!" called the man to the girl beside her. "Pleasant voyage!" called some one to the lady on her right. Then she realized that she was alone, and for the first time regretted that her father-in-law had not come. When the news of his delay had first reached her and she had volunteered to start alone, she had experienced a vivid elation. There was delight in the idea of freedom, of being accountable to no one, of being absolutely independent of advice. Now she wished that she had an acquaintance who would wish her godspeed or shout an indistinct pleasantry from the crowded landing.

The steamer moved slowly out into the harbor, and the shore was white with fluttering goodbys. Then the distance lapsed into gradual waves of blue.

She left the railing and stumbled over a group of steamer chairs placed midway of the deck. She descended to her stateroom, which was in the center of the ship. At the door she found the stewardess, who inquired if she was "Mrs. L. Smith."

"That is my name, and I am going to be ill. I know it."

"Lie down at once. And about this bag? I thought it would give you more space if I put it in the gentleman's room. He hasn't much luggage."

Lucy Smith looked up in mystification. "But it is mine," she explained, "and I want it."

Then the boat gave a lurch, and she undressed and climbed into her berth.

The next day, after a sleepless night, she struggled up and left her stateroom, the stewardess following with her wraps. At the foot of the stairs she swayed and fell upon the lowest step. "It's no use," she said plaintively. "I can't go up—I can't, indeed."

The stewardess spoke with professional encouragement. "Oh, you're all right," she remonstrated. "Here's the gentleman now. He'll help you."

"Isn't there but one gentleman on board?" Mrs. Smith began, but her words failed.

Some one lifted her, and in a moment she was on deck and in her chair, while the stewardess wrapped her rugs about her and a strange man arranged the pillows under her head. Then they left her, and she lay with closed eyes.

"Perhaps you would like yesterday's Herald?" said a voice.

She started from an uncertain doze and looked around her. Hours had passed, and since closing her eyes the sea had grown bluer and the sun warmer. A pearl colored foam was glistening on the waves. "I beg your pardon," she replied, turning in the direction whence the words came. "Did you speak?"

The man in the next chair leaned toward her, holding a paper in his hand. He was tall and angular, with commonplace features, lighted by the sympathetic gleam in his eyes.

"I asked if you would like a Herald," he repeated.

She looked at him reproachfully. "I am ill," she answered.

He smiled. "Oh, I beg your pardon," he said. "You didn't look it, and it is so hard to tell. I offered a lemon to that gray-green girl over there, and she flew into a rage. But are you ill in earnest?"

"I shouldn't exactly choose it for jest," she returned, "though somehow it does make time pass. One forgets that there are such divisions as days and weeks. It all seems a blank."

"But it is very calm."

"So the stewardess says," she answered aggrievedly, "but the boat rocks dreadfully."

He did not reply, and in a moment his glance wandered to the card upon her chair. "Odd, isn't it?" he questioned.

She followed his gaze and colored faintly. The card read, "Mrs. L. Smith." Then he pointed to a similar label upon his own chair, bearing in a rough scrawl the name "L. Smith."

"It is a very common name," she remarked absently.

He laughed. "Very," he admitted. "Perhaps your husband is Lawrence Smith also."

The smile passed from her lips.

"My husband is dead," she answered; "but his name was Lucien."

He folded the newspaper awkwardly. Then he spoke. "Nicer name than Lawrence," he observed.

She nodded. "A name is of very little consequence," she rejoined. "I have always felt that about every name in the world except Lucy. Lucy is mine."

He looked into her eyes. Despite her illness they shone with a warm, fawn-like brown. "I think it a pretty name," he said. "It is so soft."

"It has no character," she returned. "I have always known that life would have been different for me if I hadn't been called Lucy. People would not treat me like a child if I were Augusta or even Agnes—but Lucy!"

"People change their names sometimes," he suggested.

She laughed softly. "I tried to. I tried to become Lucinda, but I could not. Lucy stuck to me."

"It wouldn't be so bad without Smith," he remarked, smiling.

"That was a horrible cross," she returned. "I wonder if you mind Smith as much as I do."

At first he did not answer. To her surprise his face grew grave, and she saw the haggard lines about his mouth which his smile had obscured. "It was a deuced good chance that I struck it," he said shortly.

For a time they sat silent. Then, as the luncheon gong sounded and the passengers flocked past, he rose and bent over her chair. "You will have chicken broth?" he said distinctly. "I will send the steward." And ere she recovered from her surprise he left her.

A little later the broth was brought, and soon after the steward reappeared bearing iced prunes. "The gentleman sent you word that you were to eat these," he said. And she sat up in bewilderment and ate the prunes silently.

"You are very kind," she remarked timidly when he came up from the dining saloon and threw himself into the chair beside her.

For an instant he looked at her blankly, his brow wrinkling. She saw that he was not thinking of her and reddened.

"You were kind—about the prunes," she explained.

"The prunes?" he repeated vaguely. Then he brought himself together with a jerk. "Oh, you are the little woman who was sick—yes, I remember."

"They were very nice," she said more firmly.

"I am glad you liked them," he rejoined and was silent. Then he broke into an irrelevant laugh, and the lines upon his forehead deepened. She saw that he carried a habitual sneer upon his lips. With a half frightened gesture she drew from him.

"I am glad that you find life amusing," she observed stiffly. "I don't."

He surveyed her with a dogged humor. "It is not life; it is you."

She spoke more stiffly still. "I don't catch your meaning," she said. "Is my hat on one side?"

He laughed again. "It is perfectly balanced, I assure you."

"Is my hair uncurled?"

"Yes, but I shouldn't have noticed it. It is very pretty."

She sat up in offended dignity. "I do not desire compliments," she returned. "I wish merely information."

Half closing his eyes, he leaned back in his chair, looking at her from under the brim of his cap. "Well, without comment, I will state that your hair has fallen upon your forehead and that a loosened lock is lying upon your cheek. No, don't put it back. I beg your pardon"—

A pink spot appeared in the cheek next to him. Her eyes flashed. "How intolerable you are!" she said.

The smile in his eyes deepened. "How delicious you are!" he retorted.

She rose from her chair, drawing herself to her full stature. "I shall change my seat," she began.

Then the steamer lurched, and she swayed and grasped the arm he held out. "I—I am so dizzy!" she finished appealingly.

He put her back into her chair and wrapped the rugs about her. As she still shivered he added his own to the pile. When he placed the pillow beneath her head she noticed that his touch was as tender as a woman's. The sneer was gone from his lips.

"But you will be cold," she remonstrated from beneath his rug.

"Not I," he responded. "I am a tough knot. If the fiery furnace has left me unscathed, a little cold wind won't do more than chap me."

His voice had grown serious, and she looked up inquiringly. "The fiery furnace?" she repeated.

"Oh, predestined damnation, if you prefer. Are you religious?"

"Don't," she pleaded, a tender light coming into her eyes, and she added, "The damned are not kind, and you are very kind."

Her words faltered, but they chased the recklessness from his eyes.

"Kind?" he returned. "I wonder how many men we left in America would uphold that—that verdict, or how many women, for that matter?"

Her honest eyes did not waver. "I will stand by it," she replied simply.

A sudden illumination leaped to his face. "Against twelve good and true men?" he demanded daringly.

"Against a thousand and the president thrown ...."

He laughed a little bitterly. "Because of the prunes?" He was looking down into her face.

She reddened. "Because of the prunes and—and other things," she answered.

A ghost of the sneer awoke about his mouth. "I never did a meaner thing than about the prunes," he said hotly. Then he turned from her and strode with swinging strides along the deck.

That evening he did not speak to her. They lay side by side in their steamer chairs watching the gray mist that crept over the amber line of the horizon. She looked at his set and sallow face, where the grim line of the jaw was overcast by the constant sneer upon his reckless lip. It was not a good face; this she knew. It was the face of a man of strong will and stronger passions, who had lived hard and fast. She wondered vaguely at the furrowed track he must have made of his past years. The wonder awed her, and she felt half afraid of his grimness, growing grimmer in the gathering dusk. If one were in his power, how quietly he might bend and break mere flesh and bone. But across the moodiness of his face she caught the sudden warmth of his glance, and she remembered the touch of his hands—tender as it was strong. She moved nearer, laying her fragile fingers on the arm of his chair. "I am afraid you are unhappy," she said.

He started nervously and faced her almost roughly. "Who is happy?" he demanded, sneering. "Are you?"

She shrank slightly. "Somehow I think that a woman is never happy," she responded gently, "but you"—

He leaned toward her, a swift change crossing his face, his keen

"Five days ago a man called me a devil," he said.

glance softening to compassion. "Then it is dastardly unfair," he said. "What is goodness for if it does not make one happy? I am a rough brute, and I get my desserts, but the world should be gentle to a thing like you."

"No, no," she protested. "I am not good."

His eyes lightened. "Any misdemeanors punishable by law?"

"I am discontented," she went on. "I rage when things go wrong. I am not a saint."

"I might have known it," he remarked, "or you wouldn't have spoken to me. I have known lots of saints—mostly women—and they always look the other way when a sinner comes along. The reputation of a saint is the most sensitive thing on earth. It should be kept in a glass case."

"Are you so very wicked?" she asked.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Between Two Shores

He was gazing out to sea, where the water broke into waves of deepening gray. In the sky a single star shone like an emerald set in a fawn colored dome. The lapping sound of the waves at the vessel's sides came softly through the stillness. Suddenly he spoke, his voice ringing like a jarring discord in a harmonious whole.

"Five days ago a man called me a devil," he said, "and I guess he wasn't far wrong, only if I was a single devil he was a legion steeped in one. What a scoundrel he was!"

The passion in his tones caused her to start quickly. The words were shot out with the force of balls from a cannon, sustained by the impulse of evil. "Don't," she said pleadingly; "please, please don't!"

"Don't what?" he demanded roughly. "Don't curse the blackest scoundrel that ever lived—and died?" Over the last word his voice weakened as if in appeal.

"Don't curse anybody," she answered. "It is not like you."

He turned upon her suspiciously. "Pshaw! How do you know?"

"I don't know. I only believe."

"I never had much use for belief," he returned. "It is a poor sort of thing."

She met his bitter gaze with one of level calm. "And yet men have suffered death for it."

Above her head an electric jet was shining, and it cast a white light upon her small figure buried under the mass of rugs. Her eyes were glowing. There was a soft suffusion upon her lashes, whether from the salt spray or from unshed tears he could not tell.

"Well, believe in me if you choose," he said. "It won't do any harm even if it doesn't do any good."

During the next few days he nursed her with constant care. When she came out in the morning she found him waiting at the foot of the stairs, ready to assist her on deck. When she went down at night it was his arm upon which she leaned and his voice that wished her "Good night!" before her stateroom door. Her meals were served outside, and she soon found that his watchfulness extended to a host of trivialities.

It was not a confidential companionship. Sometimes they sat for hours without speaking and again he attacked her with aggressive irony. At such times she smarted beneath the sting of his sneers, but it was more in pity for him than for herself. He seemed to carry in his heart a seething rage of cynicism, impassioned if impotent. When it broke control, as it often did, it lashed alike the just and the unjust, the sinner and the sinned against. It did not spare the woman for whose comfort he sacrificed himself daily in a dozen minor ways. It was as if he hated himself for the interest she inspired and hated her for inspiring it. He appeared to resent the fact that the mental pressure under which he labored had not annihilated all possibility of purer passion. And he often closed upon a gentler mood with burning bitterness.

"How about your faith?" he inquired one day after a passing tenderness. "Is it still the evidence of virtues not visible in me?"

She flinched, as she always did at his flippancy. "There is circumstantial evidence of those," she replied, "sufficient to confound a jury."

There was a cloud upon his face. "Of the 'ministering angel' kind, I suppose," he suggested.

"Yes."

"Your judgment is warped," he went on. "Do you expect to convince by such syllogisms as: It is virtuous to make presents of prunes; he makes me presents of prunes; therefore he is

She looked at him with wounded eyes. "That is not kind of you," she said:

"But, my dear lady, I am not kind. That is what I am arguing for."

Her lips closed firmly. She did not answer.

"Is the assertion admitted?" he inquired.

Her mouth quivered. He saw it, and his mood melted.

"Do you mean to say," he asked, adjusting the rug about her shoulders and regarding her with an intent gaze, "that it makes any difference to you?"

The fragment of a sob broke from her. "Of course it makes a difference," she answered, "to—to be treated so."

His hand closed firmly over the rug and rested against her shoulder.

"Why does it make a difference?" he demanded.

She stammered confusedly. "Because—because it does," she replied.

His face was very grave. The hand upon her shoulder trembled. "I hope it does not make a difference," he said. "Look! There is a sail."

They rose and went to the railing, following with unseeing eyes a white sail that skirted the horizon. At the vessel's side porpoises were leaping on the waves. She leaned over, her eyes brightening, her loosened hair blowing about her face in soft brown strands. There was a pink flush in her cheeks. "I should like to be a porpoise," she said, "and to skim that blue water in the sunshine. How happy they are!"

"And you are not?"

The flush died from her cheeks. "I? Oh, no," she answered.

He leaned nearer. His hand brushed hers as it lay upon the railing.

"Did love make you happy?" he asked suddenly.

She raised her lashes, and their eyes met. "Love?" she repeated vaguely.

"That husband of yours," he explained almost harshly, "did you love him?"

Her gaze went back to the water. A wistful tremor shook her lips. "He was very good to me," she replied.

"And I suppose you loved him because he was good. Well, the reason suffices."

She looked at him steadily. "Because he was good to me," she corrected

Then she hesitated. "But I did not love him in the way you mean," she added. "I know now that I did not."

"Eh?" he ejaculated half absently and then, "How do you know it?"

She turned from him, looking after the vanishing sail, just visible in the remote violet of the distance. "There are many ways"—

His eyes rested upon the soft outline of her ear, half hidden in her blown hair. "What are they?"

She turned her face still farther from him. "It made no difference to me," she said, "whether he came or went. It wearied me to be with him, and I was very selfish. When he kissed me it left me cold."

His gaze stung her sharply. "And if you loved some one," he said, "it would make a great difference to you whether he came or went? It would gladden you to be with him, and when he kissed you it would not leave you cold?"

"I—I think so," she answered.

He bent toward her swiftly, then checked himself, with a sneering laugh. "I'll give you a piece of valuable advice," he said. "Don't allow yourself to grow sentimental. It is awful rot."

And he threw himself into his chair. He drew a notebook from his pocket, and when she seated herself he did not look up. There was a gray cast about his face, and his lips were compressed. She noticed that he was older than she at first supposed and that the hand with which he held the pencil twitched nervously; then she lay watching him idly from beneath lowered lids.

An hour later he looked up, and their glances met. With sudden determination he closed the book and replaced it in his pocket. "You look pale," he remarked abruptly.

"Do I?" she questioned inanimately. "I do not see any reason why I should not."

"Perhaps, so long as it is not unbecoming to you."

"Why will you say such things?" she demanded angrily. "I detest them."

"Indeed? Yes, pallor is not unbecoming to you. It gives you an interesting look."

She rubbed the cheek next him with the edge of her rug until it glowed scarlet. "There!" she exclaimed in resentment.

"That gives you a radiant look," he remarked composedly.

Her eyes flashed. "You will make me hate you," she retorted.

He smiled slightly, his eyes half sad. "I am trying to," he responded.

She stamped her foot with impatience. "Then you won't succeed. I will not hate you. Do you hear? I will not!"

"Is it a question of will?"

"In this case, yes."

"Do you hate as you choose—and love?" he asked.

"I don't know," she replied. "I hardly think I could hate you if I would, despite your—your hatefulness."

"Not though it were a part of wisdom?"

"Wisdom has nothing to do with"—

"With what?" he questioned.

"With hate."

"Nor with love?"

"Nor with love."

He shook himself free from an imaginary weight, passing his hand across his contracted brow. "Then so much the worse for hate," he responded, "and for love."

As she did not answer he spoke fiercely. "When you love, love a virtuous, straightaway plodder," he said. "Love a man because he is decent—because he is decent and plain and all the things that the romancers laugh at. Love a fool, if you will, but let him be a fool who goes to his office at 9 and leaves it at 6; who craves no more exciting atmosphere than the domestic one of house girl worries and teething babies. If you ever find yourself loving a man like me, you had better make for the nearest lamp post and—hang"—

"Hush!" she cried, her cheeks flaming. "How—how dare you?" Her voice broke sharply, and she fell to sobbing behind her raised hands.

"My God!" he said softly. She felt his breath upon her forehead, and a tremor passed over her. Then his hands fastened upon hers and drew them from her eyes. He was panting like a man who has run a race.

She was looking straight before her. A small homing bird alighted for a swift instant on the railing near them, scanning suspiciously the deserted corner, and she knew that that bird would be blazoned on her memory forever after. Then she felt the man's lips close upon her own.

"You shall love me," he said, "and right be damned!"

* * * * * * *

She stepped out upon the deck, her eyes shining. He met her moodily. "Shall we walk up into the bow?" he asked.

She nodded. "This is our last evening," she said. "We will make it long."

"However long we make it, there is always tomorrow."

Her face clouded. "Yes, there is tomorrow," she admitted.

She fell into step with him, and they walked the length of the deck. Once she lost her balance, and he laid his hand upon her arm. When she recovered herself he did not remove it.

"We will go far up," she said. "We will look straight out to sea and forget what is behind us."

"Can we forget it?" he asked gloomily.

She smiled into his face. "I will make you," she answered. "Put your hands upon the railing—so—and watch the boat as it cuts the waves. Is it not like a bird? And see, the stars are coming out."

A salt spray dashed into their faces as they leaned far over. A wet wind blew past them, and she put up her hand to hold her hat. Her skirts were wrapped closely about her, and her figure seemed to grow taller in the gray fog that rose from the sea. The ethereal quality in her appearance was emphasized.

He drew away from her. "You are too delicate for my rough hands," he said.

"Am I?" she laughed softly; then a rising passion swelled in her voice, "I should choose to be broken by you to being caressed by any other man"—

His face whitened. "Don't say that," he protested hoarsely.

"Why not, since it is true?"

"It is not true."

A half moon was mounting into the heavens, and it lit the sea with a path of silver. The pearl colored mist floated ahead of the steamer, fluttering like the filmy garments of a water sprite. A dozen stars hung overhead.

"But it is true," she answered. Her words rang clearly, with a triumphant note. For a time he did not speak. In the light of the half moon she saw the deepening furrows upon his face. His hands were clinched.

"There is time yet," he said at last, "to withdraw a false play. Take your love back."

She trembled, and her lips parted. "I cannot," she replied, "and I would not."

He stretched out his arms as if to draw her toward him, and she faltered before the passion in his glance. Then he fell back. "What a mess you are making of your life!" he said.

But his warming eyes had reassured her. "The mess is already made," she responded.

"But it is not," he returned. Then he summoned his flagging force. "And it shall not be."

"How will you prevent it?"

"By an appeal to reason."

She laughed. "What love was ever ruled by reason?"

"By proofs."

She laughed again. "What proof ever shattered faith?"

"Great God!" he retorted passionately. "Stop! Think a moment! Look things in the face. What do you know of me?"

"I know that I love you."

"I tell you I am a devil"—

"And I do not believe you."

"Go back to America and ask the first man you meet."

"Why should I respect his opinion?"

"Because it is the opinion of the respectable public."

"Then I don't respect the respectable

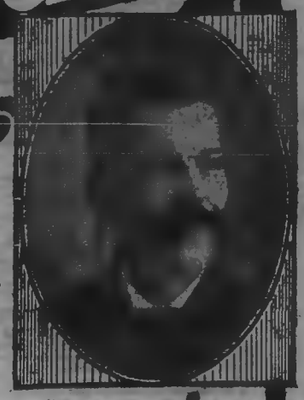
Zam-Buk

CURES ECZEMA



He doubted Zam-Buk's power but is now convinced.

Mr. Geo. Rhinehart, of 210 Wilton Avenue, Toronto, says:—"Last winter I had a big sore appear on the back of my right hand. I thought it would go away, but instead of doing so, it got worse. A patch of about four inches square became inflamed, then the skin broke and the sore mattered and discharged freely. Not only was it very unsightly, but it was very painful, too. In spite of my care it got worse, and to my great alarm a second inflamed patch appeared on my left hand. This was followed by an outbreak on my arm, and on the calf of my leg. The pain from these patches was terrible. At times, when they got thoroughly warm they itched until I could hardly bear. I used ointments and salves of all kinds, but got no benefit. One day I read a report in the newspaper of how a case of eczema of long standing had been cured by Zam-Buk. I had tried so many things in vain that I doubted whether Zam-Buk could cure me. My wife advised me to try it and I did so. The first few applications gave me relief from the terrible itching, and also soothed the pain. I cleansed the wounds thoroughly once daily, and applied Zam-Buk as directed. Within a few days there was a marked improvement, and gradually the wounds began to close. The discharging ceased, and the skin began to grow again. Within a short time of commencing with the Zam-Buk treatment all the four wounds were not only closed up, but all the patches were covered with new, healthy skin.

I consider Zam-Buk a wonderful balm, and shall always recommend it to my friends. If it can cure such serious skin diseases as mine was, it must be a very speedy cure for severe cuts and slight injuries sustained in one's every day work. I shall always keep a box handy."

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES

Zam-Buk is a pure, refined balm of extraordinary power. Unlike most embrocations and ointments hitherto obtainable, it is purely herbal in nature, and contains no animal fat or mineral coloring matter. It expels disease from the system and virtually creates new, healthy skin. It is especially valuable for cuts, bruises, burns, running sores, ringworm, scalp irritation, eczema, psoriasis, sore backs, abscesses, boils, pimples, cracks, chafing, insect stings, festering sores, poisoned wounds, scalds, piles, stiffness, swollen joints, sore throat, aching feet, sprains, rheumatism, and all nerve pains. Obtainable from all druggists at 50 cents a box, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Colborne St., Toronto, upon receipt of price, 6 boxes for $2.50.

A Free Trial Box.

A dainty free sample box of Zam-Buk will be sent to all applicants for same who cut out this coupon and forward it, with a one-cent stamp (to pay return postage) and full name and address to the Zam-Buk Co., Colborne St., Toronto.

punne."

"You ought to."

"I don't agree with you."

Again he was silent, and again he faced her. "What is it that you love in me?" he demanded. "It is not my face."

"Certainly not."

"Nor my manners?"

"Hardly."

"Is there anything about me that is especially attractive?"

"I have not observed it."

"Then I'll be hanged if I know what it is!"

"So will I."

He sighed impatiently. "No woman ever discovered it before," he said, "though I've known all sorts and conditions. But, then, I never knew a woman like you."

"I am glad of that," she responded.

"I would give two-thirds of my future—such as it is—if I had not known you."

"And yet you love me."

He made a step toward her, his face quivering. But his words were harsh. "My love is a rotten reed," he said. Then he turned from her, gazing gloomily out to sea. Across the water the path of moonlight lay unrolled. Small, brisk waves were playing around the flying steamer. Suddenly he faced her. "Listen!" he said.

She bent her head.

"From the beginning I have lied to you—lied, do you hear? I singled you out for my own selfish ends. All my kindness, as you call it, was because of its usefulness to me. While you looked on in innocence I made you a tool in my hands for the furtherance of my own purposes. Even those confounded prunes were sent to you from any other motive than sympathy"—

She shivered, supporting herself against the railing. "I—I don't understand," she stammered.

"Then listen again: I needed you, and I used you. There is not a soul in this boat but believes me to be your husband. I have created the impression because I was a desperate man and it aided me. My name is not even Lawrence Smith"—

"Stop!" she said faintly. For an instant she staggered toward him; then her grasp upon the railing tightened. "Go on!" she added.

His face was as gray as the fog which shrouded it. "I left America a hunted man. When I reach the other side I shall find them still upon my tracks. It is for an act which they call by any ugly name. And yet I would do it over again. It was justice."

She was shivering as from a strong wind. "I—I don't think I understand yet," she said.

"I have led a ruined life," he went on hurriedly. "My past record is not a pretty one, and yet there is no act of my life which I regret so little as the one for which they are running me down. It was a deed of honor, though it left blood upon my hands"—

Her quivering face was turned away.

"I reached New York with the assistance of a friend, the only man on earth who knows and believes in me. He secured a stateroom from an L. Smith, who was delayed. I took his name as a safeguard, and when I saw yours beside me at table I concluded he was your husband, and I played his part in the eyes of the passengers. It succeeded well." He laughed bitterly. "Lawrence was a guess," he added.

Then before her stricken eyes his recklessness fell from him. "Oh, if I could undo this," he said, "I would go back gladly to stand my chances of the gallows"—

WEAK MEN AND WOMEN

The Most Perfect Restorative Known and Invigorating Tonic Vitalizer —Greatest Health-Renewer

Nature's greatest cure for weak, pale men and women is Ferrozone. It is invaluable for run-down, overworked, delicate people, and will restore them to robust health more quickly, at smaller expense, than any other tonic you can select.

We quote the following cases to show what Ferrozone has done for others. In your case it will act just as efficiently:—

FOR BUSINESS MEN

The Experience of a Well-known Lawyer Proves Ferrozone an Ideal Tonic.

Mr. N. W. Burke, a well known lawyer in Meriden, says:—"When I first took Ferrozone I was in a nervous run down condition, almost sick enough to give up work. I lacked strength, and felt as if I could not get down to work. Ferrozone at once gave me a good appetite, and drove away the nervous, apprehensive feelings that formerly made my life miserable. As I continued the use of Ferrozone I grew stronger, and am glad to say it has brought me back to perfect health. I know that Ferrozone is an excellent tonic for business men and people inclined to a sedentary life. I can recommend it to such."

FOR NERVOUS WOMEN

Nothing Compares With the Nerve-Strengthening Power of Ferrozone.

Mrs. E. D. Emmerson, of Centreville, says:—"I am glad to think that there is at least one honest remedy for nervous people. No one can imagine what I suffered with my nerves, and I sometimes wonder at the number of useless prescriptions and medicines I took. But Ferrozone acted differently from all the rest. It built up my system, and gradually the irritability left my nerves, and I got well. Ferrozone cured me by removing the cause of my trouble, and by giving me enough additional strength to overthrow the attack of nervousness. I can recommend Ferrozone strongly."

THOUSANDS ANNUALLY CURED BY FERROZONE

If you want to get well and keep well, by all means use Ferrozone. If you suffer from insomnia, nervousness, debility, loss of appetite, poor digestion, or any other symptom of disordered blood, nothing will tone up and vitalize your system like Ferrozone. Price 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely by mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

Between Two Shores

A sob broke from her. "Hush," she said wildly. "Have you no mercy—none?"

"You must believe this," he went on passionately, "that at the last I loved you. You must believe."

She shook her head almost deliriously.

"You must believe it," he repeated savagely. "If I could make you believe it, I would lie down to let you walk over me. You must believe that I have loved ou as I have loved no other woman in my life—as I could love no other woman but you. You must believe that." He put out his hands as if to touch her, but she shrank away.

"No, no!" she cried. And she fled into the obscurity of the deck.

All that night she sat upon the edge of her berth. Her eyes were strained, and she stared blankly at the foam breaking against the porthole. Thought hung suspended, and she felt herself rocking mentally like a ship in open sea. She saw her future brought to bay before the threatening present, and she glanced furtively around in search of some byway of escape. The walls of the little stateroom seemed closing upon her, and she felt the upper berth bearing down. She sobbed convulsively. "It was so short," she said.

When she came upon deck next day it was high tide, and the steamer was drawing into Liverpool. She wore a closely fitting jacket and carried a small bag in her hand. Through her lowered veil her eyes showed with scarlet lids, as if she had been weeping. The crowd of passengers, leaning eagerly over the railing, parted slightly, and she caught a glimpse of the English landing, peopled by strange English faces. A sob stuck in her throat, and she fell hastily into a corner. She dreaded setting foot upon a strange shore. She heard the excited voices vaguely, as she heard them seven days ago upon sailing. They grated upon her ears with the harsh insistence of unshared gayety and made her own unhappiness the more poignant.

"Why, there is Jack!" rang out the voice of a woman in front of her. "Lend me the glasses. Yes, it is Jack. He came up from London to meet me!"

Then the steamer drifted slowly to the landing, and the voyage was over. She saw the gangways swung across, and she saw a dozen men stroll leisurely aboard. Yes, the end had come. "There is no harm in goodby," said a voice at her side.

She turned hastily. He was looking down upon her, his eyes filled with the old haunting gloom. "Goodby," she answered.

He held out his hand. "And you will go home like a sensible woman and forget?"

"I will go home."

His face whitened. "And forget?"

"Perhaps."

"It is wise."

She looked up at him, her eyes wet with tears. "Oh, how could you?" she cried brokenly. "How could you?"

He shook his head. "Don't think of me," he responded. "It is not worth the trouble."

The hand that held her bag shook nervously. "I wish I had never seen you," she said.

Then a voice startled them.

"So you have got your wife safely across, Mr. Smith," it said, "and no worse for the voyage. May I have the pleasure?"

It was the ship's surgeon, a large man with a jovial face. "I am afraid it was not the brightest of honeymoons," he added, with attempted facetiousness. She looked up, her face paling, a sudden terror in her eyes.

A man with a telegram in his hand passed them, glancing from right to left. He stopped suddenly, wheeled round and came toward them.

All at once her voice rang clear. She laid her hand upon the arm of the man beside her. "It is a honeymoon," she said, and she smiled into the surgeon's face, "so bright that even seasickness couldn't dim it. You know, it has lasted eight years"—

The surgeon smiled, and the strange man passed on.

Some one took her hand, and they descended the gangway together. As she stepped upon the landing he looked down at her, his eyes aflame.

"For God's sake," he said, "tell me what it means!"

Her glance did not waver. "It means," she answered, "that I am on your side forever."

His hand closed over the one he held. "I ought to send you back," he said, "but I cannot."

"You cannot," she repeated resolutely.

Then her voice softened. "God bless that detective!" she added fervently.

Across the passion in his eyes shot a gleam of his old reckless humor. "It was Cook's man after a tourist," he said. "But God bless him!"

"AH, if it had been any one but him!" exclaimed Captain Hadow.

"It's horrible to call him a deserter," said Francis.

"Don't let's do it," said the captain.

"We have to say something, sir," replied the first lieutenant helplessly.

"One can always lie, I suppose," said Hadow.

"There's nothing I wouldn't do myself for Jack Garrard," said Mr. Francis.

"Why not say he was kidnaped here by the hill tribe?" said Hadow. "We aren't certain sure he wasn't, and no one can deny but what he might have been."

"But the admiral would be bound to inquire into it," said Mr. Francis. "Sooner or later he'd send a ship."

"Trust Jack to do his own lying when she gets here," said Hadow. "Besides, he'll be sick of the whole thing and only too glad to step aboard."

"But won't we be asked why we didn't rescue him?" asked Francis.

"No, no; I have it!" cried the captain. "It's certainly a case for stretching a point, sir," said Mr. Francis.

"Enter in the log," said the captain, speaking very slowly and thoughtfully, "that passed Midshipman John de Vigne Garrard, failing to report himself at the expiration of his leave, was afterward discovered to have been kidnaped by the hill tribes of Borabora Island. On my threatening to land a party to recover him I was dissuaded by King George, who cleared himself of any personal responsibility in the matter and who promised, if only I would give him time, to recover the man without bloodshed or any cost to his majesty's government. The king urged that the use of force would imperil the officer's life, which otherwise he had every confidence would be spared."

"Very good, sir," said Mr. Francis.

"You'll give old George a flaming character," added Hadow.

"Very good, sir," said Mr. Francis.

"Pile it on about his reverence for the queen and the way he gave beef to the ship," said Hadow.

"And what then, sir?" inquired Mr. Francis.

"Well, you know," said Hadow, "my orders here leave me a pretty wide latitude. You can't tie down a surveying ship in wild waters the way you can a simple patrol. By George, sir, I'll lay the ship back here in nine months and retake Master Johnny Garrard."

"You may count, Captain Hadow, on our most loyal and hearty support," said Mr. Francis.

"Thank you," said the captain, "and you will pass the word along that the subject is not one to be discussed."

"Quite so, sir," said the first lieutenant.

"Not a word!" exclaimed the captain. "Though you might coach the king a bit about the hill tribes; but, of course, not a whisper that we're ever coming back."

"No, sir," said Mr. Francis.

"This must go no farther than you and me," said Hadow.

"It shall not, sir," returned the first lieutenant.

"We shall sail tonight at the turn of the tide," said the captain.

"Very good, sir," said Mr. Francis.

* * * * * * *

It was not nine months—it was fifteen and some days to spare—before the Dauntless again raised the peak of Borabora and backed her mainyard off the settlement.

It was morning when Hadow raised the island, a fleecy speck of cloud against the sky line, and he shortened sail at once and lingered out the day, so as to bring him up to it by dark. After supper every light on board was doused and the great hull, gliding through the glass smooth water, merged her steep sides and towering yards and canvas into the universal shadow.

By 10 the ship was hove to close ashore, and the lights of the little settlement glimmered through the palms. The warm night, laden with exotic fragrance and strangely exciting in the intensity of its stillness and beauty, hid beneath its far reaching pall the various actors of an extraordinary drama. With pistols buckled to their hips, Brady, Winterslea, Hotham and Stanbury-Jones, four officers of the ship, together with Hatch, a flinty faced old seaman who could be trusted, all slipped down the ladder into the captain's gig and pulled with muffled oars for the break in the reef. Picking their way through the pass with the surf on either hand roaring in their ears, they slowly penetrated the lagoon and headed for the king's house. The shelving beach brought them to a stop, and, all jumping out to lighten the boat, they drew her over the shingle and made her painter fast to a pandanus tree. Then, acting in accordance with a preconcerted plan, Winterslea was sent forward to track down their prey, while the rest huddled together to await his return.

Ten minutes, twenty minutes, passed in palpitating suspense. A girl drew by wreathed in flowers. She looked out to sea, then up at the stars and shrank again into the shadow. From the neighboring houses there came the sound of mellow voices and of laughter. A pig rooted and rustled among a heap of cocoanut shells. Half an hour passed, and from far across the water, as faint and silvery as some elfin signal, the ship sent her message of the time—six bells.

Panting and crouching, Winterslea groped his way among them.

"Come," he said.

They followed him in silence, unloosing their holsters and grimly ready. A pair of handcuffs clinked in Hatch's jumper. They inhaled the deep breath of tried and resolute men, inured to danger and accustomed to give and receive an unflinching loyalty.

"There!" said Winterslea.

The path opened out on a little clearing among the trees and showed them, set on high, the outlines of a native house. Like all Tahitian houses, it was on the model of a birdcage, and the oval wall of bamboo, set side by side, let through vertical streaks of light from the lamp or fire within. As the whole party drew nearer they heard deep below them on the other side the pleasant sound of falling water and realized that the cliff they were mounting overlooked a little river at its foot. Here in exquisite seclusion Jack Garrard had chosen the spot for his moral suicide.

Creeping up to the house and looking through the cracks of the bamboos, his comrades saw him sitting within dressed like a native in tapa cloth, with bare chest and flowers in his tawny hair. He was sitting in a hammock, and with her head against his knee, a beautiful girl was looking up into his face, one hand locked in his. In that land of pretty women she was the one that outshone them all, Tehea, the sister of the king, for whose sweet favor every man on board had sought in vain. And here she was, with her long hair loosened and her eyes swimming with love, looking up at the lad who had given name and honor to win her heart. The pair were hardly more than children, and Brady, a sentimentalist of forty, with red hair, sighed as he peeped through the eaves and thought of his own dear girl at home.

Garrard laid down the pipe he had been smoking and in happy unconsciousness of any audience but the woman at his feet began to sing. His voice had always been his greatest charm and the means of gaining him the friendship of men much older than himself. It had won Hadow. It had won Francis.

Jack lay back in the hammock and with wonderful tenderness and feeling sang "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," repeating the last verse several times over. It was plain that something in it—some phrase or line—had deeply moved him, for he suddenly bent over and laid his face in his hands, shaking with a strange emotion. Tehea arose and, throwing her arms round his neck and forcing away his hands, pressed her lips to his wet eyes. Even as she did so Brady gave the signal for the whole party to move round to the door.

He entered first, the others close behind him. Jack leaped to his feet, white and speechless, his wide open eyes those of an animal at bay. Brady, Winterslea, Stanbury-Jones, Hotham, Hatch, the familiar faces haunted him like the sight of ghosts. Friends no longer, they were now avengers with the right to track him down and kill him.

"Jack!" cried Brady in a stifled voice.

The lad took a step back. The girl moaned and tried to run between Hatch and Stanbury-Jones. The old seaman caught and shook her like a dog, tearing away the whistle she put to her lips and dashing it to the floor. Jack put up his hand and snatched a pistol hidden in the thatch of the roof. Brady as the instant leveled his own and thundered out:

"Drop it, or I'll shoot!"

"Shoot and be hanged!" returned Jack, and with that he turned his pistol on himself, and, placing the muzzle against his forehead, pulled the trigger.

It missed fire.

Before he could try again Brady had caught him around the neck, while

Jack lay back in the hammock and sang.

Hatch, resigning the girl to Stanbury-Jones, ran in and snapped the handcuffs on his wrists.

"Jack," cried Brady, "we aren't going to hurt you. We've rescued you from the hill tribes. Man, you're saved!"

"You never was no deserter," said Hatch.

"Mind you back us up, old fellow," said Winterslea.

"Give us your fin, boy," said Hotham.

It was some time before Jack could pull himself together. When at last he did so and began to appreciate the generosity of his captain and shipmates and their astounding concern to save him from the penalty of his crime, he underwent one of those reactions when despair gives way to the maddest gayety. He swore at Hatch and made him take off the irons. He got out a bottle of white rum and forced them all to drink his health. He kept them in a roar with the story of his adventures and laughed and cried in turn as he described his life ashore.

"What does she want?" demanded Brady, as Tehea insistently repeated some words in native language.

"She says," said Jack, calmly picking up the whistle from the floor and touching it to his lips, "she says I've only to blow this and you will all be dead in five minutes!"

A hush fell upon the company.

Jack, with an oath, flung the whistle from him.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I am grateful. I am d——d grateful. If I live I shall try to repay each one of you. I shall try to be a better man. I shall try to be worthy of your kindness." He went around and shook hands solemnly with every one of them."

"D——d grateful!" he repeated.

"Let's be off," said Brady.

"Now, lad, your word of honor," said Winterslea.

Jack looked about him helplessly.

"I suppose I've no right to ask such a thing," he said. "I know how good you've been to me already and all that, but—but, gentlemen, she's my wife. I love her. I shall never see her again. May I not entreat a single minute for myself?"

"No," said Brady.

Jack went over to Tehea and took her hand. He put his arms about her and unashamed before them all pressed her comely head against his breast. He tried to explain the inexorable fate he was so powerless to resist. In incoherent whispers he told her he would break his chains and return to her free in the years to come to devote his life to the woman he loved. He called her the dearest names and begged her not to forget him, but she, with a perception greater than his own, swept away these despairing protestations with disdain. The daughter of one king, the sister of another, could she not meet force by force? These fierce intruders, with their rough voices and drawn pistols, who were they to threaten a princess of the royal blood and carry away her lover before her eyes? If they were strong she was stronger, and what ship cannon, she asked, however murderous or far ranging, could penetrate those mountain recesses whither she would carry him before the morning? Ah, she said, it was for him to choose between her and them; between Britain and the island; between love and the service of the white queen beyond the seas.

"I have chosen," he said.

Her eyes flashed as she freed herself from his arms.

"I am hateful in my own sight for having loved you," she said.

"Will you not even wish me well, Tehea?" he asked.

"No!" she cried. "I hope you will die!"

He turned away.

"Stay!" she cried after him.

A FOOD AND A TONIC

What the leading Medical Journal of the world has to say about FERROL.

After making a thorough test of FERROL in its own laboratory the London (England) Lancet published an article from which the following is taken:

FERROL

"This is a successful combination of the well-known valuable remedies, Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus. The formula is no secret, and our analysis showed the presence and amount of constituents as described. The preparation is a good one and of distinct therapeutic value. The association of an easily assimilable oil, in a fine state of division, with a phosphatic salt of iron which does not disturb the digestive functions and which is easily tolerated, determines its success as a food and tonic in wasting diseases."

What the London Lancet recommends as a food and a tonic in all wasting diseases must have very special qualities.

No higher endorsation is possible. The results following the use of FERROL for the past ten years have proved that this endorsation is well deserved.

FERROL is not a patent mystery. The formula is freely published. It is prescribed by the best Physicians. It is endorsed by the most eminent Medical Journals. It is used in the prominent Hospitals, Sanatoriums, etc.

Forty Years Between

He came back to her, downcast and silent.

"Remember," she said in an agony of sweet relenting, "that wherever thou goest, however many the years that may divide us, however wide the waters or the land, I shall be here waiting for thee, here in this house of our happiness, and if I die before thou comest here thou wilt find my grave."

"Tehea," he said, "as God sees me, some day I shall return!"

She took his hands and looked up into his face with such poignant longing and tenderness that Jack's comrades, already uncomfortable enough, were quite overborne by the scene. Tough old Hatch snuffled audibly, and Brady could hardly speak.

"Come, come, lad," he cried huskily, "you mustn't keep us longer!"

Jack unclasped the girl's hands and suffered himself to be led away by his comrades. A few minutes later they clambered up the ladder, the boat was hoisted in and the boatswain's whistle was rousing the watch on deck.

"Mainsail haul!"

By morning the island had sunk behind them, and, standing on the dizzy main royal yard, with one arm round the mast, Jack could make out nothing but a little cloud on the horizon.

* * * * * * * *

At sixty John Garrard was a post captain, knight commander of the bath, and within a year of receiving flag rank and the command of a fleet. His career had been more than distinguished, and he had won his way to the front as much by his fine personal qualities as by his invariable good judgment and high professional attainments. He had earned the character of a man who could be trusted in situations involving tact, temper and diplomatic skill, and no captain in the navy was more confidently ordered to those scenes of international tension, which in spite of statesmen so often arise in some distant place to menace the pence of the world.

He had never married, and when rallied on the subject was wont to say, with a laugh, that the sea was his only mistress. No one had ever ventured to question him much further, though his friends were often piqued, especially the women, as to an implied romance in the captain's earlier life. It was known he supported two old maid sisters, the Misses Hadow, the impoverished daughters of his first commander, but in view of his considerable private fortune this drain on his resources seemed scarcely the reason of his renunciation.

He was in command of the inflexible battleship, one of the Australian squadron, when she developed some defects in her hydraulic turning gear and was ordered home to England by Admiral Lord George Howard for overhaul. The captain's heart beat a little faster as he realized his course would take him south of the Societies. He spread out the chart on his cabin table and sighed as he laid his finger on Borabora. He shut his eyes and saw the basaltic cliffs, the white and foaming reefs, the green, still forests of that unforgotten island. He was a boy once more, with flowers in his hair, wandering beneath the palms with Tehea. How often had he thought of her during all these years, the years that had left him gray and old, the years that had carried him unscathed through so many dangers in every quarter of the world. For him she was still in her adorable girlhood, untouched by time, a radiant princess in her radiant isle, waiting by the shore for his return. It shocked him to remember she was not far short of sixty—a fat old woman, perhaps, married to some strapping chief and more than likely with grown children of her own. How incredible it seemed!

Dawn was breaking as he slowed down to leeward of the island and watched the shadows melt away. It was Sunday, a day of heavenly calm, fresh yet windless, with a sea so smooth that the barrier reefs for once were silent, and one could hear from across the hushed and shining water the coo of pigeons in the forest. Under bare steerage way, with the leadsman droning in the forechains, the ship hugged the shore and steamed at a snail's pace round the island.

With every mile the bays and wooded promontories grew increasingly familiar as Sir John was borne toward Lihua, the scene of his boyish folly. He looked ashore in wonder, surprised at the vividness and exactness of his recollection.

It was like a home coming to see all these familiar scenes spreading out before him. He looked at his hands, his thin, veined, wrinkled hands, and it came over him, with a sort of surprise, that he was an old man.

"That was forty years ago," he said to himself. "Forty years ago!"

As Lihua opened out and he perceived with an inexpressible pang the thatched houses set deep in the shade of palms and breadfruit trees he felt himself in the throes of a strange and painful indecision. He paced up and down the bridge, he lit a cigar and threw it away again, he twice approached Commander Stillwell as though to give an order, and then, still in doubt, turned shamefacedly on his heel.

"By the deep, nine!" came the hoarse murmur of the leadsman.

It lay with him to stop the ship or not—a word and she would come shivering to a standstill; a word and the boatswain would pipe away his gig and the crew would be running to their places. His heart ached with the desire to land, but something—he knew not what—withheld the order on his lips.

Did he not owe it to her to keep the promise of forty years, a promise given in the flush of youth and hope and sealed with scalding tears?

His resolution was taken. He ordered Commander Stillwell to stop the ship and lower a boat.

"I am going to treat myself to a run ashore," he said by way of explanation.

The vessel slowly stopped. The covers were whipped off the gig. She was hoisted out and lowered, the crew dropping down the ladder into their places at the peep-peep-peep of the whistle.

He was landed at a little cove where in bygone days he had often whiled away an hour waiting in charge of Hadow's boat. It gave him a singular sensation to feel the keel grate against the shingle and to say to himself that this was Lihua! He drew a deep breath as he looked about and noticed how unchanged it all was.

It came over him with a start that the village was empty. Then he remembered it was Sunday, and they were all at church. Thank God, there was none to watch him! No prying, curious eyes to disturb his thoughts. But they would soon be out again, and it behooved him to make the best use of his solitude while he might. He struck inland, his heart beating with a curious expectancy. At every sound he held his breath, and he would turn quickly and look back with a haunting sense that Tehea was near him; that perhaps she was gazing at him through the trees. He approached his old home through overgrown plantations. It awed him to part the branches and to feel himself drawing near at every step to the only house he had ever called his own. As he heard the splashing waterfall he stopped, not daring for the moment to go on. When at last he did so and mounted the little hill he found no house at all. Nothing but ferns and weeds, man high. He moved about here and there, up to the armpits in verdure, in consternation at discovering it gone.

His foot struck against a bowlder. He had forgotten that there were rocks on the hill. He moved along and his foot struck again. He pressed the weeds back and looked down.

He saw a tomb of crumbling cement, green with age and buried out of sight under the tangle.

It had never occurred to him before that Tehea might be dead.

He held back the undergrowth again and peered into the depths. Yes, it was the grave of a chief or a woman of rank. He laid both hands on the thick stem of a shrub and tore it out of the ground. He seized another and dragged it out with the same ferocity. It was intolerable that she should suffocate under all this warm, wet jungle that intruded itself, like a horrible cansille, where there was none to drive it back. He would give her air and sunshine, she that had loved them both. He would uncover the poor stones that marked her last resting place. He would lay bare the earth that wrapped her dead beauty.

He worked with desperation until his hands were bleeding, until his eyes were stung and blinded with steaming sweat. Dizzy with the heat, parched with thirst and sick with the steam that rose from the damp ground, he was forced again and again to desist and rest. He cut his waistcoat into slips and bound them round his bloody hands. He broke the blades of his penknife on recalcitrant roots that defied the strength of his arms. He labored with fury to complete the task he had set before him. Here he stood within four walls of vegetation, the sky above him, the cracked and rotted tomb below, satisfied at last by the accomplishment of his duty.

He called her aloud by name. He bent down and kissed her mossy bed. He whispered with a strange conviction that she could hear him, that he had kept his promise to return.

Then, rising to his feet, he turned toward the sea and retraced his steps. The people were still in church, and the village was deserted as before. He walked swiftly lest they might come flocking out before he could reach his boat to torture him with recognition, with the questions they would ask, with their story of Tehea's death. Then he laughed at his own fears, remembering his white hair and the intervening generation. Time had passed over Borabora too. The world, he remembered, was older by forty years. Older and sadder and emptier.

He had kept his promise to return.

* * * * * * * *

He swung himself up the ladder, mounted the bridge and put the vessel on her course. The telegraph rang, the engineers repeated back the signal, and the great battleship, vibrating with her mighty engines, resumed once more her ponderous way.

Kant's Windlasses.

Kant, the German metaphysician, was a singular being. The English writer Thomas De Quincey made close observation of Kant's personal peculiarities and frequently dwelt upon one of them with intense amusement. Kant, among other studies in the art of taking care of himself, avoided ordinary garters. He permitted no ligature to be placed on any part of his body, fearing to hinder in the slightest degree the circulation of the blood. He found it necessary at the same time to keep up his stockings. Accordingly he had loops attached to them, and outside each hip he wore a contrivance which may be called a box windlass. These affairs somewhat resembled an angler's reel, with a spring which secured the line at any given point. Behold Kant then expounding his philosophy to a select circle of disciples. Like the famous counsel who could not state his arguments without twisting a bit of twine, Kant worked the windlasses as he talked. The idea of this grotesque fancy so tickled De Quincey that he often lingered on the odd sight it must have been to observe the master "paying out the cable" or hauling in the "slack" by aid of this curious machinery!

The Wilderness Manna.

In Exodus xvi. 14-36, and other passages in the Old Testament is to be found an account of the manna fed to the Israelites during their pilgrimage in the wilderness. According to the article on this subject in Smith's Bible Dictionary, which is a summary of several passages, the manna came every morning except the Sabbath in the form of a small round seed resembling the hoar frost. It had to be gathered early, before the sun became so hot as to melt it. It had to be gathered every day except the Sabbath. The attempt to lay aside or accumulate for a succeeding day except on the day immediately preceding the Sabbath failed by the substance becoming wormy and offensive. It was prepared for food by grinding and baking. Its taste was like fresh oil and like wafers made with honey, equally agreeable to all palates. Indeed the manna became to each person the food he was accustomed to take. The whole nation subsisted upon it for forty years, and it suddenly ceased when they first got the new corn in the land of Canaan.

Corn Mills.

Corn mills are mentioned in the Bible. The original corn mill much resembled the modern druggist's pestle. Moses forbade corn mills to be taken in pawn, for that, he thought, was like taking a man's life in pledge.

HUMOR

HE PROVED HIS RIGHT.

It Was Quite a Roundabout Way, but He Got His Water.

A western lawyer says that he was once in a court in Missouri when a young man most fastidiously dressed sauntered into the temple of justice. None of the officials of the court had ever seen him before, and as the proceedings were unimportant and somewhat tedious it chanced that the stranger attracted some attention. On his part he eyed the judge narrowly, sized up all the attorneys, drummed loudly on the bench in front of him and finally rose and sauntered up to the bar, where he poured out for himself a glass of iced water.

The judge presiding, a nervous and testy old fellow, had himself observed the young man and by his frowns had given evidence of his disapproval. When the stranger had boldly marched up to the bar and had taken the water it looked as if the judge would boil over with indignation at this exhibition of temerity, amounting almost to contempt. "That water, sir," roared the judge, "is for attorneys and other officials of this court."

Whereupon the strange young man turned red and left the courtroom. But the court was to see more of him, for in about half an hour he returned, bearing in his hand a roll of parchment. The judge now glared at him in the most savage manner, but the young man flinched not. Finally, during a lull in the proceedings, the eccentric young person addressed the court:

"Your honor!"

"What is it, sir?"

"I wish, your honor, to submit to this honorable court my certificate of admission to practice in the supreme court and all other courts of this state."

"Well, what of that?" growled his honor.

"Simply this, your honor. Now that I have presented the proofs of my admission to the bar I would move the court that I be permitted to drink from the official pitcher."

The young attorney got his water.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Honest Man.

"Will you love me when I am old?" asked the kittenish damsel with the corkscrew curls, the false frizzes, the suspiciously bright teeth and the large bank account.

"Why, I love you now, don't I?" asked the plain, everyday, matter of fact, undiplomatic man who was trying to provide for his future.

And, oh, brethren, the voiceless wind that drifts across the open polar sea was a hot wave compared to the atmosphere that surrounded him in a minute.—Judge.

Willing to Compromise.

"Well, it's no use your kickin'," growled the cashier of the restaurant finally. "You et the food, an' arguin' about it won't help"—

"That's so," said the disgusted patron. "Let's forgive and forget."

"Eh?"

"I'll forgive that miserable meal if you'll forget that I had it."—Philadelphia Press.

Unrealistic.

The heroine was supposed to fall in a fit when the climax of the play was reached.

"Hub!" she exclaimed as she surveyed her new gown in a mirror. "It looks like I'd have to fall in a misfit tonight."

And the villain still pursued her.—Chicago News.

Dead Duke Made A Fearful Mistake

It Lost Trepoff Czar's Favaur and He Dies of Broken Heart—Drumhead Courtmartial—Premier Stolypin Cancels Power to Try Siedlce Jews Arrested During Recent Massacre That Way in Response to Intercession of Jews—Odessa Jews Fear They Are Marked For Slaughter.

Vienna, Sept. 19.—According to information received by The Neues Wiener Tagebiatt from a distinguished Russian authority, Gen. Trepoff, at the council at Peterhof, Aug. 15, remarked: "We have made a fearful mistake in not having formed a cabinet representative of society."

Emperor Nicholas, indignant at the observation, avoided Gen. Trepoff henceforth. Later, Gen. Trepoff presented the Emperor with a project he had elaborated repressing the sale of the crown lands, but the Emperor coldly ordered him to hand it to Grand Duke Nicholas, his bitterest enemy.

The grand duke, after reading the project, remarked: "It is extraordinary that you have now become a Liberal after the attempt to poison you. You are a Liberal from fear of a revolution, not from conviction."

Gen. Trepoff took this treatment to heart, coming from the hands of those to whom he had devoted his whole life, and passed his days in the closest retirement, suffering intensely from depression.

Early on the morning of Sept. 13, Gen. Trepoff found on his writing table a document, which he knew, as he unfolded it, was a death sentence from the revolutionary committee. Greatly agitated, he was seized with a cramp of the heart, eventually causing his death.

Jews Intercede.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—As a result of intercession by a deputation of Jews, at the head of which was Baron Ginsburg, a prominent banker of St. Petersburg, Premier Stolypin has sent telegraphic orders to the Governor of Siedlce that the persons arrested there following the recent massacre shall not be submitted to trial before the newly-established drumhead court-martial.

Jews Marked For Massacre.

Odessa, Sept. 19.—Policemen, accompanied by soldiers, made tours of the city Monday night and cut marks on the trunks of trees standing close to a great number of shops belonging to Jews. These actions are supposed to be in preparation for the intended attack by the military, and a great panic ensued when the people learned what had been done. Representatives of the Jews appealed to the mayor to investigate, and the investigation is said to have confirmed the story.

A police official was tried here yesterday on charges of having killed 11 Jews during the anti-Jewish attacks last year. Although the murders were fully proven, the man was condemned to only three years' imprisonment.

Mutineers Were Shot.

Helsingfors, Finland, Sept. 19.—Seventeen marines, condemned to death for participation in the Sveaborg mutiny, were shot yesterday. The court-martial has sentenced 80 others sailors to various terms at hard labor to service with the disciplinary battalions. Eleven of the men tried were acquitted.

Traitor In Their Midst.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—Disheartened at the capture of their principal leaders, of whom Vladimir Maseuri and a number of others have been executed, the "Flying Group" of the revolutionists, which seceded from the parent organization last winter, and which has been responsible for almost all the important assassinations and robberies since the convocation of Parliament, has voted to return to the fold and submit to the orders of the central committee. Members of the "Flying Group" are convinced that they have had a traitor in their ranks. They suspect Belensoff, the leader of the band which committed the bank robbery in Moscow last March.

STILL THE I. O. F.

Dr. Oronhyatekha Throws Further Light On Fraternal Insurance.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—The examination of Dr. Oronhyatekha, the chief of the Independent Order of Foresters, was resumed yesterday before the insurance commission.

Mr. Shepley, Dominion examiner, led the witness through the various acts of incorporation and the establishment of the order in foreign countries. The powers of the witness and the patriotism of the membership, as described, were features of the examination.

He submitted comparative statements showing cost of business done by four "giant" insurance companies in the United States and the I.O.F. and also a comparison between a leading insurance company in Canada and the I.O.F. on the same basis.

In reply to a question as to the probable effect upon the membership should the order be compelled to make extra assessments because of the disappearing surplus, Dr. Oronhyatekha replied that such an event was so improbable that it was useless contemplating it.

Mr. Shepley asked if disaster were to come in the form of the order being declared illegal and it had to be dissolved, what would be the condition? Would the I.O.F. be able to re-insure in a solvent company with the funds on hand?

"I fancy not," was the answer.

The examination will be resumed at 10 o'clock yesterday.

ARRANGED AN ARMISTICE.

Guerra's Brother Acted as Peacemaker at a Battle's Beginning.

Havana, Sept. 19.—Since the return here of the military trains, the rebels are again destroying property of the Cuban Western Railroad, a British enterprise.

Government forces, 2,000 strong, under the command of Gen. Belancourt, are concentrating at Matanzas, and it is reported that they expect orders to march toward Havana.

Alferdo Zayas, president of the Liberal party, says that Col. Avalos, with 200 mounted men, attacked a rebel force under Pino Guerra Monday near Los Palacios, in Pinal Del Rio Province. The rebels had one man killed and two wounded. The Government soldiers had 18 killed and 30 wounded.

A second attack was about to begin when Guerra's brother, in the capacity of peacemaker, arrived from Havana and urged an armistice, which was speedily arranged.

DESTROYS NATIVE CITIES

Causes Much Loss of Life, and Shipping Was Badly Damaged—C. P. R. Steamer Monteagle Victim of Disaster—Empress of Japan Saved by Dock Co.'s Tugs—Craft of All Nations Struck by Blow.

Hong Kong, Sept. 19.—A terrific storm broke suddenly here yesterday afternoon, lasting two hours and destroying innumerable native cities and causing much loss of life. The harbor is literally strewn with wreckage, and the streets of the city are blocked with debris.

An unknown steamer collided with the British steamer Strathmore, seriously damaging the latter.

The British steamer Loong Sang collided with the British steamer Chip Sing, with slight damage.

The river boat Fatshang fouled the French mail boat Polynesian.

C. P. R. Monteagle Driven Ashore.

The C. P. R. steamer Monteagle, the German Signal, the German steamer Emma Luyken, the British steamer Chang Sha, the German steamer Sexta, the Kowloon ferryboat and a waterboat were driven ashore.

The American steamer Sorsogon and the German steamer Johanne are awash.

A Japanese steamer is stranded on Kellet's Island. The British river gunboat Moorhen is leaking badly, one French torpedo boat destroyer is ashore, and two others dragged their anchors the entire length of the harbor.

Tugs Save Empress of Japan.

The C. P. R. steamer Empress of Japan was saved by the dock company's tugs keeping her steady.

The American ship S. P. Hitchcock was driven high and dry on shore.

The British river steamers Kwong Chow, Sancheum and Sunloo foundered.

The French steamer Chas. Hardouin was damaged. The little Chinese steamer Wing Chai was beached.

Numerous steam launches and lighters foundered, and most of the wooden piers on the waterfront were demolished.

Twenty Frenchmen Killed.

The military quarters and temporary buildings were demolished and the men are quartered in the casemate of the fort.

Nineteen deep sea junks were washed on Stone Cutters' Island.

A tramp vessel collided with the French torpedo boat destroyer Fronde, and it is reported twenty Frenchmen were killed. The French torpedo boat destroyer Francisque is ashore, the steamer Apenrade is badly stranded on Stone Cutters' Island, and the British steamer Radnorshire is damaged.

STRUCK THE "SUNKER."

Crew of the May Queen Had Barely Time to Save Their Lives.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 19.—A telegram from Port Aux Basque states that the schooner May Queen, owned and commanded by Capt. John Gillian of Channel, Newfoundland, had, during a heavy sea, struck at high tide on a submerged reef known as "Sunker" at the Isle of Mort, about four miles east of Port Aux Basque.

Nine minutes after she was lying under thirty fathoms of water.

The crew had no time to save any of their personal effects, and the greatest difficulty in saving their own lives.

Four Cling to Vessel's Spars.

Charleston, S.C., Sept. 19.—The Clyde liner New York yesterday brought into port the mate and three seamen of the American schooner R. D. Hibber, Capt. Sayers, lumber-laden, from Savannah to New York, wrecked off the Frying-pan shoals. The vessel turned turtle and went to pieces. The men were found clinging to the spars. The captain and others of the crew were not found. The normal crew of the schooner was eleven.

Many Schooners Wrecked.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 19.—Besides eleven schooners wrecked at Belle-Isle recently by storms, seven others, with over 100 souls on board, were driven ashore on the Labrador coast. Four fatalities only are reported thus far. It is feared worse disasters occurred on the northern part of the coast, word from which is yet to be received. Over 250 castaways are now awaiting the arrival of a Government steamer to convey them home. This is the worst disaster since 1886, when 868 fishermen were made destitute by a single storm.

Passengers Stranded.

Honolulu, Sept. 19.—As a result of the stranding of the Pacific Mail Liner Manchuria and the transport Sheridan, both on their way to the Orient, and now followed by the Mongolia striking a reef near Midway Island, all within less than a month, there is much congestion of passengers here and the long interruptions of mails is causing great inconvenience.

Schooner Melrose Strands.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 19.—The Canadian schooner Melrose, bound down, in tow of the steamer Fairmount, took a sheer and stranded at the entrance to the Canadian channel. The vessel is leaking. It is loaded with wheat and will have to be lightered.

PLUNGES INTO RIVER.

Eight Dead, Twenty Injured and as Many More Are Missing.

Guthrie, Okla., Sept. 19.—Eight persons are dead, twenty more or less injured and as many more missing, as the result of the wrecking of a Rock Island passenger train three miles from Dover, Okla., at 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning.

The engine, tender, baggage and mail cars, smoking car and day coach of passenger train No. 12, northbound, left the high bridge that spans the Cimarron River and plunged into the stream, which is flanked by treacherous quicksands. The locomotive disappeared almost immediately. They mail and baggage clerks escaped from their cars and swam to the shore.

The accident was due to driftwood, which piled against the bridge and swerved it one of it.

The train was an hour late, and was running at high speed

BOLT KILLS SLEEPER.

Lightning Strikes Mrs. McEwan of Canton While In Bed.

Brockville, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Wm. McEwan, who lived with her husband on a farm a short distance from Canton, was killed by a bolt of lightning as she slept.

A loud crash attracted the attention of Dana Tracey, a nearby neighbor, who investigated and found Mrs. McEwen dead. Her husband, who slept beside her, was hurled out on the floor and was unconscious three-quarters of an hour.

The house was badly shattered, but did not take fire.

Mrs. McEwen was only 30 years of age. Two young children who occupied another room, were uninjured.

Little Boy Burned.

Quebec, Sept. 19.—While playing with matches the seven-year-old son of Mr. Dery, foreman at the Ritchie boot and shoe factory, set his clothes on fire and died from burns.

Falls to His Death.

Detroit, Sept. 19.—Wheelman Harry Smith, aged 24 years, of Sombra, Ont., son of Banker Smith of that place, was killed at Escanba, Mich., on Sunday, by falling through a hatch into the hold of the steamer Mitchell.

FOR CHURCH UNION.

Principal Scrimger Voices Presbyterian Ideal at Methodist Conference.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—The reception of the fraternal delegate from the M. E. Church of the United States to the general Methodist conference drew a fair audience last evening. Dr. Kelley gave an outline of the work of the M.E. Church.

Principal Scrimger, Dr. Robt. Campbell, Dr. Scott and Justice Archibald presented the greetings of the Presbyterian Church to the conference. The principal in a very eloquent passage referred to the negotiations in progress for union.

"Whatever the issue of the negotiations ultimately," he said, "I believe all the branches of the evangelical church, and I trust, all churches, will eventually be evangelical, will be united at last in some kind of Christian unity.

"The waters that flowed around the Island of Montreal were much broken and divided, but uniting in one stream to reach the ocean, they symbolized the destined unity of Christianity."

Justice Archibald also spoke.

Resolution of thanks were carried to both deputations.

Steals Employer's Goods.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 19.—Ralph Smith, a porter in the employ of W. and C. Silver, wholesale and retail drygoods, was behind prison bars last night charged with stealing from the firm goods to the value of $3,000. The thefts have extended over a period of one year. Nathan Hubley, a storekeeper at St. Margaret's Bay, was arrested as the receiver of the stolen goods.

HE WAS STONE DEAD.

Banker Killed by Unknown Quality While Under X-Ray.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—While undergoing an X-ray examination at the Polyclinic Hospital yesterday, Martin F. Murphy, a Renova, Pa., banker, one of the richest men in the state, died as though stricken by lightning. Mr. Murphy passed a rigid physical examination before going into the chair and his heart action was pronounced perfect. Surgeons believed some unknown quality entered the ray and killed.

The course of the ray was directly through the heart.

As it flashed upon Murphy he stiffened strangely. The ray was turned off and it was found that he was stone dead.

Peterborough May Secure Provincial Dairy Show

A Movement on Foot to Establish an Annual Show in This City—Matter Discussed by Provincial Dairymen at Toronto.

Peterborough and Guelph Being Considered as Probable Locations for the Show—A Proposal Which Will Probably Be Adopted.

Things seem to be coming Peterborough's way now. The latest proposal is to hold an annual Dairy show in this city, and the matter was discussed at a recent meeting of Dairymen at Toronto, when it was recognized that Peterborough as the centre of one of the best dairying sections in the province presented strong claims for a show of this kind. The Canadian Dairyman referrs to the matter, at some length, and, in part says:—

"A definite move has been made towards the holding of a provincial dairy show for Ontario. If held, it will be conducted on the same lines as the Fat Stock Show at Guelph, and The National Dairy Show in Chicago.

Dairymen in Favour.

"At a meeting of the directors of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, held in Toronto last week, at the time of the Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. H. B. Cowan, of The Canadian Dairyman, stated he had been talking the matter over with a large number of dairymen, all of whom were very much in favour of the holding of such an exhibition. The leading breeders of dairy cattle and the manufacturers of dairy machinery were enthusiastic in regard to the proposal and promised to make exhibits. One manufacturer had offered to give $200 should the money be required for the holding of such an exhibition. Mr. Cowan stated that he had not consulted the Department of Agriculture, and therefore could not say what the Department thought about the matter. He suggested that the Association should appoint a committee to act with a simsimilar committee from the western Ontario Dairymen's Association to look into the matter, and report at the convention of the association next January."

A joint committee was formed, and, reporting the meeting of that committee the "Dairyman" says:—

The joint committee later held a meeting and discussed what action should be taken. It was decided that the first step taken should be to canvass the exhibitors at the Toronto Exhibition and find how many of them would be prepared to support such a show and make exhibits, should one be held. It was further decided that a committee representthe dairymen's and breeders' associations, should interview Mayor Coatsworth, of Toronto, to see if the city would be prepared to furnish suitable accommodations for such a show.

Peterborough Would Take It.

The leputation explained the importance of the dairy industry, and stated that were the show held, they believed it would become a more important event than the Fat Stock Show at Guelph, as the dairy interests of the province far exceed the beef interests in importance. Then, also, there are two fat stock shows, one at Guelph and one at Ottawa, while there would be only one large dairy exhibition. It was explained that either Guelph or Peterborough would be glad to get the show.

This City Second Choice.

Mr. H. G. Sparling, representing The Empire Cream Separator, speaking of the proposal said:—"We will be with the management of such a show from the drop of the hat. Toronto is the best place for holding it by long odds. You can get the accommodation in Toronto that you cannot get anywhere else. If Toronto will not furnish suitable accommodation, I would favour going to Peterborough. Such a show would be the finest thing in the world and would bring the dairymen from eastern and western Ontario into closer touch with each other."

The committee already has obtained sufficient information to warrant it in making a report strongly in favour of holding the proposed exhibition. The next move will be to see what Guelph and Peterborough will be willing to do.

Gave Report Of Convention

Miss Martha Dickson Spoke at St. Andrew's

Yesterday afternoon the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of St. Andrew's church met in the church parlours, an unusually large number of ladies being in attendance. The feature of the meeting was a most interesting report of the convention held in Winnipeg last May, presented by Miss Martha Dickson, who attended the gathering. During the afternoon Mrs. Prust and Miss May Laing rendered vocal solos very effectively, and at the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Heber Rogers' Reward, Bronze Medal For His Act Of Great Bravery

To be Presented With Humane Society Medal—He Saved Two Sons of Ald. Adams from Drowning and is to be Rewarded—Highest Recognition of Humane Society to be His—Presentation to Take Place at St. Luke's Church.

A Royal Humane Society medal for conspicuous bravery is, it is learned, to be presented to Heber Rogers, for his heroic action in preventing from what would undoubtedly have resulted in a double drowning.

Mr. C. A. P. Powers, Hamilotn, secretary of the Humane Society, has sent the bronze medal, the highest reward for bravery in the gift of the society, and it is understood that it will be presented to the brave lad on Sunday night at a public gathering in St. Luke's Church.

The circumstances in connection with the rescue of Wilfrid and Harold Adams, sons of Ald. Adams, by Heber Rogers are still sufficiently fresh in the memories of the citizens of Peterborough for them to be recalled readily. The Examiner, reporting it the following day, said:—

"It appears that a number of the boys were in swimming, among them the nine-year-old twin sons of Ald. Adams, Harvey and Wilfrid. These boys could not swim, but were floating around the bay on a raft. An older boy, who happened to be on the bank, took to pelting stones and mud at the youngsters, and to get beyond the range of the missiles they went out into deep water with their raft. In dodging a stone, Wilfrid fell off the raft backwards, and although he could not swim, his brother Harvey jumped off in order to save him, if possible. Both boys were struggling in the water, neither able to swim, and both beyond their depth. They were in this predicament when Heber Rogers grasped the situation, and, without hesitating a moment, jumped into the water and swam to their assistance. Throwing an arm around each of the now exhausted and rapidly-drowning lads, he swam to shore with them. Two other boys, Percy Neil, a son of Mr. Harry Neil, and Theodore Quinn, son of Mr. Wm. Quinn, were on the shore partly dressed, and they, too, threw off what clothes they had on and went out to help young Rogers to bring the boys to shore.

"It is a fact not without its significance that the boy who was responsible for the peril in which the boys were, did not lend his assistance towards rescuing them, but maintained an attitude of indifference, in keeping with his cowardly action in bullying the smaller boys in the first place."

The affair created considerable interest in the city, and it was felt that some substantial recognition of Heber Rogers' bravery should be made. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, to whose parish both the rescued and rescuer belonged, took the matter up with the Humane Society, sending the secretary full particulars of the rescue, and the result was that the society, after investigation, decided to award the bronze medal, the highest gift of the society.

Heber Rogers has distinguished himself on more than one occasion by his acts of bravery in the water, and he has been instrumental in saving more than one life. He is a son of Mr. R. B. Rogers, of this city, and is a pupil in the Public School here.

He is a very modest boy, and prefers not to talk about himself or his work.

Many Peterboro' Oddfellows There

Big Delegation Went to Toronto This Morning

About two hundred Peterborough Oddfellows are in Toronto to-day attending the Sovereign Grand Lodge proceedings and taking part in the grand parade which was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. A special C.P.R. train had been chartered for the accommodation of the Oddfellows and left Peterborough at 7.45 this morning. About 150 Oddfellows boarded the train here and a number went up yesterday, so that Peterborough is well represented to-day. The special train was made up at Havelock and the only stop between here and Toronto was at Pontypool.

Mission Band To Hold A Social

St. Andrew's Band Prepare Pleasant Evening's Programme

The Young Ladies Mission Band of St. Andrew's decided at a meeting held last night at the Manse, to hold a social on Hallowe'en at the church parlours. Other plans for the winter's work were discussed at the meeting, which was well attended.

"THE GINGERBREAD MAN" POPULAR

The advance agent for "The Gingerbread Man," which plays here on Thursday, September 26th, was in the city to-day, and informed the Examiner that last week the company showed to 31,400 people at the Ottawa Fair — an average of over 5,000 people each night for the six nights of the Fair.

During the visit of Mr. Marconi in Sydney, N. S., the distinguished inventor stated that he was now engaged in considering the extension of wireless telegraphy overland from Glace Bay station to Vancouver, thence across the ocean to Yokohama, thence to Australia, making connection with the chief Asiatic centres.

WOMAN ASSAULTED

—WORKING IN A FIELD—

IN A LONELY SPOT

Man Emerged From Dark Woods Behind and Attempted to Bind Her Hands.

Has Been Arrested and will Appear Before the Magistrate on Friday Afternoon.

Residents of Galway township, in the vicinity of Kinmount, have been startled by a charge of a most serious nature, preferred by a lady of that township against Oliver Barr, who is well known throughout the neighbourhood. He is charged by Mrs. Florence Peters, a farmer's wife, with having attempted to commit a most disgraceful assault upon her while working in a field, in a lonely spot, on her husband's property.

Mrs. Peters states that on Friday last she was engaged in digging potatoes on a section of the farm remote from the buildings, or from any other in the neighbourhood. Without a moment's warning she was attacked by a man who emerged unnoticed from a large forest to the rear.

Disgraceful Assault.

He grabbed her, she says, knocking the hoe from her hands, and threw her violently upon the ground and attempted to tie her hands together. Mrs. Peters, however, was more powerful than he had anticipated, and before he could get her wrists together she succeeded in thrusting off her assailant. She seized the hoe with which she had been digging and quickly became the aggressor.

Wanted Nothing Said.

Barr was then forced to abandon his supposed villainous purposes, and it is alleged begged her to say nothing of the affair, making some concessions. Mrs. Peters knew her assailant instantly, as in former years they had attended the same school together.

Refused Request.

She stoutly refused to consider his requests, and at the first opportunity visited the home of the reeve of Galway, only to find him from home. She was then advised to come to Peterborough, and on Monday morning stated her grievance to Magistrate Edmison.

Barr Arrested.

In the absence of County Constable Cochrane Mr. Archie Moore was sent to the northern township on Monday afternoon, where Barr was arrested on a charge of criminal assault and brought to the city yesterday evening. He appeared before the Magistrate but was remanded until Friday afternoon at two o'clock so that witnesses may be in attendance.

Crown Attorney Wood will prosecute and the interests of the accused will be looked after by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

The prisoner has not yet elected how he will be tried, and it is probable that he will choose to wait until the assizes.

A Young Man.

Barr is quite a young man, being not more than 24 years of age, and lives with his widowed mother. The place where the alleged assault took place was about six miles from Kinmount.

FARMERS' GOLD MINE

Cheese is "the cheese" and the creamy wealth,
The farmers reap from the local board,
It stands for the health of the farmer's hoard
And the British workmen's food of health.

13 1-8c was the phenomenal price reached at this morning's meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board, which constitutes a record for this Board. Never in the history of the Peterborough Board has cheese advanced above 13c and although some looked to see it go to 13c to-day, no one expected to find the price above that figure. The significance of this price may be better understood by the public generally when it is realized that the sales at to-day's Board Meeting represent the paying out of $40,000 in round numbers for cheese. The first two selections of Cheese sold at 13 1-8c and after that the price paid was 13c. Some of the factories who were not called at 13 1-8c refused to accept the lower figure and remained unsold. This price is as high as has been paid anywhere in Canada and the salesmen of the Peterborough Board are congratulating themselves on the phenomenal price which their cheese brought this morning. The highest price paid previously this season was 12 7-8c, so that the increase to-day represents a jump of 1-4c per lb., since the last meeting.

To Mr. Cook went the distinction of making the highest bid in the history of the Board. He it was who raised the price to 13 1-8c after some spirited bidding. Mr. Gillespie as usual secured a large proportion of the offerings, getting many factories at 13c, only one factory sold below 13c, Mt. Pleasant selling to Mr. Cook at 12 15-16c.

Millbrook Lady Was Seriously Injured

Mrs. (Dr.) Snelgrove Thrown From Buggy and Had Shoulder Dislocated—Dog Which Frightened the Horse Cause of the Accident.

Examiner Special

Millbrook, Sept. 19.—Yesterday afternoon a runaway accident, which may have somewhat serious results, occurred here. Dr. Snelgrove, with his wife, was driving a spirited animal, which became frightened at a dog, bolting, and throwing the occupants of the buggy out. Mrs. Snelgrove received some rather serious and decidedly painful injuries, including a dislocated shoulder. She was also badly bruised and shaken up by the fall. Dr. Snelgrove was also injured, though not seriously. Dr. Carmichael, of Peterborough, was called to the village to attend the injured persons.

The horse was not hurt, and the buggy was only slightly damaged in the accident, which occurred on one of the village streets.

OF COURSE HE GOT IT.

It met thousands of eyes, and it was no surprise,—
Poor doggy next day got his bone.

Board Of Trade Wants Present Level in Trent Canal Maintained

Petition to be Sent to the Minister of Railways and Canals Asking That An 8 Foot Waterway be Maintained--Sets Forth Reasons Why This Should be Done.

"Your petitioners humbly pray that such steps may be taken by the Government of the Dominion of Canada as may be necessary to maintain such level of water in lakes, rivers, and reaches of the canal as will maintain a continuous eight-foot channel upon the whole line of the Trent waterway, during the entire season of navigation."

The above is the concluding paragraph of a petition which, after having been signed by the president and secretary of the Peterborough Board of Trade will be forwarded to Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals. In justification of the request for the maintenance of the eight-foot waterway, the petition, the opening paragraphs of which are given, states:

"That it is the settled policy of the Government of the Dominion of Canada to complete the construction of the Trent waterway between Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario so as to afford suitable transportation facilities as well, in the interests of the Dominion of Canada as a whole, as in the interests of a large section of the Province of Ontario tributary to such waterway.

"That the Transportation Commission appointed by the Dominion Government has expressed the opinion in its report that one of the Canadian routes which should be taken and considered as one of the main Canadian routes by which the products of the West will reach ocean navigation, is via Midland and the Trent waterway.

"That the present completed portion of the Trent waterway between Lake Simcoe and Healey's Falls has been of incalculable benefit to every municipality tributary to such waterway and to the residents thereof in affording cheap transportation, which will be many times increased when the whole system is completed.

"That it has been amply demonstrated for upwards of at least two years that there is, in fact, an abundant supply of water throughout the entire season of navigation to maintain, under intelligent management, a sufficiently high level of water in the lakes and rivers and in the reaches of the canal to provide for at least an eight-foot waterway when all necessary provisions are made, and there is ample opportunity to further increase and maintain continuously such level by conserving the waters in the upper lakes tributary to the Trent waterway.

"That from information derived from actual surveys, it has been ascertained that there is at least 626 square miles of surface area on the lakes in the Trent waterway basin, which comprises upwards of 3,000 square miles.

"That this Board is of the opinion that at a small cost inexpensive dams might be built at the mouths of the several lakes tributary to such waterway for the purpose of conserving the water in order to provide an abundant supply of water to cope with any possible dry season.

"That, in the opinion of this Board it is important that the reasonably high level of water which has been maintained in the several lakes, rivers and reaches of the canal during this past two years, should be maintained in the future, and increased if possible, inasmuch as it increases the safety, efficiency and economy of vessels operating on the canal.

That this Board is of the opinion that it would be cheaper to acquire the right to flood certain lands on the margin of the lakes and elsewhere than to expend the necessary amount of money to obtain a uniform channel of eight feet in depth by incurring more extraordinary cost in dredging at certain points on the line of said waterway."

ANXIOUS MOMENTS

—FOR FRIENDS OF THE MISSING—

FOLLOWED THE FIRE

Miss Pierce, Superintendent of the Barnardo Home, Talks of the Search for Miss Loveday's Body.

Much Uncertainty as to Who Were the Inmates of the Gilmour Hotel on the Night of the Fire.

It seems certain that the remains found in the Gilmour Hotel ruins in Ottawa, yesterday, were those of Miss Loveday. Miss Pierce, the Superintendent of the Barnardo Home who went down to Ottawa on Sunday night, to ascertain the fate of Miss Loveday, returned to Peterborough on the 5.15 train yesterday afternoon.

When seen by the Examiner last night, Miss Pierce stated that she had left Ottawa before the finding of the body, but had read the despatch relating to the discovery, as published exclusively in the Examiner last night, and said that she had no doubt but that the remains were those of the unfortunate secretary of the Home.

Miss Pierce said that it was a very anxious time for many people, as there was so much uncertainty as to who were the victims of the fire. The register had not been saved, and it was thus very difficult to ascertain the names of the inmates of the hotel on the fatal night. The memory of the hotel clerks was the only guide to the identity of the inmates. As might be be expected, therefore, there were many stories which it was impossible to verify.

For instance, it was reported that four young men, who did not register, secured a room in the Gilmour just before the fire broke out. They were, it is said, very much under the influence of liquor. Since the fire nothing has been seen of the members of the party, who are blamed by some as having been the cause of the fire.

Miss Pierce stated that the body of Miss O'Neil, who occupied a room on the third story, next to the one assigned to Miss Loveday, was found yesterday morning in the basement, having fallen three stories. The charred trunk was found on an iron bed, and it is certain that Miss O'Neil was overcome with the smoke rushing in from the elevator shaft, and was unconscious and probably dead, before the flames reached her. It is thought that this was the case with all the occupants around the air shaft. Their death was painless and quick; they were simply smothered by smoke and had not to endure the horrible fate of being burned alive. This is the theory advanced, and is being accepted by the friends of the missing people, to whom the thought that the death of their dear ones was painless, is affording consolation.

Miss Pierce tried to trace Miss Loveday's movements on Friday night, and found that, as has already has been stated, that she visited several friends. The superintendent could not find evidence of her returning to the Gilmour, but it seems almost certain that she did so. None of the clerks remember having given Miss Loveday the key to her room, but Miss Pierce's theory is that it was given to the bell boy, to open her room, to put away her baggage, and that he left the key in the door. The bell boy has not been seen since the fire, which of course prevented Miss Pierce obtaining the confirmation of her theory.

Miss Pierce spoke in high terms of praise of the treatment received at the hands of the police and other authorities of Ottawa. They were eager to do all in their power to help people locate, if possible, their missing friends. The work of searching in the ruins for bodies commenced early on Monday night, and has been kept steadily going ever since.

Many people are of course in the city looking for missing friends, and the police have many inquiries to answer.

Miss Pierce returned to Ottawa on the midnight train last night to attend the coroner's inquest, which will be held as the bodies are recovered. As soon as this is over the body of Miss Loveday will be brought back to Peterborough for interment here.

Fast Stunt On Business Streets

Mr. Walter Stocker's Horse Displays a Burst of O.J.C. Speed

About noon to-day, Mr. Walter Stocker's horse, while standing in front of the Peterborough Bookstore, became frightened at a boy's cart, which ran off the sidewalk, and got under its feet. It bolted down George street, turned at Hunter street, and kept up a 2.40 clip as it zig-zagged among the many passing vehicles.

Pedestrians on Hunter street saw the last of it as it turned Aylmer street in a cloud of dust.

There was no damage done beyond the demolition of the little boy's cart.

HELPS BRITISH IMPORTS.

We get endorsation of the Laurier British preference from an unexpected source—the president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which, as a body, has cherished the firm belief that the Preferential Policy was of no benefit to the British manufacturer, and had no influence in promoting Imerial unity. But speaking at Winnipeg at opening of the session the president said: "A gratifying feature of our trade is that the imports of British goods have increased more proportionately than imports from the United States. The increase is 13 per cent., the total imports $69,208,000. THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT A LARGE PROPORTION OF THIS INCREASE IS AS A DIRECT RESULT OF THE PREFERENTIAL TARIFF." In addition to this the erstwhile stand-off attitude of the home Kingdoms towards Canada has been relaxed under the influence of the British preference. Canada has sprung into favour with the Mother Country, with, not only sentimental good results, but in a way to conduce to our material development and advancement. While sentiment, in itself, has its peculiar value, and in itself is not a fruitful thing, yet the trade development it induces is of the greatest importance.

WOMEN AND THE CHURCH.

The attitude of the General Conference of the Methodist church towards women, does not argue the highest recognition of the business capacity of the gentler sex, nor of their intellectuality. But it seems to practically ignore the important part the women play in the activities of the church. In excluding women from the higher courts of the church, the Conference has done what it considers wise, but to be entirely logical, the Conference should also look coldly upon women in relation to the minor matters of church advancement. We know that in all churches women are the element which contributes very positively to the movement of the machinery of the church. Their several societies are regarded as generally auxiliary, but their influence on promoting church interests is in effect almost worthy of being regarded as fundamental. Women are fond of pointing to the fact that a woman was last at the Cross, and first at the Sepulchre. This spirit is not wanting at the present day in relation to church affairs. The large majority of our congregations, especially at mid-week services, is composed of women. The work they do is a great work in practical affairs. The Women's Aid Societies, the Missionary Auxiliaries, as types of many other female organizations, would be very sadly missed if the activities they represent were withdrawn; and it is only by such withdrawal that men can be made to feel a proper appreciation of the aid and influence of women in helping on the work of the church. One would think that the women who are worthy to do such work, and who do it so well, would thereby be made worthy of a voice in the determination of the affairs which affect their relations to church activities. Taxation, without representation, is odious to the British mind. The same thing occurs in the church—practically—for the work that women do, the sacrifices they make, can very well be regarded as a form of taxation, a tax upon their energies, their enthusiasm and their loyalty to the church and the Master of the church. Then to deny them representation, does not seem to be logical, not to say fair. Ministers some grudgingly, and patronizingly, commend the work of women; some enthusiastically and generously; but when it comes to practically recognizing women in relation to church activities, the old superior spirit of mankind over mere woman, comes into play. Christianity, and the civilization based upon it, meant the emancipation of women, and the higher the rise in spirituality and civilization, the higher the part assigned to women in the human economy. But this emancipation falls short of placing them on an equality with mankind, and they have to content themselves, if they do content themselves, with occupying the position of hewers of wood and drawers of water, under the watchful eyes and patronizing demeanour of the lords of creation. The arguments against women's admission to the councils of the church, they do so much to sustain, do not need to be considered. The fact exists that women must work and, like good children, ask no questions.

Will Change The Course Of Creek

If Property Owners Will Consent to Right of Way

Last night at the meeting of the Board of Works, Mr. Thomas Begley, who was present in the interests of a sidewalk on Victoria avenue, also referred to the course of the creek which runs from Smith township, and joins Whyte's creek near Wm. Hamilton's foundry. The creek now crosses Victoria avenue and Smith street, where its course turns and runs down Downie street. This causes considerable flooding in the spring and it was pointed out that if the original course were adhered to on this side of Smith street, this defect could be overcome.

It was moved by Ald. McIntyre and Johnston that the Board recommend if the property owners will give the right of way that the course of the creek running from Smith street south on the line between Downie and Donegal streets, be changed to its original course. — Carried.

Record Breaking Price For Cheese At Local Board

13 7-8c. Was the Phenomenal Figure Paid for Cheese at the Peterborough Cheese Board To-day by Messrs. Cook and Gillespie—Mr. Cook Made Highest Bid Ever Offered in This Section.

The price of cheese went soaring away up to 13 1-8 c at this morning's meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board, which breaks all previous high price records for this section. This price was beyond the expectation of everyone, although a jump was looked for. Mr. Cook was the gentleman who made the highest bid in the history of the Peterborough Board.

The bidding opened at 12 1-2 and the price was quickly run up by 1-8s to 13c. When that bid was made by Mr. Cook there was a gasp from the salesmen, but the price did not stop its upward flight. Mr. Gillespie raised it another notch with a bid of 13 1-16, and then Mr. Cook capped the climax with his record-breaking bid of 13 1-8. Two selections were called at this price and the salesmen who were not offered that figure were loath to accept 13c, although before the Board met they had not expected even that price.

Before the bidding commenced Mr. Riddell the secretary addressed the Board on the subject of cool curing rooms for the factories, strongly advocating the installing of them before next season. The deputation who had gone to Brockville from the Peterborough Board were unanimous in the opinion that it was to the interest of every factory to have such a room. Mr. Ruddick, the Dominion Dairy Commissioner, had suggested that if cheesemen proposed to install a cool curing room, would send a rough plan of their factory to him, he would advise as to the least expensive way of going about the work.

President Young asked the buyers if they thought that the installing of cool curing rooms in the factories would be a benefit to the Board.

Mr. Whitton said the Board had experienced a good deal of loss in hot weather by not having cool curing rooms.

Mr. Kerr remarked that next year the Belleville section would have 30 factories with cool curing rooms and Prince Edward Island with 23 factories would have at least 17 or 18 factories with such rooms. He would like to see Peterborough keep up with other districts in this respect.

President Young advocated the painting of the name of the factory on the outside of the building to be a guide to strangers. And farmers too, he thought, the scheme of placing the name of the farmer near his gate would be of great benefit.

The buyers present were Messrs. Kerr, Cook, Whitton, Wrighton, Brenton, Brentnell, Gillespie and Morton.

The factories boarded as follows:—

Keene	130
Warminster	105
Shearer	90
Central Smith	135
Selwyn	152
Villiers	75
Warsaw	90
Westwood	185
Oakdale	105
Lakefield	100
Pine Grove	135

Maple Leaf	100
Myrtle	175

Crown	135
Mount Pleasant	89
Fleetwood	160
Buckhorn	140
Brickley	70
Shamrock	70
	3,604

Mr. Morton opened the bidding at 12 1-2, Mr. Whitton raised to 12 5-8, Mr. Kerr to 12 3-4, Mr. Whitton to 12 13-16, Mr. Wrighton to 12 7-8, until to-day the highest figure of the year. Mr. Cook passed the line with 13c, Mr. Gillespie advanced to 13 1-16, and Mr. Cook to 13 1-8, getting the call. His selections were Indian River, East Emily, Trewern, Crown, Buckhorn, Central Smith, Westwood and Villiers.

At 13c. Mr. Gillespie called Keene, Bensfort, Cavanville, Fleetwood, Warsaw, Selwyn, Lakefield, Maple Leaf, Young's Point, Lang, all accepting save Selwyn, although Fleetwood and Keene had to be called twice.

Myrtle, South Burleigh, Cedardale and Peterborough, accepted Mr. Brenton's offer of 13c and Oakdale, North Dummer, Ormonde and Brickley refused.

Mr. Cook took Mount Pleasant at 12 15-16, all the other remaining factories refusing that figure, and also 13c. from Mr. Kerr.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

Men's Guild To Give Concert

At Which Two Plays Will Be Presented.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Men's Guild of St. Luke's was held last night, when the question of an entertainment was under discussion. It was decided to give an entertainment on a date early in November, to be definitely decided on later, in the town hall. Two plays will be given, "Paddy's Mistake" and "A Negro Parliament." This promises to be a most interesting evening, and will no doubt be appreciated by those who attend.

Shovel Company's New Warehouse

Large Addition to Shovel Co's. Plant Nearing Completion.

The Peterborough Shovel Company have found it necessary to add to their already extensive works to meet the demand of their steadily increasing business. A large building 40 x 115 feet, extending along Rink street is now almost completed. The foundation which is of cement was constructed by Mr. M. A. MacNamara, while the Hoolihan brothers are in charge of the rest of the building. The brick work is nearly finished and the carpenter work is well under way.

The new building will be utilized as a warehouse for all finished material, while the former warehouse will be stored with the raw material.

The building has good shipping facilities being in close touch with the G.T.R. and a C.P.R. siding on the company's grounds.

No Difference.

No distinction is made as to the kind of piles that Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cures.

The names, Internal, External, Bleeding, Blind, Itching, Suppurating, etc., are simply the names of the different stages through which every case will pass if it continues long enough.

Piles are caused by congestion or stagnation of blood in the lower bowel, and it takes an internal remedy to remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally.

It is a permanent cure, and no case of piles has ever been found it failed to cure. Money back if it does.

ANOTHER GOOD THING ABOUT "SURPRISE" Soap is that it doesn't hurt the hands. It is a pure, hard soap and is more effective than ordinary laundry soap, but it is n't harsh or biting.

You can use "SURPRISE" Soap any way you please, but try it with only a tea-kettle full of water—the way it says on the wrapper.

Then you'll know why it is called "SURPRISE" Soap. See the red and yellow wrappers.

To Raise Wharves On Stony Lake

Action Called for by the Higher Water Level Than Formerly.

In consideration of the fact that the water on the upper lakes has recently been raised and kept at a higher level than formerly, the Dominion Government have decided to raise the various Government and private stationery wharves on Stony Lake, which have been affected.

A number of the officials visited the lake on Monday with a view to looking over the situation, and concluded that it would be necessary to raise the wharves in the neighbourhood of two and a half feet. The tops will be taken off and filled in with stones to the required depth.

The work, it is understood, will begin next week under the supervision of Mr. Joseph Yolland.

MRS. O. D. ROBINSON.
Every Woman in America Is Interested in This Woman's Experience.

HER HEALTH DESTROYED BY PELVIC CATARRH.

"Pe-ru-na has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me."—Mrs. O. D. Robinson.

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 48 St. Felix St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians.

"I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me.

"O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, Doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you so kindly prescribed.

"I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less do any work. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

BRILLIANT OPENING.

East Elgin Campaign Begun By Hon. Messrs. Aylesworth and Hyman —The Candidate Speaks.

Aylmer, Sept. 19.—Hon. Messrs Aylesworth and Hyman were the chief speakers at a splendidly attended meeting held in the Town Hall here last night in the interests of Mr. W. F. Hepburn of Yarmouth's township, a young farmer, who for the second time has been selected as Liberal candidate for the riding of East Elgin. In addition to the gentlemen named the candidate made an excellent speech. A large number of ladies were present. The Minister of Justice and the Minister of Public Works delivered excellent addresses, appealing with common sense arguments to a most representative gathering.

The former's appreciation of and tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier was particularly effective, evoking round after round if hearty applause. The meeting was an excellent indication of the popularity of Mr. Hepburn's candidature. In the last general election here he came within 21 votes of defeating such an experienced campaigner as A. B. Ingram, whose appointment to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board has created the vacancy in the House of Commons, and made a bye-election necessary.

There is little doubt that Mr. Hepburn will defeat his opponent, Mr. Marshall, president of the Aylmer Canning Co. and a leading member of the Canadian Canning Association with is not a popular organization with the farmers.

Leaves $10,000 to Students.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—A bequest of $10,000 to the University of Toronto, the interest therefrom to be utilized from time to time in assisting progressive Canadians in scientific research, is contained in the will of Aeneas McCharles of Sudbury, who died in Montreal last August. Mr. McCharles was one of the first to become interested in the Sudbury nickel mines.

Apple Evaporator Burned.

Watford, Sept. 19—The apple evaporator building owned by R. J. Graham of Brockville was burned yesterday. The fire caught from the dry kiln. Over 25 hands are thrown out of employment.

CANADA FOR THE KING.

Orders Special Series of Moving Pictures of Typical Scenes.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—If the King cannot come to Canada, he would like Canada to go to him.

In confirmation of the truth of this statement, the King has requested Leo Lefebvre, a noted Parisian moving-picture man, to secure him a series of moving pictures of Canada, which are to be presented at Buckingham Palace just before Christmas.

Lefebvre leaves by the Imperial Limited to-day for the west to carry out his intentions.

Blames Wabash Employes.

St. Thomas, Sept. 19.—The coroner's jury enquiring into the causes leading to the death of John McKay, C. P. R. engineer, killed in a collision with a Wabash train, find that the Wabash employes did not observe the rules of the company in not bringing their train to a stop at the distant semaphore, and that the Wabash Railway officials have been neglecting to enforce the said rules at the diamond crossing.

The Convention Of Canadian Manufacturers

Gives a Day to the Reception of Reports at Winnipeg.

DISCUSS FREIGHT RATES

Delegate From St. John Alleges That Progress of Country Is Retarded by Their High Character — Would Have Matter Rectified If Possible—New Zealand Trade—Methods of Reaching Colony.

Winnipeg, Sept. 19.—The manufacturers' convention devoted yesterday to reports of committees. Only two reports were received in the afternoon, that of railways and transportation and intelligence committees.

A. Saunders of Goderich moved the adoption of the intelligence committee report, which was unanimously carried. He referred to the fact that the Canadian manufacturers had not availed themselves of the opportunity offered them for export trade, and advised them to devote more attention to this branch in the future.

Hugh Blain presented the railway and transportation committee report.

Freight Rates Excessive.

A lengthy discussion took place in connection with the resolution regarding a New Zealand steamship service. J. O. Thorne and W. H. Henderson opposed the resolution advocating the shipping of goods across the continent. They claimed that freight was shipped cheaper from the head of the great lakes eastbound via the New York route than by rail west, They said the New York route was at present imperative, and advocated, instead of shipping by rail to Vancouver and hence to New Zealand, the establishment of a steamship line from an eastern point.

J. Prender of St. John addressed the meeting regarding freight rates. He said rates were generally excessive in the Dominion. He emphasized the retarding influence these rates would have in the growth of the country unless steps were taken immediately to keep them within reasonable bounds.

Technical Education.

The proceedings in the morning were of general interest, chiefly, perhaps, on account of outspoken opinion of some of the delegates on the neglect of technical education in the public schools, and also in more advanced educational institutions. Much regret was expressed that foreign correspondence schools should draw from young Canadians fees which run into the hundreds of thousands annually for technical instruction, which is often of doubtful value. The speakers were of the opinion that what was taught in the United States was capable of being taught in Canada. Under present conditions the country not only lost a large sum in fees, but, because of an inefficient system of education, its industrial growth was seriously retarded.

The secretary and treasurer's report were received, also the committee on insurance report, on technical education, on Industrial Canada, reception, and membership. The remainder of reports will come up to-day.

Last night a big society reception was given the visitors at government house.

THE THREE LINK MEN.

Judge Nolan of Nashville Elected Deputy Grand Sire—Night Thieves.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—The Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., met in the Parliament Building with Grand Sire Wright in the chair, and proceeded immediately with the election of officers for the term of two years. Deputy Grand Sire Conway was unanimously elected grand sire. For deputy grand sire was chosen Judge John L. Nolan of Nashville, Tenn.; the present grand secretary. John B. Goodwin, P. G. S. of Georgie was relected Grand Treasurer Richard Muckle, who has served in the same position for many years, was tendered a unanimous re-election by a rising vote.

Thieves Busy.

In the silent watches of Monday night, while cantons from Indiana and Erie, Pa., slumbered in the woman's building, some person or persons unknown made stealthy entry and stole the watches and money of sleeping Oddfellows. Those who suffered by the depredations included Major Lumbine of Erie, Pa., who lost a $125 gold watch, and $45 cash; Chevalier Allen of Erie, Pa., $15, and Chevalier Holden, also of Erie, who lost $17 and a return railway ticket. Other smaller amounts were abstracted, and a number of valuable jewels belonging to the Indian Chiefs, were taken.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 19.—The weight of Monday and Tuesday's distribution was felt to-day and the market was reactionary in groups. The small specialty moves were overwhelmed by attacked leaders which gave way under overbought conditions and the natural result, a recession took place. Republic Steel crossed 40 early and Distillers made a new high, but the heavy selling in Reading turned prices downward and the whole list weakened.

The standard issues seem to be in fairly good shape, but the market must have a rest in view of the money situation chiefly, and that it will get such a rest the indications are plain. Recovery should be started by the specialty operation which has proved so effective thus far. The close was dull and heavy.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH COMING EVENTS

Mr. R. J. Dovey has arranged for a grand concert on Friday, October 5, 1906, by no less than ten members of the famous Westminster Abbey choir, in the Opera House, Peterborough. Mr. Branscombe brings the company, which includes the famous "Dalzell" tenor, and a new bass, Mr. Sterndale Bennett, grandson of the famous writer of that name. A quartette of boys, also a lady contralto, make up a company of eleven, and the specimen programme promises a rich musical treat.

The Russel-Dennistoun Nuptials This Morning

A bright sun from a cloudless sky, greeted a happy bride this morning, when at ten o'clock, at "Castleknock," the beautiful residence of Mrs. James F. Dennistoun, Miss Georgina Nona, the youngest daughter of the late James F. Dennistoun, Q. C., was united in marriage to Mr. Archibald Montgomery Russel, son of Mr. Hugh Russel, of Montreal.

The happy event was witnessed by a few guests, only the immediate friends of the participants, and the wedding was a quiet, but exceedingly pretty function.

The bride is a native of the city, where she has a very wide circle of friends, who will join in heartiest good wishes for her future happiness.

The ceremony took place in the spacious hall, which was artistically banked with ferns and palms, relieved by asters and other pretty floral decorations. Rev. E. F. Torrance, D. D., pastor of St. Paul's church, and brother-in-law of the bride, was the officiating clergyman. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. A. M. Dennistoun, and as she descended the wide stairway Miss Helen Davies sang "Oh Fair, O Sweet, O Holy," and, after the ceremony, 'O Perfect Love."

The bride was attired in a rich gown of white taffeta mousseline, the bodice being of tucked silk, with berthe of Irish lace, and high silk girdle. The skirt had a wide lace panel, trimmed with pleatings of silk. The costume was completed by a veil of rare old lace and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bride and bridegroom were unattended.

Previous to the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Russel, on the 11.45 G.T.R. train for Toronto, and other western cities, light refreshments were served, and cordial congratulations extended to the principals in the pleasing function.

The bride's going-away costume was a brown tailor-made suit of serge, with lemon-coloured silk blouse, trimmed with lace. She wore a large brown hat, adorned with feathers, shading from brown to lemon colour.

The wedding gifts, both in number and quality, were worthy of the occasion. The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a ruby and diamond ring.

Some of the Guests.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Russel, parents of the bridegroom; Dr. Colin Russel, Mr. Blair Russel, brothers; Mr. Herbert Molson, Mr. J. F. Savage, and Mr. W. Brainerd, of Montreal; Mr. G. B. Kirkpatrick, Miss Kirkpatrick, Mr. J. A. Macdonald, Mr. E. R. Peacock, Mr. William Macdonal, Mr. H. H. Grubbe, and Miss Ethel Baldwin, all of Toronto; Miss Dennistoun, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Devlin, Perth; Miss Hale, of England; Miss Roper, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. C. S. Haultain, Port Hope; Mrs. J. R. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bain, Winnipeg..

The Costumes.

The costumes worn by the ladies were strikingly beautiful and artistic.

Mrs. Russel, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of heliotrope silk voille, with trimmings of white lace and touches of pale blue silk, with hat to match.

Mrs. Dennistoun, mother of the bride, black silk, with bodice of black silk over white, trimmed with heliotrope and silver.

Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, sister-in-law of the bride, white Irish lace, over cream taffeta and chiffon, with girdle of sea-green velvet; black velvet hat, with pink roses, and black plumes.

Mrs. Alexander Bain, Winnipeg, sister of the bride, white Brussels net, over cream taffeta and chiffon, with girdle and hat of pink velvet.

Mrs. Haultain, Port Hope, sister of the bride, black silk.

Mrs. Torrance, sister of the bride, black silk, with turquoise blue velvet trimmings, and a blue toque.

Mrs. Jones, Winnipeg, sister of the bride, pale blue chiffon taffeta, with white lace blouse and bolero, with touches of black and gold; blue turban to match.

Miss Jessie Dennistoun, mauve silk, with bodice of white lace, and mauve strappings; violet toque.

Miss Kirkpatrick, Toronto, black Chantilly lace, over satin; white lilac hat.

Miss Dennistoun, Perth, mauve silk crepe, trimmed with white lace; toque of roses and violets.

Mrs. Devlin, black taffeta, with satin spots; black and white passementrie and white lace; black velvet hat, with lemon shaded plumes.

Mrs. Noble, grey silk, with pink trimmings and bonnet to match.

Miss Roper, white taffeta, trimmed with lace; lilac hat.

Miss Halliday, cream chiffon taffeta, trimmed with lace insertion; violet hat.

Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, white silk chiffon, veiled with lace and net; white hat trimmed with pink roses and touches of gold.

Mrs. Fortye, black silk, trimmed with lace and touches of pale blue; white felt hat, with black wings.

The out-of-town guests were entertained at luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, the tables being artistically done in scarlet, geraniums and salvia constituting the floral decorations. This evening Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun will entertain the wedding guests at dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel will in a few days return to the city, and after a short visit here will leave for Montreal. Their future home will be 29 St. Matthew's street, in that city.

Confirms Report Of Discovery Of The Body

Ottawa Papers State that Miss Loveday's Body Was Recovered Yesterday—The Identification is Positive—Weird Scene at Night as Search for Bodies Was Made

The Ottawa papers to hand this morning confirm the finding and identification of the body of the late Miss Loveday, announced by special despatch in The Examiner last night. The Free Press, referring to it, says:

At 1.40 this morning, another body, supposed to be that of Miss Loveday, of the Barnardo Home, Peterborough, was found by the scorchers while removing the debris at the corner of Gilmour street and the lane running at the rear of the hotel. The supposition that the victim is Miss Loveday is based upon the fact that her room was located on the top flat directly over where the body was recovered. Only the trunk of the body and one clenched hand was found. Both thigh bones, the head, the lower parts of the legs, and one arm are missing.

The body was removed to Rogers' morgue on Bank street.

Speaking of the all-night search for the bodies in the ruins, the same paper says:

Last night was a scene which witnessed would never be forgotten. Immediately after supper hour work on the debris inside was actively commenced. Under Contractor Leamy 30 men were shovelling and breaking up the piles of bricks and iron inside, while with them were many volunteers. Two arc lights were hung from an iron girder that remained in the southwest corner on Gilmour street. Right up above this portion had been the rooms of three of those missing. Later in the evening an electrician hung a little electric light, while each of those in charge of a few men below had lanterns.

The scene might fittingly be described as weird. A circle of white faces stared blankly in the glare of the arc light until long after midnight. On the road at the corner, where the men were working, and all along the fence at the rear of the hotel lawn, from backyards and shed roofs of the buildings on MacLaren street, from the windows of the houses on Gilmour street were faces. There was no noise, a gentle murmur of talk, but never a laugh or loud voice raised. Two policemen alone were necessary, everyone just watched.

Difficult Work.

The work of removing the debris was extremely difficult at first from the mass of tangled pipes, coils, girders and iron work which littered the top. Once removed, the men could do faster work upon the bricks and dirt remaining. The mistake of waiting so long was again emphasized in the fact that this had all settled hard and solid in the ruins of the basement to a depth of from five to eight feet.

The men worked with feverish energy. Hardly a word was spoken except for an occasional direction from Nick O'Neill, who, with sleepless eyes and constantly on the move, was all over at once directing the workers. Detectives O'Meara and Dicks stood upon a wall and watched for jewellery and valuables. Dr. Beaman was on hand all night to pronounce upon anything that might be found. Later, Dr. Gardner joined him. Soon everyone was on the qui vive when sheets, bed springs and clothing began to appear. The thud, thud of the shovels became slower, every spadeful was carefully overhauled for bones or signs of a body. Once a barrel of meat made everyone shudder. Then a woman's switch was found in a shovel.

Kitchen Cat Unscorched.

Suddenly, at about 11 o'clock, one of the men felt his spade strike something soft, and, trembling with eagerness, pulled out a funny object. It was the kitchen cat, with not a hair scorched. From this there is now some hope of finding the bodies unburned and recognizable. Detective Dicks, too, picked up a $5 bill as good as new.

Pedagogues Are Scarce

Marmora Herald Tells of Trouble To Get Teachers.

Marmora Herald: Teachers are so scarce that many schools are vacant. Take Rawdon for example. There is neither a teacher at Belleview nor at Sprys. How many other schools there are I do not know. Spring Brook did not secure teachers until this week. The old Ross Government handled the educational system so that schools had teachers. The Whitney Government needs to get a hustle on in the Education Department. Strange isn't it, that trustees can no longer boast about having one hundred and fifty applications!

The business of the "Salada" Tea Company goes on increasing in the most wonderful way. A year never passes but at least 100,000 people are added to the consumers of that delicious Tea. During the first six months of this year they had the largest increase they ever had.

New Teacher For The Collegiate

Miss Bauer Has Been Secured by the Board of Education.

Miss Bauer, formerly of the staff of the Goderich Collegiate Institute, has been chosen by the Board of Education for the new class that has been formed at the Collegiate.

Owing to the increased attendance it was found necessary to form a new class, which will be held in the physical laboratory, until the new Collegiate is built.

Miss Bauer, whose home is in Hamilton, is highly recommended by the Board of Education. She will teach junior English, junior history, junior mathematics, and several other subjects.

Guild Discussed Winter's Work

Large Number of Members of St. Andrew's Talked New Plans.

The first meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's Church was held last night, when a good number of the young men of the church gathered to discuss the plans for the coming year.

Mr. F. E. Kerr, the president, occupied the chair. A number of suggestions for the prosecution of the work of the guild were made, and committees were appointed to consider them and report at the next meeting of the guild, which will be held on Tuesday, October 2, when the officers for the year will probably be elected.

"Overseas" Mail Tearing Through The Rockies

Already Half an Hour of the Six Hours Handicap Has Been Made Up—Passengers are Greatly Pleased With the Innovation—Route a Revelation.

Examiner Special.

Glacier, B.C., Sept. 18.—During the dark hours of the night the "Overseas" fast train dashed along the furious reaches of the Fraser, crossed the Gold Range, and when it arrived at Revelstoke, in the valley of the Columbia, this morning half an hour of the six hours' handicap there was in leaving Vancouver had been lopped off.

Excellent speed is being maintained, and here in the heart of the Selkirks, the steep climb is being easily made. In this homeward flight of the "Overseas Mail," an additional sleeper is necessary to accommodate the increased number of passengers. A large proportion of them will go direct by the Empress of Britain from Quebec to Europe.

These travellers from the Far East express themselves as being more than delighted at the new service by which they are able to travel half way around the globe within thirty days.

One of these who came from Hong Kong remarked to your correspondent that the route was a revelation to him in every way, the passage over the Pacific was extremely enjoyable, and the land trip as far a constant surprise, while the resources of the Canadian Pacific seemed inexhaustible, and the service on land and sea so perfect that the long journey becomes merely a delightful pleasure outing.

Show Case Co's Factory Is Nearing Completion

Fine New Building Almost Finished—Equipped With Modern Wood Working Machinery.

The new factory for the Peterborough Show-case Company at the corner of Bethune and Dublin streets, is rapidly nearing completion. The brickwork will be finished to-night and the remainder of the work will be over and the factory running in two weeks more.

The building will give the Showcase Company a splendid factory which will be equipped with the latest improved wood-working machinery which will enable the company to turn out all kinds of store fixtures, mirrors, plate glass fronts, wall cases and silent salesmen show cases. The growth in the demand for these lines has been so great that Mr. H. Dunslow, the energetic manager has been forced to get a larger building. The working force will also be increased. Formerly only three or four men were employed, while in the new factory there will be fifteen. The building is of cement brick and is 100 x 24 feet; two storeys in height. It will be constructed with a fire wall and with a metallic roof so that it will be as nearly fire-proof as possible and fully answers the requirements of the underwriters in this regard. The plant will be operated by a gas engine which is furnishing power of a more satisfactory nature for this kind of work than does electricity.

The brick work was done by Geo. Curtis and the carpenter work by a squad of carpenters under Mr. Dunslow's supervision. The machinery which is now on the road was manufactured by the Clarke DeMille Co., of Preston, Ont.

When the machinery is installed Mr. Dunslow will have a most modern plant and will be able to turn his attention to large orders. The fame of the products of the company is spreading and many orders are received from outside places.

Five thousand feet of floor space have been leased to the German Card Board Company whose machinery has arrived and who are ready to begin operations as soon as the building is completed.

The Footnote Will Remain In Discipline

Methodists to Adhere to the Rule on Dancing and Card-Playing—Still Against Rules of the Church to Indulge.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—The Methodist Church rule against theatres, card-playing and dancing will in all likelihood remain unchanged for another quadrennium.

The issue has been discussed by the Discipline Committee of the General Conference for several days, and that committee has now reached a decision which will be reported to Conference and will probably be accepted by that body.

The proposal adopted by the committee is that the whole issue be submitted to a special commission, to be elected by the General Conference, and to report four years hence. The commission, as outlined, will consist of 21 members.

This recommendation will, in all probability, cause considerable discussion on the floor of Conference, but as it shifts the argument to a side issue it is hoped by the committee that a re-opening of the vexed question may be obviated, or at least minimized.

There were before the committee some eight memorials bearing on this issue, of which five were for "Revision of the General Rules," two for "retaining the foot-note" which contains the rule to which objection is taken, and one to retain the foot-note with an explanation.

Mr. Larmonth Visits Proposed Line Terminal

At Young's Point on Business in Connection With Radial Railway Extension to That Point—Belief There That Road is Sure to Come

Examiner Special.

Young's Point, Sept. 19.—Mr. J. H. Larmonth, general manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, was in the village recently in connection with the proposal of the company to extend that line to this this village and to Stony Lake. It is stated that the preliminary surveys have been completed and that the company is pleased with the route as shown feasible by those surveys, and the presence of Mr. Larmonth in the village, and the investigation he made while here, are taken as indications that the company has practically decided to proceed with the construction of the line in the very near future, a condition which Young's Point people devoutly hope prevails.

With the trolley line completed the popularity of Young's Point as a summer resort will, without a doubt, be largely increased, and it is believed that it would prove a profitable stroke of business for the railway company as well.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. O. Barber,

THE STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS

A Truly Magnificent Display

Characteristic of the Store That Never Disappoints

Superb Autumn Millinery

THE DISPLAY is lavish in every sense of the word, and unquestionably gives us the distinction of being Peterborough's "Court of Fashion."

To-morrow will see an exhibition of rare Millinery conceits such as never before seen in this vicinity. The "seal" of approval has been set upon each and every one of our Autumn Creations.

So far as expert knowledge, trained taste and ample resource can obtain such a result, we have here the masterpieces of the World's Millinery Masters. Here are a few contributors to our exhaustive display:—Pouyanne, Camille Roger, Rebour, Mangin Maurice, Esther Mayer, Cage Bros., etc., etc. Then the Millinery productions of our own designers and experts closely rival these famous imported models. Our increased facilities will insure quick and satisfactory service.

Exclusive Coats and Suits

GREATER THAN EVER is our showing of Coats and Suits. They represent the most desirable styles and effects of the leading German, American and home makers and designers. We import direct from such firms as Printzess Garment Co. of New York; Krueger & Co., Berlin, Germany; Mannheimer & Co., Berlin, Germany, and are also exclusive selling agents for the Northway Garments, the most popular of any Canadian-made garments. From our wide range of styles any taste can be sure of being pleased, and then there is always the Cressman guarantee: "Quality the highest; Price the lowest."

Smith Street Bridge Will Be Replanked

Board of Works Decide to Spend $175 on Repairs—No Action Taken in Albert Street Extension—Many Matters Pertaining to Sidewalks, Crossings and Sewers Were Dealt With by the Board.

The Smith street bridge will undergo further repairs. This was one of the questions dealt with by the Board of Works last night and it found that the planking as it is now is very unsatisfactory. A number of other questions arose most of which were in reference to sidewalks, sewers and crossings. In reference to the Albert street extension no action was taken.

Those present were Chairman Hicks, Ald. Graham, Adams, Wilson, Johnston, Elliott, Tovey and McIntyre, and the City Engineer.

A letter was received from Mr. George Pope and other property owners on Pearl avenue, asking that a cheap walk of some description be constructed on that street between Charlotte and King streets. This has been petitioned for and will be built in its turn. Ald. Tovey moved that a temporary walk be constructed this fall as he considered it absolutely necessary. The motion carried.

Ald. Wilson notified the Board that there is a crossing necessary on Charlotte street at the corner of Reid street and moved that this and the crossings across Water at Antrim street and on west side of Simcoe at Stewart which are also needed, be constructed. Ald Tovey seconded the motion which carried.

Mr. T. J. Begley was present in the interests of property owners on Victoria avenue. The residents there had petitioned the council last April for a sidewalk and he stated they would like to have a sidewalk constructed there, as at present there is no walk whatever. If at all possible he asked to have the crossing this fall. While constructing walks on Reid street he thought it a good opportunity to build a walk on Victoria avenue from Downie to Dickson street.

Ald. Hicks pointed out that at a previous meeting the Board had decided on a particular plan and a new motion would have to be made if a change was made.

The Engineer stated that a considerable amount of filling in would have to be done. This was referred to in his report which also said the road would have to be graded in that vicinity, taking considerable time.

Ald. Johnston considered this walk was needed just as well as the one on Pearl avenue, and he thought property owners there should be given some sort of a walk. Moved by Ald. Johnston and McIntyre that the Engineer look over the situation and report.—Carried.

A report from the city engineer was received stating that it the sidewalk from Argyle street north on George street, and the 250 feet fronting Richard Hall's property were built this fall the sidewalk on George street would be completed. Moved by Ald. Johnston and Wilson that Mr. Hall be approached regarding the construction of the walk along his property.—Carried.

Prince Street to be Graded.

Messrs. Harstone and Evans were present, asking the Board to have Prince street leading to Aylmer and Aylmer to Lansdowne graded. Mr. Harstone stated he had purchased property there as well as one and would like to have the street graded and water tabled. A blue print showing the plan of the streets was presented by Edmison and Dickson.

Ald. Adams thought the work could be done cheaply and that it ought to be done as soon as possible.

Moved by Ald. Adams and Elliott, that the streets be graded.—Carried.

Repairs for Smith Street Bridge.

A report was read from the engineer stating that the planking on the Smith street bridge was going very fast. He recommended that it be planked longitudinally in order to alleviate the vibration. There would be at least 8,000 feet of lumber needed, the report stated, and the cost would amount to about $175. He proposed that two-inch elm be used. Previously this year repairs were made on the Smith street bridge to the amount of $550.

"The sooner a bylaw is submitted to the ratepayers for a new bridge, the better," remarked Ald. Adams.

Moved by Ald. Adams and Johnston that the repairs be made.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Elliott and Adams, that a sidewalk be constructed in front of the T. Kinnear & Co's building, and also that a crossing at Dalhousie be built.—Carried.

A communication was read from J. J. Turner, asking that the three trees near the corner of Aylmer and McDonel streets be cut down as they were a detriment to buildings on his property. This on motion of Ald. McIntyre and Tovey, was referred to the engineer to report on. The trees will probably be trimmed.

Manhole Inspection.

A number of weeks ago the engineer was notified to see that the inspectors of sewers should be certain that the manholes were plastered and constructed properly. The engineer has visited three manholes on Mark street, and found that two out of the three, which were built by Contractor Sheehy were correctly done and that the one built by Inspector White on Water street was also properly built.

Sewer Connection.

Mr. Neill, of Downie street, a number of years ago connected his property with the sewer on Park street. Mr. A. Parker is now erecting a house over the sewer pipe and he asked that he may also be allowed to connect with Park street.

Ald. Wilson pointed out that if this was done it would be a violation of the plumbing bylaw so the committee decided to take no action.

The engineeer reported on the Albert street extension west and presented plans in connection with it. No action was taken in the matter.

Moved by Ald. Tovey and Johnston, that William street be graded.—Carried.

Ald. McIntyre called attention to the unsatisfactory connection of crossing and sidewalk on Aylmer street at the corner of London, terming it a "corduroy" crossing dangerous to tread on and especially during the night. It was a disgrace, he said, to have it left in that manner, and moved that it be remedied at once. Ald. Elliott seconded the motion which carried.—

The Board adjourned.

Will Not Build Bridge This Year

Contractors of Charlotte St. Bridge Cannot Get Material.

Contrary to expectations, the Charlotte street bridge will not be constructed this fall. But the bridge, however, will have to be repaired, as the planking is not extra good just now.

The chairman of the Board of Works was in receipt of a letter last night from A. Hill & Co., the contractors, stating that owing to the lack of receiving the material they needed from the Samuel Benjamin Co., Toronto, they did not think they would be able to build the bridge this year. If repairs were necessary now they agreed to assist in them, providing the work of construction was left over till next year.

The engineer stated that the bridge needed re-planking very badly this fall if a new one was not going to be erected.

The Board decided to have the repairs necessary done this fall, and will charge the cost of them after deducting the value of the plank next spring to the contractors.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

JOHN GRIFFITH'S KING RICHARD

The announcement of the coming engagement in this city of John Griffith, the Canadian tragedian, on Sept. 22nd, matinee and night, carries with it a great deal of interest to the best class of theatre-goers and this interest is intensified by the fact that he will present Shakspere's immortal tragedy "King Richard the Third." Mr. Griffith's presentation of it will have most adequate aid in the very excellent company he has selected, and the splendid fireproofed scenic equipment furnished by his management. Many novel and thrilling electrical effects and chemical illusions have been added and the performance in its entirety will be the most important event in the season's theatrical history. Mr. Griffith is personally a most interesting character, a combination of the mental and physical. In appearance he suggests the peerless Edwin Forrest and has the frame and strength of the champion pugilist, James J. Jeffries, while mentally he is one of the greatest students of the day of classic literature, and is fairly a crank on the works of the divine bard, Shakspere.

St. Paul's Guild Has Re-organized

Officers Have Been Elected for the Coming Year.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held last night at St. Paul's Church, it being the occasion of the re-organization of the Young Men's Guild of that church. A large number were present, indicating that a great deal of interest is being taken in the work of the guild, and also that the work will be carried on with success this year.

Mr. E. S. Clarry has been elected to the presidency of the guild, and no doubt he will prove an efficient head.

The following is the list of officers:

Hon. Presidents, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. A. Bright.

Hon. Vice-President, R. Innes.

President, E. S. Clarry.

Vice-President, M. Rosenberg.

Corresponding Secretary, C. R. Cameron.

Recording-Secretary, H. Dodds.

Treasurer, W. Davidson.

Executive—R. F. McWilliams, J. H. Connal, A. P. McLean, J. E. Hodgson, W. Lockhart, Roy Turner.

WEDDING BELLS

WESTBROOKE—WAINRIGHT.

One of the prettiest of the many September weddings which have taken place in the city this year was celebrated this afternoon at the residence of Mr. Marcus Wainright, 268 London street, when his youngest daughter, Miss Fanny A. Wainright, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles B. Westbrooke, of the city, but formerly of Detroit. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. G. Potter at 3 o'clock, in the presence of about thirty guests. The parlour where the wedding took place was artistically decorated with flowers, the flower scheme being red and white. The bride was prettily attired in a travelling suit of blue silk, and a gray tourist coat. She wore a white felt hat trimmed with wings, and carried white roses. She entered the parlour upon the arm of her brother, Mr. Samuel F. Wainright, who gave her away, to the well-known strains of Mendelssohn's wedding played by Mr. M. H. Westbrooke, of Port Huron. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Georgia Wainright, who wore a dress of cream silk mohair trimmed with all-over lace, with touches of pink, and a pink satin hat trimmed with pink roses. She carried a bunch of red roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Arthur E. Jamieson, this city.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold ring set with an amethyst and cluster of pearls. To the bridesmaid he gave a gold ring set with a turquoise stone and pearls, and to the groomsman a signet ring. A very palatable wedding dinner was partaken of after the ceremony. Among the handsome and large array of wedding presents was a most beautiful hand-painted fruit set and fern pot, by the members of the 57th Regimental Band, of which the groom was a member; a quarter-cut oak rocker from the employees of the Cook Works, and two handsome cheques from the fathers of the bride and groom. Most of the other presents were of silver.

Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook left on 5.15 C. P. R. train this evening for Brantford, Detroit, Cleveland, and Chicago, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside in the city on their return.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Daley, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. H. Westbrooke, Detroit; Mr. M. H. Westbrooke, Port Huron, and Miss Maggie Chisholm, Cobourg.

A Bicycle And Wagon Collide

The Result a Job for the Repair Man.

A mix-up between a bicycle and a farmer's wagon at the lane entering the yards of the American Hotel, occurred just at 12 o'clock to-day, the result being that the wheel is now reposing in a repair shop—or on the junk heap. A bicyclist was coming down Hunter street just as a farmer began to turn into the hotel yards. The air-brakes failed to work and the result was a collision. The wheelman was thrown off and shaken up rather badly, but, fortunately, was able to walk away—if he had had to depend on the wheel he would have been in dire straights. The wagon was not damaged.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Senior Rugby Schedule Drawn Up Last Night

Locals Play Their First Game in Toronto on Sept. 29—Proposition to Have Winners of City Leagues Play Off.—Mr. T. W. McDonough Was the Local Representative.

The Peterborough Senior Rugby team will play their first game with the Victorias in Toronto on Saturday, September 29. The Saturday following the Tigers will appear in Peterborough and will furnish the best rugby game seen here in many years.

It was also proposed at the meeting to form a series made up of city leaguers from different cities and to have the winners play off at the close of the season. This should prove a popular move and a scheme which will be looked upon most favourably by the various cities. The Toronto Globe in referring to the meeting says:—

The Ontario Rugby Union Executive arranged plans for the coming campaign last night at a meeting held at the Chop House. There were present:—President S. S. DuMoulin, of Hamilton; Vice-President, W. A. Hewitt, of the Argonauts, George Ballard of Hamilton, T. W. McDonough of Peterborough, W. Graham of Brockville, J. K. Forsyth, of the Victorias, and Secretary-Treasurer J. B. Hay. The senior schedule was drawn up. The season opens on September 29, when the Argonauts will play the Tigers, at Hamilton and Peterborough will tackle the Victorias here. The final game is scheduled for November 10. Victorias and Tigers come together in Toronto on October 20, while the Argos will have the champions as their opponents on a local gridiron on November 3. The schedule is as follows:—

Sept. 29.—Argonauts at Hamilton; Peterborough at Victorias.

Oct. 6.—Hamilton at Peterborough; Victorias at Argonauts.

Oct. 13.—Peterborough at Hamilton; Argonauts at Victorias.

Oct. 20.—Hamilton at Victorias.

Oct. 27.—Victorias at Hamilton; Argonauts at Peterborough.

Nov. 3.—Hamilton at Argonauts; Victorias at Peterborough.

Nov. 10.—Peterborough at Argonauts.

These new teams were admitted to membership: — Canada Life, Toronto; West End Y. M. C. A., Toronto; St. Catharines, Oshawa, Tweed; West End Pleasure Club, Hamilton; West End Y. M. C. A., Hamilton; Rough Riders, Hamilton, and Forest City, London.

A permit was issued to Dr. V. McWilliams, of Keene, to play with Peterborough. W. Harriman of the intermediate Tigers asked for reinstatement to the junior ranks, but was turned down. The committee decided to continue to refuse requests of this nature when there are intermediate and senior teams in the applicant's town. Secretary J. B. Hays' suggestion in regard to the formation of a preparatory series was approved of. It is proposed to form a series made up of City League teams in Peterborough, Hamilton, Toronto and probably Kingston, the winners to play off for the championship at the close of the season. Each year the champion teams will qualify for the junior ranks. Manager Bert Love of the H. H. Love Company, has donated a championship cup for the preparatory series. Messrs. Hay, Hewitt and W. H. Slee were appointed a sub-committee to arrange details in the preparatory series, and also to draw up intermediate and junior schedules.

The Rawest Deal Since Hanlan's Boat Was Cut

This is How the Toronto Star Characterizes the Action of the N. L. U,—The Lacrosse Public Being Defrauded.

The Toronto Star speaks in the strongest terms condemning the action of the N. L. U. at the meeting on Monday night, when the eastern teams which were practically out of the running for the championship, were given another chance by the decision, which can have no other meaning than that of an attempt to do the Tecumsehs out of the honours. The Star says:—

The lacrosse public of Toronto were dumfounded to-day by the news from Montreal in regard to the meeting last night of the National Lacrosse Union. The action of the union is almost beyond thee comprehension of people with an idea of fair play and sportsmanship. The Union deliberately went out of its way to revoke a previous decision, the men who voted for the resolution doing so out of motives of self-interest, their clubs being given a chance for the championship, when, on the play on the field, they were completely out of the running.

The motion as carried last night means, in brief, that a victory for Tecumsehs over Nationals at the Island Saturday will bring the lacrosse championship down to a semi-final stage, with Tecumsehs, Capitals, Toronto, and either Cornwall or Montreal as the contestants. On September 29th and October 6th, home and home matches will be played between Tecumsehs and Toronto and between Capitals and either Montreal or Cornwall. The finals will come off on October 13th and 20th, according to the result of the semi-finals. In each case of home-and-home matches the majority of goals in two matches will decide the winner. Should the Tecumsehs be defeated by Nationals, then the semi-final stage would be eliminated, Tecumseh being down and out, and National failing on their present standing to qualify for semi-finals. That would mean that Montreal or Cornwall, with the changes favouring the former, would meet Capitals in the finals.

As it stands now, the game scheduled at Rosedale Saturday between Caps and Tecumsehs is declared off and thee Indians will play the Nationals at the Island instead. There has been considerable advertising done for the Rosedale game, and the Union will have to make good.

It is to the credit of the Toronto Lacrosse Club that their representative, Mr. Murphy, voted against the motion, although his club benefited by it to thee extent that they are now possibilities for the championship when previously they were out of all contention. The manly stand of the Cornwall Club must also be admired. They were in the same boat as Toronos and the others, but had some self-respect and voted in opposition to the motion.

The motion was made by Tom Carlind of the Montreal Club, which was completely out of the running by reason of the defeat by Nationals on Saturday, and it was the only way in which the Montreal Club could get a chance for the trophy. The Nationals and Shamrocks evidently voted for their Montreal friends, while nobody expected anything else from Ottawa. The Caps expected to get beaten here on Saturday, and this new phase of affairs makes it better for them.

However, when one recalls the dagger-and-thrust methods employed in the early spring, when the Western clubs were seeking admission, there can be but little surprise manifested at any action of the N. L. U., no matter how unfair or how unsportsmanlike it might be.

In this particular instance, the point in dispute had been settled and the decision given nearly three weeks ago. Tecumsehs and Caps were ordered to play off the tie on neutral grounds at Rosedale, and the lacrosse public and players accepted the decision as final and in good faith. The conspirators, however, got to work in earnest, when it looked as if the championship was headed for the West, and the extraordinary action of last night was the outcome of their machinations.

This is about the rawest deal perpetrated in sporting circles since the time some one sawed Ned Hanlan's boat in two before a race.

Lower Salaries To Lacrosse Stars

And the Torontos and Tecumsehs Both Made Money.

N. L. U. salaries have not been as high this year as in some other seasons. Either that, or the rates are becoming more uniform. The Torontos were paid $20 each, per week, all the season through, which meant 24 weeks. That meant $480 to each man, and as Jimmy Murphy carried 14 men on his team the whole aggregation cost the club owners something like $6,720 for the season. The Toronto club prospered, paid off bad debts to the amount of several thousands and is understood to have a wee bit left in the treasury yet.

The Indians fared well also. Their players were paid on a graded scale, but none of them got more than $30 or thereabouts. Some went perhaps lower than the $20 mark. The Islanders have had exceptionally good gates, both at exhibition and league games, and will reap a few thousands more before the championship race is finished.

Some Good Races At The Exhibition

Special Prizes Offered for Gradicator Foals.

Entries of stock and farm products have been coming in to Secretary F. J. A. Hall rather fast during the past couple of days, and the list now is far in excess of that of last year.

Some entries have been received for the races in the afternoon of the last day, and these promise to prove of an exciting nature. Local horses, as well as a number from Lindsay, Otonabee and points east, will be here, and the speed contests will be popular events.

Entries are called for the following races:

Trot or pace — 2.18 class, purse $100.

Trot or pace — 2.24 class, purse $100.

Trot or pace — 2.30 class, purse $100.

All purses to be divided, $60, $25 and $15.

Farmers, too, will be interested to learn that there are special prizes offered by the proprietors of the stallion Gradicator for the best foal in 1906, sired by that horse. The prizes will be $60, $25 and $15 respectively.

Don't forget the dates, September 25th and 26th.

The greatest in the history of the city will be the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Bigger crowds, bigger concerts, more fun. Everybody and his wife will be there.

Secretary Hall is a busy man these days receiving entries. The looking after the entries for a big fair like Peterborough is no sinecure.

Don't swear when a dog in a cart swoops between your legs or upsets you on the pavement. Remember the canines are in training for Ex-Mayor Telland's spectacular dog race at the Exhibition. It will be one of the features of a fair that is full of features.

The 57th Band will provide music all afternoon of the second day. This is the band that was taken for His Majesty's Second Life Guards Band at the Toronto Exhibition. Peterborough people please remember that it may be the last opportunity to hear the band until next season.

You don't have to go to Toronto to see races. The racing and trotting events at the Peterborough Exhibition this year should be about the best ever seen. Big prizes are offered and the prospects are that large fields of fast ones will face the starter.

Four teams are already entered for thee football contest for the Hall Cup. There will be football galore for the lovers of this popular game. If you like football, you miss the best games of the season by staying away from the Peterborough Exhibition. Lakehurst, Bridgenorth, the Quakers, and the Dominion Construction Company's team, nearly all Montreal men.

FOOTBALL

Fell Eighteen Feet Fractured His Arm

Painful Accident to Well Known Painter—Slipped from a Stable Roof and Received Several Injuries.

Mr. S. C. Sharpe, of the firm of Sharpe and Manning, painters, was the victim of a very painful accident yesterday afternoon, as a result of which he will not be able to work for some time. Mr. Sharpe was painting a stable for the Wm. Hamilton Co., and was working on the roof. The cleats in his boots became loosened and he slipped and fell from the building, falling 18 feet to the ground. He struck on his right shoulder and fractured his right arm above the elbow. His shoulder was also bruised, and there was a bad gash in his forearm which required stitching. Dr. McClelland was called and set the fracture, after which Mr. Sharpe was removed in a cab to his home on College street.

It was a miracle that he was not even more injured, as the ground at the foot of the stable was littered with objects which might have inflicted more serious injuries if he had fallen on them. Mr. Sharpe's fingers were badly torn from an effort to hold on to the roof as he felt himself slipping.

PROFESSIONAL HOCKEY FOR THE WEST ANYWAY

The Ontario Hockey Associatioon for years has ruled hockey in Ontario with a firm hand and has succeeded so far as it is possible in eliminating professionalism. This year there is to be some opposition. In Brantford and Woodstock there are a number of splendid players who because of lacrosse careers cannot play in the O. H. A. They are barred because they are professionals. Now the two cities have decided to have professional hockey. A good many players who have figured in the International Professional League, and who are either tired of it, or have been released, will be used. The combination does not mean the finish of the O.H.A., however.—Ottawa Free Press.

Big City League Meeting To-night

Representatives to Meet at Mac's Cigar Store

Now that City Leagues have been recognized and encouraged by the O. R.F.U. and that additional interest will be caused by the arrangement of games between the winners in the various cities, it is important that Peterborough League should be gotten under way at once. A meeting will be held to-night at Mac's cigar store at 8.30 o'clock to which representatives of teams intending to enter are requested to be present. A valuable trophy will be offered for competition in the league.

MAC HAD TO FIGHT FOR PETERBOROUGH

Mr. C. G. Graham, secretary of the local rugby club had a telephone message this afternoon from Mr. T. W. McDonough, the representative of the club at the meeting of the O.R.F.U. last night. The latter states that he had a hard time to have the schedule arranged satisfactorily to the local club. In view of the fact that the first game comes on so quickly it is very desirable that the local players get as much practise as possible. There are only nine days left before the first game and the Peterborough team cannot afford to lose any.

RUGBY.

A meeting of the Quaker Rugby enthusiasts is called for on Friday evening at thee Examiner office at 7.30 o'clock. Officers will be elected and other matters of business pertaining to the club will be considered. All interested are requested to attend.

• • • •

The Toronto Star says:—Secretary McDonough, of the Peterborough Club and Mr. Metherall of the Review are in the city to-day for the O.R.F.U. meeting to-night.

• • • •

A full meeting of all those interested in the Crescent Rugby Club is called for to-morrow evening at eight o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. parlours. It is necessary that every member should be present as important matters will be discussed.

• • • •

It is not very probable that the Crescents will be represented in the city league. The boys are very light to contend with men like the Quakers and Charlotte Street. However, by playing independent rugby they will gain sufficient experience and will not be disheartened by continuous up-hill contests.

• • • •

Peterborough's first league game will be played in Toronto, a week from next Saturday, with the Victorias, so that they have only a little over a week to get in shape. It is up to the team to get as much practice as possible and it is to be hoped that the players will turn out as often as they can arrange it.

Dr. Victor McWilliams, of Keene, has been given a permit to play with Peterborough. "Vic" was formerly one of the stars of the Peterborough team and his services will be greatly appreciated this year.

Nothing Relieved His Kidneys Until He Tried Bu-Ju

MARKHAM, Ont., Dec. 1, 1905.

"I had suffered for seven years with kidney trouble. Could scarcely walk and was unable to attend to my farm. Saw "Bu-Ju" advertised, and after taking the first few pills, felt much relieved. After taking half a box, was able to do a full day's work. I know one box of "Bu-Ju" saved me $40.00 doctor bills.

Miss Loveday's Body Was Easily Identified

Was Brought to the City This Morning—Funeral Takes Place To-morrow Afternoon--More Bodies Than are Reported Missing Believed to be Victims.

As published recently in the columns of The Examiner, the body of Miss Loveday, a victim of the disastrous Gilmour Hotel fire, was recovered on Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock. The remains were brought to Peterborough, leaving the capital last night about 11 o'clock, and arriving in the city this morning on the 5.10 C.P.R. train. They were taken to "Hazel Brae," from which place the funeral takesp lace tomorrow afternoon to the Little Lake Cemetery. A private service will be held at the home at 2 o'clock by Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's, of which church the deceased was a faithful member.

Body Easily Identified.

Miss Pierce, the superintendent of the Home, returned from Ottawa this morning with the body. She stated to The Examiner that the gruesome task of digging into the ruins for the dead bodies still goes on, and the great trouble now is that they cannot be identified. An inquest was held over Miss Loveday's body yesterday, and Miss Pierce was glad to be able to easily identify it, so that it might be brought here immediately. Her body, and that of Miss O'Neil, were almost the only ones that could be recognized.

Not Burned to Death.

Death, Miss Pierce thought, was evidently not due to the flames, but to suffocation, as the positions of the two bodies when found would indicate. They were found directly under the rooms they occupied in the hotel. There were several windows in Miss Loveday's room, and if she had been awake she would certainly have made her presence known.

More Bodies Discovered.

Two more bodies have since been discovered among the ruins, and it is yet believed that beneath the debris lie others which have not yet been reported missing. Guests who escaped the flames are making a continuous search for lost jewellery which lies in the charred remains of the hotel. Their efforts, however, generally prove fruitless, and their losses will amount to a great deal.

North Ontario Has Great Farming Land

Mr. J. W. FitzGerald Returns from Surveying Bradburn and Beck Townships--Was in Charge of Party of Sixteen Which Has Been Working for Last Five Months --Bradburn Township Has 51,000 Acres of Splendid Agricultural Land.

To the majority of southern Ontario people, the fact that one can go three hundred miles north of Sudbury, which is itself over two hundred miles north of Toronto, and still be in the same latitude as the International boundary between Manitoba and North Dakota, and seventy miles south of Winnipeg, will be a very great surprise.

It is a fact, though, and its realization opens up to the mind the great possibilities of that section of Ontario as an agricultural country.

Good Land

Mr. J. W. FitzGerald, who has been in the north almost for five months, surveying the townships of Bradburn and Beck, returned to the city at noon to-day, and to the Examiner's request for a story of his trip, modestly stated that there was nothing to say, except that he had experienced a successful and pleasant summer, had surveyed the two townships mentioned, and had found that Bradburn township, which was given to him to lay out, probably because it was named after the member for the constituency from which he came, contained 51,000 acres of splendid agricultural land, partly wooded with spruce, balsam, white pine, Balm of Gilead, poplar and It is gently undulating land, and in a section where the climate is of the very finest.

This township was the first to be surveyed under the new system adopted by the department, and which Mr. FitzGerald considers a decided improvement on that formerly employed. The land is laid out in farms of 150 acres each, the outside dimensions being about one-quarter mile by three-quarter mile. By this system the farmers are brought closer together, and the township generally is in better shape. At present the great drawback to this country is, of course, the lack of railway connection. Bradburn township is in the District of Algoma, and on the Mattagomi River, 300 miles due north of Sudbury, from which point the railway was left by Mr. FitzGerald and his party of sixteen, for their long tramp by the Hudson's Bay route, on the up trip which took three weeks.

The Grand Trunk

The one drawback referred to, however, is likely to be remedied, so far as Bradburn township is concerned, for the Grand Trunk Pacific has three routes surveyed through it, and it is quite probable that one of them will be selected for the main line of that railway which would mean that the land would be settled almost at once for Mr. FitzGerald states that the soil and climate are such that almost any kind of agricultural pursuits might be prosecuted with success.

The Township of Beck is not as good land as Bradburn, only about 50 per cent. of it being suitable for farming. It also is in Algoma and on the Frederick House River. It is six miles square and contains 24,000 square miles, less than half the area in Bradburn.

General Features

The summer has been, Mr. FitzGerald states, a pleasant one in the north; just enough rain to suit the country, and he was somewhat surprised to learn that the summer had been so dry here.

His sojourn in the north was devoid of any unpleasant incidents, the work had progressed favourably, and no accidents had occurred to mar the pleasure of a summer's residence in the north.

The country is well stocked with game; moose and cariboo being there in abundance.

The whole of that northern country along the proposed route of the G.T.P. will be settled as soon as the railway goes through, for the land is admirably adapted to agriculture, and in this respect is very much superior to that farther south along the present main lines of the C.P.R.

The return trip down the canoe route to Sudbury, unhampered with the supply of stores and provisions as on the outward trip, was made in one week.

Badly Bruised By Fall Of Scaffold

Edward Winkworth Met With Serious Injury

Yesterday afternoon Edward Winkworth, a contractor, who is erecting some houses on Romaine street, met with a serious injury. He was working on a scaffold when one of the supports gave away, throwing him to the ground with such force that he was very severely bruised about the body. He was taken to his home, 209 Rubidge street, where he will be confined for some days at least.

Directors Of Exhibition Discuss Routine Business

Held Meeting Last Night--Secretary Reported a Good Entry List--Building Will be Better Filled Than Ever --Some Interesting Features at the Fair.

The directors of the Exhibition met last night in the Bank of Commerce building, and spent a couple of hours attending to business in connection with the Fair, which is being held next Tuesday and Wednesday. Most of the questions considered were in reference to the appointment of constables, ticket sellers, gate-keepers, etc.

The secretary reported that the outlook for the exhibition was very bright. The entries so far have greatly exceeded those at this time last year, but of course the bulk of them will not be handed into the secretary until Saturday and Monday.

The exhibition building on the fair grounds will this year eclipse all past records. An immense quantity of small stuff, such as is on exhibition in the building, has been entered, and competition in this will no doubt be great.

Some Good Races.

The races were talked over last night, and these bid fair to be of an interesting variety. A number of well known local horses will be in the ring, as well as others from Otonabee and Lindsay, and some good stunts are in store for the interested ones.

Football Games.

In the afternoon of the final day a prominent feature of the day will be the football games. Two teams have up to the present entered, and two others are contemplating. The prize for this event is a silver cup donated by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P.

On the whole the prospects for the exhibition never looked better and if the weather man can only be bribed to manufacture the proper aerial conditions, there is no doubt of its being the best exhibition in the history of Peterborough.

Twenty Car Loads A Day Are The Shipments

From the Peterborough Mills of the Quaker Oats Company —Both Export and Domestic Trade in Good Condition—South Africa Likes Local Company's Goods.

The local mills of the Quaker Oats Company have, it is stated, never been as busy as they are at the present time. On an average twenty cars a day represents the output of the mills, and the Examiner is informed that both in the package and bulk ends of the business the volume of trade is increasing rapidly. Both are running night and day, and shipping continues up to about 10 o'clock each night, the day staff remaining on duty in many cases until that hour.

Twenty cars, represents about one train load, and, with the grain required to make this quantity of goods, it will be seen that about two train loads a day are the receipts and shipments of the mills for each twenty-four hours.

Both the export and domestic trade is in a very flourishing condition though the greater part of the big shipments made from the local mills is for export, South Africa taking a great quantity of the Quaker Oats Company's product, which seem to be very popular in that country.

Fall Millinery At Richard Hall's

A Successful Opening Being Held To-day

Richard Hall & Son's annual autumn millinery opening is taking place to-day, and the store is thronged with ladies who are enthusiastic in their praises of the new headwear creations shown. The display of millinery made by this store for the fall of 1906, and the success of the opening far exceeds that of any previous season. On Mr. Hall's European trip, he bought very largely of the best goods from the fashion centres, and the Peterborough ladies will reap the benefit of the enterprise and foresight of this firm.

24th's Stores Were Inspected To-day

Lieut. Long, of Ottawa, Visited The Armouries

Lieut. Long, of the Royal Canadian Artillery, of Ottawa, and Instructor Quarter-master Sergt. Jordan, of Kingston, were in the city to-day inspecting the stores and equipment of the 24th Field Battery at the armouries in East City. They were accompanied on their inspection by Sergt. T. Guerin, of the 24th Battery. The stores were found to be complete and in good shape and reflect creditably upon the care and pains taken by the officers and men of Peterborough's new artillery force.

CIVIC NEGLECT.

Who has control of our streets? Contractors and corporation, other than the city corporation, seem to use the streets, or, rather, abuse them at their caprice, in defiance of the rights and convenience of citizens. For months the Gas Company has had pipes strewed about the streets, to the interruption of traffic, and the inconvenience of taxpayers. Simcoe street especially, on the north side, has looked like a scrap heap, with huge pipes and rusted fittings, stretched along the pavement. On Downey street, for months, there has been a pile of sewer pipes, and of bricks, placed on the street. On Tuesday morning, the contractor, or somebody, ploughed a deep furrow in the middle of the street, from Simcoe to Charlotte, sufficient to make it impassable. That remained there, with no other stroke of work done, till this afternoon, at least — three days — and whether anything will be done for weeks, except spoil the street for driving, no one can tell. This furrow may be left in the street as long as the sewer pipes have been there, practically depriving the public of its comfortable use all the summer, for the Water Commissioners have just finished blocking the street by laying mains.

While writing about sewers, one might, as a type of condition on other streets, call attention to the condition of Rubidge street, between Simcoe and Brock, where a sewer was laid a year ago. In this case the surface was left in a ghastly condition of roughness and disrepair, all winter and far into the summer. Then a little slop-work was done on it, but it never was properly levelled, and ever since the street has been a disgrace to the city, and a terror to drivers. No doubt the contractor has been paid for putting the street in proper shape, and the citizens' money will have to be additionally spent to make it decent.

Why are these things permitted? The people own the streets and pay for putting them in order, only to see them torn up as soon as the work is completed. Why in the world is not the city's business done in a business-like way? We certainly pay enough taxes to expect some return for their expenditure. Taxation, without return, is tyranny, and waste, and altogether bad business.

If our aldermen won't protect our interests we should form a Citizens' Protective Association, and put up a good fight for our rights, and, at least, make the lives of the authorities uncomfortable, if they do not make some attempt to do things half right. These may seem small things but they are a type of a similar state of affairs all over the city. We certainly have enough officials in nominal authority in regard to street work — chairman of the Board of Works, City Engineer, Street Commissioner and Street Inspector. Surely with all these officials, little things, which in the aggregate make up a formidable sum total of unsatisfactory conditions, might be noticed and remedied, without kicking and protest from suffering citizens.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

And behold, moralizes the Montreal Herald, it is easier for the Conservative party to provide a dozen new leaders of Ontario Liberalism than one Conservative candidate for a Quebec constituency.

Many of the visiting Oddfellows from the United States have been robbed in Toronto. They must have brought the thieves with them, for certainly Toronto the Good would not furnish bad men.

The management of our Education Department, especially in connection with the selection of suitable Normal School sites, seems to justify the Whitney Government in appointing an advisory committee. Here arises a nice point. Will the Government ignore the advisory council as it snubs the power commission?

In noting the communication of the judgment in the Fielding election trial to the speaker, Hon. Mr. Tarte says: "Will the Opposition give battle to Mr. Fielding? We have not the information necessary to answer this question. But we do not see how Mr. Borden and his friends can abstain from tempting fortune. Mr. Fielding will be re-elected."

Speaking of the Healey's Falls deal, the Toronto Telegram says: "The pretence that the public interest has been safeguarded is no justification for the bargain. The same pretences were offered as justification for every bargain perpetrated for the Ross Government." The deal in its general aspect is quite in line with the Ross Government's policy. But that does not, as the Telegram says, help Whitney. He denounced Ross' policy and pledged himself against it. He has proved recreant to his pledges.

The Montreal Gazette, in an article entitled, "Why Protection Pays," endeavours to show that Germany and her workingmen have much the better of Great Britain in their trade with one another. But will the Gazette, the Hamilton Times asks, kindly explain to us how it is that British workingmen earn higher wages than do the Germans, and how it is that these highly-protected Germans have to eat dog and horse meat to avoid starvation? The Englishman sticks to his roast beef.

Later developments indicate that in part the terrible loss of life at the burning of the Gilmour Hotel, Ottawa, was due to insufficient fire escapes. In view of these facts and with 22 hotels in Peterborough is it not the duty of the authorities to make certain by thorough inspection that the law at least, in this regard, has been complied with, and that there exists no conditions making for the possibility of loss of life through defective appliances. It is a small matter to make sure that things are right, but it would be a gravely great matter it through carelessness or neglect, even one life should be unnecessarily sacrificed.

Mr. B. E. Walker, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, has ideas on financial matters and associated conditions. His reflections upon the state of things in the west have justified the following sane conclusions:—"The West is no place for pessimism, but optimism should be tempered with caution. Speculation has been pushed to the limit. The East is almost too favourably impressed with the growth and prospects of the West, and a great part of speculation in Western lands has been due to the extravagance of Eastern ideas on Western possibilities. While there is no one with greater faith in the West at present, the tendency is to mortgage the future at too fast a pace."

The latest returns give the production of Canadian mines for the year as $68,574,707. This seems to be a very large sum, but it is comparatively insignificant when placed along side the products of the soil. The products of the soil in Canada, according to the census of 1901 amounted to the enormous sum of over 375 millions of dollars and the present year's product must be much larger than that. Our dairying alone for 1901—$66,470,953—exceed the products of our mines for any year except the past year, as shown above. While we may sigh for foreign capital to assist in the development of our mineral resources, we would be the greater gainers by securing foreign men to develop our agricultural resources, which are, after all, the largest elements in the wealth production of a country.

Taking Trip To Canadian West

Messrs. Ackerman and Waddell Left This Morning.

This morning Mr. B. E. Ackerman and Mr. R. M. Waddell left on a trip to the Canadian Northwest, going by way of Minneapolis and St. Paul, in which cities they will spend a few days. Mr. Ackerman is going to the west on business in connection with his large land interests there, while Mr. Waddell will combine business with pleasure and will spend some time lounging on the paraties of the west. They will, of course, be away for several weeks.

500,000 Babies Are Sacrificed

State Official Declares Adulterated Foods an Appalling Menace.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of State Dairy and Food Departments, the secretary of a state board made the assertion, and produced figures to prove it, that the death of nearly half a million little children in America last year was due to poisons administered in impure foods.

Welcome, indeed, is a food that is known to be pure and wholesome, rich in nutrition and good to eat,—so good that no other food can take its place. We refer to Malta-Vita, that delicious crisp, whole-wheat food. Among all the cereal foods we believe Malta-Vita is the only food that is simply and wholly pure grain product and nothing else, except a little salt. It is free from any foreign sweetening agent or other adulterant, and is made in absolute cleanliness.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita, and it's just as good three times a day. Containing every food element of the best white wheat and pure barley malt extract, it is intensely vitalizing and easily digested. Let your children have all the Malta-Vita they want and you need not fear for their health. Try some yourself with cream or fruit. You never tasted anything quite so good. All grocers, now 10 cents.

New goods are being opened up of the very highest qualities in groceries, provisions, fruit, vegetables, etc. Remember the place —corner of McDonel and Aylmer streets. Telephone 485. Andrew Grabam.

A Question.

—One of Peterborough's church janitors thinks the Examiner ought to print the following clipping: — "The members of a church in Imlaystown, N.J., were surprised on Sunday morning to find the church locked up when they tried to attend the regular service. When the janitor was hunted out and asked to explain he said he was entitled to a vacation as well as the preacher. There's a point nobody seems to have thought of before."

Clearing Sale of Books.

One of the results of the early planning for Christmas at the Peterborough Bookstore is the discovery that our stock of books is too large. To economize room, it has been decided to reduce our book stock at once, and with this end in view a clearing sale has begun that should leave no doubt about a speedy thinning-out. We invite all book-lovers to avail themselves of this book sale, as there will be many rare snaps not often offered.

BLACK DIKE BANDSMAN FROM PETERBOROUGH, ENG.

The Black Dike Band arrived in the city this morning, and the members are spending the day in looking over the town. They wear a very pretty and distinctive uniform, and their presence on the streets created considerable comment . They expressed themselves as pleased with the appearance of Peterborough, and one of the bandsmen stated that the visit of the band to this city was one of special interest to himself, by reason of the fact that he came from the district of Peterborough in England, and, while, of course, the Canadian namesake of the English city had not reached the maturity or population of her parent, she was apparently making good progress .

The band will give a concert in the Grand Opera House to-night, and no doubt many will welcome this opportunity of hearing the noted brass band from the homeland.

MANY SIGNATURES FOR FREE DELIVERY PETITION

The petition asking the Government to establish in Peterborough a free postal delivery system is being very largely signed. Copies have been placed in the offices of the large industrial concerns in the city and the employees are showing their interest in the proposal by their desire to sign it. Two copies have been returned to the City Clerk's office with a large number of signatures, and it is expected that in a short time they will be all returned, when they will be forwarded to the Postmaster General.

At Police Court This Morning

New Arrival Intoxicated and Had to Pay the Fine.

A bronze-faced young Englishman who had just arrived in the city yesterday appeared before the magistrate this morning on a drunk and disorderly charge. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 to be paid forthwith, or the usual number of days in jail. At first he didn't think he had the money, but after digging deeply into his trousers' pockets he managed to get the required amount in "chickenfeed."

Joseph Rickerby, who was remanded from last week until this morning, was charged with, being drunk and disorderly, and with loitering on the sidewalk and obstructing pedestrians. Through his counsel, Mr. O'Connel, he pleaded not guilty, the latter charge only being considered.

P. C. Newhall gave evidence that he saw Rickerby on Friday night near the corner of Queen street, on Simcoe street, where he was chasing and catching hold of a couple of girls. Complaints were laid to the officer, and he took the prisoner into custody, after chasing him across the Hunter street bridge.

Two young ladies whom he was following stated that he was drunk and had caught hold of one of them by the sleeve. The one whom he grabbed, stated, however, that she did not complain, nor was she impeded by the accused.

The magistrate fined Rickerby $10, to be paid in 10 days.

A number of other young men were fined $2 for disorderly conduct.

Green Sickness or Chlorosis

Just at the threshold of womanhood, that trying period when the whole system is undergoing a complete change, many a girl falls a victim of chlorosis, or green sickness.

Her disposition changes and she becomes morose, despondent and melancholy. The appetite is fickle, digestion is imperfect, and weariness and fatigue are experienced on slight exertion.

Chlorosis is much like anaemia because it arises from poor quality of blood. Iron and such other restoratives and blood builders as are combined in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, are demanded by the system.

The regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cannot fail to benefit any girl or young woman suffering from chlorosis, anaemia, or weakness and irregularities which result from poor blood and exhausted nerves.

Converted, And Paid His Debts

One of the Results of the "Holly Rollers'" Work.

The Hastings Star says:—A resident of Hastings last week received from a man at Castleton cash to cover an account which the former had given up hopes of ever getting. The "Holly Rollers" have been working in that district for over a month and the debtor had become a convert. Let the business men of Hastings send an invitation to the H. R's to come here . There is plenty of ground to work on.

Arrange Plans For Boy's Work

An Important Feature in Connection With Y.M.C.A.

The Boys' Committee of the Y.M.C.A. held an interesting session last night when plans were decided upon for the work for the season.

It was decided to organize the Boys and Intermediates each with an executive of five members, co-operating with the General Boys' Committee. The following were selected for the year 1906-07:—

For Boys' Department.

Chairman and leader in Bible Study meetings and Foreign work—Harold Payne.

Secretary-Treasurer—Frank Patterson.

Social and Educational Department—Mel. Turner.

[illegible] Matthews.

Membership—Grant Potter.

Intermediates.

Chairman—Fred Hall.

Secretary-Treasurer — Stanley Madill.

Social, etc.—Jno. Evans.

Physical—H. E. Saxby.

Membership—Wilbert Yelland.

The Boys' Friday meetings will continue and the Bible Study groups will be organized.

The two executives will meet in a few days and get things in good running order.

Had Diarrhoea so bad he had to give up work.

HAVE YOU EVER BEEN IN THIS POSITION?

If you have not been, but ever do be, remember that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is nature's specific for all Bowel Complaints.

It has been on the market for 60 years. Surely this is reputation enough as to its efficacy.

Mr. Henry Voll, Carthage, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry with the best of results. Last summer I had the Diarrhoea so bad that I had to give up work. A friend of mine persuaded me to give Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry a trial, which I did, and can say that it cured me entirely. I can recommend it to all who are troubled with Diarrhoea."

Be sure and ask for Dr. Fowler's and take no substitute. All dealers sell it.

Mr. W. H. Cavanah Gets A Good Promotion

Made Assistant Superintendent of the Rockford, Vermont Plant of the Quaker Oaks Company—Will Leave To-night to take up Duties of New Position—A Deserved Promotion For Popular Young Man.

To-night Mr. W. H. Cavanah will leave for Richford, Vt., to take the position of assistant superintendent of the mills of the Quaker Oats Company in that city. Mr. Cavanah has been on the road for the company for some months, previous to which he was in the mill here. The position is one which will be a good promotion to a young man who has made gratifying progress in the business that he has chosen. The mills at Richford are extensive, and the new position will be one of considerably increased responsibility. The plant is one for the manufacture of feed, no package goods being made there. A large number of hands are employed.

The departure of Mr. Cavanah from this city will be learned with deep regret by his many friends, who will however, most heartily congratulate him on his deserved promotion. During his residence in Peterborough he has been active in his support of, and participation in, almost every line of sport. He is, perhaps, better known in this line as a member of the hockey team which won the intermediate championship of the O. H. A. He played wing on this team, and it is no reflection on the work of the other players to state that it was in no small degree due to his excellent work that the cup is today reposing in this city.

With lacrosse, too, Mr. Cavanah was identified, and every year since he came to Peterborough he has been on the C. L. A. team representing this city, until this year, when, as is well known, the seniors dropped out of the series. He was also a member of the famous Athletic basketball team, along with Harold Armstrong and other athletes who have won fame for themselves. In baseball he was known as a member of the Excelsiors of three years ago, and last year pitched for the St. John's team in the Guild League.

Mr. Cavanah is Colour-Sergt. of No. 8 Co. of the 57th Regiment, and in this line of activity, as well as in any other in which he engaged, he was successful. He will leave Peterborough with the very best wishes of his many warm friends, who are confident that he will "make good" in the larger responsibilities which he will take up in his new position.

Peterborough Man Likes New Capital

Mr. Joseph H. Symons Writes From Regina Telling of the Wonders of the West—He Represents a Local Firm There—City Growing Rapidly—Has Population of 12,000.

Mr. Joseph Symons, who has been in Regina, Sask., for the last two months, working for the Peterborough Cement Roofing Company, has written the Examiner an interesting letter, in which he gives some facts concerning this really remarkable western city. Mr. Symons writes as follows:—

Dear Sir,—Being at heart a citizen of Peterborough, although temporarily separated from my old home, I thought that you would like to hear of the success of a Peterborough Company in this western city. I am superintendent and local manager of the western branch of the Peterborough Cement Roofing Company in Regina, and I must say that I am very much pleased with the country in general, but particularly this city.

Regina is undoubtedly one of the busiest cities of the West, and the company did well in locating here. Our business in the past has been very good, and we have every hope of a splendid future. The city fathers this year are paving the business streets and miles of sidewalk with cement at an expense of $250,000. A city hall has also been built at a cost of $150,000 and there is talk of building a union station to meet the demand of the four railways that in a short time will enter the city. The population which was 2,500 three years ago is now about 12,000. The price of real estate is very high, but the houses combine beauty and strength and are a credit to any city. The water supply, which is obtained from a spring about eight miles from the north-east of the city, is excellent.

The farmers of the surrounding district report a bountiful harvest, wheat averaging from 25 to 44 bushels per acre. Although the greatest number of harvesters that has ever come west in the history of this country came this year, yet the demand still far exceeds the supply. In conclusion Mr. Editor, I wish to thank you for this space in your valuable paper.

Yours truly,
JOSEPH H. SYMONS.

Complains Of Canada's Barbers' Price Scale

A Letter to the Examiner States Tonsorial Artists in Canada Charge Too Much—Does Not Apply to Local Barbers However.

An Englishman just out from 'ome, writing to the Examiner in connection with the barbers' charges in Canada, says:

I would like to publicly express my indignation at the exorbitant charges made by barbers in Canada compared with similar class shops in the old country.

I found it compulsory to visit a barber shop in Yonge street, Toronto, the other day, to have a hair cut. That operation over, a little oil was rubbed on my hair, or at least what remained, and following that I had a shave, after which a little more liquid out of a different labelled bottle was put on my head.

During this time the man who was attending to me was very talkative, comparing rates of wages between Canada and England, and saying how comfortable he was. "You know," he proceeded, "I can afford to go to the Woodbine races and speculate twenty or thirty dollars and I can afford to lose it all." Do you know, I quite believed the man when he presented his bill for 80 cents. He told me to be sure and call back again. I will, but the next time I shall have with me a little more common (cents.)

The following table will show the comparison between English and Canadian charges:—

English.

Haircut	8 cents
Shave	4 cents
Shampoo	8 cents
Hair Dressing	no charge
Total	20 cents

Canadian.

Haircut	25 cents
Shave	15 cents
Shampoo	25 cents
Hair Dressing	15 cents
Total	80 cents

Yours truly,
(Barberism.

It will be noticed that the prices quoted as "Canadian" are not Peterborough prices, which are very little higher than those in England.

Discussion On The Telephone Franchise

Mr. F. D. Mackay Tells the Lindsay Council About the Results of Competition—Reference is Made to the Experience of Peterborough.

The Lindsay Post of yesterday had the following report of the meeting of the council at which the question of the franchise of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company was discussed:—

Mr. MacKay of the Machine Telephone Co., was heard regarding giving his company a franchise to do business in this town. Mr. MacKay first briefly pointed out the benefits that follow competition, as being the first aspect to be considered. First, competition ensured a more efficientr service. Experience where competition had been introduced had shown this to be true in the ocase of the telephone as it was in any other business. In Peterborough the granting of a franchise to the second company had resulted in the old local battery system being taken out and an up-to-date central energy plant being installed by the Bell Co. It was safe to say that Peterborough would not have had the up-to-date system for years yet. In Brantford where a franchise had been granted his company the same improvements were being made. This would be the experience in Lindsay.

Second, competition would result in the telephone coming into more general use. This has been demonstrated in an amazing way in the United States, where in Ohio there was an independent telephone (leaving the Bell service out of the question) for every 17 of the population, in Illinois there was one independent telephone for every 17, in Montana one for every 13, and in Iowa one for every 12. In Canada there was only one telephone for every 63 of the population. Lindsay, with about 8,000 population should have four or five hundred telephones.

Third, competition increased the value of the telephone to the retail business men, by increasing the amount of telephone connections or service he would get for his money. The idea that two telephones meant an additional burden on the business man was carefully cultivated by the monopoly, but the business men, while looking carefully into the question soon discarded this idea. The business man wanted a cheap residence telephone, one that would get into the homes and let his customers reach him at his placee of business. While the new system was local the man who had to have long distance connection need not take the second telephone unless as was usually the case, they took the second one in order to support competition in the local stage in the hope that it would result in long distance competition and reduce the cost of this line of business.

Fourth, competition would result in better treatment and more consideration from the present company. With a second company coming into Lindsay subscribers would be solicited to take improvements instead of having to solicit them and then be refused or made to pay extra for them.

Mr. MacKay then discussed the particular merits of the automatic system, which was now being more generally recognized every day as the coming system. It gave uniform service, was absolutely secure and removed the troubles and inconveniences of the manual system.

His company did not ask an exclusive franchise, but were prepared to come in and invest their money and fight it out with the present company. All he asked was that they be not handicapped with restrictions that the other fellow would not have. He believed if given an opportunity they would have the citizens behind them in the fight to give improved up-to-date telephone service.

It was then moved by Ald. Begg and seconded by Ald. Rea, that we endorse having telephone competition and will consider at our next regular meeting a by-law granting a franchise to the Machine Company.

Peterborough Oddfellows Joined In The Parade

Took Part in the Greatest Demonstration of Oddfellowship Ever Seen in Canada, at Toronto Yesterday—Many Thousands of Members in Line.

Peterborough Oddfellows were well represented at the big demonstration in Toronto yesterday, and their presence in that city was noticed, even among the thousands of other visiting members of the Order. The Toronto Star says:—

"Peterborough was no laggard, the wise men arriving early and with badges on 700 breasts."

The same paper referring to the great influx of Oddfellows to the city yesterday, says:—

Twenty trains, specials, and regulars, discharged their I. O. O. F. freight at the Union Station and Camp Wright this morning, beginning at 7.40 and ending about 1, in time for the big parade this afternoon. The aggregate did not exceed 5,000 persons, and fell below expectations. Fifteen bands reached the Union, three or four went to Camp Wright, and another three or four were already there. These, with the city bands, brings the musical grand total up to 25 at the least. Of the fifteen thousand or so Oddfellows now in the city, many will leave for home to-night.

Speaking of the parade the News says:—

"Rarely, if ever, has Toronto seen a parade of such dimensions as that which is taking place this afternoon. It is estimated that over 30,000 members of the triple link fraternity have rallied to the standard of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, and the gathering is impressively representative of the sway of Oddfellowship within the farthest confines of civilization from east to west, and from north to south on the American continent. It is powerfully suggestive of a world-encircling fraternal influence.

"Toronto's hospitality is supplemented by an intensified interest this afternoon. A crush of people lines every street along the route of the parade, and this fact is significant when it is known that the brethren will have walked a distance of four miles ere their magnificent demonstration is concluded."

Glaring Case Of Reporter's Neglect

Did Not Chronicle Lady's Visit to Toronto Fair.

The stout lady in white came in from the eastbound train yesterday at the G.T.R. station and boarded the car for the north end of the city; there was a good crowd, and seats were not exactly going begging; nevertheless, a suit case, a satchel, a basket and a faded bunch of flowers occupied the rest of the lady's seat. Presently a little girl got on and in a high key the stout lady started up a conversation:

"Little girl, I have been up to Toronto, and went to the exhibition. Was it in the papers?"

Little girl, timidly, "I don't know, ma'am."

"You don't know. Do you mean to say that you don't read the newspapers?"

"Sometimes, ma'am."

"And I've been to Toronto and it has never been in." Then, with a withering glare at a poor innocent, inoffensive occupant of the seat behind, she pitched her voice seven keys higher, and explained to the crowd in general: "These society-writer girls have nothin' else to do but find out where people go and when they come back, and yet I've been to the Toronto Fair and it has never been in the papers."

Which proves that it isn't only a policeman's lot that "is not a happy one."

Short Length Twine Siezed

This is the Second Time for It's Seizure Too.

A seizure of binder twine has been reported from Manitoba, which has a somewhat continuous history. Some weeks ago a large quantity of twine imported from England was seized in Montreal, having been found short of the guaranteed length. In view of the demand for twine so near the beginning of the harvest, three-fourths of this consignment was allowed to go forward for consumption on condition that it be re-tagged so as to show the exact length of twine in each ball. This stipulation was evidently ignored, as the twine just seized in Manitoba by Inspector Haycock is a portion of the Montreal consignment, but bears only the misleading label which led to its seizure in the first place.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Buller, Going to Chicago.

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bullerr left on a two weeks' trip to Port Huron, Chicago and Buffalo. During Mr. Buller's absence the business of the Fuel and Cartage Company will be attended to by Mr. White and Mr. Clarence Buller.

OLD AGE

Comes to Everyone, But Its Visits May Be Postponed.

Old age is not a question of years. Some men are old at forty, others are young at sixty.

It's a mighty hard proposition to look young, no matter how young you feel if your hair is falling out and your head becoming bald.

Perhaps you are tired trying ineffectual remedies for this evil.

We don't blame you if you are.

Why not try an effective one for a change.

THE STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS

The Cressman Millinery is in a Class by Itself

It Stands In "Relief" From All Other Showings

SMART WOMEN and tasteful women and women who "know" say it is "Exclusive" and "Entirely Different." No fear of that artistic piece of Headgear you have selected being duplicated. In our very wide range of Styles and Effects, we have a particluar style for each particular face.

By wearing THE CRESSMAN HAT this season, you'll have a DISTINCTIVE STYLE. The beautiful face will be even more enhanced, and the face not quite so beautiful will be made more attractive. We make a special study of facial requirements in the Millinery Art, and will give you JUST THE THING NEEDFUL that will always be a joy and pleasure so long as the hat lives.

You'll find the very large and the very small Hats are the styles most in evidence. In the small Hats felt hood effects are very prominent. Ostrich plumes are freely employed, and such a wealth of ribbon and plumage; velvet also is much seen.

The Dress Goods are Pre-eminently in the Lead

Such a magnificent array of Dress Stuffs would be hard to equal even in a much larger metropolis than our own beautiful city. We are up to the times and cater to all tastes— no matter what you want, if you get it at Cressman's you'll get it right and rightly priced.

We are Notedly Headquarters for Women's Tailored Garments

One of the great features of this store is to always have "something different"—This is characteristic of our Women's Tailored Garments. They are ultra-fashionable and CORRECT in every detail and tailored to the highest point of excellence. The new Suits, Coats, Skirts, Waists, etc., etc., are here ready for your selection.

Progress Has Been Made In Georgian Bay District

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor Has Returned From His Official Visit—141 Were Confirmed During the Tour.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor returned last night from a three weeks' visit to some of the missions in the Georgian Bay district, which are in this diocese. When seen by The Examiner this morning, His Lordship expressed himself as impressed with the progress, both spiritually and materially, that is being made in that district. His last previous visit was made two years ago, and since that time great advancement has been made.

Parry Sound Parish.

Parry Sound was the first place visited by His Lordship, where the conditions were found to be very satisfactory. Since his previous visit a resident priest has been pastor of the parish, and has charge both of Parry Sound, and Depot Harbour, five miles distant. Thus the parishioners are enabled to attend mass regularly every Sunday. The church has been enlarged, and improved and renovated, so that it is in first-class condition, and a residence has been purchased for the parish priest. At Parry Sound His Lordship confirmed forty-two people, some of whom were from Depot Harbour.

Parry Sound, His Lordship states, is in a flourishing condition. There are three large mills and the town is surrounded by a fairly good agricultural country. There will shortly be three railway outlets from the place instead of one, as the James Bay and Mackenzie and Mann Railways will shortly be completed.

Depot Harbour.

At this latter place a new church was built two years ago. The principal difficulty His Lordship found here was that nearly all the men of the parish had to work Sunday and weekday alike, and were unable to attend mass. Most of them are engaged in the work of unloading the boats and have to take their choice of working on Sunday or being dismissed. This condition, His Lordship hopes, will be improved when the new Sunday law comes into force. The whole of the village belongs to the G. T. R. Company, which bought out the Canada Atlantic two years ago. The company owns practically all the houses and controls the business interests of the place, so much so that there is only one barber shop there, and the company will not allow any more. Any city barber thinking of opening a branch in Depot Harbour had better consider this feature of the situation before going ahead with the enterprise.

Byng Inlet.

His Lordship next paid a visit to Byng Inlet on the Maganatawan River. Here is situated the largest lumber mill in the Georgian Bay district. It is owned by the Holland Greaves Co., of Buffalo, and turns out more lumber than any other mill in the district. The mill runs night and day, and altogether there are about 700 employees. The payroll each month amounts to about $28,000. This industry is all that keeps the place going. No agriculture is possible as the surrounding country is useless for purposes of industry. The C. P. R. passes about about two and a half miles from Byng Inlet, and the Mackenzie and Mann a little further away.

The Roman Catholic Church at the Inlet is situated on the north side of the river and the mills are on the south side. Many of the parishioners live near the church, but some have to cross the river, and His Lordship said it was very edifying to see a large fleet of boats crossing the river on Sunday. On one occasion he counted twenty-six small boats of all kinds. There is a large Roman Catholic population in Byng Inlet, and His Lordship while there confirmed seventy-five people. There is a good-sized and comfortable church there.

French River.

French River, thirty miles away from Byng Inlet, was the last place visited. Here there is a large lumber mill owned by the Ontario Lumber Co., of which Mr. J. B. McWilliams is manager. His Lordship met Mr. McWilliams, who, he says, has cultivated such a French accent that if Mr. H. LeBrun were to hear him talk he would surely imagine that he had been born in Quebec. His Lordship confirmed twenty-four at French River before returning home.

His Lordship states that religious progress has been made in the Georgian Bay district, and that materially too, the people have prospered. There is plenty of work for all and good wages are paid.

Who Returned Last Week From a Three Week's Visit to Georgian Bay Missions.

Harvest Festival St. Luke's Church

Rev. Canon Cody the Special Preacher To-night.

To-night at 8 o'clock, the annual Harvest Festival will take place at St. Luke's. Rev. Dr. Cody, of Toronto, is the special preacher. The subject of his sermons will be patriotic, entitled "A Nation in the Making." Professor Cody is a most eloquent speaker, and foremost in ecclesiastical and educational circles. He was a member of the Government commission to investigate the needs of Toronto University. In recognition of his services, he was honoured by the university with the degree of LL.D. The offering to-night will be for Canadian missions. A leaflet containing the special form of service, including special hymns — one the offertory hymn, being entirely new — will be distributed in the pews and will represent a great convenience to worshippers.

Corn Roast On Otanabee Banks

An Enjoyable Sail Down the River Last Night.

Last night a party of about thirty young ladies and gentlemen enjoyed a trip down the river in the steamer Mollie. At one of the numerous groves along the Otonabee a stop was made and a corn roast enjoyed. After spending an hour or two in a manner characteristic of such outings, the return trip was made, the city being reached about 10 o'clock.

Pleasant At Home In S.O.E. Rooms

Court Alexandra A.O.F. Entertains Court Stanley A.O.F.

A very enjoyable social was held last evening in the S. O. E. Hall, when Court Stanley, A. O. F., were the guests of Companion Queen Alexandra Circle No. 136, A. O. F. Before the programme was commenced, games were played and the guests made to feel at home.

Mr. Robt. McWilliams occupied the chair for the evening, and in his opening address on behalf of the ladies, he welcomed the members of Court Stanley, and explained that the main object of the meeting was to obtain new members for Queen Alexandra Circle.

The following programme was then rendered:

PART I.

Piano Solo, Miss Moss.
Gramophone Selection, Mr. Lisegard.
Violin Solo, Mr. Webster.
Piano Solo, Miss Ethel Goodenough.
Recitation, Miss Barr.
Intermission.

Part II. was composed of numbers by the same persons.

Mr. Webster's violin selection, "The Minstrel Boy," was much enjoyed, and received a well-merited encore.

Miss Goodenough, a little girl of ten years, is a promising pianist.

During intermission refreshments were served by the ladies, which was not the least enjoyed part of the evening's events.

The secretary of Alexandra Circle reports that the results of the evening were very successful, eight new members being enrolled.

The following committee was in charge of the affair, and to their efforts is due much of the success of the evening: Mrs. J. Moss, Mrs. I. J. Goodenough, Mrs. Wm. Stewart and Mrs. J. Scott.

Hibernians' President Refers To Convention

In a Letter Written by Mr. C. J. Foy, of Perth—Speaks of the Recent Gathering of the Members of the Order Held in this City—Some Advice to Members.

Mr. C. J. Foy, of Perth, who was elected provincial president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, at the recent convention held in this city, has addresedd a letter to the members of the Order. It was published in the Catholic Record of this week, and from it the following paragraphs are taken:

The Provincial Convention, which, as you are aware, was held in the city of Peterborough, commencing on the 14th and ending on the 16th of August, 1906, was, without question, the largest and the most enthusiastic ever held in Ontario under Hibernian auspices. The delegates were most punctual in their attendance, and the duties devolving upon the various committees were performed in such a manner as to expediate the work of the convention, and, as a consequence, more lasting and permanent work was performed than at any previous convention of the A.O.H. in Ontario. No doubt ere this reaches you the report of your delegate to that convention will have been received, but, notwithstanding this, I feel it my duty, to call your attention to some of the work of the convention, as well as to some other matters that can well engage the attention of each and every member of our Order, and a consideration of which, I feel quite safe in saying, will inure to the benefit of our grand organization. The present finds our noble society larger in numbers, stronger in influence, and wider in prestige, than ever before in its history in Ontario; in fact our membership has nearly doubled in the two years last past, and everything warrants the most sanguine hopes for our future. Before us lies the future; we can make of it what we will. The responsibility for the successful future of this Order rests upon each and every member alike. The aid and assistance of the humblest member of the order is as essential to success as are devoted and painstaking efforts upon the part of your officers—Division, County and Provincial.

The convention just closed has placed before us a mark which I hope we may be able to reach, viz., a membership of 4,000 by 1908. This will not be a difficult matter if the members of the order work earnestly and sincerely to accomplish this end, and I would ask every division to make an especial effort to add to its quota of members so that we may reach the anticipated goal.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

The Procession Blocked Street

And Toronto Papers Were Unable to be Sent Out.

The Oddfellows in Toronto yesterday went for a good time — and had it — even though their presence in the city demoralized business to a certain extent. The Toronto News and Star failed to arrive on the C. P. R. local, and the local agent, Mr. W. O'Brien, telegraphed to the News for an explanation, and in reply received this message:—

"Oddfellows' procession blocked street around News office; couldn't reach train before six o'clock."

This explains why those who looked for their Toronto papers last night did not get them.

A Successful Meeting of Loyal True Blue Lodge.

The Loyal True Blues' lodge meeting last night was a decided success. Four new candidates were initisted, and five were given the White Degree. A Grand Lodge certificate was presented for a member of another lodge now residing in this city, and he was elected a member of this lodge. Another application was also accepted. The local lodge is growing very rapidly, and as soon as the members get some of their present work in better shape, big things may be expected of them in their Orphanage work, which is the main work of this association, the rescue and caring for orphan children.

Editor Post Card Column:

A great many gentlemen smoke, but again a great many smokers are not gentlemen. The waiting room of our Post Office is a public room used by all and often crowded with ladies. Notices have been put up forbidding smoking, profanity, etc. These should hardly be necessary in a community with even an elementary sense of propriety. Yet it seems that more than a simple notice will be necessary to jog the attention of some of our citizens. Is it that many smokers are so piggishly ignorant that they can't read, or is it that many of them are piggishly indifferent to the rights and comforts of others?

OBITUARY

MRS. JAS. WHITE.

A very sad death occurred this morning about half past four, at 223 Rink street, when Rose Anna Gormanelly passed away. The deceased lady was born near Kemptville. She was married nineteen years ago to Jas. Whitee and has dwelt here during all those years.

The deceased has been rather seriously ill during the last two years, but became much worse about three months ago. Since then she has steadily declined until her death this morning.

There are left to mourn her loss her husband, Jas. White, her daughter Mary Laurine, of this city and her mother Mrs. Gormanelly, and her sister, Mrs. W. J. Wetherhead, of Toronto.

At the time of going to press definite arrangements have not been made for the funeral.

57th Batt. Band At Sunderland Fair

Gave a Very Successful Concert Last Night.

The 57th Band returned to-day from Sunderland, where they yesterday filled a successful engagement at the Sunderland Fair. They provided music during the afternoon at the fair grounds, and in the evening gave a concert in the town hall. The affair was a decided success. There was a large attendance and the band's playing was greeted by hearty applause. They rendered a fine programme, one that was evidently quite to the taste of the audience. Twenty-five members of the band went to Sunderland.

A Ventilating Oven that Ventilates.

There is only one practical way of ventilating a range oven and that way has been adopted in the Pandora—is an actual, positive, working feature and not a mere talking point.

Fresh air is drawn from the outside through small vents into the oven while the odors and cooking fumes are forced by the fresh air out through small vents into the smoke flues, and up the chimney.

Roasts cooked in a Pandora oven retain their sweet, natural flavor, entirely free from cooking odors, absolutely unmixed with any foreign flavor. Puddings, cakes, bread, meats, etc., are always light, fresh and free from mixed odors or flavors.

In the Pandora range you get all that scientific study, practical experience, skilled workmanship and an immense and finely equipped plant combined, can produce—the highest possible attainment in range perfection.

Ask your local dealer to show you the Pandora range, or write to us for free catalogue before buying any other.

City Rugby League Has Been Organized

Officers Elected at an Enthusiastic Meeting Last Night--Prospects are Bright For a Successful Season.

A City Rugby League with very bright prospects was organized last night at an enthusiastic meeting at Mac's cigar store. Three teams were represented at the meeting and from present indications the league will be composed of three or four strong teams, who will furnish an interesting struggle for the championship trophy. The stand towards City Leagues adopted by the O. R. F. U. at their meeting on Tuesday night has proved a decided encouragement to such organizations. The proposal is that the winners of the leagues in Peterborough, Toronto, Hamilton and Kingston, should play off at thee end of the season for a trophy donated by the H. H. Love Co., Toronto. The teams in the Peterborough League will thus have two cups to play for as another trophy has been offered by a local gentleman.

The representatives present were:—P. Fitzgerald and J. E. Sullivan, of the Quakers, Ed. Wood, of the Crescents and Ernie Ford, of the C. G. E. team.

Mr. Ford occupied the chair and the only business of importance taken up was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—

Hon. President—T. W. McDonough.
President—W. McIlroy.
Vice-President—R. F. McWilliams.
Secretary-Treasurer — F. D. Craig.

It was decided that the Executive should be composed of a representative from each club in the league, to be selected by his club.

The meeting decided to hold another meeting on Tuesday night next at Mac's cigar store. At this meeting the schedule for the season will be drawn up so that it is important that all teams intending to enter should be represented upon that occasion. It is desired that the league should open a week from Saturday, when the seniors will be playing in Toronto.

It should be understood that while there is no age limit provision, the League decided that no O.R.F.U. players, no matter what series, will be illegible to play in the City League. The object aimed at is to encourage the younger, and inexperienced players to get into the game, which they certainly would not do if they had to stack up against the seasoned senior players.

W. McILROY
Who Was Elected President of the City Rugby League Last Night.

The prospects before the league are of the brightest and some lively rugby may be expected when the season opens. If it is as successful in developing material as was the league some years ago, its promoters will be thoroughly satisfied that their efforts have been entirely successful.

International Hockey League Again In Line

The Old Circuit Will Stick, Canadian Soo and All--Worrying Over Proposal to Form Pro. League in Ontario.

Detroit, Sept. 19.—The International Hockey League met at the Cadillac Hotel last evening, attended by President A. L. Ferguson of the Michigan Soo; John G. McNamara of Portage Lake; D. J. McSwigan, Pittsburg, and Capt. Thos. Houston of Calumet. The situation for the coming winter was talked over and plans laid for the furtherment of the league's interests.

Old Circuit.

All of the teams that were in the league last year will stick as they made money in spite of the long jumps. They will be Calumet, Portage Lake, Michigan and Canadian Soo, and Pittsburg, with a possibility of St. Paul, Detroit and Chicago.

The international has been desirous of getting Detroit capital interested since the organization of the league a couple of years ago, and a place has been left open.

Rumors Worry.

The international is worried over rumors of the organization of a professional hockey league in Canada. Several of the eastern cities, Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec, and Toronto, have been urging the matter, but there is little to be feared from this quarter. The Ontario Hockey Association is too strong at the present time to tolerate the professionalizing of the game in Canada, and the amateur brand, as furnished in Canada is fast enough.

Amateurs Paid.

Then, besides, the best amateurs get as much on the side as perhaps do the professionals, as shown by the fact that many of the best Canadians cannot be attracted by offers of the international. The players look askance at the professionalizing of the game, which would unionize matters to a certain extent, and in the end minimize salaries.

Harold Armstrong Will Likely Be On Ottawa Team

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 19.— Harold Armstrong, star cover point of the Smith's Falls Federal League champions is in the city on his way westward. Should the inducements of western country no prove sufficiently alluring he will return to Ontario. He expects to be transferred to Ottawa in which case he will figure on the line-up of the former Stanley Cup holders this coming season.

Victorias Out Of Senior Hockey

Fast Montreal Team Will Drop Back This Season.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—The Victoria Hockey Club is likely to drop out of the senior league. This was the gist of a statement made this morning by Russell Bowie, captain of the team for the past few years.

"If I can manage it, the Victorias will not remain in the league," said Mr. Bowie. "The game will be professional next winter," he continued, "and Blair Russell and the other members of the Victoria team will not play unless they compete with amateurs. Most of our fellows paddle, play golf, and engage in other summer sports, and they would be debarred from those if they played in a professional or semi-professional league. For myself, I would not play in any event."

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 20.—The stock market was heavy this morning in the early operations, having to meet further liquidation and quite a number of stop orders were caught. The result was a check. Large buying orders were sent in to the market under it and the shorts covered, meeting but little stock on the way up, the scale down absorption yesterday having removed the obstruction after the distributative weight of stocks.

Gold imports to the amount of $2,500,000 were announced and call money loaned as low as 3 p c. Southern Pac. was the leader in the afternoon, making a new high but the general list acted first class. We recommend the purchase of Atchison, Copper and Car Foundry. The close was strong at the best of the day.

No Doubt About Nelson's Foul

It Shows Plainly in the Moving Pictures.

A number of the rounds of the Gans-Nelson championship fight were reproduced in moving picture form at the Colonial Theatre, San Francisco, on Saturday night for the benefit of the press representatives and friends of the stockholders in the venture. In all about a dozen rounds were shown. The forty-second round, which is the concluding one of the bout, was thrown upon the screen twice, as some of the sports present had an argument as to the palpability of the foul blow which cost Nelson the decision. At the second showing of the round, several who were in doubt as to the extent of Nelson's offence, admitted that there could be no mistake about the punch which disabled Gans.

RUGBY.

The Toronto News last night said:—Peterborough will probably have a junior team in the Union in addition to the seniors, who should be heard from this season.

• • • •

The Quaker rugby team will practise for the first time on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 at Nicholls Oval. The following are requested to appear in uniform:—Fitzgerald, McCullough, Sullivan, Moher, Kelly, Craig, Sisson, Collins, Quinlan, Clark, Moore, Little, MacRae, Hutchinson, Huston, Best, Parnell, Canniff, Bolin, Latimer, H. Roddy, Carmichael, Walker.

FOOTBALL

It is yet uncertain whether there will be three or four teams play for the R. R. Hall trophy at the Exhibition for the county championship. Bridgenorth are making final arrangements to-day with the secretary and it is altogether probable they will enter.

Lakehurst wrote for particulars, but have not finally notified the secretary as to their intentions.

The C. G. E. team intend practising this evening and from reports they have a pretty fast aggregation.

The games will be played on Wednesday afternoon, (the last day of the fair.)

The Hall trophy will be on exhibition in Gibson's window on Saturday.

• • • •

Mr. Earnest Brumwell, of the Bridgenorth team, was in the city this afternoon and officially notified Secretary F. J. A. Hall, of their intention to have a try for the Hall trophy.

NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED

Excesses and indiscretions are the cause of more sorrow and suffering than all other diseases combined. We see the victims of vicious habits on every hand; the sallow, pimpled face, dark circled eyes, stooping form, stunted development, bashful, melancholic countenance and timid bearing proclaim to all the world his folly and tend to blight his existence. Our treatment positively cures all weak men by overcoming and removing the effects of former indiscretions and excesses. It stops all losses and drains and quickly restores the patient to what nature intended—a healthy and happy man with physical, mental and nerve powers complete.

Privileges Of Doctors Before Court Of Appeal

Argument at Osgoode Hall in Which the Christian Science and Osteopath Methods of Treatment are Referred to.

An interesting debate on the privileges of doctors, is now before the Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall. The debate is the more interesting from a local standpoint in view of the Randlett inquest held here a couple of weeks ago.

The Toronto Telegram, in referring to the matter, says:

When the Ontario Medical Act says that no one but a licensed practitioner shall practise medicine, does it mean that the healing art shall not be practised, except by the licensed, or merely that no one except the licensed, shall prescribe and administer drugs?

This, in effect, is the question propounded to the Court of Appeal. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., and H. S. Osler appeared for the College of Physicians and Surgeons, S. H. Blake, K. C., and J. E. Day, appeared for the Osteopaths, and H. Cassels, K. C., and R. S. Cassels appear on behalf of the First Church of Christian Science.

Mr. Osler spoke of neuro-dynamic medicines and pneumatic medicines. These involve the use of heat and cold and of rarefied and compressed air respectively. In the hands of an ignorant person it was conceivable that the application of heat or cold might produce disastrous results, where the application of heat and cold by a practised hand would be of great benefit. With the regular practitioner the public has this protection that these remedies are applied with knowledge. One might do an immense amount of harm by the ignorant application of electricity, water cure, or a hundred other things.

Not Practice of Medicine.

Mr. Justice Meredith remarked that in a Rhode Island decision the practice of Christian Science had been held to be not the practice of medicine. He suggested that the Ontario Medical Act was an Act to establish a close corporation.

Mr. Osler rebutted this.

"I submit it is not an act to establish a close corporation; if it can be said with any right that the Solicitor's Act is to protect the public, ten thousand times more it can be said that the Medical Act is to protect the lives and health of the public against the practice on their bodies of ignorant men for the purpose of gain."

No Public Demand.

S. H. Blake, K. C., for the osteopaths, suggested that the public had not demanded the act and that the public did not ask for what is now demanded of the court.

"Either the finding of their Lordships will be useless as being too general when a concrete case comes up, or it will be used unfairly when this concrete case comes up. It will be said that the highest court in the land decided this or that, and it will be binding.

"I walk to the office;" suggested the veteran K. C., "I slip upon a banana and hurt my ankle. Close by there is a reputable masseur, and I go to him to have my ankle rubbed. That man is liable to be put in the dock. Or I play golf—I swing my club, I injure my arm, and I go to an osteopath to straighten it out, and he may be put in the dock."

Privileges They Were Denied.

Mr. Blake grew sarcastic in painting the privileges which were denied to masseurs and osteopaths.

"They have not the opportunity of cutting into you and taking out the wrong kidney; they have not the opportunity of cutting into your stomach and leaving pinchers and tweezers to be found there two years after. They are deprived of these privileges and they want to keep deprived, but they were doing their best in their poor way."

Mr. Blake pointed out that there were over two thousand osteopaths in the United States. He inveighed against the prescribing of drugs and violent torments, and pills like small cannon balls — almost hourly medicines."

The osteopaths were ready to go to the Legislature, and to submit to an act which would be reasonable, and which would admit them to examination. Mr. Blake went back to the reign of Henry VIII. to get some of the close corporation legislation in favour of the doctors.

Any Alleviation.

The counsel for the Council of Physicians and Surgeons had declared continued Mr. Blake, that to alleviate pain in any way was to practice medicine. A patient would have to go to a medical man and pay him five dollars for his opinion before he could enjoy the services of a masseur. The Legislature was not dealing in the act with matters touched by osteopaths and masseurs. So they were outside the act altogether. He asked for the same freedom in the future as in the past. The public should not have to pay tribute of five dollars every week or ten days to the medical profession before they can call in a masseur. Mr. Blake had not heard that the osteopaths had been asked to place themselves with the homeopaths and join the medical men in purging the profession. He had no doubt that if such a plan was suggested there would be a reasonable meeting.

Osteopathy Defined.

Hamilton Cassels, K.C., appeared for the Christian Scientists, and was asked by Mr. Justice Garrow for a definition of osteopathy. He read from a calf back tome to the effect that "osteopathy is a method of treating disease by manipulation to restore nerve control."

"It is an extension of what we do in the morning when we feel a chill after the cold tub—we rub the body," he explained.

He informed Mr. Justice Garrow that the methods of the osteopaths were not taught in medical schools.

Mr. Cassels was asked by the Chief Justice what he understood by medicine.

"Anything which cures," he replied. "Your Lordships know that many people have been cured by bread-pills administered by reputable physicians. Anything taken to effect a cure is medicine—it might be water—it might be hot water, or cold water, or luke-warm water."

"Taken internally or outwardly?" suggested the Chief Justice.

"Yes."

"Breathing is medicine?" queried the Chief Justice.

"Yes; we have authorities to prove that life has been restored by breathing into the body."

Hastings A City Of Lost Opportunities

An American Tourist Expresses the Opinion that the Town Has Some Possibilities—Its Natural Advantages.

Mr and Mrs. George W. Strell, of Chicago, Ill., who have been spending a fortnight in and around Hastings, left last Tuesday for a trip down the St. Lawrence and among the Thousand Islands. Mr Strell, who is the editor and manager of the American Field when asked what he thought of Hastings, stated that "it is a delightful place for a sportsman to come to, as the lunge and bass fishing in the Trent River and tributary waters is excellent, and hotel accommodations good; but the town as it is, reminded him of the City of Lost Opportunities. With the great natural advantages Hastings possessed in its water power he was surprised beyond measure at the apparent apathy of its citizens in not arousing civic pride to the point of offering manufacturers a bonus of some kind to locate their plants in Hastings. He did not wonder, after noting how little is done to boom Hastings, that its young men of energy and ambition sought other fields in which to fight the battle of life. It would be an easy matter to establish industries that would bring to Hastings a hundred thousand and more dollars a year."—Star.

"Overseas" Mail At The Last Stage Of Trip

Kenora Was Reached Yesterday After Delightful Run Across The Broad Fields of the West—Only Twenty Minutes Stop in Winnipeg.

Examiner Special

Kenora, Ont., September 19. — Within 48 hours from the Mountains of British Columbia, the cattle ranches of Alberta, and the broad wheat belts of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, have been travelled by the Overseas Mail, a distance of over 1600 miles, and now in this Ontario town, the train, which is a great factor in bringing London and Hong Kong nearer together, is ready to pull out on schedule time.

The fact that this magnificent train has made the continuous run, is in itself a tribute to the management of the C. P. R., for its speeding has not disturbed the ordinary business of the road.

A more glorious September day than this could scarcely have been imagined, a fairer one could not be desired. The sun shone brightly and generally, and was only obscured at times by the smoke of the scores of steam threshers, which were making ready for market the golden grain of the Canadian West.

Winnipeg was reached at 4.20, and 30 minutes later the Overseas Mail sped across the Red River of the North, through the great province of Ontario, through which its course lies until the Banks of the St. Lawrence are neared.

There were quite a number of people to greet the arrival of the train at Winnipeg, as there have been at different points along the line at which stops were made.

Smith Farmer Met Death In A Field

Mr. I. C. Manning, one of Most Prominent Residents of Smith Township Fatally Injured by Runaway Team and Corn Cutter—Deceased Was Brother of Dr. W. H. Manning, of this City—Was a Prosperous Farmer—Accident Occurred on Farm of John Northey.

Examiner Special

Lakefield, September 21st. — A shocking and, unfortunately, fatal, accident, occurred yesterday on the farm of Mr. John Northey, near Selwyn, when Mr. J. C. Manning, one of the most prosperous and well-known residents of the township of Smith, was so seriously injured that death resulted a few hours later.

Mr. Manning was at his friend's farm for the purpose of helping him with his work, and was at the time of the accident driving a corn cutter.

The machine was his own, and he was at Mr. Northey's for the day, cutting the latter's corn, since comparatively few farmers own machinery for this work.

The reins on the harness became entangled on the end of the pole, and Mr. Manning went to the horses' heads to release it, when they became frightened, and bolted, throwing Mr. Manning under their feet, and dragging him some distance, before they could be stopped.

When they were finally captured, it was found that the unfortunate man's face had been battered and cut until it was almost unrecognizable. He was seen to be very badly injured, and three doctors were called, Dr. Greer of Peterborough, and Doctors Baker and Burgess, of this village.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon, after he had been taken to his home, it was decided to perform an operation on the skull, which was fractured, and to, if possible, save his life, by removing the pressure on the brain, but he died while the operation was being performed.

The late Mr. Manning was 54 years of age. He had been a resident of the tonwship for a great many years, and was looked upon as one of the most prosperous and progressive farmers in the county. His barns were recognized as being among the finest in the township. He leaves a widow and one son.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon to the Lakefield cemetery.

The late Mr. Manning was quite well known in Peterborough, where he frequently visited. He was a brother of Dr. W. H. Manning of this city, and leaves three other brothers, W. C., Samuel and Sidney, living in the United States. Two sisters, Mrs. John Markham, of Canton; and Mrs. Jas. Bell, of Selwyn, also survive.

The first intimation Dr. Manning had of the accident to his brother was when Mr. Northey telephoned to him yesterday afternoon. He stated that while he was suffering severely, Mr. Manning was able with his ribs broken, and his head fractured, to walk, assisted by Mr. Northey to his home.

Messrs. Ed. and George Manning of this city, are nephews of the deceased.

Hard Operation Was Performed

Inserted Tube in Horse's Throat To Permit Breathing.

A Millbrook veterinary surgeon performed a very skilful operation recently on a horse belonging to Mr. George McDonald, Clarke. The animal was almost choking, the diaphram being closed with a disease of a diphtheretic nature. The operation is called tracheotomy, and consisted in cutting into the windpipe, and inserting a tube to enable the horse to breathe. This tube was left in for a week, to breathe through and in the end the animal fully recovered.

Special Session Of The County Council

Petition for the Early Completion of the Trent Canal Will be Considered—Evans Bridge in Dangerous Condition.

The County Council met in special session this morning, the chief item of business being to consider the applications for the superintendency of the House of Refuge, and the appointment of a matron. This question, however, was not taken up at this morning's session, which adjourned until the afternoon.

Only two matters of business arose, that of the state of Evans' bridge, and a petition for the early completion of the Trent canal.

Those present—were Warden Johnston, and Councillors Webster, Buck, Andrews, Stinson, Moloney, Garbutt, Shaw, Monogue and Carey.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the clerk and adopted.

A petition to the Minister of Railways and Canals for the early completion of the Trent Canal, was read by the Warden, similar to that presented by the Peterborough Board of Trade, and published on Wednesday.

It was moved and seconded that the petition be considered by the Committee on Petitions.—Carried.

Evan's Bridge.

A letter was read from W. D. Robertson, respecting the dangerous condition of the Evans' Bridge. He had to draw milk over it every day, he said, and was afraid some damage would be done were it not fixed; he asked that the council see that it is repaired. He also wanted to know whether a person travelling across does so at his own risk, as the notice states. It appears that the east side is a little lower than the west, which is the cause of the trouble.

According to the contract with the Hamilton Bridge Works, the superstructures should have been here for both the Evans and Keene bridges by September 15th. The steel work has not yet been received.

The county clerk communicated with the company by telephone this morning and learned that it would be shipped in about three weeks. The cause of the delay the company stated, was their inability to obtain the length of the Keene bridge soon enough, and that they wanted to ship the superstructures for both at the same time. They had received a letter from County Engineer Belcher to delay the work until revised measurements for the Keene structure were given, and this they said, was the cause of the delay.

The question arose whether the contractor, Mr. Conroy, or the Hamilton Bridge Works, was responsible for the condition the bridge was in.

Moved by Councillor Garbutt and Carey, that the question be laid over until the solicitor look into the matter as to whom is responsible for the condition of the bridge.

The council then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

Animals Seek Shade From The Intense Heat

Number of Cattle Lost in Woods in Burleigh—Sheep Buyer Has to Wait for Rain to Bring His Flock to the City.

Some trouble has been experienced by local cattle and sheep buyers in bringing their herds and flocks from the back country to the city. The heat has been a considerable drawback and some animals have lost their lives.

Mr. Robert Howden and son began last Monday to bring down 75 or more cattle from Apsley and vicinity, and have not yet reached here. Some twenty-five or more disappeared in the woods on the Burleigh Road, and it is believed that some of these have not been recovered, and at least one of the herd has died from the intense heat.

About three hundred lambs were being brought down from Burleigh for Mr. John Mervin, and it was found impossible to reach the city with them. They are now in Smith township, near Lakefield, and the owner states that he will have to wait for rain before concluding the journey. The heat compels the animals to lie down under every shade tree they come to and it is a difficult matter to get them to their feet again.

Johnston Youth Seriously Injured

Fell Off Farmer's Wagon on McDonnel Street

This afternoon about two o'clock the young son of Mr. A. Johnston, the proprietor of the Little Windsor Hotel, met with a painful accident. He was on a farmer's wagon, the team attached to which ran away, and tore up Water street with the boy holding on to the bottom board. He was able to maintain his hold to the board until he crossed George street on McDonel street, when he fell off, and suffered some serious injuries. He was taken to Dr. Carmichael's office where it was found that he was bruised considerably, but no bones were broken.

Market At Top Of The Season

But Demand For Cheese Shows Slight Falling Off

The Montreal Star, on the cheese situation, says:

There is little or no change in the price of cheese to-day. Demand shows a slight falling off, though there is still a moderate amount of trading going on. Dealers generally anticipate continued firmness, and holders are demanding top figures. The market is now at the highest point of the season, and, based on present cost in the country, dealers cannot sell current receipts at less than to-day's quotations here without losing money. Quebec makes are quoted at 12 7-8c., this being about the best obtainable, although a fraction more has been realized for the finest during the past few days. Townships are still quoted at 13 1-8c., Ontarios at 13 1-4 to 13 3-8, best qualities being obtainable at the latter figures.

Receipts boarded on the Board of Trade this morning amounted to 11,714 boxes.

StopsHeadache

Zutoo, the Japanese headache cure, is a friend in need.

Don't without a trial, condemn it as something that will hurt you.

Taken when you suspect a headache, it will ward it off. Taken later it will cure the headache in twenty minute . In every case it will leave you feeling good. It is harmless as the soda which is one of its ingredients.

If it does not do all that is claimed for it, then discard it. But don't confound it with the drug cures and condemn it without a trial. That isn't fair to PAYING DEAR FOR THE WHISTLE.

The Manufacturers' Association, at Winnipeg, pronounced strongly in favour of technical training. Yet by spending $20,0000 to $25,000, to equip a ward school with an accommodation in excess of school needs to meet the wants of a Normal School, we are face to face with a $40,000 Collegiate Institute. It stands to reason that that sum will not provide a Collegiate Institute, such as Peterborough requires, that its equipment will have to be curtailed, and that there is an almost certainty that facilities for manual training, like what an industrial centre like Peterborough demands may be sacrificed. A Normal School is a great boon to the city, but the School Board, in very properly providing the public school accommodation, stipulated for a Normal School, did not anticipate that such a mistake in the selection of a site would be made as to involve an expenditure that exhaustively milks the resources for building and properly equipping a Collegiate Institute. The whistle is good, but there is such a thing as paying too dear for the whistle.

OVERDRAWN.

The Calgary Albertan, in its last issue, makes this overdrawn statement:—"The time for the Western cities and Provinces to invade the Eastern Provinces has arrived. From every quarter in the East comes the news that the people of Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are preparing to resist the emigration from the East into the West. The newspapers have decided to publish no more news about the great and glorious West, the politicians are endeavouring to head off the outward trek, an effort is be made to handicap the Canadian Pacific in securing harvesters to assist in garnering the rich crops of the West. These agencies may retard the outward march of the best and brightest, but they can no more dam it back than the broom of King Canute. And they should not undertake it. We need Canadians in this country to act as a leaven to the host of people who are coming in here from abroad. We must have them." This is as much over-drawn as a Mail and Empire political statement in regard to its opponents. There is no concerted understanding to antagonize the interests of the West. As the Albertan says the West needs population and the same is true, to, perhaps, a lesser extent, of Eastern Canada, and the drain upon our population by the West is a serious matter for us and creates a feeling of concern as to the futuure. We in the East are placed in the difficult position of trying to have our cake and eat it. We want to see the West built up for more reasons than one, patriotism makes us solicitous for the good name and progress of the West, while at the same time patriotism demands that we should be solicitious for the good name and progress of our section of the Dominion. Besides it is our interest to see the West go forward. At present, and for many years to come the energies of the West are, and will be, devoted almost exclusively to cultivation of the soil; that too will be prominently the function of older Canada, but we are, and shall be, very largely interested in industrial production. It is to our interest therefore to build up the Western market. While we should all rejoice in seeing the countless acres of the West peopled and brought into productive condition, we also wish to see the East flourish. The situation is a difficult one and much patience and mutual forbearance are called for There must be no sectional antagonism—the moral of the fable referring to the relation of the several members of the body is an apt one. We have willingly lent the leaven of the best of our population to modify and mould the character of the new population element of the West, but there is a limit to our capacity in this regard. We wish to see the West populated, but we object to having the East depopulated to attain this desideratum. A father may most willingly do all he can to assist his sons in setting up themselves in life, but it would be too much to expect that he would pauperize himself in the process.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Manufacturers' Association at Winnipeg complain that skilled labour is scarce. Under the Conservative regime skilled labour was kept busy looking for a job.

Some ladies will be inclined to think that fear of competition has influenced the Methodist General Conference in denying women admission to the higher courts of the church, and this denial of admission is in itself an eloquent admission.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association meeting in Winnipeg, has a fine opportunity of a wide outlook in the West. It seems that they feel inclined to see in the West, not a wide field for the growth of wheat, but a wide field for the growth of high taxation.

The Methodist ministers in the General Conference are taking a leaf out of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's book. Speaking in Peterborough during a general election campaign Sir Wilfrid said that under the Liberals there was no need of padded statistics, to show that the people were prosperous — they could find the proof in their pockets. The ministers killed Dr. Sutherland's motion for a commission to find out if ministers' salaries were inadequate — their pockets told them that salaries were too small.

Ruffians Chasing Young Ladies

Several Men in a Buggy Scare Unprotected Women After Dark.

Reports are coming from different parts of the city of the ruffianly conduct of several young men who drive around the outlying parts of the city frightening young ladies. On Wednesday evening, as a young girl was walking along Sherbrooke street, a buggy containing three young men drove to the edge of the pavement in a dark part of the street. One of them alighted and deliberately chased the girl, who, very much frightened, died as fast as she could. As her home was near by, she fortunately escaped anything more serious than a fright.

Last evening a similar occurrence happened a few streets farther south, only there were two men instead of three. It is high time something was done to prevent such actions being repeated. The trees shut out the light from the lamps in many places, leaving the pavements shrouded in a dense gloom, and thus providing an excellent spot for lawless persons to annoy respectable citizens.

Thresher And Farmer Differ

Dispute Arises Which is Settled in Division Court.

A case of considerable interest came up before Magistrate Edmison yesterday at the Division Court, Lakefield. It was a dispute between William Reid, a thresher from Otonabee, and Andrew Johnston, a Smith farmer.

Reid, it appears, set his mill at the other's barn on a Friday, for a day's threshing, of a little more. The machine broke down, and the work was not concluded until the following Tuesday.

Reid claimed $17, for the work, but Johnston, the defendant in the case, would only allow him $12, claiming that he had been put to a great deal of expense by the plaintiff remaining longer than the time required to do the job.

The Magistrate ordered that the farmer pay the thresher the $17, but that the latter return the expenses occasioned by the delay, thus making the case the same as if Mr. Reid had accepted the $12.

The Magistrate also dealt with six or seven other cases, all of which only consumed a couple of hours. He returned on the evening train.

Steamers Engaged in Towing Grain and Lumber to the City

Although the passenger traffic on the river is practically over except for those who bring market produce to the city, the boats are busy towing lumber and grain from Stony and Rice Lakes.

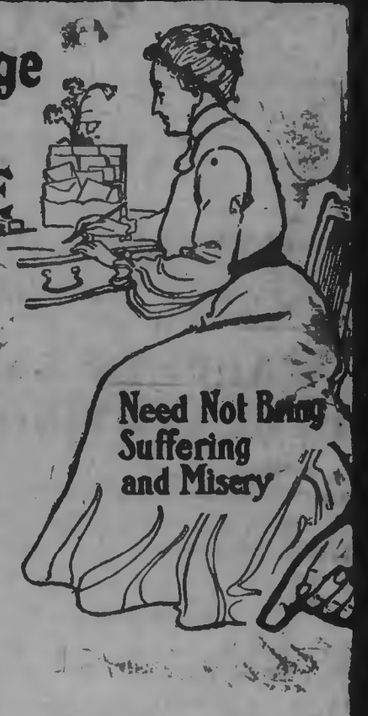
The steamer Beaver brought a scow load of lumber from Gilchrist Bay, Stony Lake, on Saturday last. There was 130,000 feet all told, for the Peterborough Canoe Company. The Beaver has several other trips up the lakes in the near future. She has several scow loads of hardwood to tow from Sandy Point for Mr. Austin Dunn.

The steamer Water Lily arrived at the Wolfe street wharf early this morning from Harwood with a scow load of grain for Mr. Houdrey, the local grain merchant. There were also a number of bags of potatoes for Mr. Geo. Mather.

The captains of both vessels report a busy fall season.

George Ward, an incorrigible boy of 16, was sent to penitentiary for three years at London recently.

Change of LIFE



Need Not Bring Suffering and Misery

This perfectly natural change in a woman's life is too often accompanied by painful, distressing symptoms due to female troubles and slight irregularities in her delicate organism.

The woman who passes this change without the development of tumors, cancers, or chronic invalidism enters a new field of happiness and usefulness in the domestic circle and in social activity. Her physical system should receive the necessary assistance at this critical period.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

is exactly suited to woman's needs at this time. It strengthens and cures all derangements of the female organism, it overcomes the hot flashes and dizzy fainting spells, and all other distressing symptoms.

Woman's Friend During Change of Life

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I owe my splendid health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am the mother of three children, have safely passed the change of life, and feel as young and strong as I did twenty years ago, and this is all due to your friend of women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it before my children were born, and it greatly assisted nature and saved me much pain, and during change of life I took it off and on for four years, and had but little trouble and sickness such as most women have to endure. MRS. JAMES K. MANN, 806 Bathhurst Street, Toronto, Canada.

The whole secret of safety at this time of life is thorough preparation before the change begins. Fortify the system with a course of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This wonderful medicine has carried thousands of women through this danger period.

No such helpful advice to women who are sick can be had anywhere as will be received free by addressing Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Pinkham is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cures Where Others Fail

Wrong Man Was Summoned

Earle Downey Allowed to go on Suspended Sentence.

There were only two cases considered by the Police Magistrate this morning. Jno. Powers, an old man, and Earle Downey, a youth, sat together in the box.

On Suspended Sentence.

It will be remembered that Downey was the boy who committed the theft of $12 from John Sullivan last month in a local hotel yard, according to the statements of his associates. The others received a share of the money the next morning, and three of them since made up over $18 to make restitution and pay expenses and were allowed to go.

Downey elected this morning to be tried summarily, and pleaded guilty. He stated that he had given the others $1 each, but that a number of them took a trip to Detroit and spent the rest.

The Magistrate assessed him $5 and allowed him to go on suspended sentence, giving him one more chance and some good advice.

For Vagrancy.

Jno. Powers was charged with vagrancy. In a sorrowful manner he explained that he had no home and did not want to sleep out at nights any more. He was glad to hear the sentence passed—three months in the County Jail.

"If you give me permission, I'll go up myself," he remarked.

The court trusted him; he got his committal, and went.

Something in a Name.

A man by the name of McGregor was charged by an East City resident with letting his cow run at large and destroying his cabbage.

"There must be some mistake," said the accused. "I haven't got a cow, nor have I any place to keep one."

The plaintiff stated that he had made a mistake in the name, so that the case will again come before the Magistrate to-morrow morning, when the rightful owner of the cow will probably be present.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

—The Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council will meet to-night at 7.30 o'clock to discuss the problem of endeavouring to have the C. P. R. short line touch Peterborough.

Railway Gate Smashed.

During a rather brisk moment of street car traffic last night a car collided with and broke the nose off the south wing of the east gate at the Charlotte street crossing. The gate was down at the time.

Isolation Hospital.

—Belleville is to have an isolation hospital, the site chosen being on the Bay of Quinte, about 200 yards from the General Hospital. There will be separate buildings for scarlet fever and diphtheria patients.

Music Has Charms.

If you want to be charmed, call and see everything in the music line. Pianos, organs, violins, mandolins, guitars, brass instruments, sheet music, etc., at J. M. Greene Music Company, new Opera House Block. 3d67

At Home.

—The Ladies' Aid Society, of the St. Andrew's church, will give an "At Home" in the St. Andrew's Hall, to the members of the congregation on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 2nd, from 8 to 10. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Anniversary of the Alma.

—The local survivors of the Crimean war are reminding their friends that fifty-two years ago yesterday they were participants in the great battle of the Alma, which was fought in the Crimea, September 20th, 1854.

Buy Rathbun Limits.

—The Gull River Lumber Company have recently purchased the Rathbun timber limits in the townships of Sherborne and Stanhope, comprising over seventy square miles on which there is still a very large quantity of valuable timber.

New Factory Progresses.

—Messrs. Finlay & Son are making good progress in the erection of their new factory. If the fine weather continues they will have the walls completed this week and next week will see the whole structure roofed in. —Norwood Register.

Shipping Cheese.

—Mr. J. L. Squire made two shipments of cheese on Tuesday—one from Campbellford, being the make of five factories in that locality, and the other from Havelock including the output of three factories in that vicinity.—Norwood Register.

Special!

We have a lot of extra fancy, large peaches to arrive to-morrow morning. These are the same variety and from the same orchard as the carload which we sold last season and for which there was such a demand. S. A. OKE, 376 George street. Bell 'phones 18 and 30; Machine 'phone 18.

Special Services.

—Special services will be held in Murray Street Baptist Church to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for all the young people between the ages of seven and seventeen. The service will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. F. J. Scott.

Pictures! Pictures!

This week a rare opportunity will be afforded those who are watching for new pictures to decorate their rooms. The Peterborough Bookstore is offering about one hundred framed pictures at 20 per cent. reduction off regular price. Come early and pick your favourites. A. H. Stratton & Co.

No Quorum.

—A meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee was called for last night but only Chairman McWilliams and Ald. McIntyre were present. The meeting was of course postponed. A future meeting will probably be held in the afternoon so that members will be given an opportunity to attend.

A Good Investment.

—In the "For Sale" column of the Examiner, will be found an advertisement of John T. Smith, 368 Water street, who is offering for sale his billiard and pool room, and bowling alleys. This business has been a money maker and its being bought at the present time looks to be an exceptionally good proposition. 3d68

Bible Study Rally.

—Miss Little, travelling secretary for the Y.W.C.A. will speak on Bible Study at the Y.W.C.A. rooms on Sunday afternoon at 4.15. Miss Little will also speak on Tuesday evening next at the Sponge-cake Social which will commence at 7.30. Music and refreshments will be provided for the Tuesday evening meeting. The new physical director will also be present and the officers will be glad to welcome all young women to both of these meetings. 2d Got a Good Start.

—I have to thank my friends for the good start they gave me at the opening of my new, grocery store. Business has been humming every day since. New goods are being opened up of the very highest qualities in groceries, provisions, fruit, vegetables, etc. Remember the place —corner of McDonel and Aylmer streets. Telephone 483. Andrew Graham.

All About a Well.

—Mr. George Hurst of Bancroft, has entered an action for damages against Mr. James Best of that village. The plaintiff was given a contract by the village council to sink a well on Hastings street. After a couple of unsuccessful attempts to get good water the well was located in front of Mr. Best's property. Mr. Best objected and interfered with the work. The case was tried before a local magistrate, who submitted the evidence to the Crown Attorney.—Tweed News.

Clearing Sale of Books.

One of the results of the early planning for Christmas at the Peterborough Bookstore is the discovery that our stock of books is too large. To economize room, it has been decided to reduce our book stock at once, and with this end in view a clearing sale has begun that should leave no doubt about a speedy thinning-out. We invite all book-lovers to avail themselves of this book sale, as there will be many rare snaps not often offered.

A. H. STRATTON & CO.

Is Suspected Of Committing Many Thefts

Frank Anglesey Arrested on Serious Charges.

Frank Anglesey, a young agent of the Metropolitan Life Assurance Company, is a prisoner at the police station on serious charges.

He was arrested this morning by P. C. Newhall and will have to face many charges of theft. The articles which he is alleged to have stolen, include articles of clothing, such as hats, braces, coats, trousers, vests, etc., a brush and comb, and a gold watch.

For some time these articles have been missed from the Laroque House, Cavanagh House and American Hotel. A week ago last Saturday a gold watch was taken from Wm. Griffin at the Cavanagh House, and at the same time $140 was stolen from Richard Baker and $60 from Chas. Cavanagh, son of the proprietor. These articles were in the rooms of their owners on the second story. The money was taken from the pockets of clothes which were hanging up. Griffin also lost a comb and brush which were initialed, and which were found with the prisoner.

From the Laroque House on Monday a hat and other articles of clothes and a dress suit case were taken and this week also a quantity of clothes was taken from the American Hotel.

Some of the articles alleged to have been stolen by Angelsey, are at the police station, and include a dress suit case full of clothes, a number of hats and other articles.

Angelsey is said to have owed board in several places and this afternoon Bailiff Leplante served papers on him at the police station in this connection.

New Issue Of Picture Post Cards

The Peterborough Bookstore Places an Order for 100,000 Copies.

Messrs. A. H. Stratton & Co. have contracted with their manufactures' agents for 100,000 Picture Post Cards, representing residence views of Peterborough, and guaranteed true to nature from original photographs. This is the largest special order of a similar nature given by any single house in Canada. Mr. Stratton's jobbing and retail trade in these lines have grown to such a phenomenal extent that the placing of this formidable order has been found justified. The contract for the issue of the cards calls for the work being executed as quickly as the new photographs and cuts can be secured.

Will Inspect New Arc Lamp

Fire Water and Light Committee Will Meet To-night.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council will meet to-night at 8.30 o'clock at the old power house of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, to inspect the new arc lamp which the company wishes to instal in Peterborough. Ald. Adams, chairman of the committee, to The Examiner, said that he did not think that either the committee or Council would agree to the change unless some considerations are offered which are not now in sight.

A Bible Study Sermon Sunday

Rev. A. H. Brace Will Preach Special Sermon

Spirit Of the Harvest Everywhere Displayed

St. Luke's Harvest Festival Took Place Last Night—Intensely Patriotic Discourse by Rev. Canon Cody, of St. Paul's, Toronto.

Once more the joy of Harvest
The hearts of men doth cheer;
The reapers' task is finished
In cornfields far and near:
And now to God our Maker
We joyfully will raise,
For His abundant mercy,
A song of grateful praise.

The spirit of the harvest was truly in the harvest festival celebrated at St. Luke's Church last night. The products of the field were displayed on every hand, even the entrance playing a prominent part in the decoration scheme. Fruit, flowers and grain, everywhere tastefully arranged, showed that the harvest time, the period of rejoicing, was at hand, and that the people of St. Luke's recognized the duty of thanksgiving and praise for the blessings so bountifully bestowed during the past year.

The special preacher was Rev. Canon Cody, of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, and Professor of Dogmatic Theology in Wycliffe College, and his subject, "A Nation in the Making," was thoroughly in accordance with the spirit of such an occasion. It was an intensely patriotic discourse, large with Canadian ideals and enthusiasm and which stirred the hearts of all who listened to the eloquent speaker.

The music became a festive occasion of the kind, expressed praise and thanksgiving. The choir sang Sidney Marks' "Magnificat" and "Nuno Dimittis" in splendid manner. Miss Ruth Dawson's sweet soprano voice was displayed to wonderful advantage in the solo, "After the Harvest."

The visiting clergymen who took part in the service were the Venerable Archdeacon Warren, of Lakefield; Rev. Canon Davidson of St. John's; Rev. Wm. Major, of All Saints, and Rev. E. W. Pickford, of Christ Church, Norwood.

Rev. Canon Cody, chose as the foundation of his sermon the text from Deuteronomy VI., 12,—"Then beware, lest thou forget the Lord, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage." These words were addressed by Moses, the law-giver, to the nation at large. In the ancient days the individual was scarcely ever recognized. He was looked upon merely as a member of a family, of a tribe, of a nation. The rights and duties of a person belonged to him as he was related to the national ideas. The message of hope was given to Judea rather than to single Jews. Even in the Psalms, the psalmist was considered the mouthpiece of the nation.

Going on to speak of the importance of a national thanksgiving, Rev. Canon Cody said that there were times, on Dominion Day, or days of national thanksgiving and national harvest, when the people of Canada were one with national ideas, national purposes and national sins of which to repent. So, as in days gone by, said the speaker, we meet as members of a body politic to render thanks to God, and to remember the blessings he has bestowed.

Memory was one of the greatest of all human faculties, a vital part of man's make-up. Lethe would be another word for annihilation. All our books, histories, records, originally come from man's instinctive desire to keep from forgetting.

A nation was often unmindful of its national past. People forgot what God had done for them. "Has our Mother Country always remembered her storied past?" asked the speaker. Every battlefield, every old castle and cathedral is preaching a silent sermon, teaching the men of to-day how much God has done. That grand old abbey of Westminster, the central shrine of our race, tells its story. Its poets and its teachers, its thinkers and its captains, are a very cloud of witnesses.

Are we in Canada less prone to forget our past? he continued. Every single step in national progress has its religious significance, for God has led us. Every nation comes to its place because of the good hand of God. The appeal to national memory is based on God's benefits, the appeal to gratitude and service upon redemption. So to Canada God says "Beware, lest thou forget the Lord Who has brought you into this fair land."

Rev. Canon Cody next dwelt upon the importance of seeking to know our national past. He would not argue the point whether Canada was a nation or not. "We are big with national impulses and ideas, almost a full grown son in the old Mother's household, bound with the silken tie of loyalty closely to the throne of centuries across the sea."

The story of Canada's past, said the speaker, was a thrilling one, a blending of romance and heroism. Going back to the days of the French regime, there was the vivid story of the exploring of the vast wilderness of the West by intrepid missionaries and voyageurs, and the discovery of the great Mississippi and the mighty St. Lawrence for France. Then came the time, when, on the Plains of Abraham, the destiny of more than half the continent was decided, and the lillies of France fell before the cross of England. It was one of the decisive battles of the world. The next step was when Canadians, Englishmen, Frenchmen and Indians fought shoulder to shoulder in the war of 1812 to maintain these acres of snow. "To stand on Queenston Heights and observe the monument of General Brock," said the speaker, "it required an effort of the imagination to try and experience that day." The most decisive battle, perhaps, in the annals of the British Empire was fought then.

Since then Canada has been built up into one great self-governing country. Province after province has been added, until last year the two Provinces in the Northwest completed the work. From the Atlantic to the Pacific, Canada is welded together. She has the largest and most extensive country not fully occupied in the world. Therein lie the unique opportunity of Canada.

Has not God's hand been seen in this? Have we not been saved from absorption by the great republic to the south, which we respect and admire, but feel that God has called us to work out our own destinies along different lines?

The speaker passed on to refer to Canada's present heritage. Canada was set in a strategic position between Europe and Asia. Once the Mediterranean was considered to be in the midst of the earth. The time came when the Atlantic superseded it, and the time is also coming, perhaps, when the Pacific will rival the Atlantic. Canada is placed between oceans to join all together. Even now she has taken her place as the highway of postal communication, between the Mother Land and China.

REV. CANON CODY,
Of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, who Preached the Harvest Festival Sermon at St. Luke's Last Night.

The variety of climate, the products, and national resources, formed an old story. There was coal on either side, and in the centre water power unrivalled in the whole world. Canada seemed to be the only part of the Empire, outside the Mother Country, destined to be a manufacturing region. Canada had black coal east and west the white coal of electricity in the centre; fisheries east and west; forest resources and pulp limits beyond our expectations and realization. Then there were the wheat fields of the west, with their 100,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Speaking of Ontario, Rev. Canon Cody, said that it was a mistake to suppose it was falling off; Ontario was never so progressive, so strong. As a manufacturing and stock-raising centre the province gained wealth year after year, and there was not the slightest danger that it would not continue to be the banner province of this splendid Dominion.

A nation had been defined as the marriage of a land to a people. The land was here, and the people were among the best of the old world.

Canada need not be sorry that the population had not grown faster. Her neighbour to the south had invited immigration, and the downtrodden and the oppressed from every land came, and rational assimilation could not take place. The danger was not economic, but social. Canadians should be satisfied to let the virtue and value of their land speak for themselves. Until they could get a population willing to be assimilated, and learn to have Canadian ideals, and if possible, to speak the English language, they should not be dissatisfied.

It is not however what Canada has been, or did, or what she is at present, but what she may be, and do, that causes a thrill to every Canadian. Canada is like a giant, who rejoices to run a race, and had a magnificent opportunity before her.

In conclusion the speaker dwelt upon the dangers that were to be feared. The first was that of materialism, of establishing a standard of things, material, and thinking that the life of a nation consists of the abundance of the things it possesses. Travelling up and down Canada, in the smoking cars, where opinions are most freely ventilated, in Nova Scotia you will hear nothing but Dominion Coal and Dominion Steel. In the Northwest nothing is talked of but wheat, and land, and its value. In the cattle raising districts in Alberta the talk is all of cattle; and in British Columbia they speak of lumber and fish, gold and coal.

Greece was not big, but it set the intellectual standard of the world. Palestine was not big, but the best religious influences came from there. England is a little land, Ireland could be drowned in Lake Superior, and Wales in Ontario; Scotland was small, yet they sent out men to colonize, civilize and Christianize the greater part of the world. Bigness is not greatness.

The second danger confronting Canada was that of sectionalism—of setting the interests of the east against the west, of Ontario against the Maritime Provinces; of setting the French people against the English, or the English against the French. It was the hardest problem Canadians had to solve. The politicians and the newspapers could only touch upon it lightly. He did not know how the problem was to be solved. It called for all our patience, patriotism and statesmanship. Then there was the sectionalism of labour against capital, the danger that the legitimate combination between the men on the one side, and employers on the other, might get beyond bounds—that the union might become the church, he religion, the country, of the men, and that the combinations of capital might forget the interests of the land.

Another dangor is that political power will come into the hands of those having little political intelligence; and another, that upright citizens of Canada discovering objectionable features in politics should refrain from entering political life. The last danger touched upon was that Canadians should lose the old sense of right and wrong. It had been said by a close observer of Canadians, that their chief fault was their untruthfulness and untrustworthiness.

The speaker closed with an exhortation to remember the blessings of God.

WEDDING BELLS

SNIDER—POWERS.

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday of last week in New York, on 42nd street, when Mr. Clarence Snider, of this city was married to Miss Ella Powers, of Maple, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Father Foley. Mr. and Mrs. Snider will reside in this city.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

EXTRAORDINARY REPERTOIRE.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe are to play an extraordinary repertoire, including a number of new and elaborate productions. Joanne D'Arc and Sapho and Phaon, both by Percy MacKaye, a son of Steele MacKaye, and Guinevere, by H. W. Boynton, of the Atlantic Monthly, are pieces which must surely attract great critical attention, especially when performed by such noted artists. Johannes, by Herman Sudermann, The Sunken Bell, by Gerhardt Hauptmann; The Daughter of Jorio and Francesca da Rimini, by Gabriel D'Annunzio, and Joizelle, by Maurice Maeterlinck, are also to be presented with Marlowe and Southern, supported by an exceptional company and aided by every possible advantage to be gained from stage accessories.

JOHN GRIFFITH'S KING RICHARD

John Griffith, who has been seen many times in Ottawa, appeared again at the Russell yesterday afternoon and evening in King Richard the Third, and added to his reputation as a great tragic actor. The character is not a pleasant one and at every stage is trying to the extreme. An audience cannot be attracted much by the life of Richard, but for all that there is something fascinating in the craftiness and brutality of the plotter, in his almost devilish power over women. There is a something that attracts even in spite of the repulsiveness, as does Mephisto in Faust. Evidently Mr. Griffith has made a careful, honest study of the character. In his impersonation he goes just as far as is intended in gaining the sympathy of the audience in his mad schemes, and from every point of view his work is worthy of praise. Griffith in King Richard the Third improves much on his other work.

As might be expected, the costumes are beautiful and the scenic effects in perfect harmony. In addition the supporting company is strong, although, naturally, King Richard is the central figure. As King VI. Charles Sutton and William Lloyd as Richmond and Buckingham gave faithful portrayals. Misses Mabel Standish and Katherine Ruth as Lady Anne and the Queen of Edward IV. proved very capable, and Leo Kennedy as Lord Stanley was pleasing at every moment.

Griffith made only the two appearances in Ottawa and at both performances had large and appreciative audiences.

Peterborough Popular City For Conventions

Evidence of This Fact is Furnished by Inclination to Attend the Baptist Convention—Peterborough Getting Its Name Up as a Good Place to Visit.

The fame of Peterborough has travelled far and wide, evidence of which is furnished by the fact that the local committee in charge of the Baptist Convention reports that the prospects are for the largest attendance in the history of the Association of churches.

It appears that from all parts of the country replies are being received to the invitations sent out to delegates, and the great majority of them are to the effect that they will be here. The reason that there is such a general inclination to visit Peterborough is that this city has a reputation in the Province, as a good place to go to have a good time, and as soon as they have an opportunity to come here they take advantage of it. Peterborough is certainly getting its name up, and it is doubtful if any other place of its size in Ontario has as many visitors, particularly during the summer months, as Peterborough. It is a fact that has often been remarked upon that Peterborough is being known as a good place to hold conventions, because as soon as the delegates know that this is the place chosen, they immediately prepare to come. This is apparently going to be the case, too, with the Baptists convention, the present indication being that the attendance at this convention will considerably exceed that of all previous years.

Other Churches Asked To Help

To Entertain the Delegates to Convention.

Last night the General Committee of Arrangements for the Ontario and Quebec Baptists' Convention, to be held in this city next month, met at the Murray Street Baptist Church, when the reports of the sub-committees on billeting, reception and entertainment were received. These reports indicated that good progress was being made with the arrangements, and that everything was in good shape, so far, for the Convention.

Representatives from the Park Street and Gilmour Memorial Churches were present, and reported that the members of these churches were prepared to render whatever assistance was in their power in entertaining the visiting delegates.

It was decided to request the members of the other Protestant churches in the city to assist the Baptists in entertaining the delegates.

The Committee adjourned to meet next Thursday night.

GRAND CONCERT OF BLACK DIKE BAND

One cannot write in adequate terms of enthusiastic appreciation of the superb musical work of the Black Duke Mills Band without incurring the charge of extravagance on the part of those who have not heard them. If the citizens of Peterborough had had even a faint conception of the magnificent musical entertainment provided by them at the Opera House last night that place would have been crowded, instead of holding a comparatively small audience, which was delighted to enthusiasm by a splendid presentation of a splendid programme. The band, which consists of thirty members, plays only brass instruments, but so perfect is the balance of instrumentation, or harmony and ensemble, so artistic and sympathetic are all the players, that the quality of blare usually associated with brass assumes a velvety richness and warm roundness of tone, which, under the spur of the strongest forte, never develops into noise, nor assumes a forced quality; while pianissimo tones of inexpressible mellowness and sweetness are produced as occasion demands. The volume of tone produced can be tremendously big, but it never becomes noise—always sound. This was shown in the opening selection one of Sousa's clangorous marches, which became really music by the rich tone production of the band. Balfe's tuneful overture to the "Bohemian Girl" was a revelation of the capacity of the band for artistic brass work, and the enthusiastic recall was responsible for the musical gem of the evening, a four part song, "The Breeze Is Gently Blowing," composed by Hollingworth, a native of Queensbury, Yorkshire, the home of the band. This song, inexpressibly sweet in melody, was played as arranged for the organ, and the exquisite performance of the band suggested the opulent tones of an organ as big as the Opera House. The cornet solo, by Jackson, elicited a splendid tone, round, smooth, with a sostenuto of impeccable steadiness and a tonguing skill entirely complete and satisfying. In the excerpt from "William," Tell, the cornets simulated the reeds with superb effectiveness. The duet for solo cornet and solo baritone was a veritable gem, while the magnificent crescendo that wrought up to a finale of splendid musical orgasm, was an example of the incomparable ensemble effects of the band. The Herold overture, "Zampa," afforded scope for more heroic execution, delicious choral effects, another tremendously fine crescendo, and a finale of melodious thunder. Mascagni's Intermezzo to "Cavaleria Rusticana" was exquisitely interpreted. The versatility of the band was shown by the grand way in which it played the antipodes of classical music, the coke walk composition, in answer to recalls, for so great was the enthusiasm aroused that almost every number had to be followed on. The programme concluded with a fantasia, introducing British songs, including a new reading of "Rule Britannia," of splendid spirit and swing, and "The Maple Leaf."

In a word, the concert gave unbounded delight, for not only were the tone and execution enchanting, but the verve and swing of the performance and the sympathetic spirit of every performer, contributed to a musical treat whose like we shall not soon hear again.

TO MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURERS

A limited number of the recent edition of "Industrial Peterborough," issued last month, on sale at the EXAMINER OFFICE, at a reduction on Publisher's prices. 6d-66

Mr. Leonard Will Meet The Council Next Week

C. P. R. Official Has Written Chairman of Manufacturers' Committee—C. P. R. Grain Route Will be Discussed—A Ray of Hope Left Yet.

There is yet a ray of hope that the C.P.R. grain route may touch the city. At any rate Mr. Leonard the C.P.R. official who is superintending the proposition has been heard from and a visit from him may do something towards getting the railway into Peterborough despite previous statements to the contrary.

Yesterday the chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee received a letter from Mr. Leonard who is now in Montreal, stating that he intended coming west next week and would meet the council then.

It is altogether probable that he expressed some opinion upon the prospective route, but this of course, has not been given for publication. The chairman intended to discuss the matter last night at the committee meeting but owing to the lack of a quorum was unable to do so.

Long Brothers Retiring After Over Thirty Years

Well Known Local Firm Have Disposed of Their Large Business to T. H. Hooper—One of the Oldest Businesses in the City Changes Hands—A Long and Honourable Career—Some Interesting Features of the Change.

During the past year a number of important business changes have taken place in this city, but it is doubtful if any have given rise to such universal surprise as that announced to-day, which is none other than the retirement of the firm of Long Brothers, the well known confectioners. Yesterday their business in both stores passed into the hands of Mr. T. H. Hooper, who will conduct it in future. There are a number of features in connection with this business change which make it of more than ordinary interest. One of these is the fact that the firm of Long Brothers has been in business in Peterborough for over thirty years, the time of their entry into the business world dating from May 20th, 1876. So far as the Examiner has been able to learn there are only six men in business in Peterborough at the present time who were doing business when the Messrs. Long commenced. These are Peter Connal, W. H. Wrighton, B. Shortly, Jas. Tully, H. LeBrun and Richard Hall.

Messrs. Harry and James Long's business progress has been identified with the progress of Peterborough for more than a quarter of a century, and during that time they have seen many chages, naturally, but through them all they have steadily built up their business until to-day it is recognized as one of the most progressive and prosperous Business concerns in the city, and indeed its reputation has extended far beyond the bounds of even the city or county.

Their first store was on Simcoe street, two doors west of W. H. Hamilton's present store. Here they opened on May 20th, 1876, and remained there until 29 years ago on Sept. 1st, when they removed to George street in the store which has since been occupied by Mr. James Long. They continued there until Sept. 1882, when they purchased the business at that time conducted by Mr. David Lemay, in the store which has since been presided over so capably by Mr. Harry Long, and from that time until yesterday they have had the stores, with a rapidly growing trade.

With the increase in business large staffs were necessary, and at present about seventeen of a regular staff are employed with an increased number for special occasions. This staff will be retained by the new proprietor, and the business will be conducted along the lines which have characterized that of Long Brothers. A first-class baker, who has worked for the old firm, will still work for Mr. Hooper, and in every department the business will be run the same, Mr. Harry Long himself remaining with Mr. Hooper for some months to give him the benefit of his advice.

Until a week ago the Messrs. Long had no intention of selling their business, evidence of which is found in the fact that they have laid in a large stock of goods for the future, including 3,000 pounds of butter, hundreds of dozens of eggs, and fruit in abundance, all of which will go with the business to the new proprietor. The distinctive feature of the business, as conducted by Long Brothers, has been the absolutely first-class quality of everything manufactured or handled by them. Their pastry and cakes were of the very best, one of the boasts of the firm being that they never used a pound of cottoline in all their years of business, nothing but the best butter and lard being used for cooking. One of the bakers, who has been employed in a number of places, stated that he never worked in any bakeshop where such good material was used as in that of Long Brothers'.

Mr. Hooper, the new proprietor, is himself a graduate of Long Brothers' business, having worked for them until nineteen years ago, when he commenced business for himself. It is rather a strange coincidence that he should take over the business on the same day of the month that Long Brothers commenced it. The same strict attention to business and the same methods which have contributed to the success of the retiring proprietors will be maintained in the new ownership. It is understood that Mr. Hooper will still conduct his lower store on George street, but that at the corner of George and Brock streets will be closed, and the three stores only will be open.

The Messrs. Long will retire from all active business to enjoy the rest which they have so well earned. They leave the ranks of the business men of Peterborough with the highest regard of not only their fellow business men, but of the public as well.

Mr. Hooper also enters upon his larger business relations with the best wishes of his many friends for his success.

Foreman Of The Big Bend Co.

Mr. Richard Condon Will Shortly Leave For Arrowhead.

Mr. Richard Condon has just been appointed foreman of the Big Bend Lumber Company, and will leave for Arrowhead, B.C., on October 2nd. At present he is registered at the Cavanagh House and is conducting a still hunt for men to take back with him.

The Premier Of Russia Has Now Named Program

Will Put Dissident Faiths In Russia On Par With Orthodox.

AND REMOVE DISABILITIES

New Laws For Religious Freedom to Be Shortly Promulgated by Russian Cabinet Are An Amplification and Confirmation of the Czar's Easter Ukase—Last Anti-Jew Affair—A Violent Manifesto.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—The Associated Press has been informed by a member of the Cabinet that within a few days laws of religious freedom, removing practically every restriction and disability under which the dissident faiths in Russia have labored, will be promulgated.

This is the second point in the Stolypin program. The first, including measures, for the distribution of land, already has been published. The new laws are in effect, an amplification and confirmation of the Emperor's Easter ukase of April 4, 1905.

The Cabinet will next take up the project of law enlarging the rights of Jews, which has just been elaborated by a commission. This measure has been somewhat restricted, the administration believing that full equality, in the present state of public opinion in Russia, can and should be given by Parliament.

The administration, after several months' consideration, has determined against granting compensation for the foreign property destroyed during the Moscow revolt. The claims arising from this cause amounted to $325,000.

Last Anti-Jew Affair.

A deputation of Jews, who visited M. Stolypin and referred to the predictions of an anti-Jewish attack at Warsaw, which are being circulated in the Russian and foreign press, was informed by the Premier that according to reports from Gen. Skallon, there was not the slightest reason to anticipate excesses or disorders, nevertheless, he ordered that all necessary measures be taken to prevent an outbreak.

The Premier expressed the hope, and said he was confident, that Siedlce would end the history of anti-Jewish disorders.

Cry For Revenge.

In revenge for the execution of Zenadie Konopliankovo, the assassin of Gen. Min, the Social Revolutionists are sending broadcast this violent manifesto:

"The die has been cast. One thing remains; annihilate mercilessly all enemies of the people. There must be life for life, death for death, cent for cent. With the illuminating memory of Konopliankovo to guide them, all true Russians must strike terror to the hearts of the executioners."

No Disorders to Be Permitted.

Odessa, Sept. 21.—The Governor-General and prefect of Odessa have assured the chief rabbi here that they will not permit disorders, and that attempt to bring about an anti-Jewish attack will be quelled without mercy. Jews are assured that they may gather in their synagogues without misgiving, as the synagogues will be guarded by the military.

In spite of these official assurances, however, a gang composed of members of the "Union of Russian People" tried to provoke an anti-Jewish outbreak yesterday by firing on a crowd of Jews. They met with energetic resistence, however, and were dispersed.

SCHOOL BOOKS AT COST.

Premier Whitney Says Government Owned Ones Are Justified.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Premier Whitney stated yesterday that when the report of the text book commission was received that its recommendations would be dealt with promptly, and, he hoped, effectually. The testimony so far adduced would seem to justify the Government in publishing the books itself and selling them at cost to the public.

The publishing houses are understood to be standing together.

Ex-Premier George W. Ross explained that the contracts in question were revised by the King's printer and then submitted to a commission consisting of Judge Morgan, James Bain, the librarian, and R. Brown of Brown Bros. They reported in favor of some reductions; the fifth reader was reduced from 60 cents to 50 cents and the geography from one dollar to 75 cents. In the main, however, they found prices reasonable and proper. At no time was there any tender to do the work any cheaper, nor were there any complaints, said Mr. Ross, except the ante-election cries during the campaign of 1902.

METHODIST MISSIONS.

After Two Hours' Discussion Principle of Report Is Not Changed.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—After two hours' discussion last night in committee of the Methodist conference, an agreement was arrived at, Dr. Sutherland seconding the proposal. There is no change in the principle of the committee's report. Two departments will be created by the conference, and two general secretaries elected, with equal authority; but instead of their duties being assigned by the conference, they will be settled by the board.

The election of officers is called for this afternoon. There will be no session on Saturday afternoon. This means that church union goes over till next week.

The evening meeting was occupied with the reception of delegations from the Lord's Day Alliance, the Congregational Union and the Baptist Union.

INTERPROVINCIAL CONFERENCE.

Hon. Mr. Whitney and Attorney-General Foy Will Attend.

Toronto, Sept. 21.—There was a protracted Cabinet meeting yesterday, principally devoted to discussing increased provincial subsidies and other matters likely to come up at the interprovincial conference to be held at Ottawa on Oct. 8.

It was decided that the province should be represented by Premier Whitney and Attorney-General Foy. One or two other Ministers may also attend.

The Freedom Of The Island Is In Danger

Cuba May Disappear As a Nation If Leaders Are Obdurate.

A DIFFICULT SITUATION

U. S. Mediators Hear Conflicting Views—Secretary of War Taft and His Assistant Unable to Announce Any Plan For Compromising the Difficulty, Which Becomes Increasingly Complicated.

Havana, Sept. 21.—The leaders of the revolutionary movement have called all the generals in the field to a conference in Havana. They are safe from molestation during the truce.

The taking of testimony was continued yesterday, but a second day of conference with the leaders of the factions in the Cuban conflict has not enable Secretary of War Taft and Assistant Secretary Bacon to announce any plan for compromising the difficulty.

So strenuous are the appeals of both the Liberal and Moderate party leaders that the situation becomes increasingly complicated as the negotiations proceed. However, Secretary Taft said last night that he believed that when they are brought face to face with the danger of losing independence forever all patriotic Cubans will be willing to make concessions.

Mr. Taft has made it clear that the United States is not seeking to exercise control over the island or any of its affairs; but he has quoted President Roosevelt's letter to Minister Quesada to the effect that the United States has a duty which it cannot shirk. To those whom he has met in conference Mr. Taft has said that now is the time to decide whether they would have Cuba live as a nation.

No reports of disturbances anywhere on the island were received yesterday. Cienfuegos is suffering from a water famine on account of destruction of the waterworks at Jicotea by the insurgents.

DECLARATION OF WAR.

Congress At Ghent Debates Questions of International Law.

Ghent, Belgium, Sept. 21.—The congress of the institute of the international law yesterday debated questions arising out of the Russo-Japanese war. On the subject of the necessity for formal declaration of war the following was adopted:

1. Hostilities cannot commenve without an unequivocal preliminary notice.

2. Notice must take the form either of a declaration of war pure and simple or of an ultimatum duly noified to the adversary by the state intending to commence war.

3. Hostilities cannot commence until after expiration of a delay sufficient to establish the rule to have been complied with.

SUING COMMANDER SPAIN.

His Wife Claims Allowance Not Paid Since Separation.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Commander Spain of the Dominion service, will be a defendant in the high court here before Judge Anglin next week. W. Almon, barrister, Halifax, on behalf of Mary Beatrice Spain, the defandant's wife, understood to be living in New York, is suing for $1,260.

She asserts that since their separation, in January, 1906, she was to get an annual allowance of $840. She also further claims $4,250 alleged to be owing, as she paid insurance permiums for her husband and lent him money. She asserts that the latter transaction meant $6,000, and that only $1,750 was paid. She wants the balance with interest.

SHOT AT HICKMAN TWICE.

Bank of Commerce Branch In Northwest Is Robbed.

Kialstino, Sask., Sept. 21.—At eight o'clock Tuesday evening the Bank of Commerce was robbed in the absence of the manager. The assistant, Hickman, thought he heard a noise and came quickly downstairs, making for the safe.

Immediately he was fired upon, by a man in the shadow. Hickman made a plunge to grab the assailant, but received another shot, just grazing his left temple.

The robber escaped with about $3,700.

7,000 CHINESE LOSE LIVES.

Governor of Hong Kong Report of Typhoon Victims.

London, Sept. 21.—Sir Matthew Nathan, Governor of Hong Kong, has sent the following cablegram to the Colonial Office:—"There is strong evidence that Bishop Hoare of Hong Kong was drowned. The loss of life among the Chinese will probably amount to seven thousand."

Sloop a Total Wreck.

Hong Kong, Sept. 21.—The British reserve sloop Phoenix, which was reported ashore Wednesday, is a total Guilty of Manslaughter.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—Helen Dobouch, a Polish woman, was found guilty of manslaughter yesterday by the Court of King's Bench. Sentence will be pronounced in a few days. Mrs. Dobouch fled after the death of her four-year-old stepson, who diad as the result of ill-treatment.

Lindsay Fair Well Patronized

Many Peterborough People Left This City To-day.

"More Peterborough people attend the Lindsay Fair than will go to their own Fair," remarked a citizen this morning, when he saw the crowds going to the Sougog town this morning. Fully 100 went from this city on the 8.25 G.T.R. train, and another big crowd went up on the 11.45 train. It is to be hoped that, for the sake of their own self-respect, this man's statement will not be warranted by the facts, and that the people of this city will turn out well to support their own Fair.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, September 21. — Three stocks were the only ones to do anything in to-day's market. Southern Pac. made a new high; Baltimore & Ohio followed suit, and St. Paul rose over 2. The general market was firm but inactive. Copper was in good demand, at fractionally higher figures. It seemed to be a waiting market. Money was easy. An announcement of an engagement of $500,000 in gold in Paris was made.

There was no news bearing on values and room traders had all to themselves and they spent the day trying to scalp Reading, which ran up and down in a very confusing manner. The prospects are for a very good bank statement to-morrow. The close was dull.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I have, for some time dabbled with the microscope in an amateur way, but I have never seen anything so microscopically small as the spirit of the man or being who wrote the letter in your columns a day or two ago, asking whether the King's Daughters paid anything for the privilege of serving dinner on the fair grounds. As I understand it, the King's Daughters have, as a raison d'etre of their organization, a work of charity that includes all the suffering and destitute quite apart from denominational considerations. Need and suffering are the only credentials that appeal to the sympathies and practical activities of the King's Daughters.

Yours, etc.,

All Players Should Be Out To-morlow

Big Rugby Practice Called for Riverside Park.

A full practice of the rugby team is called for three o'clock to-morrow afternoon at Riverside Park when it is expected that every player will be out in uniform. Only one week remains to get in shape and the time must be used to the best advantage. In that time a centre half has to be developed, the back division organized, and signals and plays to arrange besides the all important work of getting into condition physically.

A big practice to-morrow will help immensely.

More lights will be placed in Central Park and the team will practice every night next week for the game with Toronto Victorias in Toronto on Saturday next.

Tigers Getting In Shape For Season

Harold Mitchell is One of the New Men

Hamilton, Sept. 20.—The Tigers practice last night was well attended. There was a new-comer out in uniform. He is an English player, Sloan by name, and appears to have the goods with him. Harold Mitchell the Westinghouse man, from whom much is expected, was also out, and the impression he made on the spectators was distinctly favourable. All of the other seniors were chasing the ball around in somewhat frisky fashion, and they are feeling in the best of condition.

The refusal of Nibs Harrison's application for reinstatement to junior standing means that if he plays he will have to stay with the Tigers.

The Harold Mitchell referred to in the above despatch is known to a number in Peterborough, especially by the emmbers of the Quaker football team. He was here with the Bowmanville team when the final game for the Midland League Championship was played. He was to have played with the visiting team that day, by reason of the fact that he was a native of Bowmanville. He did not play, however, on hearing that he was to be protested.

Brantfordites Have Visions

Of a Fast Professional Hockey Team

Brantford Expositor: Talk has again been started of a professional hockey team in Brantford. If fast hockey is desired here, professionalism is the only solution and from the present outlook the prospects are pretty fair. If the other teams can be whipped into line the league will be a strong one. In the matter of players, Brantford would be all off. Roy Brown, Billy Taylor, McDonald of baseball and Calumet fame, Texas Gillard, Duff Adams, all are available, and other men could be secured to make up one of the fastest events in Canada. Seibert, of Waterloo, and Charley Dietrich, of Galt, two of the fanciest and fastest puck-handlers in the business, could be secured.

Forrester Out Of Hockey Game

"Grindy" Hurt His Knee Playing Football and Has Been Laid Up For Two Months.

"Grindy" Forrester, point player of the champion Houghton team of the International Professional Hockey League, passed through the city yesterday on his way from his home in Fergus to Thessalon. Forrester has practically decided to quit hockey for one winter at least, owing to an injury to his knee sustained while playing Association football, which has laid him up at Fergus for over two months. "Grindy" can walk all right now, but the knee will hardly be strong enough to use in strenuous hockey games this winter. He has a nice position in Thessalon, and likes the place.—Toronto Star.

BAND TO-NIGHT IN JACKSON PARK

Blair Russel For Argonauts

Report That Crack Wing Man May Play in Toronto

The Montreal Star says:

Blair Russell, the crack right wing man of the Montreal Victoria Hockey Club, whose brother was married in Peterborough this week, has been for some time out of the possibility of playing hockey here next season, for he has been residing in Toronto, and will likely turn out with the Argonauts this winter. Mr. Russell has been appointed inspector of the Royal Insurance Company, of whom Mr. Percy Quinn is manager.

If the Victorias should drop out of the League, as has been intimated for a considerable time, the Nationals would probably get a chance to go in.

RUGBY.

At a meeting of the Crescent Rugby Club in Y.M.C.A. parlours it was decided to place a team in the City League. By this means alone can the team secure games at home and that is their chief desire. Mr. Chris. Graham has consented to manage the team for the present at least and under his guidance some good men should be developed. Ed. Wood and Jack Seymour with the manager were appointed as a team committee. The members of the team are urged to get out and practice whenever notice is given of team practices.

• • • •

The next meeting of the City Rugby League will be held next Tuesday night when the season's schedule will be drawn up.

• • • •

Those interested in the Quakers will meet to-night at 7.30 at the Examiner office for organization purposes. Officers will be elected and business of interest to the club will be discussed.

• • • •

The Quakers are requested to turn in uniform at 3.30 to-morrow afternoon. The practise will be held on Nicholls Oval so that it will not conflict with the seniors. The following are requested to turn out:—

Fitzgerald, McCullough, Sullivan Maher, Kelly, Craig, Sisson, Collins, Quinlan, Clark, Moore, Lillie, MacRae, Hutchinson, Huston, Best, Parnell, Canniff, Bolin, Latimer, H. Roddy, Carmichael, Walker.

• • • •

Among the Varsity players available for this year's team are the following: Full back, Southam and Lang; halves, McPherson, Lea, Lash, Kennedy, Raphael, of Ottawa and Kipp; quarter, Rae Montague and Dot Cory; wings (outside), Van Allan, of Port Hope, Pollard, Newton, (centre) Chad, Tome, Paddy Burns, W. Lalley, Hall, and B. McPherson; scrimmage, Christie, Kalls Lyle, Ritchie and Cruickshank. Varsity opens here with McGill two weeks from next Saturday, October 13th.—Toronto News.

• • • •

A full practice of the Crescent Rugby Club is called for to-morrow afternoon on the Exhibition grounds.

• • • •

The following players of the C. G. E. are requested to be at the Riverside Park to-morrow at 2.30 for rugby practice:—Sherdin, Whitcroft, Callaghan Walker, Downing, Armstrong, Rose, Dickson, Quinlan, Derocher, Sisson, Ford, Craig, Doris, Hickey, Peddler, Adamson, O'Connor, Davidson, Grant, Latimer, Heart. If the name of anyone who intends to turn out has not been mentioned, it is hoped that the player will not take offence, but will come along with the bunch.

CANOEING

Mr. Jas. Lynch made a record stunt in a canoe yesterday. He paddled twenty-two miles in a little more than two hours and fifty-nine minutes.

HOCKEY

London Advertiser: "Toronto is clamoring for professional hockey, and points to the International League in justification. Heaven forbid that Ontario rinks should be turned into the shambles, such as Pittsburg, the Soo and Portage Lake supported last winter. The amateur article is strenuous enough at present."

Boundary Line Dispute Heard

A Dummer Case at the County Court

A boundary line dispute was heard at the county court house to-day. Mrs. Cooper is the plaintiff, and Fred Calder the defendant, their interests being looked after by Mr. R. F. McWilliams and Mr. F. D. Kerr respectively. The line in dispute is in Dummer, near Warsaw.

Owing to the absence of witnesses, he was remanded until Monday next at 2 p.m..

Southern Hotel Changes Hands

Mr. Austin Dunn Leases His Hotel to Mr. Chas. Nixon, of Port Hope.

It is understood that negotiations have been completed whereby Mr. Chas. Nixon, of Port Hope, will take charge of the Southern Hotel. Mr. Austin Dunn, the proprietor, intimated that the deal was practically closed.

The Applications Were Received

Those Who Want to Hold House of Refuge Positions.

This afternoon the County Council received applications from the following for the position of superintendent of the House of Refuge, the salary for which is $550 a year: Thos. H. Wilson, Warsaw; Harry Beavis, South Dummer, and J. J. Crowe, North Dummer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul applied for the position of superintendent and matron.

These applications were referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Insurance Men To Meet Wednesday

A meeting of the Life Insurance Underwriters' Association will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 26th at 10.30 a.m., in the Board room at the Toronto Savings and Loan Company's office, to receive the reports of the delegates to the meeting of the Ontario Association held in Toronto when the request of the Insurance Commission for drafts of suggested amendments to the Insurance law was dealt with.

"The Sign of the Slate"

is the guide post to good shoes. It is the sign that never misleads—that never points the way to doubtful shoes.

"The Sign of the Slate" marks the home of "Slater" Shoes. It tells the passers-by that this is the place of honestly made shoes—comfortable shoes—stylish shoes—and shoes that are vouched for by a Canadian company that lives up to every word of its guarantee.

The man who takes the "Sign of the Slate" as his guidepost, is on the straight road to foot comfort, shoe satisfaction, and economy.

Every pair of "SLATER" Shoes has this trade mark label sewn on the lining. Whenever you buy—look for it. Any shoe that has not this label in it, IS NOT a "Slater" Shoe.

Another Successful Month For Labour

Ald. W. J. Johnston Reports to the Labour Gazette That August Was a Satisfactory Month for Local Workmen—All Classes Were Employed—Enlarging Number of Industries.

Another encouraging report of local labour conditions was made by Ald. W. J. Johnston to the Labour Gazette this month. He says, in speaking of the conditions here:

August saw no abatement in local industrial activity. In the building trades the demand for labour was greater than the supply. Many large buildings were still under way. The Canadian General Electric Works Company has commenced the erection of another large addition to its plant. Trade was very active, and transportation, both by rail and water, was very heavy. Banks reported business excellent, and wholesale and retail trade was very good. The rates of wages and hours of labour remained unchanged, and the labour market was free from unrest.

Condition of Local Industries.

Agriculture. — Farmers have been busily harvesting, and many have had one or two days threshing to make room in their barns.

Lumbering.—Conditions were very active.

Manufacturing. — Industrial establishments were taxed to their utmost capacity. The Shovel Manufacturing Company was making preparation for a large western trade and erecting a large addition to its plant.

Mining.—This industry was quiet.

Railway Construction and Employment.—Employment was active on ordinary section work, and in some part of the district ballasting and repairing the roadbed. The Street Railway Company reported business active.

Other Industries. — The Peterborough Light and Power Company's gas-holder, with a capacity of 150,000 cubic feet, will soon be in operation, and will be a great benefit to the gas consumers of the city. The erection of the House of Refuge is making good progress and will soon be roofed in.

A large steel rolling mill concern has about completed negotiations for the beginning of a large plant here. Negotiations are also being carried on for the securing of other industries.

Building.—Bricklayers and masons were so busy that they could not keep up with their work. Carpenters, joiners, slaters, plasterers, painters, and plumbers were very active, also builders' labourers. Gas - fitters, steam-fitters and stone-cutters were busy.

Metal, Engineering and Shipbuilding.—Iron moulders, iron workers and helpers, coremakers, machinists, engineers and steam engineers were active, and electrical workers, linemen, brass workers of all kinds, blacksmiths and boilermakers were very active. Shipbuilders were fairly active, with sheet metal workers, bicycle workers, tool sharpeners, horseshoers and jewellers very active.

Woodworking and Furnishing. — Woodworkers, upholsterers, and varnishers were active, and carvers dull. Carriage workers, car builders on repairs, pattern makers and coopers were active.

Printing.—Printers had a very good month.

Clothing. — Journeymen tailors, (male) were active on some lines. Garment workers, hat makers and glove makers were quiet, and boot and shoe workers very busy.

Food and Tobacco Preparation. — All were active, except in a few instances.

Leather.—Collar makers and leather workers were active.

Miscellaneous. — Barbers, broommakers, clerks and stenographers were busy, and delivery employees very busy. Hotel and restaurant employees and laundry workers were active, and furriers quiet.

Transport.—Railway work of all kinds was very busy, and the steamboat traffic very busy. Street railway employees, cab and hack drivers, carters, teamsters and expressmen were very busy.

Unskilled. — This class was very busy.

District Notes.

Prices for cheese reached the exceptionally high price of 12 7-8 cents per pound; about 1,000 boxes were sold at this price, and over 3,000 boxes at slightly lower figures. Lindsay Cheese Board sold 1,060 boxes at 11 3-4 per pound. Cheese and butter making are two important industry in this district. Plums were reported a good crop. Other fruits average. Labour was well employed.

Peaches-Peaches

CRAWFORD PEACHES are at their best this week and prices are low, when considering an ordinary crop and a big demand:

Havelock Likes The Idea Of The Junction

The Location of the Branch Line Terminal There Will Mean Much For That Town.

The Havelock people are naturally jubilant over the prospect of the junction of the Georgian Bay branch and the main line being made at that town, and, referring to it, the Standard says:

The surveyors finished their work from Lakefield to this point last week, and the new road will join the main line just west of the village, about half a mile from the corporation limits. The above announcement is hailed with delight by our citizens, and there is no doubt whatever but that it will mean a big advancement in the prosperity of Havelock and vicinity. It will mean very large expenditure here. The railway yard facilities will have to be enlarged, and the staff increased; the round house will have to be enlarged and more men and equipment added. Besides this the population will probably be increased by the addition of between forty and fifty men and their families, all of which will go towards making Havelock one of the best and most progressive towns in this part of Ontario.

Hay Scarcity Will Mean Higher Prices

Prediction That $20.00 a Ton Will be Paid Before Spring —Demand Already Exceeds the Supply Though Prices Have Not Advanced Much.

A hay famine is feared in this county, and those farmers who are fortunate enough to have a supply on hand are guarding it carefully in the belief—which seems to be well founded, too—that it will be worth money before spring. It appears that the crop this year was light, and the demand, in all probability, will be considerably greater than the supply. The price at the present time, it is true, is not much higher than one would expect at this time of the year, but there is no telling how long it will remain at its present figure. There are those who predict that $20 a ton will be paid before the season is out in the spring. It appears, too, that this county is not the only place where the same condition prevails, as the following from the Kingston News Shows:

There is a great scarcity of hay in this district, so much so, that those who have horses or cows to feed during the coming winter will do well to close for their supply of this kind of fodder. There was a splendid crop this year, but the most of the ruralists have sold their surplus to agents who ship it across the line. All that was left of last year's crop and everything in sight for this year is being picked up. The farmers living between here and Ottawa who have large herds of cattle are selling them off because there is little prospect of there being enough hay to keep them through the winter.

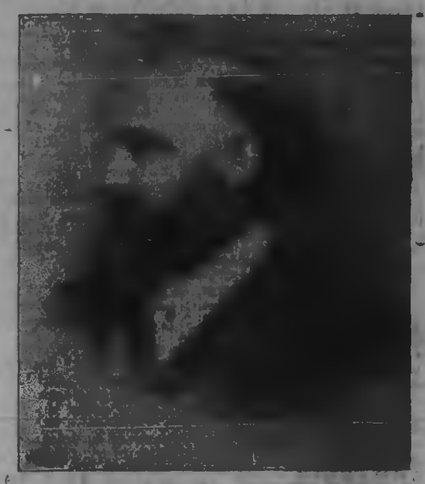
The Discovery Of Nickel Steel Was A Simple Accident; The Story As Told

How a Man in his Efforts to Guard Against Yellow Fever Stumbled Onto the Secret —Mr. S. J. Ritchie, the Pioneer in Development of Sudbury Field Tells the Story in an Interesting Article—Reads Like a Romance.



DR. LUDWIG MOND, London, England,
President Mond Nickel Co., and Inventor of the Carbon Monoxide Method of Refining Nickel.

The following extremely interesting article, constituting an industrial romance without a parallel, inasmuch as it demonstrates that Canadian nickel-steel is heaven-born, the conception being due to a celestial visitant, a meteorite. This article is from the Canadian Graphic, and is illustrated by the courtesy of that excellent high-class periodical:

The story of the discovery of copper at Sudbury, in the province of Ontario; of the formation of the Canadian Copper Company, and how this led to the discovery of nickel; how the attempts of that strange genius, John Gamgee, to construct a ship proof against yellow fever brought about the discovery of nickel-steel, and the subsequent revolution in the manufacture of armour plate for the navies of the world, is a romantic story of real life unsurpassed in interest by any work of fiction. The story is best told by Mr. S. J. Ritchie, a pioneer in the development of the Sudbury nickel field, and one who played a large part in the history of nickel steel:

Weird Origin.

"The discovery of nickel and the origin of the nickel industry in the Sudbury district, is in itself quite unique. My first knowledge of nickel as an alloy with iron or steel was in 1870. In that year I think, yellow fever was epidemic in the cities of the lower Mississippi and Gulf states. It is well know that the germs of this disease are killed by frost. At the date named I was spending a good deal of time in the city of Washington. At the same hotel and occupying the room adjoining my own was one of the most fertile-brained Englishmen I ever met, whose name was George Gamgee. He spent much of his time in my room. He was resourceful in experiment and demonstration, but his imagination went far beyond his laboratory tests. He had remedies for tuberculosis in animals, and for yellow fever among human beings. His remedy for yellow fever was the building of a large refrigerator ship on which a frost temperature was to be maintained. This ship he proposed to move around to the different cities where the fever existed, and to take the patients on board, where they were to be cured by the frosty atmosphere.

He laid his plans before the United States Senate Committee on Epidemic Diseases, and convinced that committee of the feasibility of his enterprise. He asked me to go with him to that committee, several of the members of which I was very well acquainted with, and aid him in securing a government appropriation for the building of his refrigerator ship.

I did succeed in getting a promise from the Committee that an appropriation of $250,000 would be given to Gamgee provided he could actually demonstrate to the committee that he could actually produce and maintain the proper temperature, and for the purpose of making the necessary experiments and demonstrations a large room and all the necessary machinery was placed at his disposal in the Naval Yard at Washington.

He erected a large machine in the Navy Yard buildings built by the Wilmington Car Works of Delaware. It must be remembered that this was 28 years ago, when cold storage was not as well known as now.

Of course Gamgee had to use liquid ammonia in producing his frosty temperature, and this substance, as is well known, will generate gas at a temperature much below the zero point. Gamgee conceived the Utopian idea that he would drive his machine with gas generated from his liquid ammonia by the heat of the atmosphere, and that the gas would part with its heat in the labour of operating the machine, and after having done its work would become re-liquified and be ready again by the aid of the heat in the atmosphere to generate more gas, and again start upon a second round of effort, the same as the first. In other words, he was within one step of perpetual motion, the lacking step being the wearing out of the machine.

Southern Edge of Anticline of Sandstone, West of Chelmsford.

Failure That Suceeded.

Numerous members of the Senate and engineers of the army were on hand to see the Gamgee ammonia engine operated. Right here Gamgee struck a snag. He was able to generate so great a pressure from the ammonia gas that the ordinary cast iron would not contain it, and he set about making all sorts of alloys to strengthen the iron and to overcome its porosity. They all failed. The object of the enterprise and the whole manner of conducting the experiments were so novel to me that I spent several weeks with Gamgee, helping him in any way I could. After a series of experimental failures, he one day said to me, "Ritchie, did you ever notice the meteorites at the Smithsonian Institution? I want you to go with me and see them." I told him that I had many times seen them and knew just how they looked. He said "We have no metallic iron on earth produced by nature in that form, and these meteors have all fallen from the skies or have come from some other world. They nearly all contain nickel and are the closest grained metal we have. To-morrow we will send over to Philadelphia and get some nickel and we will try this metal as an alloy with iron and see if we can imitate nature in duplicating the meteorite, as we are trying to imitate nature in the production of artificial cold for the yellow fever patients.

The First Nickel-steel.

We did send over and get some nickel and at once commenced our experiments by adding one-half of one per cent. of nickel to the molten iron in the crucible, and increasing each separate mixture by an additional one-half of one per cent. of nickel, until a limit of thirty-six per cent. of nickel as an alloy with the iron had been reached. We thus had some seventy-two separate pieces of iron and nickel alloys all carefully marked. When an alloy containing some eight per cent. of nickel had been made we tested it, as we really did all the other specimens, but I particularly recall that containing eight per cent. of nickel. It was so hard that neither the file nor the cold chisel would affect it. We put it upon the anvil, and with a ten-pound sledge I expected to be able to break it into pieces, but although I then had seventy-five pounds less flesh than I now have, and several times as much muscle, I could not even mark the alloy with the heaviest blow I could strike with this ten-pound sledge, not to talk about breaking it. After we had made many tests with the several different percentages of the alloys, Gamgee threw up his hands and shouted, 'Eureka! I have found at last an alloy strong enough and hard enough to resist anything and close enough in texture to resist the escape of any form of gas. The members of the Senate committee were again brought back to the Navy Yard to see these specimens of nickel alloy. The way now seemed clear for Gamgee to secure his promised $250,000 and to proceed with the building of his refrigerator ship which would be used as a hospital ship for the care of yellow fever patients.

Gamgee like most abnormally developed geniuses, had no place in his make-up for such humdrum routine efforts as financial operations. In short, he had no other financial ability than the ability to get into debt without any ability to get out of debt. He never even took out any patents upon those alloys of nickel and iron and steel. He failed to agree with the Senate committee on the cost and management of his proposed ship, and thus failed to secure the $250,000 appropriation. In the language of diplomacy, the incident was closed, and I lost sight of Gamgee, and all the interesting experiments and experience passed out of my mind.

All this was seven years before I had ever seen Canada.

Canadian Nickel Mines.

In 1882 I became interested in building the Central Ontario Railway to open up and develop the iron field of North Hastings. When the road was built it was found that these iron ores contained so much sulphur as to be unmarketable and I commenced a systematic search for other mineral deposits, which, under the terms of the charter of the railway, the railway could own and operate and by such conveyance of property I might support and protect the securities of the railway.

In this effort to secure something for the railway I had a considerable search of the country made by the local inhabitants and others from Nova Scotia to Port Arthur. I went to the Geological Museum at Ottawa and examined specimens of every kind of ores from every part of the country. Among the many specimens examined at this museum I found some copper ores taken from a cut in the Algoma Branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway at what is now Worthington Station, and other specimens taken from a cut in the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway at what is now known as the Murray mine, about three miles west of Sudbury. These samples I had analyzed and found them very rich in copper.

I at once proceeded to have these deposits located. While so doing I found that W. B. McAllister and J. H. Metcalf of Pembroke, Ontario, had located and taken up a number of these deposits in this Sudbury mineral belt. Among these was what is known as the Copper Cliff mine, the Lady Macdonald mine, the McArthur mine and the Creighton mine, the latter not at that time yet deeded to them, and several other deposits not named. With the exception of a small mine known as the Evans mine, and a little ore taken from what is known as the Frood mine, which I purchased shortly after the purchase made from McAllister and Metcalf, these mines thus purchased from McAllister and Metcalf in the summer of 1885 have furnished all the ore mined by the Canadian Copper Company from 1886 to this day, and are still their sole source of supply.

Immediately after the purchase of these mines, or rather deposits, from McAllister and Metcalf, in 1885, and some other properties from individuals, in 1885, including some purchased from Rinaldo McConnell, James Stobie and R. J. Tough, I made application to the Ontario Government, through J. D. Evans, the engineer of the Central Ontario Railway, for large additional locations. Under this application Mr. Evans located 97,000 acres; however, those who were afterwards associated with me did not agree with me in keeping this area of land, but wished it to lapse, which it was allowed to do.

In January, 1886, I organized at Cleveland, Ohio, under Ohio charters, two corporations, one known as the Canadian Copper Company, with a capital of $2,000,000, later increased to $2,500,000, and the other known as the Anglo-American Iron Company, with a capital of $5,000,000.

To the Canadian Copper Company my wife and self deeded the lands purchased from McAllister and Metcalf, Rinaldo McConnell and others, and to the Anglo-American Iron Company the late James McEaren, the late H. B. Payne, of Cleveland, and my wife and self deeded the 85,000 acres of land along the line of the Central Ontario Railway, and for the opening up and development of which the Central Ontario Railway was built. The interest of the late William Coe, of Madoc, in these Hastings County lands was conveyed to the Anglo-American Iron Company at a little later date.

Nickel Discovered.

In 1886 some work was done upon the property of the Canadian Copper Company at Copper Cliff, and in 1887 a shipment of some 1200 tons of this ore was made to the works of the Orford Copper Company at Constable Hook, New Jersey, in the harbour of New York. While the chemist of the Orford Company was making his analysis of the product of the furnaces from these ores he found a metal with which he was not familiar, and after numerous tests he found this substance to be nickel. It happened to be in the laboratory when this discovery was made. Robert M. Thompson, the president and owner of these works, was also there. The discovery of this nickel in these ores by the chemist of the Orford Copper Company was alike unexpected news to both Thompson and myself. We had no suspicion that they were anything but copper ores. This CHAPTER XI.

"Before we go any farther," Bell said, after a long pause, "I should like to search the house from top to bottom. I've got a pretty sound theory in my head, but I don't like to leave anything to chance. We shall be pretty certain to find something."

"I am entirely in your hands," David said, wearily. "So far as I am capable of thinking out anything, it seems to me that we have to find the woman."

"Cherchez la femme is a fairly sound premise in a case like this, but when we have found the woman we shall have to find the man who is at the bottom of the plot. I mean the man who is not only thwarting the woman, but giving you a pretty severe lesson as to the advisability of minding your own business for the future."

"Then you don't think I am being made the victim of a vile conspiracy?"

"Not by the woman, certainly. You are the victim of some fiendish counterplot by the man, who has not quite mastered what the woman is driving at. By placing you in dire peril he compels the woman to speak to save you, and thus to expose her hand."

"Then in that case I propose to sit tight," David said, grimly. "I am bound to be prosecuted for robbery and attempted murder in due course. If my man dies I am in a tight place."

"And if he recovers your antagonist may be in a tighter," Bell chuckled. "And if the man gets well and that brain injury proves permanent—I mean if the man is rendered imbecile—why, we are only at the very threshold of the mystery. It seems a callous thing to say, but this is the prettiest problem I have had under my hands."

"Make the most of it," David said, sardonically. "I daresay I should see the matter in a more rational light if I were not so directly concerned. But, if we are going to make a search of the premises, the sooner we start the better."

Upstairs there was nothing beyond certain lumber. There were dust and dirt everywhere, save in the hall and front dining-room, which, as Bell sapiently pointed out, had obviously been cleared to make ready for Steel's strange reception. Down in the housekeeper's room was a large collection of dusty furniture, and a number of pictures and engravings piled with their faces to the wall. Bell began idly to turn the latter over.

"I am a maniac on the subject of old prints, he explained. "I never see a pile without a wild longing to examine them. And, by Jove, there are some good things here. Unless I am greatly mistaken—here, Steel, pull up the blinds! Good heavens, is it possible?"

"Found a Sistine Madonna or a stray Angelo?" David asked "Or a ghost? What is the matter? Is it another phase of the mystery?"

"The Rembrandt," Bell gasped. "Look at it, man!"

Steel bent eagerly over the engraving. An old print, an old piece of china, an antique jewel, always exercised a charm over the novelist. He had an unerring eye for that kind of thing.

"Exquisite," he cried. "A Rembrandt, of course, but I don't recollect the picture."

"The picture was destroyed by accident after Rembrandt had engraved it with his own hand," Bell proceeded to explain. He was quite coherent now, but he breathed fast and loud. "I shall proceed to give you the history of the picture presently, and more especially a history of the engraving."

"Has it any particular name?" David asked.

"Yes, we found that out. It was called 'The Crimson Blind!'"

"No getting away from the crimson blind," David murmured. "Still, I can quite imagine that to have been the name of the picture. That shutter or blind might have had a setting sun behind it, which would account for the tender warmth of the kitchen foreground and the deep gloom where the lovers are seated. By Jove, Bell, it is a magnificent piece of work. I've a special fancy for Rembrandt engravings, but I never saw one equal to that."

"And you never will," Bell replied, "save in one instance. The picture itself was painted in Rembrandt's modest lodging in the Keizerskroon Tavern after the forced sale of his paintings at that hostel in the year 1658. At that time Rembrandt was painfully poor, as his recorded tavern bills show. The same bills also disclose the fact that 'The Crimson Blind' was painted for a private customer with a condition that the subject should be engraved as well. After one impression had been taken off the plate the picture was destroyed by a careless servant. In a sudden fit of rage Rembrandt destroyed the plate, having, they say, only taken one impression from it."

"Then there is only one of these engravings in the world? What a find!"

"There is one other, as I know to my cost," Bell said, significantly. "Until a few days ago I never entertained the idea that there were two. Steel, you are the victim of a vile conspiracy, but it is nothing to the conspiracy which has darkened my life.

"Sooner or later I always felt that I should get to the bottom of the mystery, and now I am certain of it. And, strange as it may seem, I verily believe that you and I are hunting the same man down—that the one man is at the bottom of the two evils. But you shall hear my story presently. What we have to find out now is who was the last tenant and who is the present owner of the house, and incidentally learn who this lumber belongs to. Ah, this has been a great day for me!"

Bell spoke exultingly, a great light shining in his eyes. And David sapiently asked no further questions for the present. All that he wanted to know would come in time. The next move, of course, was to visit the agent of the property.

A smart, dapper little man, looking absurdly out of place in an exceedingly spacious office, was quite ready to give every information. It was certainly true that 218, Brunswick Square, was to be let at an exceedingly low rent on a repairing lease, and that the owner had a lot more property in Brighton to be let on the same terms. The lady was exceedingly rich and eccentric; indeed, by asking such low rents she was doing her best to seriously diminish her income.

"Do you know the lady at all?" Bell asked.

"No: personally," the agent admitted. "So far as I can tell, the property came into the present owner's hands some years ago by inheritance. The property also included a very old house, called Longdean Grange, not far from Rottingdean, where the lady, Mrs. Henson, lives at present. Nobody ever goes there, nobody ever visits there, and to keep the place free from prying visitors a large number of savage dogs are allowed to prowl about the grounds."

Bell listened eagerly. Watching him, David could see that his eyes glinted like points of steel. There was something subtle behind all this commonplace that touched the imagination of the novelist.

"Has 218 been let during the occupation of the present owner?" Bell asked.

"No," the agent replied. "But the present owner—as heir to the property—I am told, was interested in both 218 and 219, which used to be a kind of high-class convalescent home for poor clergy and the widows and daughters of poor clergy in want of a holiday. The one house was for the men and the other for the women, and both were furnished exactly alike; in fact, Mr. Gates's landlord the tenant of 219, bought the furniture exactly as it stands when the scheme fell through."

Steel looked up swiftly. A sudden inspiration came to him.

"In that case what became of the precisely similar furniture in 218?" he asked.

"That I cannot tell you," the agent said. "That house was let as it stood to some sham philanthropist whose name I forget. The whole thing was a fraud, and the swindler only avoided arrest by leaving the country. Probably the goods were stored somewhere or perhaps seized by some creditor. But I really can't say definitely without looking the matter up. There are some books and prints now left in the house out of the wreck. We shall probably put them in a sale, only they have been overlooked. The whole lot will not fetch £5."

"Would you take £5 for them?" Bell asked.

"Gladly. Even if only to get them carted away."

Bell gravely produced a £5 note, for which he asked and received a receipt. Then he and Steel repaired to 218 once more, whence they recovered the Rembrandt, and subsequently returned the keys of the house to the agent. There was an air of repressed excitement about Bell which was not without its effect upon his companion. The cold, hard lines seemed to have faded from Bell's face; there was a brightness about him that added to his already fine physical beauty.

"And now, perhaps, you will be good enough to explain," David suggested.

"My dear fellow, it would take too long," Bell cried. "Presently I am going to tell you the story of the tragedy of my life. You have doubtless wondered, as others have wondered, why I dropped out of the road when the goal was in sight. Well, your curiosity is about to be gratified. I am going to help you, and in return you are going to help me to come back into the race again. By way of a start, you are going to ask me to come and dine with you to-night."

"At half-past seven, then. Nothing will give me greater pleasure."

"Spoken like a man and a brother. We will dine, and I will tell you my story after the house is quiet. And if I ask you to accompany me on a midnight adventure you will not say me nay?"

"Not in my present mood, at any rate. Adventure, with a dash of danger in it, suits my present mood exactly. And if there is to be physical violence, so much the better. My diplomacy may be weak, but physically I am not to be despised in a row."

"Well, we'll try and avoid the latter, if possible," Bell laughed. "Still, for your satisfaction, I may say there is just the chance of a scrimmage. And now I really must go, because I have any amount of work to do for Gates. Till half-past seven, au revoir."

Steel lighted a cigarette and strolled thoughtfully homewards along the front. The more he thought over the mystery the more tangled it became. And yet he felt perfectly sure that he was on the right track. The discovery that both those houses had been furnished exactly alike at one time was a most important one. And David no longer believed that he had been to No. 219 on the night of the great adventure. Then he found himself thinking about Ruth Gates's gentle face and lovely eyes, until he looked up and saw the girl before him.

"You—you wanted to speak to me?" he stammered.

"I followed you on purpose," the girl said, quietly. "I can't tell you everything, because it is not my secret to tell. But believe me everything will come out right in the end. Don't think badly of me, don't be hard and bitter because——"

"Because I am nothing of the kind," David smiled. "It is impossible to look into a face like yours and doubt you. And I am certain that you are acting loyally and faithfully for the sake of others who——"

"Yes, yes, and for your sake, too. Pray try and remember that. For your sake, too. Oh, if you only knew how I admire and esteem you! If only——"

She paused with the deep blush crimsoning her face. David caught her hand, and it seemed to him for a moment that she returned the pressure.

"Let me help you," he whispered. "Only be my friend and I will forgive everything."

She gave him a long look of her deep, velvety eyes, she flashed him a little smile, and was gone.

CHAPTER XII.

Harry Bell turned up at Downend Terrace early and debonair as if he had not a single trouble in the world. His evening dress was of the smartest and he had a rose in his buttonhole. From his cab he took a square brown paper parcel, which he deposited in David's study with particular care.

He made no allusion whatever to the sterner business of the evening; he was gay and light-hearted as a child, so that Mrs. Steel sat up quite an hour later than her usual time, absolutely unconscious of the fact that she had broken a rigid rule of ten years' standing.

"Now let us go into the study and smoke a cigar," David suggested.

Bell dragged a long deck-chair into the conservatory and lighted a Massa. Steel's offer of whisky and soda was declined.

"An ideal place for a novelist who has a keen eye for the beautiful," he said. "There you have your books and pictures, your stained glass and china, and when you turn your eyes this way they are gladdened by green foliage and lovely flowers. It's hard to connect such a room with a tragedy."

"And yet the tragedy was worked out close by where you are sitting. But never mind that. Come to your story, and let me see if we can fit it into mine."

Bell took a fresh pull at his cigar and plunged into his subject.

"About seven years ago professional business took me to Amsterdam; a brilliant young medical genius who was drinking himself prematurely into his grave had made some wonderful discoveries relating to the brain and psychology generally, so I decided to learn what I could before it was too late. I found the young doctor to be an exceedingly good fellow, only too ready to speak of his discoveries, and there I stayed for a year. My word! what do I owe to that misguided mind! And what a revolution he would have made in medicine and surgery had he only lived!

"Well, in Amsterdam I got to know everybody who was worth knowing—medical, artistic, social. And amongst the rest was an Englishman called Lord Littimer, his son, and an exceedingly clever nephew of his, Henson by name, who was the son's tutor. Littimer was a savant, a scholar, and a fine connoisseur as regarded pictures. He was popularly supposed to have the finest collection of old prints in England. He would travel anywhere in search of something fresh, and the rumor of some apocryphal treasure in Amsterdam had brought him thither. He and I were friends from the first, as, indeed, were the son and myself. Henson, the nephew, was more quiet and reserved, but fond, as I discovered, of a little secret dissipation.

"In those days I was not averse to a little life myself. I was passionately fond of all games of cards, and I am afraid that I was in the habit of gambling to a greater extent than I could afford. I don't gamble now and I don't play cards; in fact, I shall never touch a card again as long as I live. Why, you shall hear all in good time.

"We were all getting on very well together at that time when Lord Littimer's sister paid us a visit. She came accompanied by a daughter called Enid. I will not describe her, because no words of mine could do her justice. In a word, I fell over head and ears in love with Enid, and in that state I have remained ever since. Of all the crosses that I have to bear the knowledge that I love Enid and that she loves—and despises—me, is by far the heaviest. But I don't want to dwell upon that.

"We were a very happy party there until Van Sneck and Von Gulden turned up. Enid and I had come to an understanding, and, though we kept our secret, we were not going to do so for long. From the very first Von Gulden admired her. He was a handsome, swaggering soldier, a good-looking, wealthy man, who had a great reputation for gallantry, and something worse. Perhaps the fellow guessed how things lay, for he never troubled to conceal his dislike and contempt for me. It is no fault of mine that I am extremely sensitive as to my personal appearance, but Von Gulden played upon it until he drove me nearly mad. He challenged me sneeringly to certain sports wherein he knew I could not shine; he challenged me to ecarte, where I fancied I was his master.

"Was I? Well, we had been dining that night, and perhaps too freely, for I entirely lost my head before I began the game in earnest. Those covert sneers had nearly driven me mad. To make a long story short, when I got up from the table that night, I owed my opponent nearly £800, without the faintest prospect of paying a tenth part of it. I was only a poor, ambitious young man then, with my way to make in the world. And if that money were not forthcoming in the next few days I was utterly ruined.

"The following morning the great discovery was made. The Van Sneck I have alluded to was an artist a dealer, a man of the smallest reputation, whom my patron, Lord Littimer, had picked up. It was Van Sneck who produced the copy of 'The Crimson Blind.' Not only did he produce the copy, but he produced the history from some recently discovered papers relating to the Keizerskroon Tavern of the year 1656, which would have satisfied a more exacting man than Littimer. In the end the Viscount purchased the engraving for £800 English.

"You can imagine how delighted he was with his prize—he had secured an engraving by Rembrandt that was absolutely unique. Under more favorable circumstances I should have shared that pleasure. But I was face to face with ruin, and therefore I had but small heart for rejoicing.

"I came down the next morning after a sleepless night, and, with a wild endeavor to scheme some way of getting the money to pay my creditor. To my absolute amazement I found a polite note from the lieutenant coldly thanking me for the notes I had sent him by messenger, and handing me a formal receipt for £800. At first I regarded it as a hoax. But, with all his queer ways, Von Gulden was a gentleman. Somebody had paid the debt for me. And somebody had, though I have never found out to this day."

"All the same, you have your suspicions?" Steel suggested.

"I have a very strong suspicion, but I have never been able to verify it. All the same, you can imagine what an enormous weight it was off my mind, and how comparatively cheerful I was as I crossed over to the hotel of Lord Littimer after breakfast. I found him literally beside himself with passion. Some thief had got into his room in the night and stolen his Rembrandt. The frame was intact, but the engraving had been rolled up and taken away."

"Very like the story of the stolen Gainsborough."

"No doubt the one theft inspired the other. I was sent off on foot to look for Van Sneck, only to find that he had suddenly left the city. He had got into trouble with the police, and had fled to avoid being sent to gaol. And from that day to this nothing has been seen of that picture."

"But I read to-day that it is still in Littimer Castle," said David.

"Another one," Bell observed. "Oblige me by opening yonder parcel. There you see is the print that I purchased to-day for £5. This, this, my friend, is the print that was stolen from Littimer's lodgings in Amsterdam. If you look closely at it you will see four dull red spots in the left-hand corner. They are supposed to be blood-spots from a cut finger of the artist. I am prepared to swear that this is the very print, frame and all, that was purchased in Amsterdam from that shady scoundrel Van Sneck."

"But Littimer is credited with having one in his collection," David urged.

"He has one in his collection," Bell said, coolly. "And, moreover, he is firmly under the impression that he is at present happy in the possession of his own lost treasure. And up to this very day I was under exactly the same delusion. Now I know that there must have been two copies of the plate, and that this knowledge was used to ruin me."

"But," Steel murmured, "I don't exactly see——"

"I am just coming to that. We hunted high and low for the picture, but nowhere could it be found. The affair created a profound impression in Amsterdam. A day or two later Von Gulden went back to his duty on the Belgian frontier and business called me home. I packed my solitary portmanteau and departed. When I arrived at the frontier I opened my luggage for the Custom officer and the whole contents were turned out without ceremony. On the bottom was a roll of paper on a stick that I quite failed to recognize. An inquisitive Customs House officer opened it and immediately called the lieutenant in charge. Strange to say, he proved to be Von Gulden. He came up to me, very gravely, with a paper in his hand.

"'May I inquire how this came amongst your luggage?' he asked.

"I could say nothing; I was dumb. For there lay the Rembrandt. The red spots had been smudged out of the corner, but there the picture was.

"Well, I lost my head then. I accused Von Gulden of all kinds of disgraceful things. And he behaved like a gentleman—he made me ashamed of myself. But he kept the picture and returned it to Littimer, and I was ruined. Lord Littimer declined to prosecute, but he would not see me and he would hear of no explanation. Indeed, I had none to offer. Enid refused to see me also or reply to my letters. The story of my big gambling debt, and its liquidation, got about. Steel, I was ruined. Some enemy had done this thing, and from that day to this I have been a marked man."

"But how on earth was it done?" Steel cried.

"For the present I can only make surmises," Bell replied. "Van Sneck was a slippery dog. Of course, he had found two of those plates. He kept the one back so as to sell the other at a fancy price. My enemy discovered this, and Van Sneck's sudden flight was his opportunity. He could afford to get rid of me at an apparently dear rate. He must have done so, or I should not have it at this moment. Then he smudged out some imaginary spots on the other and hid it in my luggage, knowing that it would be found. Also he knew that it would be returned to Littimer, and that the stolen plate could be laid aside and produced at some remote date as an original find. The find has been mine, and it will go hard if I can't get to the bottom of the mystery now. It is strange that your mysterious trouble and mine should be bound up so closely together, but in the end it will simplify matters, for the very reason that we are both on the hunt for the same man."

"Which man we have got to find, Bell."

"Granted. We will bait for him as one does for a wily old trout. The fly shall be the Rembrandt, and you see he will rise to it in time. But beyond this I have made one or two important discoveries to-day. We are going to the house of the strange lady who owns 218 and 219, Brunswick Square, and I shall be greatly mistaken if she does not prove to be an old acquaintance of mine. There will be danger."

"You propose to go to-night?"

"I propose to go at once," Bell said. "Dark hours are always best for dark business. Now, which is the nearest way to Longdean Grange?"

"So the House of the Silent Sorrow, as they call it, is to be our destination! I must confess that the place has ever held a strange fascination for me. We

A Specialist's Prescription

for women

Who Feel Tired and Run Down.

A Remedy that Gives New Life and Vigor and makes Women Feel Good.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women are the prescription of a specialist.

We don't say that no other living physician could prescribe so good a remedy for women. But we do say this. The ordinary practising physician cannot prescribe so good a one, and no living physician can prescribe a better one.

Dr. Hugo put into the prescription all the knowledge, experience and skill which he had acquired in forty years' practice as a specialist in women's diseases, and included as well the discoveries of all other great physicians.

All that is latest in medicine—all that has been found useful to women, is contained in them. Nothing useless has been included. Nothing useful has been left out.

The result is, that every requirement of the female system in any possible condition is met by them.

And this fact has been certified to by leading physicians and chemists on this continent, to whom Dr. Hugo's prescription was submitted.

If you are in a run-down condition and don't feel as well as you would like to, or suffer from any menstruation difficulty, or weakness peculiar to your sex, avail yourself at once of the prescription of this great and good physician.

The cost of 72 tablets, enough for an extended treatment, is only 50c.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets Make Healthy Women.

Suffered for 23 Years With Kidney Trouble.

CURED AT LAST BY GIN PILLS.

Whether you are just beginning to feel the first twinges of kidney pains—or whether you have tried for years to find relief—Gin Pills will cure you. Surely you can't doubt their virtues after such a letter as this:

"I sent for a free sample of your Gin Pills some time ago, and found them to give me great relief, so I put myself under the treatment, and am now using the third box, and feel myself entirely cured. I have suffered with my kidneys for 23 years. At the time I began taking Gin Pills I could not turn in bed without pain. If I moved at night, the pain would be so great that it would wake me up. Now I am free of pain, and feel as well as I did 23 years ago. I feel it my duty to let you know about Gin Pills, so that it might be the means of relieving some other sufferer.

"HENRY WAKEFORD, Toronto."

Gin Pills hold out a guarantee of certain, quick relief. They will stop the pain—heal the sick kidneys—and build up the whole system—or your druggist will refund your money. That shows our confidence in Gin Pills. We will do more. We will send you a trial box of Gin Pills absolutely free if you will write asking for it and state the name of the paper in which you see this. ENGLAND

An extraordinary scene occurred recently in a Sheffield back street, at the house of an Irish wheelwright named Grogan. His wife had just died, and in a downstair room he and his neighbour were holding a wake in the orthodox fashion. In the bedroom above, the corpse was laid out on a specially-draped bed, and tall candles were burning brightly all around. A daughter of deceased went to the doorstep, and, looking up, saw the fierce glare of fire through the window of her dead mother's room. Her screams at once brought the people inside the house to the door, and for a few moments wild confusion prevailed as the frightened women ran into the street from neighbouring houses. Several people, however, rushed upstairs into the death-chamber, to find the room in a blaze, the pale face of the corpse shining strangely in the midst of a circle of flames. Two of the candles had bent with the heat of the room and ignited the bed curtains. Many bucketfuls of water had to be thrown over the bed and the corpse before the flames were extinguished, and this was not done before the dead woman's face and hair had been burned.

On October 21, 1903, Mr. T. J. Lacey, an officer of the barque Eureka, 71 days out on a voyage from California to Liverpool, placed in a sealed bottle, which he threw overboard, a picture postcard addressed to his cousin, Miss L. Bloomfield, of Manchester. Written on the card were the words, "Kingly let me know if you get this." Nothing more was seen of the bottle until July of this year, when it was picked up by a native near Cape Maria, Van Dieman, on the west coast of New Zealand, about 9,000 miles from the place where it had been pitched into the sea. The native gave it to Miss J. Yates, of Paengo, by whom it was handed to Captain Stein, of the steamer Waitangi. The captain enclosed it in a letter addressed to Miss Bloomfield, who duly received it. Apparently the salt water had penetrated the cork of the bottle in the course of the two years and three-quarters, as the card was very wet when found. It was dried, however, and the hand-writing and the view upon it are quite distinct.

A glorious page of military history is recalled by the death at Birmingham recently, of Colour-Sergt. Ed. Zeer, of the Somerset L. I. Deceased, who was 89 years of age, was the last survivor of the British force which withstood a six months' siege at Jellalabad during the first Afghan war in 1842. He was the sentry who challenged Dr. Brydone, the only survivor of Gen. Elphinstone's force, which, while on the way to the relief of the garrison, was massacred in the Khyber Pass. Dr. Brydone reached that city exhausted and emaciated, and suggested to Lady Butler her famous picture, "The Remnant of an Army." Zeer wrote a little booklet of the siege from a diary, and in this he gives a vivid picture of the historic dash for liberty made by the garrison in the dead of night, and how the Afghans were taken unawares and completely routed. He was one of those also, who discovered the body of Gen. Elphinstone and the skeletons of his massacred force.

A pathetic story of a man's long pilgrimage in search of work was told to the Sunbury, Middlesex, magistrates recently. The narrator was a labourer named James Britton. He stated that he set out from home ten week ago in search of employment, and tramped the following stages: Walton to Guildford; Guildford to Portsmouth; Portsmouth to Southampton; Southampton to Bournemouth; Bournemouth to Poole; Poole to Dorchester, where he got some casual work in the fields, but earned very little money; Dorchester to Shepton Mallet; Shepton Mallet to Bristol, Bilton and Newport, where he got a little to do in the docks; Newport to Gloucester, Cheltenham, Derby, Rotherham, Sheffield and Chesterfield, where he gave himself up to the police. Britton added that he had to beg his way through all those places, and on some days he had not a mouthful to eat. When the man gave himself up he was absolutely starving.

The County of Durham, with its numerous pit villages and large shipbuilding towns, is generally recognized as one of the counties where overcrowding is almost at its worst. The Sunderland Rural Council, a body which governs a large area, as the sanitary authorities intend to make a genuine move to try to grapple with the housing question. The council propose obtaining land at Ryhope Colliery and Tunstall, two pit villages, where they will erect 96 dwellings, in twelve blocks of eight thus affording accommodation for 528 persons. Each block will house 10 families, there being in each four self-contained houses of four rooms, letting at 5s. 9d., while flats containing three and two rooms will let for 4s. 3d. and 3s. 9d., respectively. Each dwelling will have a bath and also space at the rear. The scheme will involve an outlay of £20,000, which is to be raised by loan.

The possibilities of latter-day romance were well exemplified in the career of Mr. Edward Arnott, who began life as a railway guard and died a millionaire. His death occurred at Monmouth a few days ago. While Mr. Arnott was a railway guard the Bwlfa colliery, which was situated close to the place where he worked, was in a bad financial condition. Mr. Arnott induced a number of Aberdare men to join him in purchasing the shares at very low prices. The company was reorganized and attained great prosperity. Other properties were absorbed with the profits from the original investment, and the combined enterprise was so shrewdly managed that dividends since 1900 have ranged from 30 to 40 per cent.

SCOTLAND

Extraordinary scenes were witnessed in Dundee, a few days ago. For nearly 1,000 years the practice has been faithfully adhered to of holding Lady Mary Fair. The recent tendency has been in the direction of abolishing the fair, but unfortunately the town council are only lessees, the rights of the market belonging to the Earl of Home. Year after year the shopkeepers in High street have complained of the interference with business caused by itinerant vendors erecting booths in front of their shops, and this year they sought to remedy the nuisance by themselves acquiring the stands in front of the shops. Unfortunately they failed to occupy the ground in the legal sense, and the "Cheap Jack" fraternity promptly put up stands in the vacant sites. The squatters were not removed without considerable disturbance, in the course of which several persons were apprehended. A crowd, thousands strong, lent their sympathy to the evicted and attacked the shopkeepers' stalls. Booths were overturned, and melons were utilized as footballs, extensive destruction being caused. The owners assayed to preserve their property, but in few cases were they successful. Several shops had to be closed until the riot was quelled.

A Scottish grievance of which a great deal was heard soon after King Edward's accession has again been raised in connection with the treaty which regulates the marriage settlement of the new Queen of Spain. The use of the words "the law of England" in Article III. of the treaty has caused the Scottish Patriotic Association to protest against the "misleading" and "erroneous" use of the term "England" instead of "Britain." A meeting of protest was held in Glasgow a few days ago. It was summoned by the council of the association, and a resolution condemning the use of the word "England" was unanimously adopted, and was ordered to be forwarded to the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary. The resolution urged that since England, as a separate kingdom, ceased to exist at the union with Scotland, and the succession to the throne of Britain was regulated by Article II of the Act of Union, the forfeiture of rights of succession to the British throne can now only be legally carried out in terms of the Act of Union, and not according to the law of England, and the wording Spanish Royal Marriage Treaty is therefore erroneous and misleading.

The Earl of Leven and Melville, the King's High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland until early this year, died recently, at his Scottish seat, Glenfernesa, Dunphail, Ayrshire. He was one of the greatest and wealthiest of Scottish peers, for, in addition to the large estates which he inherited, he was keenly interested in banking, and was the head of the Scottish house of Melville, Evans & Co., as well as a director of the Bank of England. The office he held—the Lord High Commissionership—is one of considerable importance in Scotland, for with it comes the right to reside in the famous Royal Palace of Holyrood, as well as a salary of £2,000 a year. The Lord High Commissioner represents the King at the deliberations of the General Assembly, and listens heroically to kirk elders arguing abstruse points in theology at great length. He keeps open house at Holyrood during the General Assembly, and maintains mimic sovereignity. As many as a hundred guests are entertained at the great banquet at the palace every night.

Miss Van Norden, a wealthy young American lady, who was for some years private secretary to General Booth, and devoted her life to Salvation Army work, died recently at Cray House, between Glenshee and Blairgowrie, Perthshire, from injuries received in a carriage smash. Miss Van Norden, with three other tourists, was driving from Glenshee to Blairgowrie, when the horses bolted. At the foot of the hill the vehicle overturned. Miss Van Norden was pinned by the carriage, her skull being fractured. Miss Van Norden was shortly to be married to Colonel Bates, of the Salvation Army.

An extraordinary cycling fatality occurred at Edinburgh recently. Whilst riding along a country lane a labourer named Etherington collided with two unknown cyclists, and sustained a slight cut over his eye. Assuring his companion that he was not badly hurt, Etherington then cycled ahead, and subsequently fell from his machine, and was found lying in the road. He was removed home in a dazed condition, and was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain, which proved fatal. All the cyclists were riding leisurely.

Two Italians fought a duel on Calton Hill, at Edinburgh, a few days ago. They quarrelled in East Register street near the general post office, and the police stopped the quarrel. But about midnight, by arrangement, the two Italians, with friends, went to Calton Hill, and faced each other with revolvers. Each fired without injury to his opponent, after which the duelists shook hands and left hastily.

IRELAND

Two massive cog-wheels, connected with the shafting, burst with a tremendous noise at the York street Mills, Belfast, recently, and the many pieces showered into the spinning rooms, where hundreds of women operatives were at work. There were several marvellous escapes and the panic stricken women ran shrieking into the other departments, communicating their terror to the operatives. They poured in a body into the mill yard, and thence by every exit on to the street. Women fainted in the crush and many young girls collapsed, but they were borne into safety by the more level headed. Rumours of a catastrophe spread quickly and the friends of the operatives rushed to the mills, adding to the confusion. The gates were closed but the crowd remained clamorous outside, and it was some time before order could be restored.

The following is a list of the things which a man ordered recently, when, as he explained in a Dublin police court, he was on a drunken "spree." It is said that he represented himself as a caterer for the Atlantic Fleet: 22 pigs' heads; 42 tins of milk; 40 lbs. of bacon; 256 buckets of lard; 100 lbs. of cheap tea; 2 sacks of sugar; 3 cwts. pigs' feet; 2 bags of oatmeal; 3 cwt. corned beef and mutton; 4 casks of soft soap; 1 1-3 cwt. margarine; 30 lbs. of flour; 60 large tins of sardines; 4 cows; 6 Irish sheep; 1 foreign sheep; 45 loin chops, 43 syphons soda; 40 doz. soda; 3 barrels XX stout; 3 barrels porter; 72 dozen stout; 190 bottles whiskey; 12 doz. lager beer; 12 doz. Bass; 30 bottles gin; 100 bottels port; 100 flasks rum.

The Marconi station at Ballyconneely, near Clifden, Connemara, will be the largest of its kind on this side of the Atlantic, and inaugurates the first regular Transatlantic commercial service. Work has been in progress since November and the station is expected to be open for business early next year. Over 10,000 pounds has already been spent on the spot in wages. There will be eight masts, 200 feet in height, from which messages will be transmitted and received. Accommodation is being prepared for twenty-four men, a fact which gives some idea of the magnitude of the operations expected. The station is erected in the midst of a wide expanse of bog, rock and waste.

A curious sidelight is thrown on the alleged power of the priest in Irish social life, by an article in the Edinburg Review. Through a great part of Ireland public opinion, moulded by the clergy, separates the sexes as far as possible, say the writer. At the church door, and whenever else they congregate, men group on one side, women on the other. It is not well thought of for people of opposite sexes to be seen walking along the road together, even to a market. On the whole public opinion discourages sweethearting.

A little boy named Philip Cawley was savaged to death recently by a horse on the Isle of Inishkea, off the Mayo coast. The lad with two others was turning a number of horses from a barley field when one of the animals dashed at the boys, seized Philip by the coat, and galloped away. The other boys pursued, but before they overtook the horse it had bitten Philip several times and shaken him in such a savage manner that he died almost immediately.

An Irish College has been opened at Cloghanceley, in Donegal county, to train teachers in the Gaelic language. Dr. Douglas Hyde wrote declaring the project a splendid one, and sympathetic letters were received from five Catholic Bishops. The Protestant Primate and the head of the Presbyterians also gave encouragement to the plan. Similar colleges in Munster and Connaught are already in successful operation.

The annual report of the Registrar General for Ireland, issued a few days ago, shows an excess of births over deaths of 27,761. The loss by emigration was 30,678, leaving an apparent decrease of population of 2,915. This however is offset by immigration, of which no official record is obtainable at present. The population of Ireland in the middle of 1905, was 4,391,565.

LA GRIPPE

This distressing and unfortunately very common malady easily takes rank among the very "meanest" of the diseases to which people living in this climate are liable.

La Grippe is no respector of persons; it attacks the young and the old, the rich and the poor with the utmost impartiality.

Except in the cases where Pneumonia develops, La Grippe is seldom directly fatal; the real danger lies in the after effects. Even when the patient has fairly well recovered from an attack (and it is very hard to tell just when he has fully recovered) the muscles are relaxed, the nerves unstrung, the heart and lungs weak, the throat and bronchial tubes irritable and tender and the whole system depressed, run-down and in no condition to resist the attack of any other disease to which it may be exposed.

This condition is fraught with danger and demands instant and intelligent attention, the system must be built up and restored to a normal and healthy condition—advice easy to give, often very hard to follow.

The appetite is liable to be poor and the digestion impaired so that it is almost impossible to consume and digest sufficient ordinary food to do the work quickly and effectively. What is required is a concentrated food, palatable, easy to digest and containing the elements necessary to repair the waste which La Grippe has committed.

Just such a food is found in

a scientifically prepared emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus, palatable, digestible and effective. FERROL contains just what the run down system needs and all it requires. Cod Liver Oil to restore the lost flesh and make what is left firm and healthy, Iron to enrich the impoverished blood and restore elasticity and firmness to the relaxed muscles, Phosphorus to tone the nerve and brain as nothing else will.

Two or three bottles of FERROL, taken after the acute stage of La Grippe has passed, will do more to repair damages than can possibly be accomplished in any other way. Try it and see.

HOW TWO BEAUTIFUL WOMEN CURED PELVIC CATARRH BY TAKING PE-RU-NA.

Headache, Backache and Weakness Are Symptoms of Pelvic Catarrh.

Doctored a Year With No Relief—Health Restored By Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Sophia Calwell, box 357, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"After doctoring for a year and finding no relief from leucorrhea resulting from prolapsus uteri, and which was sapping my life forces away, I finally tried Peruna, and when I found that it was helping me every day, it seemed almost too good to be true.

"But, it not only helped me, it cured me and in a very short time. I am now enjoying the best of health.

"I am strong and free from pain, and I certainly feel that all praise and honor are due to Peruna."

Recommends Pe-ru-na to Other Sufferers.

Miss Edith Reams, 726 North Main street, Dayton, Ohio, writes:

"I suffered for some time with both lung and female troubles.

"I had been under the treatment of a good physician for about nine months without obtaining any relief, when Peruna was recommended to me.

"After taking twelve bottles of this medicine I have completely regained my health.

"I am pleased to recommend Peruna to any one suffering from the above ailments."

THE organs of the pelvis, like other internal organs of the body, are lined by mucous membranes.

These membranes are liable to catarrh the same as the mucous membranes in any other part of the body.

Pelvic catarrh may be caused by the extension of catarrh from other parts of the body.

Or, it may be brought on by overwork, by irritating discharges and by excesses of various kinds.

When the organs of the pelvis once become the seat of catarrh, various derangements arise which are called by different names.

A long list of diseases, which cannot be discussed in public print, some of them peculiar to the female sex, others common to both sexes, are caused by catarrh of the pelvic organs.

Local treatment does not seem to be of any use.

Some of the organs are so located as to be beyond reach.

Peruna is an internal, systemic remedy.

It relieves catarrh wherever located in the human body.

Thousands of cases of pelvic catarrh have been relieved by the internal use of Peruna.

Peruna aims to relieve catarrh only.

Peruna is not a cure-all, but can be relied upon to relieve catarrh in all its various phases, locations and stages.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice.

Mrs. Lizzie Lohr, 1155 W. 18th street, Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I take pleasure in writing you, thinking there may be other women suffering as I did. I was rundown so far that I had to sit down to do my cooking—I was so weak. The doctors wanted to operate on me. At last I wrote to Dr. Hartman, telling him how I was, and he told me how to take Peruna. I did as he told me, and now I am cured."

An Excursion To Bobcaygeon

Will be Run Under Auspices of Bridgenorth Foresters.

An excursion will be run under the auspices of Court Bridgenorth, No. 315, C.O.F., from Bridgenorth to Bobcaygeon, on Friday, September 28th. The steamer Esturion will carry the excursionists, and will leave Bridgenorth at 8 o'clock, calling at Braden's Point, Indian Village, Gannon's Narrows, and Sandy Point. Those attending will have the privilege of attending the fair at Bobcaygeon, and of spending a day's outing, which undoubtedly will prove a pleasant one.

For Family Colds.

A reliable cough and cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear.

It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

It is safer, too.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in Canada and the United States to-day are never without it.

A dealer writes: "Shiloh's Consumption Cure is without doubt the best remedy for Coughs and Colds on the market. Since used, my customers will buy no other.—L. Ehley, Nanticoke, Ont."

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches or require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

The Discovery Of Nickel Steel Was Simply An Accident

discovery changed the whole situation. We found we had a great nickel deposit, instead of a great copper deposit, or, to be more correct, we had a great nickel and copper deposit. As the world's annual consumption of nickel was then only about 1,000 tons, the question was what was to be done with all the nickel which these deposits could produce. I at once recalled the experience I had with John Gamgee at the Navy Yard at Washington, ten years previous to this time, and it occurred to me that nickel could be used with success in the manufacture of guns and for many other purposes as an alloy with iron and steel. I wrote to the famous gun maker, Krupp, at Essen, Germany, telling him of the Washington experiments, and asking him about his use of it in the guns which he made. I received an answer from him through his New York agents, treating the matter lightly, and refusing to believe that there was any sufficient quantity of nickel in the world to warrant experiments looking to any extended use of the metal. The question of these alloys was, however, brought by Krupp, or someone representing him, to the attention of the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, and that Institute appointed one of its members, James Riley, the manager of the Steel Company, Glasgow, to conduct a series of experiments with this alloy, and report at the next meeting of the Institute.

Nickel-steel a Fact.

This he did with great care and exactness, and embodied his experiments in a report dated in May, 1889. This report I showed to General Tracy, then Secretary of the United States Navy, in the summer of 1889, just as I was leaving for Europe. He read the report and grasped its far-reaching importance within an hour or two after receiving it, and said that the Navy Department wished to send an expert representative of the Government with me to any and to all places which I might visit in Europe in the interests of this nickel-steel alloy. As I was going to Europe for that purpose, did go with us to visit the works of Krupp in Germany, and the principal establishments of Great Britain and France, and the famous Rio Tinto mines of Spain. Sir Charles made a report to Sir John A. Macdonald, and Lieutenant Buckingham made a report to the Secretary of the United States Navy of what we had been able to see and find out. We spent two days in the works of Krupp at Essen, and were shown every possible courtesy.

First Nickel-steel Plate.

On our return Secretary Tracy ordered a nickel-steel armour plate made at the famous Creusot Works in France, and also a plain steel plate made at the same works, and a plain steel plate made at the works of Cammel & Co., at Sheffield, Eng., such as was then used on British vessels of war. These plates were brought to the Government proving grounds at Annapolis, Maryland, and set up side by side and fired at, at short range, by eight-inch guns.

The victory of the French nickel-steel plate was so complete over both the French and English plain steel plates that the trial and tests were heralded by telegraph and cables all over the civilized world.

JAMES RILEY, Glasgow, Scotland, whose researches in Alloys of Nickel and Steel in 1889, marked the beginning of the modern manufacture of Nickel-Steel.

Lieutenant B. H. Buckingham, of the U. S. Navy, then connected with the U. S. Ambassador at London, was appointed to accompany us wherever we might go in Europe in this interest. Sir Charles Tupper, then the Canadian High Commissioner in London, was also designated by Sir John A. Macdonald to accompany us in the interest of Canada in this enterprise to find out whatever might be learned in Europe about the uses and the alloys with nickel and steel. Sir Charles Tupper and Lieutenant B. H. Buckingham, of the U. S. Navy, visited the principal establishments in Europe, and I visited them also, and we met at the works of Krupp at Essen, and from there went to the Rio Tinto mines in Spain, and then to Gibraltar, where we separated, Sir Charles Tupper returning to Canada, Lieutenant Buckingham to the United States, and I to England.

Tracy, by this Government test, sent all the common steel armour plates to the junk heap, and practically revolutionized the offensive and defensive efficiency of the navies of the world.

Scarcely had the sound of the guns at Annapolis died away before Congress in an hour, at the request of the Secretary of the Navy, General Tracy, voted an appropriation of $1,000,000 to purchase nickel matte of Sudbury to be used in the manufacture of nickel-steel armour plate for the U. S. Navy. This million dollar appropriation by the U. S. Government and the use of nickel in steel advertised the Sudbury mines over all the commercial world. It saved the Canadian Copper Company from the expense of making any tests of nickel alloys, for they were all made by the Government. In short, the Government's action through the Navy put a new enterprise upon its feet. The Government changed the then existing contracts with the Bethlehem Steel Company from plain steel plates to nickel-steel plates. It entered into contracts with the Carnegie Steel Company for the manufacture of nickel-steel plates under which contracts millions of dollars were expended in building the famous Homestead works. The small experiment in the Washington Navy Yard in 1876 have grown to the proportions of covering every first-class warship in the navies of the world.

On December 7, 1901, an optional contract was entered into between four of the directors of the Canadian Copper Company and the Anglo-American Iron Company and Robert M. Thompson on behalf of himself and associates, the associates being Captain DeLamar, E. C. Converse and Charles M. Schwab, under which contract the directors of the Copper and Iron Companies undertook to sell, and Thompson and his associates undertook to buy, a controlling interest in the stocks of those two companies. It was a part of this contract that Thompson and his associates should form a company under the laws of New Jersey, to be known as the International Nickel Company, and that this company should receive from the purchasing syndicate the stocks of the Canadian Copper Company and the Anglo-American Iron Company, purchased under this optional contract of December 7, 1901, which optional contract was accepted by Thompson an dhis associates on February 28, 1902. The stocks of these corporations turned over by the purchasing syndicate were deposited with the New York Security and Trust Company as a basis for the issuance of the bonds of the International Nickel Company. I should, perhaps, have said that in carrying out this contract of December 7, 1901, the International Nickel Company under a New Jersey charter, was organized under date of April 1, 1902, with a share capital of $24,000,000, and a bonding privilege of $12,000,000.

A mortgage was executed by the International Company under date of April 1, 1902, securing the bonds of the company upon the stocks of the constituent companies deposited with the New York Security and Trust Company, who were the trustees for the bondholders of the International Company. The Nickel Syndicate also purchased the stocks of the Nickel Corporation of London, a New Caledonia concern, and one of Whitaker Wright's enterprises, and also the stock of another small French company, known as the Societe Miniarve Caledonienne. The aggregate of all the stocks, Canadian and New Caledonian, with the stocks of the Orford Copper Company, and the stock of Joseph Wharton's small plant at Camden, near Philadelphia, amounting to about $10,000,000, were deposited with the New York Security and Trust Company, and $10,300,000 of the authorized $24,000,000 of stock of the International Nickel Company were issued against these stocks thus deposited with the Trust Company. The stocks of all the constituent companies belong to the International Nickel Company. The New Caledonia companies are not and have not been operated by the International Nickel Company. No report is made of them in the reports of that Company.

The Canadian Copper Company now owns some sixteen thousand acres of land, and the Anglo-American Iron Co., some 85,000 acres. The International Company operates in Canada wholly through the constituent companies.

Discovery and Invention.

Neither Gamgee nor any other man invented nickel-steel. It is a discovery, not an invention, and it is probably the only instance in this world where any form of manufacture is carried on after a formula coming from the heavens or some other world other than our own.

There is a very beautiful specimen of nickel-iron meteorite in the Geological Museum at Ottawa, weighing about 400 lbs. It contains something over six per cent. of nickel, and was found on a farm in Hastings county, and for years was used by some untidy farmer to hold his barn door closed. It never occurred to this farmer that this lump of metal was a manufacture of the skies. I have several times offered $500 for this meteorite, but of course the Museum would not sell it. Perhaps I ought to add that as soon as Riley's report had been read by Secretary Tracy in 1889 and I had given him a report of the experiment in the Navy Yard in 1876, he put the whole machinery of the Department at work over the United States and Europe to find Gamgee. I, myself, while in Europe, had the directories of all the principal cities of Great Britain examined, but neither the Navy Department nor myself could find him. About a year later I was in the second-hand bookstore at Washington, owned by H. W. Lowdermilk, a place where Gamgee formerly spent much time, and I told the proprietor of the efforts of the Navy Department and myself to find Gamgee, and that we had concluded that he must be dead. He said he was not dead, and gave me his address in London which was within half a block of the office of the Canadian High Commissioner. I then wrote to him and received two or three letters from him. He was still in the field of invention, experiment and discovery. If there had been earlier laboratory tests or experiments with nickel and steel than those of the Washington Navy Yard in 1876, neither Gamgee nor myself knew anything about them. We followed the meteorite and there is not the shadow of a doubt that the reconstruction of the American navy, clad with nickel-steel armor plates was the direct result of these Washington Navy Yard experiments following the formula of the meteorite although the experiments were further carried out by the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain under the direction of James Riley ten or twelve years later. Gamgee is now dead, but General Tracy is alive and well, and I have no doubt would fully confirm every statement here made.

HENRY RANGER, Sudbury,
A Well Known Prospector of the Nickel Field.

Sulphur Spells Success.

Whatever might have been the ultimate development and outcome of the Sudbury nickel-copper deposits in other hands, and by other parties, one thing is very certain, that had it not been for the development of sulphur in the Hastings County iron ores, which made them unsaleable, thus depriving the Central Ontario Railway of the principal tonnage which it was built to carry, there never would have been any Canadian Copper Company or any Anglo-American Iron Company, or any International Nickel Company, and as the Washington Navy Yard experiments with nickel, iron and steel following the formula of the meteorite had already passed out of mind before the discovery of nickel in the Sudbury ores, there would, in all human probability, have to-day been no nickel-steel clad American navy, and this would mean that there would have been no nickel-steel clad navy in the world. From the sulphur in iron ores in Hastings County, Ontario, aided by the composition of the meteorite, has grown all the nickel and nickel-steel industry of this hemisphere as well as very much of like industries in the old world."

Sir John A. Macdonald's letter, introducing Mr. Ritchie to Sir Charles Tupper in an attempt, doomed to failure, to interest the Imperial authorities, shows the great premier's characteristic foresight in recognizing so early the importance to Canada and the Empire of the Sudbury nickel deposits:—

My Dear Sir Charles Tupper,—Our friend S. J. Ritchie, of Akron, Ohio, whom you know, is about to proceed to England for the purpose of calling the attention of the British public to our mineral wealth in Canada. He desires especially to submit to Her Majesty's Government the important fact that in Canada, especially in the region of Sudbury, is the largest deposit of nickel in the world. This metal is wanted particularly as an alloy to make an important gun metal, and its extended use will be of great advantage to the Dominion. Will you kindly put Mr. Ritchie in communication with the Secretary, both of the Army and Navy, as well as, if necessary, with Lord Salisbury? It is said that the use of nickel will tend to revolutionize the art of gun-making, and that experiments, both in England and Germany have proved this to be the fact, so you see the importance of the matter. I hope you will give Mr. Ritchie all the aid and countenance in your power. Believe me yours, very truly, John A. Macdonald.

After making his report of the Continental investigation which showed that Sudbury could easily produce ten times as much nickel as the other mines of the world and that the utility of the alloy was conceded, Sir Charles Tupper asks, "Why cannot Canada herself make this steel?" Why not?

Never in years has the St. John River been so low as at present. The bottom looms up in places like the banks and captains of steamers have to be very cautious when sailing in certain places on the river.

Mr. W. C. Farabee of the anthropolo-X— department of Harvard university, with three students, will next year conduct a research expedition about the headquarters of the Amazon river in South America. For a time a base will be established at Arequipa, Peru. The party will be gone about three years.

Slander Against Mr. Alexander

Dr. Torry's Colleague Said to Have Deserted Wife.

Liverpool, Sept. 19.—Evangelist C. M. Alexander was a visitor at the opening session of the revival here yesterday. The chairman, after a sympathetic reference to Mr. Alexander's recent illness, said that a baseless rumour had been in circulation to the effect that when Mr. Alexander married Miss Helen Cadbury he had a deserted wife and three children in America. Inquiries, the chairman said, had resulted in a complete refutation of the charge.

Mr. Alexander, who was the singing member of the Torrey-Alexander combination, was married to Miss Cadbury, the wealthy daughter of the late Richard Cadbury, a cocoa manufacturer, in London, in July, 1904. They came to the United States for their honeymoon.

Fireman Wins Fair Lady's Kiss

Caught Runaway and Saved Her and Her Father

Examiner Special

Paris, Sept. 22.—There was a distinctly French scene on the Boulevard Haussmann the other day. A hearse, drawn by two horses, returning from Montmarte Cemetery, was just turning into the boulevard, when the horses took fright and galloped madly away. The driver was thrown to the street.

A fireman named Weissrock, who was passing at the time, made a leap for the horses' heads and hung on courageously till, after being dragged a couple of blocks, he brought them to a standstill. Gen. Audot and his daughter, whose carriage was in the way of the runaways, and would have been smashed into fragments but for the fireman's brave act, hastened to the man's side, and, in the presence of the big crowd which gathered, both general and daughter embraced the fireman, kissing him on both cheeks. The crowd went and applauded. The fireman has been promoted.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. O. Barber.

A busy place is the Westminster Fruit Packing company's plant these days, and it would be still busier if they could get more hands. New and up-to-date machinery is being constantly added, and although the company is now handling more fruit than it has ever done before, yet the manager states that he could increase the output by at least 40 per cent. if he could secure the men.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Correspondence Was Not True

Examiner Hopes That Such a Course Will be Discontinued.

It appears that in a recent issue of the Weekly Examiner, some correspondence from Guerin was inserted, a part of which, it was afterwards learned was not true. The Examiner, of course, is sorry that this should have appeared, but the statement was published in good faith, not thinking that any injustice was being done to any of its readers.

It is about time that this sort of thing was stopped by correspondents who too frequently very unjudiciously wrong others. The Examiner hopes that in future correspondents will send in only authentic news as the editor is not in a position to discriminate between the true and the false.

Willed His Body To The Doctor

Had Nothing Else to Pay Him With.

Examiner Special.

Webster City, Ia., Sept. 22.—When F. G. Orris willed his body to Dr. Lloyd, of Fort Dodge, in payment for medical services, he raised an interesting legal question that may be fought out in the courts. Orris was aged, and lived in a hut in the city. He had a daughter, and a son-in-law, named Woodson, but they gave him little support. Dr. Lloyd attended the old man in his final illness, and Orris wanted to pay the doctor, but had no means with which to do so.

So he made a will, and in it gave his body to Dr. Lloyd for the use in the interest of medical science. After the old man's death, Dr. Lloyd exhibited the will, but Woodson, the son-in-law, refused to allow Lloyd to take the corpse. In the end the body was buried at the poor farm.

Now Dr. Lloyd is considering the matter of filing the will for probate and asking that a special administrator be appointed to take charge of the body.

Lawyers differ as to whether a court would allow the proceeding. Some attorneys hold that under the will the son-in-law has no claim whatever on the body, and that Dr. Lloyd has the right to have the remains exhumed and to use the body for the purpose named in the will.

Bull Dog With Six Gold Teeth

His Master, a Dentist, Puts in Six New Grinders

Examiner Special.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 22.—Scranton now boasts of a gold-toothed dog. It is a bull pup, the property of Dr. H. S. Saunders, a dentist, and it has six gold teeth in its lower jaw.

Dr. Fred. S. Birchard, formely of this city, but now of Montrose, has a dog with a gold tooth and this dog became famous the country over. It is possible that the fame achieved by Dr. Birchard's animal led Dr. Saunders to go his brother practitioner several better and place six gold teeth in the jaws of the bulldog. At all events that is what he did.

"Doc," that is the beast's name, was stretched out on his back and while someone held him his owner used the forceps, pulling out the roots of several decayed teeth. The rest was easy. It was bridge work and the animal stood it without a whine.

130,000 Homes are Warmed and Fed from the Happy Thought Range

The idea that for an ordinary dwelling "one stove is enough" originated in the superior cooking and heating capacity of the Happy Thought Range. Few rural homes find need of a heater where they have this magnificent range. No stove inventor ever embodied so many good ideas all in one stove as did the designer of the Happy Thought. The arrangement of drafts, the construction of the grate, the circulation of hot air around the oven, the corrugated oven-lining, the ability to heat water and keep it hot are points that put the

in a class by itself. It can heat the whole dwelling in winter, while in summer the fire can be checked immediately after cooking, thus keeping the house delightfully cool. 130,000 households are now using it both for cooking and heating, and from all reports they would not exchange for any other stove in the world. Ask your dealer about it. Every Happy Thought burns coal or wood. Send to us for an illustrated catalogue—free.

One of Three Things Always Cause

RHEUMATISM

Do you know the system rids itself of waste matter through bowels and kidneys? Yes, but by the skin as well.

As a matter of fact, the skin rids the system of more urea than the kidneys do.

If the skin, or bowels, or kidneys are unhealthy—they won't throw off enough urea. This urea is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to joints and nerves—causing Rheumatism.

One never inherits Rheumatism. One does inherit weak kidneys, irregular bowels and bad skin action.

Fruit-a-tives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

will positively cure Rheumatism because they increase the eliminating action of skin, kidneys and bowels—and make these three organs so vigorous and healthy that there can be no urea or waste retained in the system to poison the blood and irritate the nerves.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices, combined with tonics—the whole forming the most effective cure for Rheumatism.

Left Church After The Wedding To Play Cricket

An English Bridegroom That Was Devoted To The Game.

London, September 14.—Arthur Dawson, a member of the famous Blackburn Rovers football team and one of the best batsmen in the Lancashire Cricket league, does not intend to allow matrimony to interfere with sport.

Directly after coming out of the church in which he and his bride—a pretty young school teacher—had been made one, Dawson, whose average for his club was 33.04, donned flannels and played for the Rishton team, while his bride looked on and was torn with conflicting emotions.

She was, of course, anxious that her husband's average should not be decreased, but at the same time there was the possibility that if he got well set and made a century, they might lose the train on which they were to depart for their honeymoon.

However, Rishton won their match in time, and Arthur Dawson and his bride went away happy.

But this is not the whole story of Arthur Dawson's devotion to sport and his club. Hec had only been honeymooning four days when his club committee again urged him to assist them in another important match. Arthur Dawson saw his duty clear. His young bride swallowed a lump in her throat and bravely accompanied him back to the fated field, and reaped her reward when Arthur Dawson increased his average to 33.05.

Dawson, who is just over twenty, is one of the most promising members of the Blackburn Rovers football team, and bids fair to make a big name for himself in the coming football season.

Are you "up to the Mark"?

Are Stomach, Liver and Bowels in the best possible condition for winter? Surely you know what will make those vital organs healthily active—and build up the whole system. It is the "Salt of Salts"—

MY SIMPLE THEME.

O Canada, O Canada,
Bright star of the Empire,
I dedicate my simple theme,
With hearty good desire,
We buy from Uncle Sam too much,
He buys from us too small.
O Canada, O Canada,
That is not right at all,

O Canada, O Canada,
Is dear to me, ever,
Land of the sugar maple tree
And home of the beaver,
And one of the old lion's whelps,
King of the wildest wood,
A noble animal is he,
Old England's emblem good.

O Canada, O Canada,
Men will all have their say,
On a political question
Or something in this way,
Let a man be a good Tory
Or let him be a Grit,
The man that you can never bribe
Is best man in the kit.

O Canada, O Canada,
I ought not to forget,
Sir Richard Cartwright, Senator
He is such a good Grit,
He may not like my simple theme,
He was a free trade man,
Now in the National Policy field
Eating the most he can.

O Canada, O Canada,
It's said we govern well,
But can we not do better,
A little change might tell,
Why should we stick in the old rut
If we can steer out so?
The old stage coach and carrier cart
Were both good long ago.

O Canada, O Canada,
Your lands are rich I know,
Victoria gave you the North West,
I need not tell you so.
And Sir John A. MacDonald then
Bought out the Hudson Bay,
And joined our new Dominion
With the C. P. Railway.

O Canada, O Canada,
Your National Policy
Was given to you by Sir John,
It still remains, I see.
If the Grits had ever destroyed it
They would not govern now,
It is the National Policy
That keeps them in, I vow.

O Canada, O Canada,
The truth is often said
That you should join with old England
In preferential trade.
Let England put a small duty
Against all foreign food.
And Canada might do something
To help each other good.

O Canada, O Canada,
Why don't you go ahead,
And make your tariffs suitable
To all your friends in trade?
Why don't you favour old England
While England favours you?
It would seem more like unity,
And each would have their due.

O Canada, O Canada,
If you would do your best,
You might have factories growing
All through our great North West,
If you put a duty similar
Against Yankee commerce
New factories would spring right up
Throughout our universe.

O Canada, O Canada,
You are a silly clam,
If you don't keep your tariff up,
Equal to Uncle Sam.
You cannot send your wares across
To Uncle Sam's domain,
Unless you even tariffs up,
You're sure to lose, not gain.

O Canada, O Canada,
Look at your trade this year,
The Dingley and Fielding tariffs,
Shows our juxtaposition clear.
The Dingley tariff keeps imports
From Canada low down.
The Fielding tariff gives the States
The run of all we own.

O Canada, O Canada,
Just look here how we lie,
We sell the States one dollar's worth
To thirty that we buy,
This balance of trade is given
To Uncle Sam all free.
Enough to buy a war of war
To sail the raging sea.

O Canada, O Canada,
Is building a railway
Reaching from ocean to ocean,
Across all Canada,
To cost near two hundred million,
All added to our debt.
Some lucky men will get a chance,
And do not you forget.

O Canada, O Canada,
It is a crime to steal,
And yet we hear of land grabbing
And such dishonest deal,
No doubt but some are getting rich
In this low sort of way,
Our rulers should be honest men,
In least I have to say.

O Canada, O Canada,
The Trent Valley Canal
Is work of great importance to
Our New Dominion all,
Millions of dollars have been spent,
The scheme is of the best,
Then why not spend a trifle more
And finish up the rest?

O Canada, O Canada,
I'm sorry thus to see
You have no army in your field,
Nor fleets upon the sea,
And yet you are so very mean
In sharing England's cost,
Without her army and her fleets
You surely would be lost.

O Canada, O Canada,
I think we might excel,
To help the world in peace-making,
In harmony to dwell,
Our noble King is aiming high
And we might follow him,
We cannot lose by striving well
For the millenium.

Cripple Walks After A Dream

Thought He Was Fighting Several Men and Got Well.

Examiner Special.

Marion, Ind., Sept. 22.— Dreaming that several men were attacking him, George Gilpin, of this city, who had been a cripple for years, unable to walk without the aid of crutches, struggled desperately, striking with his hands and kicking with his feet. When he awoke he was doing some exceedingly violent gymnastic stunts and, jumping out of bed, was astounded to learn that he could walk unassisted.

Gilpin suffered a dislocation of the hip joint several years ago. Surgeons failed to join the dislocated parts properly and the injured leg became shortened.

A few hours after the dream Gilpin walked about the business district of the city and greeted his old friends. Surgeons say that while Gilpin was asleep the muscles and tendons became relaxed and, in the violent exercise brought about by the dream the dislocated hip joint dropped back into place. Gilpin is advanced in years.

Married On The Quiet Were Handcuffed For Sport

Friend Arranges Surprise and Bridal Party Are Forced to Assist.

Examiner Special.

Detroit, September 22.—Hand in hand, each oblivious to everything but the other's presence, George Harnicke, 20 years old, and she who but a few moments before had been Laura Duffield, aged 19, slyly tiptoed from the parsonage straight into the snare set by a cunning friend to whom they had entrusted all arrangements for a marriage Thursday evening on the strict "q. t."

It was the hand-in-hand feature of their exit from Rev. W. C. Miller's home that made their capture easy, for the wily friend. In a trice he had slipped a pair of steel bracelets about the two artists in close proximity. Then, with a shout of glee, he started off down the street, pulling at the handcuffs, and they, perforce, had to follow him, with a joyous army of small boys at their heels.

Straight to the Arlington hotel, where he had given all their friends a tip to assemble, ran the captor with his prey. The quarry begged and pleaded and coaxed and teased and bullied—but the handcuffs were on, and go they must.

Great was the shout raised by the assembled friends of the newly wedded pair when through the door bounced the hunter with the hunted at the end of the little steel chain. The revelry was begun, kept up and continued at the expense of the newly wedded until early the next morning.

Then Mr. and Mrs. Harnicke separated, she going to her home and he back to his parents. They weren't going to have that crowd of Indians follow them with shout and giggle when they mounted their own doorstep for the first time. They waited until Friday afternoon to go out to the home which Harnicke had been quietly furnishing for the last two weeks.

Behold the villians had already gotten in their work. No. 39 Rogers street was decorated from gable to foundation with strings of old boots, corn stalks, gaudily painted signs, tin pans and cans, hats, coats and posters.

To cap the climax, as the groom opened the door to usher his bride into her new domain, a tub upset above them and nearly buried them in rice. "Moral", said Harnicke: "Don't let a friend arrange for your wedding. If you want it on the strict 'q. t.' in marriage, you have no friends."

Had No Bones Yet He Lived For 21 Years

Antonio Congo, a Freak of Nature Died in Brooklyn After 21 Years Of An Existence—Had No Bones In Body.

Examiner Special.

New York, Sept. 22.—Born without a bone in his body and absolutely helpless, Antonio Congro, of No. 234 North Fifth street, Brooklyn, lived for twenty-one years, died on Friday and was buried yesterday.

His case attracted much attention from medical men, who frequently visited the home of his father to examine him. Although Antonio's father, Frank Congro, who is prominent in Republican politics, spent thousands of dollars in employing specialists to treat his son, all of them were forced to admit that his ailment baffled them.

From the day of his birth until his death Antonio was never out of a cradle, except when held on a pillow that the bed linen might be changed. He could see, but could neither hear nor talk. He was powerless to move hand or foot, and yet was perfectly formed, except for the fact that he had no bones.

Antonio was twenty inches in height and his body was broad. Despite the absence of bones, for years he apparently enjoyed the best of health. He was fed with a spoon and regularly took nourishment and thrived until last spring, when he began to fail.

Physicians and specialists from all over the country were called in by the father, but the patient grew worse, until on Friday he went to sleep and did not awaken. The physicians wanted to perform an autopsy to find the cause of the mysterious affliction, but the parents objected.

Mr. Congo has six other children, all of whom are healthy.

Diamonds And Their Values

Where the Precious Stones Are Found And Their Uses.

The valuable black diamond is found in the province of Bahia, Brazil, in the La Chapada and Lavras districts, where it is mined from the stream beds and other clay. The miners usually sell their finds to the agents of exporters in the city of Bahia.

A number of large stones have been found, among them one of 1,100 karats about twenty-five years ago, also one of 1,700 karats; and in 1895 a gigantic stone of 3,078 karats, or 615 grams, which Mr. Basbanger purchased and broke up into suitable sizes for diamond drills, a special machine being devised for that purpose. This stone, it is interesting to note, was bought for $32,000, and at the present time it would be worth $230,850. Several stones of 400 to 800 karats have been discovered during the last ten years, and it is a common occurrence to find stones of from 100 to 200 karats.

This is a modern industry—the application of carbonado to diamond drilling. Prior to 1870 the substance was valueless. From 1870 to 1872 it was employed as an abrasive for cutting and polishing the white gems and thousands of karats were sold for 50 cents a karat to be crushed into powder for this purpose. A few years later when it began to be used in drilling the price advanced to $2 and $4 a karat, and then it rose gradually to $10, where it remained until 1895, after which it went up by leaps and bounds to $50. The price fell back to $25 and then rapidly advanced to $75, where it now remains.

It is interesting also to note that in putting down the drill hole at Rybnik, Upper Silesia, to a depth of nearly 7,000 feet, upwards of $25,000 worth of these diamonds were used — actually consumed. The carbon settings for a drill bit are expensive. Bits as large as one foot in diameter, set with $5,000 to $8,000 worth of diamonds, are frequently used in Europe.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face from choking. It gave him instant relief and cure."—Mr. William McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

Are You Strong?

Do You Eat and Sleep Well? —Or Are You Pale, Weak and Miserable?

Has your nerve given out? Have you lost confidence in yourself? Has work become such an awful burden that you look upon it with horror?

There's just one thing left to do, and that is to take Ferrozone and get your system into good shape again.

It's quite impossible for anyone to be weak or nervous that uses Ferrozone. It contains so many strength-giving properties benefit is bound to result from its use.

Ferrozone possesses the power to kindle new vitality and vigor where almost a dying condition of weakness exists.

It is an extraordinary and magical tonic, containing more actual nourishment and strengthening elements than you can get at in any other way. As a blood purifier, nerve strengthener and appetizing tonic there is simply no equal to Ferrozone. Of this we are positively sure.

It is crowned with the success of splendid cures; will restore anyone to health who uses it. The following letters from people who have actually experienced what Ferrozone can do will clearly show you just how beneficially it acts:—

No Medicine Ever Did So Much Lasting Good as Ferrozone.

"It would be difficult to express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Ferrozone," writes Miss Eva Wight, of Florenceville. "I was so weak and miserable that I could scarcely go around the house. My head ached, there was a dragging weakness in my limbs, and I felt as if every spark of life had left me. Ferrozone improved my appetite, toned up my blood, and soon made me well. Nothing I ever used did me half the good I got from Ferrozone."

The Great Tonic, Ferrozone, Brought Back Life.

"I am anxious to speak a good word for such a magnificent tonic as Ferrozone," says E. P. Geow, of Yorktown. "I was wretchedly worn out. I was apprehensive, and lacked confidence. It was simply due to my very weak state. The only remedy that really did me lasting good was Ferrozone. It rebuilt my strength, has made me as vigorous and happy as a man could be. In the whole range of medicines I never used anything with half the merit I found in Ferrozone."

Though you spend a thousand dollars on doctors, you can't get a more vitalizing, strengthening tonic than Ferrozone. It is the best that money, combined with scientific research, can produce. If anything in this world will make you strong it must be Ferrozone. Others have proved its worth. You can easily do so for yourself. It will send new vital energy and renewed youth singing through your veins. It's nature's own remedy—a true food tonic.

Dost thou love life: then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.—Franklin.

GOD'S TEMPLE.

The groves God's temples are,
  Domed by the blue above,
Lighted by sun and star,
  And sanctified by love.

Whose heart is clean may hear
  In every leafy shrine
His voice—the message clear,
  Uplifting and divine.

Whose heart is pure may see
  In leaf and flower His face—
Beauty and mystery
  Lighting the world with grace.

Whose heart holds faith may know
  The angels' joy and mirth,
Hearing the glad birds go—
  God's choristers on earth.

Whose heart is His may beat
  With happiness to find
His gracious mercy-seat,
  And hear His welcome kind.

O heart be glad to rove
  In these His temples fair,
To worship in the grove
  And taste God's blessing there!

—Frank Dempster Sherman.

WHEN INFLUENCE NEED NOT COUNT.

No man ever failed solely for the lack of good influences. Many a man likes to believe that he would have done better if the influences about him had been better—but the man who believes that would not be likely to profit by better influences if he had them. The only influence that we need to be concerned about is that which we control. It is our duty to shed a right influence on others, and it is our duty to seek right influences if we can. For the influences or the lack of influences upon our lives which are beyond our control, we have no responsibility. God can enable us to do our best without the favourable surroundings that we lack, or in spite of the unfavourable conditions that we regret. God's influence is at hand for all of us; if we will not respond to that, the best of earthly friends could not help us.

LEARN THESE TWO THINGS.

You want to be true and you are trying to be. Learn these two things—never to be discouraged because good things get on slowly here, and never to fail daily to do that good which lies next to your hand. Do not be in a hurry, but be diligent. Enter into that sublime patience of the Lord. Be charitable in view of it. God can afford to wait; why cannot we, since we have him to fall back upon?

NO BARMAIDS WANTED.

The English custom of employing young women to sell liquor in barrooms has never secured a foothold in Canada, but in some cities of the United States it prevails. There are about five hundred girls tending bar in the saloons and cafes of Cleveland. The city has passed a by-law prohibiting it, and the law is being tested in a case growing out of the arrest of a saloon-keeper for permitting the offence. The Chief of Police says: "The case is a test one. If we secure a conviction we will arrest every man who has a girl selling liquor in his saloon. The barmaid or waitress draws men to the saloons. Her smiles sell drinks. More smiles, more drinks. Less smiles, less drinks. The smiles must go."

12. Jesus Silences the Pharisees and Sadducees. (Mark 12: 13-27.) Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. (Mark 12: 17.)

A Master Mechanic's Investigation Reveals Mechanical Perfection

W. Kennedy, Master Mechanic of The Midland and Southern Division of the G.T.R., writes an interesting letter

Who is a better judge of Mechanical Construction than a Master Mechanic, who has years of the most careful training and a lifetime of experience.

Mr. Kennedy, in a letter about the New Scale Williams Piano, declares the instrument to be vastly superior to any other make:

Dear Sirs,

When the necessity for selecting a Piano was brought to my attention, I rather preferred avoiding the task.

The selecting of a Piano for the home, however, is of such importance as to compel not only consideration, but a thorough investigation. With this idea, I made it a point to carefully investigate and consider the merits of the different Pianos from a mechanical and constructive point of view. After a most thorough investigation, I am pleased, owing to the satisfaction received, to advise you that I found your instrument vastly superior throughout as to be fairly called perfect.

The judging of tonal quality was left to a musical friend, who announced the instrument as all that you claimed for it as the best instrument in Canada. The full, rich tone and perfection of scale seems a marvel.

I can assure you of my entire satisfaction with the instrument I selected, and remain,

Sincerely yours,
W. KENNEDY,
Master Mechanic,

Church Union Meets Approval Of Conference

Report In Its Favor Adopted By Method st Conference.

LESS THAN 2-HOURS' DEBATE

Earnest Devotional Spirit Was Manifested Throughout, Though Some Regret Was Expressed—Dr. Sutherland Declines Election as Foreign Secretary—Rev. W. B. Creighton Editor of Guardian.

Montreal, Sept. 22.—Taken up at 9.30, the report of the committee on church union was unanimously adopted at 10.45 last night by the Methodist general conference. The clause referring to the invitation to the Anglican and Baptist churches was eliminated, with a view to obviating the possibility of misunderstanding.

A committee of 65 was appointed to carry on the negotiations.

Debate Was Brief.

The debate was briefer than anticipated, and was marked with no special feature beyond the earnest devotional spirit manifested. Dr. Potts owned himself a convert.

Dr. Griffin regretted there would be no Methodist Church any longer. His father would have opposed it, and his grandfather even more strongly. He dare not fight against it.

Dr. Sutherland thought it was not a burning reality among any of the churches yet. They were feeling their way, but they had met no difficulties yet, such as they had faced in the union of the Methodist churches.

Dr. Shaw did not think unity was to be arrived at by meetings, but by the spirit of God, in His providence. No man had brought him to the point where he stood, but at every meeting he attended he had been strongly conscious of the Divine presence.

Need of Unity.

Rev. J. H. Oliver spoke earnestly of the need for unity in meeting the problems of church work, and Rev. James Livingstone described the spiritual power present at this meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly, when the movement was endorsed.

On suggestion of Joseph Gibson and Dr. Burwash, the clause above-mentioned was dropped by the committee. Most of the speakers dwelt on the remarkable approximation that had been arrived at in the statement of doctrine.

Rev. Dr. E. Crewe was re-elected general secretary of Sunday School and Epworth Leagues.

Rev. Dr. Chown was re-elected general secretary of the temperance and moral reform committee.

The report on the Deaconess' School and the constitution for deaconess work was adopted after the reception of a delegation of four ladies and an address from Miss Scott, superintendent of the training school.

Dr. Sutherland Resigns.

On the first ballot Dr. Sutherland and Rev. James Allen by a vote of 166 and 148 out of 237 were elected as the secretaries for the foreign and home departments of missions, respectively.

Dr. Sutherland thought it his duty, under the circumstances, very courteously, very kindly, but very positively to ask to be excused from taking the position. After discussion, during which he did not recede from his position, a committee was appointed to confer overnight with Dr. Sutherland.

The editorship of The Christian Guardian was the only office which raised a contest. Three ballots were taken. The first with 249 votes gave Creighton 68, Crews 61, Courtice 50, Chown 25, the rest scattering. Rev. W. B. Creighton had 167 out of 260 on the third count.

Boxers Suppressed.

Pekin, Sept. 22.—Government troops have suppressed a revival of "Boxerism" in Shansi Province. "Boxer" organizations had been formed in several towns in the neighborhood of Sopingfu of the same men who participated in the uprising of 1900.

Scarcity of Recruits.

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Great difficulty is found in keeping up the strength of the garrison artillery at Esquimalt owing to the scarcity of recruits. The same trouble is found with the garrison artillery and infantry at Halifax.

Death Roll Swells.

Hong Kong, Sept. 22.—The entire fleet of 600 fishing junks was lost in the typhoon. This increases the mortality to 10,000 persons.

If Blew Up The Whole Town Of Jellico, U. S.

Kentucky Town Devastated By a Car of Dynamite.

ELEVEN LIVES SACRIFICED

Fifty Persons Injured, 500 People Homeless and a Property Loss of Over a Million Dollars—Union Station Shattered to Pieces — The Disaster Was Caused by Three Men Shooting at the Car.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 22.—A terrific dynamite explosion yesterday caused the loss of eleven lives, and more or less seriously injured not less than 50 persons at Jellico, Ky. Property damage estimated at $1,000,000 was done, and the town was practically destroyed. At least 500 persons are homeless.

The Union Depot of the Southern Railway and the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, located about 100 yards from the place of the explosion, was shattered to splinters.

The explosion occurred upon the Kentucky side of Jellico, and in consequence every house on that side of the town is wrecked. As a result, it is estimated that one-seventh of the population of the two Jellicos is homeless.

A car loaded with dynamite, and consigned to the Rand Powder Co., was sidetracked in the yards used jointly by the Southern Railway and the Louisville and Nashville.

The explosion was caused by three men shooting at a mark on the car. The car contined 400 cases of high explosive.

The spot where the car stood is marked by a hole 20 feet deep and about 30 feet in diameter.

Clifford Liddycoat Shot Dead.

Thorold, Sept. 22.—Clifford Liddycoat, a boy of 12 years, son of George Liddycoat of this town, was shot in the face and instantly killed in Wilson's bush, near here, yesterday. He was in company with a boy named James Wilkie, about 16 years of age, the owner of the shotgun, who says that Liddycoat shot himself accidentally. Wilkie says it occurred during the morning, although he did not mention it until the afternoon, some hours after. A coroner's inquest will be held to-day.

Falls to Death From Window.

Arnprior, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Campbell, wife of the proprietor of the Campbell House, died yesterday from injuries received in falling from an upstairs window on Thursday night. She leaned out of the window to close the shutters and lost her balance.

KILLED IN COLLISION.

Engineer Slain Dies as His Engine Strikes Freight Train Head-on at Napanee.

Napanee, Sept. 22.—In a collision between the No. 5 eastbound express from Toronto, and a westbound freight at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, Engineer Wm. T. Blain of Montreal was killed and his fireman only escaped death by jumping from the engine before the crash came.

About 2.30 a. m., a long westbound freight, consisting of 53 cars, reached Napanee, where it was to draw into a siding to allow the eastbound express, leaving Toronto at 10.55, to pass. The conductor of the freight found that his train was too long to get entirely into the siding, so drew half of it on to the main line again with the intention of getting it into another siding. He believed that the express had been stopped at the station to give him time to do this.

Scarcely had he got the last train out on the main line when the express headlight was seen coming down on him through the fog that hung over the station yard. In the crash which followed the two engines were badly wrecked and Engineer Blain of the express was killed, his body being terribly mangled.

No Passengers Hurt.

The rear end of the express car of No. 2 was smashed for a distance of four feet, and Messenger Bowen was hurled along the car and buried in a mass of packages. He escaped serious injury. The end of the second-class coach was also wrecked, but no passengers were hurt.

Passengers in the smoker were badly shaken up, but all left at 7 o'clock yesterday morning for the east.

All that saved a terrible loss of life was the fact that two or three empty cars were next to the freight engine, and they all flew into kindling wood, and in that way broke the jar from No. 2.

Engineer Charles Orill and Fireman David Young, both of Belleville, and both on the freight engine, were painfully hurt in legs and arms, by jumping from their engine. Brakeman James Miller of Montreal was thrown through a car door as the crash came. His head was badly cut.

In addition to the engine the baggage car, and the day coach, the train consisted of seven Pullman sleepers.

Wreck on the Great Northern.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 22.—In a rear-end freight collision at Cut Rank, Mont., late Thursday night, two stockmen, whose names have not been reported, and Roadmaster Dinton and Brakeman Critchell were killed. The caboose and two freight cars of the first train were wrecked and caught fire.

Two Killed.

Pulaski, Wis., Sept. 22.—A work train on the new line of the Northwestern road, ran into a workmen's sleeping car Thursday night, killing two and injuring fourteen other laborers.

Glad To Be In Canada.

London, Sept. 22.—(C. A. P.)—At a meeting of the British distress committee a large number of letters from emigrants who had been sent to Canada were read, and all said they were glad to be in Canada.

Ran Ashore.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 22.—At 4 o'clock yesterday morning, while on her way from Seattle to Alaska, the steamer City of Seattle of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co. ran ashore on Trial Island, off this place.

DID YOU EVER FIGURE THE COST of a single day's baking—the material, fuel, time and labour—and consider that it is all wasted if the baking is a failure?

Results are usually satisfactory or otherwise according to the flour you use. Is it economy, then, to use a flour of uncertain quality when a few cents more will buy a flour that you can depend upon to produce light, crisp and wholesome bread or pastry?

Royal Household flour does not vary in quality—does not disappoint. It is made from selected hard wheat, milled by a most modern process which guarantees absolute purity. And purity in flour is a matter of the very greatest importance.

Company To Erect Houses For Workingmen In The City

Peterborough Capitalists Who Are Said to Have Practically Completed Plans to Erect Number of Moderate Priced Houses.

A Demand for Class of Dwellings Suitable for Men Earning Moderate Wages--Will Prove Boon to Many in This City.

The Examiner is advised that there is a movement on foot to organize a Company to erect workingmen's houses in the city, and it is probable that in the near future incorporation will be applied for the Company, which will be a joint stock, limited liability, concern and composed of practically all Peterborough capitalists, who have appreciated the fact that there is a demand in this city for a large number of houses of the class known as medium priced dwellings and suitable for men earning moderate wages.

Houses too Dear.

While during this, and former seasons a great many new houses have been erected in the city, the great majority have been of the better class, and beyond the reach, either to buy or to rent, of the men who are earning modest salaries. The real estate dealers state that there is a strong demand for houses of moderate rental, and that the supply is short.

The New Proposition.

In consequence of this, a number of capitalists in the city have, it is understood, taken the matter up, and after an investigation have practically decided to form a company to erect a number of these houses in the sections of the city, contiguous to the manufacturing districts, and let them to tenants on terms which while they will be easy to the tenant will also bring a profit to the company building them.

Scarcity of Houses.

It is stated by those who are in a position to know that at the present time there is a big demand for this class of houses, and with the prospect of some large manufacturing concerns locating here in the near future this demand will be materially increased.

Those Interested.

Mr. G. F. Warde is understood to be the prime mover in this movement, and a man of his experience in the building line should be in a position to size the situation up pretty accurately. Ald. Adams is also said to be interested in the proposition, as well as a number of other business men in the city.

It is probable that at an early date active steps will be taken to secure a charter and to commence operations, and there are many men in the city who will welcome the news that there is a prospect of an early alleviation to what has developed into a condition anything but conducive to the peace of mind or the fatness of the pocketbook of the workman who is drawing a modest salary or wage.

Would Move Here.

There are, too, it is learned, a large number of men employed in the different manufacturing concerns in the city who have families in other places—they have not been brought here because there has been no place to put them. If the houses, as proposed, were erected, they would be able to bring their families to live with them here, a condition which would be very much more pleasant.

A New Telephone Line To Ennismore

That Township Now Connected With This City.

Yesterday the Bell Telephone Company completed its line to Ennismore, and this city is now in touch with the township to the north, a convenience which will no doubt be thoroughly appreciated by both the residents of this city and those of Ennismore. The subscribers outside of the central office are Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Messrs. R. Scollard and J. O'Gorman. The line is in operation to-day, the charge for a three-minute conversation with the city system being ten cents.

Bell Company Wants To Erect Building

But Cannot Do So Until Decision Re Underground Wires—Is City Council Blocking?

"Just as soon as a decision is reached in connection with the underground work of the company, work on the new building on Hunter street will be commenced, and it may be well under way this fall," was the statement made by Mr. Doan, local manager of the Bell Telephone Company, to-day. He added that the city was trying to impose what the company considered unreasonable conditions, so far as time limit, etc., was concerned, and the company would, perhaps, be obliged to take advantage of the provisions of the new law and proceed with the work, as they had authority to do, without asking the consent of the City Council.

The company was anxious to go ahead with the new building, and with the underground work as well, as quickly as possible.

A Temperance Hotel For Lakefield Now

A Proposal on Foot to Establish One—Syndicate of Temperance Advocates Formed.

To Conduct Temperance House in Local Option Village of Lakefield

The question of hotel accommodation in Lakefield is one which seems likely to be solved in the near future according to the following from the News of that town:—

We are informed that the house and premises lately owned by Mr. J. W. Stuart has been sold to a syndicate of temperance advocates in the village, who will open it up as quickly as possible and operate it as a hotel on purely temperance lines. The stabling accommodation, which at present is meagre for the purposes of a hotel, will also be largely increased. The house will be placed under the charge of an experienced man and will be run at normal rates, and everything will be done to cater to the comfort of those who favour it with their patronage.

Rainfall Will Prove Benefit To The Farmers

A good many farmers in Peterborough county were mighty glad to be awakened early this morning by the rain falling.

After a period of drought of some weeks, the copious rainfall was welcomed. It was accompanied by some vivid lightning and heavy thunder. The rainfall, as measured to-day, was three-quarters of an inch, and will do much to revive the parched pasture lands, which were becoming evident in all directions. With the exception of the thunderstorm on the 3rd inst., we have had no rain of any account since August 22nd—just a month.

The root crops also will benefit greatly by the moisture.

25 Carpenters Were Laid Off

Work on New Carpet Factory Has Been Concluded.

The carpentering on the Brinton Carpet Factory was completed last Thursday and the carpenters, some 25 in number, were laid off on that day. The work has been carried on with unusual rapidity and the interior of the building now presents an attractive appearance.

Charged With Non-Support

Yesterday P. C. Newell went to Orillia and returned to-day with a prisoner who is wanted here on a charge of non-support, the information being laid by his wife. "AD WANT" ADVERTISING CONTEST

The "Want Ad" columns of the Examiner, have, by demonstrating their certainty of bringing results, achieved a large popularity. ¶ In order to give these fetching little advertisements a still greater vogue and to further promote the interests of its advertising, by bringing its advantages more directly and explicitly to public attention, the Examiner herewith inaugurates a little trial contest to develop the ingenuity of the advertising ideas and rhyming capabilities of its readers. ¶ For the three best verselets, either original or parody, best advertising the Examiner "Want Ad" columns, similar to the one occupying a panel in the middle of this paragraph as a suggestion only, three prizes of style if not of matter, are offered as follows: $1.00 and will be given to the three persons submitting the best contributions. Simple rules will govern the contest: plainly written, not more than 10 or 12 lines and short metre is preferable. Every contribution must be accompanied by the name of the writer, not necessarily for publication, unless so desired, but for identification. ¶ The several contributions will be printed from day to day and, at the conclusion of the contest, judgment will be pronounced and the awards made by capable and unbiased judges. ¶ The contest opens on Monday, September 24th and continues one month concluding with the issue of Wednesday, Oct. 24th. ¶ Literary style, with advertising effectiveness will be the basis of judgment. ¶ Contributions must be addressed or delivered to the advertising department of the Examiner.

THE CAT CAME BACK

Hey diddle diddle, the cat played the fiddle.
The cow jumped over the moon;
The little dog laughed to see the sport;
The dish ran away with the spoon;
But a little "Want Addie" in the Examiner had a
Quite magic effect mighty soon;
For that very night before lamps were alight
The "cat came back" with the spoon.

Lakefield Prepares To Deal With Entrance Of Radial Railway Line

And a Board of Trade Will be Formed to Deal With This and Other Important Matters at an Early Date.

The People There Want Better Railway Accommodation—Some Strong Words About the Service.

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, Sept. 22.—Lakefield is bound to have all the frills of a city, now it's a Board of Trade that's wanted and nothing less that a Board of Trade will satisfy the people of this village. This is a matter which has been thought and talked of by the business men of the town for some time, and at last it looks as if something is to be done about it.

In view of the fact that the question of the entrance of the Peterbor ough Radial Railway into the town is one of the important matters to be considered by the new body, its institution is one which has a somewhat more than local significance.

The News in its last issue refers to the matter, and, dealing with some of the questions which are to be considered by the board, it says:—

At the present time there are many points of the greatest importance and urgency awaiting consideration. The disgraceful way in which the village is treated by the Grand Trunk Railway is one of them. It is little short of scandalous that a municipality which is admittedly one of the best paying termini of that system should be treated as it is in the matter of accommodation. The village has borne patiently for years, the relegation of smokers to baggage cars, and the subordination of its passenger train time schedule to the exigencies of freight shunting. The matter has got altogether beyond a joke, and needs a speedy adjustment. Then again important questions will loom up when the C.P.R. and the Peterborough Street Railway strike this village, as they inevitably will, at no distant date. A properly constituted board of management will be needed to meet representatives of these bodies for the discussion of matters relating to their entry into Lakefield.

Manufactures Committee Meets

Mr. Leonard Will Be Here Next Week.

At the Manufacturers' Committee meeting last night besides considering the statement respecting the bylaws which will be voted on next month, the chairman read a letter from Mr. Leonard, assistant general manager of the eastern lines, which was mentioned in yesterday's paper. Among others things Mr. Leonard stated he would be in the city next week when the grain route from Victoria Harbour would be talked over and it is quite probable a surprise awaits a number of citizens.

Those present last night at the meeting were Chairman McWilliams and Ald Adams, Duncan and Tovey.

THE EXAMINER ROAD RACE

The Success of the Examiner Road Race on Thanksgiving Day is now assured. It is learned that a large number of runners, both in the city itself and in the surrounding country are training for the event, which has created greater interest than any event in sporting circles in years. ¶ A number of inquiries have been received for particulars as to the conditions of the race, and for the benefit of those who do not know, it may be said that they are very simple, about the only condition being that the participants shall be amateurs who have lived in the city or county 2 months prior to the date of the race; in other words they must have lived in the city prior to August 18th, 1906. ¶ Arrangements are now being completed for the race, which will no doubt be watched by a very large number of spectators, who are interested in this sport, and has been accentuated by the action of the Examiner in offering the prizes indicated in this article for annual competion among the runners of this county. The course chosen, Lakefield to Peterborough is a good one, the roads being hard and comparatively level and those who have been over it in their training for the race state that good time should be made on Thanksgiving Day, when the event takes place. The names of the judges and other officials for the race, as well as other information covering the event will be published in a short time. The shield will also be on exhibition shortly, when the prospective contestants will have an opportunity of seeing the prizes for which they are to compete on October 18th.

DATA ON THE RACE

Start at 10 o'clock a. m. from the Tremont House, Lakefield.

Take the Smith Road to Peterborough, finishing at the Examiner office.

Winner to hold Stratton Shield for one year and become the possessor of a gold ring, second finisher to be given gold tie pin.

A G. T. R. Brakeman Lost Right Arm In Accident This Morning

A BRAVE BOY

HEBER ROGERS,
The East City Boy who will be presented with Humane Society Medal at St. Luke's Church To-morrow Night for Bravery.

George Frost Maimed as a Result of a Mis-step While Switching at the Freight Depot.

Slipped on Slippery Tie and Fell Before Moving Car—Arm Almost Severed From Body.

This morning about 8 o'clock Mr. George Frost, a brakeman on the G. T. R., met with a very serious accident, and as a result, will lose his right arm. He was engaged in uncoupling two cars from an engine on the branch line to the freight shed, when, on account of the wet condition of the ties from the recent rain, he slipped and fell forward between the engine and car. In falling he tried to save himself with his right arm, but as the cars were moving the wheels of the first car passed over his arm near the shoulder, almost severing it from his body. Dr. Braid was called to attend the injured man, and he was removed to the Nicholls Hospital in the Dan Spence Ambulance.

Mr. Frost, whose home is in Hastings, has been an employee of the G. T. R. for the past two years, and has been engaged as brakeman on the yard engine at Peterborough.

The patient's arm has been amputated, and his condition, under the circumstances, is satisfactory.

Oats Going Up One Cent Bushel

And Quaker Oats Company Now Pay 33 Cents.

The Quaker Oats Company is paying for good oats delivered at the mills, 33 cents a bushel, a price which is considered very good for new oats. This is an increase of one cent a bushel over the price that has been paid heretofore.

Mr. Grant Got Information

On His Trip Over Trent Canal Route.

The Orillia Packet, referring to the recent trip of Hon. Mr. Emmerson and the canal officials over the proposed western outlet route, says:

No one got more out of the trip than Mr. Grant, the chief engineer, who was constantly gathering information that will be of use to him in the future.

More Entries For The Road Race

A Peterborough and Havelock Man Enter.

Mr. Wm. Todd has signified his intention of entering the Examiner road race on the morning of Thanksgiving day. Mr. Wm. McBurney, of Havelock, will also be found among the sprinters in the race which is creating interest all over the county.

Lady's Trunk Was Stolen

Contained a Considerable Quantity of Clothing.

A trunk was taken from one of the local hotels last Monday belonging to Miss Brown of Warsaw, and has not yet been recovered.

It contained most of the young lady's clothing, and will be a considerable loss to her if not recovered again.

The police were notified of the alleged theft and the perpetrator will be severely dealt with if found.

Auto-Car Broke Down En Route

Was Carrying a Party of Peterboro' People to Lindsay Fair

The Palace auto-car carried a party of local gentlemen to the Lindsay fair yesterday, and met with an accident on the way, which put the machine out of commission. Fortunately the car was only a mile away from Lindsay when the accident happened. The party returned last night, and the car remained over until to-day. The repairs were quickly made and the car was running as usual last night.

Wood, Gundy Co. The Purchasers

Successful Tenderers for Debentures for Bridge Erection.

Tenders for the purchase of debentures were opened this morning for the erection of the Evans and Keene bridges by the County Council. The Wood, Gundy Company, of Toronto, were the purchasers, getting the $14,000 debentures for $13,529, or a percentage of 96.05. Mr. Brant, representing the Canada Life and Amelius Jarvis & Co., of Toronto, were the other tenderers.

Free-For-All Race At Peterboro' Fair

Will be Substituted for the 2:18 Class Event.

There has been a change made in the programme of the races at the Peterborough Exhibition, which should make them even more popular. The 2.18 class race has been taken off and a free-for-all substituted, so that a large field of very fast horses will be found in the event which will be in mile heats instead of half-mile as in the case of the other races.

Dr. Poole, Water street, our up-to-date veterinarian, is kept very busy, owing to the amount of sickness among animals. During the summer when the disease which was so prevalent among horses was at its height, he did not lose one case. This speaks for itself.

OUR SIMPLE THEME.

In another column, on page five of this issue, is printed a poem, entitled "My Simple Theme," composed by a well-known citizen. Although it breathes a good deal of fiscal heresy, not quite in accord with the Examiner's opinions on the subject, yet the reading of the poem will avail to show that none are so blind as those who will not see that Canada is flourishing under a rational tariff. The proposal in the poem, that Great Britain should oppress its working men by taxing their food for the benefit of the Canadian farmer who is rolling in wealth, to the tune of 13 1-8 cents a pound for cheese, does not seem to be a very patriotic way to foster the imperial unity, aspired to in the beautiful language of the poem — "It would seem more like unity." The poet seems to think that by building a Chinese tariff wall against the United States, by damming the stream of trade, by taxing the food of our British brethren, even with building a transcontinental railway to cost a million more than it will cost, Canada could build a navy "to sail the raging sea," and maintain a standing army to prevent us selling goods to our neighbours. But the poet's heart is sound, and his head level, on the canal question. His reasoning is right, where he says in burning words:

"Millions of dollars have been spent—
The scheme is of the best—
Then why not spend a trifle more
To finish up the rest!"

It is to be hoped that this will make Mr. Emmerson "sit up," and do his duty, by appropriating at the November session of Parliament, enough out of the extra one hundred millions the Transcontinental Railway will not cost, to complete the Trent Canal from head to heel. This could be easily done. We are afraid, however, that Mr. Fielding will not share the poet's tariff sentiments, and that Canada will have still to struggle along in the disatrous out of prosperity in which a rational tariff policy drags us along, and that Sir Richard Cartwright, if his rheumatics spare him, will continue to feed appetisingly — that he will still remain

"— in the National Policy field,
Eating the most he can."

The poet seems to have the instinct of his cult, and to exercise the poetic license of writing things no fellow can understand, of which Mr. Robert Browning was so brilliant an example. To mix metaphors, and employ a little bull, the poet, with one arm, clasps Joe Chamberlain to his heart, with the other builds a Chinese wall against Uncle Sam; and with the other he excludes British products from our markets — in return for Great Britain idiotically closing her markets to the foodstuffs of the rest of the world, and admitting Canadian wheat free of duty. And yet Canada

"—is so very mean,
In sharing England's cost,
Without her army and her fleet
You surely would be lost."

However, the poet is at heart a good loyal Canadian, like the rest of us prosaic mortals, and we can all join heartily in the closing sentiments of "My Simple Theme," and by united action, help to hasten the day when the lion and the lamb—the lion—and the eagle—shall lie down together, and the beaver sport around them, for verily

"We cannot lose by striving well
For the millennium."

KEEP A HIGH LEVEL.

An Ottawa despatch reads thus:—

Ottawa, Sept. 18. — (Special.)— The exceedingly low water is still causing great trouble to the manufacturers at the Chaudiere. A large portion of J. R. Booth's mill had to be closed yesterday, throwing out of employment about 500 men for the time being.

The E. B. Eddy pail, match and fibreware factories are also closed down. Gilmour and Hughson's mill is still in operation. While unable to float its logs, this company has a large number of logs along the shore, which a number of its men were engaged in getting off yesterday and Sunday.

This serves to show the great material damage that has resulted from an insufficiency of water supply — the injury to industrial operations and to the interests of labour. It also emphasizes the importance of the maintenance of water at a proper level by proper means of conservation, which will prevent waste at seasons of high water. Ignorance of the topography of the watershed of the Ottawa and Gatineau prevents asserting that a system of water conservation can be applied to these streams as it can be applied to the area tributary to the waters of the Trent Canal system, where such a scheme is quite practicable, and, to a certain extent, already applied, with certainty of future extension.

The Examiner has consistently and persistently taken the position that the Dominion Government should provide that the water in the Otonabee and tributaries should be maintained at a level that would furnish a fairly uniform supply, sufficient, not only for navigation, but for the development of the power, upon which the continuous operation of many important industries depend. A constant supply of sufficient water in the dry season—the season of rains will look out for itself—amply justifies the Government in taking the action in this direction and to this end, which all users of power, as well as navigators, will appreciate.

The Examiner has urged and insisted upon this course being adopted, although many upon the summer residence area of our waters may be, and have been, adversely affected more or less seriously by the maintenance of water at a high level. Perhaps the publisher of The Examiner has been as seriously affected as any lake dweller by the conditions attending and resulting from high water.

This is, however, no reason why the policy of keeping the water at a high level should be abandoned, for it is plainly a case where private interests must take a place secondary to the interests of the public at large. The interests of navigation, the benefits to be derived by manufacturers and through them, by the labour to which they give employment, are all to be considered in preference to the convenience of that limited portion of the public whose pleasure only is at stake. In this, as in other things, the individual interest must give place to considerations of the general good. All the more so since the Government is not only willing, but has actually taken steps to indemnify those who have suffered from the fact of a high level of water being maintained, by raising submerged wharves, etc.

Therefore, in view of the benefits to be derived from high water to navigation and to manufacturing industries, involving a corresponding advantage to the public, there can, for a moment, be no doubt that the policy which The Examiner has advocated is the proper policy to be pursued. The Government, in adopting the policy of raising the water and thereby maintaining a navigable level, in preference to expensive dredging operations, is one that will meet with public approval, especially as, in this connection, the Government will be willing, as it has been in the past, to adequately make compensation for any damages that may result from dealing with the waters under their jurisdiction in a way to promote national and general local interests. It is safe to say that no private interests will be injured without compensation, by the carrying out of a policy to maintain water at a proper level, in the interests of a great national transportation route, and in the interests of great manufacturing industries, and public utilities, such as the supply of light, etc.

HOME LIFE POLICY-HOLDERS BENEFIT FROM THE MERGER

From the Canadian Graphic.

That portion of the dialy press, which plays to the gallery, is just now endeavouring to assume the role of the righteously indignant moralist, and the result is only a broad suggestion of the sanctimonious pig. The subject of the ineffectual play is The Home Life Insurance Company. The particular incident is the commutation by the late manager and the president of their nine-years-to-run contract for $80,000 cash. The tremendous competition to which the great life companies have been subjecting each other for some years, naturally affected the smaller companies adversely. It was not a policy indigenous to the Canadian companies, but was an expansion of even keener strife in the United States, amongst companies which did business in Canada also. It was not welcomed here, but was thrust in. It was wholly bad, but the weaker companies suffered in the superlative degree. The Temperence and General went into the Manufacturers. Hon. J. R. Stratton was president of the People's Life, which through no inherent fault of its own, was suffering. As a shrewd, capable, business man, he looked round, and finally opened negotiations for amalgamation with Mr. A. J. Pattison, managing director of the Home Life. In the opinion of the press-actors, apparently, these gentlemen should have conducted their negotiations by means of "open letters" in the papers, or at least to the policy holders. But nobody else thinks so. If any public journals negotiating amalgamation have ever taken that course with their subscribers, it hasn't been in this country. Yet subscribers are as vitally a part of a newspaper as policy holders are of a life company. It's nonsense! The Home Life was bound by a contract which meant $10,000 or more a year to Mr. Pattison, for nine years. Mr. Stratton agreed to a payment of $80,000 for this contract, provided a sufficient amount of Home Life stock was purchasable, to carry the control of that company. Naturally Mr. Pattison could only get this stock by offering a price higher than the market value. He got the stock, transferred it, and received his $80,000. Thus far clearly the policyholders suffered no material loss or damage, or moral injury, by the transfer of the controlling interest.

The amalgamation was completed, and Mr. J. K. McCutcheon, managing director of the People's Life, became managing director of the combined companies, and Mr. Pattison stepped out. Instead of the $10,000 per year which Mr. Pattison's contract called for, his successor got $5,000 a year and five per cent of the premium income. He has a vital interest in the growth of the company. The greater the expansion the larger his remuneration, and the better for the policy holders will be the profits. The commission basis of remuneration is an approved business method. Still no harm done. Mr. McCutcheon assigned this five per cent. to Mr. Stratton to provide the repayment of the $80,000. Why not? Mr. McCutcheon's salary, plus the commission, is not excessive. If to secure a congenial position he sets apart a specified portion of it to repay Mr. Stratton, it is a personal business. The Home Life policyholders have a direct concern in the amount of the salary, but none whatever in the disposition made of it by the recipient. They contracted for Mr. Pattison's services; they get Mr. McCutcheon's in substitution; and do not pay anything more than the original contract demanded. That is the full case, and in it there is nothing but every day business in every walk of life. As to whether $80,000 in cash was too high a price was a matter for the principals to decide; in nine years the Home Life policy holders would have paid $10,000 more, and if under the five per cent. agreement it is paid in a shorter period by the Home Life, and the People's Life, and the to-be-secured policy holders combined, surely the Home Life people have made a good bargain, and one which benefits them greatly by lessening the cost to them. When the whole transaction is carefully sifted, the "righteous indignation" racket becomes a hollow sham. After all the important fact is that there was nothing in the investigation into the affairs of the Home Life to shake the faith of the policy holders in the present management of the company, which demonstrates the value of such long experience as Mr. McCutcheon has had.

It is a well known fact that the united business of the People's Life and the Home Life are being more prudently and judiciously managed, and at a less cost to the policy holders, and shareholders, the change being a desirable one. The share-holders and the policy holders, who know the conditions before, and since, the merging of the two companies, under one management, are perfectly satisfied.

BLOOD TROUBLES.

Cured Through the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make.

Thousands of women suffer from headaches, backaches, dizziness, languor and nervousness. Few realize that their misery all comes from the bad state of their blood. They take one thing for their head, and another for their stomach, a third for their nerves. And yet all the while it is simply their blood that is the cause of all their trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all these and other blood troubles because they actually make new, rich, red blood. Mrs. J. H. McArthur, St. Thomas, Ont., says—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done me a world of good. For about eighteen months I was a constant sufferer. I was terribly run down and the least exertion left me fagged out. I slept badly at night and this further weakened me, and finally I had to give up housekeeping and go boarding as I was quite unable to do any housework. I took doctor's medicine but it was of little or no benefit. One day a neighbour told me how much benefit she had derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and advised me to try them. I sent and got three boxes, and by the time I had used them I could feel a change for the better. Then I got four boxes more, and before they were all gone my health was fully restored. To see me now one would not think I had ever been sick for a day, and I can honestly say I owe my renewed health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest cure there is for the weakness and backaches and sideaches of anaemia; all the distress of indigestion, all the pains and aches of rheumatism, sciatica and neuralgia, and the weakness and ill health that follows any disturbance of regularity in the blood supply. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

The new physical director will also be present and the officers will be glad to welcome all young women to both of these meetings. 2d

Clearing Sale of Books.

One of the results of the early planning for Christmas at the Peterborough Bookstore is the discovery that our stock of books is too large. To economize room, it has been decided to reduce our book stock at once, and with this end in view, a clearing sale has begun that should leave no doubt about a speedy thinning-out. We invite all book-lovers to avail themselves of this book sale, as there will be many rare snaps not often offered.

Lack Of Sympathy Among Lindsay Police

May Have Been the Cause of Failure to Find Horse Stolen From This City—What the Post Says of the Circumstance.

The Lindsay Post, referring to the failure of the police of that town to locate Dr. McKerchers' stolen horse, says:

The people and press of Peterborough have been indulging in considerable merriment because a horse stolen from a man in that town munched oats for a week in a stall in the Royal Hotel stable without being discovered by Lindsay police, who, it is stated, were informed of the theft, and also that the horse was in Lindsay.

It is not pleasant for our citizens to be told that their police officers are being made sport of, and the incident should be inquired into by the Police Commissioner of the Council. Strange things have occurred in the past, and there is strong justification for the belief that there is not—and never was — that perfect understanding and sympathy between the Chief and his assistant that make for efficient service.

Avoid fatigue, hurry, worry and excess.

Seek fresh air, rest, and the best means of increasing the nerve force of the body, or, in other words, use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

These are the instructions the best physicians will give you as the most effective treatment to overcome disease of the nerves, for if they do not recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in so many words they give you a prescription containing practically the same ingredient.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an up-to-date, scientific preparation composed of the most powerful nerve restoratives known to science. It is bound to prove effective as a treatment for weak nerves, because it supplies the very elements of Nature which are necessary for the formation of new nerve force.

It is only by this building-up process that you can ever hope to entirely cure sleeplessness, headache, neuralgia, nervous dyspepsia, irritability, brain fag and the discouragement and despondency which tell of exhausted nerves.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—1,

Mr. Merrit Had A Good Season

Won Four Championships, Including That of Golf Competitions.

The season has been a particularly successful one for Mr. Merritt in his first year in Peterborough, having captured no less than four cups. He won the Sturgeon Point Regatta dinghy championship, the Chemong Regatta Dinghy championship and the Baxondale Cup also at the Chemong Regatta which goes with the Trent Valley Navigation Company championship.

MARTYRDOM DESCRIBED

Ingston Man tells how he Suffered and How he was Released.

"For years a martyr, is how Chas. H. Powell of 103 Raglan Street, Kingston, begins his story. "A martyr to chronic constipation, but now I am free from it and all through the use of Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill."

Many who are now suffering from this complaint will be glad to learn from Mr. Powell's story that there is hope for the most stubborn case. He continues: "I was induced to try Anti-Pill by reading the testimony of some one who had been cured of constipation by it. I suffered for eighteen years and had taken tons of stuff recommended as cures, but which made me worse rather than better. Doctors told me there was no cure for me."

Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill is for sale by all Druggists or by The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Mr. Powell will verify every word of these statements. 503

Art Association's Annual Meeting

Women Interested in Cultivation of Art Should Attend.

The Peterborough branch of the Women's Art Association of Canada, will hold its annual meeting on Monday evening in the Young Women's Christian Association building. This meeting is open to all women who cultivate Art, or have a taste for Art. No woman who regards the future of Art in Canada with any degree of interest, should fail to attend. The fee is small, and the object represents all that can be made beautiful in the homes of this prosperous and enlightened country. To women the development of Art should especially appeal. While men struggle in the arena of commercial life, they have no time to cultivate the ornamentation of their homes. The women of the household —young and old—must attend to this. The attractiveness of a house or of a public building, has more regenerating influence upon men and women than anything else of a secular character. Art presents the highest aspirations of that love for the good and beautiful which mankind possesses. The local association has hitherto been most successful. Its annual exhibition has been a source of the greatest pleasure to its members and the public generally. It is not too much to say that nothing that women can do is of more practical value than an organized effort to cultivate the artistic ideas of the great mass of the people. The nations of Europe are with each other in supporting Art Associations. Are the women of Peterborough to fall behind in this splendid movement for the improvement of popular taste? Let every girl and every woman show by her presence and support at this meeting on Monday evening that she has the interests of the community and of the nation at heart. Art is a common ground of meeting for all those who possess a sense of beauty. It belongs to no class to no clique, and to no particular set. It is the privilege of all to participate in its triumphs. The general public is earnestly requested to attend.

"BLUNOZ", THE SERGE OF SERGES.

"When first we made the 'Blunoz' serge," said the president of a Canadian woollen mill, "we thought we had attained the acme of perfection, and that Canada would produce no better. But we found a way of making it better and better — methods which added to the cost, to be sure, but our customers, the Semi-ready Company agree to take all we make of the Blunoz even at the advanced price. Semi-ready Blunoz serge suits are now selling at $20. The Blunoz serge is the price of the Blunoz serge is the price of the Canadian woollen product to proudly proclaim itself "Made-in-Canada." A. W. Crossman, agent for Peterborough.

TO CURE ANY DISEASE

The Cause Must be Removed, Same Way With Dandruff.

Kill the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair and baldness, you will have no more baldness and your hair will grow luxuriantly. Newbro's Herpicide not only contains the dandruff germ destroyer, but it is also a most delightful hair dressing for regular toilet use. No other hair preparation is on this scientific basis of destroying the dandruff germs. It stops all irritation, keeps the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome. Remember that something claimed to be just as good will not do the work of the genuine Herpicide.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10 cents in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Ormond and Walsh special agents.

A Beautiful Plant.

The beautiful night blooming cereus, of Mrs. McOannan, 156 Park street, was viewed last evening by a great number; over 100 visitors were in to admire it. Beautiful and Brilliant Colours Guaranteed When Ladies Use—

Diamond Dyes

Each year thousands of letters come in from all parts of this vast Dominion telling of victories and successes with Diamond Dyes in the home.

The marvellous and immense sale of Diamond Dyes in Canada have induced adventurers and speculators (who know nothing about the chemistry of colours) to go into the putting up of package dyes. Such dyes are adulterated and crude; the colours are muddy and blotchy, bringing ruin to the materials you try to dye.

Diamond Dyes, the choice of wise women, are the kind used when bright, full, fast and brilliant colours are wanted. No disappointments possible when you use Diamond Dyes.

Diamond Dyes are sold by all leading druggists and dealers. Refuse to accept substitutes when you ask for Diamond Dyes. Send to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., for New Direction Book, Diamond Dye Cook Book, and Illustrated Booklet, entitled "Diamond Dye Long Johns' Winter and Summer Sports." Sent free to any address.

Quaker Rugby Club Organized

At Well Attended Meeting Last Night.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Quaker Rugby enthusiasts was held last night at the Examiner office for organization purposes. Judging from the interest shown in the first meeting the outlook for the season in city league ranks looks very bright. This is the Quakers debut into rugby society and many of those who intend to play will be out for the first time. The material, however, appears good and the manager has already signed some promising chasers of the wind bag.

The officers elected last night were as follows:—

Hon. President—W. H. Denham.
President—R. M. Glover.
Vice-President—C. E. Sisson.
Secretary-Treasurer—B. T. Huston.
Manager—J. E. Sullivan.
Executive—P. D. Fitzgerald, Ira D. Moore, S. Caniff.

Schedule Must Be Finished Early

Some Games Yet To Be Played in Scotch Doubles

The competition in the Scotch Doubles is to be completed this fall and good progress has been made the past few days.

This favourable weather cannot be expected to continue much longer and it is desired to have the first round completed not later than next Monday night. Any players who have not competed in the first round by next Tuesday night will be treated as having defaulted.

GOLF

Yesterday the finals in the play for the Stratton trophy were played at the Golf Links, between Mr. F. F. Matthews and Mr. F. Merritt, the latter winning by seven strokes, both players having a handicap of 4.

Your Eyes Show You What You See

Your sight tells you where you are. The vision cannot be overtaxed with safety. All eyes require spectacles sooner or later, and a large majority of those possessing sight would improve what they have if they used glasses. Generally speaking unless the eyes are strengthened by glasses, they are apt to become weakened and any defects that exist are certain to increase by neglect. Lose no time in finding out whether you need glasses.

Lakefield Fair For This Year

With New Grounds Promises To Be Record.

The Lakefield News this week, referring to the fair to be held in that village, says :—

Lakefield will have good cause to be proud of its new Agricultural grounds when they are thrown open as they will be shortly, to the public. A better site than that which has been secured could hardly have been chosen ,and the directors are to be warmly congratulated on their acquisition . The grounds are nine acres in extent, absolutely level, and easily accessible to visitors from all points of the compass. The Directors have been put to great expense in inaugurating the new departure, and it is to be hoped that bumper crowds and first class exhibits will reward their endeavours in the cause of husbandry.

County School Inspector Spoke

Messrs. Brown and Lees at Millbrook Recently.

Messrs. Brown and Lees, County Public School Inspectors were in Millbrook this week, attending a meeting held in the school building, at which Dr. W. E. Tilley explained the amended School Act . The Peterborough county inspectors both spoke, Mr. Brown's subject being the increase in teachers' salaries which the Government found necessary in order to retain their teachers who were going West where they pay better salaries and as one lady said who was more open minded than others, they would have a better opportunity of procuring a husband.

Peterboro' Woodmen Going To Omemee

Party Will Go Up From This City To-morrow to Take Part in Unveiling Ceremony.

To-morrow a number of members of Camp Sherwood, Woodmen of the World will go to Omemee, where they will take part in the ceremony of unveiling a monument erected by the Order over the grave of one of the departed members of the Order in that village . The local members will leave here right after dinner and will drive to the town named, arriving there in time to participate in the ceremony which is an interesting one. It is probable that twenty-five or thirty will attend . Mr. Alf. Haskill, the energetic Clerk of Sherwood Camp, has the arrangements for the trip in hand, and fully expects to take a representation from Peterborough which will do the Camp justice . They will remain there for tea, returning during the evening.

On the occasion of the recent unveiling here a party of Omemee Woodmen visited this city, where they were the guests of the Peterborough members of the Order, who entertained them very hospitably, and those who go to Omemee to-morrow will no doubt be shown that their interest in making the trip is fully appreciated by their brother Woodmen.

MR. ALF. HASKILL,
The Clerk of Sheawood Camp, W. O. W., Who Is Arranging For Omemee Trip To-morrow.

Best Exhibition In History Of Peterboro'

Fourth Peterborough Industrial Promises to Break All Records in Point of Attendance and Success—Some Attractions.

The greatest fair in Peterborough's history will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week when the fourth Peterborough Industrial will be in full swing. With favourable weather the crowd in attendance should be larger than ever before. The number of entries received to date is greater than in any other year at the present time and seems to point to an abnormally large number of exhibits . All depends upon the weather man; nothing else but bad atmospheric conditions can prevent the success of the exhibition.

Wednesday the Big Day.

Wednesday will be the big day of the fair. The school children will have a half holiday and there will be special rates on railways and steamboats which should considerably help in swelling the crowd .

Football Tournament.

Among the features promised are splendid horse races and a football tournament for the Hall Cup. The lovers of football will see the best games of the year on this occasion. It is altogether likely that four teams will be entered. Three have already done so, the Quakers, champions of the Midland League, the Dominion Construction Company's team and Bridgenorth, while the Lakehurst team, the terrors of the north, are also expected to be on hand for the struggle for the cup.

Exciting Dog Race.

Ex-Mayor Yelland has originated a distinct novelty in the way of speed tests, nothing less than a race for dogs harnessed to little wagons. As a fun producer this contest should be a grand success. There are many speedy canines in town and their boy owners should get them entered at once. The prizes, $3, $2 and $1, are well worth going after, and there is likely to be a large field to face the starter when the canine class is called.

Lots of Music.

Lovers of music will be glad to learn that the full band of the 57th Regiment has been engaged for the occasion and will render a lengthy and popular programme of the latest music during the afternoon. The 57th is gaining fresh laurels every day and this may be the last opportunity to hear them for a long time.

Judging on Wednesday.

The judging will commence sharp at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, so that it is important that all exhibits in live stock should be in by Tuesday night. Ample stable accommodation will be provided free of charge and the grounds will be patrolled during the night.

The Races.

The speeeding in the ring attractions promise to afford some of the best races ever seen here. There are three classes, the 2.18, 2.24 and 2.30. The directors in charge are Messrs. Alex. Elliott, R. J. Munro, J. M. Brooks and R. Hicks.

Following is the programme :—

Trot or Pace—2.18 class. Prize $100.00, 5 to enter, 4 to start. Half mile heats, 3 in 5.

Trot or Pace—2.21 class. Prize $100.00, 5 to enter, 4 to start. Half mile heats, 3 in 5.

Trot or Pace—2.30 class. Prize $100.00, 5 to enter, 4 to start. Half mile heats, 3 in 5.

Said Good-Bye To Mr. Norman Stuart

A Pleasant Gathering at Long's Palm Parlours Last Night—His Fellow-Members of Wm. Hamilton Company's Staff Honoured Him on Eve of His Departure.

Long's Palm Parlours was the scene of a very pleasing function last evening, when a number of the friends of Mr. Norman Stuart gathered around the festive board to say good-bye and wish him success in his new field of labour. Mr. Stuart left this morning for Saginaw, Mich., where he has secured a lucrative position, and a number of his friends from the staff of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, of which he was a member, gathered to bid him good-bye and to express their regret at his departure from the city, and to wish him success in his new position and surroundings. Since coming to this city he has made a great many friends, who will join in heartiest good wishes for his future success.

The banquet, which was furnished by the new proprietor of this favourite banquet hall, was fully up to the standard set in the past. After justice had been done to the dainties provided, Mr. Harry Van Every, who acted as toastmaster, referred to the occasion of the gathering, expressing his personal regret at Mr. Stuart's departure. He proposed the first toast, that to the King, which was recognized in the usual manner.

The next toast was that to the guest of the evening, and in responding Mr. Stuart referred to his feelings of regret at leaving Peterborough, and especially the friends he had made in connection with the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company. He assured them that he would always remember their kindness to him.

The ladies were honoured in toast proposed by Mr. F. Richardson and responded to by Mr. L. Potvin. Speaking to the toast to athletics, Messrs. R. Hall, Ross Cameron and L. Dobson were heard.

The gathering was enlivened by humourous recitations by Mr. Jas. Morris, and solos sung by Mr. J. Cookson. Before singing "Auld Lang Syne," each of those present expressed in a few words their best wishes for the success of the guest of the evening.

Willie Taylor Relief Trust

It is due to the public, especially those who have so generously contributed to the Taylor Relief Fund, to announce that the trustees appointed at a general meeting of the trust committee, on August 27th, have completed the purchase of a pair of artificial legs for the injured boy, Willie. They have been purchased from Messrs. Authors & Cox, Toronto, the foremost manufacturers of artificial limbs in Canada, long established and in every way reliable. The price paid for the best limbs available was $170, and the generous contribution of Messrs. Authors & Cox to the relief fund, reduces the net cost to $160, outside of travelling expenses.

The trustees feel that, as they have endeavoured to do, they have made the best arrangement possible, one that meets the approval of all the members of the committee. And the Examiner is naturally pleased that its appeal to the public, so liberally responded to, has resulted in minimizing to the greatest possible degree, the terrible deprivation inflicted upon Willie Taylor, by the loss of his limbs. Within a short time he will be walking about unaided, and by the help of the portion of the fund remaining, be gaining an education fitting him to become self sustaining.

Against a tenant who had paid no rent for forty years, an ejectment order has been granted to a property owner at St. Osyth, England.

Brig. Hargrave At Harvest Home

Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave of Montreal Will Take Part in Festival Services.

The Harvest Festival at the Salvation Army barracks, will be of special interest on account of the presence of Brigadier and Mrs. Hargraves. They will arrive this afternoon by the 5.10 C.P.R. train, and will officiate at the services during the festival period.

Brigadier Hargraves has been an officer of the army for twenty years. The early part of his career was spent in England, where he held several appointments, among them being a term of five years at the National Headquarters, London. He was transferred to Canada in 1895, and has shown his ability in the different positions he has held in this country. His last appointment was that of Provincial Commissioner of Western Ontario.

Mrs. Hargraves has been an officer for 27 years. As a child she was stationed with her parents at a number of corps in England, and in her early life she travelled extensively with General Booth. Mrs. Hargraves, who is a beautiful singer, will be heard during the coming festival. The local corps are preparing to give them a hearty welcome.

Animals Must Not Run At Large

Two Cases at the Police Court This Morning.

Mr .and Mrs. Schwerdt and son, of Driscoll Terrace gave evidence in police court this morning that Mr. Jas. Mongraw's cow had been running at large and was destroying their cabbage. Mongraw pleaded not guilty .Schwerdt himself had not seen the animal, so that his wife became the chief witness . She stated that on Tuesday last, the cow—a red one, with no horns and a red star—had been in her garden. Mr. Mongraw's son, she said, took it home.

Her son substantiated these statements.

Mr. Mongraw stated that he has pasture for his cow and does not allow her to run at large, but that she had gotten out one night. He saw 8 or 10 cabbage had been eaten in Mr. Schwerdt's garden, but was not certain his cow had done the damage. His son had told him he had driven the animal to pasture the night before.

He would have been quite willing to have made restitution if he had known the facts before. The magistrate ruled that he pay $1.00 to make up the damage done the cabbage.

John McCoy was charged with being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty and was remanded till Tuesday.

Lindsay Fair Great Success

Many Peterboro' People Present at Fair in Northern Town.

An additional engine was required this morning to accommodate the large number of passengers who were on their way to Lindsay to attend the Fair.

Perhaps never before in the history of the Fair, have so many people of this city been present at it. According to those who were in Lindsay yesterday the fair in that town has been a decided success. The exhibits were numerous and of excellent quality. Many people boarded the train at Millbrook, Omemee and at other points along the line.

Bias-Filled Corset Demonstration

MISS McCLELLAND of Toronto, is now in attendance at our store and places herself at the services of ladies who desire the scientific fit and supporting comfort in Corsets.

The Bias-Filled she claims to be the best in the world. Here are a few of the salient features of this Corset :—

- Bias-Filled Corsets are constructed on a plan that entirely does away with discomfort.
- Most straight-filled Corsets either bend or break at the sides or refuse to come back to the original shape. Bias-filled adapt themselves to the figure.
- Bias-Filled Corsets are a boon to any style of figure—the stout, medium or slim.
- Bias-Filled Corsets are made to sell at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50 and upwards.

MISS McCLELLAND will remain with us until the store closes Saturday Evening.

We are showing our New Fall and Winter Styles Ladies' Mantles, Costumes, Skirts and Raincoats. A visit of inspection will be appreciated.

Committee Inspected New Arc Light System

Lamp is Approved of by the Members of the Fire, Water and Light—Whether it Will be Accepted is Another Matter.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee last night inspected the new arc light, which the Peterborough Light and Power Company desire to install in place of the lamps now in use.

A light of the new kind had been installed near the old power house, and by comparing it with the old model lamp at the corner of London street, the committee was enabled to draw conclusions as to the relative merits of the two systems. Half way between the two lights the shadow cast by the new one, was deeper, showing that it was the more powerful light. The committee seemed to regard the new light as a better one than the old. It has an angle of reflection of 22 1-2 degrees, which enables it to spread light farther than the one now in use, and at the same time, it is not necessary to hang it so high.

The matter will be threshed out at the next meeting of the committee. While the mebers feel that the new light is a good one, and realize that the people would gain considerably by the lights being in the middle of the streets, as is proposed, yet there are other things to be considered in coming to an agreement with the company.

Ald. Adams this morning stated that if a satisfactory agreement could be made with the company the new lights would probably be installed.

The members of the committee present were . Ald. Adams, chairman; Duncan, Graham, Ball and Elliott; City Engineer Hay and Town Clerk Armstrong. They were accompanied on their tour of inspection by Mr. J. H. Tarmouth, and Mr. H. O. Fiske, of the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

A Procession Of New Pianos

Greene Music Company Received Carload To-day.

The J. M. Greene Music Company received to-day a car-load of New Scale Williams Pianos, from Oshawa. Mr. Greene states that he believes this to be the first full carload of pianos ever shipped one firm in the city, and to signalize the event he intends to have a procession on Monday afternoon from the G. T. R. station to the company's warerooms, on George street. There are 14 instruments in all in the shipment, and it will require seven drays to transfer them from the car.

The company will also make an exhibition of these and other musical instruments at the Peterborough fair next week.

There is trouble in Vancouver Board of Works because Americans come in and tender for everything the city has. Canadians cannot go to the States and reciprocate they say.

Mrs. Morrow's Distinction

Achieves Success in a Difficult Examination.

The Canadian Gazette of London, England, in a recent issue, says of a Peterborough musician, whose recent achievements in England have already been referred to:

Mrs. W. J. Morrow, of Peterborough, Ont., who has been in London, Eng., for the last three months attending the National College of Music, has been successful in passing the Fellowship examination with distinction. In addition she is a professor of the National College. It is rarely that a lady succeeds in passing the Fellowship examination, for the tests are very severe. Her many friends and admirers in Peterborough and elsewhere in Canada and the States have received the news of her success with much pleasure. Mrs. Morrow has long held a high position in the musical world, both in Canada and the United States, and is a gold medalist, and holds other high distinctions.

SUMMARIES OF THE BY-LAWS

—TO BE VOTED ON NEXT MONTH—

TO SECURE NEW INDUSTRIES

Copies Will be Distributed Among the Ratepayers--Industries Are Important and Should be Secured for Peterborough--October 2nd is the Date for the Decision.

Steel Rolling Mills.

What the company proposes to do:

To erect buildings and install machinery to cost $35,000.

To employ an average of fifty hands for ten years.

To be in operation by April 1st, 1907.

What the city proposes to do:

To purchase a site not costing more than $6,000.

To fix the assessment, at the price paid for the land, for ten years.

Rapid Tool Company.

What the company proposes to do:

To erect buildings to cost $3,000.

To install machinery to cost $16,000.

To employ at least twenty-five hands

To continue in full operation for ten years.

What the city proposes to do:

To contribute $1,200 towards the purchase of a site.

The above paragraphs are summaries of the bylaws which the citizens of Peterborough will be asked to support or reject on October 2nd. Below will be found a complete statement of the conditions in the bylaw respecting the Steel Rolling Mills, and Rapid Tool Companies. This was drawn up by the chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, unanimously endorsed by the committee at their meeting last night, and will be circulated among the ratepayers.

The following is the statement:

To the Freehold Electors of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

In view of the great importance of the votes to be taken on October 2nd, on the bylaws to purchase sites for the Peterborough Steel Rolling Mills Company, and the Rapid Tool Company the Manufacturers Committee of the council, desire to present to you an authoritative statement of the terms of each of the agreements, and the reasons which have led the council to recommend the carrying of the bylaws. The material provisions of the agreements are as follows:

Steel Rolling Mills Company.

The company undertakes to erect buildings and machinery to cost at least $35,000; to employ an average of at least fifty hands; to be in operation by the 1st of April, 1907, and to continue the operation of the works substantially according to the capacity thereof, and with an average of at least fifty hands for the period of ten years. In return therefor the city agrees to buy a site, which shall not cost the city more than six thousand dollars, and to fix the assessment at the price paid for the land, for ten years. If the land chosen costs more than six thousand dollars the company must pay the difference; if less, the city pays less. If the land found to be best suited to the company's business is not adjacent to a railway siding, the cost of getting a siding in may be included in the cost of the land, but in no case shall the town pay more than six thousand dollars. The cost to the town, if the maximum amount is required, will be $452.87 per annum; equal to 6 2-3 cents per thousand dollars of assessment per annum. The company will not receive the town's contribution until the plant is in operation as required by the agreement, and if they fail to carry on the work for the ten years, their lands become forfeited to the town, unless they repay the six thousand dollars now contributed. The city's interests are amply secured by an agreement, equivalent to a mortage, registered against the lands of the company.

The Rapid Tool Company.

This company agrees to erect buildings to cost at least three thousand dollars, and install machinery to cost at least sixteen thousand dollars; to employ at least twenty-five hands; and to continue the full operation of the plant for ten years. In return the city contributes twelve hundred dollars, which is the estimated value of the land, excluding buildings, which the company has secured on Hunter street east. Exactly similar provisions, as in the preceding bylaw, are made to insure the construction of the works, and their operation for ten years, and to secure to the city the payment of the amount now advanced, in event of default. This bylaw will cost the ratepayers $90.45 per annum, equivalent to 1 1-3 cents per thousand dollars of assessment per annum.

The committee has no hesitation in recommending the passing of these bylaws. Both industries are of the kind which employ only highly skilled and highly paid labour, and are such as it is very greatly to the interests of the city to secure. We cannot afford in this period of great growth, and also of keen competition, among the towns and cities of this province, to lose any opportunity of strengthening our position as a leading manufacturing centre. There can be no question about the security which the town holds in the event of either of the companies not being successful.

The establishment of these factories will mean more work for every mechanic and labourer, more trade for every merchant, greater convenience in getting materials to many of our factories, and a general benefit to every merchant interested in the town. The factories will be established if a sufficient number of ratepayers turn out to vote, and we would most strongly urge on every voter the importance of casting his own vote.

Signed on behalf of the Manufacturers' Committee.

R. F. McWILLIAMS,
Chairman.

Pleaded Guilty To Four Different Theft Charges

Frank Angelsy, the Young Man Arrested Yesterday, Appeared in Court—Sentence Was Reserved.

Frank Anglesey, arrested yesterday on the suspicion of having committed many thefts, appeared yesterday afternoon before Police Magistrate Dumble, at a special session of the police court. He pleaded guilty to four charges of theft. Sentence was reserved for one week.

The first charge was that of stealing a gold-filled watch and a hair brush and comb from William Griffin. Anglesey elected to be tried summarily by the Magistrate.

"I'm guilty," was his reply to the usual question, "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

To the other three charges he gave the same reply. They were of stealing a hat of J. B. Laroque, a watch chain and a locket from Wm. Henton, and a dress suit case and a pair of suspenders from Thos. Byers.

Asked if he had anything to say, Anglesey said that he did not know why he had stolen the things. He was very sorry for what he had done and promised that it would not occur again, if he were allowed to go. The Magistrate announced that he would reserve judgment for a week.

The police station looked like a commercial sample room last night when the owners of missing articles came to search among the spoils for theirs. Many were rewarded by finding lost articles of clothing. It is probable that other charges may be preferred against the prisoner.

Mr. Henry Beavis Gets Charge of House of Refuge

Lives in South Dummer—Four Applications Were Read—Salary Will be $550—Belmont Man Gets Extras for Fixing Road.

The County Council resumed business yesterday afternoon and the chief matter of business was the consideration of the applications for superintendent and matron for the House of Refuge. As referred to in yesterday's issue there were four applicants—Henry Beavis, of South Dummer, getting the appointment. The others were J. J. Crowe, North Dummer; Thos. H. Wilson, Warsaw and J. Paul, Lakefield.

The Council went into committee of the whole to make the appointment.

Extras Were Paid.

Councillor Andrews brought up a matter with respect to the Stony Lake Road in Belmont township. He stated that the Council had agreed to pay $100 for the improvement of that road, under certain conditions. He had appointed two men to do the work allowing them $50 each. In sending in the bills one man asked for $53.99 and the other for $50. Mr. Andrews asked whether the council would agree to pay the former the $3.99 extra or not.

He had been over the work, he said, and had found it very satisfactory.

On motion of Councillors Carey and Monogue, it was decided to pay him the extra $3.99.

The Property Committee met this morning, and decided and considered a number of minor details in reference to the House of Refuge. The first question was the decision of the boiler to be used for the heating purposes. On recommendation of Mr. McPherson, who has the contract, the Mercer boiler was chosen.

"Overseas" Mail Train Establishes A Record

Made Thirty-five Miles an Hour for Whole Trip Across the Continent—Train Reached Quebec Two Hours Ahead of Scheduled Time.

Examiner Special.

Quebec, Sept. 21.—The "Overseas" mail train reached here this afternoon, two hours ahead of the scheduled time, and an hour later the Canadian Pacific Steamship "Empress of Britain" was on her way down the St. Lawrence for Liverpool. The "Overseas" train left Vancouver Monday night at 7 o'clock, six hours behind its schedule, and arrived here to-day at two o'clock, having crossed the continent in 88 hours, allowing three hours for the difference in time, or at an average speed of 35 miles an hour. This is a long distance record for an unbroken trip by one continuous train.

The distance to be covered under the new mail contract is over 12,000 miles and three-fourths of the mileage has been made sharp on time, leaving the "Empress of Britain" plenty of leeway to land the Oriental mail within the stipulated 30 days. The "Empress" carried 130 first cabin passengers, of whom 17 were from the Orient, 115 second cabin, and 150 third.

Canadian Pacific officials are naturally jubilant over the easy fulfilment of a fact that some imagined was beyond accomplishment.

Army Barracks In Autumn Array

Beautiful Display of Products of Orchard, Farm and Field.

Preparations for the harvest festival at the Salvation Army Barracks to be held to-morrow, Monday and Tuesday, are now practically concluded. To strangers and to those members of the local corps who have not been at the barracks lately, there is a pleasant surprise in store.

The walls are decorated with sheaves of golden wheat, and the ensemble is a pleasing autumnal display. From the centre of the hall, red, white and blue streamers are stretched to the many pillars, while banners, on which are written legends such as "The Harvest is Passing," and others, are hung on the side walls.

Near the front of the hall are three tables containing the articles donated. The middle table contains a collection of vegetables and fruits that one would expect to see at the Industrial Exhibition. Over this table is an arch of corn, wheat and oats in the straw, adding very much to the beauty of the scene. In a very prominent place is a chimney of sand limestone bricks, and near at hand a pile of wood donated by the Peterborough Fuel Co.

Gifts lately received are flour from the C. B. McAllister Milling Company; clothing from Grafton & Co.; shirts from the T. Braeme Co., Toronto, and chinaware from the China Hall.

Thus it will be seen that, with the presence of Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave, the harvest festival this year should eclipse all those of the past.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE SHADOW BEHIND THE THRONE

The powerful melodrama, "The Shadow Behind the Throne," was presented to a good-sized audience at the Grand last night, and apparently pleased all who saw the performance. The scenes are laid in China during the time of the Boxer troubles. The Viceroy of China seeks to win, by his machinations, the beautiful daughter of the American Ambassador to China. She falls into his hands, but is rescued through the aid of "the shadow behind the throne," the mandarin, who is really and Englishman, but who for thirty years has been in the viceroy's household. The title role is well played by Leander De Cordova, and the other characters are in capable hands.

The drama is one in which there are many strong situations and dramatic climaxes, and on the whole is above the usual standard of melodrama.

Good Market In Spite Of Weather

Price of Butter and Eggs is Steadily Increasing.

In spite of the inclement weather there was a good market this morning. The amount and quality of the produce exhibited predicts a splendid display at the exhibition next week.

The feature of the market was the great quantity of tomatoes. One old gentleman said that he had never before seen so many tomatoes on the market.

Of apples, the St. Lawrence demanded the highest price, the cheapest variety being a mixture of wind falls.

Eggs were fairly plentiful, but will maintain the high price of 19 cents per dozen.

There was also a good supply of spring chickens, although butter was comparatively scarce, and has advanced in price since a week ago.

The following is a list of the prices.

Apples, per bag, 40 to 65c.
Tomatoes, per basket, 20 and 25c.
Cabbage, each, 5c.
Parsnips, per bunch, 5c.
Onions, per peck, 30c.
Butter, per lb., 27 and 28c.
Eggs, per doz., 19c.
Ducks, 50c each, or $1 per pair.
Chickens, per pair, 60 and 65.

Cheese Market Still Going Up

13 1-4c Was Paid Yesterday and May Be Higher.

People are asking where cheese is going to anyway. When 13 3-8c was paid on the Peterborough board it was thought that this was the limit, but yesterday Lindsay beat that, the product there reaching 13 1-4c. The Montreal Star reviewing the situation says:

There was a renewed interest in the market for cheese this morning, owing possibly to the sailings at the end of the week. Trading was in progress at 12 7-8c for Quebecs, 13 to 13 1-8c for Townships, and 13 1-4 to 13 3-8c; for Ontarios. Transactions were reported at the best prices quoted, save in the case of Ontarios, which it was generally considered had not yet changed hands at more than 13 1-4c, unless in exceptional instances. In the country, 13 1-8c appears to be a general price now, so that it would seem to be impossible to sell much longer here at less than 13 3-8c. In fact, there was a further advance in the country to-day, Lindsay being reported at 13 1-4c. While this price may be due to special conditions, it is generally thought that it indicates further strength to-morow. Should this be the case, cheese at 13 3-8c here will look cheap.

The Liverpool public cable was 6d higher to-day, being quoted at 60s to 61s 6d.

Receipts of cheese reported on the Board of Trade this morning amounted to 12,962 boxes.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 22.—Bearish professional traders hammered the market to-day and lower prices resulted. The selling was based on the money situation, although it was stated on good authority that secretary Shaw would come forward with measures of relief. The bank statement was fair although the increase in loans was not regarded favorably and the increase in cash was as expected. Reading was the weakest feature but Steel Common after an early dip rallied and closed firm. The general market closed weak.

Cough Lasted 3 Months.

"I was taken with a severe cough which lasted for three months, and though I tried all sorts of medicines they failed to do me any good. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and I was completely cured by two bottles." — Miss Ada O'Brien, Cape Cove, Gaspe Co., Quebec.

Lindsay Beat The Peterboro' Price

Cheese Sold There Yesterday for 13 1-4c.

Lindsay, Sept. 21.—This morning the highest price ever offered for cheese on the Lindsay Cheese Board was offered by buyers Cook, Kerr and Flavelle, when the whole Board, comprising 1314 boxes, sold at 13 1-4 cents. This offer is one of the highest in the cheese history and speaks well for the Victoria County cheese. It is beyond the sale of last Wednesday at Peterborough when cheese sold at 13 1-8c.

DOINGS IN THE THEATRICAL WORLD

"THE GINGERBREAD MAN" AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE SEPT. 26

This Great Comic Opera Will Be Seen Here on Wednesday, Sept. 26th---What it Costs to Stage a Show---Interesting News of Music and Drama.

Children, big and little, old and young, thoughtful and thoughtless, will find much to interest them in "The Gingerbread Man," which will be presented at the Grand Opera House Wednesday evening, September 26. The author is the late Frederick Ranken, and the musical composer is A. Baldwin Sloane. The new piece is said to have a fascinating story of gossamer texture, giving its message of gayety and comic schemin; through the medium of the mythical Kris Kringle, little Jack Horner, Simple Simon, Margery Daw, et al.

Tuneful Rhymes.

The two acts and four scenes are gorgeously mounted and laid in places long exploited in nursery rhymes, such as Santa Claus Land, Pastryland and the Aerial Sugar Palace. Little Jack Horner, thanks to the wicked Machavelius Fudge, sees his fiancee, the Princess Sugar Plum, carried off to the realms of his Majesty King Bunn, in an air-ship, and it takes all the kind offices of the good fairy, Carmelita (a role said to be sustained in an inimitable manner by Rosa Snow) to effect a reunion.

Miss Gertrude Zimmer, last heard here as the prima donna of "The Bostonians," is said to make a dainty Mazie Bon Bon, and to sing with great effect her new musical "hits." There are many of merit, notably "Queen of My Dreams," sung by Homer Lind, and "Bon Bon Land," sung by Mae Phelps and Gertrude Zimmer.

Peerless Costumes.

Scenically, "The Gingerbread Man," in two acts and four scenes, is a chromo of Fairyland, and it is brimful of novel business. At a day when the wells of novelty were supposed to be run dry, its manager, Mr. Edward A. Braden, a wealthy theatrical gentleman, has dispensed money with a judicious, but lavish, hand, in all that concerned this clever production. The costumes are peerless, and so is the scenic investiture. The cast is a big and notable one, including Miss Phelps, Gertrude Zimmer, Nellie Lynch, Helen Miller, Marie Barry, Homer Lind, Ross Snow Gus. Weinburg, Eddie Redway, W. H. Mack and Will Dunloy.

Something of a mild sensation is promised every performance, as Kris Kringle, silver shimmering reins in hand, drives his golden sleigh and Dumpty" and "The Wizard of Oz," it of a big latter day musical extravateam of beautiful antlered reindeer, is needless to say, especially caters ganza. FACIAL EXPRESSION COUNTS.

The average auditor in the theatre does not realize how much a comedian depends upon the wink of the eye and a twist of the mouth. Facial expression is one of the chief mainstays of the comedian. In this phase of the actor's part Harry Beresford, who is starring in "The Woman Hater," excels. His mimicry is inimitable. Apart from his art, Mr. Beresford possesses a personality that has made him the most popular player on the boards since Sol. Smith Russell. "The Woman Hater," with Mr. Beresford, will be the attraction at the Grand next Thursday.

James J. Corbett is to star this season in "The Burglar and the Lady," opening at Philadelphia on September 10.

"RED FEATHER."

There are white lace officers, soldiers, conspirators, court gentlemen, court ladies, international girls, diplomats, fiancees of diplomats, dancers, bird masqueraders, and waitresses in the ensemble of "Red Feather." The costuming is something unprecedented in the annals of comic opera. The dazzling military uniforms of the men are set off, rather than eclipsed, by the lovely gowns of the ladies, and never is the stage without its beautiful picture of animate life. The diversity of costume is really marvellous, and the way in which this diversity is made to harmonize is distinctly a stroke of art. In the second act, the scene representing a royal ballroom, the gowns worn by the sixteen court maids of honour, were purchased in Paris by Anna Held, and are said to have cost $1,000 apiece.

The music is undeniably the best that Mr. DeKoven has composed since Robin Hood. There is much in the score of a martial strain, the choruses and ensembles being particularly stirring and inspiring. The plot treats of a conspiracy in the land of Romancia, where an objectionable crown prince is to be dethroned, the prime mover in the attempt being a royal court lady, masquerading as Red Feather, a free-rider of the highways. Miss Cheridah Simpson, a much admired prima donna, heads a company of seventy people.

REVIEW OF PETERBOROUGHS SUMMER SPORTS

The record of the Peterborough Quaker Football Team for the season of 1906 has been one difficult to beat. The Quakers landed both the Junior and Intermediate Championship of the Midland League, winning the Stratton Trophy, and without the loss of a single match---Other interesting notes.

Peterborough—situated as it is almost in the centre of the province—is now practically recognized as the leader in sports in the central district. It is also very easily discernable that sports in the city are forging ahead and there are very few young men here who have not chased the pigskin, handled a lacrosse stick or baseball bat or who has not been engaged in some of the brightest days in sport and the season easily ranks at the head of the successful ones in the past.

The city is now on the verge of a new series which bids fair to terminate a year of most successful sports, all of which are manly ones, conducted with a view to creating a spirit of manliness among the participants as well as the attainment of the exercise, which is so important in promoting the health of human beings.

The Examiner below publishes a brief retrospect of summer sports, which have, of course, been gone thoroughly into individually at the time of happening.

Stratton Cup, Emblematic of The Midland Football League, Won by The Quaker Team.

Some of the other prominent sports during the past summer. The bowling enthusiasts have also been conspicuous and the tennis and the golf players—games in which the feminine population joins with a zest—have made themselves known.

In a word the past summer has seen

The Season in Lacrosse.

The lacrosse season of the past summer has been a brilliant one. Peterborough can only boast of one team, but that is a good one. The Junior Shamrocks, although they did not win the championship, went up into the semi-finals and were not beaten by a better team.

This season was a highly successful one in every respect and their games were well patronized. Although the players were young, they displayed great ability and are material for stalwarts in the great national game.

The season opened with an exhibition game to test the mettle of the players. They trimmed Port Hope here by the score of 5 to 3 and it was them that they demonstrated they could handle the sticks.

Oshawa was the scene of the first battle in the Junior C.L.A. series and there they played a tie game. Oshawa next appeared on the scene here and went down to defeat by 9 to 1. Port Hope easily succumbed in the next to the locals by 9 to a zero but in Port Hope were defeated oy 6 to 3.

The tie existing with Oshawa was played off in Lindsay and the Shamrocks again came out on top by 7 to 1. The tie with Port Hope was played off in Oshawa, and again victory perched on their banner and sang the song of 11 to 1.

A sudden death game with Beaverton at Lindsay again brought laurels to the three leafed stick handlers the score ending 9 to 1.

Toronto Junction Shamrocks were the next on the list but through somewhat hard luck the local Shamrocks were defeated by the close score of 4-3.

Nevertheless the Young Shamrocks acquitted themselves favourably and they have no reason to be ashamed of their record. The following players took part in the games this season:—Gilman, McFadden, White, Devlin, Dusty, Doris Feeney, Tucker, Jas. McNicholl, Saunders, Basset, Jack McNicholl and Dobson. The spares were O'Leary, McPherson, Jack Seymour and Miller.

W. E. Wasson, Manager of The Quaker Football Club.

The club wish to thank the public for their assistance during the season.

The Football Season.

Peterborough also made itself prominent in the football line—a game which of late years is rapidly coming to the foreground among Canadian sports. Last year there were three teams in the city and the wise heads believing in the truth of the old adage that "In unity their is strength", got their minds together before the snow had disappeared and organized one team only, which took the name of the "Peterborough Quakers."

This action called forth the enthusiasts of the game to practise and under the scrutinizing eye of the captain and the secretary of the Midland League, a bunch of kickers was assorted which proved to be the best Peterborough ever produced.

J. E. Sullivan, Secretary of The Midland Football League.

The season of the Peterborough Quakers has been one continued success from the very beginning. At the Midland League meeting in the spring they decided to enter both the junior and intermediate ranks in the league. There were six teams in the former—

Examiner Cup, Representing The Guild Baseball League Championship, Won Three Years in Succession by Charlotte Street Team.

Norwood, Harwood, Keene, Omemee, Fenelon Falls, Lakehurst and the Quakers—and out of 11 games the Quakers played and won 8 and at the end the score card showed 21 goals to 3 in their favour, or a balance of 18 on the creditside.

The Itinerary.

The first team the Quakers ran up against was Norwood, winning in the ound by 4 goals to 1. Harwood succumbed next to the tune of 4 to 0 on the local grounds and a little jaunt down to the Rice Lake Metropolis, they again lost the game by one goal. Omemee called here next and left with three chalked down against them and in the return game the Quakers scored three to their opponents' one, although some dispute arose over the match. Harway's capital sent the next aggregation which were touched for three goals. The return trip—a memorable one to the Quakers—resulted in 3 to 1 for the uncodjuvorable.

G. H. Giroux, Secretary of Peterboro Lawn Bowling Club.

In the Intermediate series Bowmanville was the only other aspirant and this was laid low in two gains for the Quakers scoring three to their opponents' zero.

Another match of importance was played at Lakefield on July 2nd, for a silver trophy donated by Rev. Father Phelan. The porridge men again walked off with the laurels by defeating Bridgenorth by one counter.

What Won the Game.

As mentioned above, the Quakers were highly successful. How was it done? Well, the Quakers played an unselfish game right through. Team work was the method used and although none of the players were over brilliant, they made up this deficiency by concentrating their force, Captain Fitzgerald and "Jack" Sullivan secretary of the Midland League, besides the president, Dr. Morgan, had a great deal to do with the success. They worked diligently in the interests of the club and the outcome of the season demonstrated their labour was not in vain.

Financially, it is understood, the club was a little "embarrassed". This was owing to, not only a lack of interest in the growing game, but also to unfavourable weather at a number of the home matches. However, this did not occasion much worry on the part of the officials considering the record season which the team turned out and "all for the love of the game".

The players who assisted in winning the three trophies were:—Fitzgerald,

H. Roddy, Captain of The Charlotte Street Baseball Team.

Crough, Armstrong, Boycott, Evans, Baker, McFadden, Doris, Best, Archibald, Parnell, Brooks, Todd, Donaldson, Sisson, Sullivan, Huston, Barrie.

Baseball History.

Locally the baseball season was an important one. The city was not represented by any team in an outside league but the Guild League and City League furnished some excellent food for the lovers of the game. The former organized early in the season with bright prospects. Three teams entered—Charlotte Street, George Street and St. Paul's—and the keenest of interest was exhibited throughout. Charlotte Street were the victors in every game but one, George Street taking the exception.

Besides winning the Guild League championship the Charlotte Street also captured the Stratton Cup, which they have now won for three successive years. The object of the league was of course, to promote a love for the game among the younger generations in order to provide material in future for leagues comprising nines from various districts.

P. A. Ker, President of The Guild Baseball League.

The City League.

At the conclusion of the Guild League a City League was organized which proved a good drawing card. Two teams entering—the Argos and the Shamrocks—the latter having a little to spare at the finish.

The Shop League of the Canadian General also created a great deal of interest. Juvenile games were in all parts of the city and it is asserted that baseball is the popular game in Peterborough and a game which is apt to become more so in future.

Bowling on The Green.

The old Scotch game of bowling is going ahead in leaps and bounds. Probably no plot of ground in the city the size of the Brookside Bowling Green was utilized more than it. The season has easily been the banner one in the history of the club and more interest has been awakened than ever before.

Bowling has usually been considered a pastime only for old men but of later years the young men have been joining the ranks.

This was one of the chief aims of the club and they have succeeded in accomplishing a great deal in this respect.

D. H. Moore, President of The Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club.

British Bowlers' Visit.

The visit to the city of the bowlers from the old lands across the Atlantic was the prominent feature of the Bowling season. Their brief sojourn in Peterborough will long be remembered by the gentlemen who had the honour and good fortune of tossing a bowl with them and at the same time cementing more strongly the ties that bind the old country and the new. Captain Pingland and his jolly associates will long be remembered by Peterborough bowlers as well as the friendly games on the green—although lost.

Another important event was the recent games in the Scotch doubles for

The Junior Shamrocks, of Peterborough, had a successful season during the past summer. Their record in the league series was 54 goals against 17, or more than 3 to 1. They played good lacrosse the whole season and deserved the assistance they received from the public---British Bowlers' visit.

the Frost trophy. This was won by the rink skipped by J. McIntyre, the others being R. Wescott, R. Davidson and R. Sturgeon.

The bowling season is not yet a thing of the past. Every afternoon the contestists of the game—and there are many—assemble on the green and test their skill in friendly games. Bowling appears to have obtained a deep rooting in Peterborough and there is no doubt of its greater progress in the future.

Fred Whitcroft, Organizer of The C. G E. Shop Baseball League.

With The Tennis Players.

Among the lighter and more feminine games, tennis probably ranks at the top in popularity. The season has been a gay and lively one and from its appearance the tennis game is rapidly gaining ground, particularly among the fairer sex.

The Nicholls Oval and St. John's Young Peoples clubs who played at the Oval were the chief exponents of the game in the city. The many little charming "tennis teas" which were given by the ladies at various stages of the summer were important features in instilling a fondness for the game.

The tennis competition of the St. John's Young People on Labour Day was the gala day of their season and an event full of life and keen interest. Tennis, too, is only in its infancy in the city.

At The Golf Links.

For the stalwart and more muscular of the fairer sex and their friends, the golf links was the chief attraction. The gay green, made gayer by the dainty costumes was often the scene of a delightful game and has this summer been at its best. A number of Golf teas were held at the links and the players in this way were brought more sociably together.

The contests were always keen and particularly so in the struggle for the Stratton Cup, which was won yesterday by Mr. Merritt.

One of the most pleasant afternoons was that spent in honour of the ladies who accompanied the visiting Old Country bowlers.

Lawn tennis was a new feature introduced this year at the links and its inception proved popular. Boating was another pastime which was also a favourite.

Altogether the summer season in sports has been a particularly brilliant one in almost every branch and is but another instance of the progressiveness of Peterborough which is making such rapid strides towards a great and prosperous city.

Young Hero's Bravery Fittingly Recognized

Master Heber Rogers Presented With the Royal Canadian Humane Society's Bronze Medal—Mr. Duncan Walker Made the Presentation.

St. Luke's Church was the scene of a very pleasing ceremony at the close of the evening service yesterday, when Master Heber Rogers, the young son of Mr. R. B. Rogers, was presented with the Royal Canadian Humane Society's bronze medal in recognition of his conspicuous bravery in saving the two sons of Ald. Adams from drowning, in July last. The reward, the highest in the gift of the society, was no more than what was due the little hero who has several times displayed great bravery and presence of mind.

It will be remembered that the two sons of Ald. Adams were on a raft on the river, and one of them slipped off. His brother bravely plunged in after him, but neither of the little fellows could swim, and there would undoubtedly have been a double drowning to record had it not been for the heroic conduct of Heber Rogers. He jumped into the water, and, swimming to the struggling boys, seized one with each hand and managed to get them safely to shore.

The attention of the Humane Society was drawn to the boy's brave action and, after investigating the facts that were laid before them, the members of the society deemed young Rogers worthy of receiving their greatest honour, the bronze medal for conspicuous bravery.

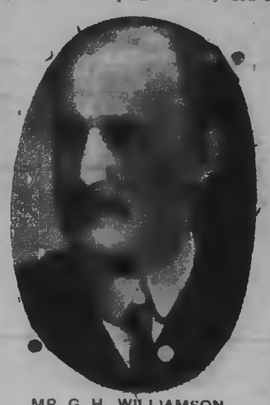
The presentation of the medal was made last night by Mr. Duncan Walker, Inspector of Public Schools.

Before the presentation, the rector, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, on behalf of Mr. Adams, expressed the gratitude that gentleman felt to the Almighty for having put it into the heart of Heber Rogers to save his two boys. Parents would understand what it meant, and knew how terrible was even the prospect of losing a child. They would realize what it meant to have two boys saved.

MR. D. WALKER, B.A.,
Who Made the Presentation of the Medal Last Night.

Mr. Walker, before pinning the medal on the young recipient's breast, spoke very feelingly of his conduct. People were too prone, he said, to return thanks only for things material. They should also bear in mind and be thankful that it has pleased Providence to implant in the youth of Canada indomitable courage, bravemindedness that makes them willing to do and dare when duty calls. It was the manifestation of this quality that gave a hopeful promise for the future.

MASTER HEBER ROGERS,
Son of Mr. R. B. Rogers, Who Was Presented With the Royal Canadian Humane Society's Medal for Conspicious Bravery.



MR. G. H. WILLIAMSON,
Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. One of the Speakers at the Presentation Ceremony.

Courage was an inherent virtue, and one that would not be learned in schools. It, however, could be cultivated by force of good example.

Mr. Walker then related the circumstances of the brave rescue and the recognition of the Humane Society. He laid particular stress upon the modesty of the boy in endeavouring to have nothing said of the affair. "He would do good by stealth, and blush to find it fame." The saving of life seemed to have been a characteristic of the Rogers family, one of which had been sacrificed in the saving of another.

The bronze medal was then presented to the brave little boy. Mr. Walker, in presenting it, stated that it was regarded by the civilian as was the Victoria Cross by the British soldier. He was particularly pleased, as Public School Inspector, to see the medal placed on one of the pupils of the school, and hoped that his class mates might be ready to imitate him when there was necessity. He felt sure that Heber Rogers would give an account of himself in life.

Mr. Geo. H. Williamson, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., spoke in feeling terms of the bravery exhibited by young Rogers upon another occasion. He described in vivid language the boy's heroic but unsuccessful attempt to save Mr. Dandy, who was drowned in Clear Lake in July. He told how, when the man called for help, Heber Rogers had gone to his rescue, and had almost gotten him to safety, when he went down, almost taking his little would-be rescuer with him. Even then the boy did not give up, but dived several times in an effort to recover the body.

Mr. Williamson, in conclusion, referred to the modest way in which the boy acted in connection with both of these displays of his bravery, and was confident that he would be heard from in life.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, in conclusion, added a few words of tribute, stating that he looked upon Heber Rogers as the best boy in the Sunday school.

A Serious Injury Result of Runaway

Mrs. Maurice Dorgan, of King's Wharf, Badly Hurt.

Downeyville, Sept. 22.—Mrs. Maurice Dorgan, wife of the well known King's Wharf thresher, was seriously injured yesterday in a furious runaway. She was thrown out and fell in such a way that she received a serious injury to the spine, causing paralysis from the chest downwards. Although not suffering Mrs. Dorgan is in a very serious condition.

May Build Bridge All Of Concrete

Board of Works Will Discuss the Matter To-night.

There is a possibility that the bridge over the creek on Charlotte street may be built of concrete instead of in iron work. The Board of Works will discuss the question at their meeting to-night. It appears that the company with whom the committee has made a contract for the iron work have failed to carry out their agreement.

Another matter that will be taken up is the building of a sewer to the new Public School. A petition has been signed for its construction along Romaine street to the new school, and the committee will deal with the matter at to-night's session.

MURRAY ST. YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

The Young Peoples' Society of the Murray street church, will hold a rally social to-night, at which a good programme will be presented. All young people are invited.

On Wednesday night there will be the usual programme, and on Thursday a meeting of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the conventions.

A Work of Time.

GEN. Kitchener once possessed an Irish servant, whose forte was asking questions and trying to find out the why and wherefore of everything he was told to do. During a battle an orderly one day approached the General and told him that his favourite horse, Erin, had been struck by a cannon ball and killed.

Calling his Irish servant, the General said, "Go skin Erin."

"Why, sir, is Erin dead—" began the man.

General Kitchener roared at the wretch, saying, "Never mind whether he is dead or not—I told you to go and skin Erin."

The man returned about three hours later and Kitchener bullied him with the words: "Where have you been? Do you take three hours to skin a horse?"

"No," answered Mike, "but it took me about two hours to catch him."

AN ADLET DID IT.

On Saturday night before six o'clock the first contribution to the Examiner poetry contest was received and is published herewith. The poems submitted in this competition will be published as nearly as possible in the order of their receipt. While, of course, it is necessary to know the names of the contributors in making the awards, they will not be published in connection with the competition. The author of the verses which follow has evidently caught the spirit of the proposition. His poem, "Mary's Lamb," is as follows:—

Mary had a little lamb,
Whose fleece was white as snow,
But Mary lost her little lamb
Just seven weeks ago.

She mourned its loss by day and night,
She sadly missed her pet,
And if one had not advertised,
She would be mourning yet.

A little "adlet" did the trick
Inserted in this sheet,
And Mary says she all now know,
This paper can't be beat.

Great Amateur Flower Grower

Champion Floral Hybridist of the World Lives in Simcoe, Ont.

Simcoe, Sept. 22.—The Reformer says: Simcoe has the honour of producing the champion floral hybridist of the world in the person of Mr. H. H. Groff, manager of the Molsons Bank, who has converted the common gladiolus into a thing of beauty, such as the world had never before seen. Men of science come here thousands of miles to witness the methods by which the wonderful transformation has been accomplished, and to see these marvelous creations in bloom.

SUITS MADE QUICK.

"The perfection of the physique type of measuring and designing for tailoring," said the Manager of the Semi-ready Wardrobe, "was one of the most brilliant sartorial achievements in many years. Until this idea of the Semi-ready Company was perfected, we merchant tailors had it all our own way. To-day most of us acknowledge the truth that the small tailor shops cannot equal the system or the workmanship of the real Semi-ready garment. I know that in nearly every town and city in Canada merchant tailors are trying to get the Semi-ready agency."

"The Semi-ready Company this year are giving special attention to the quick filling of special orders. When I send in measurements for special suits I know that these orders will be filled promptly." A. W. Cressman, agent for Peterborough.

MAJORITY OF PATIENTS WOMEN

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Saves Many From this Sad and Costly Experience.

It is a sad but true fact that every year brings an increase in the number of operations performed upon women in our hospitals. More than three-fourths of the patients lying on those snow-white beds are women and girls who are awaiting or recovering from operations made necessary by neglect.

Every one of these patients had plenty of warning in that bearing down feeling, pain at the left or right of the abdomen, nervous exhaustion, pain in the small of the back, pelvic catarrh, dizziness, flatulency, displacements or irregularities All of these symptoms are indications of an unhealthy condition of the female organs, and if not heeded the trouble may make headway until the penalty has to be paid by a dangerous operation, and a lifetime of impaired usefulness at best, while in many cases the results are fatal.

The following letter should bring hope to suffering women. Mrs. Robert Glenn, of 434 Marie St., Ottawa, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so well and widely known that it does not need my recommendation, but I am pleased to add it to the many which you have in its favor. I suffered untold agonies from serious female troubles for nearly three years, and the doctors told me that I must undergo an operation, but as I was unwilling to do this, I tried your Vegetable Compound and I am only too pleased that I did so, for it restored me to perfect health, saving me the pain of an operation and the immense bills attending the same. Pray accept my hearty thanks and best wishes."

Just as surely as Mrs. Glenn was cured of the troubles enumerated in her letter, just so surely will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure other women who suffer from female troubles, inflammation, kidney troubles, nervous excitability and nervous prostration.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women who are ill to write her for free advice She is a daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

TALL TALK.

The Orangeville Sun, has the following vigorous language upon the relation of corporations to the public ownership idea, which is interesting as indicating the trend of opinion in certain quarters:—

"Corporations holding valuable public franchises can thank themselves for the phenomenal growth of the public ownership idea during the past decade. We cannot recall even one company that tries to do the square thing with the people, and the only way they can secure a square deal is to operate public utilities themselves. When a man preached public ownership doctrine ten years ago he was laughed at and the cunning monopolists got the rabble to yell socialist at him and they called him all kinds of naughty names. But it's different now, pardner, and we have recently had an example of a government being smashed because it did not practice public ownership in its handling of such questions as Niagara power. Big corporations have grown wealthy and saucy by holding up the public, but now that the people have taken a hand in the game themselves, the big bullies whine and whimper about vested rights and howl that capital is being driven away because the people are going right in to secure what is theirs and what they are entitled to. In the development of a country there is something more important than manufacturing millionaires out of watered stock. It is much better to have all the people fairly well off than to have a few bloated capitalists and the rest of the population hustling day in and day out to secure enough to make both ends meet."

Of course this doesn't sound a bit socialistic.

THE MILK BY-LAW.

Now that Ald. McIntyre's bylaw to license milk dealers and regulate the supply of milk to our citizens is likely to be placed in the statute book, a most important matter is the appointment of an efficient inspector. The bylaw forbids the sale of watered or doctored milk, but unless there is some specific provision for authoritatively ascertaining the quality of milk, the bylaw will be a dead letter like hundreds of other bylaws. The appointment of an inspector under the bylaw is one of the most important that can engage the attention of our aldermen. There should be no considerations other than securing the best possible man for the position. There should be no pull, no favouritism when the health and life of our citizens are at stake.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Dr. Willoughby, juding by the "pull" he commands, should succeed as a dentist.

On Thursday, September 20th, 1856 —only half a century ago the Globe contained the following statement of fact and prophetic enunciation:—"In its present wild and uncultivated state the West affords sustenance to immense herds of wild cattle. What would it do if cultivated by the hand of man? As a wheat-growing country Assiniboia will rival Canada."

Rev. W. B. Creighton, B.A., B.D., has been appointed editor of the Christian Guardian. While it is hoped that he will perform the duties of the office satisfactorily, he will find that his latest title will be the hardest to live up to.

As a rule, public interests are supposed to overshadow those of a private nature. Yet, at the last session of the Dominion Parliament, of the 175 bills passed, 45 were devoted to national matters, and 130 were in the interest of individuals and corporations.

Dr Sproule, M.P., has never been regarded as a "grafter," but he finds little trouble in collaring the honours of Orangism. As Imperial Past Grand President, Dr. Sproule on Friday night last was invested with a handsome collar and jewel, typical of his rank.

The Yankee Winston Churchill, hasn't the same luck as the British Colonial brand of Churchill. Our Winston gets there, with equal success, whether "there" means the outside of a Boar guard house, a war correspondent's berth or a Colonial Secretaryship. The Yankee Winston got beaten in a contest for Governor of New Hampshire.

Rev. Dr. Carman's pronunciation of the work "Quinte" was challenged by a delegate to the Methodist Conference. The general superintendent, referring to the Bay of Quinte conference called it the "Bay Kantay" conference. When his pronunciation was challenged he maintained his ground. "Bay of Kantay," he said, would be absurd, but "Bay Kantay" is correct because that is the original French name and pronunciation. As the venerable doctor is a Bay Quinte boy, the Hamilton Herald thinks, he ought to know.

Hon. Dr. Willoughby is doubtless prepared to sacrifice himself in the interests of the Province, and perhaps with a little persuasion would consent if it were gently forced upon him to accept the portfolio of Minister of Health, which he proposes should be created. The health of the Province is a matter of the utmost moment, but it is hardly probable that the Whitney Government will venture to increase the machinery of Government to Dominion numerical proportions. With the recent addition by Mr. Whitney of the Hydraulic Commission to the Cabinet strength, we can hardly afford to add another Department, even to give poor, neglected East Northumberland a portfolio.

AMERICAN FISHERMEN KICK AGAINST $2 FISHING LICENSE

Pittsburg, Sept. 20.—Writing The Despatch, Mr. W. F. Smith says:—

The law makers of Canada came in for unlimted censure this summer from those who visited the Dominion in quest of fish. Nimrods from the States kicked vigorously when the Canadian Government passed a law requiring all non-resident hunters to pay a license of $25 per year for the privilege of killing big game in Canada, but the howl set up then was as nothing to that heard this year, the Yankee angler found that he had to pay over to King Edward's underlings $2 for the right to cast a hook and line into waters of the country directly north of the United States.

Had the fishing generally been good nobody but a cheap sportsman would have felt hurt at being "touched" for so modest a sum, but most of the anglers have returned, minus not only $2, but also the fish. The only thing the average fisherman brought back with him was inconfirmed fish stories, and in these days of pocket cameras the only yarns of that kind that to the unwary ring true are those backed up with photographs. And even some of the photos are misleading, for frequently one string of fish is used to enable many luckless fisherman to deceive their unsuspecting city brethren.

No Inclination to Fish.

An east end woman who has been accustomed to spending her summers in New Jersey near the coast, went fishing this summer with her husband in Canada. She always used live helgramites when fishing in Jersey, but upon arrival in Canada she had such a severe attack of hay fever that she had no inclination to fish. Her husband angled with indifferent success, yet when they came home they had the usual fish story ready, together with a picture of their catch. Where the pictured fish were caught possibly these professed successful anglers do not know.

Anyway, it is a sure thing they never caught the fish, for when the woman was asked what kind of bait they had used she said "helgramites."

"Live ones?"

"Yes, we never use any other kind," she said.

Ask an experienced fisherman how many live helgramites he ever saw in the lakes of Canada! An Ohio man, in writing recently to a friend in Pittsburg who had loaned him a string of fish to have photographed, says in his letter: "The madame and I have shown our fish picture to so many people and told so many stories about it that we are beginning to believe we actually did catch the fish." 'Isn't it high time that affidavits are required?

Nothing for the Money.

To pay $2 for a summer's sport does not seem like a hardship, but it is rather galling when you get nothing for your money. The Canadian Government evidently sees the handwriting on the wall—knows that its inland lakes hold far less fish than in years gone by, and that unless something is done to curtail angling the lakes will be fished out.

But a $2 license is no protection. People from the States on fishing bent will pay such a charge gladly. What's $2 to an ardent fisherman? He can be mulcted for $5 or $10 so long as he thinks he can get his money's worth. And in some Canadian lakes he can get it. The one thing is to know where to look for them.

Like as not most of the time was killed in the Muskoka region. That is one section where it didn't pay to part with $2 for a fishing license. Pittsburgers tested it thoroughly this year and found it wanting. A good catch was a decided exception, yet many a man fished on hopefully.

Muskoka Lake can never be entirely fished out, for it is linked with many other lakes, but it is plain that there are not nearly as many fish there, nor are they as easily caught, as in years gone by.

Fish Hard to Get.

As an old resident of Sparrow Lake in the Muskoka region, wrote to a Pittsburg friend last spring: "There are fish in these parts still, but it is harder to catch them now than it was ten years ago."

Without good fishing what can an energetic city man do at such resorts?

One well known Pittsburger who went to Muskoka last August to fish, after testing the fishing for a day, asked another Pittsburger at the hotel what he did to pass the time.

"Oh," he replied, "I sit on the porch and read and when I get sleepy I doze, and, of course, I always go down to see the boats come in."

Upon hearing which the other Pittsburger straightway packed his trunk and made tracks for Atlantic City. But had this man not been so impetuous he might have got something for his $2.

It is not more than a day's ride from Muskoka to the Kawartha Lakes, Canada, and it is there that fishing seems to have been best this year. Wonderful tales are being told of black bass and lunge catches that were made there by Pittsburg people, and no doubt most of the tales are true, for, besides bringing home photographs of the fish caught, one man, connected with a Fourth avenue trust company, actually returned with a whole barrel of bass, pickerel and lunge. He, at least, is one angler who doesn't have to flash an affidavit.

Mrs. S. Ridpath, of Toronto, and Miss Margaret Isbister of Innerkeip, Ont., left Montreal on Thursday of last week, for the Orkney Islands, Scotland. Mrs. Ridpath is a native of the islands, and anticipates a pleasant trip in visiting the home of her childhood. Mrs. Ridpath and her niece expect to return in the spring.

Mr. William Shea, of this city, has accepted a position in the J. C. Turnbull Company's dry goods store and assumed charge of the Staples department. Mr. Shea is well and favourably known in this district. He has also had the advantage of four years' experience with the T. Eaton Co., Toronto, as well as having had charge of a Midland district general store.

Southern Hotel To Be Enlarged

A Large Modern Building Will Replace the Old One.

The Examiner is informed that plans are being drawn up for the enlargement and improvement of the Southern Hotel, which has lately been vacated by Mr. Austin Dunn.

Mr. Nixon, the new proprietor, who has just taken charge of the business, intends, it is understood, to erect a building on the Southern Hotel grounds, which will compare favourably with the best in the city.

Electricity Held Hired Man Fast To Button

Had to be Pulled Away by Mr. Hancock—Fluid Struck and Splintered Neck Yoke Which Had Just Been Dropped—Fierce Storm in Smith.

The disstrous fire which destroyed the barn of Mr Clifford Hancock, on Saturday evening, was almost accompanied by the loss of a human life.

The hired man had been working with a team in the field at the time, and had just reached the stable when the electric fluid ran down the building. The neck yoke, which a moment before had been dropped to the floor by him, was splintered into small pieces by the current.

The young man next attempted to open a door which was fastened by a steel button. The electricity held him fast, but was not strong enough to kill. He was only released when Mr. Hancock grabbed him and pulled him away from the live button.

The lightning and thunder in that vicinity is said to have been the fiercest the residents have seen, and heard in a long time, and it seems it was only by a miracle that greater damage was not done.

The Amusement Park Has Come To Stay

Peterborough Radial Railway Company Will Conduct Park Again Next Summer on Large Scale—This Week Sees Close of Picture Show.

This week will see the close of the moving picture performances at Jackson Park for this season. Mr. Larmonth states that the season has been a very satisfactory one from the standpoint of the Railway Company. It has been so much so, in fact that, while definite plans have not been formed yet, it is certain that next summer the Company will again conduct a park on similar lines, but it is probable that it will be on a considerably more elaborate scale than that of this year. Whether it will be at Jackson Park or not has not been decided yet.

This winter the park will again be the scene of much gaiety. Two more slides will be erected and the skating rink and box ball alley and restaurant will be in operation. The pictures this week will be up to the usual high standard.

Demanded Entrance To Antrim Street House

Two Young Ladies Given a Bad Scare Last Night—Rapped at Door and Attempted to Gain Entrance.

Two young ladies living on Antrim street were given a bad scare last evening about 7.30 o'clock. They were alone in the house, their parents having gone to church, when they heard a rap at the front door, and a man was heard demanding admittance. The door was closed, but not locked, and the girls ran and turned the key before he had time to effect an entrance. One of the girls stayed in the house, while the other ran out of the back door to call some of the neighbours to their assistance. When the would-be intruder found that he could not gain admittance to the house he made his escape, and when a young man called by one of the girls reached the house, he was nowhere to be seen. The young ladies state that he was not in an intoxicated condition.

Stole Grain From A Keene Farmer's Wagon

It Was Left Standing Loaded at Night and in the Morning Five Bags Were Missing—A Clue—Other Late Keene News of Interest.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Sept. 23.—Mr. Thos. Soucie, Peterborough, who has been spending his holidays in Keene returned to the city Wednesday.

Mr. William Stewart, Meaford, was in the village on business Wednesday.

Miss Agnes Doris left for Rochester, N. J., Thursday.

Misses Margaret and Agnes Campbell who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cruikshanks, Toronto, returned home last week.

Mr. J. M. Smalley, Boston, Mass. is camped up Rice Lake.

Friday afternoon Mr. Frank Elmhirst, who lives about four miles east of Keene, loaded up his wagon with peas to draw away Saturday morning, but the next morning he discovered the wagon load to be five bags short. He found tracks of a single wagon or buggy leading from his barn and up to Villiers Corners, where it had turned west, but was unable to trace it further. Mr. Joseph Hastie, of Villiers, states that he heard a wagon go past his house at one o'clock, returning in about an hour. No further trace has yet been found of the thief.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 24.—The stock market was depressed early to-day by loan of tight money in the next few days in New York, London and Berlin. Engagements of $1,000,000 gold in London for import here and call money at 4 per cent. was somewhat reassuring, and later in the day a sharp rally ensued, causing shorts to cover freely and putting prices above Saturday's. A careful inquiry by one of the conservative stock houses results in a statement to-day that no important political changes are likely this fall. On reasonable recessions we would buy, taking on a scale-down, if possible, believing the market will go higher later. The rally held to the close, which was strong.

Monument Was Unveiled

Local Woodmen Took Part in an Interesting Ceremony.

About thirty members of Sherwood Forest Camp, Woodmen of the World, of Peterborough, drove to Omemee yesterday to take part in the unveiling of a monument to the memory of the late Brother W. J. Switzer, a deceased member of Omemee Lodge. A similar number of Lindsay Woodmen were present, as well as a very large representation of Omemee people.

Bro. Cinnamon, of Lindsay, made a very eloquent address, in which he referred feelingly to the deceased. Bro. Havre, of Lindsay, and Bro. R. Copeland, D.C.G., and organizer, also made touching references to the late Mr. Switzer.

Two Processions On Streets To-day

Car Load of New Scale Williams Pianos and Cattle for Exhibition.

Two novel processions were seen on the business streets this afternoon. One was a heard of Holstein cattle from near Rice Lake, belonging to a man named McLeod. The other was a parade of seven drays, each containing two New Scale Williams pianos, the property of the J. M. Greene Music Company.

This is the first time such a large shipment of pianos has ever been brought to this city.

Streamers advertising the pianos were on the first and last cart, while two piano boxes were marked sold.

The J. M. Greene Music Company is one of the city's most enterprising establishments.

Your Eyes Show You What You See

Your sight tells you where you are. The vision cannot be overtaxed with safety. All eyes require spectacles sooner or later, and a large majority of those possessing sight would improve what they have if they used glasses. Generally speaking unless the eyes are strengthened by glasses, they are apt to become weakened and any defects that exist are certain to increase by neglect. Lose no time in finding out whether you need glasses.

Season's Crop Was Destroyed And Barn Burned

Mr. C. Hancock a Heavy Loser From Saturday's Storm.

Another disastrous fire from lightning occurred on Saturday evening in Smith township. The electric storm, although it did not appear very dangerous in the city, was of unusual severity towards the north and Mr. Clifford Hancock, who resides on the second line of Smith about a mile from Jackson Park, is the loser of his barn and season's crop.

The barn was a frame building and one of the best in the township. It contained the products of a hundred acres of land besides stock and implements. Nothing was saved except the implements and the stock. A large number of hens were also burned.

It is understood that the building contained a quantity of Alsike clover which will be a great loss to the owner.

Great difficulty was experienced in saving the house on the same farm and the buildings on the Walton farm which is close by. The Examiner is informed that the buildings were insured but the season's crop will be a total loss.

Large Assemblies At The Barracks

Great Crowds Marked the Visit of Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave.

That the visit of Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave was a success in every way was evidenced by the large assemblies that greeted them at every meeting. They were in the city on their initial trip as successors to Brigadier and Mrs. Turner. They arrived on the 5.10 p.m., C.P.R. train on Saturday and that evening a large crowd was present at the barracks.

Sunday, however, was the important day during their visit here. In the afternoon Brig. Hargrave conducted the service the next of which was "Thou Crownest the year with Thy Harvest." The Brigadier spoke of the Festival which was being held, referring to the goodness of God in giving to man such an abundance of good things. Mrs. Hargrave sang "Nothing to Pay," written to the music of the Glory Song.

In the evening the hall was filled to its utmost capacity, there being one of the largest crowds in the history of the local barracks. Mrs. Hargrave delivered a splendid address on the text, "Whatsoever a Man Soweth that Shall he Also Reap." The speaker pointed out that when a man sowed seed he had a definite purpose in view. If the seed was barley, then he expected that barley should sprout up and mature. She compared the spiritual with the material. If a man sowed in the flesh then his harvest was sin and ruin, but if on the other had he sowed in the spirit he was sure to reap eternal blessings and happiness. Mrs. Hargrave captivated her listeners with words of advice, but especially by her sweet singing. A bandsman also, sang, "When the Harvest is Past," with the band accompaniment.

The services during the day were marked by the good attention of the large numbers present. The day's offerings amounted to the splendid sum of forty dollars, while the spiritual result was equally satisfying ing their being 15 seekers for pardon.

Brigadier and Mrs. Hargrave left this morning for Kingston where they will hold similar meetings. It is needless to say that the members of the local corps are highly pleased with the successors to Brigadier and Mrs. Turner.

Home After A Quarter Century

M. George Topley Here Visiting His Mother.

Mr. Geo. Topley of the Union Station, Toronto, is in the city visiting his mother on Albert street. It is some 25 years since Mr. Topley spent any time in the city before, and he sees many evidences of prosperity of his native home. The city he says, has gone ahead more rapidly than any he had been in in the province of late years and he has seen a good many. He is also renewing acquaintences with old friends of whom he has a great many.

Sunday Night Fire Does Considerable Damage

Hunter Street Photo Gallery Suffers Complete Loss—Progress Checked in Time and Prevented a More Serious Conflagration—Stores Beneath Were Soaked in Water.

Gutted by fire and soaked in water, the interior of the photo gallery operated by Mr. D. Currie, Hunter street, West, was this morning a mass of ruins. And had it not been for the activity and hard labour of the fire laddies who were quickly on the scene, Peterborough might have been visited by one of the most disastrous conflagrations seen here in a long time. The flames and smoke were first noticed about 10.30 last night night by a boy who related the news to the Oriental clerk. An alarm was immediately sent in and in a short time the firemen and hose wagons were on the scene together with a crowd of spectators that blocked Hunter streeet in the vicinity.

The flames originated in Mr. Currie's photo gallery at the south-west corner and it is believed among the chemicals which added greatly to the ferocity of the flames. They rapidly spread throughout the gallery on the second storey and three streams of water were turned on and the blaze appeared to be under control.

Reached the Third Storey.

Shortly after the flames were again discovered eating their way through the dry interior of the third storey. The extension ladders were brought into commission and the fire laddies swarmed up and two streams with good effect again played upon the devouring flames. The firemen were anxious that the blaze should not reach the attic for then the roof would be endangered and fresh difficulties of a more serious nature crop up. To this end they worked hard and succeeded.

Great clouds of smoke emanated from the windows, and rapidly spread through the city and to a great extent hindred the efforts of the firemen.

Watersoaked Stores.

Besides completely destroying the photo gallery of Mr. Currie, the stores beneath came in for a share of damage. The rear of J. D. Tully's drug store was flooded with water and a number of things were ruined. But the greatest loss Mr. Tully experienced was the washing off of the labels on some bottles on the shelves. This will necessitate the destruction of a large quantity of drugs.

The Minicola Bros. were next in the line and their store was also pretty well flooded besides the loss of a quantity of candy and fruit. Their loss will be something over $100 which is partly covered with insurance.

In Primeau's barber shop the water also worked havoc, particularly with the paper on the walls which is hanging in ribbons. The clock was soaked so that it stopped during the night. The goods on the shelves and in the cupboards were mostly spoiled and Mr. Primeau could not supply his customers with a shave this morning.

The stairway leading down from the gallery made an excellent passage for the great flow of water which tumbled down i great volumes.

The building in which the fire occurred was the property of Mr. R. A. Morrow and it is understood the loss sustained, is covered by incurance.

It is yet impossible to determine Mr. Currie's loss, but it will be considerable as he carried quite a large stock.

SEATS NOW SELLING

Ross Snow as the "Good Fairy" in "The Gingerbread Man."

A TEMPERANCE HOTEL TO BE ESTABLISHED

Peterborough is likely to have another temperance hotel. Mr. J. W. Naish, of Buffalo, N.Y., a gentleman who has had considerable experience in this line of business in other places, is in the city for the purpose of making investigations in connection with the proposition.

It is understood that he has been negotiating with the owners of the Oxford Hotel, at the C. P. R., formerly occupied by Mrs. Bowman, and if he is successful in completing satisfactory arrangements, he will re-open the premises as a temperance hotel.

He expresses his belief that Peterborough is large enough to support another house of this kind, and it is quite probable that in the near future another will be in operation in the city.

THE GOLDEN JUBILEE OF ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE

Because of the unique educational place St. Michael's College holds in Ontario, the celebration of its fiftieth anniversary, to be held in the college building September 30th will be regarded as an important event. Its place is unique in that being a secular college regarding the religion of its students, it has educated about 90 per cent. of the priests in Ontario in humanities and philosophies. Besides many prominent bishops, clergy and laymen of the United States. Some of the alumni from Ontario who will attend the festivities are the Archbishop of Toronto, who was once a teacher in the college; the Bishops of Hamilton, Guelph and Peterborough, the Very Rev. Vicar-General McCann, Rev. Drs. Tracey and Teefey, Dean Harris and the Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General.

Rally Service Well Attended

An Interesting Gathering at Murray Street Church.

"Rally Sunday" was observed at the Murray street Baptist Sunday School yesterday and the results are gratifying to those in charge of the affair. There was a very large attendance, both of members of the school, as well as parents and friends. The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Messrs. Routley and Riddon, the latter presiding. At the service an address was given by Rev F. J. Scott, who spoke on Sunday school work, and made some suggestions on the work. Miss Clara Kidd and Mr. F. W. Miller gave a vocal duet and Miss Emily Miller sang a solo.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. O. Barber.

Splendid Address At The Y.W.C.A.

Miss Little Delivered a Helpful Address to Many Young Ladies.

A large number of young ladies were present at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday at 4 p. m., the occasion being a special address on Bible study by Miss Little. She took the 19th psalm as her text and advised the members to conscientiously study the Bible, pointing out the necessity for Bible study. The address was very interesting and helpful. Miss Little is a fine speaker and has had much experience in this work.

On Tuesday evening of this week an Educational Rally and social will be held in the assembly hall of the Y.W.C.A. when Miss Little will be present as also the new physical directress. There will be refreshments and music to enliven the evening and the young women of the city are cordially invited.

Charged With Theft of Money

Made a Sale and Accused of Pocketing Some of the Proceeds.

Arthur Werts, a youth about 15 years of age, appeared in Police Court this morning charged with the theft of money from the Peterborough Bookstore on Saturday evening. The boy made a sale of some wall paper to the amount of $1.50 part of which it is alleged, he did not turn over to the till. The proprietor stated that Werts told him he put a check for 75c. in the till.

The case was left over until Wednesday morning, and in the meantime the boy was allowed to go on condition that he appeared then

It appeas that merchants in the city have been complaining about this sort of thing for some time and they intend to prosecute all who are discovered to be implicated in such thefts in the futuure.

HERPICIDE'S MISSION

It Takes Away the Dread of Birthdays.

Nothing is more annoying to men and women of middle age than to see those unmistakable signs of age—thin hair and grayness—approaching. But science has discovered that these conditions are no longer "unmistakable" evidences of old age, for the dandruff germ theory proves that even very young people may suffer hair loss, while those fortunate enough to escape the ravages of the scalp germ retain their abundant locks to a ripe old age. Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and removes the risk of appearing old before your time. Save your hair and your feelings by using the genuine Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

NEW DRUG STORE'S FORMAL OPENING

McDermid and Jury, the George street druggists, held their formal opening to the people of Peterborough on Saturday. The store, which was artistically decorated for the occasion, was crowded all day, and several extra clerks had to be employed. There were many free gifts for everybody, among other things perfume, tooth powder and soap, which were much appreciated by the recipients.

Presented Report Of Summer's Operations

General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Tells Directors What the Association Has Done Last Quarter—A Successful Summer.

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. the secretary gave a report of the work for the quarter ending September 1, covering the summer months.

The following is a synopsis:—

The religious work was continued throughout the entire summer months. For the first time in three years the men's meetings continued during that season, the attendance running all the way from 17 to 60, with an average of 33 at the 17 meetings held.

The interest on the part of the men was deep, and four gave evidence of a desire to lead a new life.

The Evangelistic Band, under the leadership of Mr. Bunt, did splendid service in this connection — ten meetings were held.

Sixteen sessions of the Bible Club were held, with an attendance of 112. This club has had a marked influence over the men belonging.

The average daily attendance at the building during the summer months was 142.

One hundred and twenty-six visitors' tickets were issued in this time, and forty-six men were directed to boarding-houses.

The club rooms were used for 18 meetings held by the different athletic organizations of the city.

Boys' Camp.

The ninth annual boys' camp was no doubt the best, but not the largest ever held. Thirty-three boys were in attendance, the majority for the full time—and six visitors.

The daily Bible Class during the two weeks was attended by the campers generally, as were the other religious meetings held.

A cook house was erected, the cost being trifling, as the material in the old chute was made use of.

Finances.

The total receipts and expenditures of the camp were as follows:

Total receipts from fees, etc., $146.75

Expenses.

Stove	$10 00
Meats	13 01
Steamer fares	15 00
Railway fares	12 00
Rent of four boats	24 00

Harvest Festival Was a Success

An Interesting Service Held on Sunday.

The harvest festival at St. Mark's Church on Sunday was a great success. The church was crowded to the doors with a thankful and reverend congregation. Rev. Wm. Major, of All Saints', preached a very appropriate and eloquent sermon on the subject of God's faithfulness. The choir of St. Luke's Church turned out twenty-nine strong and rendered the festival music under the direction of Mr. J. L. Armstrong. The offering for missions was liberal. Next Sunday there will be no service at St. Mark's because of service at Stewart's Hall.

Woodstock ratepayers defeated by 20 votes the bylaw to grant the Canadian Bearings Company of Hamilton a loan of $25,000. There were only 118 votes against and 867 for, but 879 were required.

Close Series Of Open Air Meetings

Gospel Hall Services at Central Park Well Attended.

Yesterday afternoon the last of the series of open-air Sunday afternoon services held in Central Park during the summer, conducted by the Christians from the Gospel Hall, was held. The attendance, considering the chilly atmosphere, was good, and a successful meeting resulted. During the summer these services have been well attended, and those in charge wish to thank the public for their interest and support.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

GRIFFITH'S KING RICHARD THIRD

There were two fair-sized audiences at the Grand on Saturday to see John Griffith in Shakspere's immortal tragedy, "King Richard the Third," but in view of the merit of the performance the house should have been packed on both occasions. The veteran actor was never in better form than on Saturday, and his interpretation of the masterly role of King Richard was well-nigh perfect. His wonderful voice, his gestures, his dramatic ability, and last but not least, his impersonation of the deformed king, were splendid, and he fairly carried the audience by storm at times. He was supported by a capable company, whose work is worthy of high praise. Katherine Roth, in the role of Queen Elizabeth, splendidly acted the part of the heart-broken queen, and Mabel Standish, as Lady Anne, showed that the part was in capable hands.

The scenic and electrical effects were more sumptuous than usual.

At Home At The Charlotte St. Church

For the Purpose of Meeting Pastors's Family.

Next Friday night the Ladies' Aid of the Charlotte street Methodist church, will give an at home, in the Sunday school rooms, when an opportunity will be afforded the members of the congregation to be better acquainted with the new pastor, and his family.

Refreshments will be served by the ladies and a pleasant evening is anticipated.

Peterboro' Man Makes A Success

Of the Carriage Business in Rochester N. Y.

Mr. T. O'Connell, Rochester, N.Y., formerly of this city, which he left twenty-four years ago to go to the Flower City, is here on a visit to his mother, Mrs. T. O'Connell, 451 Concession street. Mr. O'Connell is one of the rising business men of Rochester, conducting a prosperous carriage manufactory, which business he embarked in in 1883. He comes to Peterborough every two years, and states that he notices a great improvement in the city even since his last visit here, which was two years ago.

Life-Long Resident Of Keene Passes Away

Late Robt. N. English, one Of the Most Prominent Business Men of That Village, Died Suddenly Yesterday—Cause of Death Was Heart Failure.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Sept. 24.—All Keene was shocked yesterday afternoon to learn of the very sudden death of Mr. Robt. N. English, one of the prominent merchants of this village. Up to within fifteen minutes of his death Mr. English was in good health and attended to his business as usual on Saturday, and was at church yesterday morning. About 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon he complained of feeling unwell, and within a few minutes was dead, the cause being given as heart failure. The late Mr. English was 61 years of age and had lived in this village practically all his life. He was born in Lang, and at an early age moved to Keene. For many years he was employed with the late Geo. Read, and afterwards went into business for himself and conducted it with much success until his death. He was unmarried, and lived with his mother, who survives him, with one brother, Fred, of Ottawa. Deceased was a prominent Presbyterian, and was a Conservative in politics. He was quite recently appointed a J. P. by the Ontario Government. He was also a member of Keene Lodge, No. 374, A. F. and A. M. under the auspices of which the funeral will probably be held tomorrow.

STORE BROKEN INTO AND REVOLVER STOLEN

Burglars in the city are becoming quite common. About 4.15 this morning the furniture store of E. J. Waterman, on Hunter street, was broken into and an $8 revolver taken from the window, one of the large panes in which was broken. It appears that at about the hour mentioned, a gentleman near the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets, heard a crash of glass and saw a man running down Aylmer street. He telephoned from the Oriental Hotel to the police station, and P. C. Meharry was soon on the scene, but could get no trace of the robber. Only the one article was missed, but Mr. Waterman thinks that was enough to lose in one night.

Enjoyed Re-union After Holidays

A Pleasant Afternoon Spent by Mrs. Aikens' Class.

A happy re-union after the holidays was enjoyed by Mrs. Thomas Aikon and her class from the Park Street Baptist Sunday School on Saturday. After an hour's ride around the city in the street car, they were entertained at her residence on Stewart street, ice cream, etc., being served. The afternoon will be long remembered, and the girls will have a warm place in their hearts for their teacher.

Rally Day At Park Street

October 7th Set as the Date for This Meeting.

Rally Day at the Park Street Baptist Sunday School will be held on October 7. The programme prepared by the Convention Committee will be used. An advanced step is to be taken among the seniors, and on motion, it was decided that the new movement Adult Bible Class should be introduced. Steps will be taken to effect this on October 14, under the direction of the pastor as leader.

Sunday Services At George Street

Mr. Ellwood Bowerman Preached Two Good Sermons.

The services in George street Methodist church yesterday were again taken by Mr. Bowerman. The morning service was interesting, but, by far the best meeting of the day was that in the evening, the church being well filled with a very appreciative audience. The speaker chose for his text the following:—"For none of us liveth unto himself." In a masterly oration of a half hour Mr. Bowerman dwelt on the different influences which have a direct bearing on our fellow-beings' lives. The subject proved to be one full of interest and timely advice, and one which, after the reverend gentleman's very lucid description, could not fail to prove of much benefit to his hearers.

The musical portion was quite in keeping with the high order of the other services during the day.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RECEPTION

The Young People's Society of St. Andrew's church, are holding a reception to-night, at which it is hoped there will be a large attendance. A good programme has been arranged, and refreshments will be served. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

Rink Will Not Open To-night

Skates Ordered Have Not Yet Arrived.

The roller skating rink will not be opened to-night as was expected. The three hundred pairs of skates ordered have not yet arrived, although shipped on Friday night, and of course it is impossible to begin until they come.

The flooring is not yet finished, and the carpenters have twice run out of lumber. It is thought that the skates will arrive to-day or to-morrow, and the rink will be opened as soon as possible.

DIED.

GRUBBE.—At Vancouver, B. C., on Sunday morning, September 23rd, 1906 Marguerite Ada Elvina, only and dearly beloved child of Eustace Haselwood Grubbe, aged five months.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches an eye glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Island Of Cuba Given Last Chance To Come To Time

Secretary's of War Taft Working to Save Its Sovereignty.

INTENTIONS LOOK HONEST

General Opinion Reaches Secretary That Peace Cannot Last If Not Enforced by an American Army, But He Thinks It Should Not Remain Longer Than Is Required to Supervise Laying Down Arms.

Havana, Sept. 4.—All classes are now waiting for the conditions under which tranquility will be restored in Cuba, and keen disappointment is expressed on every side because of the likelihood of peace being brought about with armed American intervention.

That differences of the opposing factions could be reconciled was not believed to be possible until yesterday, when it was announced that the Liberals and the insurgents had empowered a committee to represent them before the American mediators.

It is evident that business interests of the island have no confidence in the ability of the Cubans to rule themselves and now, when it appears too late, they are openly favoring forcible intervention and possibly annexation.

Cuba's Last Chance.

Secretary of War Taft is cognizant of this general opinion that peace cannot last unless it is enforced by an American army, but he considers that it is the duty of the United States to give the republic another chance, and he believes that it would be bad policy for the United States to keep a force in Cuba longer than was required to supervise the laying down of arms. He said yesterday that if the Liberals and Moderates harmonize their differences the United States must regard the compact as made in good faith.

That peace will come as the result of the mediation of the United States is now believed by Cubans, regardless of party affiliation, but whether it will be on terms which will insure permanent tranquility is questioned.

Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon spent Sunday quietly, receiving few persons. Senator Alfredo Zavas met the mediators at the American legation and arranged for their first meeting with the insurgents and Liberals' committee this morning.

Will Attack All Property.

New Orleans, Sept. 24.—A despatch from Havana to The Picayune gives a signed statement by the insurgent leader, Gen. Ernesto Asbert, in which he says that if peace is not made by the Palma administration, the revolutionists propose to "attack all property" in order to precipitate intervention.

MR. HEPBURN RESIGNS.

Slanderous Charges in the East Elgin Campaign—Mr. Hepburn States His Position Clearly.

Aylmer, Sept. 24.—A dramatic situation developed in the bye-election campaign of East Elgin Saturday night. The resignation of Mr. W. F. Hepburn, the Liberal candidate, was accepted by a large and representative meeting of the Executive Committee of the East Elgin Reform Association. Mr. Granville Haight, a prominent farmer of Yarmouth, a member of the Society of Friends, and one of the leading Liberals of the riding, has become the standard-bearer of the Reform party, and will fight out the campaign, which culminates on October 4th.

Mr. Hepburn's Explanation.

The facts which led up to Mr. Hepburn's resignation are embodied in his address to the electors, of which the following is an extract: "Owing to the fact that those who have been working in the Conservative interests have made a gross and cowardly attack on my moral character and reputation, and have personally circulated slanders of the vilest nature against me, I have determined to ask my political friends to allow me to withdraw my name from the contest. A conspiracy has been hatched in the Conservative camp, whereby it was sought to connect my name with disorderly conduct at the hotel in Orwell. A charge was preferred by William Andrews, the Conservative liquor license inspector, before Police Magistrate Hunt, against the proprietor of the Orwell Hotel over a month ago. The charge involved a statement that two women of bad character were at the hotel in question all night, and that I was there also and concerned in an immoral way with them. Had the charge been laid in good faith by the inspector and promptly proceeded with I could have established my own innocence, but this would not have suited the purpose of those who have sought to injure me, and they have kept the charge hanging. It will be seen that I was powerless in so far as having it disposed of was concerned, and during all that time the Conservative workers have industriously spread and circulated the story connected with the charge throughout the riding."

FERNIE MINERS STRIKE.

800 Miners Refuse to Work Chief Crow's Nest Colliery.

Fernie, B. C., Sept. 24.—Saturday morning the mines at Coal Creek, the chief colliery of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., were closed, as no men applied for work. This action was agreed upon at a meeting of the Fernie Miners' Union last night and is the result of a notice posted in conspicuous places some days ago, which read as follows: "Acting under instructions of President Mitchell, we hereby give all non-union miners notice that seven days after this date we will cease to work with non-union miners."

General Manager Lindsay, in a signed statement, claims that the strike violates a union agreement.

Plan of Siege of Quebec.

Provincial Archivist Alex. Fraser has received a copy of a military map of the St. Lawrence River, from Sillery to the Fall of Montmorence, with the operations of the siege of Quebec, under command of Vice-Admiral Saunders and Major-General Wolf, in 1759. The map shows the positions of the fleet, the British encampments and armies. The plan was presented to Mr. Fraser by Alexander Cadenhead of Toronto.

The Collision Occurred In A Thick Mist

Passenger and Fruit Trains at Gourock, Near Guelph.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN DIE

Bad Accident at Sundridge, In Which Collision Fireman Forester Loses His Life—Two Men Killed at a Crossing at Nicolet, Que. — Sydney Flyer Derailed and Engineer Badly Scalded—Men Injured.

Guelph, Sept., 24.—In a collision between a passenger train and a fruit train from St. Catharines on the Wellington, Grey and Bruce division of the Grand Trunk at Gourock flag station, near here, early Saturday, two men were killed and two of the crew of the freight were seriously injured. The dead:

Engineer Thomas Farley of Palmerston, killed outright.

Fireman H. F. Bright of Hamilton, died in the General Hospital Saturday night.

The injured are: Engineer Reed and Head Brakeman Andrews.

The passenger train consisted of one day coach, a combination car and three freight cars.

When the trains collided, the freight cars of the mixed served as a buffer, and received the impact which otherwise would have been the fate of the passenger coach.

Engineer Farley put on the brakes as soon as the freight was observable, and his fireman, upon noticing what was wrong, jumped, and escaped serious injury.

The engineer, however, stuck to his post, and heroically gave up his life in an endeavor to minimize the effects of somebody's blunder.

Mist Hindered Seeing.

The freight was a fruit train from St. Catharines, and had a through bill to London. It came around by Guelph with a couple of cars for this city and another two for Berlin. It left Harrisburg with clearance papers to Guelph Junction at 4.45, stopped at Galt at 5.30 to take water, and from there came through to the point where the collision occurred. No message was received here to hold the passenger. A mist hindered seeing any distance ahead, and at the point where the trains met a strong curve added to the danger.

That the passengers escaped so providentially is remarkable, for the impact of the engines was terrible. A number of the passengers received injuries, but they are not serious.

One Dead at Sundridge.

Sundridge, Sept. 24.—Two freight trains collided head-on here Friday night about 11 o'clock, resulting in the death of Fireman Forester, and the serious injury of Engineer Weston and Brakeman Campbell. The southbound train was at the switch waiting for the northbound train when it came bounding along and crashed into it.

Fast Express Derailed.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 24.—The fast express from Halifax to Sydney was derailed Friday night at Iona, about 30 miles from Sydney, and the engineer, Andrew McLeod, was terribly scalded. The fireman was also terribly injured. Three cars went off and the engine careened over an embankment. The track is torn and twisted for quite a distance. The passengers escaped unhurt, but with a bad shaking up.

Killed on C. P. R. Tracks.

Woodbridge, Sept. 24.—A sad accident occurred at Humber Summit, near this town, Wednesday night, when Christopher Topper, an elderly man of that vicinity, was killed on the C. P. R. tracks. It is supposed that while going for a pail of water across the tracks in a nearby field, that the 6.24 C. P. R. train struck him. He leaves a wife with three daughters and one son to mourn his loss.

Killed by Switching Engine.

Winnipeg, Sept. 24.—Amos Sargison, a young Englishman, who was a coach cleaner in the C. P. R. yards, was run over by a switching train on Saturday afternoon and almost instantly killed.

Two Killed at a Crossing.

Nicolet, Que., Sept. 24.—An accident happened Saturday night at 8.35 at the crossing of the I. C. R., half a mile west of Ste. Monique station, which caused the death of Mr. Arthur Houde of St Celestin and Dr. Lapierre. They were driving and were struck by the Nicolet express. The train was fifty minutes late. Dr. Lapierre was instantly killed and Mr. Houde died twenty minutes after. The horse was also killed.

Block at North Bay.

North Bay, Sept. 24.—A couple of freight cars went off the track last night and blocked the main line, delaying trains several hours.

Crushed Under Hand Car.

North Battleford, Sask., Sept. 24.—While the C. N. R. ballasting gang was returning to town Saturday evening on two hand cars, two men fell off the front of the car and were run over by one in the rear. One of the men, G. Stray, was killed, and R. Butler badly injured.

Killed by a Street Car.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—Myers Gordon, the 3-year-old son of Ralph Gordon, of 31 St. Joseph street, was struck by a street car on St. Patrick street, and received injuries which caused his death.

GAS IN OIL TANK.

First Fatality in the New Tilbury Oil Fields.

Chatham, Sept. 24.—The first fatality in the Tilbury oilfields took place Saturday, when a man named Thomas, 22 years of age, of Sandusky, Ohio, was overcome by gas in a tank on the farm of J. Stevenson, lot 3, concession 9, part of the lease of the Sugar Grove Oil Co.

One of his employers, J. T. Haggarty, was overcome trying to rescue him, and it was reported later that Mr. Haggerty, who was 73 years of age, is also dead. The tank had been connected with the well, and there was gas in it, but little oil. Thomas went in to clear out chips and other debris, and was overcome. Haggerty, noting this, followed him, and was also overcome.

In turn their absence was noted by Driller Copus, who saw the ladder inside the tank and raised the alarm, when others went in and dragged the bodies out.

Kicked In Face by Horse.

London, Sept. 24.—W. L. Mitcheltree, butcher, was severely injured Saturday morning by a horse belonging to Dougall McIntyre. Mr. Mitcheltree was struck by the horse squarely in the face and knocking him down. While Mitcheltree was lying prostrate on the ground the vicious animal trampled on him several times.

Fatalities at the Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 24.—John Hendrick of the Soo, aged 13 years, was instantly killed Saturday by shot from a gun carried by E. Quigley, another Soo boy. They were out hunting partridge, and Kendrick was following Quigley, who carried the gun at full cock over his shoulder, when it accidentally discharged. The contents entered young Kendrick's breast.

A car from the surface plunged into a shaft at the Helen Iron Mine, which is owned and operated by the Lake Superior Corporation at Michipicoten, striking the cage in which a miner named Newell was coming up. Newell was instantly killed.

Organ-Mender Drowned.

Kinloss, Sept. 24.—Benjamin Chatfield, a traveling organ mender, was drowned in Waddell's Lake on Saturday night. He and Fred Klempp, hotelkeeper, were preparing to go fishing when their boat drifted into the lake. In attempting to reach the boat by swimming Ghatfield sank. The body was recovered yesterday morning.

Will Lose Both Eyes.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—Peter Brosseau of Hull will lose both eyes as the result of a premature explosion of dynamite in Wright's quarries Saturday afternoon.

Shot by a Cowboy.

Petrolea, Sept. 24.—James Luxton of Tank street, Petrolea, was accidentally shot in the head during a wild west performance at the Petrolea Fair Friday, and is in a critical condition. One of the cowboy's shots went astray, striking Luxton in the right temple, and lodged in the back of the head. It has not been extracted, and Dr. McIntyre was unable to state what the outcome would be.

Killed by Lightning.

Mallorytown, Sept. 24.—Chas. Goodbody, aged 16, was instantly killed by lightning Saturday night. He was walking by his father's side leading a horse to the landing to meet a party who had been out for a sail. The father and the horse were stunned.

Killed While Fire-Ranging.

St. Catharines, Sept. 24.—James A. Keyes, barrister, received a telegram from Sudbury Saturday morning announcing the fact that his son, Roy, had been fatally injured near there. No particulars were given. The young man a student at the University of Toronto, and was taking a legal course. He was in the West with a party ranging.

A FIVE-HOURS' STRUGGLE.

Village of Wales Might Have Been Destroyed By Fire Friday Night —Fires Elsewhere.

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 24.—About 7 p.m. Friday a spark from the chimney of Jacob Brassard's bakery started a fire which at one time threatened to destroy the whole village of Wales, and eventually resulted in the destruction of four business stands, three residences, and several thousand dollars worth of chattels.

Besides Brassard's bakery and house, the other buildings destroyed were S. S. Bigelow's house and store, McKenzie Morgan's house and store, the latter being occupied by T. H. Fetterly, jeweler; W. S. Bigelow's store and residence, Fred Warren's big general store and B. Sherwood's store, occupied as a storehouse by Mr. Warren.

The village is entirely without firefighting equipment, but the village bucket brigade after a struggle of five hours mastered the fire fiend shortly before midnight.

Earl Grey Has an Adventure.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 24.—Advices from Alert says Lieut.-Governor Dunsmuir's yacht, with Earl Grey aboard, is stranded high and dry at that point. Earl Grey and party were taken off in a launch and sent on board the steamer Oldra, on which Lady Grey is traveling.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Peterborough Athletes In Great Demand

Harold Armstrong's Presence in Winnipeg Recalls the Part Peterborough Has Had in Producing Hockey and Rugby Players.

A Winnipeg despatch has the following reference to two well known Peterborough athletes:—

Harold Armstrong, the star cover point of Smith's Falls Federal Hockey League champions, is in the city on his way Westward. Should the inducements of this Western country not prove sufficiently alluring he will return to Ontario, and expects to be transferred to Ottawa, in which case he will figure on the line-up of the Stanley Cup holders this coming season.

Harold's hockey record has been unusually brilliant, commencing in Peterborough, he was a member of the original Colts, who won the O.H.A. junior championship two seasons and later captained the senior team with much success. His next field was Toronto, and as a member of the Marlboros he accompanied them on their Winnipeg trip last year. He was removed to Smith's Falls, and his stellar play with the champions of the new league brought him to the notice of the Ottawa management, who are trying to land him this winter. A cover point of his calibre on last year's Rowing Club seven would probably have saved Kenora tthe expense of their Ottawa jaunt.

Frank Burnham is another old Peterborough boy at present in the city. Frank in known throughout Ontario as one of the best scrimmage men in the business. For the past two years he has played with Toronto Varsity. Frank is connected with the Allis Chalmers Bulock Company, and should his work keep him in the city will doubtless turn out with one of the local rugby teams.

Big Gates For Senior Lacrosse

Already $75000, Have Been Taken in by N. L. U. Teams.

The Montreal Gazette estimates that the public has paid $75,000 to see the games this year, and will probably pay enough more to bring the total up to $100,000. Mercenary Montreal! Always thinking of the race receipts! The Gazette man puts up this column of figures as a guess at the season's receipts:—

Shamrocks	$14,500
Tecumsehs	14,000
Montreal	13,000
Torontos	13,000
Nationals	10,000
Capitals	8,000
Cornwalls	5,000
Total	$75,000

He underestimates, says the Toronto Star. The Toronto teams, at least, drew more than that. The Shamrocks are reputed to have one of the cheapest teams in the union, and they got better gates this year than they did when they were playing Minto Cup games, and held the championship.

Quakers Held Good Practice

Large Number Turned Out For Initial Workout.

The Quakers held their first rugby practise on Saturday afternoon and part of it was held in the rain. Nevertheless the bunch who appeared on the oval had a good, spicy work out for the initial one. The Quakers have some good material for a team as Saturday's practise easily demonstrated and the porridge men will certainly be heard from in the city league. Among those out in uniform were Moore, Fitzgerald, Stisson, Caniff, Todd, Kelly, Clarke, Giroux, Moher, Medd, Latimer, Collins.

"Reddy" Lamont Will Box Page

Former Peterborough Man Who is in Winnipeg Now.

The Winnipeg Free Press in a recent issue says of "Reddy" Lamont, who is well known in this city:—

The Crescent club will put on some first class preliminaries. Jimmy Page and "Reddy" Lamont will likely come together in a six round bout at catch weights in the semi-windup. Lamont has won both bouts in which he has appeared locally while Page scored a quick victory in his last appearance and they should put up a good bout.

City League Will Meet To-morrow

Schedule for Season Will Be Drawn Up.

A meeting of the City Rugby League will be held to-morrow night at 8 o'clock at "Mac's" cigar store, when the schedule for the season will be drawn up. It is therefore important that there should be representatives present from all teams intending to play. It is said that the Crescents have decided to drop out. It is to be hoped that they will reconsider their decision. The experience gained in such a league would be invaluable and although they are lighter and younger than the other teams they should give a good account of themselves.

New Rugby Rule Book Is At Hand

Most Complete Manual of the Game Ever Published.

The Examiner is in receipt of the official guide book published by the O.R.F.U. which appears to be the most complete manual of the game yet published. Besides the playing rules and the constitution of the various unions in Canada, the book contains photographs of all the champion teams and other well known clubs, a list of all the past officers of the union and the championship records.

A photo of the Peterborough team as last year's champions naturally appears as well as of Hamilton and Varsity in which Ben Simpson and A. W. McPherson both of Peterborough, can easily be singled out.

The guide book was edited by Rev. A. F. Barr and Dr. Hendry and is a credit to the painstaking efforts of these gentlemen who have done so much for rugby in Ontario.

The players of the Peterborough team have also received copies of the book.

Four Teams For Hall Trophy

This Means Three Football Games for Exhibition Day.

As far as is known at present there will be four teams in the field on Wednesday for the competition at the Exhibition for the Hall trophy. Mr. Cundal of Lakehurst was in the city on Saturday and informed Secretary Hall that a team from that village would be here.

With four teams—Bridgenoth, Lakehurst, Construction Company's eleven, and the Quakers—the contest should not lack interest.

The secretary has informed the Examiner that Lakehurst has been drawn against Bridgenorth and the Quakers and Construction Company's team play off, the winners to come together for the championship. The games will be held in the afternoon of the last day of the fair.

RUGBY.

The C. G. E. City League team had a rattling practice at the Riverside Park on Saturday. A big crowd of players were on hand and the team will be heard from again.

Programme For The Collegiate Institute Sports

Field Day Will be Held on Friday, October 5th—Cross-Country Race on September 28th—Some Interesting Historical Facts.

A meeting of the representatives of the different forms of the P. C. I. who were elected by ballot by the pupils of their respective forms was held in Form III. on Friday last at 4.00 p. m. The object of the meeting was to make arrangements for the Annual Field Day of sports, which if the weather permits will be held on Friday, October 5th at 2.00 p. m. on the Nicholls Oval.

The sports committee for this year is as follows:—

Herbert Conroy, Form IV.
Eddie Mann, Hugh Maguire, Form III.
Harry Hall, Cyril Lech, Form II.
Allan Bravender, Stanley Wade, Form Upper I.
Kenneth Crane, Wallace Armstrong, Form Lower I.
—— Allison, Upper Commercial.
—— Mein, Lower Commercial.

The events will be divided into three classes—Senior, Junior and Open. All boys who were not 15 years of age before September 1st, 1906, will be allowed to compete as Juniors. The programme is as follows:—

Senior and Junior Events.
1.—100 yards dash.
2.—1-4 mile run.
3.—220 yards run.
4.—Standing jump.
5.—Running jump.
6.—High jump.
7.—Standing hop, step and jump.
8.—Running hop, step and jump.
9.—Vaulting with pole.

Open Events.
10.—Obstacle Race.
11.—Throwing baseball.
12.—Kick-a-back contest.
13.—Inter-Form relay race.

Events numbers 10 and 13 will not be considered in deciding the championship.

Previous to the events on October 5th, a cross country run will take place on Friday, September 28th at 4.30 Rules governing this contest are:—

1.—Start at the corner of Murray and Water streets.
2.—Cross the creek at McDonel street bridge.
3.—Recross the creek by the Smith street bridge.
4.—Turn at the corner of Smith and Water streets.
5.—Return to the starting point.

The seniors will start at 4.30 and the juniors five minutes later at 4.35. The winners in 1905 were, senior, Eddie Mann, time 17 minutes, 21 seconds and junior, Leslie Fife, time 18 minutes.

The winner of the senior championship will be the holder of the staff cup presented by the Collegiate Institute staff.

The winner of the Junior championship will be the holder of the Macdonald Cup, presented by Mr. H. S. Macdonald.

The present holders of these cups are Senior (1905) Harry Hall; Junior (1905) Stanley Wade. Thus one may judge that the events this year will prove most interesting.

Some School History.

The sports were first held in 1892 and were most successful in accomplishing the results expected. For various reasons, however, they were discontinued in 1899 and revived with great enthusiasm in 1904.

The senior champions since 1892 were:—

Harry Orde	1892
Robert Kearns	1893
Garnet Bell	1894
Harry Philip	1896
Fred. Weir	1896
Fred. McGrath	1897
Charles Mathias	1898
Jos. Kennedy	1904
Harry Hall	1905

The junior champions were:—

Fred. McGrath	1896
Fred. Hoy	1897
Albert Brundrette	1898
Arthur Belleghem	1904
Stanley Wade	1905

Rugby Team Will Practice In Rink

To-night's Practice Not in the Central Park as Arranged.

The rugby team will practice to-night in the Brock street rink. It is important that all players should be on hand as the team must get in shape for the game with the Victorias in Toronto on Saturday. It was expected that the team will practice on Central Park but the lights have not been installed there yet. They will however, be ready for to-morrow night.

FOOTBALL

The following members of the Quaker football team are requested to be at thee Exhibition grounds on Wednesday afternoon for their game or games:—McFadden, Doris, Evans, Fitzgerald, Best, Parnell, Baker Crough, Todd, Boycott, Huston, and Donaldson.

Any of these who will not be able to be present are requested to notify the secretary as soon as possible.

ECONOMY.
Of course there are other good points about "SURPRISE" Soap besides the way it makes work easy, and one of the best is the economy of it.
"SURPRISE" is a pure, hard soap, and it takes only a little to do a big lot of work. Some people who use it say they don't know which wears the best, the soap or the clothes they wash with it.
And it's just as good for general housework as it is for the laundry; in fact, there is n't a thing washable that can't be cleaned with "SURPRISE" Soap, better, easier, and cheaper than it could be done in any other way.
SURPRISE A PURE HARD SOAP
When this is understood most everybody is surprised that "SURPRISE" costs no more than common soaps.

The Home Beer

A beer may taste all right—and yet not BE all right.
Beer, not properly aged—"green"—will make you bilious.
Beer, not pure or improperly brewed, will upset the stomach and be absolutely unhealthful.
O'KEEFE'S "Pilsener" Lager is brewed with filtered water, choicest hops and pure barley malt. It is always fully aged, filtered again before bottling and pasteurized.
It is the Ideal Beer for the Home.

A Case of Cruelty To a Dumb Animal

Lamb Left on Market Without Either Food or Water.

A case that should be investigated by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is that of a lamb, that has been left in one of the pens at the market square since Friday afternoon, without food or water.

All day Sunday the bleatings of the poor animal were heart-rending. Some of the firemen supplied it with water, and Mrs. Fred Darcy also helped to alleviate its thirst. The lamb is still there and whoever is the cause of its neglect should be punished.

Trials Of A Church Choir On An Automobile Trip

St. Luke's Choir Went to Zion Yesterday—It Was Not Clear Sailing All the Way Through.

The members of St. Luke's choir went to Zion yesterday afternoon to attend the service and thereby hangs a tale, a mournful tale to those who formed the party. The palace auto-car had been chartered for the occasion and all went well until the party were within two miles from Zion when the auto-car displayed a decided disinclination for further labour and refused to move. The efforts of the chauffeur were in vain and at last the party which included Rev. E. A. Langfeldt had to walk the rest of the distance to church where they arrived over an hour late.

To make matters worse the auto-car was still inclined to linger by the way safe and as a last resort a wagon was chartered from a farmer, packed with hay and then with thirty people and in this fashion they returned to the city.

The last straw came, however, when the party did not reach Peterborough until five minutes to seven and had to go into service at once without any supper.

Beat Schedule Time By More Than 4 Hours

Remarkable Achievement of the C. P. R. Steamboat and Railway Service—Delivered Mails to China at 9 a.m. Yesterday—Half Circuit of Globe Completed Without Mishap.

Examiner Special

Montreal, Sept. 24.— C. P. R. "Empress of China" arrrived at Hong Kong at 9 a.m., yesterday, delivering the mails from Great Britain in 29 days, 7 hours and 35 minutes, or four hours and 25 minutes within the time allowed by the post offices. This successful inauguration of the fast mail services between Liverpool and Hong Kong under the flag of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is particularly gratifying, the entire half circuit of the globe, having been made without a hitch or without interfering with the ordinary routine work of the road.

The Oriental mails left Liverpool Friday, August 24th at 7 p.m. on the Empress of Ireland" which reached Quebec at 2.10 a.m., the following Friday; were carried across the North American Continent on the "overseas" mail train which arrived at Vancouver sharp on time, six a.m. Tuesday Sept. 4th, and then taken by the "Empress of China" whose arrival at her destination nearly 11-2 hours ahead of time has been cabled here. The distance covered was nearly 13,000 miles.

Good Music At Charlotte Street

Musical Service Yesterday Was Much Enjoyed.

Yesterday's music at the Charlotte Street Methodist Church was of a particularly meritorious character. In the morning, the anthem, "Come, O Creator," by Stearns, was well rendered, a duet by Miss Belleghem and Miss Sperry being the feature. Mr. John Macdonald, after the lesson, sang Leys' "Rock of Ages," and at the offertory the choir sang "Safe in the Glory Land," one of the verses being taken as a solo by Miss Manning.

The evening anthem was "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," by Button, and Miss Belleghem, after the sermon, gave Handel's "O Lord Correct Me."

Rally Sunday At George St.

Services Will Be Held There Next Sunday.

Next Sunday afternoon will be Rally day for the Sunday Schools of George street and Grace Methodist churches, the service will take place in George street church, the speaker of the afternoon will be Rev. F. J. Scott, pastor of Murray street church. There will be special music for the occasion and a very interesting time is anticipated.

Paid a Tribute To Miss Loveday

Rector of St. John's Referred to Her Tragic Death.

At the service yesterday morning in St. John's church, prior to the sermon, the rector referred to the recent tragic death of Miss Loveday, one of the victims of the Ottawa fire. He spoke of her as a Christian worker of rank, not only in the city, but in the province as well, and referred to the fact that she had met her death while performing her duty. Her example, he said, was one that should stimulate others in their efforts at Christian service.

Bible Rally Day At Y.M.C.A

Interesting Meeting Was Held Yesterday Afternoon.

In the large audience of men at the 8th annual Bible Study Rally at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon is an indication of the strength of the Bible study department in the association this season. The enrollment in the classes will certainly be largely increased.

Before the address, the secretary, who presided, gave a synopsis of the Bible study department and the different classes and clubs in connection with it. The Bible study folder will be issued in a few days.

Mr. J. F. Thornton led the song service and the Orchestra was also present, and the singing was most hearty.

Rev. J. G. Potter was the speaker and prior to the address sang "My Mother's Bible", which formed a fitting introduction to the masterly address which he gave on the subject of Bible study, the title of his address being "Better than Gold", using the verse in the 19th Psalm "More to be desired are they than gold" referring to the Bible.

Mission Day In Baptist Church

Interesting Services Held Yesterday at Park Street.

Foreign Missions and a sermon on Bible Study, were features at the Park street Baptist church yesterday. The offering for Foreign Missions was an increase over that of last year by $8. For Bible study the text chosen was Acts xvii, 11, "And these were more noble than those of Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the Scriptures daily whether these things were so."

The speaker referred to the fact, that teaching the Bible produced nobility of character. The Bereans were students of the Word. They "searched." They were methodical in their studies; they "searched daily." They were consequently established." For "these things were so." The Bible should be studies consecutively, repeatedly, topically. The blackboard exercises awakened great interest, as aids to memory.

The B.Y.P.U. meets to-night at 8. Subject, "Will Power."

Tuesday, Ladies' Aid at 3 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Jos. Johnston.

On Wednesday pulic serbvice will be held, and the pastor will preside. At the close the commmittee on arrangements will report on number of berths secured for the convention.

The proposed banquet at St. John, N.B., to Hon. C. S. Hyman is off for the present. The minister finds it difficult to fix a date for his next visit, but hopes to go in October.

Another Workingmen's House-Building Scheme

Mr. H. Dunslow is the Promoter of the Enterprise—"Dunslow's Buildings" to be Erected in Various Parts of the City.

In Saturday's issue of the Examiner there appeared an article dealing with a proposed company to build houses for workmen. Now it appears that another enterprise on the same lines is already under way.

Mr. H. Dunslow, of the Peterborough Show-case Company, is the promoter of the scheme which grew out of the difficulty the company has had in securing men for the factory. Workmen of the kind needed for the show-case work can't be secured in Peterborough, and it was necessary to try in outside places. Workmen communicated with invariably inquired about what rent they would have to pay and refused to come when they were informed that they would have to pay from $12 to $18.

The company then evolved the scheme of building houses for their workmen and with this end in view secured options of several lots conveniently situated to manufactories. One of these situated on Bethune street between London and Dublin streets, has been purchased from the Burnham estate. It has a frontage of 115 feet and five houses will be erected there at once; some of the material is in fact on the ground now.

The intention is to erect one and a half storey houses, which will, of course, be small, but conveniently laid out. The rent will be around $7 or $8. The houses will be known as "Dunslow's Dwellings."

It is likely that the scheme will extend as Mr. Dunslow feels that there is a big demand for such houses and that there will be no difficulty in securing tenants. Mr. Dunslow stated to the Examiner to-day that there was a demand for at least 200 small-sized houses.

St. John's Music Much Enjoyed

This Feature of Services Yesterday Was Appreciated.

At Matins yesterday the offertory solo was sung by Mrs. Ritchie, of Detroit, Mich. The piece was entitled "The Lord is My Shepherd" by Water, and it was sung with much expression.

At Evensong Mr. and Mrs. Firth, late of Toronto, but now residing in this city, sang a duet, "Tarry with me, O my Saviour" arranged for soprano and tenor. Both singers were in good voice and their duet, with Mr. R. J. Devey's skilful accompaniment was a great success. The organ pieces were from Handel's "Occasional Oratorio".

Next Sunday evening the Evensong will be fully choral, and the offertory solo will be sung by Mrs. K. Hardly-Wilmot. The solo at Matins will be sung by Mr. Jos. Halpany.

Criminal Assault Case Dismissed

Complainant, Mrs. Peters, Did Not Appear.

Oliver Barr, charged with criminal assault upon Mrs. Florence Peters, of Galway Township, appeared before His Worship, Magistrate Edmison, this afternoon.

The complainant Mrs. Peters, did not appear, for some unknown reason, so that the Magistrate dismissed the charge, allowing her to make a similar one against the accused, if she so desired.

The chief witness, a Mr. Peters, a brother-in-law of the complainant, was present, besides a couple of others.

Mr. F. D. Kerr, was present in Mr. Barr's interest, and Crown Attorney Wood for the Crown.

Early History Of The Town Of Peterborough

Some Interesting Information Relating to the Early Days of This City--Poole's History is Drawn Upon for Events Relating to Peterborough in the Early Part of the 19th Century---"The Town of Peterborough" the First Installment.

Poole's History of Peterborough is a work which makes decidedly interesting reading to those who are at all interested in the early history of the city and county of Peterborough. There are comparitively few of these books in the city at the present time, and, believing that the readers of this paper will derive some pleasure from reading extracts from the History of the City, to-day the first installment is given, and others will follow at intervals. The portion published to-day is chapter three, entitled "The Town of Peterborough." It is as follows:—

A reserve was made in the survey of the township of North Monaghan in 1818, for the site of the future town of Peterborough, but it was not until 1825 that the Town plot was laid out by actual survey, by Richard Birdsall, Esq., surveyor, under the direction of the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham, to whom this task, together with the survey of some of the neighbouring townships had been assigned. At that time, the future importance of the place was no doubt dimly foreshadowed in the minds of a few farseeing men; but the prospect of a town ever being built, or indeed anything more than a mill, and perhaps a store, in what seemed so remote a situation, was regarded as incredible, and was scarcely seriously entertained among the settlers in the adjoining wilderness.

In the spring of 1825, the site of the town was still in a state of nature. The ground west of the creek was densely wooded with a heavy growth of pine, interspersed with beech and maple; while between that stream and the Otonabee river, the character of the soil was that known as "plains" and the trees were of stunted oak and scrubby pine, interspersed with smaller brush-wood and occasional grassy s-ots, some of which bore traces of the Indian's camp or the hunter's solitary fire.

As seen now, the site of the town is generally level, with occasional undulations. Such could hardly be said of it at the time of which we write. There were then elevations and depressions more or less strongly marked, which the tastes or the necessities of an active and progressive settlement have filled up or laid low. The swampy margins of the creek before referred to, have been filled up, and that useful stream restrained in great part within its proper channel. The lot forming the south-east corner of George and Hunter streets was low and wet, and here, at certain seasons, water collected, forming a stagnant pool. Over most of the ground east of the creek huckleberries flourished, and grew with special luxuriance amid the stunted trees and shrubbery which covered the beautiful hill now adorned by the county buildings. The wild flowers peculiar to a plainy soil were not wanting there, and lent their gorgeous hues to decorate the scene; but fruit and flower were speedily crushed out by the iron heel of civilization, which, while it marred the wild richness of nature, furnished a new mart for the products of industry and a new emporium for the wealth and enterprise of man.

During the four or five years preceding 1825, the little mill erected by Mr. Adam Scott on the bank of the Otonabee, (corner of King and Water streets) had been in operation. It was a frame structure of about 18 by 24 feet, and shook under the vibration of the machinery. Within this small space was fitted up a run of very common mill stones, and a single upright saw. Without wishing to disparage the enterprise which established this poor apology for a mill, in the heart of the wilderness, it must still be confessed, that neither in gristing nor sawing, was it adequate to supply even the limited requirements of the few early settlers of that period. In addition to this defective mill, an equally impotent distillery was carried on in a small house in the vicinity. In the absence of a metallic "worm" the vapor was passed through a long wooden tub, cooled by the application of water, and thus condensed, the aqueous spirit oozed from the further extremity. No means of rectification were available and the whisky thus produced contained the empyreumatic oil and other impurities, which, as well as the disagreeable flavour these occasion, the whisky drinker of that day had to endure as best he could. But though lacking in some of the higher qualities of which even the "rangle-leg" whisky of the present day possesses, it was quite adequate for the chief purpose intended, and would intoxicate as surely, as the most elaborate product of improved machinery and modern skill.

The little mill continued to do such gristing and sawing as it could, up till the year 1834, when it was improved, and a brewery and a distillery added, and carried on by Messrs. Hamilton and Fortye, until the year 1835, when the whole was burnt down, and the present structure erected. The distillery above referred to when out of existence in 1837, but Mr. Scott's dwelling house still remains — now the oldest building in Peterborough. It is a low, square, cottage-roofed, framed building, close to the edge of Water street, on the Western side, and about midway between the market square and "Parnell's mill." The right of way for the extension of the railway track, now in process of construction, impinges upon one corner of the old house, and it will doubtless soon be demolished to make way for this great agent of modern civilization.

Scott's mill was for many years a land-mark to the immigrant and the visitor to the new settlements; and until 1827, Peterborough had no other name than "Scott's Plains." Its present designation was then chosen as a merited compliment to Hon. Peter Robinson, to whose successful labours in promoting immigration the country felt itself so much indebted.

The first houses, next to those of Mr. Scott, were erected at the time of the immigration of 1825; and a cursory reference to these, we trust, will not prove uninteresting. We will commence with those erected by Mr. Robinson, for the purposes of immigration, as being among the first in point of time, as well as of importance.

These were all built of logs, with square gables and shingled roofs. Four of them stood in a row on the south eastern portion of the market square, fronting upon Water street. The largest of the four, which was also the most northern, occupied very nearly the site of the front portion of the present market square. Its size was about 18 by 20 feet, while the others were somewhat smaller. This one was used as a residence by Dr. Reade, surgeon to the immigrants, and as a temporary church, in which mass was celebrated by Rev. Mr. Crowley. The two central were used as storehouses for the provisions of the immigrants and probably for other purposes. The one nearest the south was Mr. Robinson's general office, where accounts were kept and business transacted by himself and his chief clerk, Mr. Richard Thornhill. The fifth and largest of these buildings, was long known as the "Government house," and as being the residence of Mr. Robinson, Col. McDonnell and Mr. John Smith, Surveyor, who assisted in locating the immigrants, and for a brief time was the resting place of vice-royalty itself, and is worthy of a fuller description. Like the others, it was built of logs, was forty feet long by about twenty feet wide. It stood on the eastern side of the lot now occupied by the Bank of Montreal—south-east corner of Simcoe and Water streets—about forty feet from the former, and forty from the latter, very near the southern end of the brick stable, now belonging to those premises. It fronted towards the south, with a door near the centre of the building, partly concealed by a wooden porch in front. There were two windows in the front and three in the rear. The interior was divided into three rooms, of nearly equal size, by two partitions of logs, erected with the walls. Into the middle of these the front door opened, and here was the chief reception room, from which doors opened into other apartments on either hand. The western room was devoted to the purposes of the kitchen, while Mr. Robinson slept in the eastern apartment, which also contained sundry books, papers and maps. The logs, both of walls and partitions, were hewed to a level surface in the interior, and the interstices, both within and without, carefully secured with "chinks" and mortar. A considerable portion of ground, extending across and north of Simcoe street, was fenced in as a garden, while some small outhouses occupied a position nearer the bank of the river. Such were the modest structures erected by Mr. Robinson, which were very well adapted to the purposes intended. Should any of our fastidious readers profess to sneer at their homeliness as presented in the picture we have drawn, we can assure them that at the time of their erection and for at least several years after, they were regarded as first-class houses, and models of taste and perfection in the youthful town.

The few immigrants, who, with their families, remained on "The Plains" during the winters of 1825-6, constructed such humble dwellings as they could, and several of them plied such trades or other avocations as their previous habits enabled them to do. One John Boates started a rude tavern on the south side of the market, and, adjoining it, on the east side, a log house was erected, in which lived Captain Armstrong, who was engaged by Mr. Robinson, along with Wesley Ritchie, in dispensing rations to the immigrants. A John Sullivan, long dead, got a log house put up on the south-west corner of George and Charlotte streets (south corner from Waddell's saddlery) and kept a tavern there. William Oakley, an immigrant, started a bakery. After the houses mentioned, the next was a house on the south side of King street, where Mr. Timothy O'Connor lived. Jas. Harley built another east of O'Connor's, in the winter of 1826.

A small store was opened by a Mr. Stewart in 1825, in a little log house immediately opposite the south side of the market square, and a little way from the corner of Charlotte and Water streets. Mr. Stewart's ideas of a small credit business were not such as usually prevail in mercantile life. Many of his customers were unknown to him by name, and instead of making the usual inquiry in such a case, he not unfrequently trusted to the accidents of the future to acquire that necessary information. Such cities as "a bar of soap to the woman with the red cloak," and others equally indefinite, were consequently not unusual in his day book. A business conducted on such principles could not long be successful; and his little stock was ere long merged in a larger due bought by George Grey Bethune, Esq., of Cobourg, and sold for him under the management, at first, of Mr. Green McDonell, and afterwards of Mr. Thomas Valentine Tupper, who afterwards conducted a store for himself on Simcoe street, just east of the creek. The third store was opened by Mr. John Brown, of Port Hope, on the corner of Simcoe and Water streets, subsequently occupied by Messrs. Nicholls and Hall, and now by Mr. Robert Patterson as a boot and shoe store. The old frame has, however, been raised, a new foundation added, and its condition and appearance otherwise improved. Mr. Brown's store was opened in 1827, and contained a stock of goods which, for the locality, was very creditable. Our informants differ as to the value of the stock, which, for a few years, probably did not exceed $900 to $1,000. This business was managed for Mr. Brown by Mr. John R. Benson, still a well-known citizen.

Meanwhile other buildings were in process of erection. Cotter Lane, a shoemaker and an immigrant, built a frame house on Charlotte street. James Bailey, a North of Ireland man, and not an immigrant, built a house on the southwest corner of George and Hunter streets, afterwards the site of Fisher's Hotel, and now of Mitchell's saloon. Mr. Bailey kept tavern here in 1826. At this early period in the history of the town property was, of course, cheap, and real estate comparatively valueless. During the first year or two Mr. Robinson had the disposal of town lots for the Government, the upset price being $30 for a lot of half an acre. In some instances these were given away in lieu of services rendered, and these, as well as many of those of which the fee-simple was purchased, exchanged hands for the most trifling sums. The now very valuable southeast corner lot of George and Hunter streets (at present occupied by the store of Messrs. McKellar and Cameron) and which has been spoken of as low and wet, was offered to Robert Reid, Esq., of Douro, as a gift, but declined from its being regarded as worthless. In 1826 it was purchased for a fanning mill by Mr. Thomas Harper, who subsequently lived on it, and manufactured those useful implements in the rear of the premises.

Alexander Henry, a cooper, built a frame house on Simcoe street, near George street, in 1827, on the site where the 'Farmers' Inn" was afterwards erected and still stands. In the same year James to Henthorn, Esq., Justice of the Peace, bought from one, Falvey, an immigrant, the northeast corner of George and Hunter streets, where he built a small house, afterwards converted into an hotel. Henthorn's fine block is now too well known to need any further reference. Like many other improved portions of the town, it passed through successive stages, and the earlier wooden buildings were more than once swept away by destructive fire ere the present buildings adorned the spot. In 1827, too, Mr. George Buck built a frame house on the south side of Charlotte street, where the English sparrs, till recently, flourished, and nearly opposite the "Globe" tavern on that street.

The first school house, a log building with shingled roof, was erected in 1826-7 on the ground in the rear of the present Union School building. The Rev. Samuel Armour, first Episcopal clergyman in Peterborough, conducted this school, in which the higher as well as the lower branches of education were successfully taught. This was the foundation of our excellent Grammar School, which only long received an annual grant of $400 from the Government towards its support.

At a period a little later, and about the year 1828, Mr. John Crawford, of Port Hope, put up a little frame house north of Louis McGregor's "American Hotel," on George street, which, soon after its completion, was drawn by the settler's oxen, and located on the northeast corner of George and Simcoe streets, now occupied by Mr. Robert Walton's store caddler's shop. This valuable corner lot was already purchased from Richard Birdsall, Esq., by John Graves, an American, and a wheelwright, for $30, to be paid in waxen and cart wheels. Graves failed to fulfil his share of the contract; Crawford insisted on holding possession, and hence arose the first lawsuit of the infant settlement.

We might mention in connection with this part of our subject, that several of our now leading and wealthy citizens commenced business of one kind or another about this time in very humble occupations, or as assistants to others in business of very limited extent. That from a small beginning they have risen to wealth and position is creditable, not only to themselves, but to the county, which furnishes examples of such substantial rewards for the industrious and the deserving.

A CLEANLY AGE

Twentieth Century Ideas Incline Toward Sanitation and Preventatives.

Nowadays scientists believe that in cleanliness lies the secret of prevention of diseases.

To prevent a disease remove the cause.

Just as unclean habits breed many diseases, so careless habits will breed dandruff. Improper use of another's brushes, combs, etc., will surely cause dandruff, and, in time, will just as surely cause baldness.

It's microbe infection, nothing more nor less.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and causes hair to grow luxuriantly. Herpicide is absolutely free from grease or other injurious substances.

Early History Of The Town Of Peterborough

Some Interesting Information Relating to the Early Days of This City--Poole's History is Drawn Upon for Events Relating to Peterborough in the Early Part of the 19th Century---"The Town of Peterborough" the First Installment.

Poole's History of Peterborough is a work which makes decidedly interesting reading to those who are at all interested in the early history of the city and county of Peterborough. There are comparitively few of these books in the city at the present time, and, believing that the readers of this paper will derive some pleasure from reading extracts from the History of the City, to-day the first installment is given, and others will follow at intervals. The portion published to-day is chapter three, entitled "The Town of Peterborough." It is as follows:—

A reserve was made in the survey of the township of North Monaghan in 1818, for the site of the future town of Peterborough, but it was not until 1825 that the Town plot was laid out by actual survey, by Richard Birdsall, Esq., surveyor, under the direction of the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham, to whom this task, together with the survey of some of the neighbouring townships had been assigned. At that time, the future importance of the place was no doubt dimly foreshadowed in the minds of a few farseeing men; but the prospect of a town ever being built, or indeed anything more than a mill, and perhaps a store, in what seemed so remote a situation, was regarded as incredible, and was scarcely seriously entertained among the settlers in the adjoining wilderness.

In the spring of 1825, the site of the town was still in a state of nature. The ground west of the creek was densely wooded with a heavy growth of pine, interspersed with beech and maple; while between that stream and the Otonabee river, the character of the soil was that known as "plains" and the trees were of stunted oak and scrubby pine, interspersed with smaller brush-wood and occasional grassy s-ots, some of which bore traces of the Indian's camp or the hunter's solitary fire.

As seen now, the site of the town is generally level, with occasional undulations. Such could hardly be said of it at the time of which we write. There were then elevations and depressions more or less strongly marked, which the tastes or the necessities of an active and progressive settlement have filled up or laid low. The swampy margins of the creek before referred to, have been filled up, and that useful stream restrained in great part within its proper channel. The lot forming the south-east corner of George and Hunter streets was low and wet, and here, at certain seasons, water collected, forming a stagnant pool. Over most of the ground east of the creek huckleberries flourished, and grew with special luxuriance amid the stunted trees and shrubbery which covered the beautiful hill now adorned by the county buildings. The wild flowers peculiar to a plainy soil were not wanting there, and their gorgeous hues to decorate the scene; but fruit and flower were speedily crushed out by the iron heel of civilization, which, while it marred the wild richness of nature, furnished a new mart for the products of industry and a new emporium for the wealth and enterprise of man.

During the four or five years preceding 1825, the little mill erected by Mr. Adam Scott on the bank of the Otonabee, (corner of King and Water streets) had been in operation. It was a frame structure of about 18 by 24 feet, and shook under the vibration of the machinery. Within this small space was fitted up a pair of very common mill stones, and a single upright saw. Without wishing to disparage the enterprise which established this poor apology for a mill, in the heart of the wilderness, it must still be confessed, that neither in gristing nor sawing, was it adequate to supply even the limited requirements of the few early settlers of that period. In addition to this defective mill, an equally impotent distillery was carried on in a small house in the vicinity. In the absence of a metallic "worm" the vapor was passed through a long wooden tub, cooled by the application of water, and thus condensed, the aqueous spirit oozed from the further extremity. No means of rectification were available and the whisky thus produced contained the empyreumatic oil and other impurities, which, as well as the disagreeable flavour these occasion, the whisky drinker of that day had to endure as best he could. But though lacking in some of the higher qualities of which even the "rangle-leg" whisky of the present day possesses, it was quite adequate for the chief purpose intended, and would intoxicate as surely, as the most elaborate product of improved machinery and modern skill.

The little mill continued to do such gristing and sawing as it could, up till the year 1834, when it was improved, and a brewery and a distillery added, and carried on by Messrs. Hamilton and Fortye, until the year 1835, when the whole was burnt down, and the present structure erected. The distillery above referred to when out of existence in 1837, but Mr. Scott's dwelling house still remains — now the oldest building in Peterborough. It is a low, square, cottage-roofed, framed building, close to the edge of Water street, on the Western side, and about midway between the market square and "Parnell's mill." The right of way for the extension of the railway track, now in process of construction, impinges upon one corner of the old house, and it will doubtless soon be demolished to make way for this great agent of modern civilization.

Scott's mill was for many years a land-mark to the immigrant and the visitor to the new settlements; and until 1827, Peterborough had no other name than "Scott's Plains." Its present designation was then chosen as a merited compliment to Hon. Peter Robinson, to whose successful labours in promoting immigration the country felt itself so much indebted.

This valuable corner lot was already purchased from Richard Birdsall, Esq., by John Graves, an American, and a wheelwright, for $30, to be paid in waggon and cart wheels. Graves failed to fulfil his share of the contract; Crawford insisted on holding possession, and hence arose the first lawsuit of the infant settlement.

We might mention in connection with this part of our subject, that several of our now leading and wealthy citizens commenced business of one kind or another about this time in very humble occupations, or as assistants to others in business of very limited extent. That from a small beginning they have risen to wealth and position is creditable, not only to themselves, but to the county, which furnishes examples of such substantial rewards for the industrious and the deserving.

A CLEANLY AGE

Twentieth Century Ideas Incline Toward Sanitation and Preventatives.

Nowadays scientists believe that in cleanliness lies the secret of prevention of diseases.

To prevent a disease remove the cause.

Just as unclean habits breed many diseases, so careless habits will breed dandruff. Improper use of another's brushes, combs, etc., will surely cause dandruff, and, in time, will just as surely cause baldness.

It's microbe infection, nothing more nor less.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and causes hair to grow luxuriantly. Herpicide is absolutely free from grease or other injurious substances.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

ON NATURAL HISTORY

INTERESTING SIDE-LIGHTS GATHERED AT AN OSTRICH FARM.

Possess Large, Liquid Black Eyes Which Are Animated By Neither Pleasure Nor Anger While Being Inspected By Curious Visitor—Orange Goes Down Long Thin Neck As Down a Spiral Staircase.

Visitors on the Riviera to whom the excitement of the tables at Monte Carlo, the concerts, or attractions of the Casino do not entirely appeal are often asked to visit the ostrich farm in the neighborhood.

Attracted by the description of this novel farm, which has only been in existence a few years, I duly took my place in the nimble automobile of a friend, and soon found myself before the doors of the building which leads to the farm proper, says a writer in Lloyd's Weekly.

A large open space was filled with those interesting birds, most of them young, while in separate enclosures were confined several couples of the more important species. One could not help wondering whether existence did not pall on these noble creatures, or if they did not quarrel penned in with one companion only from one year's end to another; but no, we are told that those couples never fall out.

Two male birds will engage in

serious conflict, but the male and female always agree.

Several young birds at this moment engaged in a race and struggle, and it was curious to note how swiftly these denizens of the desert half ran, half flew after each other, and then turned to attack face to face, sometimes jumping high into the air like fighting cocks—only, as an ostrich attains its full growth when about a year old and stands from seven to eight feet high, the effect is enhanced.

Turning from the more frivolous younger birds, our guide proceeded to introduce to our notice the occupants of the large pens on the opposite side of the grounds, where each couple occupied a separate run.

As a tall, most dignified black ostrich stalked towards us with stately steps, followed by his equally stately, but rather meeker spouse, in her browny colored feathers we were introduced to "Napoleon and his Empress," close neighbors being "King Edward and Queen Alexandra," "President and Mrs. Roosevelt."

The owners of these high-sounding names stepped quietly forward at our approach, and, arching their long, graceful necks, gazed at us quickly with large, liquid black eyes; but they showed neither pleasure nor anger at our inspection.

The male bird is decidedly the grander creature. His plumage it is which gives the best jet black or purely white feathers. Those of the female are brown, or natural color, mixed with white, and the under feathers are not nearly so pure a white as that of the male. She begins to lay her eggs when she is about two years old, and lays from 30 to 45 every second year.

The eggs in this especial farm are placed in a large incubator, and in 42 days the young birds are hatched—as many as 70 were hatched one year. For the first three days they are fed on raw meat and other nourishing delicacies, and then go on to the usual fare of maize, barley, bran and hay. They grew at the rate of 8in. to 12in. a month, and attain full growth during the first year. When fully grown birds weigh from 200lb. to 300lb., and are so strong that they could carry a man with ease.

And now the question arises as to profits to be made out of such a farm. Given a good dry climate, the outlay needed is not so very great. Pens to shelter the birds during the night, or in wet weather, are, of course, needful; but these need not necessarily be of an elaborate character. Runs for use during the day are of the simplest while the food is not a very expensive outlay either.

On this especial farm there are about 150 birds, which cost £100 per couple. Profits begin to accrue from the end of the first year when the first feathers are taken. These are removed in order to prevent their dropping, and they are cut so as not to cause the birds pain, the quill being left to dry and drop off when dead. About £6 a year is the calculated profit on each bird on the initial outlay, the feathers being taken every nine months.

One curious custom in connection with the removal of the feathers is that a long stocking is placed over the head of the bird before cutting the feathers and drawn partially over its neck; for when it cannot see what is going on it does not struggle to be free.

Seventy years is the usually allotted span of life of the birds. In the freedom of the desert they may well enjoy this seeming longevity; but for creatures born in the wild to eke out a weary existence, penned in and imprisoned, surely life must be a weariness beyond compare, even though their cast off, or deftly stolen, plumage may adorn the fairest and most elegant of the fashionable fair ones of the earth.

ORIGIN OF CANCER.

Encouraging Progress In Field of Scientific Research.

As a result of experiments with mice the superintendent of the Imperial Cancer Research fund laboratory at London announced recently at a meeting of the subscribers to the fund that the prospects of discovering the origin of cancer were hopeful. Experts are now able to reproduce in mice all the features of spontaneous cancer and to protect healthy mice from the consequences by inoculation.

Out of 100 mice inoculated to produce the disease, ninety developed tumors, but in the protected animals no tumors occurred. It has also been found that the body fluids of protected mice injected into mice with experimental cancer retarded the growth of well established tumors. The superintendent pointed out that the experiments must be carried further before it can be ascertained whether they will have a bearing on the treatment of the disease in mankind.

The Premier of Cape Colony.

Dr. Jameson, the Premier of Cape Colony, is coming home immediately on urgent business, doubtless not unconnected with the legacy of £25,000 left him by the late Mr. Belt, says M. A. P. "Jamie," as his friends call him, is in some ways the most picturesque personality which the mingled realism and romance of South Africa have ever produced. He probably wishes Mr. Belt had not left him anything, for the most extraordinary thing about the leader of the famous Jameson raid, which had so profound an effect on the history of the last ten years is his absolute intolerance of money. A great South African millionaire once said to Mr. Stuart Cumberland, the famous thought-reader, "I never met such a man as Jameson: He doesn't care a straw for money; while those around him are making their thousands he makes practically nothing. He won't even pick up money when it's placed before him. I think him a downright fool about money matters; but anyone who knows him knows what he is, and he doesn't care about anyone else." No doubt it was this contempt for money which earned for him the absolute devotion and confidence of Mr. Cecil Rhodes. It is not generally known that for years he carried in his pocket Mr. Rhodes' power of attorney

A GREAT WATER RECORD

SCOTTISH SWIMMING CHAMPION NOW ON TORONTO FORCE.

As a Member of the Edinburgh Police Swimming Club He Won Distinction—Young Man Who Carries Himself Modestly and Who Doesn't Look the Celebrity That He Is—Medium But Splendid and Strong.

There is a young, sandy-complexioned policeman on a downtown beat who carries himself modestly and who doesn't look the celebrity that he is, says the Toronto Sunday World. Before P. C. Mowat left Edinburgh, Scotland, a year or more ago, he was known throughout Scotland and in a larger portion of the British Isles generally as the national swimming champion. Twenty-six years of age, of good height and medium but strong build, he is a splendid type of police officer and a credit to the Edinburgh force, which not only took him as a raw youth of 21 and developed him into a guardian of the peace, but also, through its system of training, made him a prize swimmer. When Mowat joined the police he could not swim a stroke. But the force has in connection with it a swimming club, with a big tank and an instructor who knows his business. The first time Mowat entered the bath the instructor was disgusted with his splashing. When he left for Canada he almost cried at losing one of his champion pupils.

In May, 1903, he won a bronze medal together with the certificate of the Life Saving Society. Then he won the Scottish championship at Edinburgh, and with it a gold medal. In November of 1904 he was one of the police team of four men who won the national championship open to Great Britain, in which teams from all parts of the Isles competed. A shield and medals were the trophies for this triumph. He has also won other prizes and rewards for his prowess in the water, and at the opening of the Carnegie baths at Dunfermline was chosen to give an exhibition for which he received a silver medal.

The national championships, it should be explained, are not alone for swift, scientific swimming, but demand a course of study and training that is most exacting. A thorough knowledge of the recognized methods of reaching and handling a drowning man are required, and then, when the subject is landed, the four best methods of resuscitation must be exhibited in team-work, machine-like application is necessary, and the movements are timed and executed to the fraction of a second almost. Besides, each man must be prepared to undergo an oral examination on the science of swimming and life-saving that requires an extensive knowledge of anatomy and hygiene.

When the team won the national championship, the contestants were in the water morning, noon and night and the various competitions required, in all, the covering of 1,090 yards distance (in a tank) at racing speed, clad in jersey, trousers and shoes, the carrying of a man half the distance and then the process of resuscitation. Only a long, arduous course of training brought the perfection which resulted in victory.

P. C. Mowat left Scotland in the spring of 1905 to try his fortunes in Canada. Three days after he arrived in Toronto he was taken on the force here. As yet he has had no opportunity to display or utilize his natatorial accomplishments, but if the police department ever place a patrol boat on the bay, he may get an opportunity to put to practical purpose his powers as a life-saver.

Mr. Mowat's home is in Feswick, Scotland, and when Sir Oliver Mowat and his grandson and daughter visited the old castle there, six years ago, he was the guest of P. C. Mowat and his father.

A Fuel to Replace Coal.

Daniel Drawbaugh of Carlisle, Pa., has discovered a practical fuel, which he declares will take the place of coal. This new fuel is being manufactured now at Bowmansdale, east of Carlisle under a secret process. It is composed of chemicals and a fibrous matter and weighs only half as much as coal. The new fuel will be made in different sized molds. Tests made with the new fuel show that it does not clinker, burns to a fine ash, emits little gas and burns freely, gives off more heat than coal and lasts longer. This artificial fuel will probably cost about one half as much as coal.

Safety Device For Railroads.

An Indiana mail carrier has patented an electric device which it is claimed will revolutionize the present system of reporting and dispatching trains. It is automatic. Each engine on the road equipped with this device is to carry a register which through the electrical transmission of information will show the exact location of all trains in front and behind. It also will show at what speed these trains are traveling. It will record what switches are open and what closed. An engineer can tell at a glance how his train is situated as regard to others and how his switches are placed. If in practice this invention does all that it claimed for it, it is the greatest railroading safety device ever invented.

BRITAIN'S LEVIATHAN

THE DREADNOUGHT, WORLD'S GREATEST WARSHIP.

Built In Record Time and Ready For Her Steam Trial—Driven By Turbines, This Ocean Greyhound Among Battleships Displaces 18,000 Tons, and Can Hurl Over Four Tons of Metal a Minute.

The giant of the seas is almost ready for war, and England is overjoyed because her navy is at least a year and a half in advance of the navies of the world. Her new battleship, the Dreadnought, the most remarkable warship ever built, is practically equipped with its boilers, engines and other machinery of locomotion. Unless some unforeseen event necessitates delay the Dreadnought will have its steam trial in a few days. The celerity with which the Dreadnought is being built is establishing a new record in naval construction.

Started in October, 1905, and launched on Feb. 10 last, it is expected that the Dreadnought will be completed by February, 1907, six months less than the usual time for constructing vessels of 15,000 tons displacement. And the new record will be made with an 18,000 ton vessel, the largest ship of war ever laid down.

Sheer size is not the only remarkable thing about the Dreadnought, although most of the other novel features depend necessarily upon her immensity. She is the greatest fighting machine ever built by any nation. Let us hope that she will never have to prove it, but she has been created so that she might prove it if occasion should arise. Until then or until some greater monster is built, the prowess of the Dreadnought will be a generally accepted fact.

The most striking feature of the Dreadnought is the enormous concentration of offensive and defensive energy. In the way of armament she will have ten twelve-inch guns and the usual auxiliary batteries of rapid fire guns for repulsing torpedo boat attacks. Aside from the latter, all the gun metal has been designed to fire the greatest number of the largest projectiles the greatest distance possible for a warship.

The Dreadnought's defensive qualities mark a gain in naval science. Her armor protection is thick enough to resist the direct impact of twelve-inch projectiles fired at a distance of 3,000 yards. Great care has been taken in planning the underwater body so as to furnish reasonable immunity from torpedoes and mines.

With all its massiveness, the Dreadnought is intended to be a greyhound among warships. She will be the first battleship in the world to be driven by turbine engines. She will have four propellers, two more than any previously built British battleship. Her average sea speed will be twenty-two knots an hour, placing her almost in the class of crack cruisers. She was not made to run from anything, but if occasion requires she can outdistance old style cruisers that were famed for their swiftness a few days ago. Moreover, the use of turbine engines will give the gunner a steadier deck. The Dreadnought is also designed to be more easily and smoothly manoeuvred than any vessel approaching her in size.

In addition to speed, armament and defensive armor, there are many things that help to win naval battles, and it is believed that on the Dreadnought gains will have been made in many details. Most of these changes will not be apparent until the great ship has been thoroughly equipped.

The Dreadnought is a progressive type of vessel, and in case of battle would follow to a marked degree the tactics of big ships in modern naval warfare—that is, fighting at long range. Therein lies the Dreadnought's great power. The new twelve-inch gun, such as is being constructed for her, can easily fire per minute one projectile, weighing 850 pounds at a velocity of 3,250 feet per second and at an effective fighting range of five miles.

With the necessary speed and the manoeuvering capacity the Dreadnought could keep out of range of the longest distance guns of several opponents, and at the same time hurl at them four and one-quarter tons of metal a minute, gradually wearing them down, sinking them or rendering their batteries useless before the latter could be possibly brought within range.

Nothing so overwhelming as this concentrated destruction has ever been conceived by the brain of man. It is impossible to picture the result of one minute's well directed fire at an enemy's ships, and when the gunners get the range and fire as at target practice, one minute being followed by others, the effect will be annihilation. To this length has the contest for sea power gone, and even this is not the end. The Dreadnought will cost at least $7,500,000.

Chloroform Cures Whooping Cough.

Dr. Henri de Rothschild of Paris has discovered that chloroform will cure whooping cough. A child suffering from hip disease and whooping cough at the same time was in his hospital, and the youngster was put under an anaesthetic while an operation was performed. It was noticed that on regaining consciousness the cough had decreased. It occurred to the doctor to try chloroform as a cure for the cough. He found that it worked admirably, effecting a speedy recovery.

Baron de Rothschild read a report on the subject before the Hospital Medical society, and the physicians are greatly interested in his discovery.

Undigested Food

When any portion of food remains in the stomach and refuses to digest, it causes the torments of indigestion. This undigested food rapidly ferments, irritating the sensitive coating of the stomach, while other parts of the body, particularly the head, suffer in consequence.

So long as this undigested food remains in the stomach, the discomfort continues. A few doses of stop all fermentation, sweeten the contents of the stomach and give natural assistance that relieves the stomach of its burden. The use of Beecham's Pills gradually strengthens the stomach nerves and soon restores them to a normal, healthy condition.

Beecham's Pills positively cure all stomach troubles, while their beneficial effects on the liver and kidneys greatly improve the general health.

Beecham's Pills have been used and recommended by the general public for over fifty years.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

FASHION FORECAST.

MODES THAT WILL BE SMART IN THE FALL.

A Revival of Second Empire Styles With Full Skirts Galore—A New Fabric Scheme—Little Tailored Taffeta Coats.

Prophecies are rife concerning dress modes and fancies for early fall wear. It is claimed that there is to be a direct departure from empire and princess models in favor of second empire styles. These gowns with their full skirts shirred high into the waistband and adorned with frills and furbelows galore will be a strange revival.

But this rumor need not worry us much, for the change, if change there be, will not be so radical that the intelligently purchased spring wardrobe will be de mode in the autumn. A pleasing color scheme, however, that is promised much favor in the fall is the use of two fabrics in a costume of the same shade, but of different textures—for instance, a frock of some dull finished material trimmed with lustrous effects, possibly ribbon. The color tone in a combination of this kind is very chic and smart.

SMART LACE COAT.

Little taffeta coats built on empire, pony and Eton lines and tailored as trimly as a cloth coat will be the modish separate wrap in the fall, as they have been all summer. When made of black taffeta they can be worn with any colored skirt. And they are particularly nice with the fashionable plaid mixtures. The dressier of these silk coats are extremely fetching carried out in shirred effects with an inner covering. One would hardly call it a lining of delicate mull embroideries or all over laces designed to protect the dainty lingerie blouses underneath. Tiny round pockets of embroidery placed upon the inside of the coat hold the wearer's favorite perfume, hidden within a silken sachet.

Smart belts gives a touch to a costume that nothing else does by way of trimming, and the latest band to encircle the hourglass waist of the moment is of softest glove kid. It fastens in the back with a monogram buckle, the initials interwoven and set in a circle much as one's monogram appears on stationery.

Fashions this season concern far more than the hat, the gown and wrap. Never before has the matter of modes taken such hold of each and every garment of the feminine wardrobe—shaping and fashioning it, if possible, more carefully than the outer garment. Great progress has been made in the fashioning of underwear. Two and three pieces are now skillfully combined into a one piece garment, every scrap of superfluous material being eliminated. Consequently our waists are no longer wound as many times as the coils of a dynamo with bands of cotton wrappings, but are round and trim, with never more than one muslin thickness over the corset. Even petticoats are often of the knitted variety, with flounces of embroidered lawn that button on to the knee length knit top. Altogether the improvements in sartorial things keep pace with other wonderful discoveries.

The costume illustrated has a dainty cost carried out in lace and silk, and the waist pictured is a lace affair evolved from all over valenciennes.

Rest In the Kitchen.

Be sure to have an easy lounge or chair in the kitchen, where you may spend the few waiting moments between the acts, as it were, in rest.

If you cannot afford to buy a lounge especially for that purpose, make one.

This is easily done.

Get two long boxes from the dry goods store. Place them end to end and nail together. Make a mattress and fill it with any desired materials. Shredded shucks are clean and excellent. Over this drape any kind of cover to suit the fancy.

Be sure to get something that can be washed and ironed. Red and white bedticking is pretty and desirable and never fades, and when laundered looks as good as new. Make a pillow to match.

Now, while you are watching the cakes, bread, pies and the like, remember there is your lounge. Rest. Do not say you have no time. You have to wait for your baking to brown. Why not rest while you wait?

You will be surprised how much refreshment you will gain even for one minute's relaxation upon this improvised lounging quarter.

FALL STYLES.

Costumes to Enhance the American Woman's Charms—New Fabrics.

In the new afternoon and street frocks there are to be seen diametrically opposite styles, but in all there is a hint of the empire and princess modes.

Some of the dressy frocks sent over for the first fall openings have ruffled skirts. In one handsome confection there are no less than fourteen flounces.

A smart, new material, called coleen poplin, is to be much used this winter.

GRAY POPLIN GOWN.

It combines the weave of the old Irish poplin with the suppleness and grace of the present day fabrics. In gray it is particularly pretty.

Velvet ribbon trims many of the daintiest autumn costumes. It appears in very wide widths or in groupings of narrow ribbons, three to nine rows in each group.

A novelty seen in an importation of fall costumes was a bronze green cloth suit with mandolin shaped jacket. The skirt was modeled in overskirt effect obtained by four well cut gored flounces arranged to give a plaited effect in front. A tan crepe de chine blouse of the washable variety was covered by mandolin shaped crossed fronts held in place by jet buttons set upon insets of white broadcloth. Three little curved sections of cloth barely covering the top of the arm passed for sleeves.

The gown in the cut is a chic costume made from gray coleen poplin. The skirt is trimmed at the bottom with two deep tucks above which are crescents of the material. The fichu bodice adornment is edged with frills of white Brussels net run with very narrow black velvet ribbon.

Six Refrigerator Rules.

Buy your ice in pieces as large as can be accommodated. This is much more economical than to buy small ones.

Be careful not to fill dishes too full, so that they will spill over. If anything is spilled don't fail to wipe it up immediately.

Do not put food of any sort directly on the ice. If it is absolutely necessary to place it near the ice see that it is in glass or porcelain.

Pack the ice well together and do not wrap it in paper or cloths. Instead keep the door of the ice chamber shut as much as possible.

Empty the refrigerator at least once a week. Scrub the interior thoroughly, then scald the ice chamber and drainpipe with boiling water in which a lump of soda has been dissolved. Follow this with clear boiling water. Wipe dry and let it air for twenty minutes.

Use clean, flat dishes to hold whatever is on the lower shelves. A good habit to acquire is that of washing such dishes daily, partly for cleanliness, partly to guard against the possibility of anything being overlooked and consequently becoming tainted, thereby possibly contaminating a whole shelf full of good food.

SARTORIAL ITEMS.

A New Silk For Shirt Waist Dresses. All Black Hats Smart.

There is a new silk, very thin and brilliant of sheen, with something of the appearance of old time delaine, but softer and more silky looking, that is making many of the prettiest shirt waist gowns.

Certain types of blond look extremely well in black headgear, but it is the choosing of smart styles that produces the real chic in all black apparel of any character. A stunning black motor hat of satin straw has a moderate tan crown and a narrow rolling brim cut away at the front and finished with rows of bias silk folds that end in tiny bows. The black chiffon veil is caught at the right side of the crown in rosette fashion. The ends falling over the entire hat may be secured as one prefers. These black hats are not practical for long touring runs, as they show the dust sadly.

The craze for white is increasing rather than abating. All the best frocks are white muslin, lace, silk and, above all, the new tussores and linens of every sort and kind. But, instead of putting cream lace, tulle or what you will near the face, the whole idea is white of almost blue tinge. After all, this is more universally becoming.

Very dainty is the dressing sack illustrated, with its sleeves and ruffles of lace. The yoke is transversely tucked and forms a neat, attractive trimming. JUDIC CHOLLET.

JUVENILE MODES.

A Fine Idea For Infants' Undergarments—New Lace, Val Rococo.

The newest idea in infants' outfitting is to have all the little undergarments fastened at the shoulders only, which allows them to be slipped on and off all together instead of requiring the separate adjustment of each one. The cambric skirt, flannel petticoat and shirt are included in this set.

Detachable collars and cuffs on girls' white linen suits are very sensible additions. They may be severely plain, depending for chic upon their immaculate freshness or elaborately embroidered and inset with lace.

All over embroidered batiste makes the nicest kind of a chemisette. When a lace chemisette is to be manufactured, it is wise to cut a paper pattern to fit the wearer and baste the lace on this guide. When the chemisette is sewed on the machine, it is stitched right through the paper, the latter being torn off when finished. Hand work, though, is always more appreciated.

There is a new lace, valenciennes rococo, that is much used for trimming young people's frocks. Paris mull is a sheer fabric employed this summer for making best frocks.

Pongee coats in the natural color are as much worn by children as by grownups. String colored lace makes an attractive adornment.

The little girl's dress in the cut is carried out in white pique sprigged with a rosebud design. The short skirt has a box plaited panel in front, and the blouse waist has also a wide plait flanked by side plaits on each side. The neck is cut in V shape and finished with a round collar edged with ruffles of white lawn. The three-quarter sleeves have turned back cuffs edged with frill. JUDIC CHOLLET.

To Clean White Coats.

Light cloth coats can be cleaned at home with oatmeal and whiting. Lay flat on a clean table, mix the oatmeal and whiting in equal proportions and with a piece of clean flannel rub thoroughly and evenly into the cloth. Shake well and, if necessary, go over again and repeat until the cloth looks perfectly clean. Then shake well and press on the wrong side with a warm iron.

WHAT IS WORN.

Shirt Waist That Will Be Smart This Fall—Brown Still Worn.

The newest of the tailored fall shirt waists are made of China silk, preferably in white, with cuffs and collars of a contrasting color. The shades best liked for this novel touch are yellow, blue or green. The collar is a high turnover, with stitched edges, and is worn with a broad bow of ribbon in the same color. These bows are newer than the four-in-hands.

In French linen shirt waists there is a new model with small box plaits running from neck to waist. These plaits are pressed, but not stitched. The sleeves are arranged in the same way, with the plaits going from elbow to wrist instead of the more usual way, from shoulder to elbow.

Brown, it is predicted, will not yield first place to any other color this winter. There is every reason to think that it will be a season of somber shades. The dull leaf browns and chestnuts, with a hint of red in their warm depths, are to be the tones most used.

A pretty fall gown is illustrated. The material is a striped woolen in brown and tan shades. Vest, collar and cuffs are of brown velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

"French" Handkerchiefs.

The prettiest handkerchiefs are being made as fancy work out of plaid and corded handkerchief linens which came out in the spring for blouses and shirt waists and morning dresses. French handkerchiefs exactly like them have been popular for several years, but if you hemstitch duplicates of the French ones may be yours for the merest fraction of the cost, for a yard of the stuff costs less than a single made up handkerchief, and a yard makes a good many handkerchiefs.

Make them up with a narrow hem and, if you can, embroider one or all three of your initials in the middle of one of the squares, setting the initial across on a slant.

Or, if you've a short first name, write it on with a soft pencil and embroider it over a thread. It's a pretty, characteristic little touch that carries with it the charm of individuality.

The long, narrow strips of the linen which may be left over in cutting off the handkerchiefs will make pretty collar and cuff sets or lingerie ties to wear with stiff embroidered collars.

A Dead Cut.

"I think," wearily chuckled the dying miser, "that a barber would be better than a lawyer to draw up my will."

"Why so?" they asked.

"Because," he responded, "I want my heir cut."—Baltimore American.

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through early abuse or later excesses. Chas. Anderson was one of the victims, but was rescued in time. He says: "I learned an evil habit. A change soon came over me. I could feel it; my friends noticed it. I became nervous, despondent, gloomy, had no ambition, easily tired, evil forebodings, poor circulation, pimples on face, back weak, dreams and drains at night, tired and weak mornings, burning sensation. To make matters worse, I became reckless and contracted a blood disease. I tried many doctors and medical firms—all failed till Drs. Kennedy & Kergan took my case. In one week I felt better, and in a few weeks was entirely cured. They are the only reliable and honest Specialists in the country."

DUCHESS OF WESTMINSTER.

Wife of the Richest Landlord in England—Beautiful Idyl of Her Courtship, Engagement and Marriage.

It was as boy and girl that the Duke and Duchess of Westminster first fell in love and vowed that, come what might, they would some day marry. Cold water was thrown upon the idyl by the late Duke of Westminster. Colonel Cornwallis-West's younger daughter was a great beauty, and her father head of a tremendously ancient family, but—well there was no title in the family, while the swain, moreover, was very youthful. So the young people waited. The old Duke died, and the boy of twenty, his own father being dead, became second Duke and his own master. At once the engagement, denied the previous year, was made known, and the sister of Princess Henry of Pless became the second Duchess of Westminster about four years ago. She is a brunette, a beautiful contrast to the lily fairness of her sister, the Princess. She has musical talent, rides and drives superbly, has some of the finest jewels in the world and is not the least bit aggressive from the fact that she is the wife of the richest landlord in Britain. Flattery and adulation do not turn her head.

THE DUCHESS OF WESTMINSTER.

Miss Florence Nightingale's Patient.

Notes and Queries contains a pretty story of the first patient treated by Miss Florence Nightingale. Her father was the proprietor of Embly park, and she endeared herself to the villagers around by many acts of kindness.

Robert Snelgrove, a shepherd, a lonely old man, lived with his dog Captain. One day, being with his sheep, he was accosted by the squire, out on his rounds of inspection, accompanied by his little daughter Florence. Now, Captain, the sheepdog, was an especial favorite with the child, who at once missed him from his accustomed place, and, on inquiring the cause, was concerned to find that owing to an obstinate bad foot he was to be put to death that evening. Slipping away from her father, "Missie" hastened to the shepherd's cottage, where she found the dog stretched on its brick floor with a badly swelled leg. She lit the ready-laid fire, boiled the kettle, and bathed the dog's foot with her own handkerchief until the swelling had decreased. She continued her ministrations, going daily to the cottage to tend the sheepdog until her first patient was restored whole to his delighted master and to the sheepdog.

Stained Glass By New Process.

Cloisonne glass is a pet of modern glassmakers. It is not a wall decoration, but a kind of substitute for stained glass, different in effect and in quality from any of the paper imitations. It is genuine glass. A sheet of plain glass is put over the drawing to be executed, and on this the outlines of the design are traced in wire, black, silver or gilt, as the case may be. These wire outlines, which are semicircular in section, are fixed firmly to the background sheet, and into the cells formed by the cloisonnes are shoveled countless little glass beads, which are cemented on the ground, and the entire panel is then covered with a second sheet of glass The great point of the invention is that, along with a pleasant variety of surface, it is possible and easy to get an almost limitless variety of color, as well as the most delicate and gradual shading, in which one color melts almost imperceptibly into another.

Western Races Declining.

The real yellow peril is European race suicide. The birth rate in the German empire continues on its downward course, being only 33.9 per thousand in 1903, from 35.7 per thousand in 1901. In Great Britain the birth rate has fallen from 30.7 in 1893 to 27.6 in 1904. French statistics show that at present the birth rate is only 22 per thousand. It is interesting speculation to try to foretell what another century may bring forth in the world's politics if the birth rate of western nations continues to decline and that of the orient keeps up as high as it has in the past.

Preacher's Long Walk.

Stomach Cramps. COLIC.

THESE are very painful, and their attacks are often sudden and sometimes fatal. The principal seat is in the stomach and bowels, producing severe twisting, cramping pain, and often accompanied by vomiting. If you are troubled in this way, there is only one remedy to cure you, and that one is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It has a record of cures extending over 60 years and we have yet to hear of it failing to either relieve or cure.

Mrs. M. Secord, Bristol, N.B., writes: "I was terribly troubled with cramps for some time and had several doctors attend me, but their medicine did not do me any good. I got two bottles of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and they completely cured me. I would not be without it in my house."

AFTER TWO POLES.

Explorers Who Will Attempt to Reach the North and South Poles While Operating In Concert.

At a recent session of the Polar Congress at Brussels, Dr. Jean Charcot announced that he was organizing an expedition to the South Pole, and Charles Benard, president of the Belgian Oceanographic Society, stated that that society was organizing an expedition to the North Pole. The two expeditions will operate simultaneously and in concert.

Both Dr. Charcot and M. Benard have had experiences in polar exploration. The former, in November, 1903, sailed from Buenos Ayres on board the ship Francais for Graham Land, supposed to be part of the great Antarctic continent in the Western Hemisphere, on the Atlantic side, nearest Patagonia. He sailed southwest of Cape Horn. For a time it was feared the expedition had been lost, but in February, 1905, the Francais arrived safely at Puerto Madrin, Argentina, having accomplished its scientific work satisfactorily, explored several unknown points on Graham Land and determined the contour of the external coast line of the Palmer Archipelago.

M. Benard, a French naval officer, is a member of the permanent commission of the International Association of the Navy. The plan of Arctic exploration which he is understood to favor is one employing two ships in communication by wireless telegraphy. Reaching in the autumn the island of New Siberia, a rush would be made for a point on the 158th degree of latitude east, from thence drifting with the concrete ice. He argued that this drifting would carry the ships to the immediate neighborhood of the North Pole. The ships, he calculated, would be separated by the ice acting as a wedge until they were from sixty to eighty miles apart, each ship meanwhile tracing in the basin a line of soundings and dredging, and thus constituting two metallurgical, magnetic and floating observatories. The term of the exploration M. Benard estimated at three years, recommending provisions for five years. The cost of such an expedition he estimated at $300,000.

How to Make Simple Remedies.

A poultice of salt mixed with the white of an egg makes a powerful drawing poultice, says Pearson's Weekly. For toothache dip cotton wool in a solution of salt water and camphor and insert in the tooth. Onion syrup prepared by sprinkling sliced onions with sugar and taken in teaspoonful doses every fifteen minutes until relief is obtained is a favorite home remedy for croup. To remove proud flesh from wounds or sores take a piece of alum the size of a walnut and pulverize it, sprinkle a little of the powder over the affected surface, and it will destroy the proud flesh and leave the sore in good shape for rapid healing. A liniment for sore muscles or sprains is made of a quart of pure cider vinegar, about half as much turpentine and two eggs; add the eggs and turpentine to the vinegar and let stand for twelve hours, when it will be ready for use.

Sea Water For Lunacy.

Two eminent French experimenters, says the Grand Magazine, assure us that sea water will cure or at least alleviate many cases of lunacy. The explanation is: "Man, like all other animals, descends from a marine ancestor. To place the human organism modified by disease in its original surroundings should, therefore, prove advantageous to it." Starting from those premises, the French doctors have given subcutaneous injections of sea water to a number of insane persons with, they declare, the most beneficial results.

A great number of other diseases—consumption, diabetes and stomach disorders—have also been treated successfully by internal doses of sea water, not only in France, but also in Sweden.

TURNING THE COLORADO.

Effort to Be Made to Get It Back to Original Course.

An army of men will shortly begin the titanic struggle with the roaring Colorado river, attempting to check the devastation which the change in the river's course has brought to two states. Three hundred square miles flooded, 200 miles of railroad tracks washed out, a thriving industry ruined—this is the record of the destruction caused by the river breaking through its banks and flooding the surrounding country.

The Colorado river is the dividing line between Arizona and the southern portion of California. Most of the water has poured into the Yuma basin, in Arizona, but the flood has also brought destruction to the one industry in the miles of the burning southern California desert. The Salton sink, once a part of the Pacific's bed, but for centuries past a level bottom of pure salt harvested year after year for the markets, has been flooded, and the unique salt farm has been wiped out of existence, temporarily at least. Hopes are held forth that the work which the Southern Pacific Railroad company is to begin will make the salt industry possible there again and that once more the little village of Salton, where the salt workers lived, will be populated.

To operate this novel salt farm a plow was designed, drawn by a cable attached to a small steam locomotive. This locomotive passed to and fro on a miniature track, and by means of a big grooved wheel, set horizontally in the fashion of a street cable, the plow was drawn at right angles to the engine. Plowed into furrows, the salt was heaped in great cones, placed in cars and shipped to the market, the greater part of it requiring no refining process, so pure was it.

The salt farm was a profitable industry, and the operating company built a little settlement at the foot of the mountain. Here the salt was treated when necessary, and here were the homes of the workmen and their families. But at the present the village is wrecked and the farm deserted, for it has become, literally, another Great Salt lake.—New York Tribune.

Pike's Peak.

The birthday of a mountain peak has seldom, if ever, been observed in America, but in September the birthday of Pike's peak, so far as history is concerned, will be observed by the state of Colorado, with President Roosevelt and some of the members of his cabinet as guests. The occasion will mark the one hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the mountain by Lieutenant Zebulon Pike and may possibly be the occasion of an international event of some interest. When Lieutenant Pike was captured by Spanish soldiers in February, 1807, he was relieved of several maps and manuscripts, which were never recovered. They are supposed to have been sent by the governor of Santa Fe to the viceroy at the City of Mexico and by him forwarded to Madrid. As the Spanish are careful about the preservation of historic documents and records, it is believed that Pike's papers are still in existence. At the suggestion of Representative Brooks of Colorado Secretary Root has requested the Spanish government to institute a search for them. If found they will probably be returned.

Forest Fires.

Last year forest fires in this country burned over an area of 150,000 acres. This area is great, yet it is less than half of that which was swept by fire the year before. One reason for the difference is the increased efficiency of the fire patrol under the United States forest service. Its jurisdiction is limited to national reservations, but the influence of the forestry service extends to many private wooded tracts. The professional foresters are teaching the people how to care for the trees. One simple rule, which the owner of a few trees can easily follow and the owner of many trees cannot afford to neglect, is to keep the underbrush cleared. Most forest fires start in brush. A wood clear of brush has, so to speak, no kindling in which a fire can start.

We Like Fruit.

For strictly orchard products which found markets and presumably were consumed during the year ending June 30, 1905, the American farmer received $83,751,840, and we raised in American vineyards 1,500,000,000 pounds of grapes, which crop brought our American vineyardists over $25,000,000 more. American subtropical fruits brought the producers nearly $10,000,000, and we imported from the West Indies and southern Europe $25,000,000 worth of tropical fruits.—Ernest C. Rowe in Leslie's Weekly.

A Developing Empire.

The cutting up of the large landholdings in the Sacramento valley into small farms simultaneously with the completion of great systems of irrigation has brought on an era of development in the northern part of the state the importance of which is scarcely realized as yet outside the immediate vicinity of the undertakings. But the developments are big with importance not only for the Sacramento valley, but for the entire state and particularly for San Francisco.—San Francisco Call.

Sympathetic Ink.

A good sympathetic ink is made with the chloride of copper. Writing or drawing on paper with this ink is invisible at ordinary temperatures, but when the paper or parchment is heated the writing or drawing at once appears of a beautiful yellowish color.

The Maori Language.

The Maori language is a Polynesian dialect. It closely approaches that of the Sandwich islands, of the Navigator's group and of Rarotonga. Natives of these mutually understand one another.

STANDARD OIL FIGHTER.

Only Man Who Did So and Lives to Tell the Tale.

Lewis Emery, jr., candidate for governor of Pennsylvania on the fusion ticket of the Democratic and Lincoln Republican parties, is a born belligerent. He would rather fight than eat. He comes by his pugnacity naturally. As long ago as 1635 the Emerys of Newburyport, Mass., were fighting Indians. Their descendants fought in the Revolution. In every war of the United States since then Emerys have carried arms.

For forty years Lewis Emery, jr., has been fighting the Standard Oil company. It was said of him in convention, "No history of the Standard Oil company is complete without mention of the ceaseless warfare he has waged against its methods, from its very inception to the present time." Since 1865 Emery has been engaged in business in the oil regions, and all that time his hand has been against the Standard and the Standard's hand against him. Once or twice the Standard has had him down, but he was up again before the referee had counted ten. He is the only man who has fought the "system" and lived to tell the tale, and he tells it frequently and forcefully.

In the interstate commerce commission's investigation of the alleged "conspiracy of oil," held in Cleveland in May, Emery was the star witness. He told how the trust had "hounded" him, how a Philadelphia refinery had been put out of business by manipulation of tank cars, how the Pennsylvania railroad had forced a connecting line to discriminate against the independents in the Bradford field.

"The first pipe lines in Pennsylvania were not invented by the Standard Oil company," said Mr. Emery on the stand. "The Standard never invented anything. It has always stolen what somebody else created."

Mr. Emery was born in Cherry Creek township, Chautauqua county, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1889. He spent his early life in Michigan, where he taught school and helped his father make flour. After an unprofitable attempt to run a sawmill and general store in Illinois he went back east to go into the oil business.

Mr. Emery has a beautiful home in Bradford, where he is loved and respected by his neighbors. On his return home from the Harrisburg convention his fellow townsmen of all political faiths met to congratulate him. His offices in Bradford are open to all, and his friendly hand is ever doing good to men less fortunate than himself. A lover of art, he has established a private museum in Bradford which is the wonder of western Pennsylvania. Mr. Emery has a highly accomplished family. His son, Lewis Emery the third, is a musician and was famous as a boy soprano before he came to man's estate.

Wholesome Anyway.

Archdeacon Sinclair in his "Leaders of Thought," etc., tells a story of an Eton head master known as "Flogging" Keate. Finding one morning a row of boys in his study, he began, as usual, to flog them. They were too terrified at the awful little man to remonstrate till he had gone halfway down the row, when one plucked up courage to falter out, "Please, sir, we're not up for punishment; we're a confirmation class!" "Never mind," said Dr. Keate. "I must be fair all around, and it will do you good." So he finished them off.

The Nines of Pope Pius.

When the pope gave a dinner to celebrate his elevation to the cardinalate he remarked to one of the guests that he had been nine years at the seminary, nine years curate at Tombolo, nine years rector of Salzano and nine years bishop of Mantua. Pius X. was also patriarch of Venice and cardinal for nine years.

The Pandora Thermometer

The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

Outlook Now Is For Peace For Islanders

Cuban Situation Much Brighter Through Secretary Taft.

FIGHTERS SIGN ARMISTICE

Rumored That the Government Will Concede Everything to the Rebels and Liberals — Agreement Sets Forth That There Must Be No Movement of Troops on Either Side Without Notification.

Havana, Sept. 25.—It was rumored late yesterday afternoon that the Government and the moderates had tactily decided to concede practically every thing to the Liberals and rebels.

Terms of Armistice.

The following are the terms of the armistice agreed upon by the opposing forces:

"1. No movement of troops shall take place on either side without a notification to the opposing authorities, viz., the secretary of the interior of Cuba; Alfred Zayas, representing the Liberal party, and the American peace commission.

"2. This peace shall be effective throughout Cuba.

"3. If either party violates any of the expressed conditions the opposing party shall not take hostile action until after a complaint notification to the peace commission.

"4. Hostilities shall not be resumed for at least 24 hours after notification to the peace commission."

The Cuban Secretary of State agreed, upon the condition that he should notify Secretary Taft instead of Senator Zayas (president of the Liberal party), if the Government desired to move troops.

THE GUARDIAN.

Methodist Pastoral Term Remains As It Was—Mission Board.

Montreal, Sept. 25.—At the Methodist general conference yesterday the improvement of The Guardian was discussed. The price of the paper was fixed at $1.50 a year.

No change was made in the pastoral term, although there was a warm debate on the motion for an unlimited pastorate.

The new mission board is composed of Revs. Dr. Ryckman, Dr. Huestis, Dr. Langford, Dr. Young, Dr. Briggs and T. Albert Moore and Messrs. Powell, Flavelle, Cushing, Keenleyside, MacLaren, Abram Shaw.

At motion was carried to pay the price of the keep of a horse where such was required, the cost being set at $100. This practically raises the minimum stipend to $900.

The widow of a pastor will be paid salary and permitted to occupy the manse for the balance of the year in which his death occurs.

Six Killed In Train Collision.

Minneapolis, Sept. 25.—Six persons are dead and a score or more injured in a rear-end collision on the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railroad about noon yesterday at New Prague, Minn. The southbound passenger train leaving Minneapolis at 9.35 a. m. crashed into a freight train, which was on a siding, splintering the first three cars on the former and derailing the entire train. Both engine crews were killed.

Science In Selecting Proper Foods

People Are Unhealthy Because They Do Not Eat The Right Food.

In these days of adulterated foods and food products such a food as is known to be pure and wholesome is indeed welcome. We have heard of many breakfast foods and cereal products—some broadly advertised as whole products, others as cure-alls for every disease known to man. No doubt they are all good and possessed of some merit, but most of them are manufactured with some foreign sweetening agent to make them palatable. Among all the breakfast and cereal foods offered the public to-day, we believe we are warranted in saying that Malta-Vita is the only food that is simply and wholly pure grain product and nothing else, except a little salt. Malta-Vita as it comes to you from the factory is all of the wheat. It has been thoroughly cleaned, steamed to gelatinize the starch, then added to it is barley malt extract made from selected barley—this, acting upon the starch, turns it into maltose or malt sugar, pronounced by physicians and food experts the finest, purest, most healthful sweetening agent known. Then the grain of wheat is rolled out flat into a thin wafer flake and baked in the ovens. It comes to you fresh and pure and sweet—absolutely nothing but a grain product prepared in the cleanest and most wholesome way and turned into the most delicious whole wheat food that can be found. Malta-Vita is sold by all grocers. Now 10 cents.

TWO NOTABLE LADS.

British Boys Distinguish Themselves, One By Climbing Church Spire, Other By Saving Four Lives.

Patrick James Stitchener, aged 12, is expected to receive high recognition from the Royal Humane Society for a deed of exceptional merit in the Thames off Wandsworth recently. A lad named Gregory, who was bathing, got into difficulties, and in an attempt to rescue him William George Ives was drowned. Three other men jumped in to effect a rescue, but they also were in danger of losing their lives when Stitchener divested himself of some of his garments and succeeded in saving the three men and the boy. Stitchener learned to swim in Battersea baths with other boys from Latchmere-road school.

spire, where he tied his handkerchief to the weather vane. He is a brilliant scholar and has gained a scholarship at Emmanuel College, Cambridge. It is always recalled as the most striking incident of the boyhood of the great Lord Clive that he performed such a feat on the church steeple of his native parish.

First Encyclopedia.

Pliny's natural history may be regarded as the first encyclopedia, since it contained 30,000 facts compiled from 2,000 books by 100 authors.

Japanese Tea.

The Japanese will not drink tea that has been standing over a minute. They pour the boiling water on the leaves and then pour off and drink the infusion immediately. Such tea is very delicate and fragrant and does not affect the nerves.

The First Silk Stockings.

Henry II. of France was the first man to wear a pair of silk stockings, though cloth hose had been worn for some time. Silk stockings originally came from Spain, and it is said that Henry VIII. considered a pair of silk Spanish stockings a great luxury and wore them on state occasions.

The Title M. D.

William Gardenio was the first person on whom the title of doctor of medicine was bestowed. He received it from the College of Asto, in Italy, in 1329.

Peanuts.

At the present time the peanut crop amounts to about 11,000,000 bushels annually. Virginia and North Carolina still maintain their lead, but Tennessee now raises about 800,000 bushels, though of an inferior quality. Of the ordinary variety about twenty-two pounds make a bushel.

Indian Soldiers.

Only the Indians from the hills, where the air is pure and exhilarating, make good soldiers. The plainsmen, as weak physically and as gentle mentally as women, have neither the strength nor the desire to fight.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Sept. 24.—(Special.)—Cables from Liverpool on Canadian cattle were easier at 10c, and those from London were ½c to 1c lower, at 10c to 10½c. Ranch cattle in Liverpool were ½c lower, at 8½c to 9c. Shipments last week were 3991 cattle; receipts to-day were 1800 cattle, 25 milch cows, 1200 sheep and lambs, 400 calves, 1400 hogs. Receipts of hogs were fairly large, there being 1400 on the market, but out of this number one leading packing concern had contracted for 1050 in the west, consequently the supply for sale was very limited, for which the demand was good and this, coupled with higher cables on Canadian bacon from London, Liverpool and Bristol, credited a stronger feeling here for hogs and prices advanced 15c to 25c per cwt., with sales at $6.75 to $6.90 per cwt., weighed off the cars.

Among the offerings were a number of prime northwest cattle, which sold at 4¼c to 4½c per lb.; pretty good cattle sold at 3½c to 4c and the common stock, 2½c to 3c per lb. Milch cows sold at $25 to $50 each. The calves were nearly all grassers, and some of them very lean at that. These sold at 2c to 3½c per lb; good, at 5c to 5½c per lb. Sheep sold at 3¼c to 4c per lb.; lambs, at 5c to 5¼c per lb.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Sept. 24.—Beeves—Receipts, 3560; choice steers, steady; good to prime, slightly lower; others, 10c to 15c off; fat bulls, 10c to 15c off. Medium and good cows, 10c to 25c lower; common, steady; steers, $4 to $5.90; one car choice, $6.15; oxen and stags, $3.80 to $4.15; bulls, $2.40 to $3.40; cows, $1.15 to $3.50. Exports tomorrow, 980 cattle and 2000 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 1816; veals, 25c to 50c higher; grassers and westerns, 50c higher. Veals, $5 to $9.25; culls, $3.50 to $5; grassers, $3.50 to $4; westerns, $4.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 8195; sheep, steady; lambs, 10c to 25c higher; state sheep, steady; sheep, $3.50 to $5.50; culls, $2.50 to $3; lambs, $6 to $8.12½; culls, $4 to $5.60; Canada lambs, $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 10,125; market, firmer; state and Pennsylvania hogs, $6.90 to $7.10.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Cattle—Receipts, about 30,000; best steady; others, 10c lower; common to prime steers, $3.75 to $8.95; cows, $2.70 to $4.75; heifers, $2.60 to $5.25; bulls, $2.40 to $4.30; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.60.

Hogs—Receipts, about 28,000; 5c to 10c higher; choice to prime heavy, $6.55 to $6.65; medium to good heavy, $6.35 to $6.45; butchers' weights, $6.05 to $6.70; good to choice mixed, $6.40 to $6.60; packing, $5.75 to $6.40; pigs, $5.80 to $6.60.

Sheep—Receipts, about 35,000; best steady; others, dull and lower; sheep, $4.50 to $4.75½; yearlings, $5.75 to $6.15; lambs, $6 to $7.75.

BRITISH CATTLE MARKET.

Diamond Dyes

Made Especially for Easy and Successful Home Dyeing.

DIAMOND DYES are the only package dyes made especially for easy and successful home dyeing. They recolour faded feathers, plumes, scarfs, ties, blouses, jackets, silk sashes, dresses, skirts, stockings and other articles of wearing apparel.

It is as easy to dye a faded garment—small or large—with DIAMOND DYES, as it is to wash it with soap, and the colours are forever fast in washing or sunlight. Bright and economical women save many dollars each year by the use of Diamond Dyes, which make old things look as good as new.

Users of package dyes will please bear in mind that vile and worthless imitations of Diamond Dyes are sold by some dealers. Every time you purchase dyes be sure you ask for the "DIAMOND." Refuse all other makes if you would avoid trouble and loss of money. Write to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., for New Direction Book, Diamond Dye Cook Book and Illustrated Booklet, entitled "Diamond Dye Longjohns' Winter and Summer Sports;" sent free to any address.

A $6,000 BLAZE.

Several Houses In Carp, Ottawa District, Reduced to Ashes.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—Scarcely a day has passed recently but some town in this district has had a scorching.

The record for the past few days has been Shawville, Almonte, Wales and, yesterday, Carp, Carleton County, had a $6,000 blaze.

It started in the stable of E. G. Hughes, and the places destroyed are Cornwall House, Bank of Ottawa, Broadbent's tailor shop and Andrews' undertaking and hardware store and residence, Younghusband's grocery, James Little's house, E. G. Hughes' house and stables.

Boy Accidentally Shot.

Hamilton, Sept. 25.—Percy Bessey, son of Vernon Bessey, the restaurant man, is lying in the City Hospital seriously wounded. He is only seven years of age and he was accidentally shot by Norman Freeman, a boy of 11 years of age. The mishap happened on the mountain last evening not far from the asylum. Freeman's story is that Bessey bought the revolver, a 22 calibre affair, yesterday. They were playing with it and Freeman pointed it at Bessey. He says that he did not pull the trigger and that the revolver went off of its own accord. The bullet entered Bessey's breast, just above the stomach and went right through the body. The doctors have little hope of his recovery.

Stole 50,000 Pounds of Copper.

Windsor, Sept. 25.—David Cose, alias Welford, arrested here, waived extradition, and was taken to Cleveland by detectives from that city, who had been working for several months on the constant loss of copper ore shipped from Montana and Utah to Washington to be purified. The total amount stolen in transit is about 50,000 pounds, worth over $10,000. Cose's alleged partner, a man named Herskovitz, is already under arrest at Cleveland.

$10,000 In Nets Seized.

Detorit, Sept. 25.—One of the most important seizures of nets for illegal fishing ever made on the Great Lakes has just been carried out under the direction of State Game Warden Chapman. Over eight miles of nets worth $10,000 were seized. The deputies pursued many of the fishermen, but they escaped.

Sandwich Girl Suicides.

St. Louis, Sept. 25.—Miss Elizabeth Harper, 24 years old, daughter of John Harper of Sandwich, Ont., ended her life yesterday by swallowing carbolic acid at the home of her sister, Mrs. Belle Dupont. She had made no suicidal threats, and Mrs. Dupont says she is at a loss to account for her act.

Receives Notice to Quit.

Belleville, Sept. 25.—Dr. P. D. Goldsmith, for many years Government physician at the Deaf and Dumb Institution here has received official notice from Dr. Pyne that his services are no longer required. Dr. Goldsmith says he will refuse to resign, and will demand an investigation.

September; Its Many And Varied Charms

By Her All Souls May Be Made Glad—The Month's Charm Will Wile Away All the Year's Jar and Fret—Is the Rush Of Business Worth While?—Why Not Drink in the Loveliness of the First Golden Month of Autumn?

For if we wander out in early morn,
No wreathed incense do we see upborn
Into the east, to meet the smiling day:
No crowd of nymphs, soft voiced, and young and gay,
In woven baskets, bringing ears of corn,
Roses and pinks, and violets to adorn
The shrine of Flora in her early May.
But there are left delights as high as these,
And I shall never bless my destiny
That in a time when under pleasant trees
Care is no longer sought, I feel a free,
A leafy luxury, seeing I could please,
With these poor offerings, a man like thee.
—Keats, Sonnet to Leigh Hunt.

Balmy, genial, beautiful—with open sky, and golden sunlight, and breezes gay as a maid of sixteen—September, radiant daughter of the autumn, comes once again laden with ripening harvests, and summer fruits, and every token of lavish prodigality. On every side the fields which bore plentifully the traditioned sixty-fold abundance, now lie bare and yellow in the glistening sunbeam, while barns are stacked and the merry hum of the thresher joins unison with swallow, and sparrow, and oriole in the mere joy of living. Orchards are heavy laden, their branches bending under the luscious fruitage, to the delight of the small boy, and the ofttime anxiety of the owners thereof, and nature herself is resplendent in the garments of verdant summer time o'er yet she assumes the brilliant garniture of fall.

Beneath her sunny sky, and basking in the rippling beams of radiant sunlight, listening to the song of birds, the chirp of cricket, or the sweet harmonies the old world sings in an afternoon of glorious reverie; to catch the gleam of sparkling glory from the sun's broad disk in the placid waters of some lake or deep-flowing river, and to watch it thrown back again upon the crest of wave or swell that dances to the breeze; to sit upon green sward or moss-covered ledge and hear the murmuring waters beat their retreat upon stoney crag and cold gray stones at one's feet, and drink in the living air of the open country without thought of business worry or cares that annoy; indeed, to be wooed and won in the soft embraces of a luxurious September day, and to give one's self up to the sweet bliss of being alive—this is to know God in Nature and to find the expansion of one's soul in the deep harmonies of a delightful autumn.

There is a beauty in the early days of September peculiar to itself, not unlike that of summer time, and yet gilded with a rich glow known only to early autumn, as if the soft tones of the long summer days had been touched into even fairer hues and made resplendent with a light that never was on sea or land. Her breath is fragrant with an incense all her own, and though the summer has passed away, it is but as a dream merging into a glorious awakening. It is as if the bright fresh days of the autumn said to the passing summer in words not more poetic than her own glorious mornings and graceful afternoons:

Grow old along with me:
The best is yet to be;
The last of life for which he first was made.
Our times are in His Hand,
Who saith: "A whole I planned,
Youth shows but half; trust God;
see all, nor be afraid."

"Her ways are ways of pleasantness," days without withering heat, nights of refreshing coolness, when sleep is a luxury. The balm of Gilead is hers, a soothing restfulness for tired brain and rasped nerves, when the delicious sense of being among living beings and part of a great divine plan of creation is a delight which elevates and sweetens life, and is its most cherished factor, as perfume is of flowers. He, who, leaving for awhile the busy hum-drum of life, with its never-ending work, and its incessant call upon time and energy, can get away, though it be but a day or so, and sit before the shrine of nature in some calm retreat, where blue skies and autumnal sunshine invite to restfulness and breathe of peace and perfect harmony, will find his soul imbued with nature's benediction and can enter more fully into the inner meaning of his life and destiny. But for the most of us, we have no time for such pastimes; life is real, life is earnest and we are too intent upon getting and spending and otherwise laying waste our powers, to take much interest in, or any time for, the indulgence of our higher selves, which after all, are but manifestations of what life ought to be. This is a utilitarian age, and they who live in it are utilitarians, with materialistic proponsities so strong that nearly every idea is engulfed in the consuming passion for gain. Money making and money-saving—the almighty dollar in the cold lustre of its standard coinage, so strong to attract and yet so powerless to satisfy—this and this alone seems to be the pursuit of the vast majority of our country's people. And in the mad rush for the dollar and in the ceaseless grab and graft for that which is not bread, and never can be food for either soul or body, more than one virtue has met a sudden death, more than one fine sensibility has come to an untimely end. In the eager search for gain the devotee almost invariably fails to take one thing into account, without which there can possibly be no true success worthy the name, or riches that would bear the mentioning — and that is himself. To get money at the expense of honour, and riches by the loss of all that the soul holds dear, to see gold accumulate over the graves of our finer feelings, and at the funeral of one sympathy for distress; in fine to achieve wealth by the necessity of a spiritual bankruptcy—of all things this side of the final judgment can any thing be more tragical?

And is it much less of a tragedy to be a slave to the never-ceasing grind of business or society and have the calls of the soul go unheard and unanswered. And yet this is exactly what numbers of our people are doing, who undoubtedly would scorn to make illicit gains at the expense of conscience. What is it to the one's self to business as to the chariot wheels of a cruel taskmaster; to make an end of what should be merely means to an end; to sit week in, week out, amid scorching brick and smoking chimney pots, ever at the same grinding task, and let the world of beauty and quiet restfulness go by with its myriad attractive forms of pleasure and enjoyment, and to think that this is living—what is this but to cheat the soul of her just dues and to feed the heart with husks that starve and nullify her every fibre? Is not the life more than meat, and the body more than raiment? We need a wider cosmopolitanism — a farther grasp of the true significance of life. Nature should teach us variety—variety of scene, variety of temperament variety of occupation—the kind of variety we want. And when we are alone with her in the pure enjoyment of her shady retreats and the luxury of her glorious landscapes—when we hear her voice in murmuring stream, and sighing wind, and flute-noted warblers, and are able to catch the gleam of her indescribable changes of tone and colouring; when we get near to her in study woodland, or open field, or gurgling brook and enter in to the secret confidences of her joy which she imparts to the humblest soul and through her are led to look up to Nature's God—ah! surely this is life in the large sense which makes the mere act of living a priceless luxury. And, be it said, without it, or at least without the spirit that makes it possible, living is automatic, a set of rules, the following of instinct, the indulgence of only half, if that indeed, of the impulses and capacities which go to make life a real entity. And he who lives thus blindly is but the shadow of a man.

Let us go then to the sweet retreats where the goddess of the early autumn has set her shrine amid some sylvan grove or by the ban of murmuring stream or river, and forsaking busy cares and petty anxieties of ordinary life, bathe our weary souls in the flood of her gracious influences that in close touch with nature we may learn the secret of her perfect harmony, her lasting joyfulness, and her perennial peace. And, be it said, this surely is what we need. "The world is too much us." It is away from the world as such, where the strenuous life is a constant drain upon brain, and nerve, and tissue and into the glorious world of freedom, and light, and beauty that we must go that we may forget our worries, forget our busy cares, forget ourselves and, sinking into the depth of Nature's abounding mysteries, with all the myriad forms of her charming loveliness, rise into a new life of happiness and contentment, endued with fresh courage, fresh strength, fresh instiration.

Summer sunshine and sweet autumn airs, wherefore are these, but that we should be as free as the light that gladdens the world, or the breezes that make merry on every treetop and in every field; gay song of plumaged bird and low, deep voice of crystal water, wherefore, but that we should be as happy and untramelled as bird or river—but, poor soul, thou art not free, thou art not happy, unless in nature's face thou hast caught the image of nature's God. Then in His love let thy soul repose, free from worry and anxious thought and happy as beam of sunlight and peaceful as untroubled waters, for this is thy destiny. And long, bright days will bring to thee, each one, messages of a Father's tender care. Who feeds the raven and clothes lily and flower-bud, and each night of peaceful quietude and solemn darkness, serene and still, and dripping with dew for grass and flowers, shall breathe an incense more sweet and restful than perfumed acacia or fragrant anodyne—a restfulness that will bequeath new life through every portion of thy soul. "The darkness and the light are both alike to Thee."

The world is too much with us, late and soon,
Getting and spending we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours,
We have given our lines away, a sordid boon!
This sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are un-gathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything we are out of tune,
It moves us not. Great God! I'd rather be
A pagan, suckled on a creed outworn,
So might I standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus, rising from the sea,
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

The "Jolly Pathfinders" Open Season's Work

A New Amusement Organization Headed by Mr. W. J. McQuinn of This City to Commence October 1st.

It is not every city of the size of Peterborough that can turn out theatrical companies. This city is doing it through. On October 1st, next, the "Jolly Pathfinders Company," organized by Mr. Wm. J. McQuinn will start out on the road for the winter season. Mr. McQuinn is a resident of this city, though he has not been living here steadily, having been engaged with various amusement companies during the past and previous seasons.

The "Pathfinders" is a company of artists which should make their mark this season, and, judging by the galaxy of stars which Mr. McQuinn has secured the season's operations should be successful. Those who will comprise the company are: — William J. McQuinn, popular baritone, vocalist, formerly of Wests' Minstrels; Mrs. McQuinn, Musical Directress; Lorraine McQuinn, child nightingale; Miss Annie MacLeish, serpentine, Spanish and wooden shoe dancer; Scott M. Moulton, comedian and trick piano player; The Great Bartille, Swiss bells and baton swinger and Prof. Redmond, magician and moving pictures.

Already the company is booked well into October on one night stands, the first route being in the copper country and in the Cobalt region. Mr. McQuinn is an experienced show man, and there is little doubt that he will make a success of this venture.

Success Of Fourth Peterborough Industrial Fair Seems Assured

EXHIBITION WILL
--IT IS CONFIDENTLY EXPECTED--
BE BEST IN HISTORY

Entries Have Been Pouring In To-day and Every Class, It is Thought, Will be Well Filled—Main Building Has Some Fine Exhibits.

Prospects Point to a Very Large Crowd on Hand for the Big Day To-morrow—Horse Races, Football Matches and Many Other Attractions.

The Weather Probabilities for to-day and to-morrow, the two days of the Peterborough Fair, are:—To-day, moderate to fresh, southeasterly to south winds, fine. Wednesday, warm.

The weather man seems to regard the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition with favour this year, judging by the brand of atmospheric conditions which he is scheduled to hand out to-morrow, and which are in force to-day. All doubt as to the success of the Exhibition may therefore be set aside, and the prospects point to the most successful show in the history of Peterborough. All that is needed is favourable weather and that seems to be assured for to-morrow.

The fair grounds presented a very busy appearance when visited by an Examiner reporter this morning. Entries were coming in thick and fast, tents were springing up everywhere. Secretary Hall and his assistants were the busiest men in Peterborough to-day, as the entries were very numerous. The prospects are that every class will be well filled, judging by the way the entries were coming in this morning. The directors were jubilant over the prospects this morning and expressed the opinion that the fair would be a grand success.

The Poultry Exhibit.

Visitors to the Exhibition to-morrow will see the finest exhibit of poultry probably ever seen in Peterborough. The birds are being brought in very large numbers, and some very fine specimens are shown. This morning there was a very creditable exhibit on hand, and many of the birds were not then in.

The Main Building.

The exhibits in the Main Building are worthy of a visit from everyone who takes in the fair. Of late years this part of the fair has, in a measure, fallen off, but this condition of affairs will not be found by visitors to-morrow. Peterborough is a great manufacturing centre and it is but proper that the manufacturers should take an interest in the fair. This they seem to have done, judging by their exhibits this year.

Some Exhibits.

The Canadian Cordage Company have an attractive exhibit on the ground floor, in the shape of a house built of rope and raw material, which effectually displays their manufactures.

The Quaker Oats Company is represented by a gigantic pyramid of the well-known products turned out by them, Quaker Oats, Saxon Oats, Banner Oats, Pettijohn's Breakfast Food, Agitoze and other equally well-known brands of breakfast foods are attractively displayed.

The J. M. Greene Music Company have a praiseworthy exhibit of Williams New Scale Pianos, Edison phonographs and other musical instruments.

An interesting exhibit is that of the Condensed Peat Fuel Company, who have samples of condensed fuel on view. It is shown that water does not decompose the peat, which is said to be the case with any other form of the peat.

The Ray Studio have a most artistic display of photographs, numbering in all about two hundred of all kinds. They are found in the southeast corner of the building.

The Nugget Polish Company, an English firm, with their Canadian headquarters in Toronto, make a display of their products in the Main Building. Their booth is well worth a visit.

With the Big Fellows.

In the Main Building also are the mammoth squashes and giant pumpkins, which are an inseparable feature of fall fairs. The display of vegetables, fruits and grains there reflects great credit upon the farmers of the surrounding district.

Upstairs' Display.

It is to be hoped that ladies visiting the fair will not first look at the exhibit of ladies' work on the second floor of the Main Building, or they will surely miss the rest of the fair. The exhibit in these classes is a splendid one. Every variety of fancy work is shown, and ladies could not be drawn from the room after they have once laid eyes upon the tea covers, tray cloths, cushions, pillows, and other articles so well displayed.

Upstairs also there is a unique display of souvenir post cards by Miss Jean Hill. There are over nine hundred varieties shown, including 505 American and 243 Canadian views.

The entries in the wood-carving and burnt wood work are also worthy of especial mention, and should be visited by everyone who goes to the fair grounds to-morrow.

Refreshment Tent.

Visitors to the fair will not have to go far in search of something to eat. The King's Daughters of St. John's have a large refreshment tent situated not far from the entrance, where appetizing meals may be secured between 11.30 and 2, and 5 and 7 o'clock to-morrow. Five hundred people can be accommodated at one time. Mr. J. A. Lawless, of the National Hotel, is in charge, and he has a very able staff, composed of the following ladies: Mrs. Poe, Mrs. Rubidge, Mrs. A. H. Stratton.

Pleasant At Home Last Evening

Murray Street Baptist Young People Enjoy Delightful Social.

A pleasant evening was spent last night in the Sunday school room of the Murray Street Baptist Church. The occasion was a rally social of the B. Y. P. U., and a goodly number were present considering the earliness of the season. A splendid programme was presented by members of the society, which was as follows:

Violin solo, Miss Hope Miller.
Reading, Mr. Walter Garbutt.
Vocal solo, Miss Emily Miller.
Instrumental duet, the Misses Elcome.
Game.
Guitar solo, Mr. Packard.
Vocal solo, Mr. Hooker.
Reading, Miss Smith.
Vocal solo, Miss Clara Kidd.
Piano solo, Miss Quinn.

The fifth event was participated in by all those present and was very interesting. Miss Hope Miller captivated the audience with her violin number. The entire programme was well rendered. After the musical part of the programme was over, refreshments were served by the ladies, this being not the least delightful part of the evening's enjoyment.

Destruction Of Signs, And Lawn Tramped

Mr. H. LeBrun Suffers From Work of Hoodlums.

Last night or this morning, some parties wantonly destroyed the trespass notice and board posted up on Mr. H. LeBrun's terrace, at the south east corner. The usual notice, "Please Keep Off the Grass," appears to have been so offensive to these miscreants, that they deliberately tore the notice and broke the board to pieces. Not content with this meanness they also stamped down the terrace, tearing the grassy side of the lawn and leaving ugly heel marks of their destructive disposition. Mr. LeBrun has recently gone to a great deal of expense to beatify his property, and it is very discouraging to find such outrages committed. He is determined to bring the guilty parties to justice, and is offering a reward for information that will lead to their conviction.

Meeting Of The Barber's Union

Local Barber's Are Gaining Strength.

A meeting of the local Barbers' Union was held in the hall at the rear of Mr. Irwin's Barber shop on Charlotte street. Several of the officers of the union had left town and last night's meeting was held for the purpose of electing men to these offices. Mr. Ed. Firth was elected to the Vice Presidency while Mr. Kingsbury is the new recorder. Three new candidates were initiated and a new shop entered the union. A committee, composed of the President, Vice-President, and Recorder was appointed to urge the unfair shops to join the union and to report at a special meeting next Monday evening. The meeting was well attended.

Collegiate Institute Question To-night

Board of Education Will Deal With Report From the Committee.

To-night's special meeting of the Board of Education promises to be one of more than usual interest.

It is probable that the question of the erection of a Collegiate Institute, will be decided. The report of the Special Committee appointed to deal with the matter will be presented at this meeting.

Rural Deanery At Havelock

Meeting Will be Held October 15th and 16th.

The next Chapter of the Rural Deanery of Northumberland will be held at Havelock on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 15th and 16th. The programme will be as follows:—

8 p.m., Monday—Evensong and sermon, the preacher being Rev. W. Burns.

Tuesday, 8 a.m.—Holy Communion.

1.30—Matins. Reports of Rural Dean, and Secretary-Treasurer. Discussion on state of the church in the Rural Deanery. Paper by Rev. C. H. Brooks, on "Lessons from Eastern Christianity."

The meeting is expected to be an interesting one.

Wonderful Exhibit Seen At The Fair

A Revelation in Shoe Polishing That No One Wants to Miss.

An exhibit which created an exceptional amount of interest to many visitors at the Toronto and Ottawa Exhibitions is being shown here. People wondered at seeing shoes polished and immediately after actually being washed with water and being dried with a towel—proving that it (the polish) is waterproof, and also that it does not rub off or soil the clothing under any condition.

The "Nugget" polishes, as they are called, are being introduced from England into this country, and with the certainty that they will, in a short time, be universally used by all classes.

It is important to state that these polishes keep the leather soft and pliable, and consequently will prevent cracking and hardening.

The "Nugget" polishes can be used on all kinds of leathers, fine and common, are as easily and simply applied as any other, and only the smallest quantity is to be used to produce the desired results.

Do not fail to visit this exhibit to-morrow in the Main Building and see the demonstration for yourself, as it is something exceptionally interesting in the line of shoe polishes.

EDUCATIONAL RALLY SOCIAL TO-NIGHT

The educational rally social to be given by Miss Coventry's class at the Y.W.C.A. rooms to-night promises to be an event of much interest. A good programme will be given and refreshments will be served. An interesting feature of the gathering will be the address by Miss Little. Miss Coventry, the new physical directress, will also speak, as will the new general secretary, Miss Maynard. The social is free to all the young ladies of the city, who are cordially invited.

Peterborough Capitalists Who Will Establish Business in Hastings--Start Work at Once.

Examiner Special.

Hastings, September 25. — By a practically unanimous vote — to be explicit, by 119 to 1, and a search will be made for the 1—the ratepayers of this village voted yesterday in favour of the bylaw to aid the Peterborough Radiator Company, to locate here.

The vote polled was very large, 120 ballots being marked out of a total available vote of 130, an evidence of the fact that the ratepayers were interested in the question, and that they were convinced of the desirability of securing the industry for the town.

Messrs. Davidson and Sturgeon, representing the company, were here yesterday, and expressed themselves last night as greatly pleased with the result of the vote, which was more favourable than they had anticipated.

The company, by the terms of its agreement with the council, binds itself to commence work inside of thirty days after the third reading of the bylaw which will be given by the council early in October.

The company will employ twenty-five hands at the start, and it is expected that the number will be materially increased from time to time. It is stated that the company has already placed orders for machinery, and it will be shipped in the near future.

The considerations which influenced the company in selecting Hastings as a location for their works, are said to have been the fact that transportation facilities are favourable and that power was obtainable at a satisfactory price. The company has secured options on several sites, any one of which would be suitable.

The people of this village are in hopes that this will mean the beginning of a new era of prosperity for Hastings.

A LADY'S ESSAY.

A bachelor "wanted" a wife,
A maiden "wanted" a man,
They stated their case
In the very best place—
The Examiner want ad. column.
And now they are happy for life
Made so by the very best plan;
To the parson they tied
And the knot it was tied
In a manner as certain as solemn.

J. K.

A youth from a neighbouring town created quite an excitement on Tuesday night by driving a horse around town in a very reckless manner. The animal, which was a very fine one, was taken from him, and he narrowly escaped being brought before the J. P.—Havelock Standard.

Tent Pitched On A Steamer's Deck

This is What the "Empress" Had When She Tied Up at the Wolfe Street Wharf Last Night.

Mr. W. T. C. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, on His Annual Trip Over Canal—Left This Morning for Hastings.

A tent pitched on the deck of a steamer is the latest touch in nautical circles. Yesterday the steamer Empress, with Mr. W. T. C. Boyd, President of the Trent Valley Navigation Company, of Bobcaygeon, and his party arrived in the city and tied up at the Wolfe street wharf over night. The presence of this steamer in the city created considerable interest amongst those who frequent the wharves, but the chief source of interest was the fact that on its upper deck was pitched a camper's tent ready for service. It was the first time the local steamboat men had seen anything of that kind, and their interest and surprise were ill-concealed.

Mr. Boyd was here on his annual trip over the Trent Canal waters, and he is accompanied as usual by a number of his friends from Bobcaygeon.

The steamer arrived at about 6.30 o'clock last evening, and the party remained in the city until this morning, making an early start for Hastings, the objective point, where they will remain until this morning. During the trip from here to Hastings Mr. James Tobin, the genial first mate of the Majestic, acted as pilot, and will return with the steamer to-morrow.

The higher water in the canal system this year is a condition which Mr. Boyd expresses satisfaction at, and he states that by reason of this condition the trip was made much more pleasant. They will be back in Peterborough on Wednesday night, remaining here on the return trip until Thursday morning.

Belleville Cheese Brought 13 1-8c

At This Price the Product Was Sold Saturday.

At the Belleville cheese board on Saturday prices were up to 13 1-8c. The boardings were fairly large considering the dry weather and the lack of pasture. Messrs. Kerr and Cook were the purchasers of most of the cheese boarded.

Hay Is Now In Good Demand

A Farmer This Morning States He Got $12 Per Ton.

The price of hay is rapidly advancing. Last week it sold on the market for $9 and $10 per ton. This week the general price is $10 and $11 and an Otonabee farmer stated that he had gotten $12 per ton for a load this morning.

Hay appears to be in good demand, buyers being ready on the spot to do the purchasing.

A Busy Season On The Otonabee

Boats Engaged in Towing Produce to the City.

The captains of the various boats on the Otonabee report a busy season. They are engaged in towing loads to and from the lake. The steamer Water Lily brought a scow load of wheat yesterday from Hale's Bridge for the Central Milling Company. This afternoon Captain White will take a pleasure party down the river.

To-morrow nearly all the boats will bring passengers from the various points on the Lake to the City to attend the Industrial Exhibition.

Decorate Stores In Honour of Fair

Suggestion is Made That Business Places Should Be Adorned.

The suggestion that has been made that the merchants should decorate their places of business in honour of the fair seems to be a good one, and might, with advantage, be carried out. It is done in other places and could easily be done by local merchants, most of whom have flags and other articles of decoration always on hand. It would serve to advertise Peterborough as a progressive city.

No Steel Work Till October 15

And In Meantime Evan's Bridge is Said To Be Unsafe.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Sept. 24.—A number of Otonabee people attended Lindsay Fair Friday and Saturday.

Miss K. Beattie, Toronto, is visiting at Mr. William Campbell's.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Staples, Coldsprings, and Mr. M. W. G. Parser, Cobourg are camping at Grape Island.

The "Temple of Fame" is to be given in the town hall, Keene, by local talent some time in the near future.

Rev. J. H. Hector, "the Black Knight," the well known temperance lecturer accompanied by his wife and his daughter, Miss Geraldine Hector, will give a lecture in the town hall, Keene, Thursday evening, September 27th. The lecture will commence at 8 o'clock. A silver collection will be taken in aid of the Dominion Temperance Alliance.

Miss Mowbray Vance, Cavan, who has been visiting at Mr. Robert Humphries' returned home Saturday.

We understand that the steel work for the new bridges at Keene and Evan's is not expected to arrive till about October 15th. In the meantime Evan's bridge is said to be in a very unsafe condition.

Mr. James Quinn is having metal siding put on his house.

Mr. Argue, Lang, attended Lindsay Fair, Saturday.

Mr. John Lang, Ex-M.P., who has been visiting at Mount Julian, has returned.

CALL FOR SEATS FOR "GINGERBREAD" MAN

The sale of seats for "The Gingerbread Man" which opened yesterday has been large, and a good house is assured. There are a number of good seats left, however. Those who have telephoned for seats are asked to call for them before to-morrow noon; they cannot be guaranteed delivery after that hour.

Credits The Report To "Dog-Day" Journalism, Does Port Hope Guide

It Refuses to Believe Despatch From Ottawa to the Effect That the Trenton Route Has Been Selected for the Canal—Now Awakes to the Fact That Cobourg Also Has Claims.

The Port Hope Guide is greatly agitated over the report from Ottawa to the effect that the Trenton route for the canal outlet has been practically decided upon. In a leaded article yesterday, that paper said in part:

"A despatch from Ottawa last week, announcing the early completion of the Trent Valley Canal terminals and predicting the selection of Trenton by the Government as the southern outlet into Lake Ontario, has been going the rounds of the Ontario press and furnishing material for criticism of the Dominion Government. A substantial appropriation at the approaching session for the early completion of the inlet and outlet of this important waterway was expected, and will be welcomed by all sections, but the selection of Trenton as the southern outlet we ascribe either to "dog-day" journalism or the inspiration of interested water-power owners along the Trent River. That such a despatch should have Government inspiration cannot for a moment be conceived, and lest any credence should be given to such an inconsistent report, and the public mind thereby become impressed with such a palpable sophistry as that Trenton should be chosen by the Government before the promised reports to Parliament are made on the Port Hope and Cobourg surveys, the citizens of Durham and West Northumberland alike are entitled to an official denial.

"Notwithstanding a breathing spell of a few months, taken in order to await the completion of the engineers' reports and a discussion of the same at the next session of the House, the canal outlet question is a live and most important issue to the people of these districts.

"While we believe that Port Hope possesses the most direct and feasible route and the one best adapted to serve the interests of Central Ontario, it cannot be overlooked that Cobourg also has advantages over Trenton, and therefore the interests of Cobourg are identical with ours in securing not only an exhaustive comparative survey in accordance with the details of our previous requests, but an impartial and just pronouncement on the result as well."

Bonnycastle Dale Makes Plea For The Wild Rice And Duck

He Wants the Water Level of Rice Lake Restored to That of Two Years Ago—Says High Water Has Destroyed the Rice—Wild Duck, Too Will Have to Seek Other Abodes—Appeals to Sportsmen of Surrounding Towns.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Replying to the article in your columns petitioning the Government to maintain a water level as high as has been maintained for the past two years, I beg to present the claims of the people living on the shores of Rice Lake.

In the time honoured name—Rice Lake—The Lake of the Wild Rice—famed alike in Indian legend and in the hearts of every sportsman that has visited this celebrated hunting, fishing and breeding ground. I appeal to these men—men with the love of the game—to assist us in preserving this spot so dear to their hearts, and so accessible and necessary for the youthful growing sportsmen.

There is not in this wide world a lake that nourishes on its bosom so luxurious a crop of that best of all food for the wild duck and the feathered game—the wild rice. In all this continent there is not a rice bed as great as the one that flings its green ribbons over a full five miles of lake and bay and island studded water. In these great bays the annually falling and sinking and decaying straw has formed a bed of rich black liquid mud fully fifteen feet deep and in many places a mile square. It has taken centuries to prepare and maintain this nourishing submarine soil. All over the lake these beds exist, filled each fall with the falling grain. In seasons of full harvest as many as fifty thousand bushels of grain stand in the waving golden tops in these blue waters. Then all the green woods are dotted with the white tents of the Mississaugas ready and waiting to gather their natural harvests. With apologies to Bryants' shade we might quote—

"These are the gardens of the waters;
These the untilled fields, boundless and beautiful."

Then in the warm september days all the wind rippled beds sent back the flashes of the wet paddles, as young man and old, buxom dame and wrinkled woman, strong armed boys and noisy laughing children gathered into the rude basswood and log canoes the rich black grain, storing up sufficient to feed them during the long cold winter months and selling

WHERE THE BLAME LIES.

In our news columns is reported an outrageous act of wanton mischief committed upon the property of Mr. H. LeBrun on Simcoe street, between Downie and Park streets. Mr. LeBrun has one of the most beautiful residence properties in the city, and he takes great pride in keeping it in fine condition. Its beauty is a source of pleasure to all citizens of good taste and refinement. This summer he expended about $500 in improving his premises, putting in substantial concrete balustraded stairs to overcome the slope of the fine terrace which fronts the property. He had the terrace re-sodded and placed in perfect shape. One would think that the public, who derive as much pleasure as the proprietor of a beauty spot like this, would respect it and help keep it in good condition. The act of vandalism referred to may have been committed by thoughtless youths, but that does not excuse it. That boys would commit such a depredation augurs a lack of good training —home training, church training, and school training as well. A good deal of the blame for the lack of proper respect for the property of others rests with the City Council. That body passed a bylaw for the protection of boulevards. But that bylaw is as dead as Pharaoh. From the moment it was passed it has been utterly disregarded, ignored and broken—a hundred times a day — and, so far as can be ascertained, not a single step has been taken to enforce the bylaw. Citizens have gone to large expense to put in shape and nicely sod the boulevards in front of their premises, and immediately they have been tramped upon by reckless gassers-by, with utter disregard for the rights of taxpayers and the beauty of our streets. The failure of the City Council to enforce the bylaw has led vandals to believe that they can destroy boulevards and other property with impunity. If the law had been enforced, if the guilty had been punished, the offenders and others inclined to act similarly would have had the fear of the law before their eyes, and, indirectly, a public sentiment in favour of the preservation of the beauty of our streets would be created. But when rascals can ignore public and private property and destroy the beautiful results of private enterprise and expenditure of money with impunity, with a certainty—judging by the past—that no punishment will follow, the authorities are encouraging vandalism and outraging the rights of the public and of private citizens.

NO PROTECTION.

The essence of the Whitney Government's policy in regard to the exploitation of power, was the supply of municipalities. That was the object of the Ross Government in dealing with the Ontario Power Company at Niagara Falls. Of the 125,000 extra horse power to be developed under the permission granted by that Government it was expressly provided that half of it should be available for the sole use of municipalities. Yet the Whitney Government cancelled this permission, so obviously in the interest of municipalities requiring power. In dealing with the Heal 's Falls' power, it does not appear that the development company, if it ever develops power, is placed under any obligation, to supply municipalities with power. The company may use it all itself if it so chooses, or sell it to private persons. The municipalities are not in a position to demand power as they were under the agreement made by the Ross Government with the Niagara Falls Company, which was especially bound to furnish 62,500 horse power for the use of municipalities exclusively. The Whitney Government's policy of public ownership, seems to consist of playing into the hands of a private corporation, which the associated circumstances require a good deal of optimism to take seriously. As the late more municipalities feared, and declared, there is no protection for municipalities in the Healey Falls' power lease.

ONLY A NAME.

Rev. J. T. Sutherland, of Toronto, in a farewell sermon, appealed eloquently for independence in politics. If Mr. Sutherland means absolute independence of party affiliations and party standards he is appealing for millennial conditions. There does not seem to be such a thing as political independence. We have had politicians and journals posing as independents, and it has yet to be demonstrated that any of them have lived up to their professions. They may have aimed to do so, but early political training and inherited principles have coloured their independence with a strong party tinge. The real independent must be sought in the party journal or the party citizen. If they are honest exponents of the principles they advocate, their attitude to the state and to morality will be such as to subserve the best interests of both. There is little in a name unless it stands for some definite principle, and no merit in a name unless it stands by principles.

it stands by principle.

THE WEST.

There is no limit to the breezy optimism and quenchless enterprise, of the West. In these respects, the press sets the pace, and it is a dizzy one. The most recent example is the Winnipeg Tribune, which has issued a splendid special number of seventy full size pages, abundantly illustrated and filled with interesting statistical and descriptive matter, illustrating the growth, and possibilities of Winnipeg, the key of the West as well as the possibilities and resources of the Great West itself. This number is a most important contribution to the literature of the West, and its wide circulation must have a decided influence in emphasing the undoubted desirability of the West for the making of not only happy homes, but much money. The Tribune is to be most heartily congratulated upon its phenomenally successful stroke of enterprise, which is not only a credit to itself, but a graphic demonstration of the potentialities of Winnipeg, and the West, which have made possible, and justified such enterprise.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Premier Whitney declares there is something wrong with the Provincial Board of Health. Given only one guess as to what Premier Whitney sees wrong with it, we boldly hazard, says the Toronto Star, the opinion that there may be a Grit or two on it.

While Canada may not perhaps be perceptibly becoming less addicted to the use of strong drink, yet statistics show that this is the case. For the last fiscal year there has been a decrease in the per capita consumption of strong drink, but an increase in the consumption of beer.

The third and latest report of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission condemns the Whitney Government in giving a lease of water power to the Northumberland and Durham Company. The report recommends that the Crown, otherwise the Government of the day, hold all the powers that have not been leased.

Hon. Frank Oliver's visit to Great Britain, is to secure for Canada British immigrants of a more desirable class than those from European countries — the immigrants sought are to be of the agricultural class. Hon. Mr. Oliver regards his work in the right spirit. He says that things are coming Canada's way, and his aim is to keep them so coming.

The professions of Mr. Whitney are again to be tested. He has laid down the rule that any employee of the Government taking part in elections shall be promptly dismissed. The Ottawa Free Press says Robert Birmingham, who was given a salary as an employee of the Ontario Colonization Department, is busy at work organizing in North Renfrew for the Tory candidate. Will Whitney, asks the Hamilton Times, apply the boot vigorously enough to land Bob in the open street? We doubt it.

Premier Whitney, the Hamilton Times says, now seeks to escape from his delemma in the power matter by alleging that "the Hydro-Electric Commission is, in fact, a sub-committee of the Cabinet," and that therefore in the Cabinet dealing with the Healey's Falls lease deal the Commission was not ignored. That sort of thing will not go down with anybody of average common sense who has read the statute. That act constitutes the Commission "a body corporate," clothes it with wide powers, and makes its acts valid, subject only to the approval of the Lieut.-Governor in Council. The silliness of the Premier's statement is made manifest by the act itself. What need would there be of a statute to empower a committee of the Cabinet to act subject to the approval of the Lieut.-Governor in Council?

"GREATER LOVE THAN THIS"

"Engineer Blaine called to his fireman to jump, but he himself stuck to his post and applied the brakes.

"The body of the engineer was frightfully mutilated, his hand was upon the brakes when released. The crew of the freight train jumped and and escaped with slight injuries.

"Seven Pullman sleepers were attached to the express, and, strangely, the passengers in the first sleepers scarcely felt the jar, while in the last two the passengers were thrown from their berths, but no one was injured."—From the official report of Friday's accident on the Grand Trunk. —Montreal Herald.

Social Evening At St. Andrews

The Young People Welcomed a Large Number of Their Friends.

The Young People's Society of St. Andrew's Church provided an interesting feature last night at their regular meeting in the form of a pie social and they welcomed many guests. The function was a delightful one in every respect and the young people of the church are certainly proficient in the art of providing pleasing social evenings for their friends.

A delightful concert of a literary and musical character formed the preliminary to the social event which brought to a close their pleasant evening. Rev. Mr. Potter occupied the chair and introduced the programme.

A piano solo by Miss Lila Tully opened the concert and formed a very enjoyable beginning, her execution of a difficult selection being particularly fine. This was followed by two vocal solos by Mr. W. Mackie and Mrs. (Dr.) Prust, both of which received well merited applause. Miss Cora Montgomery, a talented elocutionist was next on the programme and gave the selection "Mary Ann Dolinger." To a spirited encore she gave her version of "Sing a Song of Six Pence" in excellent style. Three vocal solos by Miss Bella King, Miss Eva Hunter and Miss May Long were warmly applauded and were interesting selections. The programme was fittingly concluded by another delightful piano solo by Miss Tully.

During the evening a competition on pie manufacturing was won by Mr. Harvey McCullough, whose reciept was the superior one. The ladies were not admitted to the contest. Altogether the affair was a charming one, and the large number present appeared to appreciate the evening's events to the fullest extent.

Saturday's Rain Helped Farmers

Fraserville Rejoices at the Rainfall—Other News.

Examiner Special

Fraserville, Sept. 24.—Mrs. M. E. Hutchinson and baby visited her brother, Mr. Robert Walter, near Lindsay, last week, and while there attended the Lindsay Fair, which was good considering the disagreeable weather.

Mr. William King leaves this week for his new home near Toronto. We wish him and his family much success.

Miss Viva Hutching is visiting her grand parents at Peterborough this week.

Mrs. Hopkins, who had her leg broken some time ago, is not so well.

We had a very heavy rain here on Saturday which no doubt will help the farmers to get through with their ploughing much easier.

Water Lily Has Very Busy Week

This Popular Boat Makes Many Trips This Week.

The Water Lily is having a busy time of it this week. She arrived last night at 6.30 from Hale's Bridge, with a load of wheat for the Central Milling Company. After unloading to-day the steamer will return to Rice Lake, where she will run a special trip from the lake and river ports to this city for the Fair. Upon her return to-morrow night she will take on a load of peas at Harwood for Messrs. Houdrey Brothers, and after discharging that load she will bring another load of wheat for the Milling Company, and fill in the busy week by making her regular Saturday trip to the city.

Bad Roads The Cause of Trouble

To the Auto Bus on Sunday in Otonabee.

In the article in yesterday's Exiner, relating to the episode of the auto bus on its trip to St. Mark's on Sunday, a somewhat erroneous impression was created.

It appears that the trouble was that the roads were in a bad condition, and with its 29 passengers the car was unable to plunge through the gravel and sand. In the same spot on Saturday a wagon load of cheese was stuck, and four teams of horses were required to pull it out. The auto bus is in good working order and was in commission again yesterday.

Causes Ottawa Man to Shoot His Wife and Mother-in-law—Fired Four Shots Into Them—Almost Tragic Issue of a Domestic Difference.

Causes Ottawa Man to Shoot His Wife and Mother-in-Law.

FIRED 4 SHOTS INTO THEM

Almost Tragic Issue of a Domestic Difference—The Injured Women Likely to Recover If Unforeseen Eventualities Do Not Occur—Man Was Formerly Clergyman and Later Keeper of Turkish Baths.

Ottawa, Sept. 25.—A mother and her daughter are lying in the Protestant Hospital in a precarious condition. They were shot late yesterday afternoon by the husband of the daughter.

Joseph C. Savignac has been running a Turkish bath establishment in Ottawa, but the profits have been for the most part spent in liquor. Finding, after the unproductive summer months, his resources at an end, he announced to his wife that he was going to Florida to claim the estate of his father, who was recently killed, and left no will.

The wife objected, and her parents refused to allow her to go. He insisted, however, that Mrs. Savignac accompany him and last night they were to travel.

Buys Revolver.
About midday Savignac left their pretty little home near Cummings' Bridge, and after visiting one or two saloons in Ottawa, purchased a revolver, 32 calibre, and returned to Cummings' Bridge. David Mitchell, his father-in-law, was there with a rig to take away some of the unsold furniture. Mrs. Mitchell was also there.

While he was upstairs, Mr. Mitchell says he heard sounds as of the breaking of furniture and he rushed down stairs to see what was wrong. In the dining room he saw his wife and daughter lying apparently dead and Savignac with a smoking revolver in his hand.

This Savignac pointed at Mitchell, saying: "I may as well finish the business." He pressed the trigger, but it snapped and Mitchell was saved.

Savignac produced another revolver, and leveled it at his father-in-law, but apparently changing his mind did not fire.

Feign Death to Escape.
Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. A. Savignac were not dead, but it seems had agreed to feign death to escape. Seeing her husband leave the room the latter made a dash for the cellar with her 20 months old child in her arms. Fearing that her husband would discover her there she scrambled through the narrow window and rushed down the roadway towards the toll house, where friends lived, but after proceeding a quarter of a mile she fell unconscious. She was shot through both shoulders just below the shoulder blades. A neighbor took care of her.

Mrs. Mitchell was also shot in two places, the left side was splintered and a bullet entered her back.

Murderer Escapes.
Meanwhile Savignac walked leisurely across the fields in an easterly direction and had at least half an hour's start of the police, who were summoned by telephone.

Both wounded women may recover One of Mrs. Savignac's lungs was slightly pierced, but the other wound is not so dangerous. One bullet was extracted.

Ordained to Ministry.
About fifteen years ago Savignac and Miss Mitchell were students at the French Presbyterian College, Pointe Aux Trembles. They became lovers. Savignac was a native of France and a Roman Catholic, but had become converted to Protestantism. Savignac went to the Presbyterian College in Montreal, and eventually was licensed to preach. He was ordained to the Presbyterian Church of Canada at Thurso, Que., a little later.

Eleven years ago the young couple were married in Ottawa, and with every bright prospect Rev. J. C. Savignac accepted a call to Lowell, Mass. There he ministered with success and conducted evangelistic missions among the French-speaking people of the state.

Drink Unsettled His Mind.
Apparently tiring of his work he came to Ottawa in 1901 and started literary work, contributing for the most part to American newspapers and periodicals. He was successful for a time, and, according to Mr. Mitchell, saved money. But the drink habit seemed to grow and his mind became unsettled. He removed to Florida, to which his father had migrated from France and became a Baptist preacher. Two years of this sufficed and he came back to Ottawa. There were no Turkish baths in the city so he established one and called himself "doctor." He flourished, but the demon drink had him in his grip and his profits were squandered.

Is Your Liver In Condition?

In a joking way you are sometimes asked "How is your liver?" And this question is more to the point than most people realize, for on the action of the liver, to a very large extent is the health dependent.

In this connection is explained the success and popularity of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They wake up the liver, cause a good flow of healthful bile into the intestines, thereby removing the cause of constipation and indigestion, headache and biliousness, backache and kidney trouble.

You cannot easily overestimate the importance of the liver in relation to health, nor can you put too great value on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a means of regulating the liver and overcoming the ills arising from torpidity of this organ.

The result of this treatment is a thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems, good digestion, pure blood, improved health and vigour. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 2

Big Land Deal Unearthed By The Commission

Millions For Great West Co. Advanced By I.O.F. Through Co.

HON. GEO. E. FOSTER'S ACTS

Oronhyatekha Says Former Finance Minister Disobeyed Orders by Interesting in Non-Dividend Bearing Stocks—Mr. Foster, Himself, Refuses to Produce Stock Book of Land Co. for Commission.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—When the Insurance Commission opened yesterday, with Dr. Oronhyatekha in the witness box, Mr. Shepley took up the asset of $20,000 held by the I. O. F. under the head of provincial. He claimed that this should be held by the Union Trust, but witness could give no further information than he had already given as the matter had been turned over by him to Messrs. Laidlaw and McGillivray. Questioned on the purchase of certain C. P. R. subsidy lands in connection with the Great West Land Co., he knew that the I. O. F. had loaned the company money, but that he had received no personal profit out of the transaction whatever. The interested parties were Messrs. Foster, Wilson and McGillivray. One hundred shares of Great West Land Co. in his name he had reconveyed to the order, but by mistake it had gotten into the hands of the syndicate. He knew nothing of another deal concerning 237 1-2 shares. About $953,000 of Union Trust funds were put up for the syndicate.

"It seems a pity that you were not looking after the Union Trust Co., too," observed Mr. Shepley.

"If I had been," said the S. C. R., "some things which were done might not have been done."

"Then you would not have approved of the handing over of corporation funds for private speculation?"

"No, I don't think I would."

"What other transaction had you in mind," asked Mr. Shepley, "when you said that some would not have gone through if you had been in direct charge of the Union Trust?"

"I don't see any objection to saying this: The directors had given certain orders not to do certain things, and I understood Mr. Foster had done them, in disobedience of orders."

"You have in mind the particular matter or matters as to which there was a breach of instructions?"

"Yes. It was buying stock which was non-dividend-bearing. I had very decided opinions in the matter, and had had orders given by the directors not to buy non-dividend-bearing stocks, and I understand that Mr. Foster did buy. I didn't like it."

"What stocks have you in mind?"

"Some railway stock. I don't know what. The reason I was hesitating was that Mr. Foster in a sense did perfectly right in buying them."

Various Land Deals.
The Supreme Chief Ranger's examination was concluded, and Hon. E. G. Stevenson of Detroit, supreme councillor, and the man who handles the legal business of the I. O. F. in the United States was called to the stand. Matters connected with the Union Trust were discussed.

"It was stated," said Mr. Stevenson, "that there was a proposition, involving Quebec timber. Three or four men were to take over 49 per cent. of the transaction, the Union Trust to advance the money on their covenants, and we four, Foster, McGillivray, Wilson and myself were to borrow the 51 per cent. also from the Union Trust. I said that I had no such funds, and I demurred at borrowing from the Trust company, on the ground that we were trustees. Then the proposition dropped."

Mr. Shepley went on to ask what the witness had to do with the second transfer. He explained, in reply, that when Dr. Oronhyatekha departed for India, in October last year, the expectation was to have lands turned over to the Settlers' Land Co. The Montague lands were part of the 123,000 acres which finally found their way into the Northwest Settlers' Land Co. After the doctor's departure, there was considerable agitation against subsidiary companies. Witness had reported that the Foresters might be laying themselves open to suspicion. A syndicate was formed, consisting of Messrs. (Dr.) Montague, Kitchen, Jackson, Gauld, Biggar and John Montague. They were to purchase the lands at $6.75 an acre, and to bear all the expense, giving their notes for $10,000. They went on, and became the Settlers' Land Co. The Union Trust subscriptions were cancelled, and they became subscribers to $100,000, provided by the trust lending them $100,000 on their note, secured by their stock.

The final result was a net profit of $118,000 for the Union Trust.

Too Many Eggs.
The original intention of the Northwest purchases was to assist members of the order to get a fair start there, with a chance to finally buy. "That," said the witness, "had to be abandoned when we took the back track."

"When you awoke to your land policy in the Northwest, what were your interests there?"

"Four hundred thousand acres, ultimately involving two million dollars."

"How did that strike you as the policy of a trust company?"

"I thought it was too many eggs in one basket."

The witness was asked about the Northwest Land Co., of which he was aware first in 1904. He told of an intricate deal to which objection was finally taken, as he felt that money advanced by the Union Trust was not sufficiently secured. In the fall of 1905 stock taken by the Union Trust Co. was cancelled, and redrawn, and a mortgage made covering advances made, and those subsequently required, thus giving the trust a first claim.

Mr. Stevenson gave further evidence. "Pope and Fowler," he said, "had a contract right to purchase 200,000 acres in the west at $3.50 per acre. They turned that over to a syndicate on a $4.50 basis."

"The syndicate being Foster, McGillivray, and Wilson?"

"Yes."

Increase in Values.
"This syndicate, in turning the property over to the Great West, added another fifty cents on the acre. For their $200,000 profit Pope and Fowler, or whoever they represented, got $150,000 cash and $50,000 Great West Land Co. stock. When the fifty cents extra was allowed the syndicate, they got $65,000 stock instead of $50,000. That left $35,000 representing the increased price. Of that 237 1-2 shares were transferred to the company and 100 to Dr. Oronhyatekha. I understood it to be the bonus of the Union Trust Co. for undertaking the transaction. They got their money back, interest and profit, in the ratio of 237 1-2 to 1,500 for financing it."

"When the transaction took the form of a mortgage, what happened?"

"It was turned back to the syndicate. I am down on the minutes as fathering the resolution. I don't accuse anyone of falsifying anything, but if I made such a resolution, I never intended it."

"Then Messrs. Foster, McGillivray and Wilson were really the Great West Land Co.?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"I'm not certain of that. I was told in a very indirect way that Mr. Wilson had purchased nearly all the stock in the company."

"Then you were not aware of the relationship of these three gentlemen to the Great West Co. as managers or controlling directors?"

Mr. Stevenson was not.

"I know, however, that Messrs. Foster, McGillivray, Wilson and Chancellor Boyd were directors of the Great West Co., and also of the Union Trust Co."

"And the money for the Great West Co. was all advanced from the Union Trust Co.?"

"Every dollar of it."

"Then, whatever was acquired by the company was due to the use of the funds of the Union Trust Co.?"

"Yes."

Mr. Foster Takes the Stand.
When the examination resumed Mr. Shepley read the letter to Mr. Wilson, wherein Dr. Oronhyatekha protested that the 100 shares of stock in the Great West Land Co., which he had intended to transfer to the Union Trust Co. had in realization been transferred to the group in the company that borrowed money from the I. O. F. to engage in the speculation.

At this juncture, after 15 minutes' delay, Hon. George E. Foster took the witness stand.

From June, 1901, to May, 1906, witness was manager of the Union Trust Co. Mr. Foster had no written agreement with the company, except a verbal contract with Mr. McGillivray, and Dr. Oronhyatekha. Witness was to receive $5,000 per year for five years. He was also to have freedom with his public work in politics and other business that he was in previous to that.

Witness is the present secretary of the Great West Land Co. He is also a director of that company. He had the custody of the books of the company and an agreement between the C. P. R. and Pope & Fowler, dated April 24, 1902, also an agreement of June 24, 1902, with the Town and Country Sites Co., Limited, and [illegible] Co.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 25.—The possibility of Hearst's being nominated at the Buffalo convention to-morrow, caused quite a break in stocks to-day. Advices from there stated that sentiment in his favour was growing rapidly and holders of stocks became frightened and threw them overboard. B.R.T. and Con. Gas broke early and after Can. Pac. had been put up to 180 1-2, the others commenced to weaken slowly at first, but after noon the decline became faster and continued right up to the close which was near the low of the day and very weak. The dividend on Anaconda was increased 12 1-2 cents per share to-day, but had no effect on the Coppers.

Exhibition Will Be Best In History

Miss Clementi, Miss Rush, Miss Banks Clementi, Miss Anderson, Miss Pearce, Mrs. Sherwood, Mrs. Poole, Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot, Miss Bradburn, Miss Hugel, Mrs. R. M. Donnistoun, Miss Halliday. It is to be hoped that visitors will encourage the fair and the King's Daughters by patronizing the tent.

The Midway.
The midway was beginning to spring up when the reporter arrived on the scene. Already there were in sight a pair of African dodgers, an Egyptian fortune-teller, a gentleman with a ball-throwing-for-jewellery apparatus, and other affairs of that ilk. Booths for the sale of soft drinks, etc., are being erected.

Some Fine Horses.
Some very fine entries have been made in the cattle and horses' classes, and those interested in these classes would do well to pay them a visit. Many fine horses are on hand and it is expected that entries in the roadster class will be very numerous. The sheep and swine exhibits are also worthy of high praise.

J. J. Turner and Sons are represented by a house tent of most modern design, which will attract a lot of attention to-morrow. It is constructed with windows and doors, and is as complete as a cottage. Another tent exhibited by the same firm weighs only eight pounds. This class is being sold to the Northwest Mounted Police.

To-morrow's Programme.
Indications point to the biggest crowd on record being on the grounds to-morrow. There will be reduced rates on all railways and steamboats, and all roads will lead to Peterborough to-morrow. The school children will have a holiday and their presence will help to swell the crowd, which will be up to record proportions.

The Races.
There will be plenty of amusement for everyone to-morrow. The races should furnish some good sport. The track is in splendid condition, and some very speedy horses are on hand for the events. Following is the programme:

Trot or pace, free for all — Prize $100; 5 to enter, 4 to start. One mile heats, 3 in 5.

Trot or pace — 2.24 class. Purse $100, 5 to enter, 4 to start. 1-2 mile heats, 3 in 5.

Trot or pace, 2.30 class. Purse $100. 5 to enter 4 to start. 1-2 mile heats, 3 in 5.

Another big attraction will be a dog race for which Mr. Yelland has donated prizes of $3, $2 and $1.

The full band of the 57th Batt. will be on hand for the occasion, an attraction that will no doubt be appreciated.

For the lovers of football the games for the Hall cup will furnish great excitement.

Four teams are entered, the Quakers, Lakeburst, Bridgenorth, and the Dominion Construction Company's team. They will provide some great football and the games will be watched by big crowds.

Every citizen of Peterborough who can possibly attend the Fair to-morrow should do so and help to make it the record exhibition in the history of Peterborough.

Your sight tells you where you are. The vision cannot be overtaxed with safety. All eyes require spectacles sooner or later, and a large majority of those possessing sight would improve what they have if they used glasses. Generally speaking unless the eyes are strengthened by glasses, they are apt to become weakened and any defects that exist are certain to increase by neglect. Bears Plentiful In The North Country

Mr. Geo. Cochrane Reports That Animals Are Gradually Coming Further South—He Tells a Bear Story—Some Other Interesting News of the Northern Part of the County.

Mr. George Cochrane, High County Constable, returned last night, after a trip to Cavendish. He was accompanied by a number of men who were there on similar business to his own. He tells a story of a hunt of a hunt for a "bear," which turned out to be a harmless porcupine. They got the latter treed, but no one cared to venture any nearer than the foot of the tree in which he had taken refuge. The sport was good, while it lasted, though. It is reported that the prospects for hunting this fall are not very bright. Deer tracks are scarce, the impression being that there are very few in the country this year — at any rate in the section traversed by Mr. Cochrane and his party. The woods are dry, and to this fact may be attributed, to a certain extent the reported scarcity of game.

Bears, however, are more plentiful, and the party saw a good many tracks but outside of the one case of mistaken identify, there were no live specimens of bruin to be seen. It appears that year by year the bears are coming farther south, the nuts and berries which constitute their subsistence, being scarcer in the north country, and Mr. Cochrane reports that within a few years it will only be necessary to go to the edge of the town to get all the bear's meat desired.

An American party has been camped at Bird Lake for ten days, fishing and hunting, but unfortunately the fishing is not particularly good, the only fish available being the trout. Mrs. Wm. Irwin of Sandy Lake, is chaperone of the party.

Mr. Cochrane states that every day loads of men are arriving for the Cavendish Lumber Company, and that the intentions evidently is to carry on the operations on a very extensive scale this year.

The roads between here and Cavendish are in first class condition, and travel to the north is much more comfortable by reason of that fact.

Young People Were Pleasantly Entertained

Charlotte Street Epworth League Gave Enjoyable Social Last Night—Objects of the Society Were Explained—The Programme.

That the Epworth League of the Charlotte street church is a live organization was demonstrated to the satisfaction of anyone who had any doubts on that score last night, when at the invitation of the Social Committee about two hundred young people of the congregation gathered in the Sunday School room to participate in a social under its auspices. It was an enjoyable function, in every sense of the word, and the object which the Committee had in view, that of making the young people of the church better acquainted, and interesting them in the work of the organization should be, and no doubt was, fully met.

The Committee in charge used excellent judgment in arranging the programme, which was a particularly bright and a decidedly interesting one. As the guests entered the doors they were given slips of paper on which were written portions of hymns, the duty of the receipient being to find the person with a corresponding portion. This had the effect of getting everybody acquainted with everyone else. At the conclusion of this exercise a good programme of musical numbers was given, opened by a selection from the orchestra. The male chorus, composed of a number of the musically inclined members of the League gave two numbers, which were much appreciated. Miss Manning rendered a vocal solo, eliciting evidence of the fact that her efforts met with the approval of the audience. A piano solo by Miss Sophia Elliott and a vocal solo by Miss Verna Lee were well received and the young entertainers had to respond to encores demanded.

The President, Mr. H. A. Latimer, on behalf of the League, addressed a few words of welcome to those present and extended a warm invitation to the young people to become identified with the organization. In a few words he explained the objects of the society, the most important of which, he said was the development of the spiritual, the social side being incidental to the more essential features of the work.

Mr. A. S. Armstrong occupied the position of chairman, performing those duties with credit.

At the close of the programme refreshments were served, and a short time in social intercourse enjoyed.

A Number Of Cases At This Morning's Court

Trouble Over a Number of Cows That Enjoyed a Feast—Two Men Imbibed Too Freely.

Joseph Dipipro, the Italian who was locked up yesterday for being drunk in a public place appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning. He is employed on the C.P.R. at Burketon, and while on a visit to the city imbibed too freely of the cure-dispelling liquid. He was not aware of the fact that the public highways were not resting places for the hopelessly drunk. Owing to his ignorance of the laws the Magistrate allowed him to go free. An interpreter had to be employed to explain matters.

Mr. Geo. Barton, of Concession street, was the complainant in a case against Mr. Adam Cox. From the evidence it appears that a number of cows had a nocturnal feast in Mr. Barton's garden and from the latter's evidence they had a good time. The menu was certainly an extensive and pleasing one. There were beets a la terre, green cabbage, beans in the pod, tomatoes rouges and vertes, yellow pumpkin and unsquashed squash, and after the banquet the cows were unable to leave the spot, spending the remainder of the night on the scene of their festival.

Pedestrians on their way to the lift lock through Mr. Cox's lane, leave the gate open and thus the cows had their freedom.

The evidence as to whether the cows were in Mr. Barton's garden all night or not was rather conflicting. Mr. David O'Connell swore that he saw the cows at intervals between 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock on the road in front of the plaintiff's garden.

Magistrate Dumble thought that Cox should take greater precautions to keep the gate in question locked and fined him $5 and $2.60 costs.

Mr. Cox paid the fine.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared on behalf of Mr. Cox.

A man named McCoy was charged with being drunk in a public place on the 21st of September. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 to be paid in ten days or the usual number of days in gaol.

BIG DEMAND FOR NEW SCALE WILLIAMS PIANOS

Mr. M. Sheldrick, the District Superintendent and wholesale representative, who has charge of the agencies for Central Ontario for the New Scale Williams Pianos, arrived on the C.P.R. at 11.30 yesterday from the head offices of the company. He was all smiles and his face really expressed that satisfied soul within, that nothing but success can really bring. When asked why he looked so happy he said it was easy to explain. He said that if a man is selling the goods that his customers are wanting there is no reason why he should not look happy. He told The Examiner that he had sold the Greene Music Company of Peterborough a carload of New Scale Williams Pianos, fourteen pianos in all. This, he states, is the largest order ever given at one time in Peterborough by any one firm. It was hard to credit this statement, but at 3 p.m. there were seven city drays arrived at the G.T.R. freight yards to unload and deliver those beautiful instruments to the Greene Music Company's warerooms—the home of—the New Scale Williams Pianos for Peterborough—where those beauties of art, made in Canada, may be seen at any time. Mr. Greene has only had the agency about ten months, and has bought from the New Scale Williams Company during that time three times the number he had anticipated he could sell in so short a time. Mr. Greene says that he has tried to sell other makes of pianos since he ordered his first consignment of New Scale, and, in fact, the other pianos by the different companies, that he bought, still stand on his floor, and while customers come to his warerooms to see the different makes of pianos, it is always a Williams New Scale that his customers prefer. So it is easy to see why the Greene Music Company order from the Williams Company at Oshawa in so large quantities at a time. Mr. Sheldrick tells The Examiner that owing to the great demand on his company, they are contemplating enlarging the capacity of the present factory at Oshawa in order to meet the demands for the New Scale Williams Pianos. The present factory at Oshawa has seven and a half acres of floor space, and is one of the largest factories in Canada, and yet they intend to enlarge this spacious plant. Mr. Sheldrick intends remaining in Peterborough until after the Peterborough Fair, and will be at the Exhibition to explain what the New Scale means, and intending buyers should not miss seeing those New Scale Williams Pianos at the Peterborough Fair. Mr. Greene says the New Scale Williams Pianos are easy to sell, especially to lovers and judges of tone quality. To examine these pianos really is all that is necessary to convince the greatest critics.

The Examiner wishes the Greene Music Company the success they so really deserve, and congratulates the Williams Piano Company of Oshawa in securing a capable representative for Peterborough. Mr. Greene's motto is: "The best is always the cheapest, and never too good."

OBITUARY

MICHAEL GLEASON.

The Markham Sun of last week contains the notice of the death of the late Michael Gleason of that place, aged 53 years. Deceased was a very popular resident of Markham, but had been in poor health for some months. Mr. Dennis Gleason, 72 Lake street, foreman of the Lock Works in this city, is a brother. His many friends extend heartfelt sympathy in the loss he has sustained, more especially as it follows so closely on the death of his little son a couple of weeks ago.

Rev. Mr. Armitage Liked In Picton

His Church Work There Has Been Successful.

The many friends of Rev. W. L. Armitage, Picton, will be glad to hear of the success that has followed him in his work.

On all sides marks of progress are noticeable. About seventy families, who, in years gone by, had disconnected themselves with the Church of England in Picton, have returned to the parish church. The congregation had the vicarage fitted up and renovated at an expense of nearly $2000. Mr. Armitage is a member of the Board of Education, and exerts a great influence in civic affairs. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt was in Picton last week and preached at the Harvest Festival held in the church of which Rev. Mr. Armitage is Vicar. The harvest services were very largel yattended and were successful.

Encouraging Report Of Woman's Art Association

Annual Meeting of Peterborough Branch Held Last Night—Resignation of Miss Bertram, Past President—Officers Elected for Coming Year.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Woman's Art Association was held last night in the Y.W.C.A. parlour The interest manifested was extremely encouraging, though the attendance was not large

After the reading and adoption of the minutes of the previous annual meeting, the secretary read the annual report, which was as follows:—

The Annual Report of the Peterborough Branch of the Woman's Art Association of Canada:—

It is gratifying to be able to state at our second annual meeting that we have had a successful year. Indeed in view of the fact that the fees were allowed to overlap for a year and a half and that there is still a balance in the Bank to the credit of the Association, we feel that, financially at least, it has exceeded expectations.

There have been six Executive Committee meetings and two regular meetings this year.

Three were held at 627 George street where a studio had been rented as had been directed by the Executive Committee. On account of the distance from town and because our membership was small, it was not thought advisable to retain the studio. The magazine "International Studio" was subscribed for with a view to placing it on the studio table.

In October Mr. Burnham very kindly delivered his interesting and instructive lecture upon "North American Indian Women" for the benefit of the Association.

An Exhibition of local work including paintings, wood carving, ceramics and also French, Canadian homespuns and Doukhobour embroidery was held early in December. Through the kindness of Mrs. W. H. Moore, the Association was given the use of rooms on Brock street, and the location and time as well as the quality of the work combined to make a most successful exhibition.

The annual spring exhibition of Toronto and the Branch Associations was held during Easter Week.

This exhibition takes place in Toronto in February of each year and is then sent in sequence to different parts of the Dominion, as mapped out by the Head Association, so that we have no option as to the time of holding it.

Unfortunately it came to us very late this year. We felt that earlier in the season there would have been fewer counter attractions. The Private View held on Easter Monday night was well attended. Tea was served and an enjoyable evening was spent. Mrs. Glidden having kindly provided music for the occasion. The quality of the work on the whole was in advance of last year.

Through the kindness of the ladies tea was provided each afternoon and this added greatly to the pleasure and success of the Exhibition.

Early in May the Peterborough Branch received communications from Montreal and Toronto with regard to the new charter at that time under consideration in the Dominion House and a meeting was held at which it was decided to uphold the Head Association and to give the Executive Committee power to arrange all the details of the new charter.

Our membership at the present time is sixty-nine honorary members and sixteen active or working members.

AMY K. BENNET,
Sec. P. B. W. A. A.

Miss Bertram then made some further explanation with regard to the charter and it was agreed to ratify the motion which had been passed at a former meeting and continue to uphold the Head Association in Toronto, leaving the arrangement of the details of the new charter in their hands.

Miss Hatton, the treasurer read a report which stated that the finances of the Association were in a most satisfactory condition. The revenue of the Association which is derived from fees, percentage on sales, door receipts and donations, amounted to $107.80. Expenses consisting of rent for studio, hall for lecture and exhibitions, express charges, fuel, light, etc., amounted to $97.68, leaving a balance in the bank of $10.12.

After the adoption of these reports Miss Bertram, much to the regret of the members, announced her resignation of the office of President on account of expected removal from town.

In view of this plans for the future were discussed and the following election of officers resulted:—

Hon. President, W. A. A. of Canada—Her Excellency the Countess Grey.
Hon. President of Branch — Mrs. Dignam.
President—Miss Hutton.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Hughes Charles.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. J. R. Stratton.
Secretary—Miss Amy K. Bennat.
Assistant Secretary — Miss O. K. Braiburn.
Treasurer—Miss Ackerman.

The following convenors of Committees were appointed:—

Lecture—Mrs. Campbell.
Finance—Mrs. Dunsford.
Social—Mrs. Dennistoun.
Home Industries—Miss J. Hamilton.
Exhibition—Mrs. Charles.
Amateur Photography—Miss Halliday.
Archievist—Mrs. Palmer.

Honourary members, representatives having voting powers, were chosen as follows:—

Mrs. Burnett, Mrs. A. H. Stratton, Miss Dobie, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. Mulholland, Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, Mrs R. S. Davidson.

It was moved by Mrs. J. R. Stratton, seconded by Miss Bennet, that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered the past President, Miss Bertram, for her faithful and enthusiastic assistance since the organization of this Association.

The meeting then adjourned.

8 Doctors and 17 Kinds Of Medicine Failed

Bileans Then Cured Her.

Canadians suffer more from biliousness, headache, indigestion, constipation and liver troubles than any other people. For these ailments, Bileans, the great vegetable remedy beats all other known preparations. Bileans were recently tested in a recent Norfolk case. The subject was Mrs. James Dixon of Croatwight. This is what she says: "All my life I had suffered from biliousness, headache and indigestion. I frequently had a pain at my heart and palpitation. A dryness used to come in my throat at night and almost choke me; my husband dared not smoke in the house as the smoke stifled me.

"Almost every day I was sick, bile was continuously coming up. All I ate disagreed with me, and I had very bad headaches. Eight different doctors have attended me, and, apart from what they gave me, I tried seventeen different patent medicines. The medicines brought no relief and the doctors said they could do me little good, as my weakness was constitutional. Yet I am well now, free from pain, at last — thanks entirely to coming to know about Bileans. My daughter persuaded me to commence taking them and I underwent a thorough course. I improved after the first few doses, and gradually but surely they made this great change in me, and restored me to perfect health. I am never without them in the house now."

If you suffer from headache, indigestion, wind, biliousness, summer-end fag, debility, blood impurities, liver complaints, piles, or any stomach or intestinal disorder, you will find a cure in Bileans. Of all druggists at 50 cents a box; or from the Bilean Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Six boxes for $2.50.

The Little Lamb Has Disappeared

Was Taken From the Market Last Night.

The little lamb which was left on the market last Saturday, mysteriously disappeared last night, no one knows where. It was there when Mr. Fowler the market clerk left for home last night, but this morning was gone. The conjecture is that some person with a longing for mutton, had noticed the remarks about the woolly fellow in the press and had seized the first opportunity of landing the prize.

The firemen on Sunday took pity on the lonely animal and fed and watered it. The market clerk also assisted yesterday in maintaining its life so that it was not suffering much from starvation.

Attempted Suicide By Drinking A Bottle Of Pain Killer

John McCoy Just Out Of Jail Almost Ends His Life---Was Arrested in Time by P. C. Meharry--Found Near Riverside Park.

With twenty-five cents worth of Pain Killer in his stomach, John McCoy was arrested about noon to-day by P. C. Meharry.

McCoy had just spent a few days on the hill for being drunk last week, and appeared in the Police Court this morning for sentence, the outcome of which appears in another column.

On gaining his liberty he immediately purchased a twenty-five bottle of Hirst's Pain Killer, and proceeded to the Riverside Park East City, to dispose of it.. P. C. Meharry shortly afterwards arrived on the scene, and discovered that only a few spoonsful of the liquid remained in the bottle. When found by the officer he was scarcely able to stand up, and was brought to the police station, where he now is.

His appearance since morning has greatly changed, many of his friends not knowning he was the same person who was before the Magistrate but a few hours before. His countenance had changed to a bluish colour and his whole frame shook.

He stated to the Examiner this afternoon that he bought the medicine to apply to a rheumatic knee, which had troubled him for several years. Inwardly, he said, he felt all right although his pale, wan features bespoke a different story.

There is scarcely any doubt that he attempted suicide, although his assertions were contrary to this, and had not the Pain Killer ben rejected by his stomach shortly after taking his life would have been endangered.

Extensive Addition To The Southern Hotel

Addition Costing $5,000 to be Erected--Building and Stable To be Renovated--Bar Opens on Saturday.

In yesterday's issue of The Examiner reference was made to the proposed enlargement and renovation of the Southern Hotel. To-day Mr. Nixon, the new proprietor, was seen by an Examiner representative, who learned that plans for a very extensive addition were being drawn up by Architect Blackwell, to cost in the neighbourhood of $5,000.

Mr. Nixon has now begun to paper and paint the whole house. A new bar will immediately be erected, which will be open on Saturday next providing the License Commissioners agree to this.

The stables and sheds will also be renovated in modern style.

Mr. Nixon has kept hotel in Little Current, Omemee and Lindsay, and is well known in Peterborough, as well as in the above-mentioned places, as a strict hotelman and one who will meet the demands of the general public satisfactorily.

Dr. Pyne's Little Axe Chops Off Another Head

Services of Dr. "Perry" Goldsmith, of Belleville, Dispensed With--Physicinn at the Institution for Deaf and Dumb --No Reason Assigned for Dismissal--Dr. Goldsmith Will Demand Investigation.

Belleville, Sept. 24.—Once more Premier Whitney's axe has fallen in this city, this time the victim being Dr. P. D. Goldsmith, for many years Government physician at the Deaf and Dumb Institution. He received official notice from Dr. Pyne on Saturday, saying his services would be no longer required. Dr. Goldsmith says he will refuse to resign, and will demand an investigation. No reason was assigned for his dismissal. Dr. Goldsmith never took part in politics, and no one appeared more surprised at the news than several leaders of the Conservative party here. His successor has not yet been appointed, but it is said Dr. Boyce stands next in line for appointment to the position. Dr. Goldsmith is father of Dr. Perry Goldsmith of Toronto.

Dr. Goldsmith and his father are both well known in Peterborough, where he has many friends who will be indignant at the treatment which has been accorded him.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

ROSELLE KNOTT.

Owing to the fact that Miss Roselle Knott's extended tour of last season to fifty-one weeks in "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and "Cousin Kate," it was necessary for her to go direct to New York to begin preparations for the new and elaborate production of "The Duchess of Devonshire," which character she will create this season in this historical drama.

The many friends of Miss Knott will have an opportunity of seeing her, supported by an all-star cast, early in the season at the Grand.

Miss Knott opens her season on October 8, playing in Montreal at His Majesty's Theatre the week of October 15, and the Princess Theatre, Toronto, the following week. Her supporting company will have a metropolitan cast, in which no changes will be made for the New York run. Among the people now engaged are Andrew Robson, Franklin Roberts, Harry Mills, Agnes Findlay and other well-known New York players.

Andrew Robson (Arobie Simpson) plays the part of Charles James Fox.

THE SMART SET.

Nothing more catchy than the music of "The Smart Set," it is claimed, has been heard this season. This three act comedy of "The Black Politician," will be sent by the proprietor, manager and producer, to the Grand opera house on Friday, September 28t." S. H. Dudley, Hodges and Launchmere, Salem T. Whitney and William Burris, are among the headliners of the caste, which is fifty strong and composed of exceedingly clever artists. To say that this coloured organization will render a good account of itself would be putting the matter mildly, for the principals are known to be "the hottest" propositions in the "coon show business." This opens a arm prospect for spectators. The plan opens on Wednesday morning at ten a.m.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

The following voluntary testimonial to the merits of the Johnston Consumption Cure, is interesting to those in need of a very superior remedy of this kind:

I caught a cold last October. It settled on my chest and throat. I had a terrible cough. I tried three doctors and several kinds of patent medicines, and nothing appeared to help me. A friend of mine advised me to try your medicine. I sent for a bottle and before it was half used my cough was better, and I could sleep all night. In my estimation your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I have recommended your medicine to a few of my friends, and as far as I can find out, it has done the same for them as for me. Now, dear sir, you can use this in any way you see fit, for I think it is a medicine that all should know about.

Respectfully yours,

Mr. Maxwell Cameron, of this city, leaves for Toronto to-morrow morning, where he will attend the School of Practical Science. His many boy friends wish him every success.

The many friends of Mr. A. A. Goodfellow, of Otonabee, will regret to learn that he is seriously ill with typhoid fever in Prince Albert, Sask., where he is visiting his cousin, Mr. R. T. Goodfellow.

Invitations are out for the marriage on Wednesday, Oct. 23rd, of Miss Louise Henderson, daughter of Mr. Chas. F. Henderson, Lindsay, formerly of Peterborough, to Mr. Fred J. Buller, of Toronto.—Toronto Globe.

The Live Stock Receipts Large

1247 Cattle at the Union Stock Yards—The Prices.

The receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards, Toronto, yesterday were 61 cars, consisting of 1247 cattle, 54 sheep, 6 calves.

The quality of fat cattle was fair; trade was good. Export prices ranged from $4.25 to $4.75, the bulk selling at $4.40 to $4.60. Export bulls sold at $3.50 to $4.75. Butchers' prices for picked lots of choice ranged from $4.40 to $4.60; good from $4.00 to $4.30; medium $3.60 to $3.90; common $3.25 to $3.50; butcher cows $2.50 to $3.50; canners $1.25 to $2.00. Veal calves sold at $5.00 to $6.50 per 100 lbs.; milch cows and springers at $25.00 to $57.00. Sheep and lambs.—Export ewes from $4.00 to $4.40; bucks $3.25 to $3.75; spring lambs at $5.00 to $5.60. Hogs.—Selects sold at $6.40; light $6.15.

Cough Lasted 3 Months.

"I was taken with a severe cough which lasted for three months, and though I tried all sorts of medicines they failed to do me any good. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and I was completely cured by two bottles." — Miss Ada O'Brien, Cape Cove, Gaspe Co., Quebec.

Sherbrooke Street People Want Sewer At Once

Deputation Waited Upon Board of Works Last Night--Several Men With Grievances Were Before the Board.

It was deputation night at the Board of Works meeting last night, when the committee heard a deputation of Sherbrooke street residents, as well as several other citizens who waited upon them.

The Sherbrooke street deputation, which included Messrs. A. H. Webb, Brown, James and others, wanted a sewer built on their street, from Park street to the boundary.

They had waited upon the council some time ago in reference to the matter, and as they had not heard anything more about it, they were on hand last night to urge that the sewer be built as soon as possible.

Mr. A. H. Webb said that they had waited six weeks to see the advertisement for the sewer to be built. The sewer was needed. Some of the houses had two feet of water in their cellars yesterday. He hoped the council would see their way clear to do something. They had not found any person opposed to the sewer and there would be no obstacle in the way.

Mr. Brown also spoke in favour of the sewer.

Chairman Hicks said that there was no opposition on the part of the council to the sewer. It was necessary that it should be advertised at once if it were to be built this fall, as it would have to be advertised for six weeks.

Ald. Wilson asked concerning the surface water which ran down the street in the spring.

Mr. Webb said that the sewer would be a shallow one. He did not think the surface water would cause any trouble.

Ald. McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the sewer on Sherbrooke street, between Park and the boundary, be advertised at once. —Carried.

A Man With a Greivance.

Mr. Henry Stewart, Reid street, was the next man with a grievance for the committee to hear. He wanted a sidewalk on the southwest corner of Reid and London streets, where at present there is not a sidewalk on either street. He stated that he had waited upon the council a year ago, and had not yet got his sidewalk; he was very anxious to see it built as soon as possible. He wanted the pavement built outside the tree line.

City Engineer Hay thought that it should be inside the tree line.

The members of the committee all expressed the opinion that Mr. Stewart should be accommodated with a pavement as soon as possible.

It was moved by Ald. Elliott, seconded by Ald. Adams, that a sidewalk be built at once on London street and, if possible, on Reid street, the location to be left to the Engineer.

Mr. R. J. Wolstenholm asked for a sidewalk on Lafeyette avenue. He would be satisfied with a temporary one if the pavement was not to be laid there.

On motion of Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Wilson, the committee decided to continue the wooden walk as far as Chamberlen street.

Blue Clay For Cement Company

900 Cars Have Yet To Be Hauled From Lily Lake.

The extensive work carried on by the Lakefield Cement Company, is necessitating a large supply of blue clay from Lily Lake. During the past week the Grand Trunk has drawn 24 cars of the clay every day, and have yet 900 cars to take to Lakefield this season.

This statement gives a brief idea of what the big concern to the north is doing, and the extensiveness of the trade they are carrying on in cement.

Educational Rally To-night

An Interesting Evening Promised at Y. W. C. A.

A literary meeting in connection with the Epworth League of the George street Methodist church, was held in the Sunday school room last evening. Miss Mabel Crothers read an interesting paper on Foreign Missions, and Miss Pearl Hardill read an article on the same subject. Needless to say, the topic of the evening was well discussed, and impressed the audience very much. A short musical programme was rendered during the evening.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

MORE HOCKEY GOSSIP ABOUT KENORA'S TEAM

Winnipeg Tribune:—Interesting hockey rumors still emanate from Kenora as a result of their loss of Griffis and their prospects of lifting the Stanley mug from the Montreal Wanderers. The latest is that Billy Breene, Percy Browne, and Billy Kean of the Winnipegs are the sought-after players to fill in the vacancies on the Thistle septette. There is no doubt but with these players the Thistles would be practically invincible, but getting them to Kenora is another question. Billy Breen, will of course, be back with the Winnipegs again, and its almost a sure thing if Percy Browne returns from Saskatoon he will be with his old love once more.

In the case of Kean, however, things are not so certain. If the Thistles make a trip to Montreal immediately after New Years, Billy will likely go down with them, but a trip delayed so near the end of the season will find Kean with the Winnipegs again, and thus ineligible.

Officials For Saturday's Game

Locals Want Messrs. Hayes and Robbins.

Secretary McDonough of the local club has received a letter from J. B. Hay, secretary of the O.R.F.U., suggesting that Rev. A. T. Barr, of Toronto, and Secretary Dumoulin, of Hamilton, should be the officials for the game with the Vics on Saturday. Secretary McDonough has informed the O.R.F.U. that while the locals are not opposed to Rev. Mr. Barr, they would prefer not to have Dumoulin and suggested that Messrs. Hayes and Roberts should be the officials.

Will Practice In The Rink To-night

All Seniors are Asked to be On Hand.

The seniors will practice to-night in the Brock street rink, when it is expected that all players will be out in uniform. There will be no practice to-morrow night on account of the presentation of "The Ginger Bread Man" and it is therefore important that players should be on hand to-night. There is a lot of work to be done before Saturday.

Peterboro' Team Had Great Work-out

Nearly All the Seniors Were Out Last Night.

The Peterborough team had a rattling practice in the Brock street rink last night, and are fast rounding into shape for Saturday's game with the Vics. Nearly all the seniors were out in uniform and displayed splendid form. Arthur Poe coached the team, drilling them in new signals and plays which should make the other teams wake up. About a hundred enthusiasts watched the practice, a favourable augury of the interest that will be taken in the team this year.

Construction Co's. Team Practised

Will Be In Good Shape for Games To-morrow.

The D. E. and Construction Company's team had a good practice last night in preparation for their games at the Peterborough Industrial to-morrow. Fourteen men were out and showed up well. Although the team is severely handicapped by lack of practice they hope to make a good showing. Bassett and Harding will make an exceptionally fast wing. Boucher, Weeks and Walsh also showed up prominently. The team will be selected from Harrison, Skinner, Simpkins, Baxter Weeks, Paddock, Bassett, Harding, Morrison, Walsh, Matthews, E. Mcirison, Taylor,

RUGBY.

The Peterborough club's colours have been registered as blue and white, the same as all other local athletic organizations.

• • • •

There will be a signal practice of the Peterborough Seniors in the Brock street rink to-night at 7.30 sharp.

• • • •

The Executive and Team Committee will meet after to-night's practice.

• • • •

Louis LeClaire, of Brockville fame, is turning out with Peterborough.

• • • •

All teams intending to enter the City League are asked to have representatives present to-night at the meeting to be held in Mac's cigar store, when the schedule for the season will be drawn up. It will be too late after to-night to enter a team so teams wanting to play should be represented.

FOOTBALL

The team that will probably represent the Quakers to-morrow at the Exhibition is the following:—Goal, McFadden; backs, Doris, Evans; Donaldson; half backs, Neal, Fitzgerald, Parnell; forwards, Baker, Todd, Crough, Huston, and Boycott.

LAWN TENNIS

On Wednesday afternoon at Nicholls Oval Mrs. R. J. Devey and Miss P. Smith will play off the final games for the championship of the ladies' singles of St. John's Young Peoples' Tennis Club. It will be remembered that this set of the tournament held on Labour Day was not finished on account of darkness. The conditions are best two sets out of three and will be warmly contested.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. C. Barber.

To Advertise For Tenders For Sewer To New School

City Engineer Will Also Send In a Tender and the Lowest Will be Awarded the Contract--Concrete Bridge for Charlotte Street.

The Board of Works last night decided to advertise for tenders for the sewer to be built to the new public school in the South Ward.

The City Engineer will also submit a tender, and the contract will be given to the lowest tenderer, which means that if the Engineer's tender is the lowest, the sewer will be built by day labour.

A petition had been received for a sewer on Romaine street from Aylmer street to Lock street, which of course will allow of a branch being built to the new school, where it is urgently needed.

The Board was quite in favour of the sewer, the only difficulty arising out of how it was to be constructed.

Ald. Hicks asked if the committee would advertise for tenders, or do the work by day labour.

City Engineer Hay stated that the sewer on Lock street began at 8 1-2 feet deep, and after that would be about 6 feet deep. The day labour gang would be through their contract on Thursday.

Ald. Graham suggested advertising for tenders, and that the Engineer put in a figure.

Ald. Johnston was in favour of building the sewer by day labour.

Ald. Graham moved that the committee advertise for tenders, and that the City Engineer tender as well.

Mayor Best said the committee was bound to carry on local improvements as cheaply as possible to the ratepayers.

Ald Wilson seconded Ald. Graham's motion, which was carried.

It was decided that the tenders should be in before 7.30 p.m., on Monday next.

Charlotte Street Bridge.

There was a report from the City Engineer calling attention to the bridge over the creek on Charlotte street, street, and suggesting that since the iron work, could not possibly arrive this fall, that the concrete abutments be built, and a temporary top could be laid upon them.

Chairman Hicks thought that, if possible, the bridge should be built entirely of concrete, which he thought would be the cheaper plan, as repairs would not then have to be carried out.

It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the City Engineer to report as to the advisability of constructing the bridge with concrete.

Downie Street Creek.

The engineer also reported concerning the diversion of the Downie street creek suggesting that the channel of the creek be changed, so as to run through private property, which would prevent flooding in the spring. The report also stated that on account of the ground being so low on Victoria avenue it would be impossible to build a pavement there as yet, but advised that a gravel walk be built.

It was moved by Ald. Graham, and seconded by Ald. Elliott, that a gravel walk be built on Victoria avenue.

There were present Ald. Hicks, chairman; Ald. Adams, Graham, McIntyre, Johnston and Wilson.

The Country Cheese Is Selling Easier

Prices Sagged Off Some Towards End of the Week—Ontario's Figures Not Up to Expectation.

Speaking of the cheese situation the Montreal Star of yesterday said:—

This being Monday, there was nothing going on in the market for cheese, outside of the usual business on the wharf. Boat cheese was reported sold at 13 cents, this being an exceptionally high price, the highest, it is claimed that has ever been paid for this quality of cheese. The offerings were light, being but 2,600 boxes.

The edge went off the cheese market in the country on Saturday, particularly in Ontario. It is hard to say what was the cause of this, but the fact remains, that, whereas 13 1-4 cents was paid freely enough on the previous few days, 13 1-8 cents was about the limit on Saturday, while the majority of buyers seemed to have received instructions not to exceed 13 cents. While these figures would compel a market of about 13 3-8 cents here, it seems impossible to make sales at more than 13 1-4 cents, and Ontario cheese was generally valued at about 13 1-8 cents to 13 1-4 cents this morning. Townships were quoted at 13 1-8, and sometimes 13c, while Quebecs were also 13c, some quoting 12 7-8 cents. In the absence of trading, the range of prices was not definitely established, but it was quite evident that Quebecs and Townships were very close to Ontarios.

Receipts of cheese reported on the Board this morning amounted to 13,849 boxes, those last week being 83,026 against 81,402 the previous week.

Bonnycastle Dale Makes Plea For The Wild Rice

many a canoe load in exchange for the needful flour, sugar and common necessaries of life. None but the Indians may gather this wild grain, as we, with great generosity, allowed them to retain their rice gathering right when we took a few million acres from these uneducated primitive men at a price so low, that as I gaze across this Rice Lake Valley, with its hundred thousand acres, I find it all was purchased—or taken—at a price that would not repurchase one hundred acres now. We have made them bend to our fishing and shooting laws—and now the Trent Valley Canal has stepped in with its high water and spoiled their wild rice crop, and the people of Peterborough are petitioned for yet higher water so that the last vestige of the rice beds will be swept out.

Unless the water is restored to its normal conditions of two years ago, and of many years before that date, there will be no seed formed to replenish the beds. This year's crop has struggled up against rising water until its stalks are wonderful in point of length, but on thousands of them there is not a single grain seed. When you come to consider that twenty-two varieties of wild ducks, several of plover, many of rail and countless thousands of black-birds live on this succulent grain, and that all the migratory hosts are held here for many weeks both spring and fall by the thousands of bushels of grain lying below the surface, it seems a sacrilege to destroy this great natural breeding ground—for just as surely as you keep this water another year at its present high level, let alone raise it another foot, Rice Lake will be a misnomer and a thing of the past.

Why should you put this damage upon us and our Indian friends? No property owners here are requesting high water, so why must our islands be shoreless and our water fronts turned into a submerged bog. All are speaking against it, yet Peterborough calmly petitions the Government to give us yet higher water, I beg of you to exempt Rice Lake from this petition. Mention specially that we object to it; that our Indians have had their crop despoiled; that shooting is almost a thing of the past. Lack of cover will expose our fish and that grand sport will also pass away. The high water bred mosquitoes until life was unbearable. A height of water sufficient to allow of easy passage for the Rice Lake steamers is all that is needed. A height of water that should find its highest point in early May and gradually subside until its lowest point is reached in late July, this will preserve the wild rice. If you do not, will the petitioners be willing to pay each Indian rice gatherer for the loss of his harvest, for cause him to lose his rice seed, his fishing and duck shooting and it will be well for Peterborough to provide him with another reservation, where he can get that which the treaty provides he shall have.

Already the talk of petitions to the Government to pay each Indian for the loss of his crop is heard. Will the Peterborough petitioners pay them for their loss this year? for the high water demanded by your men has robbed them of their winter's food.

Now, fellow sportsmen of Peterborough, Keene, Hastings, Norwood, Havelock, Roseneath, Harwood, Gore's Landing, Bewdley, of the Otonabee River, get this matter agitated. Speak to members. Write letters where they will do the most good. Get out a petition in each and every city, town village. Cobourg and Port Hope will help us, as the long dangled promise of the latter town having the terminus of the Trent Valley Canal has vanished in the September air.

Remember, you men that are fond of duck shooting, bass fishing, maskinonge trawling, that there is still beneath the waters of Rice Lake enough seed left from last year's crop to once more, and once more only, replant the rice beds. So we have six months to campaign against the high water being forced on us against our wish. Nor is it absolutely necessary that to maintain the high level in the back lakes that we should have so high water in Rice Lake. Also remember that our Indian friends have only one more chance of preserving these treaty-granted wild rice beds. They have lived quiet, peaceable lives amongst us, and we should try to help them in their extremity.

I appeal to our farmer friends. If the same high water had wiped out their crops, they would stand, where I hope to see them, on our side. Give us enough water for fair transportation purposes, but do not destroy the only great wild rice lake in the world.

Early Frosts Promised For Month Of October

What Irl Hicks in His Monthly Weather Forecast Says Will Happen—Storms and Unseasonably Cold Weather Will Predominate—Some Periods During Which the Public Should Take Warning Are Referred To.

Words and Works for October has its usual forecast of the weather for the month, and, according to Rev. Irl Hicks, this is the kind of weather we are to have during that month:

A reactionary storm period is in progress at the opening of October, with a combination of astronomic causes centreing on the first half of the month that must, in all reasonable probability, bring abnormal perturbations. Earth's autumnal equinox covers up to about the 20th; the Venus period is central on the 17th and covers the whole month; the Mercury period reaches up to the 10th, and the regular Vulcan period is in force from the 2nd to the 7th. The full moon falls on the 2nd, being on the celestial equator on the same date. The probabilities are that the reactionary storms in progress as October comes in will reach their culmination on and touching the 2nd. Severe and dangerous tropical storms are indicated for southern parts of the country, with a wide and forceful storm centre coming to most them out of the Northwest.

The regular storm period charted from the 2nd to the 7th will take up the disturbances and snow and prolong them during the first week of the month. Taking the country as a whole, every variety of storms from tropical and tornadic southward, to boreal, with early sleet and snow in the extreme north and northwest, are among the probabilities at this time. We warn our readers of very disagreeable, if not destructive, storms and weather, at this and the following October periods. The 2nd is the central day of a probable seismic period, extending two to three days before and after that date. Look for rushing high barometer, northwesterly gales and change to unseasonably cold, as a sequel to these disturbances. Be on the watch, in the northwest, for this borean wave as early as the 3rd to 5th. Very cool to cold weather for the season will spread to most parts of the country, with frost and some freezing northward, during the interim preceding the next storm period.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 10th, 11th and 12th. Look at this time for a return of storm conditions—rising temperature, falling barometer and return of cloudiness and autumnal rains and gales. The Venus influence all through this part of October will tend to extremes of temperature, with storms all the way from vicious lightning and thunder, to sudden change into almost winter storms and temperatures. These autumnal storm areas will almost certainly bring severe to dangerous disturbances over the northern lakes. Let those concerned note this warning. Renewed high barometer and change to colder will progress eastwardly from about the 11th to the 15th.

A regular storm period covers the 16th to the 20th, having new moon at its centre on the 17th, moon in perigee on the 19th, and the centre of the Venus period co-incident with new moon and centre of Vulcan period on the 17th. In all probability this will prove one of the most severe to dangerous storm periods of this month, if not the whole autumn. Tropical storms, with high temperature and lightning and thunder will be natural on and about the 16th. As these conditions pass eastwardly across the country, many sections will be visited with high to violent gales, all followed by sudden revulsion to rising barometer, with snow and marked change to colder over northern sections. Frost will work into central to southern regions from the 18th and the 22nd or dates touching. The 17th is the centre of another seismic period, extending from the 15th to the 20th. This is a most probable time when some more earthquake "faults" will conclude to "let go." Read despatches from the world over and see if a maximum of such news isn't on the wing at this time.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 23rd to the 25th, at which time change to warmer, falling barometer, with cloudiness and more autumnal rain may be expected. Our agricultural readers should keep all these October periods well in mind. Navigators of the big lakes will pay for all reckless disregard for storm warnings. See if they don't! North Atlantic mariners and shippers who keep open their storm and weather eye will fare none the worse for their squinting.

A regular storm period covers the last five days of the month, embracing the second full moon in October on the 31st and moon on the equator on the 29th. Falling barometer and change to warmer will appear in the west early in this period, storm areas will develop in the same regions, and during the 28th to the 31st, wide stretches of cloudiness, rain and snow will pass across the whole country from west to east. The culmination of these storms will probably centre on the 31st, on or before which date an early cold wave, with decided dashes of autumnal snow and gales, will be well on their sweep from the northwest. Readers of these forecasts, who put some grains of reason and common sense into things generally, will know that precipitating or retarding influence may affect storm and weather problems of a day or two without violating the laws governing the storm periods, and without, in any practical degree, lessening the correctness and value of these forecasts. Unsound, fallacious criticisms of these forecasts are like criticisms of truth and righteousness and God, based on the weakness and littleness and ignorance of men. Just as the wisdom and power and largeness of truth and God should be looked at, and not the littleness and weakness of men; so the great truth that manifestly underlies the principles upon which these forecasts are based, should be thoughtfully and impartially considered, and not the lack of power to grasp and fully explain and apply that truth.

Scarlet Fever Has Appeared In Havelock

Two Cases Reported and Portions of the Public Schools Have Been Closed.

Parents Much Alarmed but No Particular Danger is Anticipated.

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Sept. 26.—An epidemic of scarlet fever has again broken out in this town. So far only two cases have been reported, but there are no assurances that these are the only persons afflicted with the disease.

Two rooms in the public school in which the children who have the fever studied, have been closed, and the authorities are taking vigorous measures to prevent the further spread of the disease among the children of the town's schools.

The parents are considerably alarmed over the outbreak of fever here, but it is asserted that there is no occasion for apprehension, as it is believed that the disease will speedily be stamped out.

German Club's Annual Outing

Was Enjoyed Yesterday at Omemee

Yesterday afternoon the members of the German Conversation Class, to the number of about sixteen, enjoyed a pleasant drive to Omemee, where they spent a delightful afternoon. They left the city about 12.30 in a bus, and enjoyed the drive to the western village, which was reached about 3 o'clock.

The residents of Omemee were very hospitable, and entertained the visitors pleasantly. Tennis was played on the lawn of Mrs. T. Stephenson, and tea was served on the rectory grounds.

The party started on the home journey about 7.30, and reached the city in good time.

NIP IT IN THE BUD

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germs and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

A New York Man Drunk 6,000 Times

Holds the World's Record In Number of Sprees.

While the average man cannot survive more than a thousand intoxications, steady drinkers of a certain powerful massive type can get drunk as much as 2,000 times before giving away. In an alcoholic career of 10 or 15 years they can put away about 2,000 gallons of whisky, or 32 barrels of pure spirits. But this is really the human limit. All records to date are held by a man of 50, who admitted, while under treatment in Bellevue Hospital, New York, that he had been drunk daily for six months in the year since he was 17; a total of over 6,000 intoxications.

NEAR MIDNIGHT SUN.

Baseball Games at Edmonton Began at 8.30 p. m. and Daylight Lasted Till Nearly Eleven o'Clock.

In his sixth letter from the Canadian Northwest the special commissioner of the New York Post writes in part as follows:

Crossing the Gilbert Plains, we saw our first Northwest Mounted policeman. We brought him into the car and asked him questions. In a strange country the most reliable sources of information are cab drivers, barbers, and policemen. Lake, for that was the constable's name, proved no exception to the rule. He had been down to Brandon with a violently insane man, and had not slept for two days and night. His adventures with his charge were a story in themselves.

He was stationed at Fort Saskatchewan, twenty miles from this point, and one of the things that he told us stuck in our minds—that on guard duty in June he had read a newspaper until 10.45 o'clock in the evening before the light failed, and had resumed his reading at 1.30 in the morning, when the sun was shining again. This sounded too much like an Arctic tale to be true. But the first thing seen in Edmonton was a large banner stretched across the street, bearing this inscription, "Baseball to-night at 8.30." The advertisement in the paper read, "Go to the baseball game after dinner to-night."

Edmonton is one of the big fur depots of the Northwest. The Hudson's Bay Co. has been in here for years, and now they have a competitor in Revillon Freres, whose trappers are working over the same territory with the older company.

On the high hills above the river on which the city is built the prospect is pleasing to the eye. In the river below there are gold dredges seeking in a desultory sort of way to extract the precious dust from the sands of the river. "Farthest north" is the centre of an apparently rich farming district instead of a jumping-off place. The fields are diversified by frequent pieces of timber land. Coming north from Edmonton over the miles of flat prairie dotted with raw frontier towns, the contrast is striking. If you have ever seen Ashtabula, O., where so many people were killed in the famous wreck, you have seen Edmonton.

At a guess, though, Ashtabula has not eleven banks on its principal thoroughfare, each housed in a commodious brick building of its own. Nor is it any hotter in Chattanooga to-day than it is here, thousands of miles to the north. After you come within the zone of the warm winds from the Japan current, latitude ceases to be a factor in making temperature. While the land is new, the contrasts are startling. Within rifle shot of a railroad passenger office that could not be distinguished from the most spacious one on lower Broadway, I came upon an Indian family on their travels. First came the squaw pulling at the head of a reluctant piebald pack pony. The second pony was drawing a travois loaded with outfit and surmounted by a baby. On the third pony was an Indian girl with the head-line of another pack pony, and bringing up the rear without burden or responsibility was the old Indian who was the head of the outfit. They were traveling across country to visit friends and paid not the slightest heed to our comments or presence.

Edmonton had but 1,500 or 2,000 people in 1898, when the rush to the Yukon gave the town its first impetus to a larger growth. Notwithstanding, four years later the population had not increased. The Hudson's Bay Co. has had a trading post at Edmonton for more than a hundred years, but the Saskatchewan River was the only outlet to the world. Freights were prohibited. A keg of nails was worth $50. The greatest need of the town was a railroad. Time after time the citizens besought the Canadian Pacific to come to their aid. When the road finally decided to come in, its officers concluded that they would save the cost of a bridge over the river by founding a new town on the opposite bank. Strathcona came into being, six miles away, and Edmonton was invited to cross over. Strathcona was at first called Edmonton, and the old town was calmly requested to give up its name.

The next move of the railroad people was to request the Dominion Government to move the land office across the river. The loss of this institution, of course, meant the death of the town. However, the Federal Government issued the order, the agent packed up the property at his office, and started to move when the citizens of Edmonton, with rifles, stopped the proceedings. The Mounted Police came in and averted bloodshed. The officer in charge persuaded the land agent not to move until an appeal had been made to Ottawa. The citizens of Edmonton posted armed sentries and waited. The Ottawa Government changed its mind and the land office stayed.

For fourteen years that followed the single ambition of Edmonton was to keep ahead of Strathcona in growth, despite the advantage the new town had in its railway connection. Now the Canadian Northern has come into Edmonton. The Grand Trunk Pacific will stop here, and it will be on the main line of "Jim" Hill's new Western Canada. Finally, the Canadian Pacific is building a high level bridge that will bring its line to Edmonton, and that without a single concession from the town that would have been glad to have donated any amount of land for this railway station at any time since the conflict began. Though Edmonton is the northernmost point in Alberta yet developed, it is south of the centre of this great province, more than half of which is still given over to the Hudson's Bay posts and to traders and hunters. It is the section of Western Canada next to be opened after Saskatchewan and the lower half of Alberta are filled with settlers.

Shakespeare on Hand.

Some pessimists are inclined to think that Shakespeare is quite dead. Good news, however, comes from Hungary. A correspondent has recently seen a theatrical poster there which runs as follows:

By Divine Permission, in the year 1906, on the 3d July, will be represented for the first time
ROMEO AND JULIET,
A sensational tragedy, universally renowned, in five acts, with songs, dances and Bengal Fire,
By William Shakespeare.
The Author will be present at the Performance.

—London Tribune.

AN ARCTIC MYSTERY.

Wild Men of the North Believed to Be Indians Who Have Gone Mad and Turned Cannibals.

Mr. E. Walter Maunder, the well-known astronomer, writes to The London Daily Graphic as follows:

I was much interested in reading the little paragraph under the heading, "A Yarn from the North," because it was clearly an echo of what had happened near the Northwest River post of the Hudson Bay Co. only a very few days before we, with the Canadian Government eclipse expedition, arrived there.

The little settlement is stationed at the mouth of the Northwest River where that stream empties itself into Lake Melville, as the principal extension of Hamilton Inlet is called. The settlement consists of the cottage belonging to Mr. Cottar, the Hudson Bay factor, his store, and three or four huts occupied by his trappers on the north bank of the river, while immediately opposite, on the south bank, is the station belonging to the French fur company of Messrs. Revillion et Cie. The population of the entire settlement is about twenty in all, of whom only three were pure whites—namely, Mr. Cottar, an English Canadian; M. Ducios, the factor in charge of the French store, a Frenchman; and Capt. Fournier, the captain of Messrs. Revillion's schooner, a French-Canadian. All these gentlemen rendered the eclipse expedition very great service, Capt. Fournier giving the use of the schooner to act as a lighter, and bringing all our goods and instruments from our steamer, the King Edward, to the wharf and back again.

It is this Capt. Fournier who is incorrectly described as a "steward" in the Laffan's telegram from Montreal. For when we reached the station we found the little community in a state of great excitement over some mysterious footmarks that had been seen in the neighborhood, resembling the track left by a bare-footed man, with the exception that there was the mark of a great claw on each foot. Three individuals seemed to have been passing, for the tracks were of three different sizes, those of the largest being very deeply sunk in the ground, as if made by an enormously heavy creature; indeed, Capt. Fournier told me that he estimated the weight of the creature making them as fully seven hundred pounds. The alarm was much intensified when a half-breed trapper, Michael by name, who had a hut some twenty miles from the settlement up one of the rivers, brought his family into the settlement with the story that his daughter (who was, I believe, a grown-up young woman, not a child) had seen an enormous black-looking man, who beckoned her to come away with him. She took refuge in the hut and shut herself in, and when her father returned home told him what had happened, and he at once gathered all his family together and hurried off to the fur station. Capt. Fournier at once gathered together as large a force as he could, and they set out to track the mysterious beings. They came upon their spoor, and upon very abundant traces of their feeding. At the time when we were in the Northwest River, Labrador was over-run by a plague of field voles, and it was clear that the creatures in question made these their chief diet, which they ate by biting the middle out of the living animal and throwing away the head and skin, as if it were a prawn or shrimp. They would have no difficulty in catching the voles by the hundred, for, as we found in our camp, the little beasts seemed absolutely without fear of human kind.

Capt. Fournier tracked the mysterious creatures to a place that they had evidently made their lair, and hid himself in a tree close by for the whole of a night. He never succeeded in seeing them in the open, but he heard their gibbering, and also the noise they made when feeding on the voles. Possibly they may have detected the presence of a hunter in the neighborhood, and therefore took to flight. At least they disappeared, and nothing further was seen of them up to the time that we left Northwest River.

There can, I think, be no reasonable doubt as to the real nature of these mysterious beings. The wandering Indians in the vast solitudes of Labrador and Northern Canada are peculiarly liable to attacks of madness, or, as they themselves put it, to possession by an evil spirit. When so "possessed" they seem to have strong cannibalistic tendencies. In Nova Scotia last year I visited Dr. Hind, the explorer of Assiniboia and of the Moisie River in Labrador, from whom I learn of the tales that the Indians tell of these "Wendigoes," whom they describe as gigantic cannibals and vampires. On my journey home I met Bishop Holmes on S. S. Tunisan, who gave me an account of a case which he had himself witnessed of possession by just such a cannibalistic spirit of an Indian near the Red River. In this case the other Indians, who were usually wholly averse to anything like violence or the taking of life, were most anxious that the man should be killed, as they said that otherwise he would kill and eat them. There can be no doubt that many of the weird tales of our forefathers are based upon instances of such wandering madmen. As Baring-Gould has pointed out, such in all probability was the "ghost" Glam, with whom Grettir the Strang had so terrible a fight.

The telegram referred to by Mr. Maunder was as follows: "According to a Laffan's telegram from Montreal, a man named Fournier, a steward on board the steamer Stord, owned by Messrs. Revillion Bros., French fur dealers, trading in Polar waters northwards of Hudson Bay, reports the existence, far north, of a race of semi-human giants. Fournier met one of the monsters and gave chase, for the creature fled at a rapid rate. Fournier fired at it, but missed. Three similar creatures attempted to kidnap a little girl. The monsters have enormous heads and arms, and their lower bodies resemble bears. The Eskimos have often mentioned the existence of these creatures, but their tales were never credited."

Ink For Fountain Pens.

Do not use ordinary writing ink in your fountain pen, as it will corrode and render your pen useless unless cleaned very often. Take an old typewriter ribbon, turn over it a pint of hot water and let it stand a day or so, stirring frequently. Turn the ink thus made into a bottle, cork securely, and you have an ink which will flow freely and not corrode your pen. If the typewriter ribbon has considerable ink on it you can thin your ink by adding more water after the first pint is made.

An Absolute Cure For DYSPEPSIA

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Belching of gas after eating, mean weakness.

By means of its muscles, the stomach should churn the food—changing solids into liquids—mixing in the gastric juice to start digestion.

If the stomach is weak—then food is not properly churned and mixed with enough gastric juice. Then you have indigestion and then dyspepsia.

Fruit-a-tives
OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

strengthen the stomach—just as juicy beef and eggs and milk strengthen the wasted frame of a patient getting over Typhoid.

FRUIT-A-TIVES contain the elements that give new—vigor new energy—to the muscles lining the stomach—stimulate the digestive glands and assure a copious flow of gastric juice for each meal.

More than that, FRUIT-A-TIVES correct the Constipation which usually attends stomach trouble—and by acting directly on kidneys and liver, put the whole system in healthy condition.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are a peculiar combination of fruit juices and tonics that are known all over Canada for their wonderful cures in all stomach, liver and kidney troubles.

THE FIRST RADIUM.

Its Production Almost Made Paupers of Curie and His Wife.

When Professor Curie was run over and killed on a street of Paris not long ago the entire world recognized that it had lost one of its foremost experimenters. Yet it was only six years ago that the wonderful element, radium, which he and his wife discovered, passed almost unnoticed among the exhibits in a Paris exhibition, and a stranger, seeking the physicist, found him only through the lucky help of a street gamin.

In the 1900 exhibition in Paris, says London Truth, the compilers of the catalogue and the jurors entirely overlooked the tiny vial containing its speck of radium, which the Curies had sent. An exhibitor of diamonds, annoyed because its presence spoiled the color of his jewels, had put it out of sight. An English visitor, however, who had read a reference to the discovery in an obscure journal, hunted it up and later set out to find the discoverers.

He went to many places, the Mines School, the Sorbonne and elsewhere, but no one in any of them could tell him anything of the Curies. At last, by a strange chance, he ran across a gamin who had heard of radium from a chum who worked as an attendant at the City of Paris industrial laboratory, where Curie then worked. By this roundabout information the Englishman was brought to Professor Curie, who was a little amazed, but pleasantly so, to find that some one was at last interested in what they were doing.

Mme. Curie, he said, had herself pounded in a mortar with her own hands all the pitchblende from which the speck of radium had been obtained. Pitchblende was costly, and she had not wasted a grain. She had ruined her hands in the work.

They were then spending every penny for pitchblende. Mme. Curie had given up gloves entirely and was wearing very old and badly patched cheap shoes and old fashioned clothes. The professor had on old shoes and a threadbare coat—his only coat. Their little girl was dressed as cheaply. But by their economy and their diligence they had enriched humanity incalculably by their discoveries in radio activity and their isolation of radium itself.

An Improved Postal Card.

Our postal card is in need of improvement. The writing on it is in plain view, to be read at leisure by any postal employee from the time it leaves the sender until it arrives at its destination. It is safe to assume that this has been the cause of no little trouble and embarrassment.

During my first stay in Brazil I found that the postal card there in use was supplied with a flap or covering of dark paper which when gummed down completely hid the writing. This flap was attached to the back of the card, the edge gummed and perforated, the insertion of a finger tip being all that was required to open it. It served the purpose of a letter at half the expense. I fail to see why our government did not adopt this style of postal card long ago, the additional expense being so slight as still to leave a handsome profit.—Chicago News.

Old Roman Titles.

From the time of Julius Caesar to that of Constantine the Great the popular name for a Roman emperor was Caesar. After the reign of Constantine the sobriquet in the eastern empire was Constantine.

The Largest British Painting.

The largest picture ever painted by a British artist is said to be Sir James Thornhill's work on the ceiling of the great hall at Greenwich hospital representing the founders, William III. and Queen Mary, surrounded by the attributes of national prosperity, which measures 112 by 56 feet.

The Almond Blossom.

Pliny says that the almond blossom was regarded by the young people of his age as an emblem of hope.

HEROIC TRAINING.

Fierce Ordeal the Chinese Military Code Prescribes.

Chinese military training of today shows a queer mixture of ancient and modern methods. A correspondent writes from Hunan: "I, however, saw a performance which I doubt whether many foreigners have seen. Its object was to make the body strong and also insensible to pain. It was a most grewsome sight. The men came forward in threes, stripped to the waist, having tied their turbans tightly round their waists. Each picked up a sort of iron truncheon about twenty inches long, weighing at least fifteen pounds, there being three sizes. This truncheon was made of two bars of flat iron tied together. The operator, having made his bow to the commanding officer, seized the truncheon in one hand, swung it round, gave a snort and brought it down whack on his chest. The double irons gave a resounding clank. The beads of perspiration oozed out.

"Three blows were delivered on the right breast, then three on the left with the other hand. Then the muscles of the arms were treated in the same way. Then both hands were used, and the club was swung over the head down the back. Then the forehead was subjected to three stunning blows. This was followed by subjecting to a similar thumping the extended thighs, where the full weight of the instrument came down, whatever it did in the other parts.

"Some added variations and extras, but all finished by taking the truncheon in both hands and driving the big end deep into their abdomens. This also was done thrice. It was explained to me that if they could stand this infliction of pain, for it was self evidently a tremendous ordeal, they would be unmoved by any ordinary knocking about. This I am willing to grant, but I seriously question whether the human body can go on standing what I then saw."—Chicago News.

Russia Moves Slowly.

Observers of the west were somewhat surprised that the dissolution of the douma was not immediately followed by a popular uprising or an immediate panic in Russian securities. They forgot that Russia is an agricultural continent rather than a kingdom, that its capital is fettered in bonds of steel, that its swiftest means of internal communication are in the hands of the government alone, and that, with its douma suppressed, its people, the peasantry especially, have no organ through which their united will can be expressed. From the moment of the convocation of the states general the people of France were never without a mouth, and until the "bronze artillery officer" shot down the "sections" they were never without an "army of revolution." The Russian people move heavily and may take years before their general will is effective, their movement being that of the glacier rather than the avalanche. Still they are moving.—London Spectator.

Washing In France.

Only one American washing machine has ever been introduced into Bordeaux, France, according to Consul Murphy. "There was," he says, "one such machine introduced here some years ago, but as it was not properly advertised or presented to the public in an intelligent manner it seemed to make but little impression. Washerwomen from the country monopolize the washing business, gathering the soiled linen one week and returning it the next. They boil the clothes, use chemicals to whiten them, rinse them in the nearest stream and spread the articles over grass, hedges and barbed wire fences to dry, which does not conduce to long wear of linen. The cleansed goods are then returned to the families, who send them to an ironer, where they are generally kept another week."

Camille Saint-Saens Coming.

Of the musical events of next season will be the first visit to America of the eminent French musician, Camille Saint-Saens, who is now seventy-one years old and for a number of years has suffered from an affection of the throat or lungs, which has made him spend much of his time in warm climates. He is one of the half dozen or so greatest living composers and a brilliant pianist as well. He will appear at only twenty concerts in this country, so that only the largest cities will be distinguished by a visit.

New Life Saving Apparatus.

M. Pierre Samois, who has invented a new life saving apparatus, went to the Louvre swimming baths a day or two ago to test it. The apparatus consists of two small circular metal buoys, through which the arms are passed. A belt connects the buoys, which are constructed in such a way as to be practically unsinkable. M. Samois' invention was put to many severe tests by expert swimmers, none of whom was able to remain under water a moment while wearing the apparatus. —London Globe.

Richard Lion Heart.

Englishmen are now talking about "repatriating" the dust of Richard Lion Heart, which has been lying these many centuries in the abbey of Fontevrault, near Saumur, in the valley of the Loire, France. Negotiations to this effect are now pending between Sir Francis Bertie, British ambassador at Paris, and the French government, and it is expected that Britain's wishes will be complied with. As long ago as 1869 Lord Derby begged Napoleon III. to permit the removal of the remains to England, but the negotiations were interrupted by the Franco-German war.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues" sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the abdominal region, and between the shoulders; bearing-down pains; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Mrs. Chester Curry, Leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, 42 Saratoga St., East Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I was troubled with extreme nervousness and hysteria brought on by irregularities. I could neither enjoy life nor sleep nights. I was very irritable, nervous and despondent.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and proved to be the only remedy that helped me. I have daily improved in health until I am now strong and well, and all nervousness has disappeared."

The following letter is from Mrs. Albert Mann, 154 Gore Vale Ave., Toronto, Ont.:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered a long time with serious female trouble having intense pains in the back and abdomen and very sick headaches every month. I was tired and nervous all the time and life looked very dreary to me and I had no desire to live until I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to get some relief. My recovery was slow but it was sure and I have never regretted the money spent for the Compound as it brought back my good health."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine that holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills, and take no substitute.

Free Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write to her for advice. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with female troubles enables her to advise you wisely, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

MRS. LUKE MORRIS, GIVEN UP TO DIE. HAD SEVEN DOCTORS. PE-RU-NA SAVED HER.

Mrs. Luke A. Morris, Jacksonville, Fla., writes:

"Peruna has done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken, and that is saying a good deal, as I have had seven doctors treating me in the past two years.

"I only wish I had begun taking your wonderful medicine some time ago, and I would have saved so many doctor bills.

"I was completely run down, and given up to die, but Peruna braced me up and gave me a good appetite.

"I have taken not quite six bottles of Peruna and would not give it up for all the other medicines in the world.

"I thank you for all the good you have done me. I hope every sick woman who reads my name will give the medicine a trial."

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Neck Ruches Still Popular—Bracelet Novelty—Stripes to Be Worn.

Ruches are worn with every gown, whether rich or plain. A stunning one is of black and white malines. White chiffon edged with narrow black lace is attractive, or an edging of velvet or satin ribbon may be employed.

In a bracelet noticeable for the unique effect of contrast very close and beautiful squares of gold filigree alternate with open squares set with gems.

pliques, although the latter are very fashionable. They look well with English openwork, which has not been at all subordinated by the blind embroideries used so extensively.

No woman should indulge in a princess gown unless her figure is graceful. There is no style which shows up the defects as this one does, and, on the other hand, there is nothing more becoming to the possessor of a fine form.

It is evident from certain sartorial signs that stripes will be in vogue in the fall for tailor made and other simple costumes.

The motor hat pictured is very smart for short runs about the country. It is made of heavy white linen stretched plainly over the frame, and finished about the face with a narrow fall of English embroidery. Brown velvet encircles the crown.

Branding the baby.

Let a mother study the appearance of her child's body well and decide for herself whether there be about it any ineffaceable mark by which she could identify him anywhere and at any time. If there is nothing that time may not efface, then let her have him marked in such a way that she would know him. It is only a question of a few drops of india ink, an operation no more painful than vaccination.—Family Doctor.

CHIC STYLES.

Hats With Strings a Fashion Possibility—Tan Suede Gloves Modish.

There is an attempt made to introduce hats with strings this fall. As yet nothing but old ladies' bonnets have appeared so equipped, except this latest model of a toque hat trimmed with velvety bunches of ribbon, which may look quite demure when worn by a pretty young girl.

Everybody is wearing suede gloves with closed wrists. It has become the mode to take tea and sometimes luncheon without removing the gloves,

FRENCH FLANNEL BLOUSE.

perhaps because gloves with closed wrists are so hard to get off. Even in the case of black or white costumes tan suede gloves are worn.

Lace veils should be chosen with extreme care. In these veils there is a tendency toward heavy borders, which hide the lower part of the face. The style at present is to draw the veil rather tightly from the chin in a neat line to the back of the hat brim, and there the ends tie in a bow.

Parisian rumor has it that long earrings are to be worn. In fact, they are already being shown in the jewelry shops to some extent.

The blouse illustrated is one of the new fall styles designed for French flannel. The novelty lies in the button trimmed straps.

Reading Aloud at Home.

Young girls should be encouraged to read aloud frequently. There is no lovelier accomplishment. Not the declamatory style of reading which professional elocutionists acquire and which, because it is intended for public use, has a degree of exaggeration in both its tones and its action, but the quiet, sweet, sympathetic and intelligent rendering of a book into the living speech is what we should seek for. A girl frequently spends a great deal of time over studies which will do her very little good in her future life, says Woman's Life. The art of reading well and acceptably would enable her to grace any circle of friends; it would assist her to brighten the household; it would perhaps cause her to be as eyes to the blind and as an angel of relief in the room of the invalid.

FREAKS OF FASHION.

Tulle Ruches More Popular Than Ever—Scotch Plaid Belts.

Plaited tulle ruffles for the neck are even more popular than ever. Elephant and smoke gray, cinnamon brown and chestnut are the colors best liked.

A touch of orange is considered extremely smart on certain costumes, but great care should be exercised in the use of this very brilliant tone.

Scotch plaid belts of silk or leather are worn with linen gowns. Blue and green effects are the most liked. Occasionally plaid stockings to match with patent leather pumps are worn.

Slip corset covers that open in the back are made for wearing with sheer lingerie waists. These covers in some mysterious way hide the dress shields.

A stout woman has invented a corset cover that is a boon to sisters of solid proportions. It is a tight fitting waist of muslin, low necked and buttoned in front. At the sides are attached dainty lace trimmed pieces that fit over the front and give a pretty feminine touch of fluffiness without appreciably adding to the size of the wearer.

The beach dress seen in the cut is of white linen fashioned en princesse. The sailor collar, cuffs and skirt bands are of navy blue linen.

DON'T SHOW OFF THE BABY.

Shield the Little One From Excitement and Fatigue.

Too great emphasis cannot be laid on this matter of shielding the baby from excitement. Undoubtedly the temptation to show him off is very great—he is such a cunning little dear, and he has such pretty tricks. But decide now. Is it your desire to gratify your pride or promote your baby's welfare? It is a great mistake to handle an infant any more than necessary, not only on the score of his nerves, but on that of his bones. Baby's bones, you know, are soft; thus constant handling tends to destroy the shapeliness of his body. The greater part of his early life should be spent on the bed. When he gets tired of lying in one position gently roll him over without picking him up. When it is strictly necessary to lift him, there is only one way to do so without subjecting any part of his body to pressure or strain that may endanger a delicate organ. With your right hand grasp his clothing just below his feet and then spread out your left hand and extend it along his spine until your palm is supporting his back and your three middle fingers his neck and head. In this way baby's clothing is made to form a hammock in which he comfortably lies.—Outing Magazine.

The Ashes From Vesuvius.

The ashes cast out by Vesuvius in the recent outbreak will prove a blessing in the long run. Prof. Zinno has examined them and found them free from ingredients injurious to plant life, while containing others that will promote the growth of grapevines, grass and vegetables. The peasants have lost no time in ploughing in this valuable fertiliser to prevent its being washed away by rains.

Cecil Rhodes' Tomb.

Cecil Rhodes' tomb in the Matoppo hills, South Africa, has been desecrated by curiosity seekers. SARTORIAL NEWS.

Short Sleeves Are Doomed—Jeweled Umbrella Handles—In Gun Metal.

Short sleeved waists are doomed. They are fast being packed away, and those who predicted that women would be thankful for any sleeves at all before the summer was over seem bound to lose caste as oracles. The public unfortunately caught on too soon, for fads must grow by degrees. All the working girls that throng the business sections each day took to wearing lingerie waists and golf and tennis shirts with elbow sleeves, and exclusive people ceased to care for such attire. It is part of the game for the elect to start fashions of this sort and watch them die in the street.

Umbrella handles are most effective, particularly the more subdued ones, such as gun metal set with moonstones, onyx in a narrow band of gold or tortoise shell inlaid with silver. Sometimes a lump of mother-of-pearl forms an umbrella handle. This is ruinous to gloves, but is a most effective handle nevertheless. Some of the French enamels are beautiful for this purpose worked up in the same way as cigarette cases with monograms and painted initials.

Pale yellow muslin makes this attractive little evening blouse. The distinguishing features are the lace collar and tie and bows of lace on the sleeves.

GLOVE NEWS.

The Correct Length For Mousquetaire Gloves—How to Clean Them.

One of the prettiest styles of elbow gloves yet shown is delicately shaded at the top an almost imperceptible mauve, with a slightly embossed and indefinitely traced pattern upon it of lilies of the valley or ivy leaves. Bas-relief patterns of the same indefinite and picturesque nature appear on the upper arm of white gloves, shaded a faint shell pink or a faint sea green.

Except for mourning wear, white gloves are worn upon all smart occasions. For evening wear the glove must rise beyond the elbow and meet the short sleeve more than half way up to the shoulder. For day wear the gloves are slightly shorter and need not rise higher than the elbow, for, although day gowns are worn with short sleeves this season, they are of necessity longer than those worn in the evening.

For evening wear gloves inset with lace bracelets and motifs upon the upper arm are being shown, as well as gloves into which hand painted colored plaques have been introduced.

You can clean white kid gloves at home by this process: Place the glove in a small basin and pour over just enough benzoline to cover, set a plate over the basin so as to prevent the spirit evaporating and let the glove soak for five minutes. Have a thick cloth ready on the table and a piece of clean flannel, take the glove out of the basin, let it drip a little, set it on the cloth and wipe it with the flannel, changing the surface constantly as it is soiled. The glove must not be rubbed too hard or the surface will be spoiled. When the glove is quite clean, blow into it to inflate it and hang in the shade in a draft.

Very attractive is the hat pictured of brown crin. About the crown is a fold of black maline. A chou of maline fastens the panache of black ostrich feathers.

HOW TO PACK.

Household Goods Require Special Treatment When Moved.

"So few women know how to pack dishes, pictures or even ordinary pieces of furniture for moving," said an experienced storage and warehouse packer, "that it is a marvel that anything reaches its destination safely.

"A mistake almost every woman makes, an a very serious one, too, is to place breakable pieces, such as mirrors, in dressers or chiffoniers. By doing this the men moving them cannot see what is underneath the sheeting or burlap or in the drawers and so are not particularly careful, as they would be could they see that there was glass under the coverings. A hole large enough to make the fact apparent should always be left, and I think if this rule is followed with other fragile things few of them will be damaged in moving.

"Fine pieces of cut glass and expensive chinaware need especial care and cannot be too carefully padded and packed. I would advise that each vase, cup, goblet, etc., be lined inside and out with tissue paper, to preserve the surfaces from possible scratches. Then each one should be filled with excelsior and a padding of it wound round the outside. Brown paper should in turn be folded over the packing and the whole tied securely in place with stout cord. Another layer of excelsior placed over the piece before it is put in a barrel should make is practically safe from injury.

Put Heavy Pieces at Bottom.

"In putting china and glass in a barrel the heaviest ones should go on the bottom. Of course they are all to be placed in layers with plenty of excelsior between. Less delicate china need not be so carefully placed. The cups, vegetable dishes, etc., should be stuffed with paper and excelsior and put in the center of the barrel, while the plates, saucers, etc., and flat pieces should be bound with excelsior. Two or three of the former, with sufficient paper and padding between, can be bound together to economize space.

"Small pictures cover carefully with cheesecloth, bind in excelsior and pack in a box, while large ones, with heavy frames, crate, after protecting the canvas with tissue paper or soft cloth. But crating does not mean just putting them in the box, for first the frames must be fastened with cleats to the boards so that they will not only be stationary, but the decorative edges of the gold frames will not touch the protecting box and be marred.

"In the same way chairs—gold and gilt ones—should be carefully wrapped in tissue paper bound with excelsior and then fastened with a board to keep them from touching the sides of the crate. The essential thing in packing, after the padding is done, is to make sure that the feet are a sufficient distance from the bottom of the boards, so that they will not be jarred in moving.

"Heavy sideboards, dressers, etc., should be boxed, and the same care should be taken with them to protect the corners, or feet if there are any, from possible breakage in moving the boxes about. As with the smaller pieces, I think it is best to put padding of excelsior, wrapped about with soft brown paper, so that it will not scratch the wood, between the edges and the box.

To Economize Space.

"To economize on space pillows, bedding and napery can be put in the drawers of these big pieces of furniture and help to hold them securely in place, though of course they as well as the doors should all be locked before packing is commenced.

"With curtains, rugs and carpets, I would roll them, putting pads of paper between the folds to keep the materials from creasing. Then they should be done up in burlap for shipment.

"In moving from one part of the city to the other this same method should be followed, except with the heavy pieces, and they can, as a rule, be put in the van without any packing after being covered with burlap."

A Case For Sympathy.

"I have three children, who are the very image of myself," said Jones enthusiastically.

"I pity the youngest," returned Brown quietly.

"Why?" asked Jones.

"Because he is the one who will have to resemble you the longest," said Brown.

More than one best?

When you ask your grocer to send you the best flour, he sends you—his best: When you know the best flour and order by the name, the choice is not left to the grocer. Many grocers handle as their leader. They have found it the safest flour to recommend because its results are sure and its purity is unquestioned. If your grocer's best is not Royal Household, insist on his getting it for you. The benefit will be mutual.

Royal Household Flour

Try Again for Health Gin Pills Will Cure You

OR MONEY REFUNDED

If you have wasted money on doctors, and taken medicine after medicine, without relief, of course you are discouraged. But don't give up. There is one cure—certain and sure—that will make your kidneys well and stroog.

Here is a letter from an old gentleman, 72 years of age, who had just your experience, but who was convinced that he owed it to himself to at least try GIN PILLS. Read what he says:—

The Bole Drug Co. Boissevain, Man.
Winnipeg, Man.

Dear Sirs,

I am now 72 years of age. I have been ill for about six or seven years, and have been attended by different doctors, but I could get no help. I started taking —— Kidney Pills, and I have taken several cold boxes, and I found they helped me a little. This spring I started to take Gin Pills, and believe they have cured me. I cannot say too much about them, and recommend them as a good kidney pill.

(Signed) WILLIAM CUMPSTONE.

Note that Mr. Cumpstone not only found quick relief, but "believe they have cured me."

Try just once more. Give GIN PILLS a fair trial. So sure are we that GIN PILLS are a positive cure for all Kidney troubles that we will let you test them free.

Send name and address, and tell in what paper you saw this offer and we will send you a sample box of GIN PILLS free of charge. Gin Pills are sold by all druggists at 50c a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50.

MADE FUN OF PHARAOH.

The Ancients Evidently Had a Keen Sense of Humor.

The fables of Æsop prove that the ancients were not without a liking for fun, and the remains of ancient art tell the same story. Examples of artistic humor are more common than is supposed by most persons.

A drawing on a tile in the Metropolitan museum, in New York, represents a cat dressed as an Egyptian lady of fashion. She is seated languidly in a chair, sipping wine out of a small bowl and being fanned and offered dainties by an abject looking tomcat, his tail between his legs.

The cat figures largely in the ancient comic groups of animal life. In a papyrus in the British museum a flock of geese are being driven by a cat and a herd of goats by two wolves with crooks and wallets. One of the wolves is playing a double pipe.

There is in the museum of Turin a papyrus roll which displays a whole series of such comical scenes. In the first place a lion, a crocodile and an ape are giving a vocal and instrumental concert. Next comes an ass, dressed, armed and sceptered like a pharaoh. With majestic swagger he receives the gifts presented to him by a cat of high degree, to which a bull acts as proud conductor.

Another picture shows pharaoh in the shape of a rat, drawn in a carriage by prancing greyhounds. He is preceding to storm a fort garrisoned by cats having no arms but teeth and claws, whereas the rats have battle axes and bows and arrows.

SLEEP AND DIET.

Without Slumber Digestion and Assimilation Are Imperfect.

One of the most important functions of that mysterious physical condition we term sleep is so little understood that persons who cheat themselves habitually out of two or three hours of their natural rest every night are heard wondering at the same time why they are affected with dyspepsia and malnutrition. Care, even rigor, in the matter of diet seems to avail nothing, the stomach continuing in a condition of chronic revolt.

In reality the processes of digestion and assimilation are so closely interwoven with slumber that unless the required amount of sleep is taken it is impossible for the body to be nourished, if, indeed, the food undergoes the ordinary digestive changes.

It is only when the brain and the entire nervous system are practically off duty that the processes of ultimate nutrition take place. The food eaten is finally assimilated and transformed into new tissues, into blood, muscle, nerves and brain, only while the body is relaxed in slumber.

A curious illustration of this necessity of sleep is that furnished by the six day endurance races. One man engaged in these deadly tests eats five times as much as a man on ordinary labor could cram down. Want of sleep has rendered it impossible for even the enormous amount of food taken at this time into the body to form new tissue.

A Hundred Course Dinner.

At a dinner given by the late Prince Ratibor there were a hundred courses. The chefs of the prince were solemnly chosen after the greatest deliberation and cross examination. On one special occasion it was announced that he was in need of a cook, and ten of the best chefs duly presented themselves for the coveted post. They were informed by the prince that each must serve a dinner of his own choice and cooking, consisting of ten courses, to be served the same evening to a jury of the best gastronomes in Paris, who would eat of each different dish and then pass judgment. This programme was carried out and the palm awarded to a Frenchman who had been chef for many years to the Baron Haussman. A trip to Marienbad by the whole of the jury was the sequel to this famous dinner of 100 courses.—London Tit-Bits.

Don't Worry; Smile.

Centenarians give various reasons to which they ascribe their longevity, but it is significant that they all agree on the advantage of plenty of work and little worry in aiding length of life. The advice lately given by a woman over a hundred is worth considering, as she advises one to eat when hungry, sleep when sleepy, with plenty of sleep, to work constantly, keep cheerful and avoid worry. This puts in a few words the doctrine of the simple life, and her conclusion is worthy of an ancient sage when she says that if these rules will not produce health and long life there is bad blood in the family and it had better die out.

Charging Was In His Line.

A party of gentlemen sitting on the veranda of a leading hotel at Jackson, N. H., fell into an amiable discussion of their delightful host, who bore high military title and who won his military spurs on the staff of a New Hampshire governor. One of them asked, "Did he get his title from service in the defense of his country?" And the reply, from a retired army officer was, "He must have, for he has not forgotten how to charge."

Mother Love.

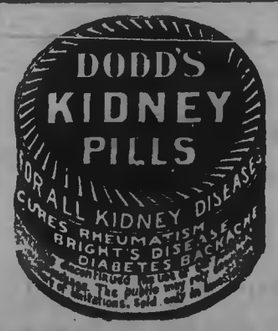
Friend—I am afraid your husband has a bad cold; he's continually sneezing. It's quite painful to hear him. Why don't you ask a doctor to see him? Matron—Well, I'm waiting just a few days, because it amuses baby so to see his father sneeze.—Bon Vivant.

Living on Love and Kisses.

She—That's all very pretty, Jack, but do you think we can live on love and kisses? He—It's much the safest. Everything else is either adulterated or poisoned or tainted.—Exchange.

How the World Pays.

Snicker—I think the world owes every man a living. Bocker—Perhaps, but he has to take it out in trade.



DECAPITATION.

The Theory of Sensation After the Head Is Severed.

Half a dozen physicians were talking of death. It isn't a subject usually chosen by physicians for discussion, but these were discussing it. However, it was not altogether physical death. They were including the hereafter.

"Well," said one, "I don't know whether there is to be a hereafter or not, and it doesn't trouble me very much, because I'll take chances on it if I can make the life I live before it the kind of life a man ought to live. But there is one thing about it that makes me hope there will be another life, and that is the opportunity I shall have of asking some of the people who have had their heads cut off if there was any sensation for a few minutes succeeding decapitation. I believe now that there is, and that life remains long enough for the decapitated person to realize that he has lost his head, or, rather, that he has lost his body, because the head is the center of thought, and, of course, it is the body that is lost, not the head. At least that is the way a man with his head off would be bound to think of it. I fancy there is no pain, because that would require some time, and if life exists at all after decapitation it would not be long enough to realize the sensation of pain. It must be a very queer sort of feeling, and, as I say, I hope there is a life hereafter so I may have a chance to find out a few facts not otherwise obtainable."

SAN SALVADOR.

Built on a Volcano, the Results Are Somewhat Startling.

San Salvador is built on a volcano. It has been three times destroyed by an earthquake, but the people are becoming accustomed to such excitement now. Earthquakes are pretty frequent, and, while one is naturally nervous, there is really little danger to life. The shocks have been known to come as frequently as eighty times in an hour.

The effects are quite peculiar. In the city is a brick column, nine feet high and three feet square, which was removed a hundred feet without losing its perpendicular or cracking the mortar.

The ground under the city is full of caverns of unknown depth. A man was digging a well there. The last stroke he gave with his pick the bottom fell out, and he and his pick and all fell through, nobody knows where.

There is a volcano not far from San Salvador that some years ago discharged lava over a forest. The wood all caught fire, of course, but the lava, being light and easily cooled, formed and hardened into long arcades through which it was possible to walk. Even now the imprint of the trunks and branches of the trees can be seen.

You Get What You Give.

Man is the artificer of his own happiness. Let him beware how he complains of the disposition of circumstances, for it is his own disposition he blames. If this is sour or that rough or the other steep, let him think if it be not his work. If his looks curdle all hearts, let him not complain of a sour reception. If he hobble in his gait, let him not grumble at the roughness of the way. If he is weak in the knees, let him not call the hill steep. This was the pith of the inscription on the wall of the Swedish inn: "You will find at Trochate excellent bread, meat and wine, provided you bring them with you."—Thoreau.

Appraising a Gilded Joss.

An insurance man who has been busy for some months with the problems of adjustment arising from the San Francisco fire says that one of the queerest questions was the loss on a Chinaman's joss, a big gilded god. "The adjuster found that some sixty or seventy minor josses were also insured. When he reported this we certainly had a merry time trying to figure how much a god was worth who couldn't care for himself. But we finally arranged a scale of values that satisfied everybody."

THE STAY-AT-HOME.

The city's the place, I've a notion,
In summer I always stay home;
The bathtub's as good as the ocean,
And soapsuds far cleaner than foam.
It may be all right by the beaches
For girls that want freckles and tan,
But here in the city are peaches,
Cool, fair, and appealing to man.

And away with the hamlet and tavern,
Stuck away in the woods or the hills,
And give me a rathskeller cavern
Where the siss of the siphon brings thrills;
Where our gossip is fresh from the presses,
And not of a vintage antique,
And the never-stop fan-breeze caresses
A normal and blisterless cheek.

At home we have every possession
That's boasted by country or shore,
Although—'tis a joyous confession—
We hack beetles and bugs by the score.
It's pleasant when sunsets are rosy,
But if you are anxious to spoon,
Here's a corner secluded and cosy,
And a Weisbach's as good as a moon.

UNCLE'S PATENT PICKLE PATCH.

The Newest Wrinkle in Successful Modern Truck Farming.

My wife had been making some sweet pickles, which Old Humph had duly tested at dinner, and found very much to his taste. "Discussin' pickles," said he, "reminds me of a little circumstance in my horticultural history, connected with cowcumbers, which I don't mind tellin' you, although I know it will hurt your feelin's," writes G.J.A., in Toronto Star.

"Way back in the sixties, when I wus sum younger than I am now, and p'raps a trifle better lookin', I wus workin' the market garden stunt 'bout two mile from a certin city, whos feelin's I won't flatter by mentionin' of its name. I employ'd my leisure moments frum half-past four a. m., till 'bout ten p. m. a-raisin' squash, onions, vegetable eyesters, and sick like fish, also pertaters, artichokes, and other precious stones. Bein' an enterprisin' feller them days, I wus always on the lookout for novelties in the green goods line, that wus likely ter ketch the market, an' incline suckers ter bite.

"Among the other luxoorious delicacies I raised, wus cowcumbers fer people with picklin' proclivities. They didn't pay me no big dividends, fer the price wus low, but the fellers what used ter cure them offended my sense of perportion the way they raked in the long green, fer pickles is fash'nable the hull year round, whereas cowcumbers ain't. This here state of things used ter gall me, worse nor playin' pew rent, so I just made up my mind ter try an' rig the market fer a hog killin.'

"After figgerin' the thing out accordin' ter a plan, partly on the lines of a dream I suffered from one night after eatin' sour kraut an' scrambled codfish, an' partly on sum figgers I rooted out of the third verse of the second chapter of the Book of hog 'rithms, I perceeded ter carry out the plans and specifercations of Uncle Humphrey's patent pickle patch.

"I started in an' built a hot bed after a new and considerably improved plan, puttin' in first a substie of salt peter, with a layer of allspice next, and as little earth as possible jist to fool the unsuspectin plants; I then planted the cowcumber seeds, in the full of the moon, at the same time cussin' a few times over them in a pig's whisper fer luck. 'They cum up kind of sickly, an' so surprised lookin' that I kinder felt ashamed ter look them in the face; but spruced up wonderful when I added a little ginger an' a few wooden nutmegs. I watered 'em regular, every night an' mornin' with the best malt vinegar, sumtimes touchin' of 'em up a little with an ounce or two of verdigris, when ter my wayward fancy the color was gittin' a little too much off the grass an' on the bottle. I then put my simple trust in a kindly Providence an' waited till the cowcumbers cum home.

"The sun shone brightly, an' the gentle heifers found them there little ewe cowcumbers of mine, an' they flourished like the green bay tree. I transplanted 'em after a while inter a carefully prepared bed of the same kind of sile, with a sub stratum of rock salt, an' waited with considerable nerve the result of my little confidence game.

"When the fruit began ter form I watched 'em like a trap watches a rat hole. When the first one growed 'bout an inch long I tried it on myself, and, by gum! it was so lovely I wished it had measured a mile. It wus one of the finest pickles I had ever sampled, an' my teeth fairly watered ter try another. However, I bound myself over ter keep the peace toward 'em, an' didn't commit no more assaults on 'em fer some time, but simply fell down an' worshipped.

"They wus a great success, an' I made $1,000 out of 'em the first year, but—" here the old man paused for a moment, and sighed sadly, "unfortunately the verdigris—but I have not the heart to tell you the rest. Both my wife and I felt that it would hardly be a hospitable act to press for any further particulars, and I silently pushed the decanter in his direction.

Canada's Own Mint.

Mr. A. H. W. Cleave, the new superintendent of the Canadian branch of the Royal Mint, arrived from England, recently. He is a mechanical engineer by profession, and has been on the staff of the Royal Mint in London for 14 years, having had charge at different times of all the mint departments.

His duties in Ottawa will be chiefly to superintend the making of the coin, but the work of organizing the institution will doubtless fall to him.

"If the Government are agreeable," said Mr. Cleave, "I shall endeavor to obtain the latest and most modern appliances. This will consist of melting apparatus, rolling mills, cutting machines and subsidiary machines.

"I think it is an excellent thing for Canada to have her own mint. There will be considerable profit to this country in the minting of silver and bronze, and doubtless when minting begins there will be a greatly increased demand for this currency.

"Recently the Royal Mint supplied Canada with fifteen million pieces, and that will help to supply the demand for some time to come."

Her First Bet.

Jane Dash, a cook, was charged at the Marylebone Police Court with obstructing the street by assembling with others for the purpose of betting. She declared that it was the first bet she had ever made, and she was fined 12s.

HALTING A COLD.

What to Do When You Sneeze or Feel the Warning Chill.

A cold, as nearly every intelligent person knows, is the result of a stoppage somewhere of free circulation of the blood, to which one is first sensitive through a feeling of chill. So slight is the chill oftentimes that not until the preliminary sneeze comes is the victim aware he or she has been in a draft, or that the temperature has changed.

The usual notion is that by going indoors, by changing to heavier clothing or retreating from the moist atmosphere the danger is averted. These precautions are all well enough, but the first and most efficacious measure should be to restore the quick flow of warm blood through every vein, and so by heat instantly counteract the little chill.

When the temperature of the body or extremities is lowered, or a sudden chill or quick change from warm to cold temperature is endured, take three or four deep breaths through the nostrils, expand the lungs to their fullest extent, holding the inhaled air as long as possible, and then slowly exhale it through the mouth. In doing this the inflation of the lungs sets the heart into such quick motion that the blood is driven with unusual force along its channels, and so runs out into the toes and finger tips, and sets up a quick reaction against the chill. In short, the whole effect is to stir the blood and set it in motion as from rapid exercise.

WHERE CATS CAN'T LIVE.

In Very High Altitudes the Felines Go Mad and Die.

Cats go mad and die in high altitudes. Leadville, Colo., is a city over 10,000 feet above sea level, and there is not a single cat in the place that has been there more than three months.

The greater the height above sea level the greater the degree of nervousness both in people and the dumb animals. Even in Denver, which is only half as high as Leadville, cats are high strung and flighty, given to sudden fits of arching their backs and growling at nothing. But they do not go mad in Denver with the same unanimity that they do in Leadville. In the latter place cats seem to be more than usually drowsy when they are first brought there and spend nearly every hour of the twenty-four in sleep. This condition will last a week or two, and is succeeded by a state of ordinary well being, which terminates at a greater or less interval of time by their suddenly having a violent fit, which in a human being would be called hysterics. These fits are repeated with continually increasing frequency until one more violent than any of its predecessors carries the cat off. Even kittens born in high altitudes never seem to get accustomed to them and invariably go the way of their parents.

A Strange Animal Friendship.

Sometimes animals which are by nature deadly enemies, such as dogs and cats, strike up a very strong friendship. I have known a cat adopt a puppy and nurse it tenderly, but as a rule they prefer to bite and scratch. A sculptor of animals, a Mr. Harvey, had two pets, a pigeon and a cat, who lived together in great friendship, and had their photograph taken while eating out of the same dish. The pigeon was named Pidgie and the cat was called Toddie. They ate, slept and played together, and when Pidgie died Toddie was nearly broken hearted, and would never again eat or drink from the dishes from which she and her little playmate used to eat together.—Home Notes.

Baron—You have called to secure the position of porter? Applicant—Yes, sir. Baron—Was there not some one in the anteroom as you came in? Applicant—There was, sir. There was a man with a bill against you, Herr Baron, but I threw him out.

Its Purport.

"What does that expert witness' evidence go to show?" inquired the man who was trying to understand the trial.

"It goes to show which side has paid him a retainer," answered the lawyer.

Spend as much time as you can, with body and [illegible] with spirit, in God's out of doors.—Vandyke.

FOOD IRON

You need Iron. Everybody does. The harder you work, the more you worry, the more Iron you require. But Crude Iron won't do. Iron Pills, Iron Tinctures, Iron Tonics are useless in nineteen cases out of twenty. You must have pre-digested Iron or your blood will not assimilate it.

FERROL

furnishes the Iron you need in combination with Cod Liver Oil, and so intimately incorporated with the oil that the most delicate digestive organs cannot fail to assimilate it.

The value of the combination cannot be overestimated. It builds up and fortifies the system against Coughs, Colds, Bronchial Affections and kindred troubles. If any of these diseases have already been contracted, or if the lungs are affected or threatened, FERROL cures by enabling nature to throw off the disease, not by "killing the germs," which is a physical impossibility.

FERROL is an absolute specific for Croup and Bronchitis, and no household where there are children can afford to be without it.

FERROL is not a patent mystery. The formula is freely published. It is prescribed by the best Physicians. It is endorsed by the most eminent Medical Journals. It is used in the prominent Hospitals, Sanatoriums, etc.

RATTLERS IN ONTARIO

NOW ARE TO BE FOUND IN CERTAIN LOCALITIES.

Some Things That May Be Seen in the Country—All Other Snakes in This Province Are Harmless—Result of the Researches of Prof. Cope—Uses of the Toad Succinctly Set Forth.

The subject of snakes is one which cannot fail to interest a great many people during the holiday season, especially those the principal part of whose life is passed in cities, where opportunities of seeing reptiles are almost entirely confined to the interior of glass cases, and the imaginary variety produced by an over-indulgence in forty rod. Once, however, they leave the feverish life of towns and get close to nature's heart, summer resorters are liable at any moment to run up against one and there is always the possibility of being bitten. Naturally, therefore, it is desirable that something definite should be known about their habits, and the possible danger from their bites.

The rattlesnake is the only poisonous snake occurring in Ontario, and they are now very rare in all parts of the province, except some few restricted localities near Lake Erie and the Georgian Bay. When the country was first settled they were common enough, particularly so in rocky regions. The banks of the Niagara River and the face of what is known as the Hamilton Mountain having been, formerly, among their favorite resorts. The introduction of pigs into the country was probably one of the chief factors in the destruction of these dangerous creatures. For, as is well known, pigs can kill and eat rattlesnakes with impunity. It is supposed that the poison of the snake cannot be sufficiently introduced into the circulation to cause death owing to the thick layer of fat with which the domesticated pig is covered.

The Rattlesnakes.

There is a common, but erroneous, idea, that one new segment is added to the number on a rattlesnake's tail each year. The fact is the number varies, as many as four have been observed to be acquired in a single year. The terminal segments, too, are constantly being worn off, so that the number of segments present is no indication of the age of the snake.

These snakes can only strike a distance equal to about one-half the length of the body. They need not necessarily be coiled to strike, for this they can do on either side, as far as the position of the body will permit them to reach.

Rattlesnakes are ovoviviparous, and not very prolific. Prof. Cope found nine eggs in the body of a female thirty-seven inches long.

The rattlesnakes may be distinguished from all other Canadian snakes by the following well-marked characters: Maxillary without solid teeth, but provided with a long erectile, perforated poison fang on each side in front; a deep pit between eye and nostril. Body stout; head large, flat, triangular, on a slender neck; pupil elliptical, placed vertically. Tail provided with a rattle composed of horny rings, which are modified scales.

Others Are Harmless.

All other snakes found in Ontario are, without exception, perfectly harmless, and, in nearly every case, are decidedly useful to the gardener. Among those fairly common in the districts used as summer resorts are the common garter snake, which is the most abundant of any. It is an exceedingly variable species, scarcely any two being exactly alike in coloration.

The water snake is another very common snake, in nearly all small streams and lakes throughout Ontario. When molested this creature shows fight, and makes strenuous efforts to bite its tormenter. It is, however, perfectly harmless. It swims well and rapidly, and feeds on frogs and small fish.

The fox snake is the largest and strongest of all our snakes, one having been recorded as measuring 7 feet 11 inches, but, at the same time, is one of the most harmless and timid. Although not very common, it is generally distributed from the Niagara peninsula to the Georgian Bay, and probably somewhat further north.

The milk snake or spotted adder is a very variable species, its varieties running by degrees into extremes, which bear little resemblance to the type form.

A Northern Variety.

The northern variety, which is very common and generally distributed, is very harmless and useful, feeding largely on field mice and voles. Prof. Cope says he once found a specimen of this species, which had captured a family of meadow mice, which it held in the following manner: One it had swallowed, one it was in the act of swallowing, and two others were securely held in two turns of its body so tightly as to render them incapable of biting their captor. They also feed to a certain extent upon frogs and toads, and, in so doing, lessen their economic value slightly, but, on the whole, they are decidedly beneficial to the farmer and should be protected.

The blowing or spreading adder is not common, though generally distributed. When teased, this snake depresses and expands its head, hissing and presenting a threatening appearance, causing many people to believe it to be venomous, but it is quite harmless.

25c. and 60c. a bottle. At Druggists.

Uses of the Toad.

Another useful, but not ornamental little batrachian deserves more consideration at our hands than it generally receives, and that is the common toad.

Unfortunately it is the victim of ignorance and prejudice, and is often wantonly destroyed, because of its somewhat unprepossessing appearance. From an agricultural standpoint, however, it is one of the most valuable animals we have, and should be protected with the greatest care.

The toad is of direct service to man by reason of the fact that its food consists of insects exclusively, and that it is one of the few animals which can adapt itself alike to the farm and garden, and will even be perfectly contented if confined in a greenhouse or propagating frame.

Weighing Live Fish.

A visitor at an aquarium who had wondered how they managed to get the weight of a live fish learned that that was really a very simple thing to do. The fish is put into a pail of water, which is weighed with the fish in it. Then the fish is taken out, and pail and water are weighed without it.

Flapdoodle.

It is said that the word "flapdoodle" was first used by Captain Marryat in "Peter Simple," where it was made to mean "the stuff they feed fools on."

Heliotrope.

The name of the heliotrope comes from two Greek words signifying "twining toward the sun." It has long been a belief that the flower of the heliotrope turns, with the advancing day, so as to face the sun. In some species of this plant this curious practice is noticed.

Swamp Mosquitoes.

The mosquitoes found in swamps and damp woods are generally more brilliantly colored than those varieties which frequent human habitations.

Snow White Cattle.

The breed of snow white cattle which were used in the sacrifices in Athens and Rome from 2,000 to 2,500 years ago is still in existence in Calabria. Great pains are taken to maintain the strain of blood in all its purity, and calves showing a single hair of any other color than white are at once separated from the herd.

Unexpected Answers.

An eminent lawyer had been interrogating a reporter in his hotel and the reply he got was unexpected, says the Buffalo Inquirer.

"That was an unlooked for answer, truly," he said. "It was like the answer the policeman gave to the good citizen. A good citizen, breathless and excited, ran up to a large, calm policeman one day and cried:

"'Officer, there's a terrible fight going on around the corner to the right.'

"'Thank you, sir. I'll do as much for you some day, sir,' said the policeman gratefully, as he took the turning to the left and quickly disappeared."

The Bird of Death.

In New Guinea there is said to be a venomous bird called the bird of death. It is about the size of a pigeon, with a tail of extraordinary length ending in a tip of brilliant scarlet. It has a sharp, hooked beak and frequents marshes and stagnant pools. The venom with which it inoculates is distilled in a set of organs which lie in the upper mandible, just below the openings of the nostrils. Under them, in the roof of the mouth, is a small fleshy knob. When the bird sets its beak in the flesh of a victim this knob receives a pressure which liberates the venom and inoculates the wound.

The East and the Weats.

The numerous kinds of west of which the effete east solemnly discourses are enough to bewilder a Philadelphia lawyer. It will assure you that besides "the middle west," a phrase that it employs continually and with evident pleasure, there are an eastern west, a western west, a northern west and a southern west! Yet there is only one east, and hardly enough of that to swear by.—Californian.

BARNUM'S OLD PLACE

THE HISTORIC MUSEUM THAT STOOD IN LOWER NEW YORK.

Facts About the Famous Curio Hall That Brought a Fortune to the Energetic Showman—Forty Thousand Persons Saw It Consumed by Fire.

"We will ascend to the top of St. Paul's skyscraper and take New York city in at a glance," said my friend as we passed the corner of Broadway and Ann street. Entering the doorway and taking the elevator it took but a few moments to find ourselves at the top where from the windows we not only "took in" the entire city, with its brick walls and smoking chimneys, but as far as the eye could reach we saw water and green fields. As we descended we could not help thinking that on this spot for many years stood Barnum's museum, once the dream of all children and a place of universal interest to every one.

Among the many sights and curiosities seen in the museum some are familiar to this day, as Niagara Falls, with real water, trees, rocks, etc.; Joice Heth, the aged colored woman, 161 years old, who had once been nurse to General Washington; the woolly horse, said to have been captured by the Fremont exploring party in the Rocky mountains; the Indian wedding dance; the club that killed Captain Cook; Tom Thumb, the dwarf who drove around the city in a stylish little coach and who married Miss Lavinia Warren, the wedding taking place before a vast assemblage at Grace church while multitudes lined the sidewalks outside; the living whale that was kept in a tank of salt water pumped in from the bay; the hippopotamus, the tropical fish, Commodore Nutt, known as the $30,000 Nutt; the two dromios; the lightning calculator who could add a square of figures at a glance, and who became a Methodist minister; the fat boy; Anna Swan, the Nova Scotia giantess; the tallest man in the world; the fat woman; Pashashkrend, "the what is it," no one knowing whether it was a man or a monkey; the boa constrictor, seen inside a large glass case; the cherry colored cat; the happy family, a collection of cats, rats, adders, rabbits, parrots, birds, etc., all in one cage; also two vast alligators, the living skeleton, the baby mite that weighed only three pounds, the fish with legs, the Fiji mermaid, the giraffe, the rhinoceros, with the tropical birds, parrots, cockatoos, mocking birds, humming birds, vultures and eagle, and the well remembered dog and baby shows.

Then there were the wax figures of pirates and murderers, Franklin Pierce, Patrick Henry, General Washington, James Buchanan, General Marion, General Lafayette, James Madison, Governor Morris, Prince Imperial of France, Mme. Roland, Moll Pitcher, Nathan Hale, Poor Richard, Daniel Lambert, the Veiled Murderess, etc.

In many of the plays thrilling scenes were produced, as in "The Storm at Sea," where a vessel was struck by lightning and the crew rescued by being drawn by a rope up a rocky summit and the army ascending through the narrow defiles of the Swiss Alps.

The museum was burned on the afternoon of July 13, 1865. The fire, it was thought, originated in the engine room, it being necessary to keep up steam to pump fresh air into the water of the aquaria and to propel the fans that kept the heated halls cool. The flames began in the manager's office and extended to all parts of the building. The manager showed great presence of mind by depositing several thousands of dollars in a safe before he escaped from the building. Fully 40,000 persons witnessed the fire, who saw the tall woman lowered by means of ropes to the sidewalk and heard the shrieks of animals in the menagerie and the growls of the Bengal tiger. The lion and his mate, who had escaped from their cage, were seen walking along the floor and an encounter beneath the roof between the eagle and a serpent, when the victorious eagle bore off his enemy in his talons amid loud cheers. The polar bear, escaping from the building, walked through the streets to the custom house, where, ascending to the balcony, he fell and broke his neck. Other animals, jumping from the windows, caused the crowd to stampede, when some lost their hats, others had their coats torn, and many became awfully disfigured by falling in the mud. The remains of the two whales, the kangaroo and crocodile were found in the ruins. The loss of no other building in the city could have caused so much excitement and regret as Barnum's museum.—Brooklyn Citizen.

A MAN TO AVOID.

The One Who Is Generally Disliked by Other Men.

The cynical old maid would probably tell us that all men should be avoided The happily married young woman will say that is nonsense—all men are good, as undoubtedly they are to a certain extent. Rarely does one come across any man who is thoroughly bad.

Yet the old maid is not entirely wrong, either. There are some men whom it is well to avoid, and the young girl who is just entering social life should take the advice of those who have had more experience than herself—that is to say, in the greater issues. It savors of youth and almost foolishness to refuse to know a man even slightly because of some faults.

In the matter of real friendship, however, and marriage, a girl is unwise if she accept as friend or lover a man whom other men dislike. Such a man is not often worthy of a good woman's consideration and certainly the inexperienced girl is better to keep at arm's length a man of this sort.

Either he is mean or selfish, a blusterer or must plead guilty to other faults. As an acquaintance perhaps he might be possible, but as a friend most inadvisable.

One wants a man who is comparatively strong all over if he is to be admitted to the innermost sanctuary. The man who is impossible in one or more respects must certainly be relegated to the mere outward fringe.—New York American.

OLD SCRAPBOOKS.

They Sometimes Prove a Serious Menace to Health.

Old scrapbooks are a menace to health. For several reasons they harbor more dust than any other old books. Usually the pages are pasted on both sides, making them thick and uneven. They are broad, and their ornate bindings are seldom behind glass doors, but easily accessible on tables and shelves. After turning over the pages, sneezing, head colds and hay fever have often resulted without the cause being suspected. In our library was a scrapbook of colored fashion plates from 1853 to 1892. Another was filled with newspaper clippings of the year between the states. They were prized and frequently read, but colds almost invariably followed. We sent them to a bindery to be fumigated and rebound. To prevent in great measure this condition, use a carbolized paste, paste only on one side of the page, keep them behind glass and provide them with oil paper covers. Do not let this adverse side prevent any one from making scrapbooks Use preventives as with all old books whose pages have been turned until they are sufficiently uneven to harbor dust.—Good Housekeeping.

BEAUTY AXIOMS.

A bad tempered woman can never be beautiful.

Harmony in dress pleases more eyes than costly gewgaws.

Cultivate graciousness, for it is nature's greatest beautifier.

Daintiness has come to be the modern woman's chief charm.

If you have no thought for yourself, remember that others admire beauty.

Beauty may be only skin deep, but it has more value than most kinds of plaiting.

Things which beautify an old woman may detract from the appearance of the young girl.

Don't wait until tomorrow to think of the graceful form and comely face, for by that time middle age settles and formidable crow's feet will be with you to stay.

No woman need lack some kind of beauty. If nature has denied her a beautiful face, she can make up for it by acquiring a wonderful grace of form or such beautiful hands that she can be the envy of her set.—Pilgrim.

The Beautiful In Dress.

As to just what constitutes the beautiful, peoples and individuals must always differ. There are, however, certain necessary elements of the beautiful in dress upon which all Frenchwomen, les dames des halles (market women) and duchesses, are agreed. These are principally three—it shall be suitable, simple and pleasing. These three points, which largely determine the art of dressing, is one half the problem of economy; the other half is in knowing exactly how much one may spend on dress. Every Frenchwoman that I know has a fixed sum upon which to dress, and every member of the family is considered, including herself.—Harper's Bazar.

VENEERED WOOD.

Its Advantages Over Solid Lumber For Furniture.

If the art of veneering were not the extensive art it is today, it would be impossible for any but the comparatively few who have a good supply of the almighty dollar to possess any fine articles of furniture at all. Veneering is not a new art, but the earliest American cabinetmakers, although using it to some extent, preferred as a rule the solid wood furniture.

Today hardwood trees, such as the oak, walnut and ash, have been made more valuable by the invention of veneering machinery which will enable the logs to be sliced up into layers of uniform thickness of less than one-twentieth of an inch. In the old days this process was all by hand and was a slow and arduous undertaking.

The advantages of veneered wood are that it will not crack, swell nor warp in the changes from hot to cold weather, and in the case of doors, for instance, it makes them lighter and more easily handled.

For our finest pieces of furniture the best of oak, walnut or ash is used, and it may be seen how much one of these trees is worth. Cut into thin slices, it will give hundreds of feet of veneer. A large walnut tree, for instance, will be made into a large amount of veneer and is sought by expert woodsmen. Found in the heart of the woods or on some lonely farm, it is bought by the agent working for the interests of a veneering company, and ten times as much is paid for it to its owner as would be for ordinary lumber.

The process includes the cutting and trimming of the tree, sawing into logs of convenient lengths and then the cooking of these logs. They are boiled until soft and pliable in a vat of hot water or steam. They are then sent to the veneering machines, where they are sliced or sawed into pieces from one-tenth to one-thirtieth of an inch in thickness, of absolutely the same thickness all over. Their soft, pliable condition prevents them from cracking or breaking.

The cabinet workers then apply these slices to the articles of furniture, gluing them on with the grain running in opposite directions and with no joinings visible. Instead of making a weaker article the surface is really toughened and hardened by this crossgrain work, and it may also be polished to a higher luster than the solid wood.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE INDISPENSABLE MAN.

An Event That Moved Him to Take a Trip to Europe.

He was one of those men who believe that if they let up for a moment the whole world will go to smash. Especially was this so about his own business. When his wife wanted him to go to Europe for a rest he said:

"Impossible to get away from the office. Why, if I were to stay away six weeks there's no telling what would happen. No, I must be there all the time."

So they didn't go to Europe. Instead he got sick, good and sick, too, the kind of sick that kept him on his back for nearly a month and didn't let him get back to his desk for still another week.

The day came for his return to harness, and he plunged for the office. All the way downtown his mind danced with the visions of the wreck of business that would greet him. He expected to find the staff demoralized, the business gone to pieces, the cobwebs thick on the order books and an air of gloom hanging over all which could be dispelled only by his triumphal entrance. He fancied himself picking the business out of the mire and putting it on its feet again.

But did he? Not quite.

He entered the office. The boy was there and looked up at him as though wondering if the boss were not a little bit late. The cat rubbed against him as she always did. His desk was opened as usual, and on it was no pile of mail, the accumulation of all these weeks. The clerks were at their places as usual. In fact, nothing was apparent of the awful disaster that he had expected; hardly any one seemed to know that he had been away.

He stopped for a moment, breathless, and then managed to call one of his men to him and ask about something. The man began to tell him what had been going on. They had been transacting business just as though he had been there—answering mail, filling orders, taking reports from traveling men and sending them out again—in short, the little particular world of his business had gone on just as though he had been there all the time.

He heaved a sigh—a sigh of humility. In fifteen minutes he had telephoned his wife to make plans for a European trip, and that he would accompany her. Thus do matters make us see how small we are.—New York World.

CUNNING ANIMALS.

Those That Feign Death For the Sake of Protection.

The habit of feigning death for the sake of protection can be observed among many of the lower animals—animals which differ widely in family, genus and species. Indeed, this habit is to be observed in creatures microscopic in size and of exceedingly low organization, as well as in those as high in the scale of animal life as man himself, for even man does not hesitate on occasions to avail himself of this natural subterfuge when he thinks it will aid in the preservation of his life.

With the aid of the microscope one can observe and study the natural history of the minute animal world, which otherwise would remain a closed and unread volume. This instrument has shown me beyond cavil that creatures as low in the scale as actinophryans, very minute, microscopic animalcules, practice death feigning when surprised by an enemy from which they cannot otherwise escape. Thus I have, says a naturalist, repeatedly seen actinophryans fold their delicate, hairlike legs or cilia and sink to the bottom of their miniature lake (a drop of water) when approached by a water louse, which preys upon them. They remain to all appearances absolutely without life until the water louse swims away, when they unfold their cilia and go back to their feeding grounds—a bit of water weed or moss or decayed wood.

Browsy Weather.

We may as well own up to the truth that the conventional abuse of our climate and our weather has been greatly overdone. When we are inclined to envy countries whose meteorological conditions have less of the element of "glorious uncertainty" than our own, we are much too ready to overlook the immense advantage we possess in our almost absolute freedom from violent extremes.—London World.

THE WINDOW CURTAIN.

Originally It Was For Use and Not For Ornament.

The real purpose of the window curtain is to regulate the amount of light admitted to the room and a curtain so arranged that it cannot be drawn backward and forward at will is but a meaningless accessory. It was not until the beginning of the century that curtains were used without regard to their practical purpose.

The window hangings of the middle ages and of the renaissance simply were straight pieces of cloth or tapestry hung across the window without any attempt at drapery and regarded not as part of the decorating of the room, but as a necessary protection against drafts.

It probably is for this reason that in old prints and pictures representing the rooms of wealthy people curtains are so seldom seen. The better the house the less need there was for curtains. In the engravings of Abraham Bosse, which so faithfully represent the interior decoration of every class of French house during the reign of Louis XIII., it will be noticed that in the richest apartments there are no window curtains. In all the finest rooms of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries the inside shutters and embrasures of the windows were decorated with a care which proves that they were not meant to be concealed by curtains. In fact, it would be more difficult to cite a room of any importance in which the windows were not so treated than to enumerate examples of what really was a universal custom until the beginning of the nineteenth century.

It is known, of course, that curtains were used in former times—prints, pictures and inventories alike prove the fact—but the care expended in the decorative treatment of windows makes it plain that the curtain, like the portiere, was regarded as a necessary evil rather than as part of the general scheme of decoration. The meagerness and simplicity of the curtain in old pictures prove that they were used merely as window shades or sun blinds. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Consols by the Pennyworth.

It may not be generally known that a pennyworth of British consols can be purchased. Consols are not like shares, which are invariably of a certain denomination—£1, £5, £10, and so on—but can be divided up to any extent. It consequently happens that very small amounts of this lordly stock are bought to make up round sums, but no one can be registered at the Bank of England as a holder unless he has acquired enough to bring him in fourpence a year in dividends, and less than £1 will purchase a sufficient amount for that purpose.—London Saturday Review.

A Species.

"Mrs. Kwivvery is one of those anticipatory people, and I simply can't carry on a conversation with her without getting so nervous I feel as though I should fly to pieces," says the lady with the jade brooch.

"Anticipatory?" asks the lady without any long gloves. "How is that?"

"She listens faster than you talk to her."—Life.

When Men Wore Bustles.

"Bustles were ridiculous," said an antiquary. "Do you remember the bustle of 1885? It shot straight out from the waist, a broad seat on which, honestly, an adult could have sat. Yes, bustles were ridiculous, but no more ridiculous than the tournures of Francis II. The tournures were worn by men. They were bustles—front instead of rear ones. Yes, in the time of Francis II. portliness was considered stately, and men tied on tournures, or false stomachs, in order to achieve an air of dignity."

Character.

The need of the world today is character. It has brilliancy. It has capacity. It has ambition. It has energy. It lacks men who stand on the solid rock of honesty, who scorn to take anything that they have not rightfully earned, whose word can be trusted seven days in the week, who are self contained, resolute and strong.

Slander, that worst of poisons, ever finds an easy entrance to ignoble minds.—Juvenal.

EIGHT DAY CLOCKS.

The Reason They Are Not Made to Run Just a Week.

The French have a fashion of expressing an indefinite but short period of time by the phrase "about eight days." Under similar conditions we would say "about a week." The French method seems unnatural, ours natural, for a week is a distinctly recognized period. We believe there is only one way in which we use the eight day period, and that is in making clocks.

Did it ever occur to you why we have what is called an eight day clock and not one made to run exactly seven days? There is a good reason for it. A clock that is made to run eight days is pretty sure to be wound on a certain day of the week, for it would be almost impossible for any one to remember to wind it on every eighth day. Therefore the interval between windings is seven days, precisely as the maker desired and expected.

The reason is that a clock runs better when it is not allowed to run down, or even nearly so. The same plan is followed in making a watch; it will run for thirty hours, but as nearly every man winds his watch at the same hour every day or night, the spring is never fully exhausted. Regularity in winding is one of the best means of keeping a timepiece in order.

The Opal.

It was Sir Walter Scott who helped, in "Anne of Geierstein," to arouse the fears of the superstitious concerning the wearing of that very beautiful stone, the opal, and it was a German dealer in gems who fostered that fear very successfully for other ends than those of romance. He came to England years ago, we are told by a jeweler, to fill an order from one of the royal families in Germany—a wedding order, if I remember rightly. Opals were then high. He had printed the story that opals were unlucky and spread the report diligently. In a short time the price went down, and he was enabled to fill his order and make a handsome profit.—Westminster Gazette.

A Cause of Righteous Wrath.

Perhaps the most striking instance of what unnecessary ringing at the doorbell can produce in the way of exasperation is to be seen in the wording of a notice on a brass plate in a street leading out of a well known west end square. It is on the door of the corner house, and this is how it runs: "This house is No. 64A —— street, and not No. 13 —— square. That house is round the corner. Do not ring here." One can dimly imagine the state of nervous madness to which that householder was reduced before he sat down to compose that notice.—London Chronicle.

Her Love.

More Money Needed To Build Collegiate Worthy Of The City

Board of Education Will Ask City Council for Additional $21,000 to Erect Modern Building.

Former Plans Found to be Insufficient to Accommodate Those Seeking a Higher Education.

Report of Building Committee Unanimously Adopted by the Board at the Meeting Held Last Night.

With a view to providing a Collegiate Institute building which will be adequate to meeting the demands of the citizens, the Board of Education last night decided through the report of their Building Committee to ask the city council for $21,000 extra for the erection of the new Collegiate. This step was taken by the Board for the reasons contained in Chairman Morrison's report which was unanimously adopted by the Board.

The Council will now be called upon to provide or refuse the additional $21,000 which the Board requires if the plans as revised are carried out and it decided to wait upon the Council and make application for that sum.

The plans of the proposed building were presented by Architect Belcher but there was no discussion on them.

The members of the Board present were Chairman Ferguson, and Messrs. Morrison, Dumble, Hill, Burnham, Crane, Fair, Hayes, Pringle and the Solicitor R. M. Donnistoun.

Dr. Morrison's Report.

To the Chairman and members of Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—Your Collegiate Institute Committee beg leave to report:—Your Committee have caused new plans to be prepared for a Collegiate Institute building. We have had in mind the requirements of a modern school such as will afford all the accommodation absolutely required and the requirements insisted on by the Government to secure the payment of the Government grant.

The people by their former grant sanctioned the erection of the school and the site chosen makes it imperative that the Board erect a building, which, situated alongside of the new armouries, will be worthy of the city, the site and the surroundings.

The building is smaller and more compact than the former design, yet will supply twelve class rooms, a library, teachers' offices, besides a practical chemistry room, a physical laboratory, together with spacious halls and a full complement of cloak rooms, lavatories, and an assembly hall to seat 500 people, and while less elaborate than the former plan, will afford all the accommodation that will be required for many years. It is so designed that it may at a future date be added to if required.

The present Collegiate building is rented from the Public School and is required for Public School purposes. It is now insufficient for Institute purposes and there is need for immediate action to accommodate the ever increasing demand for High School accommodation. There are in the public schools of the city over 2,400 pupils and every year about 5 per cent. of these enrol in the High School—the present attendance at the institute being about 300.

Having these facts before us your Committee felt that, to erect a building which in a few years would be insufficient, would be a mistake which they could not approve and therefore they have been unable to recommend to you the erection of a smaller or cheaper building than that now submitted for your approval.

Estimates have been obtained from reliable builders and on these estimates your committee feel that they can secure the erection, completion and furnishing of the new building for $61,000.00. This is the smallest sum for which your committee would feel justified in attempting the erection of the building. We would not attempt it, feeling that a deficiency would be left unpaid, and we realize that the people appreciate the enhanced cost of labour, materials, etc., and will appreciate our inability to put up a creditable building for the $40,000 now at our disposal. We therefore submit the present plan as one that will be satisfactory and that can be completed for $61,000.00 and recommend:—

1. That the Board approve of the plans herewith submitted for a Collegiate Institute building.

2. That the City Council be requested to provide an additional sum of $21,000 for the erection of a Collegiate Institute, either by a direct vote of the Council or by submitting the question to a vote of the qualified ratepayers.

M. A. MORRISON,
Chairman Building Committee.

To Provide Ample Room.

The chairman added that early in the year the committee had tried to get plans prepared within the limits of the $40,000—the amount allowed, but these were found to be insufficient. The revised plans show the building to be 114 feet long by 85 ft. 6 inches wide, with ample class

Judge Criticizes Peterborough Fair

D. C. Trew Says Poultry is Not Well Classified

The Lindsay Post yesterday said: Mr. D. C. Trow leaves for Peterborough to-morrow morning, where he will act as poultry judge at the Fair. He thinks that there will be a very large showing, and that he will have lots of work to do, as the birds are not nearly so well classified as in Lindsay, and the building not so good.

Ballasting On G.T.R. Short Line

Work Commenced Recently Near Lindsay.

The ballasting of the new G. T. R. short cut link commenced yesterday. The crew are getting their ballast at Fenelon Falls, where a "spotting" engine is at work, and they expect that it will take about three weeks to finish the work. Two moguls are in use on the road, and a gang of men are at work lifting the track. It is thought that the new link will be opened for traffic in about a month's time.—Lindsay Post.

Corduroy Walk Is Repaired

Travelling Is Now Smooth at Corner of Aylmer and London

The "corduroy" sidewalk at the corner of Aylmer and London streets was repaired to-day. Many a toe was stubbed on the uphill walk, and probably a few will recollect a little tumble at that spot since it was built some two weeks ago, when Ald. McIntyre made reference to it at a meeting of the Board of Works.

It has, however, been repaired, and the toes that had reason to know the spot so long shall know it no more.

Harvest Festival At All Saints'

Visited City After 29 Years

Mr. Dan. Johns, of Marmora, in Peterborough

One of the visitors to the Fair this week is Mr. Dan Johns, of Marmora, who is in Peterborough for the first time in 29 years. Mr. Johns is visiting Mr. John Perry while in the city, and to an Examiner reporter he talked interestingly of his impressions of Peterborough. The progress made by this community since his last visit here was a great surprise to him, and he made a prophecy that it would only be a matter of time until Peterborough would be one of the leading cities in Ontario in size, as it was now in point of progress.

Mr. Johns is one of the most prominent farmers in Hastings County, and while he has not been in Peterborough for the number of years mentioned, he has not lost his interest in the city.

Country Cousins On Streets To-day

Visitors to the City to Attend the Exhibition.

The boys are in the city. From the four points of the compass our country cousins have entered the town. However, it is not the old-time farmer of many a fable that we meet on the streets to-day, but the new man, who shows the effects of our twentieth century education. The wisps of straw, the burr on the trouser fog, and the other characteristics, are gone, with the general awkwardness of those unaccustomed to city life. "Josh" to-day has read the papers, and has benefitted by them. He knows what the outside world is doing, and what science is accomplishing in agriculture. Thus it is to his advantage to keep pace with the times. Then, too, he has often been to the cities; the network of railway lines enables him to visit wherever he wishes, and good roads provide easy trips by carriages.

However the many people who were seen on the streets to-day, were in town for the purpose of attending the fair, and enjoying themselves. The steamers brought many visitors from Rice Lake and the various points on the river, while nearly all the trains brought in their quota of strangers. This crowd should surely leave a little money in town to-day.

The hotels are "au complet," while many of the show people had to put up at boarding houses.

Mr. J. McCann has eleven cars on the George street line to handle the exhibition crowd, and an excellent service is being given.

The auto bus, the farmers' source of annoyance, was the subject of much observation. It made many trips to the grounds, conveying some of those who had sworn vengeance against it.

The crowd as a whole is a good one and should add to the financial success of the fair.

The best can be utterly spoiled by exposure to contaminating influences, as bulk teas so often are. The sealed lead packets of the "SALADA" Tea Company give you tea fresh and fragrant from the gardens to the teacup.

Peterborough Fair Opens With A Large Entry List

All Circumstances but the Weather Conspired to Make the Exhibition a Decided Success.

The Fair Grounds This Morning Presented a Busy Scene—A Large Number of Entries Made.

Some of the Features of the Fair Described—Live Stock and Poultry Showing Very Large.

The fourth Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is in full swing and judging from the number of exhibits and the crowd on the grounds, will be a complete success. Early this morning people began to arrive. The farmers from all the surrounding districts were on hand early and the morning trains and boats brought many more outsiders to swell the crowds which thronged the commodious grounds. The Peterborough people, as usual, did not begin to arrive until one o'clock, when the rush began and people poured through the gates in a way that caused the directors to wear the smile the breakfast food ad. speaks about. The attendance this afternoon seemed to be above last year.

Fine Horses.

The fair this year, as every one found, was conspicuous for the live stock entries. "There was never a finer lot of horses seen at one time in Peterborough before," said one judge to the Examiner, and this seemed to be the opinion of all. In every class there was a big field of entries, and the judging this morning was the most interesting feature of the half day.

The main building, with its many manufacturing exhibits and the fine display of ladies' work, was a centre of attraction for the ladies all afternoon. Some especially fine work was shown by the lady competitors, which aroused general admiration.

The street car service to the ground was a good one, and, although some of the cars were considerably packed the crowd was very good-natured and patiently, submitted to the jamming process.

The Midway.

The midway was more extensive this year than has been the case for some time and all seemed to be doing a rushing business. The usual cane racks were in evidence, as well as the soft drink booths, peanut stands, etc. Other means of separating men and money were an African dodger, a moving picture tent, several ball throwing outfits, an Egyptian fortune-teller, a shooting gallery and other similar enterprises designed for the entertainment of man.

The Live Stock.

It is to be hoped that all visitors to the Fair to-day visited the live stock and poultry exhibits. Probably never in the history of Peterborough Fair have the entries in these classes been so large or so fine. Every stall and pen was occupied this morning, and owners of horses had difficulty in finding places for their animals. The excellence of the exhibits in these classes is a credit to the farming community of the district, and shows that Peterborough County does not need to take a back seat for anyone.

Poultry Exhibit.

Never has there been so fine a show of poultry seen in Peterborough as was on view at the grounds to-day. Visitors to this display were loud in their praises and admiration of the exhibits. Every available showing place was taken up with the birds.

The barred Plymouth rocks probably lead the exhibits. The quality of the poultry displayed in this class was very fine, the young chicks being especially good. There were large exhibits in white Leghorns, white Rocks and white Wyandottes, and some good birds were shown. The light Brahmas on view, especially the old birds, were very fine. Indeed, the whole exhibit was worthy of the Fair, 300 to 400 birds being shown. The judge of the poultry, Mr. D. C. True, of Lindsay, was loud in his praises of the excellent birds on hand.

Sheep Exhibit.

The sheep exhibit, while not so largely entered as other classes, contained some very fine animals, which excited the admiration of all who visited them. In Leicesters, especially, the entries were very good. In this class, Wm. McKnight and Fred Staples were large exhibitors and had some very fine animals. A. Meadows, of Port Hope, has some fine Shropshire downs, and R. L. Holdsworth, of the same place, shows a fine exhibit of South downs.

Served Refreshments From Manse Kitchen Which Was Burned

The Narrow Escape of the Omemee Presbyterian Church and Manse—Pulled Coal Out of Stove While Making Coffee for Social Gathering.

Examiner Special

Omemee, Sept. 26.—The Presbyterian Manse had a close call last night, when a fire broke out in the kitchen, and at one time threatened the total destruction of the building, as well as the church adjoining.

During the evening a lecture was given in the church, by Dr. Nugent, a returned missionary from India, and at its close refreshments were served. These were prepared in the manse kitchen, and it is supposed that a coal dropped out of the stove in which a fire was burning, to heat the coffee, and was not noticed by the ladies who were interested in their work of serving the refreshments.

About 12 o'clock, however, the smell of burning woood was noticed by the occupants of the manse, and, upon making investigation they found that the kitchen was on fire.

An alarm was sent, and the fire engine was on the spot in a short time, and by hard work on the part of the volunteer brigade the rest of the house and the church were saved.

The loss will total about $300, which is covered by insurance.

Hearst and Hughes To Oppose Each Other

In the Fight for the Governorship of New York—They Were the Democratic and Republican Candidates Respectively.

J. R. Heintz & Company had despatches this afternoon stating that at Saratoga the Republicans in convention, nominated Charles E. Hughes, of New York, for Governor of New York State, on the Republican ticket. Mr. Hughes is the attorney who attracted such notice by his clever work in the insurance investigation recently conducted in that State.

At Buffalo to-night the Democratic convention will nominate William R. Hearst, the millionaire newspaper man of New York, for the governorship, to represent the Democratic party.

Hearst will have the distinction of having been given the nomination of two conventions. Last week the Independence League nominated him as its candidate.

He will thus enter the fight for the position of chief executive of the state with the endorsation of two parties.

Young Mother Deserts Her Babe And Leaves City

Another Case of Child Desertion—Asked Woman To Take Care of it for a Few Hours—Warrant Out For Her Arrest.

Another case of child desertion has been brought to light in the city, and is a case more brazen than the former. A young girl in the northwestern part of the city left an infant babe with a lady to take care of for a couple of hours, and has not been seen or heard of since.

The affair was immediately reported to the police and a warrant was given out for her arrest, and although she was known, could not be found. It is supposed she had determined to leave the city and to leave the child in the care of another to hide her shame.

HIGH WATER AND RICE.

In yesterday's issue of the Examiner, appeared a letter from Mr. Bonnycastle Dale, a well known sportsman, and nature study writer, complaining of the manner in which the high level at which the water in the river and Rice Lake, had been maintained, had practically destroyed the rice crop. The point seems to be whether this high level is necessary, or not, in the interests of navigation. It is well known, and generally recognized, that in respect of the waters north of Peterborough, a proper level is absolutely necessary in the interests of navigation, and industrial enterprise. If the Trent Canal is to be the great transportation route it is capable of being made, all other considerations must give place to this consideration. From a sportsman's point of view, the destruction of the rice crop is regrettable; but that is a minor matter compared with the alleged destruction of an important source of sustenance to the Indians. But this is not without remedy. The Government of Canada has always dealt generously and honourably with the aboriginal inhabitants, and in this case if the injury is as great as described, no exception will be made. If the Government makes compensation to persons whose lands are submerged by raising the water level for canal purposes, the rights and claims of the Indians, under similar conditions, will not be ignored. The process of developing the resources of the country, and making them subservient to the purposes of progress, must necessarily work large changes in natural conditions. The claim that the development of power at Niagara Falls, would injure the natural scenic beauty of the great cataract, while justified on the score of aesthetic considerations, did not operate to prevent the work from proceeding. The work of canal construction and of canalization of intervening reaches, by raising the water level, has, doubtless, destroyed many a bit of charming scenery, but the canal work must go on, and whatever incidental injury may result, will have to be dealt with in a fair and an equitable spirit. If a railway company, in the exercise of the rights conferred by its charter, can cut through, and, in a sense, lay waste the finest farmstead in the country, making of course, adequate compensation, how much more can a government, which creates such railway companies, and is charged with the responsibility of promoting the public interest, take such action as these interests demand. If the public interests demand, as they do, that the Trent Canal shall be built, and if in the process the natural level of the water must be raised, all private and sectional interests must give place, with the understanding that adequate compensation, so far as possible, shall be made. If the Rice Lake Indians are injured, their claims for compensation will form a proper subject of consideration. And no doubt if the duck-shooter and the fisherman could produce a good case, their claims would not be overlooked.

THE LAKE TERMINUS.

The Port Hope Guide is going more than half way to meet trouble. It uses a despatch intimating that Trenton will be selected as the southern terminus of the Trent Canal, to work up a mild attack of journalistic hysterics. The Guide should possess its soul in patience. The Government may be counted upon to keep faith in regard to selecting the best route for a southern outlet, whether that be by way of Port Hope or Trenton, and will not be bound by the terms of a despatch, sent out by some space-coveting correspondent. The main point is the canal and the sooner the question of route is settled the better. Those who think that the intrusion of the question of an alternative route via Port Hope has been a cause of delay will feel additionally justified if that route is not chosen. If as the Guide hints Cobourg is to be set up as another possible terminus and its claims are considered, still further delay will ensue, and strength will be given to the inference, that, in some quarters, the canal is not wanted so much for itself, as a medium for the exploitation of sectional schemes and the promotion of sectional interests.

ANOTHER HEAD.

Hansardful of fiery eloquence emitted by Mr. Whitney—testify to the burning zeal he once felt for removing the Educational Department from political influences. He even went so far as to oppose the appointment of a Minster of Education for fear that the taint of politics should befoul the interests it represented. The Premier has bravely outlived his enthusiasm for the principle of cutting out politics—that was only warranted when he could make no use of it. He has even, his friends admit, made the License Department a ward heelers' retreat. Now the political axe has begun to swing in the academic shades of the Education Department. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, with his little hatchet, has lopped off the head of Dr. Goldsmith, physician to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Belleville, without charge made or investigation held, contrary to the express declaration of policy in this regard made by Mr. Whitney. No doubt this dismissal was made for political reasons—to give a place to some professional gentleman who keeps political step with Dr. Pyne. The Whitney Government is acting, no doubt, within its powers, but is it doing the right thing in prostituting the public service to political purposes?

THE WEST.

There is no limit to the breezy optimism and quenchless enterprise, of the West. In these respects, the press sets the pace, and it is a dizzy one. The most recent example is the Winnipeg Telegram, which has issued a splendid special number of seventy full size pages, abundantly illustrated and filled with interesting statistical and descriptive matter, illustrating the growth, and possibilities of Winnipeg, the key of the West as well as the possibilities and resources of the Great West itself. This number is a most important contribution to the literature of the West, and its wide circulation must have a decided influense in emphasing the undoubted desirability of the West for the making of not only happy homes, but much money. The Tribune is to be most heartily congratulated upon its phenomenally successful stroke of enterprise, which is not only a credit to itself, but a graphic demonstration of the potentialities of Winnipeg, and the West, which have made possible, and justified such enterprise.

rooms to accommodate 400 pupils together with teachers' library and laboratories. It was designed after the former design—concrete to the ground, a Longford stone foundation, and red brick trimmed with Longford stone for the superstructure.

Endorsed the Plans.

The committee, he said, had referred the plans to the Collegiate Institute principal and members of the staff and they had been entirely acceptable to them. There were 300 pupils or more attending school for the higher education and he considered the best accommodation should be provided for them. The Board was fortunate in having a very proficient staff at the Collegiate, which was probably second to none in the province. It was therefore necessary, he thought, to have the best accommodation for them to perform their duties. He would like to see the building begun as soon as possible and thought that if the contracts were let this fall better terms could be made with contractors who could easily have the building completed within the year. If the council feel justified in granting the additional $21,000 the work could be immediately begun, but if they do not the committee would agree to their decision. He did not think that the people would reject the proposition if a vote were taken. The debentures for the extras spread over a period of 20 years would only add 20 c. on each $1,000 assessment. He moved the adoption of the report.

A Suitable Collegiate.

Mr. Dumble seconded the motion. The city, he said, must have a Collegiate Institute and it must have a suitable one. In view of the progress of Peterborough and of the decision of thee Government to place a Normal School here, he thought the new school ought to be a worthy one. The plans had been carefully considered and if he understood the feeling of the people, they would approve of the extra expenditure of the $21,000.

The report was adopted unanimously.

Moved by Messrs. Crane and Fair that the Board make application to the City Council for the grant of $21,000.—Carried.

It was also decided that the Board meet the Council and make the above application.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

A Distinguished Lindsay Visitor

A Veteran of the Crimean Sees the Fair and His Friends.

The Examiner had the pleasure of a call from Sergt.-Major Martin, of Lindsay, who, with Mrs. Martin, are in the city to attend the Fair, and are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Godfrey, Sheridan Terrace. Sergt.-Major Martin is a veteran of the army who, in all, has served 39 years as a soldier. He belonged, to the 21st Regiment, Royal Scotch Fusiliers, and retired by purchase in 1863. He was in the Crimean campaign, at the battles of Alma, Balaklava, Inkerman and Sebastopol, and his breast is adorned with medals in recognition of his services—the Turkish War Medal, the Long Service Medal, and the Imperial army and Navy Veterans'. He also wears the badge of the Black Watch, 42nd Regiment, of which he was made an honourary member during the recent visit of the Black Watch Band. The Black Watch were comrades in arms with the 21st at the battle of the Alma. Sergt.-Major Martin also served in the Scottish Volunteers and in the 45th Victoria County Volunteers. Lindsay is honoured in having as citizens two distinguished veterans, Col. Deacon and Sergt.-Major Martin. They were both at Alma, and on the anniversary of this battle, 52 years ago, last Thursday, they exchanged congratulations and showed each other how the field was won. Sergt.-Major Martin is now 70 years of age. The only blot on the Sergt.-Major's escutcheon is the fact of his being hopelessly Tory in politics.

Insurance Men Did Not Hear Report of Toronto Meeting

A meeting of the Life Insurance Underwriters' Association of Central Ontario was held in the offices of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company this morning. There was a small number of members present and in view of this fact it was decided not to take up the matter for which the meeting was called, that of the receipt of the report of the delegate to the Ontario Association's meeting held in Toronto. A meeting will be held some time in the near future to receive this report.

Court Stanley Is Flourishing

Mrs. Riggs Promises to Pay Local Courts a Visit.

The quarterly meeting of Court Stanley A.O.F. was held last evening in the S.O.E. hall. There was a large turnout of members, Bro. H. J. Hanwell, C.R., presiding. One candidate was initiated into the mysteries of Forestry, and one proposition received for membership. After the business of the evening had been concluded, the following members of Companion Circle Queen Alexandra were admitted: Mrs. R. J. Goodenough, Mrs. H. Hanwell, Mrs. S. Adlam, Mrs. J. O. Moss, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Scott, and Mrs. Beavis. The secretary, Mrs. R. J. Goodenough, read a letter from the High Chief Companion, Mrs. Riggs, of Toronto, regretting that she could not attend the opening meeting of Queen Alexandra Circle and Court Stanley, but at some future time she would be very much pleased to pay the courts a visit. Both courts are in a flourishing condition, and some pleasant evenings are in store this coming winter.

Did Not Enter In Races To-day

Dr. Johnston Went To Campbellford With His Horses.

Dr. Johnston has declined to enter any of his horses in the races at the Exhibition to-day. He was seen by an Examiner representative yesterday evening, and at that time had practically decided to enter, but this morning was getting ready for Campbellford. He would not, he stated, put his horses on a track with Mr. Cook's, which were disqualified by the Ontario Association. It was not with any ill-feeling towards the owner nor the exhibition, he said, but he did not care to enter with disqualified horses, which would leave his own open to censure.

The doctor left for Campbellford at 11 o'clock, with four horses under his supervision—Hazel Bells, May Belle, Harry Direct (H. Nesbitt) and Lady Gothard (M. Connors). The races take place there to-morrow.

Important To Young People

Bible Society Meeting Will Be of Interest to Them

The Examiner is requested by the Rev. J. G. Potter, secretary of the Bible Society, to call the attention of the officers of all young people's leagues and societies, and the young men's guilds, to the annual meeting of the Bible Society, to be held this year in George Street Methodist Church on Monday night, October 8, at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. R. E. Welsh, M.A., who is a most fluent, forceful and pleasing speaker, and the representative of the British and Foreign Bible Society, will address the meeting. Mr. Welsh is an author of wide reputation, but is best known in his "God's Gentleman," and "A Challenge to the Churches."

It is very necessary, therefore, that all the organizations of the various churches combine to make this meeting a successful one.

Geo. E. Foster Backs Down And Produces Book

Accepts Ruling of Commission and Sends For Stock Book.

KAMLOOPS LUMBER COMPANY

Union Trust Money Found for a Large Lumbering Enterprise — How Directors Were Induced to Purchase a Lumber Mill — Mr. Stevenson Wonders at Canadian Law— —A Warning to Witnesses.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—After strenuous objections made by himself and his solicitor, Wallace Nesbitt, K. C., and considerable talking on the part of the Dominion counsel, Hon. Mr. Foster reluctantly handed over the stock book of the Great West Land Co. to Mr. Shepley before the Insurance Commission yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Foster gave the following as the list of stockholders in his company, which Mr. Shepley will present as evidence to the Commission this morning: Hon. Robert Rogers, Winnipeg; Matthew Wilson, K. C., Chatham; Lt.-Col. J. A. McGillivray, Toronto; Hon. Geo. Eulas Foster, Toronto; Sir John Boyd, Toronto; J Walter Curry, K. C., Toronto; G. W. Fowler, M. P., Sussex, N. B.; Rufus H. Pope, M. P, A. Lefurgy, M. P. Nova Scotia; E. C. Boeckh, J. W. Vandusen, G. P. Schofield, E. A. Dusseau and Fred Diver, Toronto.

Witnesses In Contempt.

When the Commission opened Mr. Shepley stated to the Commission that George W. Fowler, M. P., and A. A. Lefurgy, M. P., had been subpoenaed, and neither had put in an appearance.

"Both of these gentlemen," he said, "are concerned in the enquiry, and both ought to be here. Neither is here, although the time has arrived. A representative of Mr. Lefurgy saw me today, and asked me when he was wanted. Mr. Fowler has gone west, and notified the Commission that he will be back after a while or 'in a short time'. That sort of thing, I desire to state publicly, cannot be permitted at all. When witnesses are subpoenaed, they must be on hand. They must obey the subpoena or be in contempt, and suffer the result."

$148,086.31 From Union Trust.

Mr. Elliott Stevenson took the box and counsel read from a statement submitted to the directors of the Great West on Feb. 23, 1904, showing receipts of the following items:

July 2, G. B. Schofield, call on stock, $800; Aug. 22, do., $600; undated, Union Trust advance, $148,086.31. The disbursements to the C. P. R. on account of land, to Pope and Fowler, and for some minor expenses, and $2,884 Union Trust interest, amounted to the same total, $148,086.31. Mr. Shepley commented that the statement seemed to indicate that whatever money was distributed was the amount received from the Union Trust coffers.

A report submitted at a later meeting recited that the Townsites Co., on July 10, 1903, took over 193,937.49 acres Pope and Fowler lands, for which $149,000 was to be paid in stock at par. On July 21 the name was changed to the Great West Land Co. On July 9, Pope and Fowler lands to the extent of 8,640 acres adjoining, at $5 per acre, making in all 202,577.49 acres the total holding of the company.

Learned Better.

Mr. Shepley went further into the affairs of the Great West, reading from the minutes of the Union Trust directors' meeting. The first item was the witness' correspondence with Mr. Wilson. Mr. Shepley read from Mr. Wilson's letter of March 3, 1904, in which Wilson said he could arrange with friends to take over lands without any relation to the Union Trust. Witness thought the suggestion was to take over the Union Trust lands and to leave the three gentlemen of the syndicate in possession of the profits. He answered Wilson that he had no particular objection to his original conception of the proposition. At the later meeting new light came to him and the facts seemed different.

"You heard that the Union Trust Co.'s funds were used for further transactions?"

"Yes."

"This removed the impression that the three gentlemen of the syndicate were financing their own interests?"

"Yes."

"What answer was made at the meeting to your protest?"

"That the matter at the outset had been referred to Boyd and Wilson as lawyers, and that they had approved."

"You might have suggested," said Mr. Shepley, "that it was not fitting for Mr. Wilson to be on the board and at the same time give advice?"

Mr. Stevenson Wondered.

"I wondered," asserted Mr. Stevenson, "if the laws of Canada were so at variance with the laws of the United States as to permit such things."

Mr. Stevenson, continuing, said that a strong objection to involving the Trust Co. in the land deal was that the Trust Co. might suffer in the event of loss.

"At all events," said Mr. Shepley, "they would be able to determine a question in their own interests and for or against the Trust Co.?"

"If they protected the company, the money would come out of their own pockets. I considered the proposition inconsistent with their connection with the Trust Co. They offered a resolution that the Trust Co. should take stock and not security."

"At that time," suggested Mr. Shepley, "all the moneys had not been advanced?"

"Only $149,000 up to that time."

"Up to November, 1905, the total was $330,000."

The next intimation was that the whole burden was to be placed on the Union Trust Co. Mr. Stevenson had asked that action be deferred until Dr. Oronhyatekha should return, or, at any rate, until a later meeting. Mr. Wilson had informed Mr. Stevenson that he, Wilson, had been in error in stating that "the three of us had paid for one-half, but I had arranged to pay Foster's share and mine, and McGillivray was mortgaging his property to raise money. Mr. Wilson had added that he could borrow at 4 1-2 per cent., instead of paying 6 per cent. to the Union Trust Co.

Mr. Foster Defends Himself.

At this point Mr. Shepley called Mr. Foster to the stand and asked him if he still declined to produce the stock book of the Great West. Mr. Foster said that he did, and went on to repeat, in his opinion, that the book was not necessary to show the validity of the security held by the Trust Co. There had been no refusal, he added, of any information he could give, and he was willing to give all such which would throw light upon the security, value of land, etc. "It doesn't seem to me that it is necessary or within the powers of the Commission to go into the stock arrangements of a company not related in any respect at all to the insurance company, and I can't see what is the connection which will illustrate the validity of the security, the quality and nature of the security. In making that statement, I do so with the utmost respect for the Commission."

"I don't want," said Mr. Shepley, "to prolong the discussion, but I want to let you see my view. You are exercising your own private judgment, and relying upon that as to the relevance of the book to the enquiry?"

"Yes."

Union Trust Co. Subject.

"Are you aware that the Commissioners ruled that the affairs of the Union Trust are subject to enquiry?"

"All the affairs of the Union Trust? I was not aware of that." In so far as any investment of or for the I. O. F. should be followed up, he had thought was the ruling; but not as to the Union Trust's own business.

"I was not."

"If you had been aware of that ruling, dealing with the capital funds so furnished as a proper subject for enquiry, would that have altered the position you have taken?"

"I don't think that it would. I think there is a very distinct difference between trust funds handed over to the Union Trust to invest under contract by the I. O. F. and funds which have became Union Trust funds by myself, or any other subscriber, subscribing for and purchasing capital stock, which then became their investment. A commission's powers are not so strong but they must have a limit, a boundary, beyond which they must not cross. They are formed, and orders are given them. I ought not to be charged with contumacy of their powers, because, in my judgment, they go beyond their powers. I must have a judgment—though humble. As a public man, I think I do understand something as to investigations."

A Witness' Rights.

"I don't know," he continued, "what rights I have."

"The same right as any witness in the box."

"I suppose that is to answer questions——"

"But I give you the right—"

"Then, privilege or right, as illustrating the difficulty of my position, you pressed a witness (Dr. Oronhyatekha) to give his opinion of my conduct as manager. He was reluctant, but did cite, as an instance, where I disobeyed orders. If I have made one, I've made thousands upon thousands of investments. I am put in that invidious position as general manager of the Trust Co., as you saw in the headlines this morning. The only way I can be put right is to review the whole situation. I may have made mistakes, no doubt, and I hope many considerations might make me not a bad average manager. If I have that right, to whom can I appeal? What is my tribunal? One of the members (Mr. Langmuir) is manager of a rival institution to the Union Trust, and it is certainly not too much to say that it is unfair and unreasonable treatment that my conduct should be open to investigation of a brother official in a rival company—"

"You must see, Mr. Foster, that if every witness' private judgment is followed, the Commissioners' power and scope must be seriously impaired."

"Each witness must judge for himself," repeated Mr. Foster, "but I am in a rather different position from the other witnesses. I could tell you why."

The court adjourned for lunch.

When the Commission resumed, Wallace Nesbitt addressed the Commission at length and argued that the stock book was not necessary to the transactions of the Foresters' money.

Judge MacTavish Rules.

Judge MacTavish said: "We think that we would not be doing our duty nor carrying out our instructions if this transaction was not thoroughly enquired into. I think it follows that any book or document that would throw any light or detail upon the subject should be placed at the service of the Commission. Of course, private interests will be respected, but this is a matter of public interest. Mr. Foster is quite proper in the position he takes, thinking it is no part of his duty to volunteer information of this kind."

Mr. Foster took the stand. He had heard the ruling and appreciated the reasons given out by the Commission, but he could not forego his private judgment. It was no use to contest the decision of the Commission at this time. He would produce the stock book, which was at his residence.

Mr. Foster dictated a note and a messenger was despatched for the book.

What the Minutes Show.

In the meantime Mr. Stevenson was recalled to the box.

Mr. Shepley took up a minute of a meeting of the directors of the Union Trust Co., held on Sept. 5, dealing with the change of name of the Farm and Town Sites Co. to the Great West Land Co. A minute of the shareholders of the Great West Land Co., Dec. 25, 1905, was gone into next, but witness was not present. It dealt with the agreement dealing with the mortgage given by the Great West Land Co. to the Union Trust Co. Messrs. Wilson, McGillivray, Foster, Schofield and Sir J. W. Boyd, and Vandusen and by proxy the Union Trust Co. Then came the members of the directorate at a meeting held last February.

The annual meeting of shareholders was held. Those present were: Messrs. Foster, McGillivray and Wilson. Mr. Wilson acted as chairman and Mr. Foster was secretary. Witness knew nothing about certain changes made in the directorate whereby Mr. Rogers dropped out and Mr. Boeckh was elected in his place. The financial statement was presented to the meeting.

Assets and Liabilities.

Assets and liabilities appeared in this statement only. The assets were $1,148,174, the liabilities were the final liability to Pope & Fowler, to the C. P. R. and the mortgage for $758,000. To the shareholders the liability was $162,820. Which counsel said would be shown to whom due when the stock book arrived.

Mr. Shepley appealed to the witness to have the minutes of the Union Trust Co. produced. There was some hitch at the office. Mr. Stevnson sent a boy for the minutes.

The stock book arrived at this point Mr. Shepley took up a minute of July last dealing with certain promissory notes given by the purchasers of land from the Great West Land Co. to the Union Trust Co. for endorsation. These were handled to the satisfaction of the Great West Land Co.

The Great West Land Co. owed the Union Trust Co, to date $837,237. Some of the sales had not been completed: 180,960 acres had been sold at an average price of $7 per acre. The average cost with interest added to January last was $4.84 per acre, and the net profit on the sale would be $363,000. There was $35,840 yet to be sold, which, when sold, would make a total profit for some one on the deal of $400,000.

Will Invest on Profit.

Witness stated here that the Trust Co. would insist on the ratio of profit on the 337 1-2 shares as the total amount of shares outstanding on the profit made on the expected sale of 26,840 acres. The I. O. O. F. still hold two-fifths of the capital stock of the Union Trust Co.

Mr. Shepley announced that he would make a private examination of the stock book before making it public. Chairman MacTavish assented.

The transaction in connection with the Quebec transaction was a timber proposition proposed by same parties, McCormick, Irwin and Fowler, in British Columbia, known as the Shields-Ryan property. The option taken was dated October, 1903. This matter was to take place of the Quebec timber transaction. Messrs. McCormick, Irwin and Fowler were to put up 49 per cent., the 50 per cent. to be put up by the Union Trust Co., which was to put up money for the whole. The three gentlemen were to put up their covenant for their shares.

Shields-Ryan Timber Limit.

The proposition was to purchase the Shields-Ryan sawmill and timber limit, 100 square miles for $225,000, at Kamloops. Mr. Fowler brought the matter to the notice of Mr. Foster, who in turn brought it to the notice of the Union Trust Co. The capital of the new scheme was fixed at $500,000, and the Union Trust Co. put up $225,000 in hard cash, which was to be used as working capital. Mr. Foster, acting with and for the Trust Co., was to secure the option, Irwin and McCormick was to examine the land. The Trust Co., having agreed to furnish the money, if the report was satisfactory.

Mr. Shepley asked Mr. DuVernet to produce all the books and documents in connection with this deal.

Mr. DuVernet demurred, and Mr. Stevenson said he would get anything that was necessary without further trouble.

From Ryan and Fowler.

Counsel went into the minute of the Union Trust Co. of Dec. 19, 1903, when a proposition was laid before the directorate to purchase certain timber limits in British Columbia from Peter Ryan and George W. Fowler.

On Jan. 26 a bargain was made between Peter Ryan, vendor, and George W. Fowler, M. P. of Sussex, purchaser. This recited the sale for $225,000 of this parcel of land to Fowler. This was satisfactorily dealt with.

The payment of the $225,000 was made by a cheque of $100,000 to Peter Ryan, and several other cheques for the balance made to the Bank of Montreal, two for $50,000 each, and one of $25,000, one of which was endorsed by Ryan. The cheques will be produced later. This closed the matter, and the company was organized as the Kamloops Lumber Co. These books of this company are in the custody of the Union Trust Co., and will also be produced.

Did Not Know Levesconte.

"What part in the matter did Mr. Levesconte have?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"I did not know him in the matter at all," said Mr. Stevenson.

The necessary expenses of the running operations of the company was forwarded from time to time, and a set of books was kept here.

The Shuschab Shingle Mill Co. was acquired by the Kamloops Lumber Co. for $40,000. Fowler also put through this deal for the Trust Co. This the Trust Co. paid. Another property at Enderly, consisting of a single hand saw mill was also acquired at $175,000. Fowler put this deal through. The purchase money was paid into the Bank of Nova Scotia to the credit of Mr. Fowler. The business was owned by a corporation called the Obanagan Lumber Co., of which Fowler, McCormick and Irwin were stockholders.

Then the Union Trust bought $42,000 worth of logs.

The Commission adjourned to meet at 10.30 to-day.

Immigrant Ends His Life.

Parry Sound, Sept. 26.—Two members of the C.P.R. engineer's staff, found a man 40 miles north of here suffering from a bullet wound in his forehead above the bridge of the nose. On being spoken to he said: "Let me die." He said he had shot himself, as he was tired of life and wanted rest. The man said his name was Kidd Mason, and that he was a recent emigrant from England, was a carpenter, and was sent from Montreal by the Montreal Employment Bureau. He died in the hospital here.

Arrested For Seduction.

Brockville, Sept. 26.—Charles Sangster, a switchman in the C. P. R. yards here, was placed under arrest four hours previous to the time set for his marriage to a well-known young lady of this town, and the nuptials had to be postponed indefinitely. He was charged in the police court with, in June last, seducing the 14-year-old daughter of Mrs Anthony White of Brockville. He denies the accusation, and was remanded for a week.

Want to Tax Churches.

Exeter has more churches to the population than any place in England, and is often called the "City of Churches." The local authorities have been considering the desirability of assessing these numerous buildings, and so adding enormously to the rateable value of the city. They attempted to rate a church used by the Spiritualists, but a protest was lodged against it by the stewards, who contend that if one sect is rated, all must be rated, including the cathedral. The matter stands adjourned to ascertain the practice in other parts of the country.

An Open Verdict.

St. Catharines, Sept. 26.—The inquest touching the death of Clifford Liddycoat, shot at Thorold on Friday last by James Wilkinson, was concluded last night before Coroner Herod. The jury returned an open verdict, saying the death may have been accidental, and adding a caution against persons allowing boys the free use of fire arms.

The Atlanta Race Riots.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 26.—Yesterday morning two negroes who were creating trouble were killed by officers after a desperate fight. The police captured ten of the attacking party which killed Policeman Heard in South Atlanta. In the Brownsville suburb one negro was killed and 250 negroes placed under arrest.

Cough Lasted 3 Months.

"I was taken with a severe cough which lasted for three months, and though I tried all sorts of medicines they failed to do me any good. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and I was completely cured by two bottles." — Miss Ada O'Brien, Cape Cove, Gaspe Co., Quebec.

Peterborough Fair Opens With a Large Entry List

Robt. Vance, of Millbrook, is a large exhibitor in Cotswolds.

Some Fine Cattle.

The cattle exhibits were very good, especially in Durhams, in which some fine animals were shown. This part of the Fair was above the average, a fact upon which the directors are congratulating themselves. Richard Honey, of the Minster Farm, Brickley, is a large exhibitor in the Holstein class, and had a herd of these fine animals. J. A. McLeod, of Plainville, was another large exhibitor, his herd of Polled Angus cattle being the best seen for some time. Fifteen animals were on hand, representing fifteen entries. The Jersey exhibits, while not large, contained some fine animals.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

Among the special exhibits at the Fair, particularly worthy of extended mention, were the following:

TURNER AND SON'S UNIQUE TENT DISPLAY.

The energy displayed by the members of the firm of J. J. Turner & Sons, is always worthy of special mention in connection with our agricultural fair exhibition. Visitors were yesterday struck with the extent and completeness of their exhibit, and the enterprise shown this year by this firm was significant of the hustle which they are putting into business.

The most striking feature of their tent display was a handsome green and white striped house tent. It was shown in detail, just as it appeared at the recent Toronto Exhibition, where they carried off the highest awards. Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., and his assistants, courteously explained the many valuable features of this tent and gave every information desired. Its dimensions are 25 x 15 feet, the outside fly being several feet wider, which provides for a verandah all the way round. The inside tent is divided into a large sitting room in the centre, with four bedrooms in connection, all opening out into the sitting room, which extends from front to rear. The tent is entered by two neatly panelled wooden doors, fitted with glass half way down, similar to a door in a dwelling house. The four bedrooms have each a specially designed window so constructed that they can be opened for ventilating purposes, leaving a wire screen, which excludes flies and mosquitoes. There is an iron cot, with complete bedding in each bedroom, even to the extra pair of rugs, folded, on the bottom of each cot, ready for any cold-weather emergency. The wooden floor is covered with wool rugs, and Japanese mattings. This tent is very suitable for hospital work, being bright and cheerful; or it would make an ideal summer cottage, being thoroughly waterproof, and is so constructed as to withstand any storm. The firm is continually receiving orders for this tent. Stratford has erected four of them for hospital purposes, under the direction of the King's Daughters, of that city. "Buy a tent and lock your bedroom door," is the advice of a daughter. Surmounting this exhibit is an artistically lettered sign, written in attractive colours, and embellished with dragon designs at each corner, all executed in the Sign Department in connection with the firm.

A prospector's tent, was shown, made of white mercerized silk, the whole outfit weighing only eight pounds, and splendidly adapted for its purpose.

In a large marquee were also exhibited a large assortment of horse blankets, in wool, kersey, jute, etc., in which they do a large trade. They also handle imported Scotch and English steamer and other high-class rugs, in large quantities.

THE SIMPLE EASY-RUNNING EMPIRE CREAM SEPARATOR.

This is the separator that saves the cream, that skims the milk, that makes the butter, that brings the cash to the farmer. The Empire was exhibited in a tent by Mr. Fred J. Doughty, the general agent, who has been attending a number of the large Fairs in the interests of the separator. Mr. Doughty had several important things to tell the farmers regarding the many excellent points of the Empire. He claims that if you want a separator that gets all the butter fat out of the milk every time it is used you must buy the Empire. It is a simple, frictionless, perfect machine that does the work required of it, more quickly and more easily than by any other methods.

There is no oil-cup on the 1906 Empire. No oil-cup is needed because a supply of oil is not required. Instead, on account of the new, improved neck-bearing, the Empire is so nearly frictionless, that unless the bowl is stopped it will run for half an hour after turning of the crank has ceased. For this reason an automatic brake operating on the band around the bottom of the bowl, becomes necessary and is supplied.

The possibility of vibration or of the bowl getting out of balance is reduced to the minimum, practically eliminated. This is accomplished through the improved upper or neck-bearing in the 1906 Empire. This is a ball-bearing, and a direct departure from anything which has ever been used in hand separator construction. The bowl spindle sets in a bushing which revolves on frictionless balls; consequently there is no wear on the bowl spindle, no friction, but greater ease of operation.

A. BLADE & SON'S EXHIBIT OF FLOWERS.

There was a very interesting display of flowers made by Messrs. A. Blade and Son, of the West End Greenhouses, Park Infleet. Among the most attractive plants shown was a collection of fancy begonias and a collection of ferns. Effective hall and table decoration plants were shown, such as the Sanseviavia and Rubber plants. A valuable specimen of the Dragon Dress., the Lantana plant, Eqavara, and Bush Cedar were shown. There was a very choice collection of palms, and fully fourteen different varieties of ferns. Altogether, the display was very much admired, and decorated a corner among the inside exhibits in a pleasing manner.

THE ROY STUDIO GEMS.

The general and well merited recognition of the Roy Studio photographs, both in Peterborough and abroad, has long ago been testified to. That "A wise man feareth and departeth from poor mediums," may be truly said of Mr. Roy. Every one who leads the world one step towards perfection in any one line of art is a benefactor, for he helps to open a field of great joy to those who never suspected its existence. And as the capabilities of judging their worth increases the pleasure derived from them will increase proportionately.

It would be a serious loss to the Peterborough Art Section of Peterborough Central Fair, if Mr. R. M. Roy's exquisite collection of photography were to be missed. His special exhibit this year is, as usual, a delight to art-loving visitors. The collection is, of course, wholly composed of specimens from his own studio, on Hunter street, where the work which he has produced has won for him a place in the guild of artists, and has brought praise to himself, and the city.

A very hasty view of some of the choicest gems in Mr. Roy's collection, showed excellent examples of the results achieved by untiring devotion to the art. Compliments were generously bestowed on a number of artistic etchings, new panel retouching and other soft, stylish effects. Pretty pictures of children were shown—the heads of two laughing cherubs, brother and sister, being conspicuous for their happy expressions and natural pose. An enlarged picture of "Santa Claus" was quite true to life and fairy tales. There was also a large sepia of Master Heber Rogers, son of Mr. R. H. Rogers, the little hero who was presented with the medal of the Humane Society recently. But perhaps the one sample that caught the attention of visitors the quickest was a spicy true-to life sepia picture of an old man from Apsley, about 70 years of age, who was caught by the camera in a very amusing manner. The laughing eyes, the facial expression and the veteran quaintness of the pose, were very expressive. A number of the best pictures were shown in the fancy weathered oak frames so popular for decorations. Some very large groups and views of local residences attracted general attention.

Mr. Roy's straight photographic work is conspicuous for delicate toning, soft effects, sharp artistic finish and admirable posing. Those shown were not specially finished for the fair, but were ordinary samples of his everyday work. It is most gratifying to know that at Mr. Roy's well equipped studio one can have the assurance of having the finest work obtainable anywhere, and infinitely better than in many of the studios of the metropolis. For the ninth time Mr. Roy carried off the highest honours awarded by the Directors.

HATS OFF TO LANG & MAHER.

The effective fall fair advertising campaign of Messrs. Lang & Maher, "The Daylight Clothiers," of George street, was inaugurated yesterday at our fair. Their energetic methods, and brilliant bulletin boards, attracted no small attention all over the grounds that it was no wonder their name was talked of so much by visitors.

Commencing at the entrance to the grounds, and looking all around on the fences, sheds, gates, grand stands, main buildign, etc., large coloured bulletins attractively lettered, bearing their name and business address, were to be seen prominently displayed. It was simply impossible for anyone to attend the fair without learning that Lang & Maher are the live "Daylight Clothiers," who are determined not to hide their light under a three story building.

Things move quickly in 1906. A man must think harder, act quicker, and dress smarter, than his father did, if he would have a chance with "the survival of the fittest." Time was when a merchant could sit on his goods and grow up with the country. To-day he must not only keep pace with the procession, but must lead in some direction. That's just what the young and hustling firm of Lang & Maher, are doing in the clothing business to-day. Our fathers believed that a new business should creep before it tried to walk. Lang & Maher's business never did any creeping. It not only walked, but it ran, from its natal day.

This "Daylight Store," is typical of a new era in merchandising, and has gone out of the beaten paths for its business. The very interesting and novel exhibition made by the representatives of the firm in a large tent specially constructed for the purpose, was visited by hundreds of visitors. Here was displayed an admirably arranged exhibit of their new fall and winter suits, overcoats, toppers, raincoats, etc., for men, as well as a smart exposition of boys' suits, reefers and overcoats. Their "Sovereign Brand" garments were shown to good purpose. Original designs for 1906, studied out and adapted to the exacting demands of particular wearers, give "Sovereign Brand" garments a neatness, shapeliness, fit and comfort, peculiar to itself.

In addition to the "Sovereign Brand," the firm also sell the well known "Fit-rite" and "Northway" garments. The splendid advertisement which both these high-class makes of clothing have secured from good dressers, makes them extensively sought after. Quite the newest and most dressy of the figure-fitting overcoats this season are shown in "Fit-rite" models.

Every dollar spent at Lang & Maher's store, No. 409-411 George street, is assured to be spent to the best advantage. The members of the firm are prepared to back up every assertion they make, not by bombastic advertising, but by merit. They treat all customers alike, and on the square, as well as the three-links; so that the child could buy as safely as the man.

It is quite easy to get acquainted with Lang & Maher's store, on George street — their handsome tile entrance to their front door, and their name plate in blue tile lettering should suffice. The success which they have enjoyed speaks volumes for their future. A good start is everything, and they have had it. Having tasted the sweets of good fortune it is but natural that they would like a little more of it. Their new Fall Clothing and Furnishings have been selected with the care of expert buyers and a knowledge of the requirements of Peterborough's particular trade. They are both practical men, and know just what to buy and what not to buy.

AMERICAN CEREAL COMPANY'S EXHIBITS.

Prominent in the main building is the exhibit of the American Cereal Company, which consists of a pyramid of Quaker Oats, Rolled White Oats, Banner Oats, Saxony Oats and Pettijohn Breakfast Food, and Apetizo. These varied lines were all put up in attractive cartons and made an effective display, which was admired by crowds of visitors.

Another novelty of this Cereal Company, and one which is fast coming into popularity, is Puffed Rice. Just as there is "Go" in Quaker Oats, so is there a growing taste for this dainty new food.

The export business of the company is assuming immense proportions. The Banner and Saxon packages each contain a pretty, useful piece of china as a souvenir. The Quaker Oats and Pettijohn packages each contain a coupon which entitles the holder to receive a premium of silver.

THE "MELOTTE" CREAM SEPARATOR.

There are many of the farmers and dairymen in Peterborough county who have been using the "Melotte" cream separator for years, and who can always speak a good word for its excellent features. Mr. George Hutchinson, stove dealer, George street, is the local agent, and is is well known that he has been favoured with a good record of sales. The "Melotte" has many advantages, one of the strongest being that "four cows with a Melotte produce more butter than five cows without one." Another is, that it takes one-third less power, and costs 75 cents less for repairs than other machines. Mr. Caron, the company's expert travelling representative, was in charge of the exhibition.

HOW IT SPREADS

The first package of Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, the infallible pile cure, that was put out, went to a small town in Nebraska.

It cured a case of piles that was considered hopeless.

The news spread, and although this was only two years ago, the demand prompted Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Nebraska, the discoverer, to prepare it for general use. Now it is being sent to all parts of the world.

It will cure any case of piles. There is a month's treatment in each box. Sold for $1 with an absolute guarantee.

It is for sale by druggists or by The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. 4

Peace Prevails At Police Court

Only One Case Before Magistrate Dumble This Morning

At the police court this morning Arthur Werts pleaded guilty to the charge of theft. He was employed in Mr. A. H. Stratton's bookstore, and was acquiring the habit of dishonesty by stealing small sums of money. He was discovered at one of these mean acts and was made an example of by his employer. Police Magistrate Dumble pointed out the destruction which surely awaited youths who persisted in dishonest acts, and urged the boy to strengthen his will and resist all such future temptations and thus make a good man and citizen. The boy was then allowed to go free, but under a suspended sentence.

Mr. Rutherford's Death Lamented

In Omemee Where He Was Well Known—Other News Items

Omemee, Sept. 11.—The sudden and lamented death of the late Joseph Rutherford, aged 67, on Friday night, cast a gloom over our village where he was long and favourably known as a quiet, honest industrious man in Emily. In politics was a Reformer and belonged to the Presbyterian Church and as an official was highly respected. His brother John died suddenly about six years ago; also another brother was killed at Peabro. His wife, two sons and three daughters are left to mourn the loss.

Peterborough Fair will be attended by a number from here, but is not properly advertised.

The large automobile from Peterborough, caused quite a sensation passing through here to the Lindsay Fair on Friday last, and on the return trip treated some of the boys to a free advertising trip a few miles out. If arranged to run some special trips to our Peterborough village for passengers, freight and produce with a trailer attached, it would soon take the place of the C. P. R.

WEDDING BELLS

CLEARY—CONDON.

Examiner Special.

Douro, September 26th. — At St. Joseph's church, this morning, an interesting wedding ceremony was performed, the contracting parties being Miss Ellen Condon, daughter of Mr. J. R. Condon, of Douro, and Mr. Michael Cleary of Chandos. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Galvin, of St. Peter's cathedral, a number of the friends of the bride and groom gathering at the church to witness the interesting event. The bride, who was dressed in a steel-gray ladies cloth suit, trimmed with lace, was attended by her cousin, Miss Lottie O'Brien, of Peterborough, and Mr. John O'Brien of Chandos, acted as groomsman.

After the wedding the party repaired to the residence of the bride's father, where refreshments were served and a number of friends gathered to pay their respects to the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleary will reside in Chandos, and will leave for their new home to-morrow morning.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN GIBBS.

This morning, after an illness extending over a period of some months, the death of Jane Rundle Hawkey wife of Mr. John Gibbs, sr., occurred at her home, 189 Brock street. The deceased was 69 years of age and had lived in Peterborough for many years. Born in Cornwall, England, she came to Canada with her parents in 1842 at the age of five years. The family settled at Cobourg, and lived there for some years. On October 21st, just fifteen years from the day she arrived in Canada, the deceased was married to her now sorrowing husband at Peterborough, and has since resided here.

She leaves to mourn her loss, in addition to her husband, one brother, Richard Hawkey, of Cobourg, and six children, four sons and two daughters: John, William, Robert, of Peterborough; and Harry of Detroit; and the daughters, Mrs. T. C. Westlake, and Mrs. Harry Hutchinson, both of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place on Friday at 2.30 o'clock, from the family residence to the Little Lake cemetery.

Ewart Dingman, The New Physical Director

A Berlin Man Who Has Accepted Appointment to the Peterborough Association Work—Comes With High Qualifications for the Work.

The Board of Directors of the local Y.M.C.A. has chosen a physical director for work in the local association, and the secretary to-day received a telegram announcing his acceptance of the offer.

The new official is Mr. Ewart Dingman, of Berlin, who comes to the city with the highest qualifications necessary to fill the office satisfactorily. For the past year Mr. Dingman has been in charge of the physical work at the Berlin Y.M.C.A. and received his training in association work in that city, where he is very highly respected.

At the meeting of the directors on Friday night Mr. Dingman's appointment was made, and Mr. Garnet Galley, the chairman of the Physical Committee, was sent to Berlin to personally support the request of the Board for Mr. Dingman to accept the position.

To-day Mr. Williamson received a wire from Mr. Galley, stating that he had been successful in his mission and added that in Mr. Dingman the Peterborough association was securing a good man, and one who would make a success of the work here.

He will in all probability arrive in the city in about a week, and will at once take up the work, which will be made a feature this winter.

Another Convention To Be Held In This City

Christians to the Number of 200 Will Gather Here for Sixth Annual Convention from Oct 19th to 21st—A Programme of the Meetings.

From October 19 to 21 the sixth annual convention of Christians will be held in this city, the meetings being held in the Gospel Hall, corner of Brock and George streets. It is expected that about 200 persons, from Toronto to Kingston, will be in attendance, and the city for that week will be full of convention visitors, the Baptists, to the number of 500, being here at the same time. The 200 visitors will be entertained free by the members of the local branch. The Christians here have issued a circular, which gives the programme of the convention and a greeting, as follows:

Peterborough Christians (who gather unto Him, Our Lord Jesus Christ, outside the Camp) send greetings to all who in every place have obtained like precious faith, and herewith invite you to gather with us on the aforesaid dates (if Our Lord be not come), in conference over His Holy Word.

Meetings will commence with a general prayer and praise meeting Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock.

Friday and Saturday.

9 to 9.45 a.m.—Conversational Bible Study.

10.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. — Prayer and Ministry of the Word of God.

7.30 p.m.—Gospel Message to Poor Sinners.

Sunday.

9 to 9.45 a.m.—Family Bible Reading.

10.30 a.m.—Gather to remember our Lord in breaking of bread.

It is expected that a number of prominent speakers will be present and address the meetings, among them Mr. Pearson, who attended the last annual convention here. On Sunday, October 21, a special mass meeting will be held at 3.30 and 7 p.m.

The invitation to attend concludes with this notice: "As this may be the last opportunity of gathering in like manner, we trust you may be led to assemble as intimated and that you may be refreshed and blessed with us, while together we ponder over Our Absent Lord."

20,000 People Die Each Year From Snake Bites

Dr. Nugent, Medical Missionary to India, Tells of the Incidents of Life in That Country—Lecture at Omemee Last Night—Is Visiting His Cousin in This City.

Dr. Nugent, a cousin of Mr. John Nugent, a returned medical missionary from India, is in the city to-day visiting his cousin. Last night he gave an address at the Presbyterian church, Omemee, on his seven years' experience in missionary work in India. His address was very interesting, and his hearers were given a glimpse of life in that land which made them more than thankful that they had their abode in such a favoured country as Canada.

The incidents of the famine were vividly described, and the horrors of life in a country where 20,000 persons die from snake bites each year, were portrayed. The speaker stated that even while he was in Canada, where, of course, there was no danger from this source, force of habit made him lift his pillow every night upon retiring, to see if there were any snakes beneath.

Dr. Nugent will spend a short time in the city visiting his cousin before returning to his work in India, where he ministers to the physical and spiritual suffering.

—To-night's prayer meeting at St. Andrew's Church will be an interesting meeting. The pastor, Rev. J. G. Potter, will speak on "Prayer and Working Force in the Life of Christ."

Hard on Seagram.

—The Lethbridge Herald says: A Peterborough paper reports that a strange fish that has horns, was caught near there recently. One of the party of fishermen was a man named Seagram. That explains it all.

Wires Underground.

—The Bell Telephone Company has commenced work on its new system of underground cables for all wires on Orillia main streets. The preliminary work now being done is the sinking of shafts on the Peter street roadway.

Rally Day.

—Next Sunday will be Annual Rally Day in the Mark Street Sabbath School. The school will meet at 2.30 o'clock in the basement, and the rally will be at 2.45 in the body of the church. A general invitation is given to be present.

Pictures! Pictures!

Many Drunks At Lindsay's Fair

All Past Records Were Broken On The Two Days

Chief Nevison reports eight drunk and disorderly cases on Friday and Saturday, the big days of the Lindsay central fair. That doesn't seem much out of some 15,000 visitors, yet he says that it beats all past records for fair days. He never saw so much drinking before as he did on Friday last.—Post.

Educational

Y.W.C.A. Rally

A Delightful Evening Was Spent in Association Rooms

The young women of Peterborough turned out in large numbers last night for the Educational Rally Social which was held in their new building and rooms. Mrs. Dr. Scott presided and the meeting opened by singing "All hail the power of Jesus name" and after Bible reading and prayer, Mrs. Scott gave a hearty welcome to the girls and introduced the new secretary Miss Maynecord, who spoke briefly on the need of earnest and prayerful co-operation on the part of the members to make the Young Women's Christian Association a means of great blessing to all the young woman of Peterborough this year. Miss Coventry, the new Physical Directress was then introduced and spoke of the work she is hoping to do amongst them this winter.

Then followed the address of the evening, by Miss Little, to which the crowded audience listened almost breathlessly for quite forty minutes, many of them standing all the time. Miss Little has recently returned from a trip to Europe where she went to represent the Canadian Branch of the Y.W.C.A. at the "World's Conference in Paris, where 31 different countries were represented and she showed what the Young Women's Christian Association was accomplishing in England, Scotland, France, and Germany. She spoke of the superiority of our buildings in Canada, but thought we lacked a little of the earnestness and enthusiasm which characterized some of our sisters abroad and appealed to them to rise to the responsibility which God had put upon them and made every one feel that the success of the Association depended largely on the way in which they did their part. She closed by reminding them of Miss McDonald's work in Japan for which their prayers and support was asked, Miss Manning, Miss Bellingham and Miss Roger then favoured the gathering with solos and refreshments followed, and a great number of those present spoke of the gathering as the most enjoyable one they had had there. Great praise is due to the ladies of the social committee for the way in which they decorated the rooms and served the refreshments.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Victorias Preparing For Saturday's Game

Prospects Are That Interesting Contest Will Take Place in Toronto—Vics. are Working Hard.

The Toronto Globe says:—Saturday next will see the opening of the rugby season for 1906, when the Victorias and Peterborough will play on Varsity Field in the senior series of the O.R.F.U. Both teams are practising hard and a good, hard contest may be expected. The Vics. are putting in some hard workouts and should make a good showing against their opponents. It will be remembered that these two teams have long been rivals. In the intermediate series the Vics. two years ago captured the trophy by defeating Peterborough for the championship, which they had held for five consecutive seasons.

The Argonaut Team Showing Up Well

First Practice Brings Out Some Good Men—Some of Last Year's 'Varsity Men on the Team.

The Toronto Telegram has the following reference to the practice of the Argonauts:—The Argonaut Rugby Club held its first practice this week last evening, and had some 25 players out—seniors and juniors. They confined their work to short runs, passes, following up punts and light tackling. Flett indulged in punting and drop kicking was a specialty, and showed great form for so early.

Among those out were Grant, Crooks, Russell, Perram, Flett, McGuire and Mara, of the old guard; Wade, who made the Yorkshire County team in England for the past three years; Cummings, Anglin, "Babe" Hewitt, and Parker. The juniors had only a few out.

The team will hit its stride after Saturday's regatta, in which most of the men are rowing. Besides two or three men of last year's 'Varsity champions are on the card to strengthen the team.

Practice Was Valuable One

Rugby Boys' Good Workout—No Spectators Will Be Allowed

The Peterborough Rugby Team had another fine practice in the rink last night, when a big crowd was out in uniform. The team will be in good shape for Saturday's game.

Dr. V. McWilliams came up from Keene to attend the practice and displayed great form. The team was drilled in many plays, and afterwards had a lively game of "rag," the exercise which has helped to win many championships for Peterborough.

Among those out were Hurtubise, Crowley, Meagher, McWilliams, Regan, Gilbert, Crough, Gilleapie, Easton, Ford, Carmichael, Quinlan, Derocher, Barber, Arthur Poe coached the team.

The boys will not practice to-night but will have a work out to-morrow night at the rink. Only the players will be admitted, so the public generally should not feel hurt at being refused admittance.

League Meeting Did Not Materialize

Prospects For Good League Are Not Bright

The meeting of the City League called for last night to draw up the schedule did not materialize and it looks very much as if the league will fall through. The Quakers were the only team represented and although the C. G. E. team is willing to play, the Crescents have dropped out and there is no other team forthcoming.

The question of fiscal relations between Canada and Australia will likely be dealt with at the colonial conference next year.

Golf Team To Play Lindsay

Representation From Local Club Will Go Friday

The following members of the Peterborough Golf Club will go to Lindsay by the noon train on Friday 28th, inst. to play a friendly game with Lindsay Club:—

S. Ray, R. Neill, H. D. Burnett, R. M. Dennistoun, A. H. Stratton, C. Hill Dr. McFall, D. Walker, S. T. Medd, E. H. D. Hall, F. Merrell, W. H. Bradburn.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 26.—Politics dominated stock market sentiment to-day and sentiment in turn predominated in operations in market fluctuations. The feeling that Hearst would be nominated was employed as an excuse that the market still decline, but the real factor, we would judge, to be money which ought to be tight in a few days in financial centres of the world. Opening prices were steady, but later a drive was made which caused quite a decline. Upon the announcement of the nomination of Hughes, the life insurance prober, by the Republicans, a sharp rally took plase in which the early losses were regained and prices put higher than yesterday. Shorts were free buyers. A million and a half more gold was engaged for import. Closing prices were firm.

Extraordinary Report On Zam-Buk

A Scientist's Remarkable Discovery.

The vegetable balm and salve called Zam-Buk is now used so widely in Canadian homes that most people are conversant with its healing powers. It is really surprising how quickly this balm cures eczema, ulcers, abscesses, etc., and closes up cuts, wounds, burns, scalds and even chronic sores. A well known analytical chemist, Mr. W. Lascelles-Scott (lecturer on chemistry and hygiene to the London Conservatoire), has analyzed Zam-Buk and his report says:

"The active constituents of Zam-Buk being exclusively of vegetable origin, it contains none of the impure, and often irritating, mineral drugs and animal fats present in less carefully prepared ointments. The antiseptic and bactericidal powers of this preparation are proved by my bacteriological tests to exceed those of the poisonous and caustic carbolic acid of commerce, yet Zam-Buk neither cauterizes nor inflames even a very sensitive skin, but promptly alleviates cutaneous disorders. Moreover, the astringent and balsamic constituents render Zam-Buk an emollient of great healing power for open wounds or muscular injuries."

With such powerful recommendation from such high quarters sufferers from skin diseases, etc., should not be slow in applying Zam-Buk. It has been proved equally effective for ringworm, scalp sores, itch, barber's rash, chafing sores, sore feet, blood poison, etc. All druggists sell at 50c. a box, or direct from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

Intervention By States To Save Island

End of New Republic of Cuba a Matter of a Few Hours.

PRESIDENT PALMA RESIGNS

Yankee Warships Rush South With Marines to Enforce Order—When Vessels Sailing This Week Arrive In Havana the United States Will Have a Force of 7,000 Ready to Land—Secty. Taft's Opinion.

Havana, Sept. 26.—It is declared on very high authority that American intervention in Cuba is certain. Furthermore, it is expected that the proclamation of intervention will be issued from Oyster Bay.

Palma Will Resign.

Havana, Sept. 26.—At the close of a meeting of the Moderate leaders, held last night, it was announced that President Palma, Vice-President Mendez Capote and the Moderate senators and representatives would all resign their offices, and call congress to-day, and place the resignations in its hands.

President Palma declined the request of the correspondent for an interview.

Marines Sail To-Day.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Fifteen hundred more American marines were ordered to Cuba yesterday by the navy department. As there are now 1,200 marines in Cuba and 3,000 blue jackets, when the vessels sailing this week arrive in Havana, the United States will be ready to land on Cuban soil a force of more than 7,000.

A Disgusting Situation.

Havana, Sept. 26.—Secretary Taft yesterday afternoon said:

"The Government officials, instead of co-operating with us to save the republic, have resorted to every kind of obstruction with the object of continuing their control of the administration. President Palma and his advisers have rejected terms of peace which were honorable to them, though in the form of a compromise with their opponents.

"We are still striving to arrange a settlement, and we trust the American people will give us credit for doing everything possible to accomplish a settlement without resorting to force.

"I cannot say that we are hopeful, for I have never known a more disgusting situation.

"Investigation convinces us that the elections were thoroughly rotten.

"We do not want to intervene, but the conditions afield may necessitate it. Our reports show that the insurgent commanders have lost control of their forces, which are now lawless bands which at any moment might loot and burn. The situation seems to demand the use of force."

Appeal From Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt has cabled to President Palma, appealing to the latter's patriotism to accept the terms suggested by Messrs. Taft and Bacon as being the only conditions under which calm political conditions could be restored.

The Methodist Conference.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—With the acceptance of the report on the superannuation fund most of the important business of the general conference of the Methodist Church was completed yesterday. Elections are going forward and there are routine and committee reports to keep the conference in session over Thursday.

The report of the committee was adopted. Aggregate payments remain as as present. Annuitants of 35 years service get $12 or $13 extra, and those under 35 years are decreased by $13 a year.

Suspended and Disqualified.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 26.—By order of the Governor of Tver, three of the most prominent Constitutional Democratic members of the late Parliament, Ivan and Michael Petrunkevitch and Dimitri Yakovlevich Medvidedeff have been suspended from their functions in the provincial zemstvos because they are under indictment for promoting rebellion by signing the Viborg manifesto This disqualifies them to stand for election to the new Parliament.

Admits That He Killed The Keyes Youth

Joseph Bellaine Acknowledges His Guilt and Surrenders.

THOUGHT KEYES WAS A BEAR

Dead Body of Fire Ranger Keyes of St. Catharines Was Found Last Week in the Cobalt District, and Had the Appearance of Having Been Hit by Stray Bullet—If True, His Death Is Fully Accounted For.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—The Attorney-General's department has received a despatch from Sudbury stating that one Joseph Bellaine has given himself up and admitted that it was he who shot and killed Roy Keyes of St. Catharines, the fire ranger, whose body was last week found in the Cobalt district.

Bellaine claims that he shot, believing at the time that it was a bear. When Keyes was found he was wearing a black sweater, which makes Bellaine's statement more probable.

Besides, so far as known, there was no motive for the deed.

Taken For a Bear.

St. Catharines, Sept. 26.—Full details of the fatal accident to Roy Keyes, only son of Barrister Jas. A Keyes have been received from Charles Henderson of Sudbury. The young man left camp on Thursday, saying he was going to try for a partridge, and taking his revolver with him. As he did not return that night searching parties were formed, and about 7 o'clock on Saturday night they found his body about forty yards from the road, with the revolver, all chambers loaded, about two feet away. He had been shot through the body. It is thought he was hit by a stray bullet, or that he may have been taken for a bear and killed by a hunter. The body was brought to St. Catharines on Monday, and the funeral took place yesterday.

Marries To Spite His Wife.

St. Catharines, Sept. 26.—George William Gough, to spite his wife, formerly Miss Ethel Blackwood, who is said to have run away with one of the boarders, married a girl, Mary Montanio, and now he is resting in the county jail, awaiting trial on the charge of bigamy.

Baby Cast Away.

Windsor, Sept. 26.—The body of a new-born baby was found in the river near Grassy Island Monday. An examination revealed that it was alive when placed in the water.

U. S. Railways Kill 26 a Day.

Washington, Sept. 26.—During the year ending June 30, 1905, according to a statement issued yesterday by the interstate commerce commission, an average of 26 persons a day were killed and 288 injured on railroads in the United States. The total number killed during the year was 9,703, while the injured number 86,008.

Drunk; Shoots Policeman.

Fort William, Sept. 26.—Policeman Miller was shot Monday night by a drunken man he was arresting at West Fort. The bullet went through his right side, inflicting a painful but not dangerous wound. The officer placed the man under arrest.

Crushed Under Train.

Hamilton, Sept. 26.—John Larmer, a painter, who lives at 71 West Main street, was run over by a Michigan Central train at Welland Monday night, and was so badly crushed that little hope of his recovery is entertained.

Hold-Up At Fort William.

Fort William, Sept. 26.—Robert Moore was held up on the C.P.R. track Monday afternoon. Three Danes flourished a knife and took his watch and chain and $60 in cash. The Danes got away.

Will Recover.

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—The victims of Monday's shooting affair, Mrs. Joseph Savignac and her mother, are doing nicely and are likely to recover. Savignac, the husband of the former, is still at large.

Babe Drinks Acid.

Brockville, Sept. 26.—Robert Ames, aged two years, got possession of a bottle of carbolic acid and drank considerable of the poison. He lingered for a few hours.

Post Office Key Connects Burglar And His Crime

Broke Into Simcoe Street House Yesterday and Stole Many Things—Attempted to Sell Them on the Market Square—Pleaded Guilty and Was Remanded For One Week.

Another burglary has to be recorded on the long list which have been committed in the city this year. Yesterday morning the house belonging to Mrs. Geo. Dunaford, on Simcoe street, just east of Water street, was broken into, ransacked from end to end, and all valuables stolen. But the thief did not escape this time, and he now rests on the hill, where he will remain a week before sentence.

He was arrested yesterday at noon by P. C. Meharry, whose watchful eye was on the lookout for the exhibition crooks, and gave the officer the name of Thos. Smith, reference to whom was made in yesterday's Examiner. He was taken into custody on the market square while attempting to dispose of some of the stolen goods.

The night was spent in a police court cell, and this morning he appeared before the Police Magistrate pleading guilty to the burglary charge, and was remanded for a week for sentence.

The stolen goods were produced in court, tied up in an undershirt. Among them were a carving set, a silver watch, keys, belts, lace, ribbons, ties, pins, and a pipe. In the bunch of keys was one belonging to the postoffice, and from this the police were able to find out the owner, Mrs. Dunaford.

P. C. Newhall went over to the house and found almost everything upside down. The bolt had been fastened at the bottom of the double door, and Smith easily pushed it in. On a table was found a bottle which once contained liquor, and the remains of some soda biscuits, where the burglar had enjoyed a quiet repast.

His capture was quite a surprise to him, and he even intimated to the officer that if he had had a weapon in his pocket it would not have been so easily effected.

Had Magistrate Dumble Authority In Liquor Case?

Spellman and Lawless Carry it to Osgoode Hall for Appeal on October 7—Claim That County Magistrate Only Had Jurisdiction.

The liquor case in which Spellman and Lawless of Lakefield figured some weeks ago, will again be heard from. It will be remembered that they were fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Dumble at the city police court. The case has been appealed by the defendants on the grounds that Magistrate Dumble had no authority to deal with it, having no jurisdiction over county matters.

The appeal will be heard at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, October 7, and if possible, the defendants will attempt to offset the decision. If the appeal is won it will mean that the proprietors of the hotel will get back their money and will not have to stand a second trial for the same offence.

Alleged Pickpocket Was Arrested At The Fair

P. C. Newhall Discovered Him After the Coin—A Stranger In the City—Remanded Until Tuesday Next.

The arrest of a supposed pickpocket was effected yesterday at the Exhibition Grounds by P. C. Newell. The officer was dressed in civilian clothes and noticed the light-fingered gentleman jostling about various people and he says, touching them up for their easy money. He had a peculiar squint which he put into immediate action the moment the wary one looked him in the face and in this way it is probable he was not suspected.

He was arrested by the officer inside the grounds when he appeared as if he were robbing or attempting to rob some of the bystanders.

This morning he appeared in police court and gave his name as M. M. Morrison. Mr. G. Gordon was present in his interests and did not elect or plead. He was remanded until Tuesday, and will be allowed to go on $500 bail.

Reckless Handling Of Revolver Killed Boy

A Shooting Fatality Reported From Victoria Road—Young Lad Named Fitzgerald Shot by Companion.

The Lindsay Post of yesterday said: A sad shooting fatality which resulted in the almost instantaneous death of a young lad, occurred in the near vicinity of Victoria Road on Sunday last. Full particulars are not to hand, but it seems that two youths, named LaRush and Fitzgerald, each almost 16 years of age, were out walking on the road, previous to going on a short hunting trip. From what we hear, a cartridge fell to the ground, and Fitzgerald picked it up, when he was ordered by LaRush, in a joking fashion, to hand it over or he would shoot. LaRush at the same time began to recklessly flourish a revolver he held in his hand. The weapon accidentally exploded, the discharged bullet crashing into Fitzgerald's head on the side, and slightly below the ear. The unfortunate boy expired almost instantly, much to the grief of his companion, who scarcely realized that he had killed his friend.

The funeral of young Fitzgerald took place yesterday.

Now It's Galway That Has The Silver Deposits

A Rich Find Reported in That Township—Lindsay Capitalists Said to be Interested In It.

Haliburton county has no monopoly of silver-bearing ore by any means, and Peterborough citizens will be glad to learn that in the township of Galway, in Peterborough County, a discovery of what has all the appearances of rich mineral. It is understood that the discovery was brought to the attention of some Lindsay capitalists who secured samples of the ore, which assayed rich.

These gentlemen are now forming a Company to secure control of considerable of the property in the vicinity of the find, and if prospects warrant it, operations will in all probability be proceeded with in developing the property.

This looks like a pretty good proposition for Galway Township, which, while it undoubtedly is rich in timber resources, has not as yet, been developed agriculturally, and if it turns out that the township has minerals as rich as is promised, it will mean that the township will develop rapidly, and become one of the most wealthy in the county.

Further developments are expected in the near future, and it is possible that later information will reveal the fact that the find is richer than anticipated.

David Doig Secures Release From Ga[illegible]

In Response to Petition Minister of Justice Orders H[illegible] Release—Result of a Largely Signed Petition.

David Doig, who a little over three months ago was sentenced to imprisonment for five months, was released last night from the county jail, where he has spent more than three months, on an order from the Minister of Justice, who directed Sheriff Hall last night to release Mr. Doig, the orderr being executed at once.

It will be remembered that shortly after Mr. Doig was sentenced, his solicitor, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, prepared and circulated a petition, asking for his release. This petition was signed by a great many of his friends, particularly by those who lived near him in the township of North Monaghan.

The petition was sent to Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, the Minister of Justice, who decided to grant the request of the petitioners, with the result, as stated.

Work On New Normal Schools By Christmas

Plans of Building Are Ready for submission to Cabinet—Tenders Will be Asked For at Once—Hope to Have Work Under Way by Christmas.

The Globe to-day says it understands that the plans of the four new Normal Schools contemplated under this year's educational expansion programme are ready for submission to the Cabinet for approval. As soon as this is obtained tenders will be called for and work on the schools will be commenced. Before Christmas it is hoped to have work on the whole four well under way. The schools, it will be remembered, are to be located at Hamilton, Stratford, Peterborough and North Bay.

The Legislature at its last session made a preliminary vote of $100,000 for these schools, but as they are to cost 50,000 each an additional grant of $100,000 will be asked at the next session for their completion. This will be exclusive of the amount which the House will be asked to vote next session for other Normal Schools, the policy of the Government being, it is said, to have at least three more next year, in addition to those now contemplated.

William Dillon Was Acquitted On Charge

Of Murder on the Ground of Insanity—The Man Accused of Murdering His Employer at Carden Goes Free.

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Sept. 27.—The trial of William Dillon, charged with a murder committed at Cardon, was concluded here yesterday, when the jury returned the following verdict:

"It having been given in evidence upon trial of William Dillon that he was insane at the time of commission of the offence charged, your jurors find that offence was committed by accused as charged, but acquit him on the score of insanity, finding him to have been insane at the time of committing the offence."

Judge Maybee thereupon ordered that the prisoner be confined in the county jail until the pleasure of His Honour the Governor-General be made known.

Cheese Becomes Strong Again

Prices Were Steady After Slight Reaction.

The Montreal Star in its review of the cheese situation says:—

The market for cheese, which showed slightly easier feeling during the past few days, seems to be holding about steady. Demand has been quite dull, and still continues that way. The public cable reported the Liverpool market higher yesterday, but this did not appear to help matters much here. However, holders do not appear to be in any way timid about their position, and are demanding full prices. These are about 12 7-8 to 13c. for Quebec makes, 13 to 13 1-8c. for Townships, and 13 1-8 to 13 1-4c. for Ontarios, with many asking a fraction more.

Receipts of cheese reported on the Board of Trade to-day were 14,287 boxes.

The deceased was one of the best known residents of the township in which he lived, and had a host of friends, as well as many relatives throughout the county. He had lived more than a score years in Dummer, where he settled in the early days, and had become an industrious and highly successful farmer. His farm is situated about three miles to the southeast of Warsaw. He was a Baptist in religion, and in politics a staunch Liberal.

His wife pre-deceased him many years ago. Surviving him are three sons, Robert, of Dummer; William, on the homestead, and Alexander, of Iowa, and three daughters, Mrs. Jas. McFee, of Manitoba; Mrs. Donald McNaughton, of Norwood, and Miss Christians, at home.

The funeral will take place tomorrow, at 2 o'clock, to the Baptist cemetery, Dummer.

David Doig Secures Release From Gaol

In Response to Petition Minister of Justice Orders His Release—Result of a Largely Signed Petition.

David Doig, who a little over three months ago was sentenced to imprisonment for five months, was released last night from the county jail, where he has spent more than three months, on an order from the Minister of Justice, who directed Sheriff Hall last night to release Mr. Doig, the orderr being executed at once.

It will be remembered that shortly after Mr. Doig was sentenced, his solicitor, Mr. R. F. McWilliams, prepared and circulated a petition, asking for his release. This petition was signed by a great many of his friends, particularly by those who lived near him in the township of North Monaghan.

The petition was sent to Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, the Minister of Justice, who decided to grant the request of the petitioners, with the result, as stated.

Work On New Normal Schools By Christmas

Plans of Building Are Ready for submission to Cabinet—Tenders Will be Asked For at Once—Hope to Have Work Under Way by Christmas.

The Globe to-day says it understands that the plans of the four new Normal Schools contemplated under this year's educational expansion programme are ready for submission to the Cabinet for approval. As soon as this is obtained tenders will be called for and work on the schools will be commenced. Before Christmas it is hoped to have work on the whole four well under way. The schools, it will be remembered, are to be located at Hamilton, Stratford, Peterborough and North Bay.

The Legislature at its last session made a preliminary vote of $100,000 for these schools, but as they are to cost 50,000 each an additional grant of $100,000 will be asked at the next session for their completion. This will be exclusive of the amount which the House will be asked to vote next session for other Normal Schools, the policy of the Government being, it is said, to have at least three more next year, in addition to those now contemplated.

William Dillon Was Acquitted On Charge

Of Murder on the Ground of Insanity—The Man Accused of Murdering His Employer at Carden Goes Free.

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Sept. 27.—The trial of William Dillon, charged with a murder committed at Carden, was concluded here yesterday, when the jury returned the following verdict:

"It having been given in evidence upon trial of William Dillon that he was insane at the time of commission of the offence charged, your jurors find that offence was committed by accused as charged, but acquit him on the score of insanity, finding him to have been insane at the time of committing the offence."

Judge Maybee thereupon ordered that the prisoner be confined in the county jail until the pleasure of His Honour the Governor-General be made known.

Cars Carried Over 7000 People

Street Railway Had a Good Day Yesterday.

It was a good day for the Peterborough Radial Railway Company yesterday and the cars carried big crowds all through. The number of people patronizing the line yesterday was between 7,000 and 7,500. The service given to the fair grounds was entirely satisfactory.

Cheese Becomes Strong Again

Prices Were Steady After Slight Reaction.

The Montreal Star in its review of the cheese situation says:—

The market for cheese, which showed slightly easier feeling during the past few days, seems to be holding about steady. Demand has been quite dull, and still continues that way. The public cable reported the Liverpool market higher yesterday, but this did not appear to have matters much here. However, holders do not appear to be in any way timid about their position, and are demanding full prices. These are about 12 7-8 to 13c. for Quebec makes, 13 to 13 1-8c. for Townships, and 13 1-8 to 13 1-4c. for Ontarios, with many asking a fraction more.

Receipts of cheese reported on the Board of Trade to-day were 14,287 boxes.

NO ONE SHOULD MISS "SMART SET"

The scenery and costumes used in this season's production of "The Smart Set," which comes to the Grand Opera House, to-morrow night, Friday, Sept. 28th, are entirely new and it is said that the show is one of the handsomest on the road. "The Black Politician," the new production, is far ahead of anything ever attempted by "The Smart Set."

FOR PURE MILK.

The "honest farmer," as a class, is in danger of losing his laurels, by the dishonesty of some York County agriculturists. Some of these have been proven guilty in the Toronto police court of selling to city dealers, skimmed, and watered milk — proven guilty upon their own admission. Three methods were employed:

Method 1—Rinse the milk pails and throw the rinsing into the can of milk ready for sale.

Method 2—If the milk can isn't quite full after all the milk is poured in, add water to fill it up, and give good measure.

Method 3—Skim off the top of the can for the personal use of the farmer and his family.

These persons being outside the jurisdiction of the Toronto police court, that court had not the power to inflict punishment for the dishonesty disclosed.

This emphasizes the value of Alderman McIntyre's bylaw which requires a license from every dealer selling milk in the city, and thus brings him under the jurisdiction of the city police court. As has frequently been remarked, nothing is more important from a sanitary point of view, than purity of milk, and considering the high prices that prevail, milk should not only be pure, but should be milk, not largely water. The bylaw furnishes the machinery for insuring purity of milk supply. What is most needed, however, is a good man to put the machinery into motion, a fearless, capable inspector. In the appointment of this official there is no room for the play of "pull." He should be appointed solely on the grounds of his fitness for the position. We want a man whose loyalty to the duties of his office cannot be adulterated like milk.

THE COLOUR PROBLEM.

The United States has a race problem on its hands which will not solve. Every few months, or, sometimes, weeks, we have a recrudescence of negro outrages, in which mobs seize negroes and, without trial, roast them, hang them, or beat them to death, in a way which repeats the history of the barbarities which the primitive Indians used to inflict upon their victims. The manner in which mob law works its will upon the poor negro is so antagonistic to all our ideas of civilization, that United States' remonstrance with Russia against the savagery with which Russian subjects are treated, brings a Roland for an Oliver. Russia has this excuse: It has never developed a standard of civilization very incompatible with its barbarous treatment of the people, and what is horrific and repellant to us Canadians is only regarded as a matter of course. The United States is vaunted as the cradle of true liberty, and the home of the happy conditions that are expected to come from a recognition of the rights of man, and of the equality of all citizens before the law. The outrages committed by United States' mobs upon negroes, not only citizens, but, in a peculiar sense, wards of the state, show that law is not supreme when passion rules and prejudice prevails. The people of the United States, of the south, especially, excuse the treatment meted out to negroes, on the general plea that the negro's animal proclivities lead him to assaults upon women, a crime which cannot, and will not, be met by an ordinary appeal to law. But because the negro permits the animal part of his nature to direct his criminal acts, is no reason why the animal part of the nature of the white man should be aroused to barbarous reprisal, especially when it is to be remembered that the white citizens of the United States are very largely responsible for the moral characteristics which make the negro so dangerous an element in society. The outrages committed by negroes upon white women are an inherited retaliation. When slavery was a national institution, recognized by the law, the United States, in the persons of slave owners, made animals of human beings. In their dealings with their slaves, the masters ruthlessly outraged the marital tie, in respect of the slave wife, and the natural instincts of virtue in the unmarried female slave. Slave women were regarded only as cattle to minister to the lust of the flesh, or the lust of gain, of these brutal white masters —every child slave born was regarded as a chattel, worth so many thousand dollars, and it mattered little that the master not only outraged every womanly instinct that inheres in the most savage nature, and violated a divine command, but trafficked and made profit out of the enslavement and degradation of his own flesh and blood. With this sort of thing going on for generations, is it any surprise that the resultant negro race should inherit the brutal animal and sordid instincts, operating with cumulative force in each new generation, to which he owed his birth? Is it any surprise that the negro in the United States, is guilty of outrages upon white women? In so doing he is simply carrying out the law of his being, the law of his genesis, and, in his own crude way, the lex talionis; and this law, operating for a century with ten-fold intensity, over what has yet obtained, will not suffice to square the account of the outrages inflicted upon the negro, his wife and daughters through a century of slavery. Retaliation in quality of barbarism, if not in kind, upon the negro of to-day, on the part of the whites, may be natural, and not only natural, but excusable, but it it cannot be justified. The United States is responsible for the system that brutalized the negro, and is responsible for the consequences. It would be more becoming for the nation, if it wished to remain in the pale of civilization, to take measures to elevate the intellectual and moral status of the negro, than to perpetuate, in another form, the brutality that is made him racially what he is charged with being, and, considering the influences exerted, may well be.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Dr. Pyne explains that Dr. Goldsmith's appointment at the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Belleville, was only a temporary one. The doctor knows that much himself.

The Canadian Pacific Railway owes a great deal to Winnipeg, or to the Northwest, which in one sense, is another name for Winnipeg; and Winnipeg owes a great deal to the C. P. R. There has been a little adjustment of obligations, and this great transcontinental railway has presented Winnipeg with $200,000 to assist in providing an adequate and permanent water supply for the hyperborean metropolis. All corporations are not soulless, yet it is, perhaps, going a little too far to say that the C. P. R. was moved by pure philanthrophy — the gift of $200,000 may be regarded as a good investment.

YOUNG LIBERALS THAT HAVE RISEN

Fifteen or twenty years ago three young law students were among the more active spirits of the Young Men's Liberal Club of Toronto. They were Gordon Hunter, Horace Harvey, and Lyman P. Duff. All went west, Mr. Harvey settling at Calgary, and Mr. Hunter and Mr. Duff at Victoria. Mr. Hunter is now Chief Justice of British Columbia, Mr. Harvey a judge of the Supreme Court of the Northwest, and Mr. Duff has just been appointed to the Supreme Court of Canada.—Toronto News.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 27. — The stock market recovered fully early to-day but lost it all later on. The rally was caused by covering on the political aspect but the money situation became the real factor and was the cause of the later break. Some of the high priced issues broke three to four points, with the low priced issued in proportion. Car Foundry was a notable exception, going up, while the others were breaking. The bears were successful in catching stop-loss orders on the decline and the market had a weak appearance. C.P.R. made a new high record in the early trading but reacted later. A slight rally took place near the close on shorts covering and closed the market steady.

OBITUARY

THOS. JAS. HICKEY.

The death occurred this morning at the family residence, 129 Elm street, of Thomas James, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hickey The funeral takes place this afternoon to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

CHARLES FORBES.

Many Peterborough friends will regret to hear of the death of Mr. Charlie Forbes, which took place in London England, December, 1905. Mr. Forbes never recovered from the shock occasioned by his wife's sudden death which occurred about four years ago. They leave one little daughter, who was only six months old when her mother died.

MRS. R. J. ELEY.

Word was received in the city today from Campbellford, stating that Mrs. R. J. Eley had died in that town this morning, after about a year's illness. The deceased was related in the city, two sisters Mrs. Henry Newton and Mrs. Wm. Faint, living here. She also leaves one son, Walter, and one daughter, Etta, at home, her husband having predeceased her. She had three brothers, Jesse and Walter, of Toronto, and John, of Saginaw, Mich. The funeral will take place on Saturday at 3 o'clock to the Campbellford Cemetery.

ALEXANDER EDMISON.

On Friday, September 14, the death of one of Alnwick's first settlers took place at the village of Harwood in the person of Alexander Edmison. He came from the north of England in 1819 and lived in and around Peterborough for many years, finally coming to Roseneath in 1854, where he ran a blacksmith shop for a long time. He has been in ill health for some years, during which time he has lived for the most part in Peterborough, but during the summer would spend a few weeks here and at the home of his son, William, in Harwood. He was married to Miss Abigail Morgan, Otonabee, who died about 15 years ago. He was 87 years of age. The funeral took place from his son's residence Harwood, on Sunday, the 16th, and proceeded to Centenary burying ground, where the remains were interred. The family surviving him are Mrs. Mansfield, San Francisco; Dr. Edmison, Kenora, and Wm. Edmison, merchant, Harwood.

MRS. JAS. ARMSTRONG.

The death occurred last night of Anne Jane Sedgewick, wife of the late Jas. Armstrong, of this city. The deceased Mrs. Armstrong has long been a resident of this county and particularly of this city. She was born in Belfast, Ireland, 85 years ago and came to this country with her parents when only 10 years old. They first settled in the Cobourg district, but moved to Peterborough County a few years later, making their home in the township of Otonabee.

Sixty-two years ago the deceased was married from her father's home to Mr. Jas. Armstrong, then of Ashburnham. The marriage proved to be a very happy one and by their mutual love and devotion their business affairs were very successful and as a result, about twenty-five years ago they retired to this city. A few years later Mr. Armstrong died leaving his wife with three children to mourn his loss.

The children of the late Mrs. Armstrong are Jos. Hiram, of Edmonton; Thomas James, of Toronto; and Mrs. Hugh Davidson, of this city, all of whom are living. There is also a sister Mrs. R. Mowry, of Peterborough, the last of a large family of boys and girls. She has been a devoted member of the Methodist Church. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 from the family residence at the corner of Aylmer and London streets.

Bad Attack of La Grippe.

A year ago I had a bad attack of la grippe, and all the doctor's prescriptions proved to be of no avail. I was told to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and found it a great blessing, as it thoroughly cured me. I told my doctor that I intended to recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. L. Sand for Sale.

SAND FOR SALE.—A LARGE QUANtity of good building sand, now on the pavement on Benson street. Special terms for large quantities. Apply to the nearest resident on Bethune street, or any of the residents. 3d73-1070.

—In explanation it may be stated that owing to their being no water table on this part of the street, a heavy rain brings down mud, and in this case, sand, which is piled up to a considerable depth on the walk. Residents on the street have hitherto shovelled off the sand and mud, but would much prefer that the city did the work, as it is responsible for the condition that destroys the use of the walk. Housekeepers are greatly vexed over the mud and sand that is carried into the house. The street should be water-tabled.

Up-to-date Cure for Skin Disease

The day is past when people will be satisfied with an internal treatment for itching skin disease. It is more satisfactory to apply an ointment and witness the beneficial results, instead of taking medicine and hoping that in time the desired effects will be obtained.

This change of opinion has come about largely through the extraordinary cures being brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Eczema, salt rheum, psoriasis, tetter, scald head and all the dreadful itching skin diseases, which torture children and grown people alike, are now held in such terror since the merits of this great ointment have become known.

By its healing, soothing, antiseptic influence, Dr. Chase's Ointment cleanses the sores, allays the inflammation, stops the itching, and heals the raw, flaming flesh. In the most simple as well as the most aggravated skin irritation or eruption this ointment is certain to give highly satisfactory results. 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—3.

Unearthed Parts Of Old Road

Light and Power Co. Men Make Interesting Discovery.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company's men while making excavations for the purpose of laying gas mains on Simcoe street, between George and Aylmer, have unearthed the remains of a corduroy road, which in the early history of Peterborough must have been four feet below the level of the present street. Some of the logs found at that depth were two feet in diameter, and as sound as the day they were put down. Already a large number of logs have been taken out.

Michigan Visitor At The Local Fair

Mr. Chas. Rubidge, of Millington, An Interested Spectator

Mr. Charles Rubidge, of Millington, Mich., a former resident of Peterborough, and a grandson of the late Captain Rubidge, R. N., is in the city visiting his sister, Mrs. Archer, Rubidge street, and was an interested visitor at the Fair yesterday. Mr. Rubidge, who conducts extensive farming operations in Michigan, was naturallyy much interested in the fair, and the interest was intensified because of the fact that it was the fair of his native town.

Bell Co. Question Comes Up Again

Committee of the Whole Will Deal With the Matter.

Mr. Lawrence McFarlane, a solicitor for the Bell Telephone Company, is in the city to-day and will meet the members of the Manufacturers' Committee, which meets to-night to discuss the question of the proposal of the Bell Telephone Company to lay underground wires on the streets of the city.

There is a disposition on the part of the council to refuse to give the company the city's sanction to lay conduits and to maintain them perpetually, and this will probably be the matter to be talked of to-night.

WEDDING BELLS

FOWLER—GRIMISON.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 6 o'clock last evening, when, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Thomas Grimison, 117 Gilmour street, Miss Lulu M. Grimison was united in marriage to Mr. Norman Anderson Fowler, of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, in the presence of about forty invited guests, who included many from outside points.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was daintily attired in a pretty gown of cream silk colienne, trimmed with lace berthe, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid was the bride's cousin, Miss Flo Grimison, of Port Hope, who wore an effective costume of cream voile and carried pink roses. Mr. John Grimison, brother of the bride, was best man. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss A. Ferguson as the young couple entered the drawing-room.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a delightful wedding repast was served, and many congratulatory speeches given by the guests who wished the young couple every success and happiness.

The large number of presents received testified to the esteem in which both parties are held by a large circle of friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome set of sable furs, to the bridesmaid a pretty fleur-de-lis pin set with pearls, and to the groomsman a gold heart stick pin.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Little, Port Hope; Miss Flo Grimison, Port Hope; Miss Mabel Little, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Port Hope; Messrs White and Miss Ruby White, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Little, Garden Hill; Mrs. H. Little and Miss Lillie Little, Garden Hill; Mr. and Mrs Jas. Fowler, Havelock; Mr. and Mrs McCague, Omemee.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler will reside on George street.

CHESSUM—LAKE.

The Brantford Expositor said yesterday:—

One of the pretty events of the season took place this afternoon at the residence of Mr James H. Lake, 118 Pearl street, when his second daughter, Emily Grace, was united in marriage to Mr. Alf. Chessum, of Toronto, formerly of Bradtford. At 1.30 the bride entered the parlour, leading on the arm of her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Grace Trott, cousin of the bride. The bride looked charming in a dress of white silk, trimmed with chiffon, and carried cream roses. She was assisted be her sister, Miss Bertha Lake, who was dressed in cream silk colienne and carried pink roses. Mr. George Chessum, of Dundas, brother of the groom was best man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Farmer, and took place in front of a bank of palms and ferns. After the ceremony, the guests to the number of 40 sat down to a dainty luncheon, served in the dining-room, the tables being decorated in pink and white. The many beautiful and valuable presents received testify to the esteem in which the bride and groom are held by their many friends. Guests were present from Peterborough Orillia, Toronto, Hamilton, Colstorville and Brantford. The bride's travelling gown was of blue broadcloth, with silk waist and hat to match. The happy couple left on the 4.35 train for Toronto, where they will in future reside.

Pandora Range

OVEN THERMOMETER. NO "BAD LUCK" BAKING DAYS.

Twenty degrees difference in the temperature of an oven is sufficient to make "Good Luck" or "Bad Luck" in baking many kinds of food.

The heat in the oven of a range not fitted with a thermometer, or worse, fitted with a poor instrument, will easily vary twenty degrees—result is unpalatable, burned or half-baked food, a cross cook and a disappointed family at meal time.

Thermometer fitted in oven door of "Pandora" range has been a proven success for fifteen years, and every instrument is carefully adjusted, and tested by heat, before sending out—the first, best and only thermometer which is of any real value to those who do baking.

"Pandora" range is handsome, economical on fuel and a perfect baker.

Peterborough Fair A Success Despite Uncertain Weather

Weatherman's Bluff Interfered With the Attendance Although Crowd Was Big--Best Exhibit of Horses and Poultry Ever Seen in Peterborough—Races Were Good, Providing Plenty of Amusement for the Crowd—Directors Are Satisfied With the Success of the Fair.

The gentleman in charge of the weather sprang a bluff on the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition yesterday, and as a result the attendance was materially affected by his pranks. Just at 1 o'clock, when the Peterborough people were preparing to go to the grounds, he produced clouds, that looked like forerunners of the biggest storm on record, and even handed out a spattering of rain to make the game more realistic. The effect was that many who would otherwise have gone to the fair, "had an inspiration" and remained at home. Fortunately, for the success of the exhibition, however, all were not to be deterred by threatening weather, and the attendance on the grounds, while not as large as had been expected or as would have been the case under more favourable conditions, was a large one, comparing favourably with other years.

Fine Exhibits.

Although a little disappointed at the treatment they received at the hands of the weatherman, the directors are consoling themselves by the fact that in point of numbers and quality of exhibits the fair of 1906 eclipses all others previously held. The horses and poultry shown were the best ever seen in Peterborough, according to the opinions expressed by the visiting judges, whose praise was by no means stinted. The judging of the horses, which occupied the attention of the judges nearly all day, was the centre of attraction for many visitors to the fair, and their admiration was frequently expressed.

President Satisfied.

President D. Hughes Charles, when seen on the grounds yesterday afternoon by The Examiner, expressed himself as being, on the whole, well pleased with the result of the fair. The excellence of the exhibits in the poultry and horses was very satisfactory. "A better lot of horses were never seen in Peterborough," said the president, (who happens to know something about horses, too. Mr. Hughes Charles also referred to the main building, where the exhibits of grain and roots were above the average, and where the ladies' work classes contained some very fine specimens.

Many Horses Entered.

In every class of horses there were large entries, and the judges had difficulty in making the awards. The agricultural and roadster classes contained some very fine animals. Great interest was taken in the special class for foals from Gradicator. Five splendid colts were entered, and Mr. Paxton, on of the judges, stated that he never saw so many fine colts from one horse. As an indication of the form displayed by them, $100 was offered for one of the colts during the day.

The Races.

The races furnished the chief entertainment for the afternoon, and some great sport was seen. The track was in splendid shape, but the strong wind blowing down the stretch interfered somewhat with the drivers, and tended to make the time slower. There were three classes, the free-for-all, won by Tim Alert, owned by Chas. Martin, Peterborough; the 2.50 class, won by Major Hamburg, H. Ashley, Belleville, and the 2.25, in which Joe Allen, owned by Wm. Simpson, Lindsay, was the winner. The contests for first place in any of the three races were not exciting, but there were some hot duels for second place. The races were not finished until after 6 o'clock, the delays being caused by fractious horses which refused to score up properly. Miss Paisley was responsible for considerable waste of time, and was distanced at last.

An Accident.

The only regrettable feature in connection with the races was the accident which happened to Jim Elmhirst, the veteran Otonabee horseman. He was teaming Little Girl in the last heat of the 2.50 class, when the mare tripped on her hobbles and rolled over, throwing Elmhirst out. He fortunately escaped with a bad cut on the forehead and several bruises about his head. The mare was unhurt. The affair caused considerable excitement for a few minutes.

2.50 Class.

There were seven entries in the 2.50 class, and they scored up pretty well considering the size of the field. Major Hamburg, a Belleville colt, won in straight heats, and was not pressed very close at any stage. He went in front at once and had the others trailing all the way. The contests for second and third furnished some excitement. Little's Girl's accident in the third heat put her back, and Peggy was withdrawn. Major Hamburg showed a great burst of speed in the half mile heats, and was never in trouble.

The Summary.

2.50 class, purse $100, half mile heats—

1, Major Hamburg, H. Ashley, Belleville	1	1	1
2, City Queen, W. Elmhirst, Keene	3	2	3
3, Dr. Mack, Dr. Broad, Lindsay	2	3	2
4, Little Will, H. Elmhirst, Keene	5	4	4
5, Indian Girl, B. Wease, Lindsay	4	5	5
6, Peggy, Chas. Fife, Otonabee	6	6	dr
7, Little Girl, Jas. Elmhirst, Keene	7	7	dr

Time—1.10, 1.09, 1.09.

Free-for-all.

The free-for-all contained but three entries, and it might just as well have been two, as Miss Paisley behaved very badly and finally had to be drawn. She refused to score, and when she did get away, did nothing but run. Tim Alert and Minnie Keswicke and the mare were beaten at all stages, although the finishes were close. Tim Alert finished with lots of speed in reserve. The race went to the horse in three straight mile heats. Following is the summary:

Free-for-all, purse $100, mile heats—

1, Tim Alert, Chas. Martin, Peterborough	1	1	1
2, Minnie Keswick, Geo. Curtis, Lindsay	2	2	2
3, Miss Paisley, H. A. Cook, Peterborough	3	dis.

Time, 2.17, 2.19, 2.19.

2.25 Class.

The 2.25 class was a procession, with Joe Allen, owned by Wm. Simpson, of Lindsay, carrying the flag. There was some duelling between Lady Hamburg and Capt. Stubbs for second money, all the honours going to the lady. The summary was as follows:

2.25 class, purse $100, half mile heats—

1m Joe Allen, Wm. Simpson, Lindsay	1	1	1
2, Lady Hamburg, H. Ashley, Belleville	2	2	2
3, Capt. Stubbs, H. Darcy	3	3	3
4, City Queen	4	4	4

Time, 1.08, 1,11, 1.09.

The Officials.

Mr. W. Lesby, of Lakefield, made a very efficient starter, and got the horses off in good shape. Other gentlemen who assisted as judges and timers were Messrs. R. Hicks, J. M. Brooks, R. J. Munro, A. Rountree and E. G. Patterson.

The Dog Race Amusing.

Ex-Mayor Yelland's dog race was the biggest fun-producer at the fair and caused great excitement among the juveniles. There were but two entries and four fights, which naturally gives rise to the question, what would have happened if there had been a half a dozen dogs in the hunt? A. Hoban's dog won three straight half mile heats from a canine owned by Chas. Pogue. The latter's sulky was considerably in need of repair, but his dog had lots of speed, and but for an unfortunate inclination to play cannibal with his fellow contestant, might have won. Every time he drew up level with his opponent, however, he began to fight, and the result was that he lost all three heats, the last by a narrow margin. The crowd was kept in fits of laughter while the contest continued. Each dog had a large number of juvenile supporters, who thronged the track to see the finish.

Some Fine Music.

The 57th Band occupied a position in the grand stand, and under the leadership of Mr. Gliddon rendered a choice programme of popular music during the afternoon. Their playing was made the subject of much favourable comment among the crowd, the visitors from outside points being particularly impressed with the excellence of the programme.

Football Match.

The football match for the Hall Cup between the Quakers and the Dominion Construction Company's team, was won by the former. A good crowd watched the game, a full report of which will be found in another column.

Notes of the Fair.

It is said that the receipts at the gate and grand stand amounted to about $1000.

The gentleman who had the judging of the delivery wagons at the Fair, yesterday, must have had a little difficulty in deciding the winners. Several of our merchants have splendid outfits in that line. Of special mention are those of Mr. H. P. Kennedy, Mr. A. W. Cressman & Son, and the Peterborough Laundry Company. They were a credit to the city and splendid advertisements to their respective owners. They are fine specimens of the art of manufacturing delivery wagons, showing to some extent what may be accomplished in that line.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

Among other pleasing features of interest to sight-seers were the following:

CHATHAM FANNING MILL, FARM SCALES AND KITCHEN CABINETS.

A very interesting exhibit was made on the fair grounds by Mr. Charles E. McDonnell, of Downer's Corners, Otonabee. It consisted of a combined Chatham fanning mill and cleaner, new portable farm and household platform scales, a patent incubator, and a handy systematic kitchen cabinet. These specialties are manufactured by the Masson Campbell Company, Limited, of Chatham. They are becoming so popular wherever introduced that Mr. McDonell finds them excellent sellers. His post office address is Box 890, Peterborough.

AN EXHIBITION OF PEAT.

The Canadian Peat Fuel Company, Limited, of Victoria Road, made a display of some of their best samples of peat. Many inquiries were made concerning it by visitors at the fair. The present high prices of wood and coal invested this exhibit with a special interest and it was a gratification to them to learn that the company would be ready to fill orders for this fuel this winter for their condensed peat. Mr. E. V. Moore, the representative of the company, who was in charge of the exhibit, was sanguine that his company would have orders to cover their total output this season. The works at Victoria Road are busy perfecting large quantities of the peat for market by a new process which has been found to be remarkably successful. The public of Peterborough, especially, will be glad to hear that this new fuel can be made to take the place of the present high-priced coal and wood, particularly as it is so near our own doors.

SPENDID EXPOSITION OF BINDER TWINE AND ROPE.

Our own Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company put up another mammoth and instructive exhibit this year in the main building. It was constructed in the form of a house similar to those used by the natives of the Philippine Islands. The roof was thatched with the flax and other raw product, while sentinels stood around on the eaves with sheaves of grain under their arms. The four pillars which supported the roof were formed of balls of binder twine and rope in systematic proportions. Inside were shown bales of sisal, the raw product as it is shipped from the Philippine Islands and elsewhere. But the feature of the inside was a monster oil well cable measuring 1600 feet. The huge roll was decorated with several flags, as a fitting crowning to the magnitude of the coils. This oil well cable is composed of three thicknesses of inch rope, and is capable of standing an enormous tension. There were also shown interesting samples of the manufactured goods—such as oil well, sand well and cable rope, and lath shingle yarn, twine and cord. The whole scheme was well designed and arranged, and equally as well carried out.

This interesting exhibit was the cynosure of all eyes, and called forth admiration from hundreds of visitors. "It was just a little better than the best," as the company say about their twine. The exhibit was constructed under the competent superintendence of the energetic sales manager of the company, Mr. Torrance Jack. Mr. W. H. Irwin was in charge, and never failed in sounding the praises of his company.

The Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company, under the careful management of its officers has had the most prosperous year in the history of their company. This year's output, especially, has proven to be of the most gratifying character—far exceeding the most sanguine expectations of the president, and his energetic sales manager. Thousands of the farmers who attended the Fair were specially attracted to this exhibit because of the fact that they had used the Canadian Cordage Company's twine, made in Peterborough. They were able to speak complimentary words of the "Golden Sceptre" and other special brands, with the registered trade mark that had so successfully carried them through their harvest.

The company employ over two hundred hands, and is in active operation through the year, thereby distributing in wages in Peterborough between $50,000 and $60,000 annually, largely contributing to the present prosperous condition of the town and county.

The president and directors are to be congratulated upon the fact that this company has become so successful, and it is an industry creditable to any city in Canada.

The Park Street People Hospitable

Will Entertain a Large Number of Delegates

The convenor of the Committee of Arrangements at the Park Street Baptist Church reported last night, 46 billets with others to hear from in the South End.

On Sunday, the pastor read the following Scripture from Acts16, —"Lydia, whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things spoken of by Paul, and when she was baptized and her household, she besought us, saying, if ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house and abide there, and she constrained us." And while Paul's back was yet sore with many stripes, they went out of the prison and entered into the house of Lydia." He said God first opened her heart to God's servants. What a blessing to any household to have a godly man going in and out for a few days saying his prayers among the children, and praying God's blessing on the home. Lasting blessing has come to many a home as the result. We do well to take heed of Hebrews, xiii., 2,—"Be not forgetful to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares."

The committee are working well, and the people are responding nobly. —Com.

Kidney Disease—Gravel.

"I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water, accompanied by the most readful agony. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well and feel better, than I have for twenty years." —Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont.

A meeting of the stockholders of the New Brunswick Telephone Company to ratify the merger is called for October 5th at Fredericton.

The Dowswell Manufacturing Company of Hamilton have offered the city $300 per acre for the lease of the jail garden lands.

The apple evaporating factory at Glencoe has started up for the season. Twenty cents per hundred is being paid for apples.

Your Eyes Show You What You See

Your sight tells you where you are. The vision cannot be overtaxed with safety. All eyes require spectacles sooner or later, and a large majority of those possessing sight would improve what they have if they used glasses. Generally speaking unless the eyes are strengthened by glasses, they are apt to become weakened and any defects that exist are certain to increase by neglect. Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches are require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Peterborough Divines Given Appointments

Rev. J. G. Lewis Made Chairman of Committee on Temperance and Moral Reform for Bay of Quinte Conference —Rev. Dr. Crothers Governor for College—Closing Up Business at the Methodist General Conference.

Examiner Special.

Montreal, September 27. — At the meeting of the Methodist General Conference, yesterday, some very important matters were taken up, and disposed of, including the appointment of the standing committee for the next quadrennium.

Rev. J. G. Lewis, B.A., of Peterborough, was appointed chairman of the Committee on Temperance and Moral Reform, for the Bay of Quinte Conference for the next four years. The layman with him on this committee is Mr. J. J. Mason, of Bowmanville. The work of this committee is an increasingly important one and Mr. Lewis will have an abundance of work during the four years intervening between this and the next General Conference.

The conference decided by a large majority yesterday afternoon that probationers shall in future spend three years at college, and two years on circuit, a policy which exactly reverses that hitherto in operation. The recommendation came from the committee on the Board of Study, and it gave rise to an interesting discussion lasting over an hour. There were those delegates who did not want college made theology or college made ministers, although they did not depreciate the value of education, whilst it was noticeable on the other hand that all the college principals spoke strongly in favour of the extra year's tuition.

Rev. Dr. Crothers was named on a

Builders Pick Money Up On City's Streets

The Street Commissioner's Department Has Discovered an Easy Way to Dispose of Street Scrapings—Makes Good Material for Filling In.

Some Peterborough citizens are literally picking money off the streets these days. Yesterday one man picked up $3, and the day before he was more fortunate, he got $7. Of course, it should be understood that this does not mean that they actually found the banknotes to represent these amounts — they got their equivalent, though.

It appears that there is a scarcity of filling-in material, used for building houses in low places, and it has been found that street scrapings fill the bill well, and the result is that instead of paying $1 a load for earth, a number of persons who are building houses, follow the street commissioner's men, and cart away the scrapings, saving the city the expense of hauling it to the dump heap, and, incidentally, of course, saving themselves the $1 a load, which they would have to pay if they hired a teamster to supply it.

The man referred to got three loads yesterday, and seven the day before, which fact provides the foundation for the statement that he picked up money from the street.

A number of persons who are building are looking after these scrapings for which there is a good demand. This demand simplifies the work of the City Engineer's Department in cleaning the streets, because all that is necessary now is to scrape the earth into heaps, and the builders do the rest.

What Radiator Company Must Do

The Conditions Attached to the $5000 Bonus.

The Peterborough Boiler and Radiator Company, Limited, which was voted a bonus to locate in Hastings, must commence building operations by December 1, 1906, and not later than April 1, 1907; must commence and employ at least 25 persons at manufacturing goods their charter calls for, and continue employing this number for 19 years thereafter.

During the first year, or before October 1, 1907, the company must expend $4,000 in building and $1,000 in equipment, $2,000 more before October 1, 1908.

And it's up to the village council to see that they live up to the agreement. The company are to get our money, and they should be made deliver the goods.—Hastings Star.

Canadians Were Injured In The Railway Smash

Buffalo Mail Ran Into Open Switch At Catlin, Ill.

A GUELPH FAMILY BURNED

Mrs. Waldsman and Her Three Little Children In the Wreck Were Burned But Not Seriously—Three Persons Known to Be Killed and Several Are Missing—The List of the Dead and Injured.

Danville, Ill., Sept. 27.—Passenger train No. 3, of the Wabash Railroad, running from Kansas City to Buffalo, N. Y., known as the Buffalo mail, ran into an open switch west of Catlin, Ill., early yesterday, and crashed into a section of a freight train. All the passenger cars but one turned over and burned. Three persons are known to have been killed. Several others are missing.

Thirty-seven injured are being taken care of at Danville hospitals. The known dead are: Engineer J. S. Butler of Peru, Ind.; W. W. Ellison, fireman, La Fayette, Ind.; Edward Harding, mail clerk, Ivesville, Ill.

Ontario Family Burned.

Among the injured are: Mrs. Luther Shoemaker, Spencerville, Ind., seriously burned; Arthur Shoemaker, eight months old, badly burned, will die; Mrs. Waldsman, Guelph, Ont., burned on face and arms, and her children, Margaret, aged 9, Vinson, 10, John, 14, all burned, but not seriously; Mrs. Nellie Livingston, Buffalo, hands and neck burned, and her children, Rose, aged 10, Gladys, 8, John, 4, Fern, 1, all badly burned, but will recover.

About 15 others were less seriously burned.

The train consisted of an engine, smoker, baggage car, two Pullmans, one chair car and a dining car. All but the diner were burned. The train was going at the rate of 60 miles an hour and nearly every passenger was asleep at the time. Nearly every one lost all their clothing except nightwear.

Father Got No News.

Guelph, Sept. 27.—J. H. Waldsman, husband of the woman whose four children are reported burned in the Catlin wreck, is a clerk in the Lion Dry Goods store here. Mr. Waldsman had no particulars of the wreck.

Second Victom.

Sundridge, Sept. 27.—Engineer Weston of the south-bound mogul freight train, No. 1002, which was recently in collision, has also died from his injuries.

Senator Lovitt's Misfortune.

Halifax, Sept. 27.—While trimming a tree in front of his residence at Yarmouth yesterday afternoon Senator Lovitt fell and broke three ribs. He fell 15 feet.

St. Kitt's Man Killed.

Detroit, Sept. 27.—Henry Wininger, 28, cook in Gies' restaurant, fell from a window in the restaurant yesterday, sustaining a fracture of his skull, which caused his death three hours later. His relatives live in St. Catharines, Ont.

COMMISSION ON SCHOOL BOOKS.

Hear That Binding and Paper In School Books Are Inferior.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—The text book commission was in session yesterday and will convene again next week.

Yesterday's session was rich in results. Expert evidence given was to the effect that the binding of school books was inferior, and that much of the paper used would not stand the test.

Inspector James L. Hughes described the workings of the free text books system in the public schools of Toronto. It was most satisfactory. The children took good care of the books; they were rebound and thus lasted several years.

Mr. H. Ballard, school inspector of Hamilton, stated that in his city the board sold the books to the children, and at a profit of between $3,000 and $4,000 per annum.

Chairman Crothers suggested that in this way an unjust share of taxation was shifted from the rich to the poor.

The Grain Commission.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—The grain commission yesterday listened to further representations touching alleged defects in the present system of grain inspection and the act in general. Flax impurities were a handicap, and the grain should be graded. The commission will find out whether the act or the inspector is at fault. The commission will wind up its Toronto session to-day.

Severn Wiped Out by Fire.

Severn, Ont., Sept. 27.—At noon yesterday fire broke out in the Severn Hotel stables, and before it could be gotten under control, had wiped out the business section of the village. Losses are $22,500; insurance $14,200. The sufferers are: Severn Hotel, W. H. Miller, J. H. Jackson, A. Keeler, butcher, G. Beatty, and Orange Hall.

Winnipeg Strikers Resume Work.

Winnipeg, Sept. 27.—After sessions all day of the strikers, it was finally decided late yesterday afternoon to call the big building strike off. An agreement between the men and the employers was signed and 4,000 men go to work this morning.

For Family Colds.

A reliable cough and cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear.

It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

It is safer, too.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in Canada and the United States to-day are never without it.

A dealer writes: "Shiloh's Consumption Cure is without doubt the best remedy for Coughs and Colds on the market. Once used, my customers will buy no other.—L. Elsley, Naumgewega, Ont."

If it were anything but the best would this be so? Try it in your own family. If it does not cure, you get back all it cost you. We take all the chances. Neither you nor your dealer can lose. Isn't that fair? 25c. is the price. All dealers in medicine sell

BANQUET ON BIG SCALE.

Lord Strathcona Gives Spread to 2,400 Guests, Celebrating Aberdeen University Fourth Centenary.

Aberdeen, Scotland, Sept. 27.—Lord Strathcona is to give a banquet to 2,400 guests to-day, to mark the fourth centenary celebration of Aberdeen University. As there is no hall in Aberdeen capable of accommodating so large a company, one has had to be built especially for the occasion. It has been erected adjoining the Marischal College.

The temporary hall measures 185 feet in width and 150 feet in length, and is so arranged that it will present three levels, the top table occupying the highest. The chairman's table, 170 feet in length, will face 73 other tables, filling the lowest stages, with broad gangways between. A remarkable feature of the arrangements is the assignment of these tables to separate divisions red, green, yellow and blue, the dinner tickets being colored accordingly, and lettered and numbered.

While the cooking had to be done in London, refrigerator vans being used for the conveyance of the food, the chefs and their assistants will have much finishing work to do in the specially erected kitchens. These are furnished with steam and electrical fittings, and hot and cold water service.

At a banquet celebration of students yesterday, on the representative council in connection with Aberdeen University, the students sang "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," as Lord Strathcona entered the hall. J. W. Henderson, in proposing the toast, "Our Guests," expressed how grateful they all were for everything Lord Strathcona had done for them. Lord Strathcona, replying, said they had done him a great honor in selecting him as their lord chancellor. He was quite aware how little he could do adequately to fill any such position, but his heart certainly did go with the work.

A grand function was held yesterday at Aberdeen, at which honorary degrees were conferred on 150 delegates. Lord Strathcona presided.

AGRARIAN DISORDERS.

Police Expelled and Inhabitants Are Laying Country Waste.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 27.—Grave agrarian disorders have broken out in the Province of Viatkab, the centre of disturbance being the important district of Malmuish, with a population of over 100,000, where the inhabitants of 70 villages are reported to have joined in the uprising, have disarmed and expelled the police and are pillaging and destroying the residences of the land owners and devasting the country.

Details are difficult to obtain, but it is rumored at Viatkab that the administrative police chiefs in the Malmuish district, and eight of their subordinates, have been killed. The excesses began Sept. 20, with a riot over the enrolment of army reserves for their autumn services.

Disorders have also broken out in the adjoining district of Chistopol, in Kazan Province.

FORESTRY CONVENTION.

Earl Grey Opens Sessions at Vancouver, B. C.—The Banquet.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 27.—Yesterday morning, in the presence of a gathering of gentlemen, many of them distinguished in Canada and the United States, Governor-General Grey opened the meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association, held here in response to invitation of the British Columbia Lumber and Shingle Manufacturers' Association. The feature of the day was the eloquent and encouraging speech of Earl Grey.

The forestry convention banquet held at 9 o'clock last evening, was a great success, and Earl Grey made a happy speech.

Registrar Chisholm Dead.

Brampton, Sept. 27.—Kenneth Chisholm, county registrar, died yesterday morning from senile decay. He was born in the County of Peel on March 17, 1829, and resided in the county almost continuously. For 25 years he was one of the most prominent merchants outside of Toronto. Mr. Chisholm was elected member of the Legislative Assembly for Ontario in 1878, on the death of the sitting member, the late John Coyne, and represented the County of Peel continuously until his resignation, in 1894, being always elected by large majorities. He was a strong Liberal. In religion he was a Methodist. In 1894 he was appointed registrar of the county.

Murder In Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—The body of an Italian, thought to be that of Francesco Amanti, was found lying in a pool of blood at 155 Chatham street by a driver of a beer wagon making his rounds early yesterday morning. Medical examination showed a bullet wound in the head and an empty 38-calibre revolver shell was found close by.

Suicide of a Barber.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—With his throat slashed from ear to ear, John Saunders, a barber, was found dead lying in a pool of blood in his home early yesterday morning. The razor with which he had committed suicide was still clutched in his right hand. Coroner Pickering is investigating.

30 Families Homeless.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—Fire destroyed 14 buildings, either wholly or partly, in St. Louis de Mile End yesterday afternoon, and rendered some 30 families homeless, with a total loss of $100,000.

Illicit Stills Seized.

Parkhill, Sept. 27.—Special Officer Floody of Toronto seized two illicit whisky stills from two prominent farmers in East William Township yesterday afternoon.

Will Discuss Terms Of Peace For The Cubans

Moderates Appoint Committee to Negotiate With Rebels.

CUBA MAY YET HAVE PEACE

Speakers In National Assembly Shout Denunciations of the American Government, But When Frenzy Had Subsided Settled Down to Business and Appointed a Committee of Six to Meet the Rebels.

Havana, Sept. 27.—The Moderates have agreed to appoint a committee to negotiate terms of peace with a committee of the rebels and Liberals, leaving all points upon which no agreement is reached to the arbitration of the American commissioners. The Moderates have abandoned the condition that the rebels must first lay down their arms before negotiations can begin.

Meeting of Moderates.

A meeting of the Moderate National Assembly was hastily called yesterday to decide whether some way could be devised to settle the present difficulty without American intervention. The speakers shouted denunciation of the American Government, and hotly insisted that the Moderate party should appeal to the powers of the world for protection. When the frenzy subsided the meeting settled down to a consideration of reopening of negotiations with the Peace Commissioners.

In the meantime Senator Dolze proposed that both sides appoint committees of six to treat for peace, but with the prior condition that the rebels lay down their arms. Secretary Taft approved of this.

Committee of Six.

After hearing the views of Secretary Taft, the assistant notified him that he would appoint a committee of six to meet a similar committee from the Liberals, leaving all points of difference to the arbitration of the commissioners. It was agreed that at the session of Congress Friday the resignation of President Palma would be tabled pending negotiations. Whatever the outcome of the negotiations, it is felt here that there will be need for all the American marines within reach, as there is little confidence in the ability of the rebel leaders to control their men. Funston is expected to-morrow.

A MAJORITY FOR HEARST.

Chosen Democratic Candidate For the State of New York.

Convention Hall, Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 27.—William Randolph Hearst has been nominated by the Democratic convention The vote for governor, first ballot: Hearst 309, Sulzer 124, Dix 17; necessary to a choice 226. At 1.59 a. m. Chairman Nixon declared William Randolph Hearst officially the candidate of the Democratic party for governor.

Hughes For Republicans.

Saratoga, N. Y., 27.—The Republican state convention adjourned sine die at 1.23 p.m. yesterday, after nominating, for governor, Charles E. Hughes of New York, and a state ticket.

The Methodist Conference.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—The Methodist general conference yesterday decided in favor of establishing young men's clubs, the department to cover much the same ground as the Anglican St. Andrew's Brotherhood.

Dr. White's motion that the scale of minister's salaries be $750, $450 and $3.50 was carried in a house of about 70.

The young people's forward movement occupied some time. Dr. F. C. Stephenson was elected secretary and raised in rank to be an officer of conference.

In place of a corresponding secretary and five local superintendents, there will be five superintendents of missions.

The committee on state of church work scored ministers who were engaging in secular work and the report stated such conduct indicated the absence of a clear sense of righteousness.

Stensland Sentenced.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Ex-Banker Stensland appeared before Judge Kersten in the Criminal Court yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty to two charges of embezzlement. Judge Kersten sentenced him to an indeterminate period in Joliet Penitentiary. The maximum penalty under the law is fourteen years. Stensland, in charge of a jailer, left for the Joliet Penitentiary shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

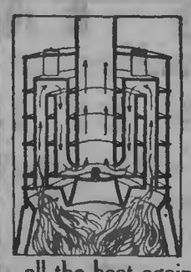
BISON FURNACE



Twice as much heating surface is covered by the fire in a Bison Hot Water Furnace as in any other.

The flames are drawn up through the side flues, then down and to the chimney through the middle flue.

Burns all the gas and traps all the heat against the top section.

In other furnaces the fire travel is practically a direct one to the chimney, and much valuable heat escapes, the important top section getting less than any of the others.

The Bison has more good heating points than all other heaters combined.

Quakers Win Hall Trophy And County Championship

Defeated Construction Co's Team in a Fast Game by 3 Goals To 0—Match Played on Exhibition Grounds Before Large Crowd—A Successful Conclusion to Successful Season of the Quakers.

The Petenborough Quakers won their thirteenth straight game yesterday at the Exhibition Grounds by defeating what has been styled the Construction Company's team, and incidentally they also won the beautiful silver trophy donated by R. R. Hall, M.P., for the county championship. The match was witnessed by hundreds of people who quickly gathered on the scene before the whistle blew and who had assembled to see the last act of the successful Peterborough Industrial Exhibition of 1906.

It was expected that Bridgenorth and Lakehurst would have been represented as the Secretary was notified to this effect but neither of these teams put in an appearance for some unknown reason. Nevertheless the spectators were treated to a clean game of football, scientifically played and a game which the players appeared to thoroughly enjoy.

The opponents of the Quakers were an eleven who are engaged on the erection of the new addition to the Canadian General by the Dominion Engineering and Construction Company, Limited, and with little more practice would have given William Penn's followers a closer game. As it was they showed a knowledge of football and at times broke away with some pretty nice stunts. Harding, who captained the team is an old Westmount player and the others mostly all exponents of the game in the Old Country where football is the national game. But the Quakers, who have won thirteen games with a record now of 33 goals against 4, were in their old time form and easily eluded their wily opponents, scoring altogether 7 goals with only 3 counters. The others, the referee stated, were from offsides.

The Canadian General were held down so perfectly that Mc Fadden, the goalman with a famous reputation, was scarcely called upon to clear. The high wind which blew across the field worked some mischievous pranks with the rubber, carrying it with the least trouble out of bounds on too many occasions.

For the C.G.E. team, the bulk of the glory of a small score went to Harding on the back division, and Harrison between the sticks. The former never missed his kick and his ability in shooting long, low balls down the field was very marked. The man behind him was responsible in turning aside shot after shot, which rained in on him the whole time. Walsh on the forward line also showed up well and once or twice had a dangerous eye on the Quaker citadel. Bassett the other back was also a good man.

For the Quaker Oats men McFadden was good for all that came his way and probably more if they had come. Evans and Doris never missed an opportunity to boot the ball and also played a phenomenal checking game together. Captain Fitzgerald at centre half, the main stay of the team, had his men going like clock work besides taking care to obstruct the wind bag from encroaching on home ground. Parnell figured on the line-up again at right half and proved a source of annoyance to his checks on the right. His frequent individual rushes were of great assistance besides being neatly carried. Best, on the opposite half put up his usual brilliant game and worried his check continually. His passing was always accurate and at the opportune time. Although the forwards were lacking Armstrong, the fast little inside left, who figured so prominently during the season, they rearranged their line effectively. Boycott was at his usual place on the outside left, a position that cannot be more adequately filled. His kicking was always accurate and he simply ran away from his check. Crough played next with the same untiring ease as of old and was a shining star on the line. He neatly scored the last counter on a pretty pass from Baker. Dick Baker was at home on his old position at outside right and passed nicely into centre. He was ably assisted by Todd on the inside who handled the ball in excellent style throughout. The honour of the first goal went to Todd from a little mix-up on Construction goal, the ball coming in from Boycott on the wing. Huston played centre and scored the middle counter.

The game was refereed by E. Hayes, of the Construction Works who gave entire satisfaction to all.

The score at the end of the first half stood 1 to 0 with play generally in favour of the Quakers.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Construction Company—Goal, Harrison; backs, Harding, Bassett; halves, Skinner, Baker, Paddock; forwards, Matthews, Simpkins, W. Skinner, Rigg, Walsh.

Quakers—Goal, McFadden; backs, Doris, Evans; halves, Best, Fitzgerald, Parnell; forwards, Boycott, Crough, Huston, Todd, Baker.

Referee—E. Hayes.

Timekeeper—W. Metheral.

Offsides.

There were a large number of offsides.

The Hall trophy which the Quakers hold this year is a beautiful one. It is on exhibition in A. Gibson's windows.

The mug has to be won two years by one team before that team can claim it. Defaulted or tie games don't count.

That makes the fourth cup won by the Quakers this year. They are getting hard to count and to take care of now.

Bridgenorth and Lakehurst were conspicuous on the Exhibition Grounds by their absence yesterday. It was rumoured about they played ed their game in Bridgenorth on their way down.

The Construction Company have some good men on their line-up and with a little more practice would give Lakehurst a good game.

It is rumoured they have signed the man with his face tied up in a red handkerchief, who was so anxious to test his ability yesterday.

RUGBY.

Sporting Editor Examiner:

I notice in last night's issue of the Examiner an item to the effect that the general public is to be refused admittance to the practices of the rugby team. It seems to me that the management is making a great mistake in thus cutting off what probably more than anything else arouses interest in the game, the watching of the team at practice. How they can expect to get crowds at their games and practice behind closed doors as if they were planning to throw bombs instead of playing rugby is something that I can't understand? They seem afraid that some one might steal their signals and betray them to the enemy. Surely there is no need to fear that from the people of Peterborough.

Yours, etc.,
PIGSKIN.

The prize, a prettily beaded china jug, was presented by Miss Roberts, thus winding up a most enjoyable season.

Roller Skating Begins To-night

The Novel Sport Opens at Charlotte St. Rink To-night.

Roller skating, Peterborough's latest sport, begins to-night. The Charlotte street rink has now been completely floored, and Mr. Sheridan states that everything is in perfect order for the opening of the novel sport to-night. Rapid progress has been made in getting the building in shape, and roller skating will now be in vogue until December. Mr. Sheridan has 250 pairs of skates on hand at the rink now, and the opening night promises to be a popular one with the public.

A number have already tried the trick, and declare the manipulation of the skates to be an easy proposition, contrary to general supposition. The prospects for a good season are very bright, and the introduction of the sport in Peterborough has no doubt been a popular move.

2000 Cords Wood From Stony Lake

Steamer Majestic Now Engaged in the Fall Towing.

The steamer Majestic arrived in the city yesterday, with a scow containing 106 cords of wood, for Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald. It was left at the Warsaw road bridge on the canal, where it was unloaded for the Curtis Brothers.

The Majestic has a lot of work before her this fall. Captain P. J. Young stated to the Examiner to-day that some two thousand cords of wood were awaiting removal on the shores of Stony Lake. Most of this belongs to Mr. Fitzgerald, Ald. R. Hicks, and Mr. Ed. Young of Young's Point.

The fall towing has now begun in earnest at the lakes and a number of the boats will be kept busy until the snow flies.

The Young Men's Club's Will Be Warmly Debated

This Question One Which Will be Taken Up at Methodist General Conference—The Report of Dr. Willmott—What He Proposes About Young Men's Organizations.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—The struggle for official recognition of Methodist Young Men's Clubs will be renewed before the General Conference when Dr. W. E. Willmott's special committee is given the opportunity to present its report. It is expected that the presentation of the report will provoke a long discussion between the "progressive" and the "conservative" elements of the Conference. The recommendations of the committee provide that the resident of the club, which includes Christian manhood, literary, athletic and social departments, shall be a member of the Church Quarterly Board. Official supervision of the clubs, by the General Conference officers, is provided for in a clause which recommends that the General Secretary of Sunday Schools and Epworth Leagues shall have general charge of the work of those clubs.

What is Recommended.

The following is the text of the committee's report:

(1) Superintendents of circuits and missions may, where desirable, organize young men's clubs, brotherhoods, unions or manhood leagues. The purpose of such societies shall be to unite all efforts towards the welfare and improvement of the spiritual, mental, social and physical life of its members, to build up the Church with which it is connected, and to furnish and take advantage of opportunities of individual and combined service for the spread of Christ's Kingdom.

Several Departments.

(2) Each society shall be free to adopt its own constitution and by-laws subject to the approval of the Quarterly Official Board, but it is advised that it be organized under the following departments, with a vice-president for each: Christian manhood, literary, athletic and social, the duties of the first-named department being defined (though by no means exclusively) as one or more of the following: Club devotional meetings, club Sunday meetings, interest in missions, temperance and moral reform, sick visitation, co-operation with pastor, Epworth League and Sunday school, inviting to church services, neighbourhood and cottage prayer meetings.

Peterborough Line To Be Principal One

Nothing Known in C. P. R. Circles of the Projected Ottawa-Georgian Bay Line—The Road to Peterborough will be the Grain Carrying Route.

The Toronto News last night said: The plans of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the extension of its Ontario services and improved connection with the seaboard, include, it is reported, the construction of a grain-carrying line from Georgian Bay to Ottawa.

Mr. F. S. Darling, division engineer of C. P. R. construction, stated that he had not heard of the project. He stated that there is being built at the present time a line running from Victoria Harbour to Peterborough or Havelock, connecting with the C.P.R's Ontario division at either of those points. Comparatively low grades are obtainable on this route, while a line direct from the city of Ottawa, to the Georgian Bay would be, in Mr. Darling's opinion, of a heavy grade, on account of topographical peculiarities. The line from Georgian Bay to Peterborough had in view the better handling of grain on its way to the eastern seaboard, and lowest grades and shortest routes were the all-important points.

Another C.P.R. Line.

For the past three weeks surveyors have been working on the proposed line between Toronto and Belleville. This would run about thirty miles south of the present Ontario division, and would parallel the G.T.R. line about one mile to the north, although reducing the grade. A line from Belleville to Montreal was also under consideration, although it had not been definitely decided whether this should run through Kingston eastward, or be extended northward from that city to connect with the Ontario division at Tweed.

CONSPICUOUS IN A BALLROOM

Flakes of Dandruff on the Collar and Shoulders of a Gentleman in Full Dress.

This is the thing you quite frequently see in the ball-room — a man's black dress-coat literally covered with dandruff.

It must be annoying to the wearer, and certainly not a pleasant thing to observe. But dandruff can be eradicated. It is a germ disease that will some day cause baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the hair-destroying germ, and stimulates the hair to a rich, abundant growth; it does more—keeps the hair soft and pliant.

Furthermore, Herpicide is a most pleasant toilet accessory; of pleasing odour, and cooling to the scalp.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE GINGER BREAD MAN.

The Gingerbread Man presented at Loh opera house last night, attracted a large house, which, judging by the enthusiastic applause and multiplied recalls, was delighted with the performance. This play, or comic opera or extravaganza, is described as a "gorgeously staged fairyesque," and it fully justified the description. It is only giving simple credit where credit is due, to say that the production was magnificently staged, the scenic effects, were splendid and the accessories were the triumph of mechanical ingenuity applied to the production of dazzling effects. The costumes were equally fine, which might well be the case in respect of the chorus girls whose fetching costumes represented a considerable economy of material. There is hardly anything that can be dignified with the name of a plot, the play consisting of a series of situations in gorgeous settings of stage and costumes, interlaided with some fine singing of tuneful, sprightly music, dancing, joke cracking, etc. What foundation there is for the play is based on Mother Goose rhymes and characters, in which Little Jack Horner was a prime element. The several characters in these rhymes were used as vehicles for splendid spectacular effects and the display of considerable female loveliness of form and attire which as choruses, fairies, peasant girls, reindeers drawing Kris Kringle's toy-laden sleigh, etc., performed some really good chorus singing and very picturesque and perfect fancy marching. The rhymes formed an excuse for some very fair jokes, some not too refined or reverent, and all combined to form a very pleasing three hours' diversion. "The Gingerbread Man" was taken in a most capital manner by Eddie Redway, who was extremely funny and diverting. Homer Lind, as Machevalius Fudge, was a good singer, and played his part and sang his songs in a very satisfactory manner. His solo, with male chorus, was very effective. Miss Gertrude Ammer as Mazie Bon Bon, and the Princess Sugar Plum, was a decidedly clever soprano, singing her songs with excellent finish and effect and contributing the only legitimate dramatic work during the evening. The singing of the several solos and choruses, while not artistically perhaps of the highest character, was well done and almost every number was enthusiastically redemanded, some half a dozen times, showing how highly they appealed to the popular appreciation. The play was splendidly put on and presented in every respect, and it is safe to say that as a fun-maker and popular pleaser, the Ginger bread Man has not been surpassed upon the boards where it held sway so delightfully last night.

Norwood Man Died In West

Harry M. Stephenson Passed Away at Port Arthur.

Norwood, Sept. 25.—The death occurred in the hospital at Port Arthur, on Friday morning, September 21st, of Harry M. Stephenson, at the early age of thirty years. For several weeks he had been suffering from a very severe attack of typhoid fever, which eventually caused his death. The greater part of his life was spent in Norwood. Three years ago he married Miss Mabel Totten, of Campbellford, who, with her infant son survive him. Deceased was a son of Mr. W. H. Stephenson, a life long resident of this place. Besides his parents he leaves two brothers and three sisters, viz: William and Herbert, of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. B. W. Soutre, Norwood; Miss Olive Stephenson and Mrs. Jas. Mullen, of Montreal. The bereaved ones have the heartfelt sympathy of the community, in their sad affliction, which seems doubly sad following so soon after the death of an older brother, which occurred last April. The remains were brought here on Monday at noon, the funeral taking place on Tuesday afternoon from his father's residence, Queen street to the Norwood Cemetery. The pallbearers were:—Messrs. J. W. Rock, G. W. Buck, J. E. Roxburgh, Fred. Anderson, A. P. Greenbank and T. E. Finlay.

New Proprietor Of Drug Store

Mr. A. J. Tovey Takes Over East City Drug Business.

Mr. A. J. Tovey, son of Ald. Tovey, has taken over the druggist business of Mr. James S. Lang, East City.

Mr. Tovey is a Peterborough boy, who has met with good success in his work. He spent a number of years in the employ of Mr. H. H. Edmison, when he was in business here, and successfully passed his examinations at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto afterwards. Since that time he has worked in Cobourg and Toronto. He therefore becomes the proprietor of the East City drug store a full fledged druggist, and his ability to meet the requirements of the public is unquestionable.

Mr. Lang has left on account of ill-health and has decided to travel for a drug firm.

What Happened To The Milk

Milk Pail Rinsings Went Into Can And So Did Water

Toronto World, Sept. 27.

Ben Boylan and W. R. Harper were acquitted in police court yesterday on charges of selling impure milk. It was decided that the farmers from whom they received supplies were the ones to blame.

The farmers gave evidence. Geo. Chadwick, after having been promised immunity from prosecution if he told the truth, admitted rinsing milk pails with about a quart of water, and pouring the result into the can of "pure milk" sold in the city. He supposed a "little water" got in the cans in this way. Wm. Lushner did something the same. He denied that he skimmed milk, though Dr. Pyne was positive that had also occurred.

Herbert Duncan said that the supply of cream at home was obtained by taking a little off the top of filled cans. He also said he put a quart of water in the can each time when it wasn't full.

R. J. Armstrong, milk inspector, and Dr. A. R. Pyne, analyst, gave evidence as to the poor quality of the milk sampled. The latter thought that ten per cent. water had been added to the milk Harper had.

The magistrate dismissed the cases against the dealers, saying: "All these three farmers that have given evidence have been guaranteed immunity of prosecution from me, but I won't say this isn't a case for a civil action. We have learned the truth of the matter and I don't believe the wholesalers are to blame in this case."

BUILT UP HER HEALTH

SPEEDY CURE OF MISS ECCLISON

She Is Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Writes Gratefully to Mrs. Pinkham.

For the wonderful help that she has found Zula Ecclison, 6 Erie St., East, St. Thomas, Ont., believes it her duty to write the following letter for publication, in order that other women afflicted in the same way may be benefited as she was. She writes:

Zula Ecclison

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a tonic and regulator for female troubles. I suffered for four years with displacement and no one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental suffering these ordeals who are thus affected. Your Vegetable Compound cured me. Within three months I was fully restored to health and strength and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to obtain such relief when so many doctors fail to help you. Your medicine is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacement of organs, inflammation or ulceration can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of it to all who stand in need of wise counsel. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-West Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Many Revelations At The Investigation

I. O. F. Has Been Swindled Out of Fifty-Five Thousand—Stevenson's Statement—Payments to G. W. Fowler, M.P., on Shields-Ryan Limit Purchase—Fictitious Option Given at $225,000 While Actual Consideration was $170,000 -- Union Trust Had to Pay the Higher Figure.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—That the Union Trust Co. was swindled out of $55,000 in connection with the purchase of the Shields-Ryan timber property in British Columbia, and that the parties who profited by it will be followed, was the startling revelation which Mr. Elliot G. Stevenson, Supreme Counsellor of the I. O. F., made before the Insurance Commission yesterday morning. In support of this statement cheques aggregating $45,000, which were given by Mr. Peter Ryan, who sold the property to the trust company, to Mr. George W. Fowler, M. P., who conducted negotiations on behalf of the Union Trust Co., in the capacity, as described by Mr. Stevenson, of agent, were produced in court. Mr. Ryan's admission to a representative of the Union Trust Co. that the true consideration he received for the property was $170,000, and not $226,000, as stated in the conveyance, and as paid by the Union Trust, was also quoted.

Swindled Out of $55,000.

Mr. Shepley asked about the option on the British Columbia property.

"The first I knew about it was from a Vancouver paper, sent to me by my son, who is in the west, and containing a report of the evidence given in the case of Peter Ryan against John Shields."

"And the true consideration for the option was not $225,000, but $170,000. There were two options signed — one true one and the other overstating the amount?" said Mr. Shepley.

"Yes."

"Then the other $55,000 must have gone somewhere?"

"If that is true, we have been swindled out of $55,000, and the man who got it must account for it. We are awaiting the result of this investigation, and our solicitor has been instructed to take the necessary steps to recover such funds."

"Have you any knowledge of this latter deal—similar to the others?"

"No—nothing but the suspicion from the first transactions."

Couldn't Get Actual Price.

Mr. Stevenson had been unable to obtain any information as to the amount actually paid for the Okanagan Lumber Co.'s property, but had been assured on Saturday last by Mr. McCormack, who is now manager of the Pacific Lumber Co. at Vancouver, that he had received his full share of the purchase money, whatever that was.

In connection with the recent reorganization of the Union Trust Co., Mr. Stevenson said that Mr. Matthew Wilson, K. C., had conducted the negotiations on behalf of the I. O. F., but had not rendered a bill for his services. Mr. Wilson was entitled to compensation for the work he had done, but if he had been compensated in any other than the regular way by any one other than the I. O. F. it was wrong. He had heard rumors recently in connection with the matter, and if anyone had made any profit out of the transaction, the amount so received would have to be repaid.

Gone Out of Lumbering.

The announcement was made by Mr. Stevenson that the Union Trust Co. had gone out of the lumbering business, having sold the Kamloops Lumber Co. at a price which will repay principal and interest and $75,000 profit, in addition to which they expect to recover the $55,000 of which Mr. Stevenson said the order had been swindled in the purchase.

Two Options; Two Prices.

In the afternoon I. C. Levesconte, barrister, was first called. He had something to do with the transaction between Fowler and Peter Ryan. Mr. Ryan had instructed him to sell the limits for $250,000. Shortly after this it was suggested to him by Fowler and McCormack that if the price came down a purchaser might be secured. He was under the impression that the purchaser was a Maine man. The new price was put at $200,000, and witness drew the option for that. The option was drawn in duplicate. Fowler had one and Ryan had the other.

Mr. Shepley wanted to see the document, and Mr. Levesconte said that he had brought it. This question included the Albert Canyon limits, which had been included in the $250,000 option.

Mr. Shepley drew attention to the fact that both options were drawn on the same day, covering the same property, between the same persons, one at $200,000 and one at $250,000.

"Who told you to draw these documents?"

"Mr. Ryan and Mr. Fowler."

Exact Copy, But Unsigned.

Mr. Levesconte produced the final document, which was an exact copy, but unsigned.

Mr. Shepley read the agreement. The Albert Canyon limits were left out, and the price was quoted at $170,000. Mr. Levesconte witnessed this document. The next day Fowler and Ryan came back with a document for $225,000.

"You were not surprised or shocked?" thundered Mr. Shepley.

"No; I was not."

"What did you think about the new agreement?"

"It was to keep the price up on the sale. I suspected that Fowler was going to put forward the price that he had paid as $225,000."

Witness had nothing further to do with the matter until the date fixed for the first payment at the Union Trust Co.'s office. He drew the assignments of licenses, etc., which were made out to Mr. Foster. He also drew the deed of the mill site, made out from Mrs. Ryan to George E. Foster.

The witness' legal account was headed "Timber limits," but Mr. Ryan had promised to pay him 10 per cent. commission on the first deal. When the $170,000 deal was put through, Mr. Ryan would not come below $175,000, and his commission was reduced to $12,500.

"The deal was nearly closed, but Fowler would not come up the other $5,000. Then my commission was reduced to $10,000, which was to be paid out of the $170,000. I did not know that Mr. Ryan received the whole $225,000 until you told me just now," said Mr. Levesconte.

"How much did Ryan pay you?"

"Six thousand two hundred and fifty dollars. The balance has not yet been paid."

Chancellor Boyd Called.

At this point Mr. Shepley requested the witness to 'phone for his dockets in relation to the deal, and, in the meantime, called Sir John Boyd to the witness stand.

Sir John told that he had put the late Judge MacDougall's shares in the Union Trust Co., and had qualified for the directorate. He had $1,000 worth of stock in the Great West Land Co.

Mr. Shepley asked, in view of the evidence that had come out, if he had anything to say.

Witness replied: "As to the legal aspect of the question expressed by me as to the transaction involving the taking up of lands in the west by entering into a syndicate, as has been named, I could see no objection. I was given to understand that a substantial part of the price was to be carried by the gentlemen having the option. As to the profits, I know nothing, and I had no intimation that the directors of the Trust Co. and the Land Co. were going to borrow from the Union Trust Co. The whole situation appears to me like this: In the main transactions of the Union Trust and the very large transaction in Northwest land there was no large expenditure of money without the sanction of the Foresters. It was a most profitable venture, but I know very little about the working out of the transaction. There was no clash of interest between the directors of the Land Co. and the Union Trust. If there was, the wishes of the Foresters would carry. No one looked at the matter from an adverse standpoint. This is borne out from the fact that I put the ready money at that time that I had in my command in the stock."

"It appears," said Mr. Shepley, "that as far as the Great West Land Co. was concerned, apart from the Union Trust Co., no one put any money in it but yourself and another small shareholder."

"I did not know that, and I am very much surprised to hear it."

"The three members of the syndicate never risked any money, but at the end come out with practically all the stock for which no money had been paid?"

"I did not know."

Peter Ryan's Memory.

Peter Ryan was the next witness. He thought that he gave Mr. Levesconte an option on certain timber limits in British Columbia for $200,000. Mr. Levesconte introduced Fowler to witness. Mr. Levesconte was to receive a commission, but he did not think it was 10 per cent.

"On the same day you signed another option to Mr. Fowler for $250,000?"

"I don't remember that. The only explanation I can give is that the eastern limit, township 26, would be embodied in the larger option."

Mr. Ryan gave the dimensions of the limits in details.

"At that time were you aware of Fowler's intentions in regard to the matter?"

"No. I thought he was going to operate there himself."

The agreement finally settled at $170,000. That was the real agreement.

"In reference to the $225,000 option I went to Levesconte's office, where the document was ready to pass on to another party, Mr. Foster, in trust. The day I signed the agreement, Jan. 26, conveying the limits to Fowler, I knew that the Trust Co. were getting the option, as I thought, in trust."

"What did you say when you saw the $225,000 option?"

Difference to Go to Fowler.

"Well, the understanding was that although the price I was to be paid was $225,000 the difference between that amount and $170,000 was to go back to Fowler. Fowler had made arrangements to sell it at the larger rate than he was giving me. I venture to say that the $170,000 option was not signed by me."

Mr. Shepley wanted to find from the witness what he understood from the agreement, but Mr. Ryan could not say.

"Can't you recollect what Fowler said to you?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"He may give you all the information I could, but the sum and substance of the whole matter was that I signed the agreement conveyancing the property at $225,000, and that I was to give back $55,000 to Fowler, who was making a profit on the deal."

Mr. Shepley asked Mr. Ryan when he forgot the conversation with Mr. Fowler.

"Did you forget it since you got in the box?" asked Mr. Shepley.

"Oh, no."

"Have you forgotten it since the litigation in British Columbia a few weeks ago?"

"I guess I must have."

Mr. Ryan professed that he had entirely forgotten the conversation, but Mr. Shepley kept after him.

Where Did It Go.

"What did Mr. Fowler tell you about the $55,000—the destination of it?"

"Nothing was said at the time."

"Will you swear you don't know?"

"I don't remember, I can't remember it."

"Did you believe what he said."

"If he said that he wanted the money otherwise than for himself I would not believe him then nor now."

"What did Fowler tell you he was going to do with the money?" continued Mr. Shepley.

Mr. Ryan could not remember the conversation.

Counsel kept on, however, with the result that Mr. Ryan admitted that several months after Mr. Fowler had told him that he had to divide the money with someone else, but he (witness) did not believe him (Fowler) then, nor does he now.

"Did he tell you with whom he divided the money?"

"Yes."

"Who?"

"I won't answer that."

"Well, Mr. Ryan," said Mr. Shepley, "you go away and reflect on the matter and come back here on Monday morning at 10.30."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Table Manners.

Parents, even in a humble cottage home, should pay attention to the conduct and manners of their children at mealtimes. They cannot tell what position they will fill in after life, and a man or woman who is ignorant of the most simple laws of table etiquette is terribly handicapped. Were the parent to reprove the child who conveys its food to its mouth with a knife, who drinks its tea from the saucer or who sticks its elbows out at right angles the lesson so taught would never be forgotten. There is a certain amount of freedom at the family table, where one scarcely expects to find the ceremonious deportment of a set dinner party. But even in the home there are minor rules and observances which should always be followed. The boy or girl on whose mind they are impressed at an early age will never lose them, and then, after years of struggles, it may be, the "manners that make the man" will be their chief passport into the circle of their new acquaintances.

"The way to fill a large sphere is to glorify a small one. There is no large sphere; you are your sphere.—Edward Bratslin.

John Armstrong Appointed.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—John Armstrong has been appointed to succeed Robert Glockling as head of the bureau of labor. The entire bureau may soon be reorganized. John Armstrong is one of the oldest compositors in Toronto, and is at present on The Mail and Empire having started with The Mail on the day of its first publication.

Four Found Guilty.

City of Mexico, Sept. 27.—Of 20 defendants charged with swindling the New York Life, Mutual Life and the Equitable Life Insurance Companies four were convicted. They received sentences ranging from 11 months to four years' imprisonment. The frauds involved approximately $360,000.

Escaped In Night Clothes.

Omemee, Sept. 27.—The Presbyterian manse was badly damaged here by fire yesterday morning. Shortly after 12 o'clock Rev. Mr. Whitelaw and family were awakened by the smoke and had a narrow escape, being forced to flee in their night robes. Loss about $1,500

Big Steamers Grounded.

Port Colborne, Sept. 27.—A blockade, which occurred Tuesday by the grounding of the steamers Westmount and Rosedale in the entrance to the harbor, was raised at midnight, the water reacting and floating the steamers off the shoal.

Thieves at Peterboro' Fair.

Peterboro, Sept. 27.—M. M. Morrow of Brockville was arrested on the fair grounds for pocket picking. Frank Smith of Toronto was also arrested for breaking into Mrs. Dunsford's residence and stealing considerable household effects.

Bogus Cheques Galore.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—A successful swindler, using the name of John Garvey, has flooded the city with bogus cheques of small denominations. No such person as Garvey is known here.

KISSING IN PUBLIC.

So Long as the Lady Is Willing the Policeman Will Make No Objection.

If you are on Yonge street or Queen street or any other thickly occupied street and feel like kissing your best girl—or anyone else's for that matter, providing she does not object—don't hesitate, says The Toronto Star. Just kiss her, and give her a little squeeze, too, if your inclination is that way. The police will not object unless you get unreasonable and block up the street during the osculation and subsequent embracing. Do it quickly and not too often, and the chaps in the city's blue will not interfere.

I have Deputy Chief Stark's word for it.

"Spooning on the streets and in the parks!" he exclaimed. "Why, there isn't any law against it that I ever discovered, and the policemen have not been given any special orders to stop it. If young people feel like kissing and hugging on the street I guess it is their own business, not ours. We do not come into the proposition at all unless the young woman makes objection to the operation, or they get so loving that they attract a crowd, or obstruct the street by halting in the middle of the pavement while they do a little billing and cooing."

"Suppose they did attract a crowd or cause a stoppage in traffic by stopping in the street to kiss and hug, what would you charge them with?"

"Disorderly conduct," was the reply. "It would come under that head. All matters which cause street obstruction come under that title."

"But who would you arrest? If a crowd chooses to gather because a man is doing something that he has a right to do, why should he be made to suffer?"

"Oh, well, the law is quite clear on that point," was the answer. "That which causes the obstruction must stand the responsibility. In Montreal a year ago a shopkeeper was fined because the marriage of a couple in his store window attracted a crowd which interfered with street traffic."

"Then a newspaper which bulletins election returns is liable to prosecution?"

"Yes," said the deputy, "but we never prosecute. Everybody is interested in election results, and no one raises a protest at the obstruction; therefore we do not bother."

Deputy Chief Stark said that in the parks of the city no one bothered with the billing and cooing as long as propriety was not violated. He said that the Allan Gardens were the recognized refuge of the love-sick in Toronto, though all the parks got their share.

"It is amusing over in the Gardens to watch the lads and lassies toting the benches over into the shade," he remarked.

"What would you do if a young man and a girl walked down Yonge street hugging and kissing each other?" I asked Policeman Brown, who was on duty at King and Yonge streets. Now Brown is a good-looking young fellow. He smiled retrospectively before replying.

"I wouldn't do anything," he replied. "Why should I? It's their own business. I'd let them hug all they wanted to unless they attracted a crowd, when I would probably tell them to quit making a public exhibition of themselves."

"Have you any instructions on the matter?"

"None. I guess that is a matter left to a man's discretion," was the answer. "If they got too broad I suppose I would have to break up this love lunch."

Just then Policeman Roberts came up to relieve Brown, and the question was put to him.

"They could do it to their hearts' content for all of me," was his answer. "Unless they were drunk and became noisy over it and attracted a jeering crowd I would not worry. I have seen a few couples go down the street hugging each other. I often see newly-married couples wandering around hand-in-hand, he looking into her eyes and she into his'n."

Over in Buffalo it is a common thing to see young people hugging and kissing in the street squares near the heart of the city. No one pays any attention there. In Toronto such demonstrations of affection in public are comparatively rare. One night I saw a young woman pucker up her mouth in tantalizing fashion at her escort, who swung on a strap above her. He took the plunge without hesitation, and the smack woke the passengers up. But for the young woman's furious blushing the passengers would not have known who was the recipient of such a vigorous buss.

Where Montgomery Fell.

Canadians will recall the row made about the taking down for repairs of a sign board on the cliff at Quebec, which board tells that Gen. Montgomery fell there. What particular glory there was in the feat of Gen. Montgomery I have never been able to see, inasmuch as he was invading a country that simply wanted to mind its own business. However, the signboard is there, and United States visitors, who never heard of Montgomery before, go out and look wise when shown the spot. "Spectator" of Outlook has been visiting the scene, and he thus writes of it: As the "Spectator" stood there musing on the things that might have been, a carriage drove up, containing three ladies. The driver announced, "Here was where Montgomery fell." The ladies craned their necks. "Where did he fall from?" "From up there, madam! He fell from the place where you see the sign, down to the road here, and the fall ended his life." The "Spectator" was highly amused at this interpretation of the word "fall." Following old Champlain street, he came to the shore of the St. Lawrence, and entered into conversation with an old Irish woman. He related to her what he had just heard; but, instead of sharing his amusement, she said, seriously, "Yis, I've heard my old father tell about it; he said Gen. Montgomery was on horseback when he fell, and the fall killed both horse and rider!"

Bleeding Piles Cured

—after Years of Suffering.

Miracle-days may be past—but the day of saving people from suffering is ever-present.

What is more distressing than Itching, Bleeding Piles? Some say the only cure is the knife. We say, operations are unnecessary. Read this letter:

"For years I had Piles, which protruded and bled freely. The itching pain was sometimes almost unbearable. Often I suffered so severely it was next to impossible to remain on duty. It was a hardship to walk. I tried many remedies, but with poor success.

"This winter, in New York—at the Beach Shack—I suffered greatly—was almost compelled to remain in my room. I tried several remedies—without relief.

"On my return home, Mira Ointment was advised. I used it. In only a short time, all the irritation and pain ceased. I can now walk with ease and attend my duties as a member of the Fire Department.

"I strongly recommend Mira Ointment to anyone suffering from this annoying complaint.

The Story of the Prayer in Rossini's "Mose In Egitto."

The sublime prayer of the Hebrews, when preparing to cross the Red sea, is, perhaps, one of the most solemn and majestically grand compositions that can be found in the choral repertory, yet, at the same time, simple to a degree. This was an afterthought of the composer and was not introduced until the second season of the production of "Mose In Egitto" at Naples.

The opera then, as now, terminated with the passage of the Red sea by the Israelites; but, although the audiences were entranced with the music, they invariably saluted the passage of the Red sea with peals of laughter, owing to want of skill of the machinist and scene painter, who contrived to render this portion of the affair superbly ridiculous and brought down the curtain amid uproarious mirth.

Rossini exhibited his usual indifference, but poor Tottola, the poet, was driven nearly crazy by this unwelcome termination of his literary labors and intensely chagrined at the idea of so sacred a subject exciting laughter. This lasted throughout the first season; the next it was reproduced with similar brilliant success (on the first night), for the music, and similar laughter at the end of the opera. The next day, while Rossini was indulging in his usual habit of lying in bed and gossiping with a room full of friends, in rushed Tottola, in a most excited state, crying out:

"Eviva, I have saved the third act!"

"How?" asked Rossini lazily.

"Why," replied Tottola, "I have written a prayer for the Hebrews before crossing the dreadful Red sea, and I did it all in one hour."

"Well," said Rossini, "if it has taken you an hour to write this prayer I will engage to make the music for it in a quarter of the time. Here, give me pen and ink," saying which he jumped out of bed, and in ten minutes he had composed the music without the aid of a piano and while his friends were laughing and talking around him. Thus, owing to the blundering ignorance of a stage carpenter and scene painter, the world is indebted for the most sublime preghiera ever penned.

Night came. The audience prepared to laugh as usual when the Red sea scene came, but during the new prayer commenced quite silence prevailed, every note was listened to with rapt attention, and on its conclusion the entire audience rose en masse and cheered for (several) minutes, nor did they ever again laugh at the passage of the Red sea.

HOW MUCH PEOPLE EAT.

In finding a unit for the food consuming power of each family it was assumed as generally true that—

Husbands consume a like amount of food.

The wife consumes 90 per cent as much as the husband.

A child from eleven to fourteen years of age consumes 90 per cent as much food as the husband.

A child from seven to ten years of age consumes 75 per cent as much food as the husband.

A child from four to six years of age consumes 40 per cent as much food as the husband.

A child of three years or under consumes 15 per cent as much food as the husband.

Children of fifteen years of age and over are considered as adults so far as the consumption of food is concerned. —Boston Transcript.

A Cure That Didn't Work.

It is rumored, says The Fernie, B. C., Ledger, that a certain married man who had invested too much of his monthly pay in Stugram last Saturday night, and in consequence wended his way home rather deviously, met with an unexpected experience. His wife, having had this kind of experience upon many other pay nights past and gone, concluded to give her husband of the devious gait habit a lesson which would lead him to improve his gait. Dame rumor adds zest to this unvarnished tale by relating that this much-troubled woman arrayed herself in black tights, trimmed in red rings, long pointed slippers turned up at the toes, decorated her face after the fashion of an Indian warrior, let her long black hair fall loosely down over her bare shoulders, and as the timber-jointed hubby staggered into the room, she said in a voice full of smoke and sulphur: "Come in here, you brute, I'm a she devil." Imagine her surprise when he staggered up to her, reached out his hand and stammered: "Ish-zat-so? Shake, ol' girl. I'm your brother-in-law; my wif-shur sister."

Robespierre.

Robespierre of the French revolution, the man who was destined to deluge France with blood, was not long before his frightful career of power began one of the most strenuous opponents of capital punishment. While he was still an obscure advocate at his native Arras he threw up an appointment because of his opposition to this form of penalty. And just when his star was in the ascendant he boldly harangued the national assembly to prove "that the punishment of death is essentially unjust, that it has no tendency to repress crimes and that it multiplies offenses much more than it diminishes them."

Why He Was Cool.

Average Man—There's a run on another bank. Just look at these depositors crowding in. The fools! That's what makes money tight. The whole crowd should be carried off to a lunatic asylum. Friend—You are allowing your deposit to remain, I presume? Average Man—Um—er—I haven't any funds in that bank.

Subtle.

"What did you get out of that will case?" asked the first lawyer.

"Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars," replied the second lawyer. "Good round sum, eh?"

"Yes; but I thought the old man left more than that."

SPRINGS OF HIERAPOLIS.

Wonderful Waters That Petrify Everything They Encounter.

Hierapolis is a strange ruined city of Asia Minor. It was founded about 200 B. C. and a large part of the place has been buried by the petrifying water of hot springs. The country round Hierapolis is today infested with brigands. A traveler who visited the place under an armed guard of Turkish soldiers says: "The temperature of the springs is that of a very warm bath and while hot there is not a trace of that petrifying element which renders the waters so remarkable after they have cooled and causes them to turn to stone every object they encounter after very slight immersion. The swimming bath itself is about fifty feet to sixty feet in length and in many places from twelve to fifteen feet deep, and is today almost as it was in Roman times. The opportunity to take a natural hot bath was not lost upon the writer. The floor and sides and steps are of white marble and the depth varies to suit the convenience of the swimmer. Some great upheaval has brought down the marble columns which once decorated the sides of the bath and they lie across it in picturesque disorder, some almost intact, others broken into many fragments.

"One of the columns has so fallen across the bath that its base is exposed while its slanting top shines gleaming white beneath the water at a depth of some ten feet. On this column one can lie with one's head out of water and it is not possible to imagine a bath enjoyable under more ideal conditions. The water flows out of the basin in many little rivulets and a few hundred yards from its source begins to develop its petrifying nature. As it cools its bed becomes white with a hard, chalky substance and no living thing or plant can resist its stony grip. The grasses and leaves which fall into its deadly waters find their grave upon its surface and the flowers which dip their heads into the streams turn into petrified images of themselves, counterfeiting nature in stone, even to their slender petals.

"The fall from the top of the cliff into the valley is in some cases abrupt and steep and in others gradual. In the latter a succession of basins has been formed descending the slopes in ever diminishing size, as the waters in their descent have overflowed from one rim to another. Stalactites depend from the top of the cliff, and formations like gigantic beehives glimmer in the sun. Seen from a distance, the very waters appear to have been caught and turned to rock as they flowed and noiseless waterfalls of stone take the place of the liquid element."—Chicago News.

A Cautious Sentinel.

It was the small brother of pretty Margaret who opened the front door in response to Mr. Goodyear's ring, and his face took on a singularly alert expression as he surveyed the caller.

"No, she isn't in," said Margaret's brother. "Are—are you Mr. Hamlin?"

"No," said the young man; "I am Mr. Goodyear. Does that make any difference about her being at home?" And he looked searchingly at the boy.

"Course not," said Bobby indignantly. "I don't tell stories, nor Margaret doesn't. But if you'd been Mr. Hamlin I was to tell something about her coming home and get 10 cents if I did it right and didn't tell the wrong one. I need that money, and so, you see, I didn't want to make any mistake. Goodby."—Youth's Companion.

The Labor of Mountain Climbing.

Below is a curious calculation on the amount of energy expended by a person weighing 168 pounds in climbing a mountain peak 7,000 feet high, the time allowed for the ascent being five hours: By careful calculation it is found that the total amount of labor performed is equal to raising 1,380,000 pounds to a height of one foot or that of raising one pound to a height of 1,380,000 feet. Of this enormous amount of work 1,176,000 foot pounds are expended by the muscles of the legs in raising or lifting the body, 12,000 by the heart in circulating the blood, 30,000 by the chest in breathing and 54,000 in the various exertions of balancing the body, overcoming friction of the ground, etc.

Ancient Single Tax.

Vauban, the great French engineer, seems, according to his biographers, to have been the father or perhaps the grandfather of single tax. He published in the year of his death a volume in which he contended that one tax on land should be made to cover all the expenses of the state. The book was promptly suppressed by the royal council.

The World's Future Population.

It is now claimed by some statisticians that the world will be overpeopled at the end of the year 2072, when the population at the present rate of increase will be 5,994,000,000 people.

Beards.

The plays, poems and treatises of the reigns of Elizabeth, James I. and Charles I. are full of amusing allusions to the variety of fashions in beards. We learn from them the various styles that were adopted by different wearers, such as the French, Spanish, Dutch and Italian cuts, the new, old, gentlemen's, common, court and country cuts.

East Winds.

There are twenty-two allusions in the Bible to the east wind, nineteen of them being of a disparaging character.

In the Russian army two days a week are observed as fasts, Wednesdays and Fridays, on which days all the soldier gets in the way of food is lentil soup and black bread and a drink consisting of water in which rye bread has been soaked.

UNIQUE COMPILATION.

Issued by Department of Marine Shows Canada's Annual Precipitation.

Hugh V. Payne, climatologist of the Dominion Observatory, has compiled a work on the Rain and Snow Fall of Canada, the first of its kind ever published in the Dominion. Mr. Payne has been connected with the department for 31 years and has been for about four years engaged upon the work just issued by the Department of Marine under the direction of Chief Stupart. The work is a mass of figures and a faithful daily record of over 60 years. The following is a brief statement as to the distribution of precipitation over the Dominion.

British Columbia.

British Columbia is a territory with very pronounced geographic features, several lofty chains of mountains paralleling the coast from the extreme north to the most southerly boundary. Along the exposed western coast the precipitation is somewhere between 110 and 136 inches, and eastward over Vancouver Island and the mainland the western slopes of the various ranges each claim a much larger percentage of moisture from the Pacific winds than do the valleys and interior plateaus. Near the more eastern shores of Vancouver Island, the annual precipitation ranges between 35 and 50 inches, while across the Straits of Georgia in the valley of the lower Fraser, it is very generally over 60 and less than 80 inches. Eastward of the coast ranges the climate of Yale, Kamloops and Okanagan District is decidedly drier and an annual percipitation ranging from about seven to eighteen inches, according to orographic situation, is an approximate valuation. Approaching the Selkirk range the precipitation increases, and at the higher altitudes is very great, chiefly owing to a heavy snowfall between October and April.

A feature of very pronounced importance in connection with precipitation over the northwest provinces of Canada, is that in Manitoba 50 per cent., and further west more than 62 per cent. of the total for the year falls between May and August, and June is the month of heaviest rainfall, just the very period when moisture is required for the growing crops.

In Manitoba the rainfall is greater than in the other Northwest Provinces. The normal annual precipitation over the province is approximately 22 inches; and the May to August rainfall is 11.5 inches; drought is therefore not much to be feared here, but westward the danger increases. From Regina westward to Medicine Hat and northward to Saskatoon there are very few rainfall records of over a few years, but there is fair evidence that the average annual precipitation over this area nowhere exceeds 15 inches, and at many points is less than that amount, but extremes may vary from 9 inches at Medicine Hat to 22 inches at Qu'Appelle. By reference to the tables it will be seen that the records of 20 years indicate an average rainfall of 11 inches in Saskatchewan and 12 inches in Alberta, which with a snowfall of about 55 inches, gives a total annual precipitation of 16 or 17 inches over the larger part of Saskatchewan and 17 or 18 inches in Alberta. But it is to be remembered that the seasonal precipitation in the far west is very variable. At Calgary in 1892 the total precipitation of the year was but 7.91 inches, while in 1902 it was 34 inches.

Ontario's Range.

The precipitation in the older portions of Ontario ranges very generally between 30 and 40 inches, but something less than the lower value obtains north of Lake Superior and an excess of the latter value is found on the western slopes of the counties lying to the eastward of Lake Huron and the Georgian Bay.

'Way Down East.

In Quebec the precipitation ranges between 30 and 45 inches; in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island between 35 and 47 inches and in Nova Scotia from 42 and 56 inches.

Still Remains a Briton.

While the British Medical Association meetings are now over, and while they have been fully described, there is one incident connected therewith which may be mentioned. One of the journals which arranged to give a full report of the meetings on the technical side was The New York Medical Journal, which was represented at the meetings by Dr. Wolfred Nelson. The name will bring to the minds of Canadians one of the leaders in the Rebellion of 1837 in Lower Canada; and the inference that there is a connection is correct, for Dr. Nelson is the grandson of that Wolfred Nelson who was the associate of Papineau and William Lyon Mackenzie. It is not necessary now to point out that the rebellion was long ago justified, and the leaders were raised to positions of honor in their own country. There is one further circumstance, however, which may be cited as tending to show the strong attachment of these men and their relations to the British Crown. This is that the present Dr. Wolfred Nelson, who is a graduate of McGill, is still a British citizen, although he has resided twenty-eight years in the United States. Dr. Nelson was interested while here in seeing the old house at the corner of Bay and Adelaide streets, where William Lyon Mackenzie wrote the editorials which shook the Family Compact from its pedestal.—Toronto News.

Many people still cling to the grand mother idea that a perfect custom made boot cannot be produced except by hand in the good, old fashioned, foolish, fogey way.

Hand made is right. A shoe should be hand made throughout and all Slater's are, but why should a shoe maker be condensed to tediously sew a shoe with awl, wax and knife at snail speed when he can do it a hundred times quicker and a hundred times better with a Goodyear Welt machine? There's no reason, except prejudice and tradition.

Every woman knows that for strength, evenness and durability, hand sewing cannot compare with the sewing machines product. Neither can hand shoe sewing compare with Goodyear machine sewing.

If you'd like a shoe without tacks, threads, stitches, lumps, hollows or roughness under the foot; if you'd like a shoe with the lock stitch which holds the sole on until worn to the thinness of paper, get a shoe that's made by the Goodyear Welt Process. As all Slater's are made by that process—Get a Slater's.

Anywhere in Canada at $3.50 and $4.00 for women and $4.00 to $5.00 for men—$1.00 less than the best American makes and precisely the same shoe.

THE YELLOW PERIL.

How Supremacy of the Chinese May Come to Pass.

Will the Chinese some day become the ruling nation of the earth? George Borrow, the English philologist, traveler and author, used to say that they would. Nearly fifty years ago, when he was studying their language, he maintained that there was among them the finest natural fighting material on the face of the earth.

He instanced in proof of his assertion their prowess in stone throwing, the most primitive form of marksmanship. An ordinary Chinaman, he said, could throw a stone weighing half a pound or more a distance of 120 yards with sure aim and deadly effect. He described a stone fight between some English bluejackets and an equal number of Chinamen in which the former were most ignominiously routed, many of them very badly hurt.

But it was not through their martial prowess that he predicted the supremacy of the Chinese. He said it would come about in another way. As western civilization became more luxurious and enervated and manual labor fell into contempt the Chinese would gradually supply all the workers in civilized countries—miners, farm laborers, factory hands, laundrymen, cooks, domestic servants would all eventually be Celestials. Then some day they would rise suddenly, cut the throats of their masters and become absolute rulers of the destinies of the world.

THE FRENCH MEAL.

Its Greatest Charm Is the Cheerful Table Talk.

After all, excellent as are the dishes and the order and manner of their service, the table talk is perhaps the chief glory of the French meal.

It is no unusual thing to hear our countrymen and countrywomen, especially our countrywomen, refer to eating as a necessary evil, like the prescribed dose of noisome medicine; as an altogether bothersome business to be disposed of as quickly as possible, with an air that is sour, aggressive, disgusted, languid, patronizing, dreamful, whining or discouraged, according as it springs from dyspepsia, puritanism, interrupted hustling anaemia, affectation, esoteric philosophy, disappointment in love, or honest weariness with a hard and monotonous daily round.

Such a sentiment would scarcely be uttered in France, where the attitude toward the table is universally cordial and respectful, and it could not be taken seriously if it were.

The French writer who said, "The table is the sole place where one is never bored during the first hour," voiced perfectly a national feeling.—Smart Set.

When the Earth Was Top Shaped.

After people dropped the old fashioned idea that the earth was as flat as a pancake they did not immediately grasp the globe or spherical idea as it is applied to worlds. The people of the time of Columbus believed that the earth was a body shaped like a top or cone, the surface rising from the north to the south. There are several letters written by Columbus and still in existence which go to prove that such was his conception of the shape of the earth. The top shaped idea of the earth seems to have originated with one John Blauvis about 1479 and to have immediately become very popular.

The Press Gangs.

Desperate means were sometimes resorted to in order to get men for British warships. A chronicler writes that in the year 1738, "a fleet of ships being required immediately to be manned, the press gangs placed a live turkey on the top of the monument, which, drawing together a great number of idle people, they had the opportunity of selecting as many men as answered the purpose of their intended scheme." The scene so enraged a citizen that he fired a shot at the bird, "which occasioned it to fly away." But the mischief had been done.

An Odd Argument.

Here is a knotty problem suggested by Sir Henry Roscoe in his autobiography. Two men argued as to whether oil or water were the lighter. The first man contended that the oil must be lighter, as it floats upon water. And then the unscientific man triumphed with the argument that oil must be the heavier because it keeps the water down.

Libeled London.

When the most has been said against London smoke and London fog, against the dirt laden atmosphere and the noise and worry of the metropolis, it is still true that there are healthy people in the capital. London has not perhaps deserved all the hard things that have been said of it.—London Country Gentleman.

One never hears of a duke going wrong. Every one bearing any other title in the peerage may be perhaps subjected to the temptations of "the world, the flesh and the devil," but a duke never! Indeed, the old Scotsman's verdict that dukes are "verra, verra respectable people" seems one about which there can be no doubt.—London Tatler.

Free.

"Johnny," queried the teacher of the juvenile class, "what is the difference between electricity and lightning?"

"You don't have to pay nothin' for lightnin'," answered Johnny.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Dangerous.

Kind Lady—Here is a glass of water. Certainly you can drink that. Tramp—No, mum. I've got an iron constitution, and the water would rust it.

In childhood be modest, in youth temperate, in manhood just and in old age prudent.—Socrates.

THE SPONGE FISHER.

He Must Have Strength, a Quick Eye and a Deft Hand.

Lying on his chest along the boat's deck, the sponge fisher, with his water glass—a pane set in a box fitted with handles—looks down forty feet into the clear depths. With one hand he grasps and sinks a slender pole, sometimes fifty feet in length, fitted at the end with a double hook. The sponge once discovered, the hook is deftly inserted at the rocky base, and by a sudden jerk the sponge is detached.

This curt description of what seems the simple work of sponge fishing gives no idea of the real skill and exertion needed. The eye of the fisher has to be trained by long experience to peer into the sea and tell the commercially valuable sponges from those that are worthless. He must have a deft hand to detach the sponge without a tear.

Above all, while doing this with one hand, he must manipulate with the other the water glass, as the waves sway it sideways and up and down. The strain on eye and body is most intense, to say nothing of the cramped position and exposure to wind and wet, which, first and last, make every sponge fisher a victim of acute rheumatism. Yet, with all his arduous toil, an expert sponge fisher earns not more than £3 a month besides his keep on the boat, which barely deserves the name of existence.

A MAGIC MIRROR.

Experiments With the Moon and Stars and a Hand Glass.

A pretty experiment can be made with a hand mirror any night when there is a full moon. Hold the mirror so that the moon's image will be seen in it and you will be surprised to see four moons instead of one. One moon will be very bright, but the other three will be in a straight line and quite dull, one dull image on the side of the bright moon and the other two on the other side. Turn the mirror round slowly, still holding its face to the moon, and the reflections will seem to revolve round a common center.

You can make the same experiment with one of the very bright stars, such as Sirius, Venus or Jupiter, but with these there will be three images instead of four, as the number seen depends on the breadth of the object. The explanation is quite simple. There are two surfaces in a mirror, one in front and the other where the quicksilver is. The brightest reflection comes from the object itself, the others are what are known as secondary images reflected from the front to the back of the mirror and thence to the eye. The magic mirror never fails to excite a good deal of wonder, and is an interesting experiment as well.—London Chronicle.

THE CHOIR INVISIBLE.

The better self shall live till human Time
Shall fold its eyelids, and the human sky
Be gathered like a scroll within the tomb
Unread forever
This is life to come,
Which martyred men have made more glorious
For us who strive to follow. May I reach
That purest haven; be to other souls
The cup of strength in some great agony,
Enkindle generous ardor, feed pure love,
Beget the smiles that have no cruelty—
Be the sweet presence of a good diffused,
And in diffusion ever more intense.
So shall I join the choir invisible
Whose music is the gladness of the world.

—George Eliot.

WAYS OF THE ARAB.

When Sick, Men Get Medicine and Women Get Prayers.

"There is one peculiar distinction between Arab men and women in Algeria," writes a traveler, "and it may be considered as some proof of the degraded position of the latter. When an Arab is ill he goes to his doctor, and Arab doctors, whether deservedly or not, have a high reputation. But when an Arab woman is ill she may not consult a medico. She must go to the marabout, who is half saint and half magician. He does not retail medicines, but he utters a number of prayers, and then he writes one or more of them on a bit of paper, giving it to the patient with injunctions to chew it and swallow it. He also supplies a little holy water out of a bottle and the woman goes away fully believing that she will recover.

"It has been said that the Arabs do not respect their dead because they have no inclosed cemeteries and because they select for the graves of their nearest and dearest solitary spots removed from their places of encampment. But this practice may be explained by other causes than absence of respect or affection for their dead. The task of preparing the body for the grave is always performed by the members of the family themselves and, in accordance with the Koran, it is most carefully washed in pure water before being consigned to the ground. Then the pottery of the household is broken over the spot. In the desert or on the steppe the leaving of the body in an isolated place seems to typify naturally its presence before the infinite and the eternal.

"In joy as in grief the Arab generally conceals his feelings behind a proud reserve, but on the occasions of the periodical fantasias he throws aside the mask and reveals the true man. The dancing, gesticulating and shouting go on for hours until the delirium ends with the exhaustion of the participants. A fantasia in the desert leaves a curious impression of semiunreality on the mind, but it is the one occasion on which the stern, sad looking Arab, casting aside his hauteur, comes forth as the true son of nature."

DRINK BOILED MILK.

A Doctor Says It Will Vaccinate You Against Consumption.

"The idea of vaccination against consumption is not a new idea," said a physician. "And, furthermore, you and I have unconsciously many times perhaps vaccinated ourselves against this disease."

"I have vaccinated myself against consumption? I must have done it in my sleep, then."

"Not at all. Let me explain.

"Chauveau, Baumgarten, Grisez, Behring, Calmette, Guerin and other eminent investigators have taught us that the germs of consumption—the bacilli, the little living creatures that eat up the lungs—do not enter our lungs through the respiratory tract, but through the intestines—that is to say, we don't breathe in consumption germs; we eat them.

"In the region of the intestines, therefore, these men for some years conducted their vaccinations for consumption. They took calves, and they vaccinated these calves with milk containing dead bacilli. Afterward they gave the calves milk containing live bacilli, and, whereas this latter milk caused deadly consumption in ordinary calves, among those that had been vaccinated no evil effect whatever ensued.

"Among animals and perhaps among men milk containing dead consumption germs makes a virus which, applied to the intestines, is a sure cure for consumption.

"Therefore, when you and I drink our milk boiled (as we should always do despite the oystery taste), we are, if the milk happens to contain bacilli, actually introducing into our intestines the virus that, among animals at least, is consumption's sure preventive.

"Moral.—Drink boiled milk only."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Enthusiasm.

As you slide along past youth into middle age get a good grip on your enthusiasms. Life looks black after they are gone. It is a good thing, too, to renew your own life in an intimate interest in the life of some young friend. Few things are more helpful or more beautiful than friendship between the young and the old. They have everything to give to each other. What is most pitiful in both—youth's uncertainty and need of encouraging sympathy, age's unfulfillments and need of softening tenderness—is soothed and neutralized by a sharing of interests and affections.

A Wrinkle For Housewives.

"I have been putting up preserves and pickles for 20 years," said a housewife of the old school, "and I discovered the other day that I am not too old to learn something new. I went to see my son's young wife. They were married last winter. She was putting up onions—a decidedly disagreeable task But her eyes were not watery. They were as clear as the sky. She simply nodded and muttered something between closed teeth. "What in the world are you keeping that pin between your teeth for?" I asked. "To keep the onions from hurting my eyes. I'll be through in a minute." "Do you mean to say that will do it " I asked incredulously. She nodded. The pin was in its place again. She kept it there for ten minutes while I watched her work, and her eyes were as dry as a walnut."

Barnstormers For the West.

A theatrical syndicate is being formed in Winnipeg for the purpose of supplying attractions at every town between that city and Vancouver on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The idea is to play one night a week in each town and to have the same night each week, so that farmers as well as townspeople will always look forward to this one day each week for stage amusement. If this kind of thing keeps up, how long will the specie-burdened farmer of the prairies come down to Ontario at Christmas-tide to "have a good time"?

FOURPENCE A DAY MEN.

Interesting Letter From Bromley Experiments In Canada.

At the conclusion of the successful experiment at Bromley, during which four men lived sufficiently and well at a cost for food of 4d a day each, it may be remembered that two of them were sent to Canada by The London Express, in conjunction with the emigration department of the Salvation Army.

The following letter was received recently from Harding, one of the men.

To the Editor of The Express:

Sir,—I arrived safely on Sunday last, after a rather rough voyage. We were two days overdue when we arrived at Quebec. The item that caused the greatest excitement on board was the arrival of the four-penny man. There was a discussion in the saloon as to what would be the cheapest way to victual a ship, and after hearing various opinions I gave them a little menu and its cost.

They, of course, ridiculed my statement, saying that it was impossible to obtain the articles at the price, but I mentioned that I had lived on the diet for three months.

They bombarded me with questions as to how I felt, and so on; and for the remainder of the voyage I was continually sought for by lady passengers to give them recipes. At the concert we had they billed me on the program as the "Food Reformer."

We arrived in Quebec on Sunday morning. We interviewed the Salvation immigrant department, and were sent to Shelburne to a Mr. Sheppard; left at 9.30 a. m. en route to Montreal, stayed there five hours, resumed our journey to Toronto, arriving there at 7.30 a.m. Monday morning; stayed there six hours, and arrived at our destination at 9.30 p.m. the same night.

Surprise Visit.

Enquiring at the station, I found I had four miles to walk. On arriving at the farm everybody was in bed. We were sorry, but had to knock them up. Mr. Sheppard was surprised to see us, and said that he was not wanting anybody. He, however, very kindly gave us some supper and a bed. We were awakened early next morning by Mr. Sheppard saying that there was a gentleman wanting two men waiting to see us.

We quickly dressed and interviewed the gentleman, who engaged me and sent Smith to his son's, about a mile away. Mr. Kindrew is my employer's name, and a nicer man I have never met. They treat me as one of their family. The country here is grand—lovely pastures — and there is every prospect of a good crop.

My routine of work has been fencing, cutting down timber in the bush, and looking after cattle. Mr. Kindrew is very careful to point out every detail I do not understand. I am enjoying this life immensely, and shall stick to it.

A Difficult Problem Solved.

A subscriber once wrote to an editor and asked:

"Please tell me, does a man in running around a tree go before or behind himself?"

The editor answered:

"That depends. If he is trying to catch himself, necessarily he follows himself, and consequently goes behind. If, on the contrary, he is running away from himself, the deduction leads to the very obvious conclusion that he precedes himself, and consequently goes before. If he succeeds in catching up with himself, and passes himself, at the moment of passing he neither precedes nor follows himself, but both he and himself are running even. This is the only case where he does not go before or behind himself.—Calgary Herald.

Curious Tombstones.

Two curiously inscribed stones by the wayside have been noted by correspondents of the Manchester Guardian. One is about a mile from the village of Hope, in Flintshire, and reads: "Here my God did spare my life. For the tenement was the strife—1777." One would think that the incident the stone commemorates must be well known in the neighborhood, but the correspondent was not successful in finding any one who could tell the story. The other stone is by the side of a lonely road in the neighborhood of Jenkin chapel, and bears the following inscription: "Here John Turner was cast away in a heavy snowstorm in the night on or about the year 1735. The print of a woman's shoe was found by his side in the snow were (sic) he lay dead."

Oldest Ale House In England.

The oldest licensed village ale house in England is claimed to be the George inn, in North St. Philip. The license dates from 1307. Each story of the picturesque old structure overhangs that beneath. The front is broken by bay windows, a porch and a flight of stone steps leading to a doorway in the wall. At the back are more quaint doors and windows, and a turret built against the wall incloses an outside stair, while in the yard still remains part of the old gallery found in so many hostelries of the middle ages. A curious chimney surmounts each gable.—London Answers.

Childhood's Chosen Colors.

Professor James Sully in his studies of childhood compares the mental processes of white children in civilized lands with those of full grown savages and discovers some remarkable resemblances. Among other things he has ascertained that the favorite colors of the savage, red and yellow, are those which white children first take notice of and of which they remain especially fond during the period of childhood. So, too, the savage adult and the white child find a common pleasure in all bright, shining and glittering things.

Dangerous.

Mrs. Hornbeak (in the midst of her reading)—Mercy sakes alive! Here is an item about a surgeon over at Biggerville removin' an epithelioma from a man's lip. Farmer Hornbeak—Well, I sh'u'd judge it was about time for people to quit using such long words when it requires a doctor to git 'em out.—Puck.

SURPRISE A PURE HARD SOAP.

HOUSE WORK.

IT is easy to keep a hard-wood floor as clean and shiny as a mirror by using "SURPRISE" Soap.

You can make a suds in a twinkling with half a bucket of hot water and a little "SURPRISE" Soap. Then just go over the floor with a scrubbing-brush, lightly.

Don't dig, or make your back and arms ache by rubbing. "SURPRISE" Soap will do the work quicker and easier and cheaper than you can. It gets between the dirt and the wood fibres and makes them separate. All you have to do is wash up the dirt with water.

"SURPRISE" Soap is just as good for laundry as for house cleaning. It's a pure, hard soap of the highest grade, and costs no more than common kinds.

What Constitutes Right To Share In The Profits

Should Be Based On Their Own Money Put Into Concern.

NO MONEY IN, NO GAIN SHARE

That I. C. F. Land Syndicate—Sir John Boyd Lays Down the Principle Which Should Rule in Business Affairs—He Understood Members Were Putting Up Their Own Money —Woodmen of World Now.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—The Insurance Commission proceedings yesterday were tame. In connection with the Woodmen of the World, a society with head offices at London, W. C. Fitzgerald, secretary and organizer, was in the box all day.

Sir John Boyd's Statement.

When the Commission opened Sir John Boyd was present and made a statement, supplementing his evidence of the day before. He said he had not in any way endorsed the proposition that the syndicate composed of Messrs. McGillivray, Foster and Wilson, having put nothing into the transaction, should receive $95,000 profit on the turn-over of the Pope-Fowler lands, and afterwards share in the profits of the sale of the land. His understanding all along was that they were paying their proper share of the concern, and their right to get profits would be only based on the money they put in out of their own pockets. The idea was never communicated to him that the trust company should advance the whole money and that gentlemen who put nothing in should reap the profits. That was a transaction he could not have sanctioned in any shape or form.

The Woodmen Under Scrutiny.

Mr. Tilley then took up the work of the Woodmen.

Mr. Fitzgerald stated that a set of books had been opened up in compliance with the orders of the Commission, and he explained the system upon which the order was conducted.

Statutory meetings are held in odd numbered years, and the legislation of the order is carried through at meetings held in even numbered years. When the Grand Camp is not in session the power is vested in the grand executive.

Mr. Tilley took up the constitution. It was found that any action of claim against the order must be brought within a year. The various funds were banked. The expense account had an overdraft of $4.000 at the present time, for which there is a note bearing interest at five per cent. There was $30,000 on deposit, getting interest at three per cent. at the time the money was borrowed for the expense account.

Something to Explain.

At the afternoon session Mr. Tilley dissected the ledger that was inaugurated since the meeting of the Commission in London. Various accounts and the financial statements were gone into, but Mr. Fitzgerald could not explain certain differences. He characterized them as being perfectly correct and promised to explain them later.

In the annual returns the surplus on hand was shown to be $157,254.22, but this item was arrived at by simply subtracting the liabilities from the assets. There was no account kept to check these items.

Mr. Fitzgerald could not explain the accounts, giving as his excuse that he did not make them up. A Mr. Eastwood had helped the officials of the order straighten out the books since the Commission met.

Proper Result Impossible.

George Eastwood, accountant, who had been sent to London by the commission to investigate the affairs, made a statement. He found an excellent system of keeping the cash book, but no accounts where all monies invested were shown. A proper result could not be arrived at, and Mr. Fitzgerald undertook to place the accounts in proper shape and proceed with the bookkeeping along proper lines.

Witness communicated with Mr. Fitzgerald for statements concerning the progress of the work, but when the books arrived yesterday he had discovered that the statements sent did not correspond with the books. To be able to get at an effective result, witness must know where every dollar of receipts and disbursements come from and went to. It was impossible to get at the aggregate investments if only isolated accounts were shown.

To Mr. Langmuir witness said that a cash balance had been brought down, but he did not know how it was arrived at.

One Loan to Officials.

Mr. Fitzgerald took the box again.

There had been but one loan to officials of the company. T. H. Luscombe, K. C., had been advanced $4,500 on real property worth $7,000. Special deposits in the bank were treated in the return as investments.

Special assessments were made on the members of the order at the time of the Boer war to cover any death losses. Some of the members refused to pay this and were immediately suspended. This action was put through on a resolution of the head camp and under no special bylaw.

Mr. Tilley probed the expense account and found a shortage of $90,000 against that account. He put in a statement showing the premium rates as compared with other companies.

Mr. Fitzgerald admitted that the rates of the order were too low. There was no idea as to the liability on outstanding policies of the society and hence no estimate of a proper reserve ever been made. As long as the members kept coming in there was no necessity of arriving at these facts, according to witness.

Mr. Shepley received certain actuarial statements.

Bigamist Sent For Trial.

St. Catharines, Sept. 28.—George Gough, who was arrested on a charge of bigamy on Monday, was yesterday committed for trial by Police Magistrate Comfort. Both wives were present and testified.

Boyer Acquitted.

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—Napoleon Boyer, tried on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Napoleon Ouilette, in a row a few weeks ago, was acquitted yesterday.

RAIDERS OF JIMINITEZ.

Place Mayor, Chief of Police and Other Officials In Jail.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 28.—A telephone message from Jiminiez, up the Rio Grande River, states that forty armed men raided the town Wednesday night, placed the mayor, chief of police, treasurer and other city officials in jail, and are now in control.

The telephone wires were cut before the message was finished. Government troops are hastening to Jiminiez. Advices of a battle are expected at any hour.

A courier just arrived says that the revolutionists and a force from Ciudad Portifio Diaz clashed Wednesday night at Victoria, about five miles south from Iminiez, that one ranger was killed, and that the revolutionists left several dead. They scattered and are being pursued by Mexican troops. Jiminies is now in possession of the latter. The affair is regarded here as possessing but little of a revolutionary or political character.

Battle With Rebels.

Elpaso, Tex., Sept. 28.—An Eagle Pass special says: A Government force of 75 cavalrymen encountered 40 self-styled revolutionists 30 miles above here and dispersed them, killing two. One hundred more soldiers are coming from Monterey.

OPEN TO CANADIANS ONLY.

$15,000 In Prizes to Architects for New Department Buildings Designs.

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—Government yesterday decided to set apart $15,000 as prizes in the public competition for the best designs for the proposed new departmental buildings. None but Canadians will be allowed to compete, and the designs must be in the hands of the Minister of Public Works by February 15th next. The first prize will be $8,000, second $4,000, third $2,000, and fourth $1,000. These awards should be sufficiently generous to develop a spirit of keen rivalry among Canadian architects and to result in the creation of a work of genius fit to take its place among the best examples of architectural beauty.

SINKING OF THE MAUDE.

Steamer Ottawan Strikes Her and Three Are Drowned.

Hudson, Que., Sept. 28.—One of the worst accidents in the history of navigation on the Ottawa occurred opposite here early yesterday morning. The steamer Ottawan up-bound collided with the steamer Maude, going in the opposite direction, smashing in the latter right up to the wheel-house.

The Maude sunk immediately, her top deck only remaining above water. Capt. Gauthier called the alarm to all hands on board, but nevertheless three were drowned.

Miss Benson of Oka, ladies' maid, the engineer and a Mr. Barrett, a drover, lost their lives.

CATHER'S SHORTAGE $25,000.

Lost $3,000 on Horse Race and Went Wrong on Poker Game.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—Manager Ellis of the British Bank gives out some further details anent the absconding teller, Cather. He lost $3,000 betting on a horse race and also lost at poker.

The amount stolen reaches $25,000, half of which is covered by a guarantee bond.

Cather is believed to be in New York.

KING CONDUCTED OPENING.

Annex of Aberdeen University Erected at Over a Million Cost.

Aberdeen, Scotland, Sept. 28.—The new annex of the university, a splendid granite structure erected at a cost of $1,250,000, was opened by King Edward yesterday in the presence of hundreds of learned men, who are participating in the commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the university. The King was accompanied by Queen Alexandra.

Entertained 2,500 Guests.

At the corporation luncheon, the Queen, Lord Strathcona and Lady Strathcona were among the guests with whom the King chatted. In the evening a grand banquet was given by the chancellor to 2,500 guests in a specially built wooden pavilion, where the senators, the past and present graduates, alumni, leading citizens and the delegates and scientists from abroad assembled. Prosperity to the university and city were toasted and the evening given up to friendly intercourse and enjoyment. The hall was too large for speeches. The poor of the city were also entertained through Lord Strathcona's generosity. The day concluded with a display of fireworks.

SITUATION IN CUBA.

No United States Intervention Until After Congress Meets.

Havana, Sept. 28.—The assembly of Moderates last night decided to refuse to accept President Palma's resignation, in the hope of inducing him to continue in office, and thus avoid intervention.

Intervention by the installation of a provisional Government was contemplated for to-morrow, but the United States peace commissioners will await the developments in congress.

The commissioners believe that a crisis will be precipitated on the convening of the Cuban congress to-day, and they are preparing to take hold of the reins if necessary.

If a landing of American forces is required, Secretary Taft has decided to take over the Government instantly. He has received yesterdaytoFpH TEE He has received authority from President Roosevelt to take this extreme step, in which event he will proclaim himself Governor. Official reports received yesterday show that the rebels are active at many points, stealing horses and arms, notably at Guanabocoa, Campo, Florida, Batabano and Cabanas.

Penn Yan.

Penn Yan, N. Y., was built up conjointly by settlers from Pennsylvania and New England, who were unable to agree upon a name for the new town until some distorted brain suggested Penn Yan as a combination of the words Pennsylvania and Yankee. It was adopted as a compromise and is still attached to the place.

The General Conference Has Ended Business

Sociological Questions Receive Considerable Attention.

MINISTERS AND BUSINESS

Amendment to Discipline to Prevent Them Engaging In Secular Work Rejected by the Conference—Evils of Money Madness Graphically Set Forth—The Divorce Question——Race Suicide Deplored.

Montreal, Que., Sept. 28.—After an arduous day's consideration ob about a dozen committee reports the Methodist general conference was closed last night with the usual devotional exercises, the session being the twenty-seventh.

The many topics dealt with were of a varied nature, but as far as possible were carefully discussed. There were 72 votes in one division during the afternoon, representing the average attendance yesterday.

Marriage of Divorcees.

Deliverence by the church on the marriage of divorced persons was submitted but was referred to the committee for improvement. The conference regarded the law of the land as authorising, but not requiring a minister to solemnize marriage. "Divorce for other than Scriptural reasons" was not considered rigid enough as many old testament reasons were not admissable. To say so raised the question which Dr. Carman feared would unsettle many minds.

Dr. Benson considered the deliverance necessary, but wondered if ministers ought to go behind the license issued by the proper authority.

It was resolved that no Methodist minister should solemnize a marriage of a divorced person unless the divorce be granted on the ground indicated by Jesus, and that the person be not the guilty party.

Ministers in Business.

There was no discussion Wednesday night on the resolution regarding the commercial relations of ministers, but the question came up yesterday morning. No minister or probationer shall engage in any secular business or work which shall detract from his ministerial character or usefulness, or interfere with the proper discharge of the duties assigned him by the church, and it shall be due the minister having knowledge or reliable information of such an offence to lay a charge with the proper authorities.

This amendment to discipline, submitted by the committee, was rejected after some debate. This discipline "strongly recommends" ministers not to become members of the secular board of any trading company.

Dr. Young moved in amendment that ministers shall not become members of such boards and this was also rejected.

Dr. Williamson did not think the judgment of the world would be with them for expelling a minister because he was a director of a reputable insurance company. Dr. Jackson strongly supported Dr. Young's amendment.

Money Madness.

The committee on sociology deplored evils which had their source in money madness which leads men to oppress the unfortunate and forget their obligations to the higher interests of society; also the massing of the largest proportion of the wealth of the country in the hands of a few.

A millionaire was defined as one who realized his harvest from a million lives while men of culture had the best fruit of the world. They should face their obligations accordingly. Hospitals and universities enrich the whole community, but such gifts do not make reparation for wrongs perpetrated in the iniquitous acquisition of wealth. The blood of the oppressed will continue to cry to heaven, while the scale of wages is so low that our maidens have set before them the awful choice between hunger and dishonor. And young children are stunted in mind and body. It was time for Christian citizenship to take up the master's whip and drive these things from the holy places of civilization. The commercial rogue was a universal enemy. They deprecated opening the gates of the country to the criminal and those with hereditary taint.

Race Suicide Deplored.

"We view with alarm the diminishing birthrate in some sections of our population. It must be considered a great national evil that some of the best strains in our country are becoming extinct.

Legislation was recommended which would not interfere with vested rights, but would prevent individuals or corporations profiting from unearned increment.

It was recommended that sociological topics be discussed in young people's societies, and that lists of books be prepared with a view to placing such volumes in Sunday school and Epworth League libraries. That fellowship in sociological studies be established in churches and colleagues.

A resolution expressing advocacy of universal peace by the conference and belief in arbitration in the settlement of international disputes and approving recommendation of interparliamentary union to The Hague peace conference was adopted. It will be forwarded to the second Hague conference through the Canadian representative.

Uniformity of Service.

Uniform services were strongly pleaded for by Rev. A. K. Birks. The same order should be observed everywhere in Canada, he thought, but there were loud cries of dissent.

On Mr. Birks' motion, by a vote of 51 to 38, Methodists will have to stand with bowed heads in silent prayer at the close of all services hereafter.

"I was brought up a Presbyterian," said a minister who voted for it.

"It is altogether more seemly," remarked Rev. Dr. Burns.

The reports on temperance and Sabbath observance were adopted. Dr. Levi Curtis objected to the latter speaking of Christ as the world's elder brother. The phrase was changed to world's saviour.

30-SECONDS EARTHQUAKE.

Shakes Porto Rico With Heavy Heaving Motion—People Panic-Stricken During Series of Shocks.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Sept. 28.—The city of San Juan and the island of Porto Rico experienced a series of earthquake shocks yesterday, beginning at 10.45 a. m. The people were thrown into a condition of consternation and indescribable alarm, but the resultant damage was comparatively slight and there has been no loss of life.

The first perceptible tremors brought many people in alarm to the streets. They increased in intensity for twenty seconds and then decreased for five seconds. Following this came the most severe shocks, the earth shaking violently for five seconds more, then all was quiet.

The first vibratory movements were from east to west and were followed by heavy heaving motions, such as are experienced on board ship in a heavy sea.

In San Juan people were stunned and when they suddenly realised that an earthquake was on them, consternation and alarm prevailed throughout the city.

People thought of the catastrophe of San Francisco and Valparaiso. They fled from their houses to the streets and crowded the open squares. Panic reigned and hysterical woman fainted. Many began praying in the streets.

Many clocks throughout the city stopped at forty-seven minutes past ten.

Public Buildings Damaged.

The walls of the city hall, the infantry barracks, the postoffice and the women and children's hospital were cracked in many places, but not badly damaged. The old artillery building near the sea, now occupied by the quartermaster's office was badly damaged.

Reports received here from other points on the island show that the shock was general and that it lasted for thirty seconds everywhere. School houses and churches in Humacaco, Guayamo, and Fajardo were slightly damaged.

Heavy Shock at St. Thomas.

St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, Sept. 28.—There was a sharp and prolonged earthquake shock here early yesterday morning, but no damage was done.

DEATH OF WABASH VICTIM.

Mrs. Waldman, of Guelph, Succumbs to Her Injuries.

Guelph, Sept. 28.—A telegram was received yesterday afternoon conveying the sad intelligence that Mrs. Henry Waldman succumbed to injuries received in the wreck of the Buffalo mail on the Wabash Railway at Catlin, Ill.

Her three children, who were severely burned, are getting along nicely. Mr. Waldman left by C. P. R. on Wednesday evening for Danville and reached there at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, about five hours after his wife had passed away in St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Brakeman's Condition Critical.

Guelph, Sept. 28.—Engineer Reed, who was injured in Saturday's G. T. R. wreck, is doing nicely, but Brakeman Andrews was somewhat worse yesterday and the physician stated that his condition was critical.

Falls Into Threshing Feeder.

London, Sept. 28.—A Lobo Township farmer named Godfrey Harrison had a narrow escape from being cut to pieces in the feeder attachment of a threshing machine Wednesday evening. Harrison was assisting at threshing on his father's farm, and was walking on a plank above the machine, when the board broke. He fell into the feeder, and before he freed himself he was severely gashed on the back. It is expected he will recover.

Stoessel Resigns.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 28.—The Associated Press was informed yesterday that Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, who commanded the Russian forces at Port Arthur, yesterday submitted his resignation from the army. It is understood that it will be accepted. The resignation is said to have been due to the initiative of Emperor Nicholas, who expressed his aversion to any further discussion of the subject in open court.

Forest Ranger Drowns.

Biscotasing, Sept. 28.—Two rangers, Washburn and Campbell, have just arrived from Green Lake post and report that they picked up Angus Taylor in a helpless condition on Canoe Lake. His mate, Roy O'Donnell of Brechin, Ont., was drowned by the capsizing of their canoe in a squall. Taylor and O'Donnell were rangers on the Mississauga forest reserve.

Basket Factory In Ruins

Leamington, Sept. 28.—At an early hour yesterday morning the Leamington Basket Co.'s factory, employing 60 hands, was almost ruined by fire. The fire was burning fiercely when discovered and Ephraim Stookwell, the night watchman, had a narrow escape with his life. The machinery was totally destroyed. The loss is $6,000, partly insured.

East Elgin Nominations.

St. Thomas, Sept. 28.—David Marshall, Conservative, and Granville Haight, Liberal, were yesterday at Aylmer placed in nomination to contest East Elgin Oct. 4, for the vacancy in the Dominion Parliament, caused by the appointment of A. B. Ingram to the Provincial Railway and Municipal Board.

Accidentally Asphyxiated.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—Donald Ross, an aged man, who arrived Wednesday night at the Walker House, from Forest, Ont., was found dead in his room yesterday morning. The gas had evidently been turned on, and Coroner Cotton decided an inquest unnecessary.

Appeals to Premiers.

Winnipeg, Sept. 28.—The Board of Trade will make representation to the conference of Provincial Premiers that there be a Dominion registration of professions, and the abolition of the present laws calculated to restrict or embarrass inter-provincial trade.

Murderer Insane.

Lindsay, Sept. 28.—The Carden murder case was finished at the Assizes here Wednesday, when the jury returned a verdict of insanity.

James Bay Railway, Oct. 10.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—The James Bay Railway will inaugurate its service between Toronto and Parry Sound on Wednesday, Oct. 10.

The Gentle Kidney Cure.

Don't think that Bu-Ju is not effective because it does not "tear things loose." The man, who talks most, does least. Kidney remedies that purge—and over-stimulate the kidneys—upset the stomach—are going to do you mighty little good.

Bu-Ju

goes about curing you gently, mildly, correctly. You never know you are taking medicine—except that you begin to get better and keep on getting better. Bu-Ju heals inflammation in the kidneys—takes away that sharp pain in the back and the dull ache through the hips—stops excessive urination—and enables the diseased portions of the kidneys to heal and strengthen.

Aged Douro Couple Had A Narrow Escape From Death

Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp, Sr., Were Almost Burned While In Their Beds Last Night.

Their Home Was Destroyed by Fire—Only Prompt Work of Mr. Moher Saved Them.

Origin of Fire a Mystery—Started in Kitchen Where No Fire Had Been For Four Days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kemp, a couple over eighty years of age, had a very narrow escape from a horrible death last night, at their home in Douro township, about four miles north-east of the city.

There is considerable mystery surrounding the circumstances connected with the fire, which destroyed their home last night, and almost resulted in their death.

A Narrow Escape.

Mr. and Mrs. Kemp, with their granddaughter, retired early in the evening, and were sleeping soundly while their home was being burned down. Had it not been for the fact that a neighbour, Mr. Moher, who lives about fifty yards away, heard the noise of the burning wood, and saw the blaze in time to give the alarm, without a doubt Mr. and Mrs. Kemp, and the young lady, living with them would have perished.

Mr. Moher Saved Them

Mr. Moher, on seeing the house on fire, rushed to their assistance. He found all the doors locked, and had to break in one with an axe. He at once ran upstairs to awaken the old people, and had considerable difficulty in so doing. He informed them that the house was burning, and that they had better get up.

A Double Danger.

Mr. Kemp, evidently, was not fully awakened, and failed to appreciate the urgency of the call, for, while he got up when Mr. Moher called him, he went back to bed again. When the old people did not come out of the house Mr. Moher went to their room again and found them both asleep. This time he wakened them thoroughly, and they rushed from the house.

By this time other neighbours were on the scene and assisted in getting the furniture out of the house, which was of solid brick, the only condition which saved the lives of the occupants, for had it been a less substantially built structure, it would have been burnt before the alarm could have been raised.

How Did it Originate?

As to the origin of the fire there is a deep mystery. It started in the back kitchen, a frame structure, in the form of a lean-to against the brick portion, and the family stated that there had been no fire in it for four days.

The fire reached the front part of the house through a window at the rear, and the contents of the room in which this window was, were destroyed.

Furniture Saved.

The greater part of the furniture in the other rooms of the house were saved.

It is understood that there was some insurance on the house, which was destroyed, except the walls, and the contents, but not sufficient to cover the loss.

Approved Plans For New Normal Schools

Cabinet Met To-day and Decided to Call for Tenders at Once—Outside Measurements of the Building Will be 75 By 100 Feet.

Examiner Special

Toronto, September 28. — The Government has approved of the plans for the new Normal Schools at Stratford, Peterborough and North Bay, and tenders for the erection of the buildings will be called for at once. The plans for the Hamilton school will be dealt with later.. All the schools will be of brick, and uniform in size and plan, the outside dimensions being 78 by 110 feet.

Close Shave For Castleton Store

Carelessness Almost Results in Bad Fire

The Castleton correspondent to the Warkworth Journal says: We had a narrow escape from fire in town one night recently. Some one thoughtlessly threw a cigar stub into a box used for a spitoon and the next morning it was found with the botom burned out of the box and the floor burned the size of the box, and the joists burned down two inches. The fire went out of its own accord.

Fire, Water And Light Committee

Will Meet To-night to Discuss Several Matters

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council, will meet to-night, when some details in connection with the new fire hall will be taken up. The electric wiring of the building has to be talked over.

It is possible that the committee may also go into the matter of changing the present street lighting system, which subject has been before the committee for some time.

"Lift Lock" New Rebekah Lodge

Will Be Organized on Friday October 12th.

At the Oddfellows' Joint Committee meeting last night, good progress was made towards the formation of a Rebekah Lodge in Peterborough. The institution will probably take place on Friday evening, October 12, if all concerned can attend on that date, but definite announcement will be made later. It was decided that the new lodge should be known as "Lift Lock" Rebekah Lodge. The name will at once designate the location as being in Peterborough.

Several names have been handed in for membership, and the members of the committee will continue to receive applications until further notice. It is probable that the degree team of Kawartha Lodge, Lindsay, will confer the degrees here on the opening night. Grand Master Johnston, Toronto; Miss Ida Robins, the President of the Rebekah Assembly, Hamilton; Mrs. A. M. Pearce, Toronto Assembly, secretary, and other prominent members of the Order, are expected to be present at the institution.

The committee will meet again early next week to receive reports and arrange details. Probably no other fraternal order in Ontario is making more substantial progress than the Independent Order of Oddfellows.

Mrs. Begley Has Serious Injury

Wife of Ex. Ald. Met With An Accident To-day.

To-day at noon Mrs. T. J. Begley met with a rather serious accident. She was engaged in her household duties, and was passing from one room to another, when she tripped, and fell, injuring her knee cap, which was split open. Dr. McNulty was called and it was found necessary to use several stitches on the injured member. She will be laid up for some time.

Wonderful New Ontario Mine

A New Ontario Mine Lined With Gold.

Wabigoon, Sept. 27.—The gold strike in Blum's Laurentian mine surpasses in richness all previous discoveries. The raise from the first level is now 50 feet up, and ore continues all the way as rich as the ore on the first level, which astounded the old world when the strike was made last December. The drift connecting the top of the raise with the main shaft is now being driven, in which massive gold was encountered, and which machine drills could not penetrate. A single blast broke down over $15,000 worth of gold. Three-fourths of the weight of ore is native gold, valued at over $500,000 per ton.—Globe Special.

New Burlesque Theatre Now

One Will Be Erected in Toronto Soon.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—The war between the Eastern and Western burlesque circuits will give a new theatre to Toronto.

The new playhouse will be erected on the site of the present Star Theatre—the old Temperance Hall building—on Temperance street, and property which has been purchased westward to the Bell Telephone building. The theatre will have double the seating capacity of the present building. McIlpatrick & Son, of New York, theatrical architects, are at work on the plans, and building will begin with the new year.

Simplifies Matters.

Toronto Star.

DRESSMAKERS are going to give the girls this year the empress gown, which is loose fitting, instead of the princess gown, which should fit like a glove. After experimenting several years perhaps they have reached the conclusion that it is easier to fit particular women when one doesn't have to fit them.

Great Damage By The Terrific Storm

Latest Reports Indicate That Southern States Cyclone Was Worse Than Stated.

Examiner Special.

New Orleans, September 28. — The first New Orleans and North-eastern train come into the city from the north last night, and reports scores of cabins blown down between Hattiesburg, Miss., and Pearl River, and about ten per cent. of the timber along the road blown down. A track walker was killed while the train was stopping at McComb, Miss. An hotel collapsed in the windstorm there, killing two persons. Reports from 70 miles below the city show no serious damage, although at several places the water was an inch deep over the rails.

LOCAL MAN — GETS A PLACE — ON BOARD

Dr. C. B. Coughlin, a Member of New Provincial Board of Health.

None of the Members of the Old Board Reappointed — Dr. Hodgetts, Secretary.

(Toronto Globe Special.)

The composition of the new Provincial Board of Health was announced at the close of the Cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon. It is as follows:

Dr. Charles Sheard, Medical Health Officer of the city of Toronto, who, it is understood, will be chairman.

Dr. Milton I. Booman, of Newburgh, who has acted as Medical Health Officer for various municipalities in his district.

Dr. John W. S. McCullough, of Alliston, one of the Board of Examiners of the Ontario Medical Council.

Dr. C. Bernard Coughlin, of Peterborough.

Dr. W. J. Robinson, of Guelph, Medical Health Officer of that city.

Dr. W. R. Hall, Medical Health Officer of Chatham.

Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, the permanent Secretary, will, of course, continue in that capacity with the new Board. The term of the members—outside of the Secretary—is three years. The Board holds regular quarterly meetings, and special meetings when occasion demands it. The old Board passed out of existence on August 21 of this year, and none of its members were re-appointed.

It will be remembered that Dr. R. P. Boucher, of this city, was a member of the former Board of Health, and a most efficient one, too, who developed a large aptitude, and gained valuable experience in the discharge of his duties.

Presented With Handsome Picture

Enlarged Picture of Heber Rogers Given to Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.

Mr. R. M. Roy has presented to Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, the handsome sepia enlarged photo of Heber Rogers, exhibited at the Peterborough Industrial Fair, where it was greatly admired by the many visitors to the fair.

The picture will be hung in the Sunday School room at St. Luke's, of which Heber is a member.

No. 5

Print, print, print
In thy dark bold type, O Ed.!
And I would that my tongue could utter
The "ads" that fill your head.

And the Daily Exam's go once
To their haven behind the door;
O then for the touch of the vanished purse,
And the sight of the "ad." no more!

Stop, stop, stop.
With the first of the "ads",
O Ed.!
For the clever words of an "ad" fulfilled
Will only be futilely read.

Who's Responsible For The Injury?

A Nice Point of Law in Connection With Livery Horse

A peculiar point of law was brought out in a livery case tried at Durham the other day. A man hired a horse from one of the liveries at Durham to drive to Ceylon; he drove some place else, and the horse on the way broke its leg. The liveryman then sued for the sum of $60 for trespass of contract. Judgment was reserved. It seems to be the law that if a man hires a horse to go to a certain place and anything happens to it, the owner is responsible, but if the party who hired the horse does not go where he agreed to go then in case anything happens to the horse or rig, he is responsible. These are facts of law which we think are not generally well known.—Stirling News-Argus.

PETERBOROUGH MAN DISCOVERED ILL TOO LATE TO BE SAVED

Washington Cannon Dies in Regina, Sask., Under Peculiar Conditions.

Slept in a Hayloft and Became Affected With Summer Complaint, Causing Death.

The Regina Standard of September 17, gives the following account of the death of Washington Cannon formerly of this city. He was the son of the late Robt. Cannon, of Asphodel township and until two years ago resided on a farm near Norwood. The Standard says:—

Under peculiarly distressing circumstances Washington Cannon of Peterborough, Ont., who has been farming on shares until recently at Gainsboro, Sask., died last night in a room at the Glencoe restaurant. Cameron was an Ontario farmer and had done fairly well at Gainsboro. This spring he homesteaded in the Milestone district and lately he has been working in the city with his own team as a drayman, sleeping generally in the hay loft of the stable. Last week he was suffering somewhat acutely from an attack of summer complaint but did not see a doctor and persisted in working through the week. On Saturday night his condition came so serious that he took a room in the Glencoe restaurant, but it was not until Sunday afternoon that he was discovered to be in a very serious condition. Dr. Thompson was called in by Chief Harwood and found the man in an unconscious state. He was brought round by the injection of restoratives and was taken back to bed, but he never really rallied and died at half past ten.

The body was removed to Wright Bros', where it was embalmed and the relatives in Ontario were telegraphed to as to its disposal. A rather pathetic letter for the dead man was received this morning from his brother Wellington in Peterborough, asking what were the chances for making a start in the west.

Presentation To Choir Members

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gerard Honoured by Fellow Members of St. Andrew's Choir.

After the regular choir practice last night in St. Andrew's church, the members retired to the lecture hall, where Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Gerrard, whose wedding was celebrated two weeks ago, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe.

Mr. Forsythe referred to the fidelity and other good qualities of Mr. Gerrard, and expressed the pleasure it gave the choir to be able in some way to show their regard for him and his wife. Mr. F. E. Kerr then presented Mr. Gerrard with a handsome rattan parlour rocker.

Mr. Gerrard, who was taken by surprise, expressed his appreciation in a neat speech. Mrs. Forsythe then provided refreshments for the company and a very pleasant time was spent.

Ask For Votes For Toronto Teacher

For Election to Position on Advisory Board

A circular letter has been sent to the local school teachers, asking for their vote and influence to elect Miss Harriet Johnston of Toronto, as a member of the Advisory Council to the Minister of Education. This council is to consist of twenty members, four of whom are to be elected by the public school tachers of Ontario. As the great majority of the teachers of Ontario are women, it is right, the circular states, and a matter of great importance, that women should have a share in this representation.

Don't forget you can get three pounds of good steak for 25c. tomorrow at KENNEDY'S.

Belief That Company Will Accept Agreement

The Bell Telephone Company Solicitor Talks With City Solicitor on Terms of Agreement.

Last night, after the meeting of the Committee of the Whole, after which the proposed agreement with the Bell Telephone Company was discussed, the solicitor for the company, Mr. McFarland, and the City Solicitor, with Ald. McWilliams, held a conference at the office of the City Solicitor. It was unproductive of actual results, the time being spent in discussing the terms of the agreement prepared by the city, allowing the company to lay conduits for underground wires under certain conditions.

There were certain clauses which were objected to by the company, but it is believed that the latter will accept the agreement, the City Council declaring that no modified form will be assented to by them.

MOVED A HOUSE FOR THREE HUNDRED FEET OVER ROCKY ISLAND

A Difficult Feat Accomplished at Stony Lake for Mr. A. L. Davis This Week.

To Prepare for His New Residence His Former House Had To Be Removed.

To move a house for more than one hundred yards over the rocks on a Stony Lake island is not by any means as simple an operation as to run it half a mile down a city street. It can be done, however, as Mr. Allan McCarthy demonstrated this week.

Mr. A. L. Davis is building a handsome new summer home at the lake, on the site of his former cottage, and the latter had to be moved three hundred feet over the rocks to its new location, an operation which required considerable skill. It is a two-storey cottage, 24 feet square, with wide balconies, and at first sight, to move it across hills and ledges of rock, seemed impossible. It was, however, successfully accomplished in five days, and while there were times when it looked as if the whole structure was doomed to destruction, the house was placed on its new location without being damaged in the slightest degree.

Some idea of the difficult nature of the undertaking may be obtained when it is stated that at times, when one side of the house was resting on the rock the other was supported by timbers built up 10 and 12 feet, and the hearts of the men engaged in the work were literally in their mouths several times, when they were afraid that the building was due to collapse.

In addition to his new house, work on which will be commenced shortly, Mr. Davis will erect a log house on his island, an exact reproduction of the log houses which, years ago, were common in the rural sections of the county, but which, with the increasing wealth of the people, are becoming more and more rare. Mr. Davis will then have three houses on his island.

A NEW POTATO

London, Sept. 28.—Vegetarians will doubtless hail with delight the advent of a new potato, blue of skin and yellow of interior, which is about to be placed on the market. This potato is known as the Solanum commersoni violet, and is the result of scientific cultivation at Reading. It has a distinct flavour of its own. Epicures described it as a combined flavour of turnips and asparagus.

Sunday Schools Grow Rapidly

Some Interesting Statics Concerning Methodist Church.

Montreal, Sept. 28.—Some interesting statistics were presented at yesterday's session of the Methodist Conference. The report of the Epworth League showed that the total membership of the Sunday Schools now amounted to 323,329, there having been an increase during the four years of 10,030.

The membership of the Young People's Societies is 78,845, there having been an increase during the four years of 6,643.

It was announced that Rev. F. C. Stephenson, of Toronto, had been elected secretary of the Forward Movement in Missions, and Rev. Dr. Woods, of Winnipeg, elected superintendent of missions.

Two recommendations of importance were adopted. The first broadened the scope of Epworth League work to include athletics, and the second declared for a common university in British Columbia, governmental or independent, but which was not to be a branch of McGill.

Subjects For The Sunday Evenings

Rev. A. H. Brace Commences Special Sermons for the Month

The pastor of the Park Street Baptist Church has announced another series of the "People's Popular Sunday Evenings", the programme being as follows:—

Sunday, October 7th.—Sunday School Rally at 3 p. m. Official Programme: parents invited. Subject for evening: "Song Sermon" by the pastor and full Choir.

Sunday, October 14th.—Afternoon Introduction. New movement. Adult Bible Class. Subject for evening: "The Opera", as a Christian, can I consistently go.

Sunday, October 21st.—Convention Sunday. Visiting Pastors preach in the morning and speak to Sunday School. Subject for evening: "Present Salvation", by a McMaster Evangelistic Band of Pastors.

Sunday, October 28th.—Platform meeting. Short addresses. Pastor in Chair.

Sunday, November 4th.—"Guy Fawkes Day", the 301st anniversary. Subject: "Church and State."

Sunday, November 11th. — Harvest Home and Church Anniversary. With Thank offerings to touch the Thousand Dollar Mark. The Church will be tastefully decorated with huge specimens of vegetables and choice fruits and flowers. Sermons suitable to the occasion by the pastor. Special music by choir.

It will save you money if you go to KENNEDY'S Saturday for your meats.

The Ministerial Association of Galt and vicinity have adopted a resolution calling upon the public to cease from travelling on the Sabbath, against Sunday funerals, and secular reading on the Lord's Day.

Queen's College Students At Picnic

Interesting Gathering of Savants In Far West

Mr. Robert Potter, brother of Rev. J. G. Potter, who has been spending the summer on the construction work of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Lemberg, Sask., arrived in the city last night and will leave to-morrow for Kingston to complete his course in the School of Mining. Mr. Potter refers to a very interesting event which took place on Sept. 3rd, Labour Day, at Saltcoats, Sask., where Rev. Harry Fair is minister of the Presbyterian Church. A Queen's Picnic was held, and a large number of students and graduates of the Kingston College, ladies and gentlemen, representing teachers, preachers and physicians, from a radius of 50 miles gathered to delebrate. A pleasant day was spent in games and water sports. In the afternoon a tennis tournament was held in which Queen's and the town club were the principals. The Rev. Messrs. Fair and Henderson won the doubles in honour of Queen's.

New Officers Of All Saints Guild

Work for Season Will Be Planned at Next Meeting.

After the presentation to Mr. Sidney Rush last night by the Young Men's Guild of All Saints', the annual meeting of the Guild was held at which the officers for the coming year were elected and other matters of business attended to.

The new president is Mr. H. R. Roberts and the secretary-treasurer, is Mr. Arnaby, who was the president last year. Mr. Arnaby takes the place of Mr. Frank Wise, the former secretary, whose diligent work in that capacity was much appreciated by the Guild.

The Guild meets again next Monday, to plan the work for the season.

OUTDO THE OUTDOOR BRITISHER

Imperva Top Coats Permit of Pure Enjoyment in Wet Weather

The automobile has played its part in modifying the dress of the civilized world. We are fast becoming an out of door people. The "Imperva" cravenetted cloth of which the Semi-ready waterproof coats are made, help Canadians to be as much of the out door lover as the average Britisher. Semi-ready Imperva top coats are well tailored, correct in style and quite attractive. The price, $15, is reasonable, too. The Semi-ready trademark on the coat proves its parentage. A. W. Creasman is agent for Peterborough.

The Ladies Did Splendid Work

Auxiliary of Y.M.C.A. Start on New Season Now.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. met yesterday afternoon in the association building for the first time this fall. There was a good attendance of the ladies interested in this work, and plans for the winter were discussed. The ladies have done remarkable work since last year, which opened with an indebtedness of $200. This has been practically all paid off, only a small balance now remaining. It was decided at the meeting yesterday to give a musicale, probably on October 9, when an effort will be made to raise sufficient money to clear off the small debit balance.

Mrs. E. F. Mason presided at the meeting yesterday.

MR. BORDEN'S POSITION

The Orange Sentinel is much distressed over what it fears is Mr. Borden's intention to give the school question a wide berth in the next election. It refers to a rumour that Mr. Borden has made a bargain with the "hierarchy" not to re-open the question; but as yet it is prepared to give Mr. Borden the benefit of the doubt. "This is a rumour," it says, "that we are not yet disposed to credit. We cannot imagine that a man of the type of Mr. Borden would be a consenting party to so disgraceful a compact. We do not believe that Mr. Borden is preparing to make an alliance with the most reactionary element of the population, even to secure the Premiership of the country. It is quite possible that he is surrounded with a coterie of self-seeking politicians whose only purpose in life is to obtain power, and who, thinking that the shortest path to the achievement of their ambitions is an alliance with the Papacy, may use their influence to bring Mr. Borden to that view." It is not likely that Mr. Borden has been making any bargain with anybody binding himself not to revive the issue; but it is highly probable that he does not believe that the reopening of the question would be politically profitable to him. There have been quite a number of bye-election campaigns during the past twelve months but the autonomy legislation has been tabooed in them all by the Conservatives. Nor has Mr. Borden given it any attention in his recent public addresses. Apparently Mr. Borden has had his fill of the discussion.—Manitoba Free Press.

TAKE CARE OF ONTARIO.

The Brantford Expositor and the Kingston Whig, advocate an extensive advertising of the attractions of Ontario. This is consistent, in fact. The newspaper that does not believe in, and advocate, advertising, is existing under false pretences. It is also good sense. There is no doubt that in the minds of Old Country people, the West has rather overshadowed Ontario. The people of that part of the Empire from which we draw the best element of our population, are inclined, as the Whig points out, to regard Ontario as a mere stepping stone to the Canadian West. Continuing, the Whig says:

It is the duty of the Ontario Government, while possessing within our borders the greatest attractions for people of modern means in the United Kingdom, to present these attractions to the people who would be willing to accept them. Ontario is fast becoming depopulated by the rush of young men and women to the prairies of the West. It is essential, if the premier province is to maintain its position among its sisters of the Confederation, that it should proclaim its attractions. No portion of the British Empire presents greater opportunities to the British immigrant. Ontario's farms are well developed; it is near to the seaboard; it has a magnificent system of rail and water communication, and, above all, it has an ideal educational system. Why should not the Government enter upon an aggressive campaign in this direction? It would pay the province. It would fill up the vacant places, which the magnetism of the West is creating, and it would give Ontario again its full importance. It should be the duty of the Liberal party of the province to make the forward movement a part of its platform, in view of its success in creating New Ontario.

The Examiner has frequently pointed out the necessity of taking some measures to prevent the depopulation of Ontario. We all want to see the West built up. That is both a patriotic desire and good business, for the more the West grows the greater becomes the market for Ontario's industrial productions. But we do not want to see this growth made at the expense of this province. The West doubtless presents great attractions to those desiring — under compulsion of financial circumstances —to establish homes, and a farming business, easily and quickly. But there is a large class of British farmers, among them tenant farmers, with some capital, who could find in Ontario, opportunity of obtaining farms in fee, ready for cultivation, with comfortable homes. The occupation of these, by this class of farmers, would not represent so great a contrast to home conditions, as settlement in the Northwest with its isolation, its deathly loneliness, and hardships incident to pioneer life in the West. If the advantages of Ontario, in this regard, had been as fully presented in the old country, as has been done in respect of the West, we would have been the gainers. Now, that the stream of immigration of the comparatively destitute people of the home country, has been guided into the Northwest, should not some attention be given by the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Immigration to the advantages and claims of Ontario? The emigration from this province to the West has left available many splendid farms, which could be obtained by a certain class of old country agriculturists, and, doubtless, would be obtained, if the benefits they represent were prominently and effectively brought before those who would be likely to take advantage of them.

PREVENTION.

Judge Barron, of Stratford, represented that city at the recent Tuberculosis Conference in Ottawa. He has submitted his report to the Stratford City Council. His conclusions seem to be rational and in accord with well-recognized principles in relation to dealing with disease. He thinks that the question to be dealt with is not so much the cure of consumption as its prevention. One of the primary steps in this direction is the prevention of the distribution of the sputum of, tuberculosis subjects, since, as Judge Barron points out, the spread of the disease is almost wholly due to the breathing in of germs contained in the dry and pulverized sputum of sufferers from consumption. The judge also points out that anti-spitting bylaws are no necessarily of much aid in prevention, since they are not enforced by local Bards of Health. This statement is very easily credible. We all know from experience and observation that municipal and civic bylaws are, as a rule, made to be a mere matter of record, not to be administered. Prevention of the spread of tuberculous affections must owe its largest effectiveness to tuberculosis subjects themselves. If they can be made to see how the safety and health, and even life, of many of their fellow men depend upon their own actions, and to recognize their duty to exercise every preventive precaution possible, there will be less danger of infection from dried sputum.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The much abused automobile has been put to a good use at last, says the Hamilton Herald. A Georgia sheriff bundled a negro into one, and drove him away so rapidly that the pursuing mob was robbed of its intended prey. Score one for the auto.

The mountain comes to Mahomet—Jim Hill comes to Winnipeg. He has already begun operations in that city. A contract has been awarded for the removal of seven hundred houses in Winnipeg to clear the way for the entrance of the Great Northern Railway into the city.

A great deal has been said about the price of school books being inordinately high, but the report of Chief Inspector Hughes, Inspector of Toronto Public Schools, presented to the Text Books Commissioners, now sitting in Toronto, does not seem to bear out such a complaint. Toronto has supplied free — absolutely free text books to pupils since 1892. During that period of fourteen years, Inspector Hughes reports that the average cost per year per pupil for school books, has been 10 3-4 cents, and for school supplies 13 1-2 cents. This seems to be a reasonable figure, and not oppressive upon the taxpayers. Mr. Hughes thinks the free school book system the best, for it has worked most satisfactorily in Toronto.

The disclosures of wild speculation and of rings within rings, in connection with the Independent Order of Foresters, will, the Brantford Expositor says, hardly occasion surprise, and ought to produce a closer supervision of the workings of fraternal insurance societies than is at present had. Dr. Oronhyatekha was strictly correct when he said that the Order "had money to burn," and he would have been quite correct had he said that it has not been very particular as to the method of burning it. If there is one class of insurance more than another which ought to be made absolutely safe, and kept free of speculative investments, of all kinds, it is fraternal insurance, and it is the duty of the Dominion and provincial Governments to see that this is done.

Better Than The Review Of Reviews

The Busy Man's Magazine is a True Reflection of Opinions

It has long been the custom, both in this country and in England, to disparage the attempts of Canadians to produce popular magazines. That the tide has turned is evidenced by the remarks of the editor of one of Ireland's leading periodicals, the Irish Monthly, who asserts that there is in Canada a magazine — The Busy Man's Monthly — which outdistances anything in the same field yet attempted in England. In the course of a long eulogy of this magazine, he said: "It seems to realize the ideal that Mr. W. T. Stead proposed to himself, better than Mr. Stead himself has done in his Review of Reviews. He, too, proposed to reproduce for busy people the cream of the world's magazines; but he is too original a man, he is too much of his own, to be merely a reproducer. Every page is sure to be studded with Steadiana. His magazine is not the less interesting for that but less able to give with adequate fullness the best articles of the periodicals of the previous month. The Busy Man's Magazine keeps more steadily—that is the best adverb, and the possible suspicion of a pun must not make us fling it aside —keeps more steadily to its purpose —of reproducing for busy men and women the best articles from the current magazines of the world. The form, too, of the magazine is much more pleasant, of a convenient size and shape, and the type large and readable."

UNNA DEFINES A CAUSE

European Skin Specialist Says Dandruff is Caused by Parasites.

Upon that theory, proves beyond a doubt, a cure for dandruff was sought after. Scientists, chemists, druggists and physicians all "took a hand," and the successful issue is the present product known as "Newbro's Herpicide."

This remedy actually kills the parasites that infest the hair bulb, does its work most effective and contains not an atom of substance injurious to anything else than the germ alone. Herpicide causes the hair to grow as nature intended it should, soft and abundant.

Given Prayer Book Before Departure

All Saints' Guild Honour One of Their Members

At the close of the Harvest Festival services at All Saints Church last night, a number of the guild of the Church lingered a while to honour Mr. Sidney Rush, a departing member. The gathering was held in the basement where a farewell address was read to Mr. Rush and where he was made the recipient of a handsome Prayer Book as a token of remembrance after his departure. He has been for some time an active and esteemed member of the Guild and his many friends will regret to learn of his decision to leave the city for Toronto.

The following address was read by Mr. H. R. Roberts, while Mr. Ormsby made the presentation :—

Mr. Sidney Rush,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir and Brother,—Your fellow members of All Saints' Guild learn with regret of your intended departure from the city, which will deprive us of your companionship and your services as a member of our Guild.

To our best wishes for your future success we would cheerfully add our testimony to faithful and diligent services, which, as a member of the Guild you have given with such good results—practical evidence of an interest in the welfare of All Saints which has been exhibited by you since the Parish was established.

While we, as a Guild, and a part of the congregation of All Saints regret your loss we are sure your absence will be no loss to the interests of the Church, for, with the zeal we know you possess you will find occasion to carry on in some other parish as fruitful and faithful work as you have done here.

Kindly accept this Book of Common Prayer as the best reminder we could present for we know that it will be often used by you, and will serve to remind you of the many friends you leave behind in Peterborough, whose good wishes and prayers follow you wherever you may go.

Signed, on behalf of All Saints Men's Guild,

FRANK WISE,
President.
F. ARNSBY,
Secretary.

In a brief reply Mr. Rush thanked the members of the Guild for their beautiful gifts as well as their many acts of kindness to him in the past and he would always look back with pleasure upon the success of the Guild and the times when he was connected with it. Refreshments were served after the presentation which brought to a happy conclusion the farewell of a brother member. Mr. Rush is taking a position in the C.P.R. office in Toronto as draftsman.

Worst Calamity For The Whole Century

Gulf Coast Swept by Terrific Tropical Hurricane—Many Millions Are Lost—Loss of Life Reported at Pensacola—This Florida City Seems, so Far as Yet Reported, to Have Stood Brunt of the Attack, Though as Wires Are All Down the Facts Are Not Yet Accurately Known.

Pensacola, Fla., Sept. 28.—The worst sea storm and hurricane that the gulf coast has experienced in a century began Wednesday night and still raged late yesterday. It is reported that many lives between the city and the navy yard have been lost.

Many streets in that section are under five to ten feet of water, and many women have been taken from the second storey windows.

The estimated property damage is three million dollars. Every house in Pensacola has suffered damage, and many roofs are blown off. Telephone and telegraph and electric light wires are among the mass. The waterfront is strewn with wreckage for miles on either side of the city, and vessels are piled on the wharves, or where the wharves once were, in utter ruin.

Big iron steamers and many lighter sailing ships are lying high and dry up in the city, where the tide has never before been known to reach. Everywhere wharves for miles around have been swept away or damaged beyond repair.

The electric power was shut off at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. There is no street car traffic, and communication with the outside world is practically cut off.

At New Orleans.

New Orleans, Sept. 28.—For more than twelve hours a tropical hurricane has been blowing at a speed varying from 35 to 60 miles an hour.

The telegraph and telephone wires are all down between here and Gulf of Mexico points, where the storm is reported to have been the worst.

The damage reported thus far is confined mostly to the havoc of the tide driven by the wind upon the gulf coast to an unusual height.

At the mouth of the Mississippi River, pilots were compelled to abandon their tows. The water is rising over the lower Mississippi Delta. The rice fields are considerably damaged in this section. No vessels have attempted to enter at the south of the Mississippi River since Tuesday night, but are riding the storm in the open gulf.

A washout is reported on the Louisville & Nashville at Lake Catherine, and the New Orleans & Northeastern Railroad reports its track under water at several places.

The damage in New Orleans is small so far.

Washouts Are Big and Numerous.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 28.—The tropical hurricane, which for 24 hours has been churning the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, and did much damage on the coast and far inland last night, is whipping through North Alabama in a northeasterly direction at a velocity but slightly less than 48 miles an hour recorded in New Orleans during the day. Damage to property is enormous.

All wire communication is seriously disarranged, and in some instances has resulted in cutting off cities completely, Mobile not having been heard from for nearly 24 hours. Numerous washouts have occurred, the interruption from this cause in one case extending thirty miles.

The damage to railroads is heavy. Reports to the officials of the Louisville & Nashville road from the superintendent of the Mobile & Montgomery division indicated that the loss approximates $1,000,000.

No Agreement Has Been Reached With Bell Co

Counsel General for the Company and Committee of the Whole Do Not Come to Terms—Bell Co. Had Some Objections to Make.

The difficulty arising over the proposal of the Bell Telephone Company to bury their wires under ground is not yet at an end, although the Committee of the Whole Council and Mr. Lawrence McFarland, of Montreal, the Counsel General of the Bell Company ,spent considerable time last night in discussing the matter. The result of the conference to sum it up briefly is that the city would not agree to one clause proposed by Mr. McFarland in respect to appeal to the railway commission which clause provided that in case of appeal to the Commission, the burden of proof as to the blame being with the Bell Company should rest with the city. The Council were desirous of arranging the agreement so that the railway commissioners should be the judges in the case.

Mr. McFarland objected to several other clauses in the agreement as drawn up by City Solicitor Hall which he said were broader than the council contemplated. In reference to this the committee decided to leave them in the hands of the solicitor to discuss with Mr. McFarland to-day.

There were present Mayor Best, Ald. McWilliams, Mason, Tovey, Hicks, Elliott, McIntyre, Ball, Duncan, Wilson, Johnston and Graham, Mr. McFarland and Mr. F .W. Doan, of the Bell Telephone Company, and Mr. E. H. D. Hall, City Solicitor.

Mayor Best in opening the meeting called upon Mr. McFarland to address the council.

Mr. McFarland said that the Company was asking the city for the privilege of putting their wires under ground on certain streets. Several draft agreements had been made. To the last of these submitted by the city solictor the company had several objections. Mr. McFarland then went over the provisions of the agreement. The last clause was objected to. The estimated expenditure for conduits alone was $10,000 and they desired that they should be protected. The city insisted upon two points—first, that they should have an opportunity of taking advantage of any legislation passed, and secondly, the right of appeal to the Railway Commission. These two points the company were willing to give. It was therefore merely a matter of the phraseology of the clause which Mr. McFarland said was broader than the council really wished. The clause might be taken to mean that the city does not waive the right to limit the time privilege.

Mr. McFarland also objected to the clause in reference to the appeal to the Railway Commission which he interpreted that on an appeal from the city to the Railway Commissioners, the latter could not only do away with the conduits but compel the company to take away any of their construction.

The Bell Company then withdrew while the council privately discussed Mr. McFarland's proposal. The consultation over, Mr. McFarland was permitted to come back and was informed that the city could not accept the clause referring to appeal to the railway commission. It was pointed out that the council desired that the onus of showing good cause should not rest upon them. The other clauses the solicitor desired to look into more fully.

Ald. Hicks seconded by Ald. Wilson, moved that the City Solicitor look over the clauses and confer with Mr. McFarland, after which the meeting adjourned.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Sept. 28.—Stocks were highly irregular to-day. The announcement that Secretary Shaw would deposit Government funds in the banks to relieve the monetary situation caused a strong opening, but prices declined from then until 2 p.m., when a sharp rally took place, carrying prices higher than the opening in some cases, and closing the market strong. Steel common rose three points in short order. Car Foundry was very strong all day, as was C.P.R., both making new high record prices. The early selling was caused by the Cuban situation, but was evidently short selling, and not liquidation, as the rally proved later on.

Talked Over The Changes In School

North Ward School Building Committee Met

The committee of the Board of Education in charge of the rebuilding of north ward school met last night and talked over the changes that it is proposed to make in the present structure to enlarge it to a 10-room building. The committee's plans are all mapped out, but it was decided to take no further action until the government has accepted the deed of the Dixon Park, which has not been formally done.

Cook Family Together Again

House Has Been Provided on Park Street.

Some time ago Mr. Chas. Cook appeared before Magistrate Edmison charged with non-support of his family. His two children at that time were placed in the Children's Shelter, but since that time Cook has obtained work and has provided a house on Park street for his wife and family. The Magistrate has now ordered that the children be given back to their parents and reinstated in their new home.

Mr. Henry, custodian of the Shelter, inspected the premises and found everything in first-class order and the house furnished.

They now appear to be on a fair road to success.

Millinery Picturesque

The hats, it would seem, were never more picturesquely planned than they are this season. This is observable, not only in the small, but in the large hat. The large hat naturally is more adapted to the picturesque, and especially so this season, with the large numbers of velvet hats used, and the quantities of ostrich feathers which invariably adorn hats of this character. The colour combinations, which are truly wonderful, have almost arrived at perfection, and this with the picturesque shapes and delightful trimming effects, lend themselves in a wonderful degree to that becomingness which everyone seeks to effect these days. As a millinery authority stated, "No hat is good unless it is becoming," and this was generally conceded by the hundreds of ladies who were at our opening this week, to be the keynote of our Fall and Winter Millinery.

Ladies' Kid Gloves made by that celebrated firm, Perrin Freres, Roubaix, France, we show in a 16-button length with three pearl fasteners at the wrist; in black, white and captivating shades of new reds, greens and blues, which we claim makes it the dressiest glove in the Dominion, and only $3

Frank Anglesey Gets Three Months At Hard Labour

For Theft of Clothing and Goods From Various Houses in the City—Prisoner's Counsel Attributed Cause to Kleptomania—Strong Appeal for Leniency.

Three months in the County Jail at hard labour was the sentence imposed on Frank Anglesey, the young man who pleaded guilty to four charges of theft one week ago, by Magistrate Dumble this morning. Mr. O'Connell appeared on behalf of the prisoner and made a strong appeal to the court for leniency.

The prisoner, when he heard the sentence, was visibly affected, but walked steadily down to the cell to await removal to the jail, where he has been confined for the past week awaiting sentence.

It will be remembered by Examiner readers that one week ago he was arrested by P. C. Newhall, from a description given him by a person who suspected Anglesey of some thefts of clothing—the chief reason for discovering his identity being a dint in the side of a stolen hat.

Mr. O'Connell's Address

Mr. O'Connel made a strong appeal to the court for leniency, attributing the cause to kleptomania. The prisoner's acts, as he himself states, seem to be beyond explanation. He has been working in the city for some time, and making sufficient money to make provision for his expenses, yet it was true he walked into various places and committed thefts, and has admitted to having done so. No attempt had been made to conceal the property, unlike the ordinary methods of burglars. The whole circumstances and surroundings, said the prisoner's counsel, seem to point to the thefts being the acts of a kleptomaniac. The young man has lived in the county all his life, and comes from exceedingly respectable family, who are very highly esteemed. This was the first instance that any crime of any nature had been committed by him or any other member of the family which could be prosecuted. He has discharged his duties faithfully at all times wherever he has been employed.

He appealed to the Magistrate for a light sentence on the grounds that a harsh one would probably be the means of starting the prisoner on a subsequent criminal life, and for these reasons he asked that he be lightly dealt with.

The Magistrate's Reply

Magistrate Dumble, in reply, stated that he had made inquiries concerning the prisoner during the past week and found that he was of respectable parentage, and that his parents had assisted him to aspire to an honourable life. His ways nevertheless had been fast—he had worn fine clothes and driven fine horses.

He had not committed one simple theft under temptation, but had gone deliberately into houses and stolen goods. He had been remonstrated with by friends for his high life, and in view of this he would have to impose a sentence—a light one for the offence—as a lesson to the fast young men of the city, and, amid a silence in the court room, sentenced the prisoner to three months in the County Jail at hard labour.

Harvest Festival Services At All Saints' Church

Sermon Was Delivered by Rev. Mr. Daniels, of Port Hope—The Sacred Edifice Was Prettily Decorated With Harvest Emblems—Singing Appropriate to Occasion.

The annual church harvest festival of All Saints' Church was held last night, at which the Rev. F. Daniels, of Port Hope, was the preacher of the evening. The windows and walls of the church were beautifully adorned with products of the farm and garden, emblematic of the character of the services. Above the centre aisle hung three large arches of stalks of oats, and flowers beautified the altar and font of the sacred edifice. Harvest hymns were sung appropriate to the occasion, and a beautiful anthem was rendered by the choir, the rector of the church taking the solo.

REV. WM. MAJOR
Rector of All Saints', Whose Harvest Festival Services Were Conducted Last Night.

Besides Rev. Mr. Daniels, the rector, Rev. Wm. Major, and Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's, assisted in the services. The speaker's address was a direct exhortation for all to render thanks unto our Saviour for the goodness bestowed upon us.

Rev. Mr. Daniels based his address on the 12th verse of the 16th Psalm —"What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" His sermon, though simple in construction, was filled with an earnest appeal to all to thank God for the bountiful and luxuriant blessings He has allowed to fall upon us. Sowing time, he said, was vividly portrayed to us in Holy Scripture as a time of hard labour and exertion, but the harvest was pictured as a time of rejoicing and gladness. It was worthy of notice that these times of festivity were not merely human appointments, but of divine ordinance similar to all other divine ordinances of the Mosaic Law, so that under the Old Testament, joy, mirth and festivity were definitely ordered and expected. The same circumstance holds good at the present time, only with the present idea of Christianity our reasons for rejoicing should be proportionately stronger.

In assembling once again to thank God for our harvest and good things, the speaker trusted we would consider the great duty imposed upon us by our Creator's blessings, and return thanks to Him for His great assistance. We can, oftentimes in our lives, return kindness for kindness or courtesy for courtesy with our fellow men, but we can never reciprocate with God as with our fellow creatures. The great question before us, said the speaker, is "What can we render Him for His love and blessings so numberless?"

Rev. Mr. Daniels then referred to the necessity of rendering personally our thanks to God. In the matter of thanksgiving, there are many reasons why we should unite to laud and magnify our Saviour. But each life, he said, is different from all others, each person has different duties to perform, so that therefore it is necessary for us to detach ourselves from all others and personally thank God—an elementary principle of every Christian life. How very few of us, if the truth were known, praise God for our benefits from Him? This question should be turned as a searchlight by each person upon himself to see whether God would find in our hearts as much thanks as we deserved to give to Him. He is blessing Canada today above all nations on the earth, and no other under the sun is receiving more benefits than we, as Canadians, are.

God does not believe that His blessings should end within ourselves, no more than the disciples of old were supposed to keep to themselves the spiritual knowledge.

The reverend gentleman, in conclusion, exhorted all to live a more thankful and a more happy life, for not even God Himself can satisfy a discontented person. Our praise and acknowledgment of His mercies ascend to heaven and return to us in showers of blessings and floods of grace, and he hoped that the keynote of all our prayers would be to "Bless the Lord with all our souls."

A special collection was taken up for the extension and work of the church in the Northwest, which is greatly in need of help at the present time.

Ministers Join In Social Tea

St. John's Congregation Will Entertain Them.

Invitations to the tea to be given by the Church Wardens and congregation of St. John's Church to the members of the Ministerial Association and representative members of the different Protestant congregations, have been issued to-day. The tea will take place on Tuesday, October 9th, and will be held in the School House. After tea has been served a short time will be spent in social intercourse, and a number of short addresses on "How thee Ministerial Association may help the Church" will be given.

The ladies of St. John's are making preparations for the tea, which it is expected will be an enjoyable function.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

The Mothers' Guild Makes Presentation

Mrs. Bennett, for Four Years President of St. Luke's, Given Address and Gold Cross—Valued Member, Who is Leaving City, Was Honoured.

The opening meeting of St. Luke's Mother's Guild was held yesterday afternoon and many members were present. Mrs. H. Bennett, who has been president for four years, resigned on account of removing to Ottawa. She was made the recipient of an address, a gold Maltese Cross and an enlarged photograph, beautifully framed, of St. Luke's Church. The rector read the following address:—

Ashburnham,
September 28th, 1906.

Dear Mrs. Bennett,—The members of the Mothers' Guild of St. Luke's Church, learn with great regret of your approaching departure from the Parish to take up residence in Ottawa. We recognize that we lose by your removal a very valuable member, who has done much for the promotion of harmony and usefulness among us. When you became the President of the Guild, it was in its infancy, and had to make its way among the other Societies of St. Luke's. With the help of God, and led by you as our President, we have attained some degree of efficiency, and our small beginnings have resulted in our Guild being recognized as an influential society in the activities of our Church.

Before you leave us, we wish to give you some tangible expression of our appreciation of your work amongst us, and we beg you to accept this Maltese Cross, which will ever remind you of our working together in the vineyard of the Lord, and of our motto:—"Bear ye one another's burdens."

May the accompanying picture of St. Luke's Church recall to you often your spiritual home here, and bring back to your memory the united worship and work which have enlisted you and us in the service of God.

On behalf of the Members of The Mothers' Guild,

E. A. LANGFELDT, M. A.,
Rector.

Mrs. Bennett was greatly pleased with such tokens of kindness, for which she thanked the members very heartily. She said that she had enjoyed very much to have been associated with the Mothers' Guild, and would never forget the happy time she had spent in St. Luke's. The rector expressed his personal regret at losing such a valuable member.

Mrs. T. H. G. Denne was unanimously chosen to become the President.

A social hour was then spent and refreshments served.

Local Boat Builders Make A Motor Boat

Peterborough Canoe Company Manufacture the First Boat of Its Kind in This City—An Evidence of Local Firm's Progress.

The Peterborough Canoe Company whose products have helped to make this city renowned the world over for its canoes has made a departure from the manufacture of commonplace launches and has designed and constructed a motor boat. These boats are coming into extensive use owing to their qualities of speed in addition to comfort. The manufacture of these boats is still in its infancy and there is a wide field for inventors in perfecting and adding new improvements to them. The local company is to be congratulated for their enterprise in keeping apace with the times and if they make as great a success of motor boats as they have made of their canoes they have a great future before them.

The new motor boat was designed by the Peterborough Canoe Company, and was built according to their plans. It requires no expert to judge of the speediness which the finished boat should possess. Its dimensions are 27 feet in length with a four foot beam. It is planked with cedar, while the deck is of oak with cherry combings. The stern is V shaped while the long sharp bow is a decided asset to speed. The planks are twisted where necessary and not bent, while there are sharp angles at the sides instead of the usual curves of launches. It is planned to draw 18 inches of water at the bow and from 1 to 1 1-2 inches at the stern. The machinery will be placed well forward, enabling one man to do the work of steering and also the engineer work at the same time. A cylindrical gasoline tank containing 15 gallons is placed under the bow.

The Company intend to use a 10 h.p. engine which should drive the boat at a rate of 15 miles per hour, while they feel confident that with a stronger engine the speed would be proportionately increased. It is intended to carry comfortably about six or seven persons although a greater load could be drawn.

Many local enthusiasts have viewed the boat and one and all speak highly of its appearance. Indeed three orders have practically been filed so that its success is almost assured.

Roller Skating Rink Was Formally Opened

New Pastime Introduced in Peterborough Last Night—Supply of Skates Were Not Equal to the Demand—Delightful Exercise.

A new pastime, or rather the revival of an old one, was introduced in Peterborough last night, when the roller skating rink was opened to the public. The success of the enterprise was instantaneous. The rink was crowded, both with skaters and on-lookers.

The supply of 250 pairs of skates soon ran out, and a hundred requests for skates had to be refused. The management will order several hundred more pair at once.

It is easy to see that roller skating will be popular in Peterborough. It is easily learned and has all the delights of ice skating, combined with the advantages of skating in a room at a comfortable temperature. The ease with which the crowd last night picked up the art was remarkable. True, there were some falls but not nearly so many as might have been expected, in view of the fact that very few of the crowd had ever had roller skates on before..

The floor, which is of hardwood, was in splendid shape, presenting a smooth and very even surface, over which the skaters glided easily, with only a small amount of friction. A detachment of the 57th band, under Sergt. Grage, rendered delightful music from the balcony. A portion of the band will be present every evening.

Will Play Vics In Toronto

Peterborough Team is a Strong One and Will Make Good Showing.

The Peterborough rugby team will leave for Toronto on the 8 o'clock C.P.R. train to-morrow morning to play the Victorias in the first senior O.R.F.U. game of the season. The game is called for 3 o'clock at Varsity Field and Ref. A. F. Barr will referee. Secretary McDonough, of the local club, was in communication with secretary Hay of the O.R.F.U. and that official did not know who the umpire would be.

STRONG TEAM FOR THE VICS. GAME

The locals had a good practice in signals and team work last night and will be in good shape for to-morrow's big game. The team selected is a very strong one and should make the fast Victorias go the limit.

"Hazel Bell" Lowered Record

For Campbellford Track at the Fair Yesterday.

Dr. Johnston was very successful at the Campbellford fair yesterday. His Hazel Bell won the free-for-all and incidentally lowered the track record from 2.24 to 2.21 1-4. In this race Harry Direct took second and Lady Gothard was third. In the 2.40 class May Bell took second place.

The fair was well attended, a large number of persons from this city going down for the day.

Appointed The Race Officials

Collegiate Institute Sports Committee Met Yesterday.

A meeting of the Sports Committee of the Collegiate Institute was held last evening after school, when the officials for the cross country run this afternoon were appointed. They are as follows:—Starter, Harry Hall; route judges, McDonel street bridge, Cyril Lech and Eddie Mann; Smith street bridge, Herbert Conroy and Kenneth Crane; Smith and Water streets, Allen Cameron. Judges, Stanley Wade and Ernest Mein.

RUGBY.

The general public should understand that the rugby team is refusing everyone admittance to their signal practice only do so to prevent any chance of their plays getting out to the other teams.

The Quakers will practice on Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and the following players are requested to be on hand in uniform:—Quinlan, McCulloch, Fitzgerald, Moore, Sullivan, Moher, Kelly, F. Craig, Huston, Sisson, Collins, Clark, Lillie, McRae, Hutchinson, Carmichael, Walker Roddy, Latimer, Heaslip, Evans, Parnell, Henderson, Williams, and any others wishing to get into the game.

It is important that there should be a large turnout as the boys will have to get in shape for their City League games. The election of a Captain will take place after practice.

The following players are requested to be at the C. P. R. station at 7.50 sharp to-morrow morning, to go to Toronto:—Mulhern, McWilliams, Gillespie, Crowley, Easton, Dillon, Ford, Craig, Regan, Meagher, Gilbert, Crough, Capt. Hurtubise, Quinlan, Carmichael.

It is up to the rugby team to score a victory to-morrow. An extra effort now may mean very much later on. Besides it will enliven the local sports interest in the game and will ensure a good crowd at the first league game. The citizens this year, should give the team even greater support than last year, as senior company means much faster games, and a proportional increase in expenses.

The Crescents are requested to turn out in full strength to-morrow afternoon, weather permitting, at 3.00 p. m. at the Nicholls Oval.

Endless Annoyance and Misery.

"As a man of 70 years I am grateful to God and to Dr. Chase's Ointment for a cure of piles which had caused me endless annoyance and much misery. The itching and burning was almost beyond endurance, but Dr. Chase's Ointment brought quick relief and I believe that the cure is lasting." — Rev. William Thomas, Brownsville, Ont.

Increase Comfort Of Rink Patrons

Re-arrangement of Seating Space of Brock Street Rink Decided On.

The Directors of the Peterborough Hockey Club, Limited, held their first meeting of the season last night, when plans for the winter were discussed. It was decided to make some improvements to the interior of the rink, which will add to the comfort of the patrons. The seating space will be re-arranged somewhat, and with this completed hockey match spectators will be able to witness the games in much greater comfort.

With a senior hockey team here this year the prospects for the rink are bright.

Boys Lassooed Bear In Water

See-Sawed It on the Rope Until Dan Blea Came Along With A Rifle

While out paddling in an old scow, on Eagle Lake, about eight miles from South River, in the Parry Sound District, three small boys, two of them, Herbert, aged 16, and Jim, sons of Mr. G. W. Duncan, of the Treasury Department, Toronto, whose summer home is on this lake, and their 13 year old cousin, Tom Butters, of Niagara Falls, had quite an exciting experience with a bear.

They encountered it about 300 yards from the shore, and although having no weapons whatever, pluckily tackled it. There was a rope in the boat, and, making a loop in the centre of it, they got it around Bruin's neck, and towed him ashore. After an exciting landing, the two smaller boys took one end of the rope and the elder one the other, and seesawed Mr. Bear from one side to the other till Mr. Dan Blea, the Government Deputy Game Warden, who happened to be near, came along with his rifle.

The skin, nicely tanned, was received at the Parliament Buildings by Mr. Duncan yesterday, and will be pointed to with pride by the boys for years to come.

Your Eyes Show You What You See

Your sight tells you where you are. The vision cannot be overtaxed with safety. All eyes require spectacles sooner or later, and a large majority of those possessing sight would improve what they have if they used glasses. Generally speaking unless the eyes are strengthened by glasses, they are apt to become weakened and any defects that exist are certain to increase by neglect. Lose no time in finding out whether you need glasses.
